Computers do make a difference

For as long as any of us can remember, and no doubt much longer than that, those who believe in better government have been disheartened in every election by the number of people who stayed away from the polls.

A few years ago, it appeared that some headway was being made in getting more and more qualified voters to go to the polls on election day, but then along came the computers.

These computers, now being used extensively in "forecast" the vote so the public can be kept 'informed" as to how the election is going, probably are doing more than anything else to keep some people away from the polls.

"How?" you ask.

Well, we'd have asked the same question ourselves before hearing a recent radio broadcast in which a successful candidate admitted that he might have lost the election if the fellows who start in early feeding the votes through the computers hadn't discouraged his opponent's supporters

This candidate said he felt sure that many late voters didn't go to the polls because they figured "what's the use" after hearing early results from the all-knowing computers.

And it works both ways, this candidate pointed out in his radio talk. He said he felt he'd have received a larger vote if some of his supporters hadn't decided "what's the use" after bearing that the computers had their man al-

Monday holidays being proposed

trip to visit relatives and friends on Thanksgiving, or if the thought of having to return to work the next day bothered your digestion, then you'll probably go right along with the U. S. Chamber of Commerce in its campaign for a national standard for holidays.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce proposes a national standard that would make all holidays except Christmas and New Year's Day come on n Monday so as to make a three-day weekend out of it.

A national survey by the USCC showed that 85 per cent of the members responding to the query favor the general idea of observing Memorial Day, Thanksgiving, Independence Day and Veterans Day on Mondays.

And, as might be expected, more than 90 per cent of the business men said they thought the employes would like the change.

The Post Dispatch and all other weekly newspapers would get along better with Monday bolidays, and that's for sure. When a holiday comesin the middle of the week it is a tight fit to get the news gathered and the advertising sold and the paper produced in what is in most cases just

Changing the July 4 holiday so that it falls Monday may require some change in attitude, as well as changing May 30, Memorial Day, to another date that comes on Monday.

But we feel that with a three-day holiday hanging in the balance, enlightened people everywhere will go for it. Whether that includes sembers of Congress is just something we'll have to wait and see -- CD

Not resting on it's laurels

The Garza County Historical Survey Committee instead of resting on its laurely keeps going after and getting new ones.

Many such organizations are content to slow down and take it easy after an honor or two is won, but not the Garra County Historical Survey Committee. Its members returned from the recent statewide meeting at Fort Worth with three new awards to go with the ones it had received at earlier meetings.

The Garna County committee's accomplishments have made it known to historians in every county of the state as one of the most active county historical committees in Texas.

Time has never stood still and history is being made every day. Our county's historical committee is diligently reaching back into the past to preserve our history for generations coming on, including those yet unborn. Its members are as deserving of commendation as they are of the cooperation they ask in recording, marking and preserving our county's history.--CD

EVERY YEAR along about this time, they start calling me Santa Claus here at The Dispatch office. not because of my build and cheerful disposition, but because my desk is the one that "catches" all the Santa Claus letters. One of my jobs every year, beginning about Dec. 1, is to process all the Santa Claus letters for the typesetting operation that leads to their publication in The Dispatch. There are few editorial tasks that I enjoy more during the Christmas season, and there have been a few Christmases when I don't believe I'd ever have gotten the Yuletide spirit had it not been for my work with the Santa Claus letters.

Most of the letters from the youngsters are the kind that give Santa Claus real deep down bellylaughs, but occasionally you run across one that tugs at your heartstrings. Here is one of that kind, signed simply "Ethel," with no last name:

'Dear Santa:

'Daddy says Santa will miss us this year, so I won't ask for noth ing, the I'm six years old, All I really want is for my brother Tom to come home from the Army for my Christmas gift, and us all to well. Santa, I won't even ask for a doll or candy nor nothing. Ethel'

WHAT A WONDERFUL Christmas it would be if all the boys and girls who, like Ethel, have nothing to look forward to on Christmas Day could be made happy with the same kind of hapriness that glows in the eves of the more fortunate youngsters who gather around the tree on Christmas morning.

I'll think of six-year-old Ethel on Christmas Day . . her's is one of those Santa Claus letters that . her's is one of won't let you forget. Perhaps Ethel's brother Tom WILL get to ome home for Christmas, and if Ethel's last name is learned in time, there is a good chance of her getting that "doll or candy nor nothing" that she said in her Santa Claus letter she wasn't going to

Their eldest, Barbara, 17, of their family on Christmas Day goes for her grandmether's meat as are most parents and grandparpele; Alfred, 15, eats turkey until ents. Most of this busy preparation involves cooking and Mrs. Malouf probably outshines all of us yogurt salad in that department.

My interview was a success from the moment I entered the door. Mrs. Malouf served me hot coffee, date roll cake, nuts and choccolates. Commenting that I had just finished dinner, Mrs. Malouf informed me there is an old Lebanese saying that one can still eat 40 bites after finishing a meal. That may be so but all of those 40 bites will stay right at my waistline.

But on with the guests and special dishes for this Christmas dinner. Mitchell Jr., and his family of Plainview intend to be on hand. Mitchell Jr., requests baked egg plant served with a special sauce which must be ordered from California: his wife likes all Lebanese dishes (which certainly makes her a nice daughter-in-law); Melinda, I3, favors Kibbie meat loaf made with ground wheat; Mitchell III, 12, and Marilyn, 11, are big fried chicken fans; (Mrs. Malouf always fries four chickens regardless of the holiday) Melody, 9, loves stuffed cabbage.

The Comforts of Home

To our forefathers, this was living at its best . . . but the hard chair, the iron pot and the open grate would not be our idea of comfort!

Today kitchens sparkle with bright, easy-toclean metals, and cupboards are filled with helpful appliances. We relax in foam-padded chairs and sleep on spring-filled mattresses. Almost every aspect of modern life is slanted toward speed and convenience.

Man, with his marvelous God-created brain, has overcome many obstacles, and there seems to be no limit to his inventiveness. God has given us a world full of possibilities, and minds that constantly seek to improve our environment.

But to make the most of our opportunities, we must ever develop and renew the resolute "faith of our fathers." Come to church and with others receive that heritage of inspiration and light.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ...

... ALL FOR THE CHURCH character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Both the large and small lakes at Two Draw on the northeast edge of Post have now been stocked with fish. This pond is open to the public, developers report, and ev-eryone is invited out. First stage of the Two Draw development was completed in May with the rebuilding of the large dam and construction of an upper dam. Since then the upper pond has filled three times and was drained into the large lake which now contains about three acres of water. When full this lake will contain 32 acres of good fishing waters. Developers of the recreations) area are hoping the spring rains in 1967 will fill the large lake and that the final stage of the planned Two Draw development can be comple ted by June, 1968.
