

Post 'door gunner' on helicopter awarded Bronze Star in Vietnam

Sp4 Elvin Allen 'rides shotgun'

Shades of the Old West! Army SP4 Elvin Allen of Post has been awarded a Bronze Star for valor in Vietnam for "riding shotgun."

The 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Will F. Allen, 114 North Ave. K, arrived home Friday for his second 30-day furlough from Vietnam, making most of the journey by commercial jet.

Allen explained to The Dispatch this week that "riding shotgun" is a modern GI slang for being a "door gunner" on a helicopter "gunship," one of the peculiar new weapons to be developed especially for this jungle war.

Allen was cited for the Bronze Star along with other members of several helicopter crews for effectively countering mortar attacks from a Viet Cong night mortar assault unit at the Army's Camp Holloway at Pleiku in the central highlands Jan. 7.

He is believed to be the first post or Garza County service man to be awarded a medal for valor in the Vietnam conflict.

According to the Dragon News, a mimeographed newspaper of Camp Holloway, when "the first enemy mortar rounds started falling on the Holloway complex early in the morning Jan. 7, flare and gunship crews were in the air immediately and within minutes the area was illuminated. With their sights aimed at the blazing enemy mortar muzzle flashes, the gunships started their firing runs.

"Three tubes had been silenced and 16 VC were dead when the smoke had cleared," the newspaper reported.

ALLEN TOLD The Dispatch his crew was "on standby" the night of the attack and he was credited with knocking out one of the mortar positions.

The battalion newspaper reported that troop casualties in the attack were termed light by official sources, although extensive damage was done to the supply center maintained there. Damage to both aircraft and the airfield was reported light.

SP4 Allen received his Bronze Star about two weeks later at Camp Coyne, 90 miles south of Pleiku. It was pinned on him by Colonel Marr.

ALLEN ALSO has an air medal with 17 clusters. The air medal and clusters represent 25 combat assault hours in the air for each of a total of 459 combat assault hours for "flying shotgun" in the Vietnam war.

SP4 Allen, like most young combat soldiers, is quite modest about the dangers of the Vietnam conflict and his role in it.

He says with a grin he hasn't been wounded and none of the helicopter gunships in which he has flown have been shot down, although, of course, the helicopters are sometimes hit by small arms automatic fire from enemy troops hidden in the jungles above which they fly.

ALLEN EXPLAINS that the helicopter gunships carry four-man crews — the aircraft commander (pilot), co-pilot, both commissioned officers, and the crew chief and door gunner, both non-commissioned.

The gunships fire 40 mm. cannons from their noses with 12 rockets on each side of the nose cannon. The crew chief and door gunner then fire 762 size machine guns about a 30 caliber in size but quite a bit faster — from the open side doors of the gunship.

The gunships fly about 80 knots in making their firing runs on enemy troops below. This is close to 90 miles an hour.

The gunships are in close radio (See "Door Gunner," page 8)

Open house tonight, visits next week

Public Schools Week observance set here

The Post schools' open house in observance of Texas Public Schools Week, March 6-10, will be held this evening (Thursday), and the observance will continue next week with the schools open to visitors on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Supt. William F. Shiver said members of the Post unit of the Texas State Teachers Association, which is sponsoring the local observance, are hopeful that today's open house will be "100 per cent successful instead of only about 50 per cent successful as in the past."

The open house will be held in all four school buildings from 6:30 p. m. until 8 p. m.

Sponsors say that at past observances, most of the open house crowd has been students unaccompanied by their parents. "Students are welcome, of course, but we want their parents to come with them," the superintendent said.

"Student Creativity" is the theme of this year's school week observance here. Students' work will be on display at the open house and also during visiting days next week.

Next week, parents are asked to visit grades 1, 2 and 3 on Monday, grades 4 and 5 on Tuesday;

Showmanship trophies will be presented in each division of the second annual Garza County Junior Livestock Show here March 17-18, it was decided at a directors' meeting Monday night.

Additional plans for the county fair to be held in conjunction with the stock show also were made at the meeting.

Exhibitors in the stock show must be regularly enrolled in school and must be members of the 4-H, Future Farmers of America or Future Homemakers of America, and must be certified by the county agent, vocational agriculture or homemaking teachers.

All animals must be weighed, tagged and placed in pen or stall between 8 a. m. and 11 a. m. Friday, March 17. Sifting of animals will begin at 2 p. m.

The lamb judging will start at 8 p. m. Friday, with swine to be shown at 9 a. m. Saturday and beef cattle at 10:30 a. m. Saturday.

All exhibits will be under the control and direction of the show make arrangements for the conference through the principals of the respective buildings.

"We want the parents to attend classes right along with their children when they visit. We schools next week," Shiver said.

Members of the Woman's Culture Club will be hostesses at today's open house.

Things were going "mighty slow" at the Dispatch Tuesday afternoon until SP4 Elvin Allen, home on furlough from Vietnam, stopped at our request to answer some questions about that unique war.

We think you'll find the story about Allen mighty interesting. It's a strange war — one without front lines and one you can go home and watch on TV most every night after the day's work is done.

This area has a good number of young men now in uniform in the Vietnam war zone. We find it important to note that those who are doing the fighting come home firmly convinced that the war does have a useful purpose for America, while we who watch at home via our TV sets remain upset and confused about it.

A. C. Cash is the local business man who can vouch for the fact that the new municipal airport is good for business. A. C. reports that Walter Bray, Lamesa farm implement dealer, flew in here Saturday in his own plane to buy some tractors from Cash. "We'd talked over the phone about some tractors I had that didn't sell too good here, but which Bray said he could sell at Lamesa," Cash said. "He told me he'd just hop over in his plane to see about the tractors and at the same time get a look at our new airport."

The directors ruled that an exhibitor may sell three animals, but (See Stock Show, page 8)

Production guidelines mailed Garza farmers

Crop production guidelines related specifically to the conditions here in Garza County and covering cotton and grain sorghum are being mailed to every local farmer this week.

This is the first time such guidelines have been prepared on a county basis, according to County Agent Syd Conner.

He believes that farmers who will take time to study the recommendations will find tips for producing optimum yields and lowering production costs.

A combined total of 899 guidelines are being mailed to local farmers. Printing costs are being covered by the commissioners' court.

"THESE GUIDELINES are the best combinations of thoroughness and brevity that those of us in the Texas Agricultural Extension Service could prepare," the agent said.

In the Garza County guidelines, particular emphasis is placed on water conservation with each crop. The guides tell when to water the crops to get maximum yields from each irrigation whether the crop is to be irrigated once, twice or more.

Suggestions are given for deciding the timing of the most important irrigations or irrigations under different moisture conditions that occur in any one year. Conner said.

The cotton guidelines also stress some of the keys to producing a crop with better fiber qualities.

THEY EXPLAIN irrigation timing and other cultural practices that can enhance the inherent quality potential of a cotton variety.

The guides are not elaborate publications. (See Guidelines, page 8)

Airport grand opening slated for June 10-11

A two-day grand opening of the new Post-Garza County Municipal Airport is scheduled for June 10-11. Tom Gamblin, chairman of the joint airport board, announced this week.

Preliminary plans for the event are now being made.

They include arrangements to have several dignitaries here for the airport opening, a "fly-in" for flyers from all over the West Texas area, and a sky diving exhibition.

Gamblin said arrangements also are being worked out for an exhibition of different types of aircraft, especially the types suited for agricultural use.

Gamblin said a committee is being organized to plan the grand opening and carry through on all the details. It will include representatives of different local and county clubs and the airport board.

Setting up the grand opening for June should assure plenty of time for completion of the runway paving prior to the event. This is scheduled for late spring.

Airport construction was recently completed, except for the spring paving, and the airport opened to planes.

Gamblin said three private hangars are now under construction at the airport. They are being built by Victor Hudman, W. L. (Corky) Hubbard, and Royce Jossey.

Also unopposed will be Giles Dalby, who has filed for Place 2 now held by County Commissioner Ted Aten, who is not seeking.

Further plans for the upcoming fund drive will be made at a meeting at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, March 8, in the Community Room at the First National Bank, McAlister said.

Half-billion dollar cost estimated on 1967 auto crashes

DALLAS—Texas traffic accidents will cost at least $500 million this year, according to an estimate announced by "Texans for Traffic Safety" following a meeting of the Board of Trustees.

Noting that 700 highway patrolmen have the job of patrolling 65,000 miles of highway, Robert F. Miller, president of the safety group, stated, "The lack of trained manpower to police our state's highways is showing up in our rapidly escalating traffic accident rate."

"Conservative estimates place the number of Texans to be injured in traffic accidents this year at 200,000. It is my firm conviction that if adequate trained manpower were available to enforce the traffic laws, this number could be reduced to a humane minimum. Nothing can take the place of enforcement."

"According to recognized authorities, a minimum of 2,500 patrolmen is needed to patrol the state's highways. There are 700 on the job today."

"Two hundred more jobs are authorized, but wages are so low that few qualified men can afford to take them," Miller stated. "Wages must be raised to realistic levels in order to attract and retain qualified men. The safety of all Texans is adversely affected by the lack of men to properly enforce the laws."

CASTORMEAL FED TO CATTLE

For what may be the first time, a researcher is feeding castor meal to heifers in the feedlot.

Paul Marion, superintendent of Texas A&M University's Rolling Plains Livestock Research Station at Spur, says he is trying to determine if castor meal can be safely fed as a source of protein to cattle. So far, his results indicate it can.

Castorbeans are increasing in Texas, particularly on the High Plains where they are being grown on retired cotton acreage.

Marion says he started the heifers on 4 of a pound of the castor meal a day and now is up to 3 pounds per head per day. The ration includes ground sorghum grain and silage. Since the castor meal contains (up to) castor oil, which has a laxative effect, the cattle must be started slowly, he says.

To date, the heifers have gained 21 pounds per head a day, but they are rather low quality heifers, so Marion says he didn't expect extra high gains.

The castor meal is about 32 percent protein compared to about 41 percent for cottonseed meal. But the castor meal sells for about $55 a ton compared to around $38 a ton or more for cottonseed meal.

Marion says the oil mills plan to reduce the amount of fiber and extract more of the oil from the castor meal—this should raise crude protein to about 40 percent.

Similar cattle on cottonseed meal at the A&M research station are doing slightly better, but Marion figures the difference is closely related to the lower protein and higher fiber of the castor meal.

With the milling improvements, he says castor meal could well become a relatively inexpensive source of protein for cattle in a feedlot.

beef along with further gains in slaughter calf feeding have met this demand, says Dr. Edward Uvacek, Jr., extension livestock marketing specialist and assistant professor, Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology, Texas A&M University. Texans, for the most part, still prefer fed calf, however; but their tastes are rapidly shifting to heavy beef. Further growth in Texas cattle feeding may emphasize the tremendous demands for fed cattle in the Gulf Coast states.

With the economies of transportation favoring shipment of feeder animals rather than fat cattle, feeding in this state will become more oriented to local market demands. Furthermore, emphasis should be forthcoming on carcass yields and the ability of an animal to reach the Choice grade at a light weight.

Market demands, contends Uvacek, will dictate the types and classes of cattle produced in the future. A shift in the Southwest has been toward a heavier weight slaughter calf producing a 400-500 pound carcass while other areas of the country are moving toward a lighter weight heavy beef carcass in the 600-700-pound range. Both trends are, however, for Good and Choice grade carcasses.

The animal of the future will be the meat-type steer. It will be efficient in the feedlot and will produce the desirable type of carcass at least possible cost, says Uvacek. This animal may not belong to any particular breed or type of beef animal known today and might very well be a mixture.

The revolution that is occurring within the Texas cattle feeding industry will result in a future which will bear little resemblance to the cattle industry of yesterday. Further details and a more adequate explanation of this revolution can be found in the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Bulletin, R-1055, "Economic Trends in Texas Cattle Feeding."

Missionary to speak in Post

Miss Elizabeth Cole, missionary nurse in Swaziland, South Africa, will be featured at the Church of the Nazarene here at 7 p. m. Sunday, March 5, the Rev. Charles E. Peters, pastor, announces.

Miss Cole is on furlough holding services among churches of the Nazarene. This is her fourth furlough since being assigned to Africa in 1935.

For the last 18 years Miss Cole has been working among the people who suffer from leprosy at the M'Buluzi Leprosy Hospital. In 1960, for her faithful and courageous work in this area of service, she was made a member of the Order of the British Empire by Queen Elizabeth II. Only three Nazarene missionaries have ever received this honor.

The missionary service will feature the work of the Church of the Nazarene in the field of leprosy treatment. The public is invited to hear Miss Cole, the pastor said.

Surmans attending Austin workshop

Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Surman are representing the Garza County Historical Survey Committee at the 1967 County Chairman's workshop being held Wednesday and Thursday of this week in Austin. Mrs. Surman is chairman of the Garza County committee.

Sponsored every two years by the Texas State Historical Survey Committee and the Texas Historical Foundation, the workshop will aid county committee chairmen in planning their 1967-68 programs of work.

Discussed in detail will be the development of local history as a tourist attraction since 1968 is predicted to be a record-breaking year for tourism in Texas. Also to be discussed is the proposed legislation for the restoration of Texas forts and missions.

A special presentation will be made to John Ben Shepperd for his outstanding leadership while serving as president of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee. Shepperd's term with the committee expired Jan. 1, 1967.

Entertainment for the presentation banquet, will be a "sampler" from the widely-proclaimed "Fandangle." "Fandangle," produced each year by the people of Albany, is a colorful spoof on the frontier town of Fort Griffin and its nearby military post.

Q. I had active duty in the Air Force from 1959 to 1963. I want to establish a business. Am I eligible for a G. I. loan for this purpose?

A. No. The new G. I. Bill makes provisions for G. I. loans for the purpose of a home or a farm, but not a business for persons with active duty after Jan. 31, 1955.

Q. I was discharged from military service last month after serving three years. I am not a disabled veteran. May I take on-the-job training in an automobile repair shop to learn a new trade?

A. No. Educational assistance is not available for on-the-job training under the so-called "New G. I. Bill." Educational assistance is available for veterans who desire to study at recognized colleges, universities, trade or vocational schools. It is possible to study automobile mechanics or many other approved subjects in this type of training.

Q. Are educational assistance allowance benefits payable under the provisions of the new G. I. Bill taxable?

A. No. These benefits are not considered income for income tax purposes according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Panhandle gets more mule deer

MARFA—Trapping crews in the Trans-Pecos are attempting to capture enough desert mule deer to finish the stocking program in the Texas Panhandle, started four years ago.
 In 1962, three Panhandle release sites were chosen by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department on the merits of topography and range conditions suitable for mule deer.
 One area is north of Miami on the Canadian River in Roberts and Ochiltree counties and the other two are in the lower reaches of the Palo Duro Canyon in Briscoe, Motley and Floyd counties.
 The 1967 transplants will bulwark the growing of mule deer already thriving in the Texas Panhandle.

Abortion bill is in Texas Senate

AUSTIN—A bill which would permit abortions under certain specified conditions has been introduced in the Texas Senate. Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas, who introduced the legislation, stated that "the proposed legislation contains strict limitations which will permit a therapeutic abortion only after specific requirements are satisfied by the patient seeking such an operation."
 Under current law, written in 1925, an abortion is legal only if it is necessary to save the mother's life.
 "It is time," Parkhouse said, "that we consider the health of the mother and not life alone, and recognize the right of an infant to be born in good health, as well as provide relief to unfortunate victims of rape or incest."

140 Afghans liberated in two area counties

 Biologist Joe B. Davidson of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department who arranged the transport said the fleet birds were released in maize fields and orchard areas that were short of native game bird stock.

Nora Jane Mock becomes bride of Mr. Lesley in Spur rites

Double ring wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Nora Jane Mock and Mr. Lesley last Friday at 7:30 o'clock in the evening at the First Baptist Church in Spur. The Rev. Norris Taylor officiated at the ceremony in a setting decorated with a background of lighted candelabra garland with lemon leaves and spaced between green trees of Charmadorea. White bows with white doves and wedding bells and streamers of English ivy enhanced the pews. Parents of the couple are Mrs. R. D. Stewart of Spur and Loyd Mock of Post and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Pipkin of Concord, Calif. The bride is the granddaughter of

Mrs. Nora Willingham of Post. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal-length gown of white silk organza and re-embroidered lace. The empire lace bodice was designed with a pearl-trimmed scalloped neckline and long petal-point sleeves. Lace applique accented the A-line skirt and the detachable train was se-of time because only three people did all day. We're thinking of sending them a "door-closing certificate."

Monday was also "poster buying day" at The Dispatch. As every parent in town is well aware Fire Prevention posters were due to be turned in Wednesday. I thought we'd had the biggest part of that "run" behind us after last Friday and Saturday but, as is the way with most youths, the big rush was really on Monday — and continued well into Tuesday.

You can imagine the door problem we had then as eight to ten kids at a time crowded in the office to buy posters. The conversation went like this: "Do you want 10 or 20 cent sheet? Close the door please. Here's your change. Close the door please. Oh, you wanted a magic marker. Close the door please. Thank you for coming in. Close the door please."

I mumbled all the way to Lubbock about doors and Mr. C suggested we put up a sign reading: "Please close the door when the wind is blowing." I vetoed that immediately as I could picture all our non-door closers standing with the door open to read the sign.

I hope all of our poster buyers win first prize and that you all will get a chance to see "The Bible" whether you need to have your nerves calmed or not.

Jaycee-ettes see slides on journey to Japan

Mrs. Betty Scott showed slides of her trip to Japan during the New Life Movement, which she attended with several other Post people several years ago, at the Feb. 16 meeting of the Jaycee-ettes.

Pie, sandwiches and coffee were served to Mmes. Allane Ammons, Anita Blanton, Myrna Richardson, Norma Baumann, Diana Moxley, and the guest.

curved in back with bows. A pearl-edged lace petal princess crown held her elbow-length veil of English silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of white butterfly roses and a white orchid atop a white Bible.

The bride wore a 45-year-old wedding band belonging to Mrs. Willingham and carried a white handkerchief belonging to Mrs. Jimmy Thomas.

Mrs. Phil Mayberry of Lubbock, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a floor-length dress of sunshine yellow peau de lin styled with an A-line skirt, scooped neckline and bell sleeves. A bias band of self fabric outlined the empire bodice. Yellow velvet roses held her circular veil. She wore short white gloves and carried a long-stemmed white rose with yellow streamers.

Mrs. Wayne Cornelius of Lubbock was bridesmatron. Bridesmaids were Miss Kathy Williams of Spur and Miss Linda Hess of San Angelo. Miss Teresa Stewart, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. They all wore dresses identical to that of the matron of honor.

Bill Stevens of Hereford was best man. Groomsmen were Wayne Cornelius of Lubbock, Bob Clifton and Mart Wesley Poarch of Hereford. Robert Stewart, brother of the bride, was junior groomsmen. Ushers were David Hope of Hereford, Sam Teel of Hope, N. M., Jimmy Farr of Iowa Park and Jene Ligy of Afton. Jay Stewart, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

Mrs. Mac Steele, organist, accompanied the soloist, Miss Diana Cox of Levelland, who sang, "Because," "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

A reception followed at the church. Mrs. Jimmy Stewart of Spur and Mrs. W. J. Duncan of San Angelo, aunts of the bride, served cake and punch. Other members of the house party were Mrs. Roger Walker of San Angelo and Mmes. O. J. Barren III, Irving, Alex Fry, Howard Thomas, Sam Hagins, Alfred Walker, A. B. Carlisle, C. C. Thomas and Jesse Morrison, all of Spur.

For travel to Ruidoso, N. M., the bride chose a two-piece blue and orchid suit with matching accessories, white kid gloves and the orchid from her bouquet.

They are at home in Levelland where Mr. Lesley is a student at South Plains College and will graduate in May. He is a graduate of Hereford High School. Mrs. Lesley is a 1965 graduate of Spur High School and attended SPC last year where she was a member of "The Texans."

Among those attending the wedding from Post were: Mrs. Willingham, Mrs. Loyd Mock, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Eckols, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Sanderson.

Some of the locals who journeyed to Tahoka were Dennis Altman and Donna Stewart, Vickie Martin and Joe Bilbo, Janice Gordon and Mike Scott, Sherry Woods, Pam Petty, Kay Altman, Patti Peel, Martha Miller, Don Collier, Joe Hudman, Richie Lee, Homer Stillwell, Larry Huff, Steve Newby and Dennis Bush.

Many, many hours of work have been spent on the Fire Prevention posters that everyone was required to do and hand in this week. We all worked hard to try and think up something original like, "Only YOU can prevent forest fires," or an equally original picture of Smoky the Bear. It's a cinch that PHS will be well represented in the national competition.

The Choir is looking forward to several coming events this spring. On March 16 and April 19 we go on tour and on April 1 we have the choir banquet. Also in April we go to contest in Abilene, but since this is on a Saturday and we don't get out of school, it's not quite as exciting as tour.

PHS would like to congratulate the Antelopes on the fine basketball season they had. We're all very proud of them. And now, because they've done so well in both football and basketball, we look forward to at least a district championship in track.

Jimmy Tom Johnston and Ben Miller also deserve a congratulations for being elected President and Vice President, respectively, of the 1967-68 Student Council. If Jimmy lives up to his promise of making next year the "best year PHS has ever had," the presidency is in the right hands.

Western Day is a great success

Western Day in Junior High School last Friday was a great success. Students and teachers dressed in some attire appropriate for the day.

The costumes could have been a journey through history as far as styles are concerned. They ranged from Indian, frontiersman, rifleman, pioneer ladies, city dudes and cowboys to modern dress-up western wear.

The Student Council planned well for music and a general day of activities.

An assembly program finished the Western Day activities, with student participation in two string bands, a western dance routine and choosing Terry Cates as King and Debbie Cross as queen.

ATTENDS CONFERENCE
The Rev. George L. Miller, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, attended a Synod of Texas Christian Education Planning conference at Lake Sharon near Denton Monday through Thursday.

Loan approved, water project work begins

A $12,800 insured association loan to a group of 11 farm and rural families in Garza County to develop a water distribution system and storage facilities has been approved by the Farmers Home Administration, reports Billy H. Stewart, county supervisor for Lynn and Garza counties.

Bank here, with the loan consummated Tuesday morning. Under the insured loan program, the FHA makes and services the loan and guarantees repayment of the money borrowed, along with interest. The loan will enable the Caprock Water Supply Corp. to provide a dependable, safe water supply for the residents involved, Stewart said.

Frank Blanton is Jaycee candidate

Frank Blanton of the Post Junior Chamber of Commerce is a candidate for state director of the Texas Jaycees, with the election to be held at the Area I mid-winter convention in Amarillo this weekend.

Construction of the project, which got under way this week, will provide 236 man-days of labor for heavy equipment operators, pipe layers, electricians, plumbers, welders, carpenters, bricklayers and other day laborers, with some 10 people employed. Previously, the residents in the area, which is just north of the city limits, obtained water from individually owned shallow wells and a privately owned line. The FHA loan is to be repaid over a period of 40 years. Officers of the Caprock Water Development Corp. are Ray Norman, president; Alvin Dean, medical vice-president; and Glenn Shelton, secretary-treasurer.

Guidelines—

(Continued From Front Page) lications, Conner said, and a few farmers may overlook them when they come in the mail. "I believe it will pay to read the guides and file them for future reference," the agent said. "They can also serve as a reminder or checklist for instructing hired hands."

'Door gunner'—

Allen said the helicopter units are Army, not Air Force, and are called in for aerial support when needed by ground units. THE GUNSHIP crews usually fly several missions a day. They have enough gas to fly two and one-half hours in ground support, Allen said. Crew members wear "chest protectors," which are chest armor to protect from small arms fire. The pilot and co-pilot seats in the plane also are armored to give added protection. How did Allen get into helicopters and his aerial "shotgun" role? Simple. He volunteered. Allen enlisted in the Army two and one-half years ago from Post. He was trained in field communications and serving with the 25th Infantry Division in Hawaii, a little more than 18 months ago, when a call went out for volunteers to "ride shotgun" on the new helicopter gunships needed in Vietnam.

So Allen volunteered. He received two weeks training as a machine gunner on an assault helicopter—and then he was "on the job" in Vietnam. But even then Allen wasn't through volunteering. The Army only requires one year combat tours of duty in Vietnam. But when the year was up for Allen, he promptly volunteered for another 12 months "riding shotgun."

When his current furlough is over, he will report back to Vietnam for another six months duty in a helicopter gunship before returning to civilian life. Allen hasn't found any other Post youths in uniform in Vietnam yet, but he points out it's a much bigger country than most Americans imagine. How's the war going over there? Allen thinks it's going "pretty good" for the United States. He says the U. S. is winning within the limited objectives imposed by our own policies. As for what he thinks about the Vietnam conflict, Allen says simply that like a lot of other young Americans now in Vietnam he believes that the war is important in preventing a Communist takeover in that part of the world. Any gripes? Allen says he has none. The food is okay, he says, with a grin and the climate isn't so bad—if you fly helicopters. "It's a lot harder, of course, on the guy on the ground," he adds.

Extensive preparation has gone into the guidelines to insure they would be highly accurate and useful. First, top agronomists in Texas made a basic outline of information that should be included for each crop in each section of the state, Conner said. Then county agents throughout the South Plains got together with researchers, specialists and other crops men to write guides for the conditions and problems of the area. The county agent then localized the information so that it would be correct for this county. Information from local farmers and the results of county demonstrations were used as a basis for local revisions. A few extra sets of the guidelines are available at the county agent's office for individuals who did not receive a set or for those who would like additional copies.

New Brown test looks like dual

It looks as if George R. Brown's City of Post No. 1, will be completed as a dual producer from the B and C zones of the San Andres, E. R. (Buster) Moreland reported today.

He said the No. 2 well, for which Brown recently received a permit to drill 50 feet north of the No. 1 will not be drilled as there weren't enough pay zones found in drilling the No. 1 to require it.

The No. 1 was drilled on vacant lots at the west end of the 400 block on West 13th and 14th street. A potential test may be taken this weekend. In the only other close drilling activity, Kirby Petroleum Company was reported yesterday morning to be drilling below 2,700 feet in its Montgomery - Davies G-1G test, which is located just off 10th street, a half mile west of the old city limits.

Profits from the sale are divided between the local troops and the Caney Creek Council. Council profits will be used for building and improving Camp Rio Blanco. While the girls are selling cookies they will wear their Girl Scout uniforms or pins. They will give each customer a window sticker indicating purchase and the scout's name and address.

Coach Gregg praised the "outstanding attitude of the football players and the student body" during the season, especially the 11 Antelope squad members who are seniors this year.

Last week's Lions Club meeting was held Thursday night instead of Tuesday night because of the Post - Dimmitt basketball game. A member of the Garza County Historical Survey Committee reviewed the book "Fiddio Dusted," written by Ross Edwards.

Firemen answer 2 calls overnight

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a shed containing camping equipment, and a pile of lumber at Bill's Welding Shop on the Lubbock highway about 8:30 p. m. Wednesday.

A second alarm at 5:10 this morning brought out volunteer firemen to extinguish a grass fire on South Avenue G.

Mrs. Bill Criswell estimated the damage to the shed and equipment in last night's fire at nearly $200. She said it started on the inside of the shed. It could have been worse, Mrs. Criswell said. When the Criswells discovered the fire, they at first thought it was in the remodeled home they were preparing to move into on the same property.

Twain wrote: "Finding a spider in your newspaper is neither good luck nor bad. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant was not advertising so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward." Southland girls win bi-district contest

Southland High School girls' basketball team defeated Sundown, 63 to 59, in a bi-district game at Ropesville Tuesday night to advance to the regional basketball tournament for the first time since 1930.

Sundown, two times state champion, trailed Coach Bob Dyess' Eaglettes 20-18 at the end of the first quarter, 54-33 at halftime and 52-49 at the end of the third period. Polly Martin scored 28 points and Libby Sales 24 points for the winners. Louella Everhart paced Sundown with 38.

The Southland team had qualified for the bi-district clash by winning both the round-robin and district tournament in District 7B. The win over Sundown brought their season record to 18-7.

Members of the team are Polly Martin, Libby Sales, Patsy Gindorf, Sherri Wilke, Dayneen Dunn, Patsy Dunn, Karen Melcher and Gloria Cisneros.

The regional Class B girls' tournament will be in Canyon, starting Friday night. The winner there will advance to the state tournament.

Others move out as owls horn in WICHITA FALLS — Last year a pair of horned owls raised a family in the belfry of a Presbyterian Church in Wichita Falls.

The Building and Grounds Committee let the owls complete the job after discovering one young owl in a nest along with parts of two rabbits, one house cat, and any number of rats and mice.

They planned to screen the belfry to eliminate the unsanitary conditions caused by owls and domestic pigeons. When the owls occupied the belfry, the pigeons stayed away, but when the owls moved out, the belfry was filled with pigeon families.

Recently the pigeons disappeared from the belfry and an investigation revealed a horned owl nest with two eggs. Hence another delay in the installation of the belfry screen.

The golf teams expect to enter some practice meets prior to the District 4AA meet in April.

No school Friday; teachers to meet

Friday of this week will be a school holiday here with faculty members in Lubbock for the eighth annual conference of District XIII, Texas State Teachers Association.

"Texas—The Future Is Now" will be the theme of the program. A banquet for area delegates will be held at 6:30 p.m. today (Thursday) in the Student Union building.

Lubbock to hold 25th ABC Rodeo

LUBBOCK — Tickets went on sale Monday for the Silver Anniversary edition of the American Business Club Rodeo scheduled March 23-25 in the Municipal Coliseum here.

L. J. Burdine, rodeo chairman, said the 25th annual event "is shaping up as the best in history." Sanctified by the Rodeo Cowboy Association, it will draw the 1966 world champions and current contenders for the five major titles.

Special attractions include Wilbur Plaugher, acclaimed as the nation's No. 1 rodeo clown. Top cowboys will be competing for nearly $12,000 in prize money in such events as saddle bronc riding, bareback bronc riding, bull riding, calf roping and steer wrestling. Cowgirl's barrel racing will also be featured.

A parade on March 23 will launch the three-day rodeo schedule.

Business of the organization will be transacted when the House of Delegates convenes following the banquet.

A general session will be held in Lubbock Municipal Coliseum beginning at 9:30 a.m. Friday. The principal address will be by Dr. Cecil J. Hannan, assistant director for Professional Development and Welfare, National Education Association.

Luncheons will be held for various teacher groups. A workshop for school food service personnel will be conducted at Lubbock High School beginning at 8 a.m. and continuing through a noon luncheon.

Four sectional meetings, scheduled to run concurrently, will begin at 2:15 p.m.

There are 4,624 members of District XIII, TSTA, according to Mrs. Inez Moore, district membership chairman. Counties in the district are Bailey, Cochran, Crosby, Dickens, Floyd, Garza, Hale, Hockley, Kent, King, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Motley, Terry and Yoakum.

Five-year-olds school bill up

AUSTIN — Sen. Don Kennard of Fort Worth is sponsoring a bill to provide free public education for five-year-olds, with the state sharing the expense with local school districts on a 50-50 basis.

Kennard said the program would cost $34,500,000 for the first two years and that 50 per cent of the five-year-olds would attend classes next year, 60 per cent the second year and as many as 80 per cent by 1970-71.

"A kindergarten program established under rules set up by the Texas Education Agency is the most vital step Texas should take in improving our school system," the senator said. "There is abundant evidence that six years is too late an age to start children to school."

WINTER DRIVING TIPS

The driving hazards that blow in with winter call for extra attention—to your car and to your driving.

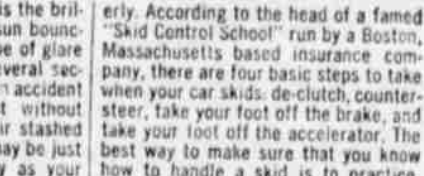

Cold weather means hard, cold starts—a drain on your battery and heavy demands on your ignition system. Make sure your battery is fully charged, and have it rechecked every few weeks. If it's not holding a charge, you may have to replace it. Have the water level in the cells checked and maintained at peak level, too.

Your tires also have more demands put upon them in wintertime, and slippery conditions call for the best traction you can get. Replace any bald tires now, and what you save in head-aches, in towing charges, and accidents, may well pay for the new tires.

Of course, you should be well prepared to cope with the hazards of winter as your car is. Good visibility is a must, particularly when ice and snow make stopping more difficult. Take the extra few minutes it requires to clean all the snow and ice from all windows of your car. One of the greatest menaces in winter is the brilliant, blinding glare of the sun bouncing off snow and ice. This type of glare can literally blind you for several seconds—just long enough for an accident to happen. Don't start out without sunglasses, and an extra pair stashed in your glove compartment may be just as important to your safety as your spare tire in the trunk.

But be sure that your sunglasses do more than just darken glare. Look for sunglasses with Polaroid lenses which actually eliminate reflected glare through an "optical picket fence" type of construction.

The skid is perhaps one of the most common and most frightening winter mishaps. A skid need not be a crisis, however, and seldom is it treated properly.

Following the lead of a famed "Skid Control School" run by a Boston, Massachusetts based insurance company, there are four basic steps to take when your car skids: de-clutch, counter-steer, take your foot off the brake, and take your foot off the accelerator. The best way to make sure that you know how to handle a skid is to practice. Check to see if a skid control course is available in your area. If not, look for an empty parking lot or a deserted road where you can improve your ability to control your car in a skid.

Caution and control are the keys to successfully coping with the hazards of winter driving. React quickly but gently, and don't over-control. With a reasonable amount of preparation you'll find winter driving no more dangerous than a summer jaunt.

More than 154,000 formerly disabled persons were restored to employment service by vocational rehabilitation groups throughout the nation last year.

New pastor is ordained in Sunday service

More than 100 persons were present Sunday at ordination services for the Rev. Ronnie Allen Killingsworth, pastor of the Friendship Baptist Church.

Doyle Holmes, representative of the Lubbock Association, was the moderator for the service, with A. M. Smith, chairman of the deacons, presenting the candidate.

Dr. Fred Howard of Wayland College did the questioning, and the charge to the candidate and the church was by the Rev. Orvil Brantley, pastor of the Bethel Baptist Church, Plainview.

Special music was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Strife of Lubbock. Mr. Strife is music director at the Westmoreland Baptist Church.

The ordination sermon was preached by the Rev. W. P. Brian, pastor of the Seth Ward Church, Plainview, and the ordination prayer was by Frank Coker of Oklahoma City, father of Mrs. Killingsworth.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Killingsworth of Mayfield, Okla., and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coker of Oklahoma City, parents of the pastor and his wife, were present for the occasion.

Other out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holt, Ronnie Cox, John Davey and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Geyma, Jerry Jones and Mrs. W. P. Brian, all of Plainview; the Rev. Richard Batchelder of Ralls, the Rev. Don Hancock of Afton, and the Rev. Stanley Coffey, pastor of the County Line Baptist Church.

Other churches represented by pastors, deacons and members were: Trinity, First Baptist, Calvary and Bethel, all of Post, Pleasant Valley, Central and Crosbyton.

Former resident's rites conducted

Funeral services for Frazier Parrish, 60, a former resident of Garza County, were held at 2 p. m. Saturday in the Methodist Church at Colbert, Okla., with burial at the Colbert Cemetery.

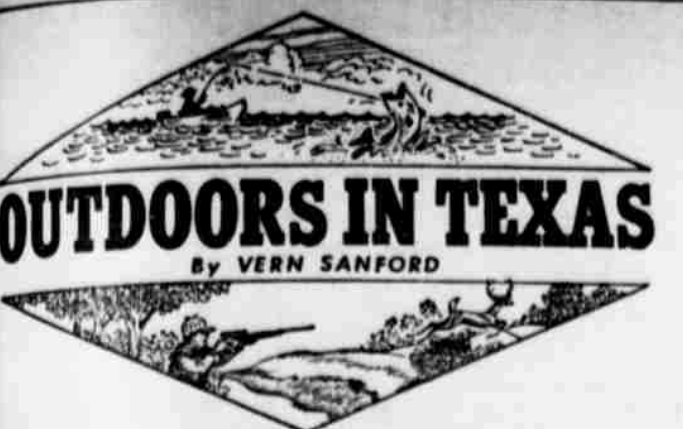

Mr. Parrish died Thursday at a Demson, Tex., hospital following a long illness.

He was born Sept. 7, 1907, at Middle, Tenn., and was a member of the Baptist church. Survivors include his wife; two sons, Richard and Calvin of Colbert; three daughters, Mrs. T. E. Stewart and Mrs. David Hogenon, both of Demson and Mrs. John Clark of Gainesville; two sisters, Mrs. E. C. Hill and Mrs. A. V. Nelson, both of Post; two brothers, A. O. of Post and Joe Parrish of Oklahoma City; 15 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Panhandle doe harvest totals only 50 head

CANYON — Antlerless deer harvested in the Texas Panhandle totaled only 50 head, including 41 taken in Hemphill County on the eastern side of the area, reports Jack K. Parsons, wildlife supervisor.

He informed the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department that limited antlerless deer kills were also permitted in Roberts, Gray and Hutchinson counties, situated along the Canadian River.

When Price Daniel was governor, he started the ball rolling to create Big Thicket park in south Texas.

It's the Law...

"YOU ASKED FOR IT" — making merry at an amusement park, took a ride on one of those "bumper" cars. Later, being her jolting ride for an injury, she filed a damage claim against the management.

There was no evidence that the ride had been any rougher usual. Turning down her suit, the court said:

It was for the thrill of bumping and the escape from being hit that the plaintiff entered the contrivance. The chance of a collision was that which gave zest to the game. One who takes part in such a sport accepts the risks, just as a fencer accepts the risk of a thrust by his opponent.

Amusement parks can and do happen. But you are likely to collect damages all fairness, the management is asked for it.

Exactly how much risk do you ask for? The law says you are not to collect damages unless you ask for it.

When a man stepped up to a "Your Strength" booth to be weighed, he was hit by a mallet. But as he was hit, he fell down, the mallet flew off, the handle, suddenly, smashed hard on his knee, inflicting a painful injury.

In these circumstances, the court held that the victim was entitled to damages—because the hidden defect in the mallet was not the kind of danger a customer had bargained for.

So you assume a risk that you do not voluntarily assume. For example: at the end of her journey to a fun house, a girl was short before a scary-looking attendant.

There were any other exits? she asked the attendant apprehensively.

There was — but the attendant there was not. The girl fell down, the mallet, and, sure she got hurt. Here, too, the court upheld her claim for damages because she had not assumed the risk of the injury.

If you merely get dizzy on a merry-go-round, or nervous on a roller wheel, or embarrassed and laughed at, don't blame the management. You took your money and you took your chance.

Youth will audition with Talent Scouts

By MRS. O. H. HOOVER
Still no rain except just a "smizzle" Saturday night. Plenty of time yet though.

Rocky Gribble won a trophy at Loop Saturday night at a talent show there and will audition with the Ted Mack Talent Scouts next Sunday in Lubbock. Good luck, Rocky. We will be pulling for you.

Somebody made a mistake last week — guess it was me. The Valentine luncheon given for the Women's Society of Christian Service was given in the lovely home of Mrs. W. W. Hagood southwest of Tahoka instead of in Grassland. Sorry, Mrs. Hagood.

Nina Belle Chapman of Plainview spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Hoover. They visited W. M. Davis and Mrs. Era Aten in the afternoon and entertained Cleety and Lucile Walker at supper Saturday night.

Mrs. Hoover was a Thursday luncheon guest of her niece, Mrs. Walker. Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Burk of Tahoka were Friday luncheon guests of the Walkers.

We hear Roy LeMond is sick with the flu. Cheer up, Roy, that too will pass.

The Thursday Club met in the home of Lelia Gilley Feb. 16 with all members present except Bernice. She and Jess are staying at their Port Aransas home for a while. I had a letter from her and they have had rain and all is pretty and green. They are not fishing much as they are busy in their yard. Next club meeting will be with Mrs. Hoover March 2.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Norman are visiting her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Wheeler, in Center.

Mrs. Viva Davis was among a number of visitors in the Era Aten home last week.

Eddie Aten visited Lucile Walker last Wednesday.

I had a card from Lena Short last week. She and Bert are in Mercedes and are enjoying the fishing and the weather.

Leroy Davis is spending some time in East Texas seeing after his beehives. You know he sells good honey.

ORA BRASWELL and daughter, Martha, of San Frisco Saticle, Mexico, are here visiting Ora's parents, Uncle Mac and Aunt Nora Ritchey, and other relatives.

Luncheon guests in the Ritchey home Sunday were the W. L. Gribbles, C. O. McCleskeys and the Rev. and Mrs. Rawlings.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. McCleskey visited H. D. Gartman and Gladys Fox in Twin Cedar Nursing home last Tuesday.

Tom and Maggie Murray spent the weekend in Odessa visiting their son, Hulan, and family and Tom's sister.

Continued growth for oil industry predicted by Humble's president

HOUSTON—Petroleum will continue to be a growing industry which will make ever larger contributions to our national energy needs for many decades to come, Dr. Chas. F. Jones, president of Humble Oil & Refining Company, told the Houston Philosophical Society here.

"Our industry is going to be around for a long time because petroleum supplies are abundant and are being converted into useful products that millions of people want and can afford to buy," Dr. Jones said. "We will have lively competition for energy markets, there is no doubt about that, but we are going to keep ourselves in a competitive position that will enable us to take on all comers."

"We now consume petroleum products at the rate of about 12 million barrels a day in the United States. By 1985 it is estimated that we will be consuming about 20 million barrels a day."

He noted that oil and gas as energy sources will continue to have plenty of competition for markets in the years ahead. He predicted that each source will participate in the overall growth with nuclear energy having perhaps 5 per cent of the total by 1985 and electricity having a much bigger share of the home-heating market. Coal, he said, lost ground to oil and gas in earlier years, but is now making a comeback and is "a tough competitor again."

Dr. Jones stressed that the oil industry is a highly technical one, and depends to an unusual degree on innovation, or research and development. Humble, he said, currently spends some $22 million a year on research, covering the entire range of operations from exploration and production to manufacturing and marketing activities. Nationwide, he noted, the annual expenditure for petroleum research is an impressive $350 million, twice that of a decade ago.

While about half of coal's annual research bill of $20 million is government financed and practically all of the nuclear power civilian economy research bill of $216 million annually is financed by the government, he said, only about 7 per cent of the research activity in the petroleum industry comes from federal funds.

"We prefer to pay our own research bill," he said, "and we believe that our competitors for energy markets should pay the cost. We should discourage the entrance of government research and development into all areas of private business activity."

Dr. Jones also pointed to the close relationship between energy use and per capita income. "The key word," he said, "is not mere availability. Thus, the most abundant supplies of natural energy remain at low levels because of failure to provide for the effective utilization of this energy."
