

Post miler signs with Baylor U.

Distance runner Peter Morales, who graduated from Post High School last Friday, has signed a letter of intent to attend Baylor University on a four-year maximum track scholarship.

Peter signed the letter of intent Thursday afternoon in the office of lawyer Pat N. Walker, who is representing Clyde Hart, Baylor track coach. Also present at the signing were the youth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Morales, and his high school track coach, Waco Reynolds.

The scholarship provides for the payment of Peter's board, room, books, tuition and fees in full and $10 a month laundry allowance.

The Baylor track coach first showed an interest in the Post distance runner when he was a junior and before he won the mile run at the state meet his junior year.

Coach Hart has never seen Peter run, but has seen a film and told Walker that he considers Morales to be the number one distance runner in the state this year. Peter will run the three-mile run in college rather than the mile run, his high school specialty.

Following a recent visit by Peter to the Baylor campus, Coach Hart called Walker and said that he was more impressed than ever by the young athlete and wanted every effort made to have him sign with Baylor.

"It apparently was 'love at first sight' for both parties," Walker said, "because after his visit to Baylor, Peter never visited another campus and Coach Hart never contacted another distance runner."

It's our war' Rotarians told

"It's not LBJ's war, it's our war, yours and mine," Max Chaffin told Post Rotarians at the 10 a. m. luncheon in city hall, reminding them of the Vietnam conflict in his pre-Memorial Day address.

The former district VFW commander declared Americans have a duty to support the war effort. He said the time has come to support the war effort. He said the time has come to support the war effort. He said the time has come to support the war effort.

Plans under way for Post marker program

Mrs. Marjorie Merriweather Post of Washington, D. C., will be in Post Saturday, June 8, for dedication of two Official Texas Historical Markers—one in her honor and one honoring the memory of her father, C. W. Post, the town's founder.

group is working on plans for the occasion, including the program, which will appear in next Thursday's Dispatch.

It had not been learned here this week at what time Mrs. Post and her party, which will include other members of her family, will arrive in Post.

Mrs. Post's last visit to the town her father founded was in the spring of 1958 when she unveiled his statue on the courthouse lawn.

Both markers to be dedicated June 8 have been erected near the statue of Mr. Post.

The Woman's Culture Club and Amity Study Club are co-sponsors of the marker erected in Mrs. Post's honor. The City of Post is sponsor of the C. W. Post marker. The dedication ceremony will be at 2 p. m.

The legend on the marker to Mrs. Post reads as follows:

"Daughter of C. W. Post, Lived in Texas 1888-1891. Had part with father in locating colony here 1906; rescued local economy by aid after 1917 drought. Co-donor, site for Post Reservation Center, Donor, South Plains Council Boy Scouts Camp; books and paintings to South Plains College."

"A leading philanthropist in arts and humanities. Benefactress, C. W. Post College, Long Island University; founder, 'Music for Young America.' Recipient of 39 citations for service, 2 honorary degrees, 6 foreign decorations. A woman endowed with true virtues of generosity and compassion."

The companion marker's legend reads as follows:

CHARLES W. POST (1854-1914)
"Internationally known creator of Post Cereals, advertising genius, inventor and innovator, founder of Post City in 1908. Through the purchase of the Curry Comb Ranch and adjacent land approximating 225,000 acres he began his dream of building self-contained model community of towns and farms. Mr. Post financed, supervised and built town without profit to himself. Settlers were offered ownership of business or farm sites far below cost. Mr. Post planned community of debt-free private ownership in every field of endeavor, and sought to make his vision true to its purpose."

Horse steps on boy, causes torn ear

Mike Short, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Short of 109 W. 14th, suffered a severe ear injury when he was bucked off a horse at a junior play-day practice Sunday afternoon at the rodeo grounds. The horse stepped on his ear when the youth fell under the animal.

The nearly severed ear was sewed back together at Garza Memorial Hospital by a physician after the accident and the boy was released from the hospital Tuesday morning.

Dave Newby and the Jaycees completed the boarding up and painting of the former Algerita Hotel over the weekend. The old Ameen Hotel sign has been pulled down and we would guess all the hullabaloo to get the landmark building torn down is over.

The Lubbock A-J's sent a photographer down yesterday to get a picture of Newby, the man who saved it, posed with George (Scotty) Samson, the man who built it 60 years ago, in front of the building. Needless to say, Scotty was very pleased with the renovation job.

The only bit left to the story now is the look which will cross Ernest Ameen's face when he sees the picture of his "food-up hotel" in the Avalanche—Journal. To our knowledge, Ameen has had no knowledge at all of Newby's project.

We are pleased to announce a new addition to The Dispatch's group of columnists. She is Karen Hendley, a senior-to-be who will write of Post's town set through the summer months. Her column, which is entitled "Karen's Corner" appears for the first time on page 10 of today's Dispatch. The daughter of the Jim Huddleys, Karen is very interested in journalism. Welcome to The Dispatch's news column, Karen, and we hope this first column assignment will lead to an interesting journalism career.

Sam Sanders was in the office yesterday explaining that the 1967 tourist edition of The Dispatch made quite a "hit" all the way to Canada and back. The Sanders just returned this week from a visit with his son in Minnesota. Sam said he took along some leftover copies of the tourist edition and distributed them along the way going and coming and aroused a lot of interest with them about Post, Texas. As far as we know, our tourist edition for give-away to travelers through the summer is still original and the one and only of its kind. The 1968 edition is going to press this weekend and will be in tourists hands here in about 10 days.

Interest builds up in governor's race

Voter decision comes Saturday

Garza County voters, who "struggled" with a long ballot in the first Democratic primary May 4, will have only a short ballot with two races to mark Saturday in the Democratic runoff primary.

The only races appearing on the "mini-ballot" are Preston Smith vs. Don Yarbrough for governor, and James A. Joy vs. Jack Hazlewood for Court of Civil Appeals.

Because of the short ballot, voting Saturday is expected to be considerably lighter than it was in the first primary when 1,774 voters went to the polls in Garza County to nominate five county and precinct officers, a governor and lieutenant governor in addition to a few other contested state races, and vote on three referendums.

Interest in the governor's race between Smith and Yarbrough could, however, result in a much larger vote than is generally forecast. Supporters of Smith are urging a big turnout of voters who want to see him win, feeling that apathy on the part of conservatives might give the victory to the liberal candidate Yarbrough.

In the first primary, Smith finished far in front in Garza County among the ten gubernatorial candidates. He received 682 votes, while Yarbrough ran fourth with 177. Yarbrough's total vote, however, was some 30,000 more than Smith received.

In the Court of Civil Appeals race, Joy finished well ahead of Hazlewood in Garza County, but Hazlewood held the lead district-wide.

One indication that the vote will be considerably less Saturday than it was May 4 is seen in the 40 absentee votes cast in Garza County for the second primary, as compared to 93 for the first primary.

Short ballot, but important races

It is hoped that the size of the ballot in Saturday's Democratic runoff primary will not affect the size of the voter turnout on that day. Only two races appear on the ballot, but both are important—as what political race isn't.

Holding the most interest, of course, on the "mini-ballot" that Garza countians will mark Saturday is the gubernatorial race between Preston Smith and Don Yarborough. Who becomes governor of Texas certainly is important to every voter.

The other race in which Garza County voters will be given a choice Saturday is between Jack Hazlewood and James A. Joy for Associate Jus-

Preston Smith is battling apathy

The Democratic runoff primary Saturday will resolve the political question as to whether or not the large majority of Texans who are conservative are concerned enough about keeping the Lone Star state that way to go to the polls and vote.

There aren't dozen's of door-knocking and TV screen-filling county candidates this time to stir up interest.

Li. Gov. Preston Smith will win the party's nomination for the governorship if conservatives go to the polls and vote.

The reins will be handed over the youthful Don Yarborough, untested liberal, if they don't. Yarborough has his "vest pocket vote" safely in his pocket. It is composed of the labor vote and the so-called liberal wing vote.

Neither looks nor acts his age

John Santa Fe turns 100 this year but you'd truly have to say he neither looks nor acts his age.

From that modest beginning at Topeka, Kans., in 1888, Santa Fe has grown into a $2 billion empire whose 13,000 miles of tracks extend, as Cyrus K. Holliday, its founder and first president, predicted, from the Great Lakes to the Pacific Ocean and the Gulf of Mexico.

Santa Fe operate more miles of track in Texas—3,615 to be exact—than in any other state. There are 7,578 Texans on the payroll who last year earned $58,151,026. The company's 1967 tax bill amounted to $2,264,466.

Through the years the railroad has scored some impressive transportation "firsts," including the first to become fully Dieselized, in 1954; developing the Autovoyer car for shipment of automobiles, in 1960, and the inauguration of "Super C," the world's fastest freight train, in 1968, which operates on a 40-hour schedule between Chicago and Los Angeles, although it consistently makes the run in little more than 35 hours. There are but a few, the list is almost endless.

While Santa Fe is pardonably proud of its distinguished past, its continental theme is geared to the future—"Second Century of Progress—On to 2068."

The Dispatch wishes John Santa Fe well on his journey to the year 2068, but it also wishes that he could see his way clear to leave on the passenger trains he wishes to cut off.

There are still many old-timers in Post who remember as if it were yesterday when the tracks were completed through here along about 1913.

From all we can hear of the occasion, it was a day of rejoicing here, in a young town that rightly felt it "had it made" now that it had a railroad.

There won't be any such rejoicing the day John Santa Fe takes off his two passenger trains through Post.—CD

Smith appears a shoo-in if he picks up the voters' support given a big field of other conservatives in the regular primary. But it doesn't always work that way. If too many conservatives stay home, Smith will get whipped.

Yarborough supporters will go all out to win this one—but quietly all out, so as not to stir up too many conservatives with the prospects of defeat.

That's the strategy. Smith, who can become the first West Texan ever elected as Texas' governor in November, is battling apathy.

That may not sound very exciting. But that's a mighty tough political opponent.

If you're a Smith man be sure and vote Saturday. A whole lot of folks can forget to over the Memorial holiday weekend.—JC

Mr. and Mrs. Louie Burkes have given a complete set of World Book Encyclopedias to the library in memory of their daughter, Dale.

Mrs. J. C. Caylor and Mrs. Hattie Foster are other recent book donors.

During the past two years, Post Library has received an increasing number of books as memorials to a loved one or friend. Such a permanent memorial brings knowledge or enjoyment to hundreds of people. Since books may be used over and over again, this is one of the most useful tributes that can be given. Such gifts may also be used to honor a birthday, graduation, anniversary, or other special occasion.

Books can be selected that preserve the dignity and keep alive the interests of the persons honored. Gift funds can enable a library to build special collections of great value to the entire community.

From personal experience, I know that such a memorial can mean a great deal to the family which has lost someone very dear. When my grandmother died, a number of friends made donations in her memory to the Midland County Library. The library contacted us with the idea of establishing a special collection.

Since grandmother had lived in South Dakota most of her life, we decided that the colorful Indian history of that region — Custer's Last Stand, Sitting Bull, the Reservations — would provide a very appropriate memorial. The library made a list of excellent books on the subject and when friends wishing to give a book in grandmother's memory wanted suggestions, the library could give them.

We greatly appreciated the many books that were given and, through the years, we have added quite a few to the collection ourselves. We think that grandmother would have approved highly.

For a lasting gift, a fitting memorial, consider books. Gifts to the Post Public Library are tax deductible, and a special bookplate is placed in the book or books carrying the names of the person honored and the donor.

ored and the donor.

Calling Ben Owen, calling Ben Owen. Where is that display rack you promised to build for the library? If we don't get it soon, I'm going to start hounding people for money to buy a No. 4010 Book Display Rack again and it'll all be your fault.

I didn't get any book reviews from good citizens this week, either, good citizens. I knew I shouldn't have pooped off those reviews from Jewel Steel, Minnie Williams, and Rosa Gamblin in one column. I could have spread them out and made them last three weeks.

Guess who's back? (You'll never) James Bond! Mystery writer Kingsley Amis has taken up where Ian Fleming left off and the results, if anything, are even better. In "Colonel Sun", Bond is pitted against a world - menacing conspiracy engineered by the malign Colonel Sun Lian-tan of the People's Liberation Army of China. The stakes have never been higher, nor the dangers more complex and terrible. His allies — the fine-boned, fawn-haired agent of a rival secret service and the Greek patriot with a score to settle — are all too quickly neutralized. Alone, unarmed, Bond faces the maniacal devices of Colonel Sun — an ordeal that pushes him to the verge of his physical and moral endurance.

If you liked the old James Bond, you'll like the new. Try "Colonel Sun". My one objection was the ghastly bookcover. Will someone please explain it to me? Maybe I just don't appreciate modern art.

Decision forecast on mixed-drinks

AUSTIN — Gov. John Connally's June 4 special session of the Legislature almost certainly will come to grips with important liquor legislation, probably including a mixed-drinks bill.

Connally has strongly indicated he will urge the lawmakers to come up with a mixed - drinks bill as a part of his tax program.

Observers believe that, instead of a straight booze - over - the - bar measure, the governor will ask for legislation permitting the sale of liquor in small, one-drink sized bottles on a local option basis.

This would mean that, if the bill passes, Texans still will have to mix their own but at least they won't have to bring their own bottles.

Time schedule change at First Presbyterian

Services will be conducted at the First Presbyterian Church at 10 a. m. on Sundays instead of the regular time of 11 a. m. during the months of June, July and August.

Sunday school for kindergarten and primary age children will be held during the morning worship hour of 10 o'clock.

These changes were announced at last Sunday's service by the pastor, the Rev. George L. Miller. The sermon topic for next Sunday will be: "A Faith That Shows."

Americans are expected to consume 22 pounds of confectionery products per capita this year, a Department of Commerce survey discloses. Last year each American ate 18.3 pounds.

Game violations show increase

AUSTIN — Law enforcement officers of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department issued 1,147 citations in April, an increase over 915 issued in April, 1967.

Fishing violations were the most numerous at 520 with 501 being issued for fishing without a license. Fishing violations totaled 305 in March.

There were 203 water safety citations issued in April compared with 133 in March. The most recurring violation was failure to have a Coast Guard approved lifesaving device for each person in the boat.

Game management officers issued 202 hunting citations, 49 of which were discharging a firearm on a public road, 41 for no hunting license, and 29 for hunting at night.

There were 67 commercial fishing violations in April compared with 20 in March.

Fines and court costs accrued to the State for the April cases amounted to $18,524.46.

City sales tax may be 'goner'

AUSTIN — Board members of the Texas Municipal League will meet at El Paso on June 5, where they are expected to discuss Gov. John Connally's plan to abolish the city sales tax.

Connally's plan would raise the state sales tax from two to three per cent and funnel part of this money back to incorporated cities.

There is a difference of opinion among legal experts on the constitutionality of such a plan. Texas' Constitution may forbid the state from giving money to municipalities when there is no return to the state. The governor's advisors apparently feel the courts would be hesitant to deny funds to the state and cities with both in dire need.

Still the sales tax change is quite likely to be sent to the Legislature when it convenes in special session next Tuesday.

VISITS GRANDPARENTS
Miss Jennifer Nance Wilson of Galveston, two-year-old daughter, of Mr. and Mrs. Butch Wilson, is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Wilson. She was brought to Post by her mother, who went on to Arizona to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cal Casteel.

Mrs. Casteel and Mrs. Wilson went to El Paso to rent a house which the Wilsons will move into after Mr. Wilson graduates from medical school in June. After returning from El Paso, the two women were called to Kentucky due to the death of Mrs. Wilson's grandfather.

Day Care Center plans under way

Zoe Ward of Lubbock, state welfare licensing worker, met with the committee working to establish a Day Care Center in Post on Thursday night at Fellowship Church of the First Methodist Church.

The Day Care Center committee report to the Community Accrediting Board next Monday, June 5, at the First Methodist Church at 8 o'clock to report their findings.

Ward pointed out that the committee to be taken is a substantializing the need for a Day Care Center in Post. She also mentioned the information concerning the standards set up by the state of Texas.

What is a day care center? Good day care is a well-planned community center that serves all children from three to six years of age. It is a place where these children can be cared for during the day.

Children's own homes for part of the day; it offers these children individual attention and affection; it enriches these children's daily lives, helping each to realize his potential.

A survey is being taken this week by Negro and Latin-American ladies to determine the need for a center in Post. Mrs. David Newby, committee chairman, designed the bi-lingual survey form with the help of John Martinez, high school Spanish teacher. The forms were mimeographed at the high school.

Mrs. Newby suggests that any interested families not contacted can call her at 493-2255 by Monday so they can be included in the survey.

Survey questions are as follows: Would you like to send your preschool children to a day care center? If the day care center is open five days a week, 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. (tentative hours), September through May, would your child attend? Could you pay per child per day? Fifty cents? Less? More? Are you now working? Would you like to work if you could have day care for your child? Do preschool children ages 3 through 5?

Would you be willing to help in part time in the day care center? Two locations for the day care center are being considered for the committee. They have to be able to present these arguments, along with the survey results, to the coordinating committee next Thursday night.

The day care center is designed for low income working mothers who cannot afford commercial day care. The center would be open to all in Post meeting this requirement. Naturally, a limited number of children will be accepted as facilities permit.

Chapter benefit bridge slated as Saturday event

The benefit bridge will be held on Saturday, June 1, at the home of Mrs. Mary Cross. The bridge will be held from 2 to 4 p. m. The chapter of the Red Cross is sponsoring the event. The bridge will be held at the home of Mrs. Mary Cross, 203 East Main. The bridge will be held from 2 to 4 p. m. The chapter of the Red Cross is sponsoring the event.

Final meeting is held by chapter

The final meeting of the chapter was held on Monday at the Community Room for the last meeting of the severity year.

The club voted to put its activities on the Amity Study Club calendar and agreed to help with the Community Center expansion stand.

Each member gave a picture of one of the subjects submitted for the state project. After the review the group voted to support the Institute of Achievement of (Pioneer) Potential as a state project for the coming year.

Members worked on the Year-Book to be sent to International and have again achieved a three-star rating.

Becky Brown and Janet Peel served sandwiches, crackers and congealed salad to the following: Mmes. Lois Fluitt, Maritta Reed, Barbara Ethridge, Flute King and Karen Callaway.

It's My Turn

— By MRS. C.

So, another summer rolls around! I'm starting to get a wee bit envious of those who have their college chilluns home, or are expecting them.

Miss C finished her finals at Trinity University last week and is now a full-fledged working gal at HemisFair. She and two college friends are living together in San Antonio and all working at HemisFair. That leaves Mr. and Mrs. C and Miss Sam Basset continuing their ordinary life.

It's always so good to see our young people home, if only for a while. Most of them have summer plans including jobs and summer school so they won't be around long.

Our youth is on the move and that's such a change from our generation. I well remember looking forward to summer vacation which I spent mainly in a swimming pool. Not so, today. Our youth seems to have a bit more imagination than we had, but one has to figure there are more responsibilities for the young people of today.

John's wasn't quite so pleased in my day as they are now. I don't doubt, if you would have let many of us go off to the wild blue yonder to work at jobs far from home.

The funny thing is, even though we might have missed the company, many of us never even considered working in a field. The women were especially true. We mostly stayed at home, looking for work and just about that. I remember the excitement of the morning when I found I had all I wanted in a job. I remember my mother giving me a little pin with my name on it. I remember "I'll do it all over again" I said when I got home.

I suppose you remember the excitement of the morning when you found a job. I remember the excitement of the morning when I found I had all I wanted in a job. I remember my mother giving me a little pin with my name on it. I remember "I'll do it all over again" I said when I got home.

Some of them seem to be so glad and down and concerned (twice)!

PLANTING DATES STRESSED FOR SOYBEANS

With soybean planting time close at hand, producers should carefully consider planting dates to obtain top yields this season.

Optimum planting dates for producing maximum yields range from May 15-20 in the northern portion of the High Plains to June 1-20 in southern sectors. A progressive reduction in yield can be expected from plantings made after these dates.

In addition to yield reduction, late-planted soybeans tend to be smaller in plant size and have lower set beans. This condition often contributes to higher field losses at harvest.

Soybean varieties vary considerably in maturity. Early maturing varieties such as Wayne and Clark have produced the highest yields on the northern High Plains. An intermediate maturing variety such as Hill has performed well in the Lubbock-Plainview area. However, Lee and Hill both gave satisfactory yields in most areas south of Plainview last year.

If late plantings cannot be avoided, later maturing varieties offer the best yield potential. Although early varieties will mature more rapidly, they often tend to produce smaller plants than later maturing varieties. For this reason, yields may be reduced more if these early varieties are planted late in the season. This situation is particularly true in southern areas of the South Plains, adds the agent.

With regards to seeding rates, recommendations range from 40 to 90 pounds in narrow row spacings. If moisture is a limiting factor, this rate should be reduced somewhat.

Under conditions of good moisture and management, closer spacings have given increases of two to five bushels per acre more than regular row spacings.

Planting the seed at a depth of one and one-half to two inches is adequate to prevent drying out.

Prior to planting, however, the seed should be inoculated with a specific bacteria culture for soybeans, adds the agent. Being a legume, soybeans are capable of obtaining nitrogen from the air if the proper bacteria are present in the soil. A good crop of soybeans will leave about 25 pounds of nitrogen in the soil for the following crop.

Planting and all subsequent tillage practices should be made so as to favor pod set high enough above ground level to allow the combine cutter bar to be set below the bottom pods at harvest time.

Proper fertilization should be determined, of course, on the basis of a soil test. Cartons and information sheets for submitting soil samples are available at the County Extension Office.

Pornography war is being mapped

AUSTIN — Attorney General Crawford Martin has mapped a drive against "lewd" movies and pornographic literature.

His office has received frequent complaints about circulation of obscenity, so he will ask the Legislature to tighten its control laws.

Specifically, Martin said he will ask for repeal of a portion of the penal code which exempts from control motion films and movies that are interstate commerce. Many of the complaints he receives concern pornography originating in Mexico and other foreign countries.

Judge's condition improving slowly

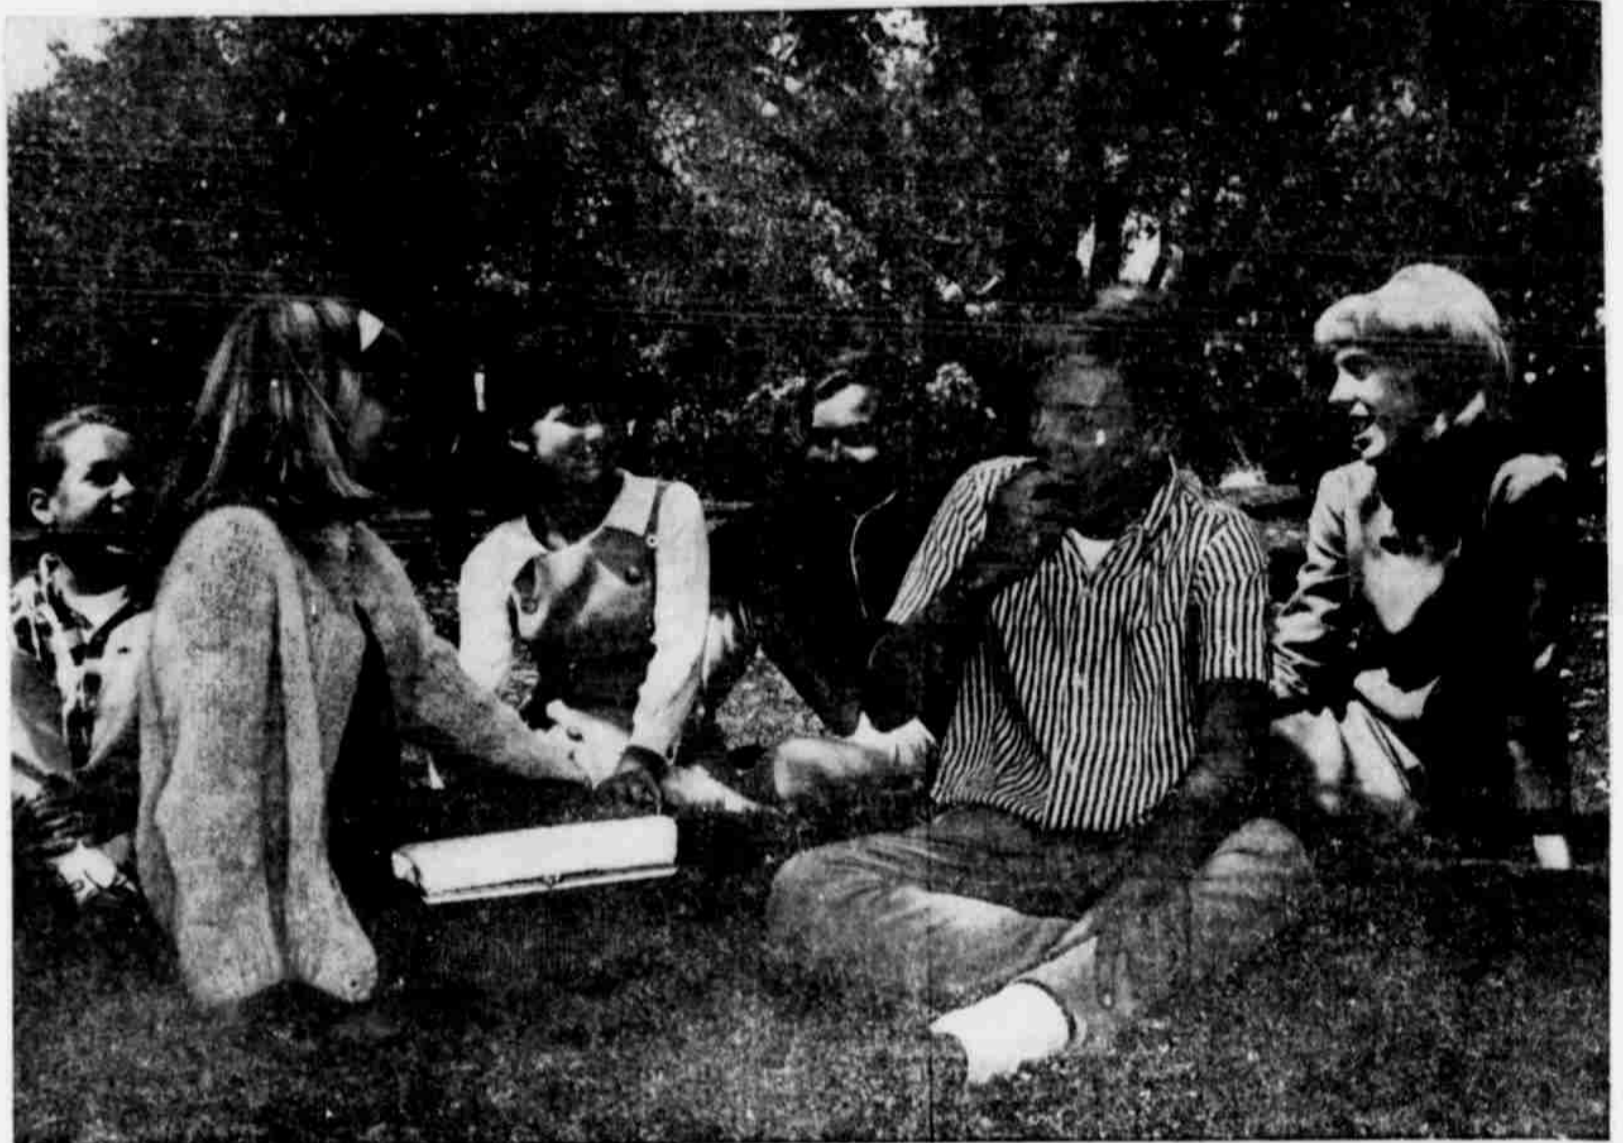

District Judge Truett Smith, who was seriously injured when pinned between two automobiles in front of his home at Tahoka several months ago, is making slow but steady improvement at his home, the Lynn County News reported in last Thursday's paper.

Judge Smith received two badly crushed legs in the accident, one of them having to be amputated. As soon as the healing process has developed to a certain degree, he will be fitted with an artificial limb, the Tahoka newspaper reports.

Judge Smith is expected to be up on crutches within a week or ten days.

Attorneys of the district, particularly Stansell Clement of Lamesa, have been filling Judge Smith's position on the bench in the judicial district he serves, which includes Garza, Lynn and Gaines counties.

Butterflies aren't Human

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Our 9A biology trip was a huge success. After we saw the museum's collection of rare lepidoptera, we went outside to collect specimens. Then we ate lunch, and took pictures. Here's one with me, on the left, laughing at Eddie. We were in a big discussion about whether or not butterflies can feel.

While our teacher exchanged notes with the curator, we sat around and talked. After butterflies, we started on missiles and rockets, and whether or not there's life on the stars. Somehow, don't ask me how, we got on the subject of God.

You know, I didn't realize how ignorant some kids are about Him! All of a sudden, I found out how good it is to have some ideas about where, what, and why, I am. A few of those kids were really way out in left field.

Now it's up to me to show them what they have been missing. I think I've talked them all into going to church with me Sunday.

No-hitter by Redman slows down Yankees

The Ray Spoth Pontiac Co. Wildcats, behind John Redman's no-hitter, derailed the Yankee Express, 2 to 0, Saturday night to hand the Postex plant-sponsored team its first defeat in six Little League games.

Not only did Redman pitch a no-hitter, but he slammed a solo home run in the fifth inning for the Wildcats' second run.

The Yankees had base runners only in the fourth and sixth innings. In the fourth, Garland Dudley drew a walk, with one out, but Redman fanned Jackie Blacklock and Jay Pollard to get out of the inning.

Rodney King was the winning pitcher and Grayling Johnson the loser. The Red Sox got 10 hits off the Tiger starter and Donnie Hair and Ricky McDougale, who also saw mound services for the losers. King, who went the route for the winners, gave up six hits.

The Yankees got only three hits off Macky Sappington in their 6-4 win over the Dodgers, but two of them came in the first inning when they scored three runs. Jay Pollard's fourth inning double scored two more runs, and Pollard stole third and then scored on a passed ball for the Yankees' sixth tally.

Sign-ups set for swim instructions

The City-County Park swimming pool opened for the season Wednesday, with Waco Reynolds of the Post schools' coaching staff beginning his second summer as manager.

High school students Steve Negby and David Pierce are the pool lifeguards for the summer.

Sign-ups will be held at 10 a. m. Thursday, June 6, for swimming lessons at the pool, Reynolds said.

The swimming instruction will be from 11 a. m. until 1 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The lessons have been taught at an earlier time of day in the past, but are moved up to the new hours so the water in the pool will be warmer for beginning swimmers, the manager said.

OUR READERS Write

COMING-HOME LETTER

(Editor's Note: The following letter, reflecting the feelings of many of our fighting men in Vietnam, is from one of them — Jimmy Carpenter, who sends the letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Brown of Post. Jimmy has been in Vietnam since December.)

Dear Civilians, Friends, Draft Dodgers, etc.:

In the near future the undersigned will once more be in your midst, dehydrated and demoralized, to take his place again as a human being with the well-known forms of freedom and justice for all; engage in Life, Liberty and the somewhat delayed pursuit of Happiness.

In making your joyous preparations to welcome him back into organized society, you might take certain steps to make allowances for the crude environment which has been his miserable lot the past 12 months. In other words, he might be a little Asiatic from Vietnameseitis and Overseasitis, and should be handled with care. Don't be alarmed if he is infected with all forms of rare tropical diseases. A little time in the "Land of the Big PX" will cure this malady.

Therefore, show no alarm if he insists on carrying a weapon to the dinner table, looks around for his steel pot when offered a chair, or wakes you up in the middle of the night for guard duty. Keep cool when he pours gravy on his dessert at dinner or mixes parties with his Seagrams V.O. Pretend not to notice if he eats with his fingers instead of silverware and prefers Cations to steak. Take it with a smile when he insists on digging up the garden to fill sandbags for the bunker he is building. Be tolerant when he takes his blanket and sheets off the bed and puts them on the floor to sleep on.

Abstain from saying anything about powdered eggs, dehydrated potatoes, fried rice, fresh milk or ice cream. Do not be alarmed if he should jump up from the dinner table and rush to the garbage can to wash his dish with a toilet brush. After all, this has been his standard. Also, if it should start raining, pay no attention to him if he pulls off his clothes, grabs a bar of soap and towel and runs outside for a shower.

When in his daily conversation he utters such things as "Xin loi" and "Choi oi," just be patient and simply leave quickly and calmly if by some chance he utters "Di Di" with an irritated look on his face, because it means no less than "Get the hell out of here." Do not let it shake you if he picks up the phone and yells "Typhoon forward, sir" or says "Roger, out" for goodbye, or simply shouts "Working!"

Never ask why the Joneses' son held a higher rank than he did, and by no means mention the term "Extend." Pretend not to notice if at a restaurant he calls the waitress "Numba one girl" and uses his hat as an ashtray. He will probably keep listening for "Homeward Bound" to sound off over AERS. If he does, comfort him, for he is still reminiscing. Be especially watchful when he is in the presence of a woman — especially a beautiful woman!

Above all, keep in mind that beneath that tanned and rugged exterior there is a heart of gold (the only thing of value he has left). Treat him with kindness, tolerance, and an occasional fifth of good liquor and you will be able to rehabilitate that which was once (and is now a hollow shell of the happy-go-lucky guy you once knew and loved.

Last, but by no means least, send no more mail to the APO. Fill the ice box with beer, put the civvie out of the mouthballs, fill the car with gas, and get the women and children off the streets.

BECAUSE THIS MAN IS COMING HOME!

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

CONSERVATION BIG BUSINESS IN GARZA COUNTY

Conservation is big business. In fact, it may be one of the biggest industries in Garza County.

Bailey Mayo, soil conservationist at Post, estimates that at least one - fourth million dollars per year is pumped into the local economy as a result of earth - moving, brush control and similar projects to protect and improve our land.

Mayo said that the Great Plains Conservation Program alone has had quite an impact upon the economy of Garza County. This program, administered by the Soil Conservation Service, is spending about $70 thousand per year to help install conservation measures on local farms and ranches. Much of these funds go to earth - moving jobs such as parallel terracing, pond construction and brush control. Other jobs include range seeding, cross-fencing, pipelines and wells for livestock water and water storage facilities.

The $70 thousand figure cited is the Federal cost share paid directly to producers. It does not include costs the producers themselves will pay to the contractor, which will amount to over $90 thousand dollars. In addition, the farmers will usually do extra work to "dress up" the job the contractor leaves.

The Great Plains Program has accelerated some practices such as parallel terracing so much that a new contracting business has been established in this area.

The Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) is administered by the County ASC Committee. The Soil Conservation Service furnishes technical help on many of the practices. This program has provided about $50 thousand in cost share payments each year. Here again, the individual farmer or rancher will spend as much or more than he receives in cost share assistance.

Totaling all these, there is at least $260 thousand spent yearly on direct conservation activities. Additional money will be circulated because the Conservation contractors will be purchasing fuel, parts, groceries and lodging while they are here and this money to a large extent will remain in the community.

Impressive as these figures are, they represent only a small part of the total benefit the community receives from conservation. It would be hard to estimate the value of such things as lengthening the life of our water supply, or keeping our soil productive. Moreover, all these activities boost the income potential of agricultural lands. It also creates a more stable base for tax structures which affect schools, county government, and municipalities.

Last Friday was an eventful day. First of all, school was let out for the summer! Three cheers! That night the Seniors had their graduation exercises, and I almost cried through the whole thing, knowing that my class would be in their place next year. Congratulations to the Seniors of '68, and to Emily Potts, salutatorian, and Jimmie Johnston, valedictorian. Congratulations also to Micki Sterling, Norman Tanner, Voda Beth Voss, Emily Potts, Glenda Watson and Mickie Taylor for receiving special awards.

After the graduation exercises, a dance was held at the Community Center with "The Blues Exhibit" playing. The band was a great, and the high school kids thank Mrs. Maxine Cummings for arranging it. We may not say so, but we greatly appreciate the efforts Mrs. Cummings expends.

Some couples attending the dance were Micki Sterling and Norman Tanner; Donna Stewart and Dennis Altman; Debbie Tucker and James McGuire; Natha Jo Mears and Davis Heaton; Darrell Wilke and Linda Justice; Barbe Gilmore and Bill Bevers; Pam Petty and Steve Newby; Sherri Wilke and Dan Eckert; Curtis Abshire and Beverly Allen; Janice Gordon and Mike Scott; Liz Dalby and Randy Hudman; Kathy Jones and Joey Lee; Connie McWhorter and Jimmie Jones. Next year's freshmen also went to the dance, and we welcomed their presence and hope they will continue to come.

For the Juniors of '68 or the Seniors of '69, Saturday was The Day. The Great Seniors of '69 went down to Dodson's early Saturday morning and picked up their beautiful, gorgeous and great Senior rings. However, the freshmen didn't seem to appreciate them, for when they saw one coming, they would run in the other direction. Eh, Kim Owen, Karen Moriarty, Donna Kolb, Diane Slatter, Patti Allison and Pam Conoley?

Good luck to Boyd Noble who left for Wyoming for a summer job. Glad to see Doug Chance, Bo Hutchins, Dick Kennedy, Donny Windham, Duke Altman and Robo McWhirt back in town.

I hope that all of you Seniors of '69 have gotten your rings. I know Debbie Dickson, Debbie Tucker, Debbie Cummings, Jan Bullock, Brenda Lee and Carolyn Ledbetter have. Keep them shining, girls, 'cause we finally made it! I know I must look at my ring in wonder and pride at least 10 times a day.

Well, here comes the end. Oh, yes, don't forget that the swimming pool opened Wednesday. All of you hookey players who went swimming in the tanks during school can now enjoy the public pool. Yeah, Seniors of '69!

PRESTON SMITH for GOVERNOR

VOTE SATURDAY JUNE 1

TO: The Citizens and Voters of Texas FROM: Preston Smith, Candidate for Governor

I am proud to have been a part of Texas government for 18 years. Opponents may harp about what is wrong in Texas; I happen to think there are a lot of things RIGHT in Texas. I am proud of my state and its people.

Things can be even better, and I want to work with you in that direction.

It's more or less in the political tradition to lambast your opponent and say a lot of ugly and cutting things about him. I don't want to engage in personalities; my opponent has no public record to criticize. Therefore I am running for Governor on my own merits.

It may be pretty ambitious for a farm-born, farm-raised Texas boy, who worked his way through Texas Tech and spent his adult years in business activities in Lubbock, to aspire to be Governor. You will be the judges as to whether my experience and proven qualifications entitle me to be elected. I will accept your judgment with real gratitude for your past support and friendship.

Please remember that if I am elected, my door will always be open to any Texan who has any problem whatever that the Governor can help with. I will always be interested in good government. I will always be interested in you.

Q. I am a World War II veteran with a 20-year G. I. insurance endorsement policy that will mature in a few months. Do I have to take the face value of the policy or can I convert this to another type of insurance?

A. You may exchange it for a policy of lesser cash value if you present evidence of good health. However, this must be done before the policy matures.

Q. I was recently separated from service. During service I was treated for a condition that has now flared up again. Can I get treatment from VA?

A. In all probability you can. You should apply to the Veterans Administration for an examination and determination that your condition is service-connected. Once this has been accomplished, you should have no trouble getting treatment from VA.

Q. I am a veteran with a service-connected condition, recognized by VA as 60 per cent disabling. Does this degree of disability entitle my children to any type of educational assistance?

A. No. Only children whose parent is rated by VA as 100 per cent service-connected disabled and who is permanently disabled is entitled to assistance. Such children—and children of veterans who died in service or from service-connected causes—are eligible for War Orphans Educational Assistance benefits.

Vietnam View

as reported by Marine Corps Combat Correspondents and edited by GySgt. Bob Montgomery

Curiosity killed the cat, they say, and it probably gave a rock ape a few hair-raising moments.

The ape, described as about five-foot tall, broad-shouldered and extremely hairy, ventured down out of the mountains to take a peek at the new Ca Lu combat base east of Khe Sanh.

It was late when the ape ventured down—about 2:30 a. m. illumination flares were going off around the perimeter while mortar and artillery rounds were whistling out into the darkness. The whole scene, quite understandably, was probably a confusing spectacle for a curious rock ape just down from the woods to take a peek at what was going on.

With so many things to see, it's easy to get fouled up—and that's exactly what happened.

The unfortunate rock ape became tangled up in the barbed wire fencing around the defense perimeter which the Leathernecks of the 1st Marine Regiment guard. "He was screaming like a son of a gun," explained Pfc. Lloyd Faulkner, 20, of Charles City, Iowa. "He was hung up there for about 15 minutes, then he untangled himself and high tailed it back into the bushes."

Small groups of rock apes have been drifting down from the mountains and approaching the perimeter. They've been setting off the trip flares planted in front of the perimeter to detect enemy movement. They've been rattling empty C-ration cans hung on the barbed wire fencing as alarms. Some apes have reportedly decided that the thing to do is to toss rocks in at the Leathernecks guarding the perimeter.

"You can hear them out there at night," said Pfc. Jimmy Reed, 20, of Chicago. "You can hear them fumbling around and they make this hiccup-like sound. Sometimes you wonder whether it's an ape out there or a North Vietnamese soldier."

"Maybe it's the smell of food from the C-ration cans that brings them around," added Reed.

"Could be that the area here is their old stomping grounds and they want to kick us out," reasoned Faulkner.

"It's probably curiosity more than anything else," said Cpl. John Kennedy, 22, of Detroit, a right guide.

Whatever the reason, the ape that got himself hung up on the barbed wire isn't expected to come back, even though some of his buddies may.

The Masai warrior tribe of equatorial Africa has a new member—a U. S. Marine serving in Vietnam with Force Logistic Support Group-Alpha.

Sgt. L. Slot, Grand Rapids, Mich., extended his tour of duty in Vietnam for six months and took advantage of the Marine Corps' free leave policy to visit Africa.

Kenya, Slot highlighted his travels with a two-week stay with a fierce tribe of Masai warriors near Namanga, Kenya.

Wearing only a loose-fitting red cloth and carrying a spear, the sergeant lived in a Masai village and was made a member of the tribe.

"I had a pack of cigarettes that I gave the chief. This gesture seemed to impress him and he made sure that I was made one of the boys," Slot recalled.

Remembering the many unfamiliar Masai customs, including the blood drinking ceremonies, Slot explained, "The Masai have many seemingly strange traditions, but to really understand the people you must become completely involved with them and do exactly as they do."

A lion hunt was also included in the two-week stay.

"The Masai tribesmen corner the best then wait until the animal springs before plunging their spears, completely impaling the animal by the force of its own momentum," says Slot. "A moment's hesitation could mean a sudden and horrible death. Hunting with the Masai is quite an experience—they are a very courageous people."

Communications proved to be no problem to Slot, who speaks Vietnamese, German and Spanish.

"I had been in Africa only about a week before learning enough Swahili to get along with the people," he explained. Swahili is the most widely used and easiest to learn of

Oil allowable slashed again

AUSTIN — The Texas Railroad Commission has slashed the state-wide oil allowable for the third month in a row.

The June factor was set at 45.2 per cent of potential, permitting top production of 3,485,366 barrels a day. This compares with 3,512,874 barrels during May when 45.77 per cent market demand factor applied.

Major crude oil buyers submitted written nominations to purchase 3,025,126 barrels a day during June, a decrease of 46,143 from May. This was slightly more than the forecast for June demand as submitted by the Bureau of Africa's 600 languages.

Slot joined the Marine Corps in 1965 and received special instructions in basic electronics and radio fundamentals at San Diego, Calif., prior to being assigned as a radioman with FLSG-A's electronic maintenance shop at Phu Bai.

During his 19 months in Vietnam, he has traveled from Saigon to the Demilitarized Zone and has also been to Bangkok for five days. He plans to extend again—this time for a trip to India.

Junior rodeo to be at HemisFair

SAN ANTONIO — For 900-plus Texas youths, rodeoing is the state game during the summer months. Their "world series" dates are June 24-30, when the Texas Youth Rodeo Association sponsors the "World's Largest Indoor Youth Rodeo" at HemisFair '68, San Antonio.

Seven days of competition in the giant HemisFair '68 Arena tests competitors' courage, horsemanship, ability and desire. "These boys and girls really put out in their challenge to win TYRA trophies in bulldogging, barrel racing, calf roping and all the exciting standard rodeo events," explains Gus T. "Pinky" Brown, secretary of TYRA. "Rodeo stock equal to major stock shows assures stern tests. Ownership of a horse is almost a necessity, and hours of training and practice a must between horse and entrant."

TYRA was organized 14 years ago and has grown into one of the most outstanding youth organizations in Texas. A non profit organization, its board of directors is made up of men who are interested in the youth of the state and work untold hours with no compensation except the sheer joy of knowing they are helping to provide a clean, healthy and wholesome activity for boys and girls.

In order to participate in any of the 18 approved shows during 1968, a contestant must be scholastically eligible under the Interscholastic League Rules which govern all other high school sports. Those under high school level must pass two-thirds of their subjects as attested by their school principal.
