Couple loses savings of $1,000 to night burglar

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pantoja, an elderly couple who live at 615 N. Ave. F, lost their life savings of over $1,000 to a burglar who robbed them while they slept early Saturday morning.

Most of the money, in large bills, was in Pantoja's billfold which the burglar took from his trousers pocket while Pantoja and his wife slept a few feet away. A smaller amount of money was in Mrs. Pantoja's billfold, which the intruder took from her apron pocket.

The burglar went to the Pantojas' bedroom and stole the money after entering the house through a kitchen window which he unfastened and from which he cut the screen.

The couple's son, Herbert Pantoja, told The Dispatch this week that his parents told him they had retired shortly after midnight Friday. The billfolds and the money they contained were gone from their pockets when they awoke Saturday morning.

Pantoja said his father told him that there were eight $100 bills in his billfold in addition to some $10 and $20 bills.

He said that for the last several years as the money his father saved up increased he had it changed into large bills which he always carried with him in his billfold.

"I am convinced that the burglar knew where the money was when he went in the house after it," the younger Pantoja told The Dispatch.

Sheriff J. A. Holleman, whose department investigated the burglary along with city police, told The Dispatch Wednesday that he had some clues but that he could not divulge them at this time. Meanwhile, he said, the investigation into the burglary is continuing.

Library trustees abandon plans for federal funding

Public Library trustees at meeting Tuesday night decided to abandon their efforts to secure federal funds for library expansion.

The decision was based on two factors: (1) that an $8,000 minimum annual budget was a qualification for the local library can't meet in the foreseeable future and because of dwindling federal funds for library construction (now $1.438,499 in 1966 to $1,006 last year in Texas) and (2) 30 pending applications of funds, most of them for large amounts.

The board two months ago decided to see if it could work out construction of a new library via a gift or gifts coupled with local funds for half the total.

Requirements include a minimum $100,000 project with a minimum 5,000 square feet of space for a new library building.

After receiving all possible information from the Texas State Library in Austin concerning federal financing and passing the matter to a study by trustees and a volunteer librarian, the board decided federal funding is definitely out of the picture.

Library trustees decided to purchase the major gift idea alone for separate library building on four lots offered by Dr. Harry Tubbs for library construction across the street from City Hall on Main.

No response is forthcoming in the effort, trustees will concentrate expansion efforts on adding to the present library facilities.

Doubling of the floor space in an expansion of present facilities would provide for a library of 20,000 volumes, believed entirely adequate for all of Post's needs.

Trustees see such an expansion project as unneeded for about 10 years.

Bids on paving narrowed to 3

The city council opened and read eight contractor's bids for the 1971 street paving project at a special meeting Monday afternoon, then narrowed the field to the three lowest bidders who are to be re-contacted by Ralph Douglas, city engineer, before a contract is awarded.

Three alternate caliche bids were called for in the specifications and that is one of the reasons the bidders are being re-contacted — to make sure there is no misunderstanding — City Manager Bobby Pierce explained.

The three low bidders and the amount of their bids are: Zahn Pavers, Inc., $63,040; W. D. Turner, $64,155, and High Plains, $64,850. These bids also include a proposed seal coating project, on which the eight contractors' bids ranged from $8,000 to $11,000, Pierce said.

The other five bids on the combined paving and seal coating project ranged as high as $93,450. The other bidders were Jake Diehl, Price Construction Co., Karr Paving Co., Circle Pavers and Thompson Paving Co.

Chamber launches member drive

The first all-out membership drive for the Post Chamber of Commerce will kick off here Friday following a "drive session" for workers at 5 p. m. today in the Reddy Room.

Jim Cornish will head the drive with Mrs. Ruby Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Maxine Marks co-chairmen for the drive to organize a new women's division.

Efforts also will be made to sign up interested farmers and ranchers and virtually convert the Chamber into a county-wide organization.

The present campaign to attract local businesses into its membership on a $5 monthly dues basis will last 10 days.

Circus theme is carried out at Girl Scout event

Highlighting Girl Scout Week, the annual Girl Scout father-daughter banquet was held Saturday night in the school cafeteria with a circus theme predominating. Over 100 Girl Scouts and Brownies, guests and leaders attended the event.

The program included presentation of a silver tray to Mrs. Lee Davis Jr. engraved "Janie Davis, in appreciation for your contribution in forwarding the Girl Scout movement in Post."

Mrs. Davis has served as a Girl Scout leader for six years, as neighborhood chairman for three years and as day camp director and troop organizer.

Decorations, including a cage of "wild animals," carried out the circus theme and also included "clowns" made from light bulbs and balloons. Circus music taped by John F. Lott of Lubbock was played throughout the banquet.

Girl Scout leaders were costumed as clowns and other circus performers to conduct the banquet. The clown make-up was done by Sherrell Wilson of Slaton.

Members of Cadette Troop 331 served as clowns and waiters, with one of the members, Kim Heister, serving as ringmistress. Mrs. D. E. Morris and Mrs. Lee W. Davis Jr. are the troop leaders.

Using the themes "Cinderella" and "The Brownies' Christmas," Junior Troop 5 presented puppet shows with self-made puppets.

Auto licenses plate run now imminent

The annual "auto license tag" run appears imminent at County Tax Assessor-Collector T. H. Tipton's office.

Only about 1,200 sets of passenger car plates had been sold through yesterday morning, which means that 600 drivers will pop into the office for theirs during the last six days.

Direct Distance Dialing scheduled for April 4

Direct Distance Dialing for Post is still on schedule for 8 a. m. on April 4, according to G. T. Hamilton, General Telephone division manager.

"The establishment of Direct Distance Dialing requires certain service code changes be made in order for customers to access the long distance network," Hamilton explained. Effective March 26, to report a telephone out of order Post customers will dial "9" for the operator and ask for "repair service". The "114" service code is being eliminated.

Hamilton said instructions for using DDD are included in the new Post directory delivered last week. Instructions for reporting a telephone out of order are also included in the new directory.

LIBRARY BENEFIT PROJECT

Flower Shower set for April

Post's second annual Flower Shower, sponsored by Friends of a Public Library, as a benefit project for the Post Public Library's construction fund, will be held Friday, April 16, through the following Saturday, April 24.

What's more a second money-raising effort will be incorporated along with the flower selling — a gigantic rummage sale concentrating on clothes.

Decisions to hold the Flower Shower was made Tuesday night by Post Public Library trustees. Mrs. C. K. (Peewee) Pierce and Mrs. Patty Kirkpatrick were named co-chairmen of the Flower Shower and Mrs. Rosemary Chapman chairman of the rummage sale portion of the project.

A committee of the Library Friends will place their wholesale flower order Saturday morning.

Records were kept of the first flower shower, which netted over $250 in profit, and flowers which had little demand here in 1970 will

'Phone service to be improved in rural areas

General Telephone of the Southwest's expansion and improvement programs for 1971 include a major outside plant project for the Post area, according to G. T. Hamilton, Brownfield Division manager.

The outside plant project in this area will be aimed primarily at expanding rural telephone service and making available four-party rural telephone service where eight party is now available.

Hamilton said a major portion of the new rural facilities will be subsurface. Actual construction is scheduled for the fourth quarter of this year.

WIND DIRECTION SAYS 'GOOD CROPS'

With moisture so badly needed, it's hard to believe, but the wind direction at sunrise Monday, March 22, indicated a "good" crop year.

A good crop year, that is, if one puts any store in the old Indian legend—and many do.

Noah Stone, who has been checking the wind direction here at sunrise on March 22 for many years, said the wind was out of the northeast at sunrise Monday.

"That means a good crop year," Stone said.

He checked the wind with a smoke-fire he built on top of the cap west of town.

We hope we have not embarrassed Mr. and Mrs. Freddy Simmons of Dallas, two of our favorite young people, by printing Susan's letter to us as finance chairman of the Broadway Beautification Bunch which was received Wednesday.

You'll find it in the cactus garden story. Needless to say the letter and their contribution to the cactus garden "made our day" yesterday. And we think reading it will "make your day" for all our readers today.

With the advent of the Southwest always-potent tornado season now at hand that old bugaboo — an adequate storm warning system for Post — is back in our mind.

At breakfast yesterday we noted the story from Plainview in the morning paper where that city, which got a tornado "taste of destruction" last year, was investing $27,000 of their own and government funds in what probably will be the most elaborate storm warning system anywhere in the nation.

Plainview, as we understand the story, would not only have a bunch of sirens all around town, but also an electronic network right into all the homes of those who wanted storm warnings.

The plan calls for electronic senders being purchased by the city with the interested householders buying the monitor receivers — similar to small radios at about the same cost. This would enable Plainview's warning center to advise every participating home when danger actually is sighted ap-

CLEAN-UP IMPETUS

The Junior Amity Study Club today announced plans for a month-long cleanup of Post during April and the sponsorship of a "Yard of the Month" contest this summer.

Mrs. Beverly English, conservation committee chairman for the club, told The Dispatch that all organizations and individuals are urged to help in the April cleanup drive.

The "aYrd of the Month" contest will last for four months — May through August — with the study club presenting a plaque to each month's best yard winner to be kept until the next yard of the month winner is named.

Mrs. English said rules for the "Yard of the Month contest" are as follows:

Snail's pace in absentee voting

Only two absentee votes, both in the city election, had been cast here up to 3 p. m. Wednesday, although the absentee voting period for all three of the April elections opened 10 days ago, on March 15.

The absentee voting period for all three elections — city, school trustee and hospital board — continues through Tuesday, March 30.

There are contests in the city and school trustee elections, but none in the hospital board election, in which two directors are to be named.

Mayor Giles C. McCrary is opposed in his candidacy for re-

FROM UNEXPECTED SOURCES

Post Cactus Garden gets money and labor

Contributions came from unexpected sources this week as David Newby with a big assist from the city got work under way on The Post Cactus Garden, a tourist and beautification project at Broadway and Eighth Street sponsored by the Broadway Beautification Bunch and heavily supported by the Post Chamber of Commerce.

One of the contributions was donated labor, the other a $20 check from Dallas to "use as needed" on the project.

When Newby discovered Monday that Green Thumb labor, the federal project work team for beautification wouldn't be available for cactus garden site preparation until this coming Monday, due to a prior commitment, he came up with a husky three-man volunteer labor force of local college students home for the "spring break" from their respective colleges — Dennis Dodson, David Pierce and Steve Newby.

They've been busy all week moving dirt and blow sand and in preparing forms for the pouring of the sidewalks. The sidewalk pouring was scheduled for yesterday afternoon, provided the weather cooperated.

The city had gotten in a plastic water line last weekend and made a city grader available Monday morning in the scraping effort on the site.

The $20 contribution came from Mr. and Mrs. Freddy Simmons, 8662 Willoughby No. 175, Dallas, Tex. 75232, two courageous young people fighting back in life after Freddy was dangerously wounded and permanently disabled in the Vietnam fighting.

The letter to Jim Cornish, finance chairman for the garden project, reads as follows:

"Freddy and I have been following the growing plans in the recent editions of The Dispatch for the Post Cactus Garden, and have had the pleasure of watching (from our distant vantage point) a mere dream grow into a soon-to-be completed reality.

"We're certainly proud of the Broadway Beautification Bunch and the work they're doing! This project will become one more of the many reasons why we're proud

Don Black hired here as track, grid coach

Don Black, who is working on his master's degree at Texas Tech, has been employed as track coach and assistant football coach at Post High School, it was announced Tuesday by Bobby Davis, athletic director and head coach.

Davis, a 1960 graduate of Abilene High School and a 1965 graduate of Texas Tech, has been out of coaching for the past year after having coached at Lubbock and Roosevelt high schools.

The new coach, who is single, will move to Post in July. He said here Tuesday that he is "about halfway" through work on his master's degree in education with a history minor.

DON BLACK

Black was a member of championship track and football teams at Abilene High School. The track team, on which he ran the 880 and was a member of the mile relay team, won the Class AAAA team championship two consecutive years at the state track and field meet.

He played safety on the defensive unit of the Abilene High School football team that won its district championship his junior and senior years and was a quarterfinalist both years in the state playoffs.

After graduating from Tech in 1968, Black coached football and track at Lubbock High School for three years and was track coach and assistant football coach at the Roosevelt High School for two years.

Black is the fourth new coach to be hired for next year at Post High School. The other three are Davis, Joe Giddens and John Alexander, who was hired two weeks ago as head basketball coach.

Motor scooter struck by car

High school student James McAfee escaped with bruises when his motor scooter was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Joe Sanchez at the intersection of Avenue 5 and Main Street about 9 p. m. Monday.

City Patrolman Jerry Jolly, who investigated the accident, said the motor scooter was going west on Main and the car was being driven north on Avenue 5.

McAfee was knocked from his motor scooter, but was found to have suffered only bruises which were checked at Garza Memorial Hospital.

Boosting a community together

George (Scotty) Samson, the dean of Chamber of Commerce enthusiasts here, will tell you one thing about membership drives.

Wait for a big and welcome rain, George says. And, he adds, then get going.

Obviously that is excellent psychology, but the way the weather is going this year it might mean waiting quite a spell for kickoff moisture. If we are now beginning a period of a few years of sub-standard moisture, the membership drive simply might never come off.

It has been several years since Bryan J. Williams virtually single-handedly staged, or should we say waged, an all-out membership effort.

In that period many new small businesses have not been persuaded to join a cooperative effort to work together to boost Post and this area. In the same period, many other businesses, for one reason or another, have fallen out of membership and haven't been won back.

This has left the Chamber with a shinking budget and declining interest.

What is needed today is to re-sell the Chamber of Commerce proposition of boosting a community together, put the new members to work on projects, and begin expanding the Chamber program.

One of the misconceptions which must be swept away too is the feeling that once a board of directors and officers are elected it is their job to do everything. It isn't at all. The Chamber idea is to get everybody to put their money and time into the same organization and work together for community betterment.

This year, the membership effort will be made on three fronts—two of them new, but the third equal, if not more, important.

The new fronts are (1) a woman's division and (2) the first effort in years to bring farmers and ranchers into the Chamber organization and make the cooperative effort a county-wide one.

The women's division is the effort to harness "woman power" and has proved successful in most larger cities and in many smaller communities. The women would sponsor their own projects, control their own funds, and elect their own officers and directors.

Post hasn't had a woman's division before so this will be an organizational effort. Certainly,

There can be too much daylight

Morality—or the lack of it—and taxes have so dominated the current session of the Texas Legislature that the average citizen isn't aware of dozens of proposals in various stages of consideration by the lawmakers in Austin.

One of these would be to take Texas out of Daylight Savings Time.

According to a weekend legislative scorebook this about-face has passed a House committee and is awaiting House action. Should it get through the legislature and be signed into law, it wouldn't come in time—as we understand the federal law—for it to become effective this year.

The federal law provides the legislature has to take the state out of Daylight Savings Time or it continues to apply.

When the whole thing came up, this newspaper it possesses real potential because Post has many dedicated women who have the experience and know-how to get things accomplished.

The effort to expand the Post Chamber into a county-wide organization—the second of the new goals—won't happen overnight.

This will take several years of active work—and not just at membership time either. Farmers and ranchers, if enough of them show interest, will be given immediate representation on the board of directors. Then projects to help farmers and will need to be put on the Chamber of Commerce work schedule as goals for accomplishment.

The all-out support of the Chamber in their grassroots efforts to improve the current federal farm program certainly is one. Sponsoring educational conferences to help with particular types of farm or ranch improvements is another. Recognition of the county's "outstanding farm and ranch family of the year" is a third. It would not be hard to get up a sizeable project list.

The third membership front is trying to sell the Post Chamber of Commerce to all the business firms of Post which are not members. While present Chamber memberships include most of the sizeable businesses here, the out-of-fold list of firms, though many of them smaller, outnumber the membership.

A successful membership drive requires a lot of hard work on the part of the canvassers and a realistic approach to the Chamber of Commerce proposition.

An organization to attract members must offer a program of community betterment worth the admission price.

That is what today's Chamber of Commerce is proposing—a realistic, expanded program which can put every member to work—business men, professional folks, farmers, women and ranchers—on making this town and area a better place in which to live.

If the campaign, weatherwise, is conducted in blowing sand rather than falling rain, it is well to remember too that if "digging-in time" is here again, it is best we all dig in together and work together to do the very best we can.

For those who think they can't afford it, we would only answer that really you can't afford not to try to improve things here for everybody. —JC per favored it.

But as everybody makes mistakes, we admit we were wrong on that one. We were sick of being bad in broad daylight before that first summer was half over not to mention lots of other inconveniences like having the sun in your eyes at night football games in the fall.

Since television programming nationally will end at 9:30 p. m. in the middle time zone now, according to FCC edict, there isn't even the TV argument in favor of Daylight Savings Time.

Let's get back on Central Standard Time and stay there. Too much daylight is too much daylight. And we're much too far west in the central time zone for it to help much anyway. That is unless you like a golf game after dinner every night. —JC

NEXT THURSDAY the Dispatch will be dated April 1 — and that's no April Fool's joke!

The man up the street says a highway cloverleaf is a device that makes it possible to drive some place you did not intend to go because you can't go anywhere else.

HAPPINESS is a lot of things, but here is the latest list I've come across:

Happiness is losing an argument to your wife only to find out later she was really wrong after all.

Happiness is finding out your high school sweetheart looks 20 years older, too.

Happiness is learning the kid who thinks your child is stupid has to go to summer school, too.

Happiness is having your wife try on a dress you can't afford and finding out it doesn't fit her anyway.

Happiness for a wife is deciding the gorgeous, glamorous young blonde examining the empty house next door is only the real estate agent.

Happiness is getting a nasty letter about an unpaid bill when you have just gotten back your cancelled check.

Happiness is getting the kids so mad at you they don't speak to you for two straight hours.

Happiness is rolling groggily out of bed only to find out it's Sunday. Happiness is inviting all your relatives down on a Sunday and they can't come.

Sometimes, happiness is nothing at all — so long as it turns up the corners of your mouth and makes you grin.

Someone else has compiled a list of the most popular excuses, used by workers who are unlikely to become top-flight executives. They are:

1. That's the way we've always done it.
2. I didn't know you were in a hurry for it.
3. That's not in my department.
4. No one told me to go ahead.
5. I'm waiting for an O.K.
6. How did I know this was different?
7. That's his job, not mine.
8. Wait till the boss comes back and ask him.
9. I forgot.
10. I didn't think it was that important.
11. I'm so busy I just can't get around to it.
12. I thought I told you.
13. I wasn't hired to do that.

YEP, IF YOU'RE guilty of any of the above excuses, you stand a good chance of not becoming a top-flight executive. But, you might not give a rap after reading this:

MEMO FOR EXECUTIVES

An executive has practically nothing to do except decide what is to be done; to tell someone to do it; to listen to reasons why it should not be done; or should be done by somebody else, or done in a different way.

To follow up to see if the thing has been done; to discover that it has not; to ask why; to listen to excuses from the person who should have done it; to follow up to see if the work has been done properly at last, only to discover that it was done incorrectly.

To point out how it should have been done; to conclude that as long as the work has been done to let it stay as it is; to wonder if it is too late to get rid of a person who cannot do a thing right, but also to reflect that he probably has a wife and 10 children, and that anyway someone else would be just as bad, if not worse.

To consider how much simpler and better the work would have been done if one had done it himself in the first place; to reflect sadly that one could have done it right in 20 minutes, and that, as things turned out, one has to spend two days to find out why it has taken three weeks for someone else to do the work the wrong way.

Perhaps we shouldn't complain too much about dogs around the school grounds. We wouldn't want some child to be bitten by a stray dog, or by any other dog for that matter, but on the positive side of the ledger is the fact that the dogs are responsible for many cute sayings by the children.

For instance, one little girl who was late to school explained to the teacher, "I was walking behind a slow dog."

And another, telling about her dog, said: "He's a mixed-up kind — sort of a cocker scandal."

'Phone company budgets $96 million for construction, expansion in SAN ANGELO — To accomplish massive expansion and improvement programs and keep pace with customer communications needs, General Telephone of the Southwest has budgeted for 1971 $96 million for construction and expansion, it is announced by L. Gray Beck, president. The '71 budget is 24 per cent greater than the actual construction expenditures in 1970 that totaled $77,413,000.

Accelerated growth and service improvements and greater service offerings are largely responsible for the increased budget, Beck said.

A net gain of 65,700 telephones is anticipated in 1971 which will bring the total telephones at the end of this year to more than 931,000.

Largest portion of the 1971 budget is earmarked for central office equipment and totals $37,750,000. Nine central offices are scheduled for replacement with two of the largest being Grapevine and Lewisville near the new Dallas-Fort Worth regional airport.

Large carrier projects include enlarge transmission lines, mainly in the Dallas metropolitan area.

Twenty-nine smaller projects are scheduled at other company locations.

Twenty-eight other projects provide customers with Distance Dialing, Touch (push button) telephones, check systems which check electronically the dialing signals, thus reducing many troublesome

Library LISTENING POST

by GEORGE L. MILLER
 According to the American Heridictionary, a "paragon" is a example, a model of exor perfection. I had to to be sure, because I just
 "The Paragon" by John and I wanted to know the title meant.

the main character in Edward Al-bee's play "Zoo Story". His one chance at love is spoiled by his self-doubt. Presumably he is a paragon of alienation, neither hero or anti-hero, only the wounded hero—doomed by fate to live only half a life.

Knowles wrote a masterpiece
 "A Separate Peace" about years ago. It will continue to living classic long after our "I'm sure. I expected "The " his newest novel, to be of the same kind of excellit isn't.

Sound entertaining? It's supposed to. It's supposed to be funny, comic and engaging. If it is, then I missed the point somewhere.

Probably the paragon of the Lou Colfax, another in a line of literary college-age up misfits. He sounds like Caulfield from Salinger? in the Rye" except his is his crazy family which didn't have.

Mr. Knowles' first novel was a paragon — a peerless example of a perfect book. This one suffers by contrast. It is clumsily written, its plot seems pointless — although anyone as mixed up as Lou Colfax can probably expect a point less plot — and many times the incidents sound like they came from somebody else's book or play.

So lonely, he even tries to

Herman Hesse won the Nobel

"The Glass Bead Game" was his last novel, and many consider it his finest. It is his summation of his philosophy of life, and a new translation into English makes it available for our enjoyment.

It hasn't much plot. It's the life story of Joseph Knecht, the master of the Glass Bead Game. This game is hard to describe. It is a summary of all knowledge intricately refined and polished into elaborate problems — like an algebra problem worked out on a chess board. It symbolizes the intellectual life of the mind, the highest achievement of culture and learning.

Hesse's lesson is the danger of mind and intellect becoming ef-forced from the real world. His hero gives up the game and returns to society and like a symbolic new Messiah, dies for the atonement of culture and the world.

This is a hard book to read. Its only interest is ideas, and it overflows with philosophic ideas and conversation. But it is beautifully written and will completely engross you if you give it a chance.
 It is well worth the effort.

ARMY CHIEF OF STAFF WILL SPEAK AT LCC

LUBBOCK — Gen. William C.
 Westmoreland, Army Chief of Staff will visit Lubbock Christian College on April 2 to give an address at 2 p. m. dedicating the new Mabee Agriculture-Science Laboratory.

The permanent, masonry facility provides laboratories for agriculture, biology, micro-biology chemistry, and physics. The building is a result of an outright $350,000 grant from the Mabee Foundation of Tulsa, Okla.

book — "Caravan to Vaccara" is about what we've come to expect these days. It has the usual plot twists, hidden identities suddenly revealed at the last moment and repeated descriptions of incredible ordeals that would kill off the average human being. The point of it all, unfortunately, is pretty lame.
 A good suspense novel has to have plenty of chills and thrills in it. MacLean provides them. Unfortunately in his more recent books they don't make any sense.
 The hero's danger is real enough but you can't forget that nine-tenths of his troubles he's brought on himself. You get a good feeling when a hero wins out against incredible odds. But it grieves you when you find out in the end that most of his problems could have been avoided.

Oh well. Anyone who could write as good a book as "Night Without End" may still be able to do it again.

The human heart rests about eight-tenths of a second between each contraction.

 weight boxing crown for seven

Texas Lions League adds diabetic camp to its youth work

KERRVILLE — The Texas Lions League, which has operated a summer camp for handicapped children at Kerrville for the past 18 years, has added a new dimension of service this year with a special three-week camp for diabetic youngsters in cooperation with the diabetes associations of Texas.

League President Everett J.
 Grindstaff of Ballinger said the pilot program would be known as the Texas Lions Camp for Diabetic Children.

The special summer session —
 June 7 through June 25—will be held at the facilities of Camp Mansion near Friendswood, between Houston and Galveston, where a diabetic camp has been operated for the past 14 years.

The diabetic camp will have 110 youngsters, 6 through 16, in the pilot department of pediatrics of the Texas Medical Branch at Galveston, will be medical director. Tom Manison will be camp director.

The Lions of Texas, in order to better determine the need for future expansion, are making a survey of diabetic children who would be interested in the camping program.

Names, ages and addresses of potential campers should be sent to the camp secretary, Mrs. Jo Ann Horne, P. O. Box 1577, Texas
 City, Texas 77590.

TRADING

IN THE EARLY 18th CENTURY, NORTH AMERICAN FUR TRADERS HAD THEIR OWN MONEY SYSTEM—BEAVER SKINS. ONE AND A HALF BEAVER SKINS COULD BUY A SWORD BLADE AND TWO BEAVER SKINS WERE WORTH A SHIRT WITH KUFFLES.

WHEN NATIVES OF THE PACIFIC ISLANDS WANTED TO BUY SOMETHING SPECIAL, THEY SAVED PORPOISE TEETH OR SHELLS. FIVE HUNDRED PORPOISE TEETH WOULD BUY A WIFE OF GOOD QUALITY AND ONE SHELL RING COULD BE TRADED FOR A PIG.

PEANUTS
Peanuts, versatile additions to any meal, can play an important role in daily diet because of their high food value.

Peanuts are exceptionally high in niacin, other B vitamins, food energy and protein. To make the most of peanut protein, serve some type of animal protein food, such as meat, milk or eggs, at the same meal.

To keep peanuts fresh, store in a tightly-closed container in the refrigerator so they will stay crisp and retain their flavor. Peanuts in the shell keep better than shelled ones, and unsalted peanuts keep longer than salted ones.

Peanuts take up moisture readily, so when you want all of the nut's crispness for salads and sauces, mix them in just before serving.

Sharp cuts due May 1 on welfare payments

Welfare beneficiaries in Garza County and elsewhere in Texas late last week got the bad news they had been expecting—there will be substantial cuts in their assistance payments on May 1.

The level of aid will be reduced to Aid to Families with Dependent Children by about one-third, according to Welfare Commissioner Burton G. Hackney.

"The hard fact," said Hackney, "is that no more state money is available under the present constitutional ceiling on welfare expenditures. The Legislature has appropriated all that it can appropriate." The average AFDC grant last month, based on PWD's formula of 75 per cent of "budgeted needs," was $118.

Hackney estimated the average level will drop on May 1 to about $80 a month.

In addition to steep cuts, about 4,500 families will be dropped from the rolls altogether, since at the newly-contemplated 50 per cent level of "budgeted needs," they will no longer be eligible for aid. Their income will meet the "standard of need" PWD must recognize with the limited funds available.

As of last month, there were 87,616 Texas families with 263,809 children receiving AFDC benefits. Rolls for the last five months have been increasing at a rate of about 11,500 a month, according to Hackney.

A proposed constitutional amendment to increase the $85 million a year ceiling on aid to aged, blind, disabled and AFDC will be voted on May 18.

LEDBETTER

Some names that seem plain enough do not really mean what they seem. At first glance it would appear that the surname Ledbetter might originally have been acquired by an ancestor who had been led along the "straight and narrow" path. Actually, however, Ledbetter was first acquired by one engaged in an occupation that is now obsolete—that of "leadbeater."

The lead industry was an important one in medieval England and the many uses to which lead was put made the manufacturer's and workers therein familiar to people in all walks of life. The leadbeater not only hammered out sheet lead for the roofs of houses, but he also made leaden vessels of all descriptions.

Such occupational names as Leadbeater, Carpenter, Baker, Tanner, etc., became hereditary surnames when it became necessary to give an individual a second name to identify him from another person with the same first name. After such names once became hereditary, they were retained by an individual even though he became engaged in some trade other than the one which gave his family its name.

Leadbeater is from the Old English "lead" and "beater," meaning "a worker in lead," and was spelled in various ways after becoming a surname. The name of Ingald Ledbater was recorded in Warwickshire in the year 1221, and a Walter Ledbeter of Heydon was hailed into court at Newcastle-on-Tyne on suspicion of robbery in Scotland in 1256. Thomas Ledbetter was a town official at Linlithgow, Scotland, in 1328 and following years.

Today, Ledbetter is the more common spelling of the name. It is among the 2,000 commonest surnames in the United States, ranking 1,377th, and is the name of an estimated 18,000 persons in this country.

Course on emergency care set at Snyder

SNYDER — Snyder has been selected as the site for a six-night training program designed to give emergency care personnel the knowledge needed to save lives and limbs during that critical period before an accident victim can reach the hospital.

The school will be held the nights of March 31, April 1, 2, 5, 6 and 7, beginning at 7 o'clock at the Police Department in Snyder. This training is open to all emergency personnel in the area.

The program is headed by Dr. Robert B. Pierce of Snyder. The training is offered by the local doctors and the Texas State Department of Health, Division of Civil Defense and Traffic Safety.

Dr. Pierce has voiced concern for the needless deaths and injuries occurring on the highways caused by the lack of proper training of emergency personnel.

The Snyder physician points out that fast ride to the hospital by an ambulance or other means has rarely saved a life. A national study shows that 25,000 persons were permanently disabled last year because emergency personnel were not trained in proper handling techniques. The study further shows that some 20,000 persons lost their lives because of inadequate care prior to reaching the hospital.

Emergency personnel must be able to make a quick survey, determine medical priority, and take the necessary life-saving measures. The school offered in Snyder, free of charge, will provide an opportunity to learn those skills.

Invited to attend this course are ambulance personnel, policemen, firemen, safety engineers, rescue squad members, nurses, public health and civil defense officials, and others who deal with the care of the sick and injured.

Did I Do All That?

By Bernard S. Ramsey

What My Absence from Church Did:

1. It made some question the reality and validity of religion.
2. It made some think I was a pretender.
3. It made many think that I regarded my spiritual welfare and that of others as a matter of small concern.
4. It weakened the effect of church services.
5. It made it harder for the preacher to preach.
6. It discouraged the brethren and therefore robbed them of a blessing.
7. It caused others to stay away from church.
8. It made it harder for me to meet and overcome temptation.
9. It demonstrated clearly the "one" I was for; and the "One" I was against.
10. It made it much easier for me to stay at home THIS SUNDAY TOO!

What My Presence Did:

1. It caused people to have confidence in me.
2. It made people know that I regarded my spiritual welfare and that of others as a matter of great importance.
3. It had a good effect on the services.
4. It made my friends feel more welcome.
5. It encouraged the brethren and helped the preacher in his work.
6. It caused others to come to Jesus Christ and provoked them to pay me the highest compliment any man can receive: "I WANT what this man has!"
7. It made my life stronger for another week.
8. It helped remove stumbling blocks from my weaker brother's path.
9. It pleased God and I was happy and felt good all over.
10. It got me still another wonderful compliment — HE PRACTICED WHAT HE PREACHED!

(EDITOR'S NOTE: For the first time last week since local ministers began writing the church ad messages for The Dispatch as a community service, we got our "bylines" switched. Last week's article, "Someone Can Help", was written by Rev. Bob Ford, not Bernard S. Ramsey. Our apologies.)

PILLOW CONCERT

Tim Bull plays to packed house

Tim (Timmons) Bull, 19, a Post High School graduate, has played to packed houses recently at coffeehouses in Amarillo and Canyon. On March 12-13, he starred in The Changing Scene, West Texas State University coffeehouse at Canyon, playing mainly "James Taylor" type music. After touring with a band from Vancouver, Canada, Bull played in a Dallas coffeehouse and was commissioned to do some back-up music for a movie production. He is currently playing with a music group called "Spirit."

Jodi Cash, a Post student at WTSU, has written The Dispatch a letter concerning Tim's appearances in Amarillo and Canyon. Excerpts from the letter follow:

"This past Thursday, March 11, Tim played at Amarillo College in the College Union building. He drew a large crowd; one of the largest crowds ever drawn for a pillow concert at the college. He played for two hours and held the audience spellbound as he moved them from mood to mood. The audience responded with warmth and appreciation to his music. At the close of the show, everyone sat for awhile in hopes they could hear more. "Both Friday and Saturday Tim held a full house at the coffeehouse here at West Texas State University. Again the audience was held spellbound by Tim's performance. The Changing Scene — the coffeehouse — made one of the largest profits ever made since they have been open. "The citizens of Post should be extremely proud of the talent possessed by Tim. . . If in doubt, ask any person who was so lucky to attend one of Tim's performances. If still in doubt, listen for yourself and I am sure you will agree."

EMBARRASSMENT!

'Red-faced moments' related by students

By Karen Stanley & Vicki Maddox
VICKI MADDOX

Last week we had the teachers' most embarrassing experiences. Now this week we are going to list a few of the students' embarrassing experiences. Hope you enjoy them as much as you did those of the teachers.

Stephanie Davis: "Dennis and I went to the show at Lubbock with another couple one summer and it was the first time I'd been to this particular theater. I didn't know that the seats folded back up if you didn't hold them. I pulled my seat down and sat down, except it was on the floor."

Peggy Bevers: "As I earnestly tried to piece the stop watch together that I had dropped and broken, I looked up and Coach King was standing there watching me."

Elizabeth Martinez: "My most embarrassing experience was one time when I walked into the wrong class at school and everyone started laughing at me. I quickly left and went to the right class, but I was late anyway."

Judy Norman: "One day in English Mrs. Alexander handed me a student's paper. Thinking it was my own, I saw the grade and said, 'Oh no!' Unfortunately seated behind me was that student."

Sue Strofer: "My most embarrassing experience was when my mother came and got me for skipping school."

Debra Mason: "My most embarrassing experience was when I was in the FHA Sweetheart contest. I had to sing a song in front of a lot of people. I was scared to death. That was the first time I've ever done anything like that."

Sherry Bird: "When I was a first eighth grader I walked out of Collier's one evening after school. I was eating an ice cream cone and stumped my toe in a crack in the sidewalk. I fell down in front of some of my seniors."

Ritalynn Butler: "My most embarrassing experience occurred in the fall of 1970 just a few weeks before the presentation of the 'Messiah'. I was in choir and our director asked me if I had called a person he had asked me to call two nights before. I hadn't, of course, and I got chewed out for it. I was in a sassy mood and said something I shouldn't have said and made matters worse. I was properly embarrassed in front of the whole choir and felt like a fool. But then, loyalty prevails between teen-agers and I soon found out that they were on my side."

Becky Brewer: "As I was sitting in class one day with a group of girls, something was said that reminded me of a dirty joke. After I finished the joke and everyone was laughing, I turned around only to see a teacher standing behind me!"

Dee Justice: "One afternoon after school a friend and I decided to pull a joke on one of our teachers. We went over to her house in the ambulance and unloaded the cot with the bed pan on it for her. We both looked like idiots when no one answered the door. A man had been watching us since we had backed up to the door. We told him we guessed that someone was pulling a prank on us. We really felt foolish, especially after we found out that the teacher had been there watching all the time and just would not let us in."

Rebecca Pruitt: "While I was on vacation this past summer, I went to church with a friend for choir practice and as we were practicing the preacher asked me if I was happy. I said 'yes' and he said to tell my face about it. My face was very red and he asked me if I was embarrassed. Of course I was."

Patricia Cochran: "My most embarrassing experience of late was when I got in the car to go on a date and because I sat down very un lady like, I ripped my pants. I had to go and change."

Syan Thomas: "My most embarrassing experience was when I was running downtown and slid under a car in front of some boys."

to name Post, Texas, as our "home town."

"Post and the people who make it the town that it is mean a great deal to us. We can never forget, nor repay, all that the people of Post did for us. As far as Freddy and I are concerned, Post is already very beautiful from the inside. Still, as small as it is, we'd like to contribute a little toward making Post even more lovely from the outside. Please use the enclosed in any way it might be needed for the Cactus Garden project.

"It will give us a good feeling to know that we've repaid a small token to the town that gave us so very much.

"Congratulations to all of you for doing such tremendous work. We're certainly looking forward to seeing the new Post Cactus Garden on our next trip home! Sincerely, Susan Simmons."

Ed Blanton, treasurer of the garden project, reports that as of Wednesday morning cash gifts stand at $303.90 for the purchasing of the cacti plants needed over what has been promised in plants. Several hundred dollars more probably will be needed.

Contributions to date include $7.50 from the Woman's Culture Club, $7.50 from Ira L. Duckworth, $100 from the First National Bank, $20 from the Freddy Simmons, and $188.90 in two anonymous gifts.

Cash gifts may be made either to Blanton or Cornish. Gifts of cactus plants for replanting in the garden may be called to Mrs. C.K. (Peewee) Pierce, chairman of the "bunch" sponsoring the project.

A selection committee will inspect the cacti offered for replanting and arrange for the transplanting in the garden as soon as the garden's site preparation has been completed by Newby — and that means it won't be long.

Flower Shower—

A longer sale period has been planned in advance this time. A year ago, the Shower was extended with no way to inform the buying public of the extension.

An innovation this year will be the opportunity to order shrubs delivered to the home, thus saving an out of town trip to buy them. Friends are planning to show a representative group of shrubs with prices and take orders for delivery at the close of the sale.

Many shrub requests were received last year but due to the large cash outlay for such plants required, friends decided not to risk it. But an order taking system would remove such loss risk.

A downtown location will be sought for the Flower Shower and rummage sale. The decision to hold the rummage sale the same time as the shower was made because of having volunteer help available and thus saving considerable time for volunteer workers if they were held separately.

proaching and to awake those folks by a siren on the monitor system as well as outside.

In stormy weather, folks simply would turn on their monitors and would be given weather announcements as needed. When there was no tornado danger in a thunderstorm they would be so advised and a lot of fear and running would go out of the city's spring season.

We passed the story and paper across the restaurant aisle to City Manager Bobby Pierce who was dallying over a morning cup of coffee before going to work as a lot of men like to do.

Bobby immediately adapted the Plainview idea to Post's own warning needs. "I think we could buy a piece of sending equipment for about $300 to be kept in the police station. Those who wanted storm announcements and assurances in stormy weather that no danger was imminent could purchase receivers for about $29.95 or so and turn them on in stormy weather."

It sounds like a very sensible idea to us to solve an extremely bad communications problem. The present siren sound gets "blown away" in the high winds at least for folks who live out on the edge of town as we do. The wind "has to be right" for us to ever hear the tornado siren in our back yard.

We hope Bobby takes his idea to Mayor Giles McCrary. We admire the way those two get things done in Post and this is something that needs "doing."

There's another new business in Post this week — the local outlet for the Pioneer Oil Company of Fort Worth, which already has 145 such "self service stations" now in Texas and 24 more in Tennessee and Arkansas. The station is located at 504 South Broadway. You'll find Pioneer's announcement ad on page 7 of today's Dispatch. We welcome Pioneer to Post.

Don Davenport talk to Rotary

Don Davenport of San Antonio former Church of Christ here, told Post Rotarians Tuesday luncheon that "there's a different in today's world is un-American."

In a talk entitled, "What's Wrong With America," Davenport made the following points which he made him glad he is an American and provides a base on which to build:

1. Basically American people honest.
2. Basically we have steady government whereas other governments throughout the world have been caught up in violent revolution.
3. American citizens need identification cards as does abroad.
4. You can drive 3,000 miles across one of the most of nations militarily in the world and never see a roadblock.
5. America has a variety of information media everyone can express his views. We are trying harder than other nations to overcome our prejudice.
7. America has a greater degree of God's consciousness than other nations.

He said many young people him off because "they come and are so ungrateful for what do have in America."

Three injured in highway mishaps

Highway patrolmen have investigated four accidents within the last few days, with injuries resulting from three of the mishaps.

Erl Beauchamp of Post received an injured back and other injuries when his automobile turned over about 9:30 p.m. Monday 1.7 miles west of Post on U. S. Hwy. 180. He was admitted to Garza Memorial Hospital.

Mary Snyder Green of Lubbock was treated and dismissed at the hospital here after her car turned over about 6:30 p.m. Tuesday 10.5 miles southeast of Post on U. S. Hwy. 84.

Both accidents were investigated by Highway Patrolman Ken Gilbreath.

Craig Barton of the Pleasant Valley community was treated and released at a Lubbock hospital after his pickup truck and a pickup driven by A. J. Howell collided last Thursday north of Post.

A truck loaded with peanuts overturned near Justiceburg last Thursday. The driver escaped injury.

The Thursday accidents were investigated by Highway Patrolman Gene Posey.

It's the Law...

...ING THE PEDAL PUSHER motorists today are sharing our roads and highways with more than 60 million bicycle riders, and they are as high as ever before, and must be alert to his legal liabilities as he passes his silent and silent companion of the law's Number One Rule is that a motorist must make fair and safe for the vagaries of bicycling. Take this case:

A driver saw a bicyclist ahead of him on the highway, wobbling ably. It seems that the rider was steering his bike with one hand and balancing a rake over his shoulder with the other.

Nevertheless, the driver neither slowed down nor steered to the left. The last instant, the bicyclist fell into his path and got hit. The driver guilty of negligence? A jury decided he was in error for failing to adapt his driving to a danger he should easily have foreseen.

Motorists are not expected to be impossible. In another case also involved a bicyclist that swung across the path of a car. But this time, the accident occurred on a dark night, the bicycle had no lights, and the bicyclist was wearing dark clothing.

Under these circumstances, the court saw no reason for blaming the motorist. The court said he could hardly be expected to notice someone who was so nearly invisible.

Furthermore, the bicyclist himself has the responsibility of handling his own vehicle with care. A rider, pedaling around a bend, fell into a car that was parked on the curb. Painfully injured, he sued to put in a claim against the owner of the car. He based his claim on the fact that the car had been parked in a no-parking zone.

But the court refused to let him place the blame for what was really a bicycle rider's fault. The court said: "A bicycle rider has the same responsibility as any other vehicle operator to keep it under such control as he can avoid collisions. He is not, willy-nilly, run into a standard vehicle and (expect to) recover damages."

WEST TEXAS OPPOSITION
West Texans from this area are bombarding State Sen. David W. Ratliff with letters, petitions, telegrams and phone calls to vote against Daylight Saving Time.

The requests have been arriving at the senator's Austin office so often and steadily that he wants the citizens of his 24th Senatorial District, which includes Garza County, to know his own views.

"I believe that a vast majority of the people do not want to change their clocks every six months," Ratliff informed The Dispatch.

But the senator said he believes it is "in order at this time" for constituents to have "a brief history of why we have Daylight Saving Time in Texas."

"For several years the television networks and airlines had been trying to pass a law in Congress to put the nation on Daylight Saving Time," the senator stated, "but they were unable to get Congress to vote for it."

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

Windham twins make UT starting line-up

Post twins Sharon and Karen Windham, freshmen at the University of Texas, have broken into the starting line-up of the University Interscholastic Women's Basketball Team.

A page feature story in the March 17 issue of The Daily Texan, student newspaper at the University, says that although the Post twins have made the starting line-up, they perhaps are more famous for their Harlem Globetrotter style warm-up.

"Learning the tricks of the trade from Dennis Shidler, an adroit ball-handler on the University freshman men's team, the twins perform a split-the-post drill," the article says.

The University women's team, coached by Jean Dalton, competed in the state tournament at Lamar Tech last weekend, losing to the Texas Tech women's team in the consolation championship game.

The University women's team, which formed in mid-January, practices three times a week. For the first time this year, under official collegiate rules, the women's teams play the new five-man full-court style of play.

A few minor rule differences remain between men's and women's games. Women have no backcourt rule, but unlike men, they are forced to get off a shot within 30 seconds after obtaining possession of the ball.

The Windham twins, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Windham, lettered all four years in high school on the Post Doe team and made numerous all-tournament and all-district teams during their high school careers.

TRACK STAR
Steve Collazo, Baylor sophomore, is a potential threat in the three-mile run and other distance running events. The Post High graduate, who is at Baylor on a track scholarship, has a time of 14:49.4 in the three-mile run this spring.

Bigger Social Security checks coming in June

PCG directors to meet Tuesday at Texas Tech

A. C. Cash and Wayne Carpenter, Garza County directors on the board of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., are scheduled to attend a meeting of the board at 3 p.m. on Tuesday, March 30, in the Harold Hinn Conference Room of the Textile Research Center on Texas Tech University campus, according to Donnell Echols of Lamesa, PCG president.

Preceding the business session of the meeting will be a tour of the Textile Research Center for PCG directors and others who may be interested. The tour will begin at 2 p.m. Following the tour, Dr. Milton Smith of Tech will give a short report on his research of on-farm storage of seed cotton.

Echols said the board would hear a report from the PCG Labor Committee, which is meeting at 11 a.m. on the same day, and would discuss PCG activities in Austin and Washington on such issues as pesticide legislation, set-aside regulations, replanting of cotton acreage lost to hail or other disaster, the level of the loan, Commodity Credit Corporation resale prices for cotton, and sale and lease provisions.

The Lubbock-based cotton producer organization has two directors from each of the 25 counties it represents. All PCG board meetings are open to the public, and Echols said all who are interested in the future of cotton are welcome to attend. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m.

Babe Ruth loop needs managers

The Babe Ruth League is "desperately" in need of managers and coaches between now and the opening of the season May 3, it was announced following a league meeting held last Thursday night.

Volunteers for manager or coaching positions are asked to contact Mrs. Twilight Dudley or other league officials.

Babe Ruth League tryouts for boys 13, 14, and 15 years old will be held April 14, 15 and 16. The player draft will be held the night of April 16, and workouts by the players are scheduled to start on April 19, two weeks before the opening of league play.

The Dispatch was informed of the date by Robert M. Ball, commissioner of the Social Security Administration in Baltimore, Md.

Ball informed The Dispatch that the regular June Social Security checks covering benefits for the month of May will include the new higher monthly amount.

Separate checks, scheduled to reach beneficiaries later in June, will cover the amount of increases for the months of January through April.

The Social Security official emphasized that beneficiaries do not need to contact a Social Security office to receive the larger checks. The payments will be mailed.

"It will take a little more than one month," Ball told The Dispatch, "to re-figure benefit amounts for all beneficiaries, including the adjustment to take account of events that have affected their individual benefit payments for a particular month in the retroactive period for higher payments. These adjustments, totaling about 2.5 million in a typical month, include death of beneficiary, remarriage of a widow, child's attainment of age 18, beneficiary's earnings, and others."

The re-figuring of benefit amounts is being scheduled so as to avoid delay in regular delivery of April and May checks, which will be for the amounts payable to Social Security beneficiaries before enactment of the 10 per cent increase.

By May 1, new records will be produced by computers on magnetic tapes showing the new monthly amount for each beneficiary and the amount of his or her retroactive increases.

Mineral Magic

PROBLEM SOLVED

FIRE HAS ALWAYS BEEN A SYMBOL OF POWER; THE RULER WHO CONTROLLED FIRE CONTROLLED HIS SUBJECTS. PROMINENT TRIBES OFTEN USED A TRIAL BY FIRE TO SOLVE THE PROBLEM OF CHOOSING A LEADER. THE MAN WHO COULD WALK THROUGH FIRE AND EMERGE ALIVE WAS DEEMED WORTHY OF LEADING HIS PEOPLE.

AS A HIGHLIGHT OF THE EARLY FRONTIER MEDICINE SHOWS, PERFORMERS WITH A LITTLE SCIENTIFIC KNOWLEDGE COULD KEEP AUDIENCES SPELLBOUND BY CONTROLLING FIRE. THEIR MAGICAL ACTS USED ASBESTOS AND ITS ABILITY TO STAY INTACT UNDER GREAT HEAT.

TODAY THE "MAGIC MINERAL" ASBESTOS IS DOING MORE THAN PLAYING WITH FIRE. ITS PROTECTIVE QUALITIES SOLVE ALL KINDS OF MODERN PROBLEMS. OUR CARS LAST LONGER WITH RUST-FIGHTING ASBESTOS UNDERCOATING. MODERN HOUSES HAVE ADDED FIRE PROTECTION WITH ASBESTOS ROOF SHINGLES. THEATER AUDIENCES ARE PROTECTED FROM BACKSTAGE FIRES BY AN ASBESTOS FIRE CURTAIN.

Conservationist calls attention to National Lawn and Garden Week

The beauty and utility of plants is one of the topics being stressed during National Lawn and Garden Week March 20-26.

Bailey Mayo, district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service at Post, said the event is being sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the national officers of garden clubs. Lawn and garden trade groups are also behind the effort.

This year's theme "Country Green for City Living" stresses the special values of rural plants which enhance outdoor beauty and improve the environment for rural and urban residents.

"Conservation farmers who plant grasses on depleted rangeland or idle cropland in the Post area do a lot for outdoor beauty," Mayo said. "In fact, sound soil and water conservation on the landscape is the key to a beautiful countryside. Any well managed grassland or farmland adds to the country green concept."

Mayo said Soil Conservation Service officials are using the occasion to invite the public to visit the SCS plant materials center at Knox City. Hundreds of plant selections are being evaluated at the center to try to find improved strains that will solve several conservation problems. He said the best time to see the plants is in late summer when most are in bloom or producing seed.

"Several new grass strains are now in use across the country because of our plant materials work," Mayo said. "Some of the ones being used in Texas include King Ranch bluestem; Greenville switchgrass; El Reno, Uvalde and Vaughn sideoats grama; and Selection 75 Kleingrass."

The kleingrass selection was released two years ago and has proven so popular that more than a million dollars' worth of seed was planted last year in Texas.

With any luck at all your emergency fund may become a vacation, a college education, or a happy retirement.
