The last word in household communications is now available with the introduction of a wireless intercom that can transmit your whole way of life. Whether you want to keep in touch with someone in a detached workshop, garage or similar structure — or you want to keep tabs on a baby's room or sick room — the modern appliance transmits wireless words to the wise.

The modern homemaker — or even office worker — makes a "sound" decision when he or she acquires Arvin's 2-channel intercoms which facilitate communication between rooms, offices, houses and garages — even between buildings using the same power transformer. To amplify on its use, all you need do is plug it into any 110-volt outlet. No wiring is needed.

And because there are two separate channels, you can add a third unit and talk privately between any two stations. Or all three locations can communicate at the same time.

Toning up your way of life, one model, a two-unit solid state wireless home intercom system, features an instant-on solid state chassis, six transistors, aqelch control, pilot light, mounting slots for wall mounting, a three-inch Velvet Voice speaker, an alert signal button, and talk and lock button.

Intercoms provide the ways and means for moderns to get the message. And the many advantages of these intercoms virtually speak for themselves.

Confidence in cotton expressed by speaker

STAMFORD — "With the new law and other things we have going for us, I think we can see a rebirth of confidence in cotton," the chairman of the Board of the National Cotton Council said here today.

Bruce N. Lynn, Gilliam, La., urged cotton people to have confidence in themselves and in the worth of their fiber.

"We also must have confidence in the organizations that serve us at the local, state, and national levels. Without them the cotton industry would be powerless to help itself," he told the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers.

Reviewing the fight for the present government cotton program, he said "I think we got the best bill it was possible to get." The only alternative, he explained, was no legislation at all and this would have meant reversion to the Act of 1958.

The council president noted that producers led the effort to obtain the legislation.

"I want to remind you that the 1970 president of the council was a producer, that the 1970 cotton policies of the council were those developed by the Beltwide Producer Steering Committee, that the Council's fight in Washington was spearheaded by a subcommittee of the Steering Committee, and that producers were on hand at every critical turn in the fight."

"The cotton producer organizations—including Rolling Plains and all the others in Texas—were there in force. In my judgment, producers were never so strongly represented in Washington, or had more to do with the outcome, than in last year's fight."

Lynn stressed that the National Cotton Council for 33 years has provided a mechanism through which the efforts of all groups can be harnessed in the common cause of cotton.

"With all branches of the industry working together we have won a whole host of major victories in Washington," he declared.

He reminded the group that the Council generated most of the thrust in research and promotion, pioneered economic and market research for cotton, led the way in sales promotion, and spurred major increases in private cotton research.

"Along the way we have used the council to set up other major organizations that serve the cotton industry. Among these are Cotton Council International, the International Institute for Cotton, and Cotton Producers Institute — now Cotton Incorporated."

WHAT'S IN IT?

MITCHELL

People named Mitchell were among the first colonists in America, but the name did not rank in the 50 commonest surnames as shown by the first census in 1790. Today, however, Mitchell has climbed well up among the top 50, ranking 35th, with an estimated 345,000 persons by the name.

Most Mitchells derive their name from the personal name Michael, of which Mitchell was the most popular form in England. Michael is a Hebrew name, meaning "who is like God," and he was the patron of the Christian warriors during the Crusades. The name became a favorite one from the 12th century onwards.

Sometimes Mitchell is a descriptive surname derived from the Middle English "michel" or "michel," meaning "big," or as such designated the big or fat man.

Mitchell is the 24th commonest surname in Scotland, and is a long established and very numerous name in Ireland, where in some places it is often a synonym of the Irish name Mulvihill.

One of the first of the name to gain prominence in America was an English-born clergyman, Jonathan Mitchell. After ordination at Cambridge, Mass., in 1650, he succeeded Thomas Shepard as pastor there. The adoption by the synod of the so-called "halfway covenant" was largely due to his influence.

A total of 789 Mitchells served in the American Revolution, including 14 officers of the Continental Army.

Among famous bearers of the name in recent times was Brig. Gen. William E. "Billy" Mitchell, commander of the U. S. air forces in the first World War. Court-martialed in 1925 for his outspoken criticism of the handling of military and naval aviation by his superiors, he was, in 1942, posthumously awarded the rank of major general after events of the second World War justified his predictions of the role of air power in modern warfare.

the current program expires, and steadily increasing textile imports were cited among problems demanding strong representation by the Council in Washington.

He said textile imports are a bigger threat to raw cotton people than to the mills since farmers stand to lose a substantial part of the domestic market — their biggest and best — and they can't afford it.

Lynn stressed that the Council has the only economic and market research program of its kind for cotton. Efforts to expand overseas markets, prevention of unrealistic restrictions on pesticides and textile flammability, obtaining funds for research, and publicizing the over-all program in cotton's behalf were enumerated among other continuing responsibilities demanding a central organization for cotton.

Crop investment insurance gains ground among farmers in county

With the many "ifs" present in today's agriculture outlook, more and more Garza County farmers are turning to the stabilizing influence of crop investment insurance to make certain of a guaranteed income.

Mike Custer, field representative for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation from the district office at Lubbock, says insurance safeguards are now available on cotton in the county to help guarantee a cash return at harvest.

Some 28 crops in the county already are protected by the all-risk insurance with their owners underwriting $126,861 in guaranteed agriculture income no matter what natural hazard should destroy the crops between planting and harvest.

Despite the relatively good crop year just past, losses were paid in most areas of the state due principally to early freeze and insects. In Garza County the insured loss totalled $5,900, according to official estimates.

FCIC insured farmers are using their insurance not only to protect crop investment dollars, but to strengthen credit, to reduce specialization risks, to aid in long-term financing of expansion programs and to allow maximum use of operating capital.

"All these add up to the sound money management farmers need to cope with the changes and uncertainties in agriculture," Mr. Custer says.

Texas farmers pledged more than $3,051,000 in crop insurance protection last year to secure farm operating loans. On a national basis this total was more than $60 million.

Complete details about the insurance program, sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture agency, may be obtained at no obligation by contacting Mr. Custer. He may be reached through the FCIC district office in Lubbock.

What There Wouldn't Be

By Bernard S. Ramsey

Sometimes we forget what the presence of Churches in a city contribute to every single persons who resides there—and these gifts of the churches are available to all—church member or not—ONLY if the churches are there and active. Some times it is easier to understand a positive truth if we consider that truth negatively . . .

So—what wouldn't be here—if there were no churches in Post?

- No church fellowship—and no enduring, most worthwhile friendship-by-product of church fellowship!
- No Sunday Schools . . . one of childhood's (and should be adult's) treasured experiences!
- No praying mothers! Habitual prayer demands the church's prayer discipline!
- No exemplary fathers! It's hard enough for Dad to be a good example with the help of the church!
- No Christian homes! Genuine Christian homes are a rarity apart from the church!
- No sympathy in trouble! Everybody's just got to have that sometimes!
- No justice in public life! . . . as for mercy that too is out of the question!

- No world worth living in! You'd even find it hard to just exist sans the churches.
  - No hospitals! Who cares if you are sick or dying in a churchless community?
  - No libraries! And who could have this gift without a good preacher around to run it!
  - No public schools!—that's right, read your history!
  - No organized charities! Didn't you know most giving in any city comes from church folk?
  - No labor unions!—surely you studied Civics!
  - No honesty in business! . . . or in anything for that matter!
  - No moral training! . . . and no moral conscience for the whole city!
  - No democracy! Democracy and Theocracy are inseparably intertwined! Both mean freedom!
  - No honor in politics! That would be disastrous!
- WORST OF ALL:
 NO PREACHERS . . . what a tragic loss!
- Check it out!—your history book; encyclopedia; Grier's Almanac—ALL THESE ARE THE FRUITS OF THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION!

Career Week is held at Post High School

By ANITA LITTLE

The National Honor Society of Post High School recently sponsored a Career Week for all Junior and Senior students. The program consisted of a number of representatives from colleges around the area.

On Monday, March 22, the students heard from Ralph Thorhill, representing Hardin-Simmons University, and Tom Vestal from Commercial College in Lubbock.

Tuesday's activities were enlightened by very entertaining talks by Don Melton, South Plains College in Levelland; Jerry Baird, Western Texas College in Snyder; Bobby Sims, Angelo State University; and Dick Helms, Wayland Baptist College in Plainview.

Then on Wednesday, the girls attended a very informative program dealing with home economics and nursing. Janis Choate spoke on all types of home economics careers that are available, and Beverly Sutton represented the Mary Meek School of Nursing in Abilene.

Bob McKelvain headed Thursday program from Abilene Christian College. Sergeant Booth, representing the Armed Forces, Sgt. Homer Grantham, air force, and Gunner Sgt. Tom Booth, Marines. These men spoke to the boys concerning possible service careers. In the meantime, the girls went to the library and heard from specialist Sue Davis, representing the Army, and Dannette Jones, who has currently joined the Air Force. These women made it very clear that the women are just as important to

FHA members tell organization's aims

This is Future Homemakers of America Week, and five members of the Post chapter gave the following answers when asked, "What is FHA and what has it done for us?"

Lanita Justice: To me, being in FHA is an honor. I have been in FHA all my years in high school and have been an officer for two years, and I don't regret any of it. Being in FHA enables you to learn new things about being a better homemaker. You meet all kinds of people from all kinds of places and you have fun doing it. Every girl given the opportunity should be in FHA. It is a rewarding experience and will positively be an unforgettable one.

Wanda Heintz: When you hear the word FHA, you just think about your home, but FHA has more meanings than just homes. It also teaches you about your family and social life. This is done so our lives and those of our families may be better tomorrow.

Vickie Kruger: FHA is the learning of a happy home and its surroundings, by the way you live. It is learning for a better tomorrow.

Liz Dalby: FHA has been fun Morris, Jan Burkett, and Judy Heintz.

The sponsors for the trip were Mrs. Henry Wheatley, Mrs. David Malone, and our student teachers, Mrs. Barry Balzen and Miss Cindy Davis. A special thanks goes to Barry Balzen for driving the bus.

going to on Monday nights. It has brought the girls of this club together for many fun experiences. It has taught me many things such as how to get along with others, doing things that seem unpleasant to find out that they are fun, and going with one of your parents and having a good time. I have learned many interesting things from films. I have enjoyed participating in this, because it has helped my year.

Donna McBride: Future Homemakers of America is important because it helps the girls involved find ways to help others and improve themselves. The girls are responsible for presenting two meetings monthly. One is to be a business meeting, with the other for things relevant to our future home lives. It is worth while to any girl interested in getting along with others.

Happy Home Environment WHAT'S THE IDEAL?

■ Most people would agree that the ideal happy home environment must take into consideration the environmental aspects as well as the spiritual and human relationships.

■ In the present state of technology, electricity does its job well when it comes to environmental aspects of conditioning the air in your home.

■ The ideal system, now available, not only does its job of comfort heating in winter and comfort cooling in summer but also refines the air itself. Electric humidifiers control the amount of moisture in the air and electrostatic air cleaners remove undesirable dust particles.

■ So then, 4 things to give you a happier home environment . . . electric heating, electric cooling, electric humidification and electric air cleaning . . . and all of it automatically. Ask your Public Service manager for complete information.

OLYMPIC JET SET

Pedigreed pup, "Waldi" and pretty Lufthansa stewardess Jutta Bayer make a fetching jet set with two things in common. Both hail from Munich, Germany and both do "their own thing" for the 1972 Summer Olympics, to be held in their Bavarian home town. "Waldi" is the official mascot of the XXth Olympiad, while Lufthansa German Airlines has been appointed the Official Airline of that international sporting event. The Boeing 707 in the background—appropriately named "Munich"—is the first of the 67 Lufthansa jets to bear the Olympic symbol.

Gin sponsors fishing trip for customers

By TOMMIE WILKE and if you missed our news last week, another week has gone by well, it was due to the fact that I had gone fishing, Edmund, Darrell and I went to Buchanan Lake and spent five wonderful days. Sherril met us down there Friday and spent the weekend fishing with us. We caught quite a lot of nice fish and had gobs of fun doing it! Wish we could have stayed longer, but as always, we had to get back to work, so we came home Wednesday night.

The Basinger Gin sponsored a fishing trip to Buchanan for a group of their customers last week. The following men and boys went on the trip: Eddie, Glen and Richard Brosch, Lonnie Stabeno, Oscar and Larry Heinrich, Noel Oats, Herman Havis, W. A. Basinger, Stonewall Jefferson. They caught some fish and had a good time loafing.

Rev. and Mrs. C. T. Jordan kept their six-month-old granddaughter Serena Michelle Starkey several days last week while her parents were away taking care of some business. Bet that little gal went home spoiled, because isn't that what grandparents are supposed to do, spoil their grandchildren and then send them home? Ha ha!

Speaking of spoiling grandchildren, we are going to get a chance to do just that! Larry, Martha and Lea Ann will be here this time next week. We are so excited.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Callaway spent a recent weekend at Oak Creek with the "Royal Rover Trailer Club." There were eight trailers there from this club.

Mrs. Vela Wartes, Rammy and Willie Joe Cummings and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cummings and children went to Fort Worth this past weekend to visit with Calvin and Greg Wartes and Joyce Cummings.

Mrs. Mary McKee's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Elam from Montana are here visiting with her.

E. L. Dunn visited here over the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Dunn.

Pat Taylor is in Methodist Hospital and underwent surgery on Tuesday morning, March 30. May God grant him a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Donald Basinger was in the hospital for a week but is at home now. May she continue to improve. Her father, is very ill at present. May God be with this family in their time of need.

Mrs. Betty Sue Pierce from Kingsland, is here visiting with her family and friends. By the way, I said to tell you to keep me your news because the people that she knows, the same way if you moved to some other place? Shall we keep the news out to our friends and especially those that are in some other place?
