

Meeting set to form Chamber women's group

A lunch meeting to organize a women's division of the Post Chamber of Commerce has been set for next Wednesday noon at the Post Chamber Cafeteria by Mrs. Maxine Marks, co-chairman of the organizational effort.

She emphasized that wives of Chamber members are especially invited and that the division is open to every interested woman.

Mrs. Marks promised that the organizational effort will be limited to the noon hour and that during the meeting, the group will be asked to elect its own directors, select projects, establish dues which will be quite nominal, and name a committee to write a constitution and draw up necessary bylaws.

Formation of a women's division of the Chamber was authorized by the Post Chamber of Commerce directors in March.

Dispatch firmly against one of four proposed amendments

A lot of Texas legislators hope "to pull the cotton over the eyes of Texas voters" next Tuesday and take control of legislative salary increases under the disguise of an "ethics commission" amendment to the state constitution.

The occasion will be the special constitutional amendment election at which time voters "who care enough" will make their choices on four constitutional amendments.

Obviously, the legislators who designed the "ethics amendment" as the vehicle for a salary boost, also are counting on predictable public apathy on special amendment voting.

The last time out the South Plains area lost an all-important Texas Water Plan amendment by a paltry 6,000 votes when only 26 per cent of area voters went to the polls and voted 10 to 1 in favor of the amendment which was beaten over in East Texas where the lack of water is not a current problem. Had just another five per cent of this area's voters voted, the amendment would have carried.

In next Tuesday's election on the four amendments up for decision The Dispatch favors three and opposes only the first, or "ethics commission" amendment because we believe it is "unethical" for the legislature to "con" the voters out of a pay raise.

Let's look at the four amendments as they appear on the election ballot:

The insurance stock scandals at the start of the current legislative session, at which a number of the state's top political leaders, including Gov. Preston Smith, made big, quick profits by trading in an insurance firm's stock that the federal government claims was "price rigged" is the basis of the "ethics commission amendment", No. 1 on the ballot.

It reads: "Amending Article III, Section 24, of the Texas Constitution to establish a State Ethics Commission empowered to set rules of ethics for members of the legislature, state officers, and legislative officers; to investigate violations thereof; to recommend compensation for members of the legislature and the Lieutenant Governor; and to recommend improvements and economy in the legislative process."

There is, of course, no denying that there is some merit in the amendment proposal. As servants of the citizens of Texas, members of the Texas Legislature should be required to give an accounting of their stewardship. State officials need an enforced code of ethics and a body authorized to investigate those suspected of violating them for personal gain.

The legislators now are provided a salary of $4,800 annually by the Texas constitution and they contend that this is scarcely adequate to meet present-day costs of living, so the only alternative is to accept outside subsidization which could impair their independence of action as lawmakers.

There are of course some valid reasons to oppose the amendment other than the loss by the people of control of the legislators' salary. The ethics commission as would be established under the amendment is not a strong "watchdog" of conduct in any sense of the word. Its recommendation would be subject to the approval of the legislature, making it obviously just a "growler" not a "biter." The proposed amendment would make the financial disclosures of the legislators privileged information, which means this information would be available only to the commission and never would come under public scrutiny. Thus the people of Texas still would not be able to make individual assessments on the relationship of a legislator's income and its source to the interests of good government.

To us, the legislators are offering a "trade" with the voters slanted heavily in their own favor. It would be to offer an ethics commission in return for the voter waiving his veto power over legislative salary increases.

We think it's a bum deal and deserves to be beaten.

Amendment No. 2 on the ballot would "amend Article XVII, Section 1, to provide that the legislature may propose amendments to the constitution in called as well as regular sessions of the legislature."

We think the Texas Constitution of 1876 is tough enough to amend without the "time factor" included of requiring the legislature to pass such amendments at regular sessions. In an emergency, and they occur with accelerating frequency in government these days, Texas can't afford to sit out the calendar and wait for a regular session to change things. We're in favor of No. 2.

Amendment No. 3 would "remove the limitation on the total state appropriations for assistance grants for the needy aged, the needy disabled, and the needy blind, and set a limitation on total state appropriations during any fiscal year for assistance grants for needy dependent children and the caretakers of such children."

This one probably will be defeated because of long standing public prejudice in Texas against welfare or "something for nothing" as it is popularly called.

Still, consider the fact that funds allocated for welfare under the present Texas constitutional ceiling will be exhausted within a few weeks of today. Unless the amendment is approved, there is going to be an immediate, drastic cut in aid to welfare recipients.

Eighty-six per cent of the total welfare load in Texas is composed of persons well over 65 years of age, the blind, permanently disabled, and school-age children or younger. These are not employable Texans even if there were full employment.

Cuts in the already meager assistance to Texas needy, if the amendment is defeated, will not weed out the freeloader. It will only punish the majority of those who are truly destitute recipients and force them to seek aid from churches and private voluntary agencies as well as from city and county authorities.

Failure to eliminate the state ceiling for welfare is going to cause a lot of hospital districts in Texas critical financial problems, according to San Antonio and Dallas civic leaders.

But the argument most voters haven't even thought of is that if the amendment is defeated, much of the welfare burden will be simply transferred from the state to cities and counties which lack the resources of federal matching funds available to the state.

Voters on this one are going to have the opportunity to test their Christian compassion for the unfortunate. A "yes" is needed to prevent hardship and chaos at the bare subsistence level.

Amendment No. 4 on the ballot would "authorize the issuance of $100 million in bonds to provide financial assistance to cities and other public agencies for water quality enhancement purposes, providing for the improvement and continuance of the water resources program, and establishing an interest ceiling on Water Development Bonds at 6 per cent per annum."

By all means vote YES for this. This has the backing of Water, Inc., Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., and almost every one of the South Plains' leaders who are working toward an improved water future for West Texas.

It was Water Development Bonds which provided the funds to build the White River Dam, but during the recent high interest period the state could not sell any bonds to raise funds to loan to water districts for such water projects because the low interest ceiling imposed made the purchase of such bonds simply uneconomical to buyers. The program came to a two-year standstill.

The amendment also would eliminate the Dec. 31, 1982, termination date for financial assistance programs authorized under the Texas Water Development Fund.

Passage of the amendment would make more funds available to assist local governments in providing facilities to adequately treat and dispose of their wastes, thereby enhancing both the quality and quantity of the state's water. The amendment would also enable more federal matching funds to come to Texas for such projects.

The most important thing about next Tuesday's constitutional amendment election is that YOU vote. Only about 25 per cent of the state's eligible voters are now deciding the issue on constitutional amendments. That is rule by the minority.

But you have no gripe coming if you don't bother to go to the polls.

Post and Garza County won't have many concerned voters next Tuesday. We didn't have -- the city, school district or hospital district elections last month remember.

That's one of the basic problems of our democratic form of government today--lack of voter concern. And that is what some Texas legislators are smugly counting on to win their pay raise. That and a bit of "hocus pocus" in the "ethics commission" amendment that is expected to confuse you.—JC

This is the message that Mozelle Bartlett has left to her husband and family, and we would like to share it with our friends. "If your heart is overlaid with the problems of this life, don't despair or give up trying. Faith can dull the sharpest knife. Seek the Father of all mankind—tell Him of your grief and care. He will give you strength to go on until stormy skies turn fair. Mortals often will forsake you but dear God will see you through till at last your trials are over and again you start anew. Contribute prayer is always answered if you are seeking what is right. From the abyss of depression you can gain the greatest height. To the Father we are children who are bound to go astray but for those who believe in Him, He will always show the way."

There are not ample words to express our feelings to everyone concerned during the illness and loss of our loved one.

We especially wish to express our gratitude to Dr. Tubbs, Dr. Wilson, the Lab Technician, Mrs. Booth, nurses, ones who sat up at the funeral home, pallbearers, the ministers, ones who sent flowers and cards and brought food to the home and church, the musician, choir members, those who donated to the organ fund and heart fund and for the many, many prayers, words of comfort and deeds of thoughtfulness. AGING QUIZ

Could you pass a test on aging? See how much you really do know. Just answer true or false to the following statements:

In our time it is not extraordinary to live 10, 20, or 30 years past 65 and still have full possession of one's faculties.

It is never too late to plan for retirement; however, the earlier the better.

People who do nothing with their leisure time "rot" out their 60's and 70's.

The government feels that aging and retirement are a problem in our country.

In 1961 the first White House Conference on Aging was held.

Older people lend more stability to the labor force.

There are many opportunities today for retired people.

Older people can become involved and can undertake projects without leaving their homes.

Your county extension home economist can use volunteer help.

All of the above statements are true. If you didn't get all of them right, don't be discouraged — there are many unfounded myths or assumptions about aging.

One common myth is, "You can't teach an old dog new tricks." But an "old dog" can learn new tricks, if he wants to. Many Senior Citizens are involved in all kinds of classes; some are finishing high school and others are in college.

Another myth is that additional years of life naturally mean increased disease. Doctors and investigators report that as a person grows older, he doesn't necessarily withdraw and become senile, and that good health is common to many Senior Citizens.

Retirement from work, then does not mean retirement from life. It's best to retire to something instead of from it.

Remember that May is Senior Citizens Month — do something special for the aging persons in your life.

COLD WATER IS FOR DRINKING.

Cold water is a satisfying thirst quencher, but it's hardly what you need to get clothes really clean. With cotton you can use the hot water so necessary to get grimy work clothes fresh as new, white dress shirts really white, and fancy party clothes sparkling clean. For the brightest, cleanest wash in town, call for cotton. And use all the hot water you need.

? Your Name ?

WHAT'S IN IT?
By CHARLES DIDWAY

TUCKER
Tucker is one of the many occupational surnames that owe their origin to the cloth trade. The chief industry in England during the centuries when surnames became hereditary was the weaving of cloth — the woolen industry.

After the cloth was woven it had to be trampled on or beaten in water for hours to soften and cleanse it before it was fit for use. "Walker" is the old word for the man who performed this task, with the words "fuller" and "tucker" coming along later with the same meaning.

The Tuckers are the Fullers and Walkers of the southwest of England. The Fullers are confined mostly to the eastern and southeastern coast counties, with the rest of England occupied by the Walkers, who are especially well represented in the midlands.

In the "Battle Rolls of Sussex" the name Baldwin Tuckere appeared in 1236, and a Wolward le Tukare was recorded in the Assize Rolls of Somersetshire for the year 1243, showing evidence of the early appearance of the name in England.

The name Tucker is found in medieval Anglo-Irish records and has been used in Ireland as a synonym for O'Tougher.

The name Tucker is common in the United States, ranking 119th among surnames in this country, with an estimated 142,000 persons by the name.

The first of the name in this country is believed to have been Daniel Tucker, who sailed from Devonshire in the year 1616 and landed in Virginia. Whether he was the Daniel Tucker who inspired the song, "Old Dan Tucker" is not known.

One of the more well known Tuckers in this country was St. George Tucker, jurist and writer, who was born on the island of Bermuda in 1752. He settled in Virginia where he became a judge of the district court of the United States.

He was nicknamed the "American Blackstone," commemorating his reputation as one of the foremost lawyers in Virginia, his nickname alluding to the renowned English lawyer, Sir William Blackstone.

Rotarians hear history of CAP

Douglas Rohre, a chaplain in the Civil Air Patrol at Brownfield, reviewed the history of the CAP, its goals and objectives in a talk before Post Rotarians at their weekly luncheon City Hall May 4.

He emphasized one of the major projects of the CAP at the present time is to draw attention to the American POW issue in the Vietnam war.

Chaplain Rohre told Rotarians that young war protesters in Washington this week should be attempting something constructive by demonstrating for American POWs held by the enemy instead.

Rohre was accompanied here for his talk by Jim Cloe, commander of the Brownfield Civil Air Patrol unit.

as a primary teacher. She has her master's degree in education and 16 years teaching experience. Her husband is retiring this summer from a position with Texas A&M and the couple have bought a ranch near Post and will move to it before fall. Mr. Potts was a Garza County agent in the mid-30s.

Shiver told trustees prior to action on the IBM typewriters that the machines will be traded in for $200 each after five years. With about 100 students using them each year he said the cost of this equipment would average only $8.80 per student.

Tom Miller, Earle Bruce, and Malcolm Jarrell were the three Pritchard and Abbott representatives appearing before the board to report on their recent evaluation survey of Postex Plant which had been requested by the board. They reviewed for trustees all aspects of the property valuations, said they received good cooperation from plant officials, and said in their opinion the 1970 taxable valuation for the plant was just about right.

As for big oil and gas values in the school district, the trio said the district "can lose a little, but they are holding close due to a few new wells and an oil price increase."

Trustees expressed satisfaction with the well-planned field house expansion project which had been prepared by new athletic director, Bobby Davis, but decided since the work isn't in the present budget to put it off until next year when it can be worked into the budget. Trustees discussed local possibilities for a "professional engineer" which state law will require for such a construction project.

The board approved the request of Edwin Lewis of Southland to transfer his son into the local schools next year by paying the out-of-district tuition charge set by the board.

Trustees also approved a new agreement with the Service Center for film library rentals for the next school year at a cost of $21 per student, based on average daily attendance, and discussed securing one additional member for the school district's board of equalization.

Damage suit filed here by Dr. Tubbs

Dr. Harry A. Tubbs has filed a $6,250 damage suit in Garza district court here against Ray Diekemper, Harry Westmoreland and the Kirby Petroleum Corp. for pollution by spilled oil of a 25-acre farm tract he owns north of Post. The suit contends that leakage of crude oil due to the negligence of the defendants, has reduced the land value of the tract from $300 to less than $50 an acre and that alternatively it would cost over $4,000 to haul off the polluted top soil and haul in new top soil.

City council—

law on city streets. Voted that an assessment paving ordinance be prepared for the proposed second phase of this summer's street paving program.

The $100 Christmas bonus raised voted by the council will go to 17 employees whose work is under the management of city hall. It will be paid employees who have worked for the city as long as one year, with part-time employees and those who have worked less than one year being paid proportionate amounts.

City Manager Bobby Pierce recommended the Christmas bonus increase in lieu of a salary increase and as a method of "holding" employees.

The city engineer reported to the council that strip paving has been completed on Avenue S, 15th Street, parts of 5th and 3rd Streets, Fox, Oak and Jasper streets and at the cemetery.

The council voted to pay the contractor's bill of approximately $33,500 for the paving completed and also the engineering fee.

The engineer said it appeared that from seven to seven and a half blocks would be signed up for the second phase of the paving program, which is also scheduled for this summer.

The council voted to pay the city's one-half of the airport lighting bill after hearing a report on the project from airport committee member Julian Smith.

Smith said lights are being installed on the 3,500-foot north-south runway at the airport. He said the wire for the lights has been buried and "we are waiting on the connectors to put in the lights."

The 10-ton truck load limit on city streets will not apply to work units en route to jobs making it necessary for them to drive over the streets, but is for the purpose of stopping unnecessary short-cuts over city streets by heavily-loaded trucks, the council said.

The council discussed asking the highway department to lower the speed limit on the U. S. Hwy 84 loop going past the Postex Plant from 50 miles to 40 miles an hour. It was also suggested that a large stop sign be erected at the loop's intersection with U. S. Hwy. 380, which has come to be known as "Calamity Corner" because of the number of collisions that have taken place there.

The council also voted to release four condemned houses for demolition. Two of the structures are owned by H. L. Pennie and are in the Bingham Addition. One owned by C. C. Head is also in the Bingham Addition, and the fourth owned by Creed Braddock, is on West 15th Street.

Sales, earnings are reported by Burlington

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Burlington Industries, Inc., today reported consolidated net sales of $446,225,000 for the quarter ended April 3, 1971, down 2.5 per cent from sales of $457,768,000 for the same period last year.

Consolidated net earnings for the quarter were $12,131,000, a decrease of 36.5 per cent from earnings of $19,101,000 for the comparable quarter a year ago. Earnings per share were 46 cents compared to 73 cents for the quarter last year.

For the six months ended April 3, 1971, net sales were $670,257,000 and net earnings were $25,346,000, or 96 cents per share. In the comparable six months last year, sales totaled $907,088,000 and net earnings were $47,851,000, or $1.44 per share.

Charles F. Myers Jr., chairman said, "As expected, business remained poor throughout the March quarter as consumers continued to exercise caution in their buying. Consequently, manufacturing facilities continued to be operated well below optimum levels and selling prices remained depressed. However, there are now some slight indications that consumer confidence is improving as the general economy becomes stronger."

The board of directors, meeting in New York today, declared a regular quarterly dividend of 35 cents per share, payable June 1, 1971 to shareholders of record at the close of business May 7, 1971.

Postings—

(Continued From Front Page) mail rate hikes (letters to eight cents) effective Sunday, and down in Austin the Texas legislature has brazenly voted $900 additional million in Texas taxes. The politicians always yell for business and labor to "hold the price line." Doesn't this apply to them too?

Here's a rather cute believe-it-or-not story with a local twist.

Remember that pretty sign appearing in a front page pix in the Lubbock A-J Monday afternoon. Well, the sign was given to the Lubbock Boy Scouts to advertise their "SOAR Fair" because of the ecology work of Post Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts here three Saturdays ago during Post's all-out cleanup.

Seems a Lubbock ad agency executive was driving through Post that day and saw all the Post youngsters busily cleaning all the trash off the highway right-of-ways. Realizing how much good these boys and girls can do in the current ecology movement, the man decided by the time he drove into Lubbock to make a sign donation to his own Lubbock Scouts.

Doesn't seem quite fair, does it?

Yankee pitchers throw no-hitter

With Jimmy Dorland and Evans Heaton combining to pitch a no-hitter, the league-leading Yankees beat the Dodgers, 15 to 1, Monday night after the Cardinals had dropped the Red Sox, 9 to 3, in Little League games at David Little Park.

Rain forced a postponement of the Saturday night games, and the Yankees' no-hit victory over the Dodgers Monday night was the first since the Cardinals beat the Red Sox, 9 to 3, in Little League games at David Little Park.

The Yankees got 14 hits off losing pitcher Kenny Gilbreath and three hits from the Cardinals, with three in the fourth when Casey Zary walked to lead off the inning, then came around on two walks and a passed ball.

The Cardinals scored four runs in the first inning and five in the fifth in their 9-3 win over the Red Sox, with the losers' three runs coming in the third frame.

Mike Waldrip was the starter and reliever for the Cards, with Kyle Duren relieving him after three innings. Gary Seals, the first of three Red Sox pitchers, was tagged with the loss. His relief pitcher was Larry Harper and Joe Abraham.

The winners got four hits, which were split between Waldrip and Duren, while the losers' three hits were collected by Steve Keene, Larry Harper and Timmy Dudley.

The annual roundup is one of the ranch's major fund raising efforts of the year, providing bread and butter, and shoes and socks money for the boys.

White Sox, unbeaten, lead Babe Ruth loop

Cub pitcher David Conoly allowed the White Sox only one hit Tuesday night, but his wildness proved his undoing and the White Sox won, 8 to 5, to remain undefeated through their first three games and latch on to the Babe Ruth league lead.

The only hit off Conoly was a single by Jay Strawn, but the Cub hurler walked 11 batters, with Cub fielding errors also proving costly.

Rodney King was the winning pitcher, with Cub catcher Macky Sappington getting three of the six hits he gave up.

In Tuesday night's other game, Garland Dudley yielded only two hits in the Braves' 10 to 2 win over the Indians, Randy Josey, the losing pitcher, got both the hits given up by Dudley. Josey allowed only four hits, with his wildness and his teammates' errors responsible for most of the winners' tallies.

In the season's first make-up game Monday night, the Braves outlasted the Cubs, 15 to 11. Steve Sawyers scattered six hits and went the distance for the win. The losers used five pitchers, with Macky Sappington the starter. Other ers seeing duty on the mound were Tony Conner, Joe Clary, Jay Polard and Ray Martinez.

The White Sox beat the Braves, 17 to 6, last Thursday night in a game cut short by the 10-run lead rule. Rodney King was the winning pitcher and Augustine Cerda the loser. King helped his own cause with three hits in five times at bat.

In Thursday's other game, the Indians downed the Cubs, 10 to 2, with Randy Josey the winning pitcher and Tony Conner the loser. The winners got 10 hits, with shortstop Jackie Blacklock getting four of them. Of the Cubs' six hits off Josey, Joe Clary and Randy Babb got two apiece.

'The Beguiled' next at Tower

Clint Eastwood stars in "The Beguiled," showing Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Tower Theatre.

"The Beguiled" is the story of one man and seven women in a strange house. Its startling denouement answers the question of who is really the captor and who the captive.

Co-starring with Eastwood are Geraldine Page and Elizabeth Hartman.

 "By increasing our capacity to expect the best of others — to offer them our trust — we can enrich our lives immeasurably." Do you not agree?
