

We got a very interesting and useful" at our place now. The young visitors from Chile are interesting and interested.

The noon meals are scheduled dinners arranged for each of the evenings.

That leaves breakfast — and we are ordered for cook duty. After we get Mrs. C's breakfast every day after she went to work at the Dispatch many years ago.

Question is: what do folks down here with America eat for breakfast. The theory that they will be more interested in American breakfasts than South American breakfasts, we have "stocked up" just about everything one would like up here.

On this writing (Wednesday afternoon), we have just met the ladies and haven't tackled the first assignment. We'll let you know next week what they like — and how they like it.

When Livingston not only will be bringing up nine years of labor for the Post Chamber of Commerce last month, she will be "handling the arrangements" for her 10th anniversary banquet. That was before she started before that tenth anniversary she had to get one week ahead of her first year.

There is anything a man shies from it is trying to put a lot together, including seating, decorations, menu, program, ticket and a dozen or more etc.

Officers and directors through the years have handed that plate to Helen on a silver platter. Helen has always managed to come up with a good banquet.

When her successor will be no task. There is a lot more to do in a Chamber secretary than ringing the phone. There has to be a "lot of iron" in a Chamber secretary to handle a whole lot of different kinds of situations, and always the agreeable kind either Helen has had that and always retained the ability "to be on when needed." In Chamber a lot of folks who are supposed to be there oftentimes aren't. This is a mighty important part of the secretary's duties.

Way everybody who has shared with her in the Chamber has her the best in her new and coming job.

2,000 personal injury suit filed

Julio R. Luna, 47, former employee of the Jackson Bros Food Store, last week filed a $2,500 personal injury damage suit against the store and its owners in Garza County District Court here for an amount which he says caused the loss of his right eye.

Luna's eye was struck by a hair pocket in a barrel of powder which exploded while he was working some time, according to suit petition, blowing the lime into his eyes and eventually causing the loss of one eye.

Luna seeks $40,000 for loss of pay, medical and physical pain and suffering, and $2,500 for past and future medical expenses.

The suit alleges that someone else incorrectly placed the lime in the barrel causing the air pocket which resulted in the explosion and his personal injury.

Friday, Feb. 12, will be "Drug Day" at Post Junior High School, with an all-day drug awareness program to be presented as a part of the local schools' in-service drug education program.

The program will include three films on drug abuse, talks by a highway patrolman and a Post druggist, and talks by two Plainview High School senior boys who have been drug users.

Miss Kuwaski said the day-long program will also include the playing of recorded "pops" music with a "drug use" theme.

The two Plainview High School

Postex awards contract for expansion of plant

14,000 sq. feet will be added

Awarding of a contract to the W. G. McMillan Construction Co. of Lubbock for an approximate 14,000 square foot expansion of the Postex Plant here was announced today by Vic Slater, general manager of the local Burlington Industries' unit.

Slater said work is scheduled to get under way in the next few days for an addition to the plant's existing weave room facilities and another to the plant's general office.

Expansion of the weave room will enable the plant to install an additional 75 looms, Slater said. "This addition will bring about a more balanced operation between our carding-spinning and weaving operations. This balance, in turn, will bring about increased long-term job security for our many employees," the general manager told The Dispatch.

General office expansions will include offices for the new plant industrial nurse, an Employee Mail Order Store center where employees can purchase all types of Burlington products; a conference room, and new personnel offices.

Mrs. Livingston resigns job as CofC secretary

Mrs. Helen Livingston announced her resignation as secretary of the Post Chamber of Commerce to that organization's new board of directors at a special meeting Tuesday night in the Chamber office.

It will become effective March 1. Mrs. Livingston, who has been secretary of the Chamber for the past nine years, said she will become the receptionist in the offices of Dr. William G. Wilson.

Vic Slater, incoming president of the Chamber, named a three-member committee, composed of Jim Cornish, Mrs. Maxine Marks, and Bill McBride, to screen applicants for the secretary's position.

Persons interested in the position — which will be filled on a "trial basis" — should apply to Mrs. Livingston at the Chamber office. Interviews will be arranged after the Chamber banquet.

Directors hope to meet Feb. 22, select a new secretary, review the work of the Chamber and make plans for 1971.

Directors Tuesday night voted to donate $250 again this year to the jackpot of the Garza County Junior Livestock Show and set their regular meeting times for the third Monday of each month at 7:30 p.m.

Many Post area residents have relatives in the quake-stricken Los Angeles area, but it took more than 24 hours for anyone here to get through to relatives there by telephone. The Dispatch has learned.

Many here tried to telephone a few hours after the earthquake Tuesday morning, but about 6:30 a.m. Wednesday is believed to be the earliest a call was put through from Post.

As far as The Dispatch had been able to learn late Wednesday, no relatives of Post area people were injured in the disaster.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS

Administrators get contract extensions

Post school trustees Monday night extended the contracts of Supt. Bill Shiver, the three principals, and offered a two-year contract to new head football coach Bobby Davis.

Davis' contract, retroactive to Jan. 18 when he went to work here, calls for a salary of $11,100 as athletic director and head football coach.

No salary terms for Principal Jack Alexander of the elementary school, Billy Hahn of junior high, or James Pollard of the high school were offered the board by Shiver.

He told trustees that he was recommending two year contracts for the principals, instead of one, but that he needed to study comparable salaries before making his recommendations. The two-year contracts were approved.

Shiver, who works on a three-year contract, as superintendent did not receive a wage boost but was voted expense money for his out-of-district travels on school

'Ethics' amendment 'something else'

Let's face it. The Texas Legislature is "at it again"—the "it" being putting as the first order of business of this climactic session—trying to get a salary raise for themselves.

We find this very discouraging. For the last several years, one of the constitutional amendments has been a pay boost—because at present the constitution doesn't allow "the boys" to up their own ante.

Each time such an amendment has been placed on the ballot the voters have rather emphatically voted no.

The lawmakers "got the message" and come May will try a new approach.

Of course most of you, or at least some of you, remember the headlines of a few weeks ago reporting decisions on file in a federal court in Dallas in which Gov. Preston Smith, the state Democratic chairman, and several of our highest legislative leaders admitted receiving unsecured loans from the Sharpstown State Bank to buy National Bankers Life insurance company stock which they cashed for a quick profit. (Or at least most of them did.) It all happened in 1969 at the very time the legislature and the government just happened to be considering a state bank insurance bill at a special session called for another purpose.

Well, people already are forgetting this. But the legislature did bestir itself to discuss for a time what sort of ethics they ought to be observing themselves in being or not being a party to such "get rich quick" schemes that just might be interpreted as legislative bribery.

The result of all this—a desire for more money for themselves and the need to shore up, so to speak, their public image via some ethical restrictions—has been the marriage of both objectives into what they call the "ethics amendment" which will be submitted to Texas voters in May for their consideration.

The "ethics" amendment is simply a beauty. It provides for the establishment of an ethics commission of public officials to be appointed by the chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court, the presiding judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals and the chairman of the state Judicial Qualifications Commission.

The commission not only would establish "rules of ethics" to govern all governmental officeholders either appointed or elected, but it would have the power given away to them by the voters to recommend salary scales for state legislators, which the legislators themselves would then have the choice of accepting or rejecting.

In other words, Texas voters will hand their salary reins over the Texas Legislature to judicial officials and the legislators themselves. In return, they will receive a rather skimpy "ethics package."

We use the word "skimpy" because while the "ethics commission" would require all public officials to file financial statements with them, it would not permit such reports to ever be seen by the public. Only the commission would be empowered to see and study these reports and determine, behind a screen from public view, if everything is on the "up and up."

What kind of ethical standards are these? Democratic Sen. A. R. Schartz of Galveston in senate debate on the amendment last week said he had his misgivings about only the ethics commission being able to check up on public officials by seeing the financial reports instead of the public being its own watchdog.

But he admitted he couldn't vote against the amendment because the public wouldn't understand. Voters would say he was voting against setting up ethical standards when he would really prefer much better ethical checks than the ones offered.

A Republican senator told the senate the ethics amendment "is a fraud and you know it. It's not an ethics bill. It's primarily a pay raise bill." He predicted the amendment will be defeated by the voters in May and because of it, other amendments "that are near and dear to your hearts" also will be beaten.

To this criticism, one of the Democratic sponsors of the bill replied that it was only "a vicious partisan attack."

Well, voters in May are going to determine the right and wrong of that argument. The Dispatch believes two amendments—one designed for ethical conduct of Texas officials and the other to raise the pay of legislators—should be offered instead of the present shrewdly "married one."

The voters in choking off a pay hike again in May are going to have to forfeit the obvious need for some ethical standards on the Austin scene, or they are going to have to sign a blank check for legislators as the price for the first half step forward in the field of ethics, Texas style.

That's a lousy choice—and everybody, including the legislators who should be more concerned right now with trying to cope with a lack of enough tax funds to meet state obligations than getting more money for themselves, knows it.

But the reaction back in the home precincts is expected to be a negative shake of the voters' heads—and a lowly-murmured, "Boys will be boys."

It's about time that we get rid of the boys and send some men to Austin.—JC

Young people and drug abuse

Most adults consider the use of drugs a serious problem in the nation's schools. They feel that if it were not, the schools would not be conducting in-service drug education programs such as the one under way in the Post schools and in other schools throughout Texas.

Law enforcement officers have told The Dispatch that at this time there is no serious drug problem as far as Post young people are concerned. We hope it stays that way and we believe the schools' drug education program will help keep it so.

In connection with the schools' program, a drug awareness day is to be held this Friday at Post Junior High School, with a 2:45 p. m. assembly program open to the public. Adults interested in the community's young people and their welfare are urged to make a special effort to attend the Friday program and see and hear what is being done by our schools and our peace officers to protect the young people from drug abuse.—CD

What our contemporaries are saying

There are many forms of pollution, with the major forms listed as air and water. But there are related problems. One of these side issues is the disposal of that everyday item, garbage. Stricter laws govern garbage dumps (or landfills, as they are now called). Landfill sites are becoming increasingly harder to locate, and once located, harder to get approved as a landfill site. As many of the objectors put it, "Who wants to live next door to a garbage dump!"—Aledo (Ill.) Times Record.

The wife who snatches her husband's paycheck can hardly expect the old fellow to continue to say it with flowers and candy.—Holmes County (Fla.) Advertiser.

Driving is a gamble, and the faster you drive the greater the odds against your winning. Whenever we drive we gamble that the other driver we share the road with will always do the right thing at the right moment. We gamble that our car, the road and pedestrians will all do their part. The Bureau of Highway Safety points out that the stakes are high in this gamble—human lives.—Westby (Wis.) Times.

SUNDAY'S SNOW

didn't amount to much as far as moisture is concerned, but very few snows in this part of the country do. There's still no rain in sight, but there is a "little old rainmaker" who says he is going to "fix" that—at least as far as Stonewall County is concerned.

With just one other bone-dry county between us and Stonewall County, we here in Garza will be watching with interest the rainmaking efforts in the Aspermot area. We hope they get a downpour and that there's enough left over for the rest of us.

THE MAN UP

the street says one result of the population explosion is tired grandmothers.

We'll feel the first effects of the new federal "Monday holiday" law this coming Monday, the 15th. Geo. Washington's birthday is Feb. 22, but the U. S. post office and other government offices will move the holiday up to the 15th in keeping with the new federal law.

THIS MEANS

there will be no postal window service or mail deliveries Monday, the 15th, but there will be Monday, the 22nd, which is traditionally celebrated as Washington's birthday.

The "Monday holiday"

law was passed by Congress more than two years ago to take effect this year, 1971. It switches three of eight existing government holidays each year to Mondays and creates a ninth, Columbus Day. Also to be commemorated on Monday, it will fall on the second one in October.

CHRISTMAS WILL

continue to fall on Dec. 25. So far, we are assured of that. Also, New Year's Day, in spite of all, will continue to be celebrated on Jan. 1. Thanksgiving still will be celebrated in November. And as for the Fourth of July, there wasn't a thing they could do about that.

IF I WAS asked to make a nomination

for the most overworked expression in the English language, I would not hesitate to nominate the expression, "Okay." During the Apollo 14 moonshot, lunar landing and other developments in the project, the word "okay" came close to dominating the broadcast conversations between the astronauts and the NASA crew in Houston.

Along with millions of other Americans

I enjoyed the telecasts and broadcasts of the Apollo 14 project, but I would have enjoyed it more if they had just slipped in a few more "Rogers" and an occasional "all right" to cut down on so many "okays." It made the whole thing sound too much like a broken phonograph record.

PERHAPS IT

comes from having read too many science-fiction stories, but I got to thinking while watching Shepard and Mitchell cavort around on the moon how exciting it would be if a couple of "little men" should suddenly appear on the horizon. Wouldn't that have "grabbed" several million tubewatchers. It more than likely would have made many of them cut down on their trips to the refrigerator.

Then they told me deprived was a bad image, that I was underprivileged; then they told me underprivileged was over-used, that I was disadvantaged. ## American Quarter Horse Assn. continues its steady growth

AMARILLO — The American Quarter Horse Association, the world's largest equine registry, has started the new decade with records being set in all facets of the world-wide organization during 1970.

Registrations for owners of American Quarter Horses in this and 41 other countries totaled 90,877, which represents an increase of 37 per cent over 1969.

This brings the total registration figure to well over 700,000 exceeding the combined total registered by the three other leading equine associations.

Transfers of ownership, the barometer of activity within the industry, was up 17.6 per cent over 1969. The transfer total was 107,475, another new record.

The beginning of the new decade also saw the formation of the American Junior Quarter Horse Association as the youngsters held their first annual convention in the city of Amarillo in August. Presently nearly 4,000 youth from 35 states and the province of Quebec, Canada, have joined AQJHA. Past President Lee Berwick, St. Joseph, La., called the event the greatest moment in the history of the American Quarter Horse since the Association was founded in 1940.

The AJQHA will hold Junior Finals Show and annual convention in Dallas this year.

More quarter horses are more people than do other breeds of horses combined. There were 1,520 AQHA sanctioned adults last year in the United States, a gain of 06 per cent over 1969. There were 12,000 youth shown, up 11 per cent from 1969. The total number of registrations over 1969, an increase of 9.5 per cent.

The association will hold its annual convention March 1-5 at the Archer City Hotel. Archer City was established in 1880 as the county seat of Archer County.

It's the Law . . .

PAMPED PEDESTRIANS
 Trudging absentmindedly along the sidewalk, George failed to notice a car backing down a driveway. Result: he stepped in the path of the car and was injured. In short order he sued the motorist for damages, blaming him for driving across a sidewalk without looking.

? Your Name ?

WHAT'S IN IT?

By CHARLES DIDWAY

FLEMING
 Flemings, as the people from Flanders were known, were in both England and Scotland in large numbers at about the time that individuals began acquiring surnames to go with their first names.

The Flemings were particularly industrious people, especially as cloth weavers and lace-makers, and there always seemed to be a supply of them available when from time to time an English king wished to plant a colony or start a new industry.

Not all the people from Flanders who crossed over to England acquired the surname Fleming, of course, but many of them did and the name soon spread into Scotland and Wales and across the Irish Sea to Ireland.

Fleming was one of the early spellings of the name and Lincolnshire records list a Serlo le Fleming around 1150. In Scotland, the name appeared early in its present form. A Baldwin the Fleming having served as sheriff of Lanark in the 1150's the Jordan Fleming was taken prisoner by the English at Alnwick in 1174 along with William the Lion, king of Scotland.

In Ireland the Fleming name took the Gaelic form Pleamonn in early times, but later also became widespread in its original spelling. The earliest branch of the family in Ireland had large land holdings in County Meath as well as other areas of the country.

But at the trial, the motorist said: "I wasn't looking, but neither was he. If I was negligent, he was too."
 However, the court found no negligence on George's part and granted his claim. The judge said: "It is the common experience of tired humanity to become immersed in thought and oblivious to one's surroundings, when traveling in a place of known safety. Therein lies no want of ordinary care."

Not every court would be so tolerant of a pedestrian's daydreaming. But it is true that the law does, by and large, look kindly on the pedestrian. It does not expect the same level of alertness from him as it demands from the motorist.

Nor are motorists the only ones who must keep a lookout for the pedestrian's safety. For example: A baseball team was held liable when a home run, cleared a low fence and struck a passing pedestrian on the head. And the owner of a building was held liable when a loose brick fell out of the parapet and landed on a passerby.

Richard Fleming, who died in 1541, was an English bishop and founder of Lincoln College, Oxford. Two others of the name were eminent churchmen in Ireland. Nicholas Fleming was Archbishop of Armagh in the early 15th century and Thomas Fleming was Archbishop of Dublin some two centuries later.

The British physician, Sir Alexander Fleming, discovered penicillin and shared the 1945 Nobel prize in medicine and physiology.

Fleming ranks 260th among surnames in the United States where there are an estimated 86,000 persons by the name.

HOW TO BUY FRESH FRUIT

As always, the grade of the fruit may be used to some extent as a guide to selection. There is no substitute for your own experience in choosing the right quality. Don't buy fresh fruit just because of low prices. Buy only what you need and can properly refrigerate and use without waste. Keep a lookout for deterioration. Frequently you may be able to buy such fruits at a reduced rate, but the waste in preparation may offset the price reduction. Large sized fruits are not necessarily the best quality, nor are they always economical. Select the fruit for best eating quality. Appearance also may not be an indication of the quality. Buying in season usually means higher quality and more reasonable prices. Pinching and rough handling of fruits while selecting them causes spoilage and waste. Loss to the grocer is often made up by higher prices. When selecting apples look for firm, crisp, well-colored fruit. For good eating, the varieties commonly available are Delicious, Golden Delicious, and Winesap. Pies and applesauce are best with the slightly acid, tart varieties such as Grimes Golden and Jonathan. For baking use Rome Beauty and Winesap. Buy bananas which are firm, bright in appearance, and free from bruises. The best eating quality is indicated when the solid yellow color is specked with brown. Bananas are injured by cool temperatures and should not be kept in the refrigerator. The ideal temperature for ripening is 60-70 degrees. Grapefruit is picked "tree ripe" and is ready to eat when bright. Firm, well-shaped fruits that are heavy for their size are usually the best. Thin-skinned fruits are juicier than thick-skinned ones. A pointed stem end will indicate the thick skin. Skin color is not a reliable index of quality when selecting oranges. Green spots often appear on fully mature oranges. Firm, heavy oranges with fresh, bright skin which is reasonably smooth is the best buy. Strawberries are usually in best supply in May and June, although first shipments appear in January. The berries should display a full red color, firm flesh and have the cap stem still attached. Medium to small sizes have better eating quality than large ones.

Project review is purpose of SPAG

LUBBOCK — The South Plains Association of Governments (SPAG), of which the City of Post and Garza County are members, closed out the year 1970 with a record $32.3 million worth of projects having been reviewed and committed on by the agency. The $32.2 million represents some 51 programs by which local governments began development during the year.

In 1966, Congress passed the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act which required that applications for federal assistance under 51 programs be accompanied by the comments of a regional planning agency as to the relationship of the proposed project to the planned development of the area.

This act was followed in 1968 by congressional passage of the intergovernmental Cooperation Act, that strengthened the regional review and comment process. It requires that notification of an intent to request assistance must be filed with the regional planning agency whether or not the applicant agency is a member.

In order to implement this process, the governor has designated the regional councils as clearing houses and coordinating agencies. Thus, the South Plains Association of Governments has been designated as the agency to review and comment on projects proposed for assistance.

This means that SPAG must be notified of any request from governments or agencies within the area encompassed by Bailey, Cochran, Dickens, Floyd, Garza, Hale, Hockley, King, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Motley, Terry and Yoakum counties.

An analysis of these projects reviewed reveals that 45 per cent of the projects were of a highway nature, 14 per cent concerned comprehensive plans, 10 per cent dealt with parks, 5 per cent were devoted to sewage, 4 per cent each on hospitals, lakes and water, 2 per cent each library, airport, community renewal, transportation, operation-new directions, improvement of district attorney's office, and Bailey County attorney's visitation program.

Every project reviewed was found to be not only consistent with existing or developing regional plans, but were also compatible with the development of the region as a whole.

Since the inception of the organization in June of 1967, SPAG has reviewed and commented on some 70 projects valuing $39,514,827. By acting as the coordinating group for the South Plains region, SPAG has assisted in insuring the orderly growth and development of the area.

As more projects are begun by local governments and as the relationships of the projects become more complex, an even greater emphasis and responsibility will be given SPAG and its project review responsibility.

Install gas air conditioning now?

You should be so foxy

Installing GAS air conditioning now means you'll beat the rush that always comes with the first hot or dusty spring day. While everyone else is waiting for the overworked installers you'll be cool, calm, and collected.

GAS air conditioning cools your whole house quietly and efficiently. You'll save on repairs, too, because there is no compressor to break down or wear out. And, GAS air conditioning cools your whole house for what you might have been paying to cool just two or three rooms before.

So, be foxy. Call Pioneer and tell them you'd like to find out more about installing GAS air conditioning in the winter. A representative will tell you what it will take to include it in your present forced air heating system. You may be able to use the same ductwork for heating and cooling. It costs nothing to get a complete survey of your home or business.

God's Going Catch You Yet!

By Bernard S. Ramsey

The same as any normal grandfather, I just have to admit I have three of the finest grandsons ever (and a granddaughter, I'm reasonably sure about to arrive on the scene). Just like most grandparents I know, we love ours very much and like to lavish our affection upon them . . . and apparently they enjoy the hugs and kisses of grandmother and grandfather—and with considerable moisture they return our affections . . . with one exception. Scott, the oldest, who is quickly coming into that girl-despising age of nine years, has recently sort of backed off and shunned the open display of affection—and sometimes you just have to "run him down" . . . and catch him before he will submit.

I'd say that's a fairly normal attitude for a growing boy, who gets it from his school mates and friends that this hugging and kissing business is sissified. Give him a half dozen years or so and he'll "come around"—if there are any young ladies present. But is it not very strange that God has to treat some folks like we do Scott and often simply refuse to let God love them? He all but has to chase them and catch them to give them a little of his loving. I'd venture to say he has to use such tactics on all of us.

Sometimes we rebel against the way of life to which God calls. We do not want to have to come so regularly to his house of prayer. Like Cain, like the Elder Brother, we don't want to be bothered with being our brother's keeper. We do not want to look on anyone in need as our neighbor. We do not want to love our enemies. We do not want to turn the other cheek. We want to go our own way. Why is it so important we have God's love anyway? We may go so far as to quit the church . . . stop praying, and have nothing to do with God. But the same as Scott, we too need to do a little growing-up—love from anyone, especially God's, is too precious to run from—and no one can go on living without being loved.

But if we live long enough, we come to realize through our own experience that no other community provides the constancy of love and compassion and the continued challenge to be our best selves as does the fellowship of those who gather in God's house of prayer. Then, we are glad to come back—just to be a doorkeeper in the house of the Lord, and LET HIM LOVE US AGAIN . . .

I'm not at all concerned about Scott's sudden aversion to affection—in a few years he'll be catching up on his amorous and osculatory ventures. But I am concerned about your love affair with God—don't you know you need his loving much more than he needs yours? Don't make God have to chase you to give you his love.

UNIVERSITY ORGANIZATION RECEIVES $3,000 GRANT

AUSTIN — An organization of University of Texas students that offers free business consultation to owners of small enterprises has received a $3,000 grant from the Mobil Oil Foundation.

The grant recognized the work of the Community Business Advisory Service (CBAS), in which about 100 advanced UT business students voluntarily participate. The students frequently visit their "clients" in East Austin, many of whom are from minority backgrounds.

Accounting procedures and marketing techniques are among two of several areas in which students lend assistance.

Stephanie Davis is Post High's 1971 'Homemaker of Tomorrow'

Post High School's 1971 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow is senior Stephanie Davis.

Selected for her performance in a written knowledge and attitude examination administered to senior girls on Dec. 1, Stephanie will receive a specially designed award from General Mills, sponsor of the annual education program. Additionally, she is now eligible for state and national honors, including one of 102 college scholarships totaling $110,000.

The national first place winner—the '71 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow—will receive a $5,000 educational grant. She will be chosen this spring from 51 Homemakers of Tomorrow representing each state and the District of Columbia at the close of an expense-paid educational tour of Washington, D.C., and Colonial Williamsburg, Va. Each of the state winners will be accompanied on the tour by a school advisor. Second, third, and fourth place national winners will be awarded $4,000, $3,000, and $2,000 scholarships; the other State Homemakers of Tomorrow will receive $1,500 grants.

State judging centers on scores of school winners in the Dec. 1 test, with personal observation and interviews during the tour added factors in national selections. Second ranking Homemakers of Tomorrow in each state received $500 educational grants. The school of every $1,500 scholarship winner receives a set of Encyclopaedia Britannica from Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc.

All judging and selection of winners is done by Science Research Associates, Chicago, which also constructed and graded the written examination.

The Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow is the only national scholarship program exclusively for high school senior girls. Begun by General Mills in the 1954-55 school year to emphasize the importance of homemaking as a career, it will, with the 1971 grants, have awarded over $1,750,000 in scholarships during the 17-year history. This year's enrollment of 650,000 senior girls brings total participation since the start of the program to almost seven and three-quarters million.

"C'mon—There's a list of your constitutional rights posted above the bath-tub... you can read them while you bathe..."

It's National Electric Week! Is this cause for celebration?

■ YES, INDEED IT IS!

Electricity which has done so much good in the fields of science, medicine, communications, aerospace, and everyday human comfort now finds itself with what many informed persons believe will be an even greater role for the future. Clean electricity, of all man's achievements, holds the key to the solving of the great pollution problems of our time. Electricity will increasingly provide the forms of energy that society will require with the minimum impact upon the natural environment.

■ SURE, BUT WILL THERE BE ENOUGH ELECTRICITY?

You, our customer, have right now all the electric power you need... and we mean to keep it that way. Not only have we provided for additional capacity in coming years, but our long range planning, too, is making sure that you'll have all the power you'll need.

■ POWER FROM THE SEA?

Through the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation, our company, along with other Texas electric companies, has been working in research designed to harness the unlimited atomic energy that's found in sea water.

It's National Electric Week and, yes, it's good cause for celebration!

ELECTRICITY—IT DOES SO MUCH GOOD FOR SO MANY PEOPLE!

School board—

by K. W. Klinkerick; and No. 6 position filled only Monday night by Shriver.

In school elections candidates file for a particular numbered position and to be elected must win the race for that particular position.
Supt. Shriver told trustees that the school lunchroom was absorbing such losses under the state's new free and reduced price lunch program that he ordered an audit of lunchroom accounts at the end of January to determine the exact size of the losses for the board's consideration.

He reported that the school district already has transferred $5,779 into the school lunch program this year from the general fund instead of the budgeted $2,000.

He said preliminary figures showed the school lunch program has lost about $1,409 a month since September with the loss for the year to date approximately $7,000.

While school lunches are costing an average of 62 cents, the state is paying only 35 cents per meal for the 2,079 freed and reduced price lunches served under that program thus costing the school district 27 cents per meal for each of these lunches served.

Shriver named other factors attributing also to the loss.

He said Charles Hicks, of the Texas Educational Agency in Austin has assured Shriver that beginning Feb. 1 the state will start reimbursing Post for the full 82 cents cost of the lunches under the free and reduced lunch program providing an auditor's report indicates this is the average cost per meal.

Trustees decided to try to limp through the remainder of the school year without shutting down the program and try to get some additional financing wherever possible.

Trustees, at Shriver's recommendation, voted to set up a trust fund for the Post Independent School District for those who might wish to give the district money. The funds would be applied to special educational programs. Shriver said that Dr. John Carter has called his attention to the success the San Angelo schools have had with such a trust fund.

The superintendent also received the board's approval to pay going teacher's salaries for instruction for an adult educational course in which the students could earn a certificate equivalent to a high school diploma. He said he had screened applications from the Alonzo Alexander Neighborhood Center and found 10 who can qualify for this type of instruction.

Trustees approved the recommendations of the textbook committee for next year, and heard reports from Shriver on enrollment, now 1179, down 26 from Oct. 12; SRA free testing program for all local students as Post has been selected at random for such testing; service center utilization.

Pops concert is set for Sunday

The Instrumental Music Department of the Post schools will present a pops concert Sunday afternoon in the high school gymnasium.

The concert will be opened by the fifth grade band at 3 p.m., followed by the sixth grade and junior high bands, with the high school band closing out the program.

Band Director Herbert Germer announces that some of the selections will be: "King of the Road," "Gentle on My Mind," "Born Free," "All I Have to Do is Dream," "Soldier Boy," "Selections from Camelot" and "Lara's Theme from the movie Dr. Zhivago."

There will be an admission fee of $1 for adults and 50 cents for students. The proceeds will be used for the high school band's trip to the Six Flags Band Contest in May.

"All Antelope band supporters are urged to attend the concert," Germer said.

County qualifies in CD program

News has been received by County Judge Giles W. Dalby that Garza County's Civil Defense organization has met all major requirements for participation in federal Civil Defense operations.

The certification means that the county's Civil Defense organization will be able to purchase surplus federal property for CD purposes and otherwise benefit in the nationwide program.

Slick Solutions

Even in the most complex modern engineering problems there are simple solutions. For the second time in the past year, bridge operators have made use of a motor oil supplement made famous by auto racing, for some of the slowest-moving projects in engineering history.

The first time, Penn Central railway repair crews sent out a rush call for eight cans of STP to lubricate jammed gears that had hung up a drawbridge and jammed traffic for blocks in downtown Chicago. The gears meshed smoothly in their coating of the super-lubricant and the drawbridge swung into place. Andy Granatelli, president of STP made the Penn Central foreman, N. J. Dal Cerro, an honorary member of his racing team.

The second time, engineers in Little Rock, Arkansas, directed by Webster E. Hubbell, pondered how to slide a new bridge span into place over the Arkansas River after the old turn bridge span had been moved to one side.

The span of the new bridge, 320 feet long, was edged onto 16 coated steel beams designed to guide it across the river. The 16 beams were generously lubricated with large quantities of STP. With pressure applied by 400 tons of hydraulic jacking force, the new bridge—all 1,472 tons of it—slid neatly into place across the river, ready to accept its burden of 17 daily railroad train crossings.

Granatelli promptly sent Hubbell his credentials as an honorary STP racer—bridge removal division

LIBRARY LISTENING POST

By GEORGE L. MILLER

Peter De Vries is not normally my favorite author, but in his new book "Mrs. Wallop" he gave me a delightful reading experience.

This is a day that is hard on mothers. I guess Freud started it all with his theories about the Oedipus. Complex. Novelists have taken up the theme and worn it thin. With Philip Roth's book "Portnoy's Complaint" we reached the height—or depth, depending on your point of view—of mother blaming.

This school of thought runs along these lines. Mom, far from being a benevolent old lady baking apple pies for us, is actually a monster in disguise. She has all kinds of sexual hangups, and passes them on to her son with a vengeance. She robs her boy of his masculinity, stunts his sexual impulses, stunts his emotional growth and turns him into a helpless neurotic with no hope of salvation.

"Mrs. Wallop" is the spirited defense of one such mother, and her quest to solve the problem are refreshingly sane, and a call to a return to common sense.
Emma Wallop begins her story with her discovery that a young man who was a boarder in her home has written a best seller which depicts his landlady as a monster, the typical ogre mother. Emma doesn't recognize herself at all, but later she has her eyes opened.

Mrs. Wallop is not the kind to get her feelings hurt. She fights back. Her way of doing things may not please a few neurotic, but she sees her duty and does it. What else can a person do?

As things turn out, she discovers that the young man was on describing her as a monster when he wrote his book. Now he would like to know why she was so quick to take the blame when it didn't belong to her. She doesn't have to wonder long about that question. Lo and behold, her own son, Osgood Wallop, hits the print with a best seller of his own called "The Duchess of Oblivion," and there she is, painted in venom, for all the world to see.

This novel is printed in full in the middle section of "Mrs. Wallop".

op", and it's one of the funniest books of its kind I've ever read. There are all the kooky complications expected from Peter De Vries and enough belly laughs for three books.
After reading this novel within the novel, Mrs. Wallop get her turn again. It's obvious to her that her son needs some help, and she's not going to leave any stones unturned to help the boy.
She manages and manhandles everybody in sight, and brings about a happy solution for most everyone. At the book's end, she has a new lodger living upstairs busy on his novel, and you know that when this book gets published—which it's bound to be—it will be another best seller, and another scorching indictment of "Mom", depicted in the thinly disguised form of Emma Wallop.
What makes this book such fun to read is the good natured attitude of Mrs. Wallop. She may have sympathy for these poor men who have lost their masculinity, but she's not impressed with the charges that she's to blame for it all. As she says at one point, "If you think your mother is bad, you should have seen mine!"
But for Emma that's not important. So mother's are ogres, so what? There's work to be done, so get with it. It's time to let poor mother have a rest.
I, for one, hope novelists take note of Emma's philosophy. Peter De Vries' "Mrs. Wallop" could be the best medicine we need to cure "Portnoy's Complaint!"

Easter Seal Society has stepped up its rehabilitation work

Because of the steady growth in numbers of crippled children and adults in Texas, the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas has stepped up its rehabilitation services.

According to Mrs. Martha Compton, who is the Easter Seal representative for Garza County, over 21,000 handicapped Texans received Easter Seal treatments during 1970.

"Despite medical scientific advances," she explained, "the ranks of the crippled are growing. This is because of population growth, increased number of accidents and medical treatment which saves victims of crippling diseases who might not have lived in past years."

Quoting the annual report of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas, she said that 20 affiliated treatment centers are in operation in Texas. They include treatment and rehabilitation centers, sheltered workshops, recreation and educational programs, and many others.

"Through these programs, persons with a wide variety of handicaps receive the help they need to live normal lives," Mrs. Compton said.

The largest group served include those with major deformities of bones and joints, severe speech defects, cerebral palsy, arthritis, muscular dystrophy and multiple sclerosis and stroke. The Easter Seal Campaign, which provides funds for continuation of these services, begins March 1 and continues through April 11, Easter Sunday.

Sisters enjoy visits on ranch, in Houston

Mrs. J. P. Manly returned home Wednesday of last week after spending two weeks with three sisters, Mrs. G. E. White of Lubbock, Mrs. M. E. Morris of Slaton and Mrs. W. A. Gunn of the Gunn Ranch near San Angelo.

On the ranch, the sisters stayed in an old-time house where they burned wood in both the living room and the kitchen. They did some quilting, played "42", and did quite a bit of reminiscing on their childhood days.

Since it was a bit too cold for fishing, the ladies drove down to Houston for a short visit with another sister, Mrs. W. T. Shepherd and her daughter, Mrs. Sadie Langley. Mrs. Shepherd and Sadie sent a big "hello" to all of their friends in and around Post.

The ladies returned to San Angelo and visited another sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Sanders, before returning home.

Special election set on four amendments

AUSTIN — Four constitutional amendments have been passed by the state legislature and a special statewide election set for Tuesday, May 18.

SJR 5: To remove the constitutional ceiling on aid to the aged, blind and disabled and fix a $35 million maximum on aid to families with dependent children. A $80 million ceiling now applies to all four categories. Unless it is increased (via the May vote), reductions in AFDC will be necessary. SJR 15: To establish an official state commission to map ethical standards for state legislators and other officials and to set their pay. Critics lambasted the measure as a device of lawmakers to get a pay raise at a time when the public is demanding legislative reforms.

SJR 17: Authorizing a $100 million bond issue to finance state aid to local units of government on water treatment plants.

HJR 21: To permit submission of future constitutional amendment proposals in special as well as regular sessions.

First on the ballot, determined by public drawing, will be SJR 15. Second will be HJR 21; third SJR 5 and fourth SJR 17.

A key proposal of Governor Smith's to tap school land mineral lease-royalty incomes for current spending, (depended on for $80 million toward balancing the new budget) fell by the wayside.

Lt Gov. Ben Barnes strongly recommended that the legislature write a single-year budget which would dilute the tax bill necessary for this year, but necessitate another one in 1972.

Barnes proposed re-alignment of priorities for the use of revenue flowing through the omnibus clearing fund as a way to avert an immediate welfare crisis without deficit financing.

The House revenue and tax bill committee dusted off a sales and cigarette tax bill, just in case.

Abilene Christian College was founded in 1906.

Early registration of motor vehicles urged

AUSTIN — Now is the time for all good motor vehicle owners in Texas to come to their own aid by registering their vehicles early.

The registration renewal season opened Feb. 1 at county tax offices and designated sub-stations. Tax collectors are obliged by law to begin selling license plates on Feb. 1.

The "season" runs through February and March, although the wise motorist will save time and trouble by registering his vehicle early and by using the handy three-part form he received in the mail from the Texas Highway Department.

All one needs to do is to take the three-part renewal application — being careful not to separate the three parts of the form — to the county tax office or sub-station.

Using the new form, it takes the clerk only a fraction of the time that it used to process the form, collect the fee and send the motorist on the way with his 1971 license plates. For that reason, the waiting time is trimmed drastically.

Human nature being what it is, however, many will wait until the last minute to secure their license plates. Texas motorists can count on longer lines toward the end of the season — even though they may be moving faster.

There is an even less painful method. If the vehicle owner desires, he may order his license plates by mail. All that is required is to send the renewal application, the fee plus $1 for each vehicle to be registered to the local county tax office prior to March 1. This allows 30 days for delivery of the plates in time for the April 1 deadline.

Records of the Highway Department's Motor Vehicle Division reveal that 65 per cent of the registrations handled last year were expedited by using the computerized renewal forms.

The outlook for this year is that the public will save even more time in the second year of operation under the new system.

Register now and display your new plates. This will remind your neighbor it is time for him to do the same.

SALUTING THOMAS A. EDISON -BORN FEBRUARY 11, 1847-

When Thomas Edison, the great American inventor, discovered the electric light almost a century ago, he opened the way for one vital portion of America's 19th century industrial revolution.

Electric power today is not only a vital part of our industrial way of life but our farm way of life as well. As we celebrate National Electric Week this week, Lyntegar Electric Co-op points to its achievements in the ten-county West Texas area it serves.

Today it has approximately 14,000 connections with approximately 5,600 members in Hackley, Lubbock, Garza, Terry, Lynn, Yoakum, Gaines, Dawson, Borden and Martin counties.

Operating approximately 5,000 miles of lines, Lyntegar constantly is extending additional service into its area. Some 6,300 irrigation wells are being served at this time, with new ones added throughout the area as the demand is made. Lyntegar currently has an approximate $12,000,000 investment in its electric system.

Herman Dalz is the director representing an area which includes the Garza County operating area.

PAY BILLS
To Enjoy Continued CREDIT

The credit bureau's message to the consumer is simple. Pay promptly. Spelling it out clearly—never let an account go past due without payment or immediate contact with the creditor.

Never allow an account to become an item charged off to profit and loss. This means that the merchant has given up hopes of collecting and has charged your account from an asset in an expense item. The item is automatically recorded in the files of the credit bureau. There it cannot be changed or altered unless subsequent dealings with the same firm results in a better record.

Never allow an account to be listed in the collection department of the credit bureau. Payment in full will result in better credit reports, but the item must remain on file for many years to come—perhaps for the rest of your life.

Your credit record is a picture of your character and has been found to be an extremely accurate guide to your future actions, particularly pertaining to whether you will pay future contracts and debts.

Keep your picture bright and shining and enjoy all the conveniences of the machine age. You can cut off the advantages of credit buying by a reputation as unpaying washings of your merchant friends.
