Cactus Garden completed; newest tourist attraction

Financial report 'just as pretty'

Post's new new tourist attraction — the Post Cactus Garden — was completed yesterday by David Newby, just three weeks after the Broadway Beautification Bunch launched the project, with the financial report "looking just as pretty as the garden itself."

Contributions of cash, cacti and various materials are now sufficient so that all outstanding bills can be paid.

"No more donations are needed," Jim Cornish, financial chairman, reports. "The BBB's thank everyone for his or her help."

Newby had the Green Thumb crew working on the project Monday and Tuesday and the finishing touches on the garden yesterday with the help of one "borrowed" Green Thumber.

The garden, located on Higginbotham-Bartlett lumber yard parking at the corner of Broadway and Eighth street, contains 31 cactus plants, which include 19 varieties.

"We have plenty of space left for later plantings of unusual varieties brought to us," Newby told The Dispatch. He urged Postites vacationing in the Southwest this summer to bring back a new cactus variety with them when they come home.

"We also can use donations of unusual rock now or later, to set among the cacti," Newby said.

Newby is arranging for the painting of two large signs to be erected at the cactus garden site and one for each US-84 approach at the city limits.

They should be up within 10 days.

A system of markers to identify the various cactus varieties in the garden are still to be put in.

Tom Boucher of Higginbotham-Bartlett this week gave the BBBs enough cedar posts to make a very attractive background for the garden.

Ed Blanton, treasurer for the Broadway Beautification Bunch, reports cash contributions received to date total $888.90, including $350 from the Post Chamber of Commerce and $538.90 from firms, organizations and individuals.

To date $556.58 has been spent on materials and plants with Newby estimating unpaid bills, including the cost of the signs, at approximately $300.

The Chamber had pledged up to $700 for site materials Newby said he "hoped the civic organization will spend the other $350 on some other Broadway beautification project."

Bill Mills has volunteered to be the gardener for the Post Cactus Garden — keeping paper and the weeds out and watering the plants as needed.

Newby also reports that C. L. Pruitt has contributed two large pieces of petrified wood to the garden. One of the pieces is a five-foot long log.

FIRST DDD CALL

Direct Dialing is inaugurated

Mayor Giles C. McCrary made the first direct distance dialing telephone call from Post Friday night when he got an opportunity to talk with his daughter, Pam, in Dallas free from the private dining room of Drover House No. 2 Restaurant.

The occasion was a roast beef dinner hosted by area officials of General Telephone Company of the Southwest for city officials, press, and Chamber of Commerce and Post Industrial Foundation representatives.

Gerald Hamilton, Brownfield division manager, had a special phone installed in the dining room for the first direct distance dialing calls from Post.

Following the dinner and a short talk by Hamilton in which he explained details of direct distance dialing and of company plans to reduce party lines in Post rural areas from eight-party to four-party later in 1971, those present were given the opportunity to make long distance calls to any points in the United States.

Mayor McCrary also was presented with a unique letter opener as a memento of the occasion by Hamilton.

General Telephone officials explained that Post phone patrons already have been given the advantage of direct distance dialing rates, so the introduction of the new service—which occurred Sunday—will not mean a reduction in long distance call charges.

To the contrary, they pointed out, phone patrons in the future who do not use the newly installed DDD equipment and insist on an operator placing their calls will be charged a "slightly higher rate" because of the additional expense to the utility firm.

What next, Peewee! Spring has hardly "sprung" and the cactus garden is already finished.

Any ideas or suggestions? A little Easter note to young duck owners-to-be and their parents. When your new little ducks are no longer new or little and you need to "do something with them," just leave them down at the City-County park lake — providing a little water stays in it.

We're told the duck flock, now (See Postings, page 8)

David Newby, the only man we know who is a "community-sized" do-it-yourselfer, has just completed his fifth such project for Post — the Post Cactus Garden — and it's the prettiest one of them all.

He took about three weeks out of his life for this "bit" of community service. David does it all with his community do-it-yourself projects — planning, cost estimating, buying and in the end the work.

When it was done yesterday he had done most of the labor although spring-break collegians, the Green Thumbers, and the FFA boys all pitched in.

Just in case you don't remember David's other do-it-yourself community efforts they were (1) the boarding up of that Main street "eye-sore", the Ameen Hotel, with Jaycee assistance, (2) the Sextuple Oil Well tourist attraction, (3) designing and preparation of the Post placemats for tourists, and (4) the printing of two Post postcards.

Looking over the whole five, you see that David has concentrated upon tourist promotion far more than anybody in town although he doesn't run any tourist business here.

The cactus garden project was completed so quickly and has received such community acceptance and commendation that the Broadway Beautification Bunch now faces a new challenge.

Three new members elected to council

Three new city councilmen were elected here Saturday as a "surprise" development in the annual election, since no major issues had been raised to indicate that "clean sweep" would be made. E. R. (Buster) Moreland, Ed Meyers and Ed Blanton ousted incumbents Lester Nichols,

David Newby and Mike Mitchell in addition to a seventh candidate, J. D. (Fuzzy) Windham, in an election in which only 187 votes were cast. Mayor Giles C. McCrary was re-elected to a second term unopposed. The fact that it was the first time in more than 20 years that a candidate for mayor was unopposed is believed to have been responsible for one of the high election votes ever cast in a city election here. In the trustee election for the Post Independent School District, where a total of 157 votes were cast, Silas Short won over Jimmy Moore for Place 6 trustee in the only contested race. A. C. Cash was re-elected to Place 4 and K. W. Kirkpatrick to Place 5, both without opposition.

Charlie Brown and Sexton Huntley were re-elected unopposed to terms on the board of the Garza County Hospital District, with a total of 117 votes being cast.

In the voting for city councilman, Moreland "led the ticket" with 138 votes. Sawyers received 99 votes and Blanton 95 to win their council seats. Nichols polled 78 of the votes cast; Newby, 60; Mitchell, 59; and Windham, 20.

Blanton, with the lowest vote total of the three successful council candidates, was elected to only

PAVING COSTS SET

Council adopts junk ordinance

City councilmen adopted a junk ordinance and heard from engineer Ralph Douglas what the proposed street paving will cost in one of the more important items on the agenda at their regularly monthly meeting Monday night.

Three councilmen-elect, fresh from victory in Saturday's city election and scheduled to be sworn into office later in the week, sat on the sidelines" at Monday night's meeting. Another visitor was Linda Josey, a sophomore resident at West Texas State University, who attended the meeting as a college class assignment.

The junk yard ordinance adopted regulates "the operation of places used or maintained as junk yards or dumping grounds, or for the stacking or dissembling of automobiles, trucks, tractors, or machinery of any kind . . . or for the accumulation of rubbish of any description. . . ."

The ordinance provides for a $5 annual license fee, for the premises to be kept in a neat and orderly condition, and for a board or metal fence to enclose the junk yard.

The ordinance also prescribes a penalty for the violation of the terms of the ordinance, the penalty being a fine of not more than $100 or less than $10.

The measure further states that "any existing business of this character now being operated and maintained . . . shall be allowed six months within which to construct a fence of the kind and character required."

The city engineer told the council that $5.85 per linear foot would be the cost of paving in the second phase of the paving program, for which sign-ups are now being sought from property owners.

Of the $5.85 per foot cost, $4.40 will be the property owner's share and $1.45 the city's share. The $4.40 paid by the property owner will include both paving and curbs

Rites conducted for Will Teaff

Funeral services for James William (Will) Teaff, 82, retired farmer of the Close City community, were held at 10 a.m. Monday in the First Baptist Church here and at 2 p.m. in the Tye Baptist Church near Abilene.

Born May 2, 1888, in Coryell County, he was married to Nancy Catherine Maddox in 1913 at Meridian. They moved to Garza County in 1925, settling in the Close City community where they have lived since. Teaff retired from farming about eight years ago. He was a member of the Friendship Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife; four sons, Howard and Roy Teaff, both of Post, and B. Teaff of Sweetwater and Audie Vee Teaff of Lubbock; five daughters, Mrs. Eva Lee Roberts of Houston, Mrs. Irene Cockrell of Post, Mrs. Sybil Watson of

Shiver outlines new planning procedure here

Post's Public Schools are knee deep in "educational planning"—in fact, the local school system is the only one in Texas today which has adopted PPBS to put a price tag on every educational unit by cost study methods — Supt. of Schools Bill Shiver told Post Rotarians at their weekly luncheon in City Hall Tuesday.

The school administrator said that "the extremely high cost of education and a faltering national economy have worked together to cause high level business management to carefully analyze educational institutions and coerce needed changes."

He said such studies have shown that a "general framework for educational planning" was lacking in local school districts.

From these studies have come the concept of "portraying school activities as a system, thus integrating curriculum planning with financial administration." Shiver emphasized.

Shiver said Post schools have been involved in various kinds of long range planning "for several years" and cited several instances in which such planning already has produced beneficial results.

The superintendent said five years ago a professional engineer was employed by school trustees to go through the physical plant and determine needed repairs.

He said such repairs were programmed according to their immediate and long range importance and already more than $100,000 has been spent correcting such deficiencies with the schools now

Chamber drive nearing goal

The 1971 membership drive of the Post Chamber of Commerce is moving into its weekend cleanup stage today with $1,386 in new dues revenue pledged toward the drive's $1,764.36 goal.

Thirteen new business and ranch memberships and 21 new individual memberships already have been secured.

Jim Cornish, drive chairman, urged workers to complete the their contacts with prospects and turn in their results at the Chamber office by Friday.

Cornish termed the $1,764.36 "within reach." All new membership funds obtained, according to the organization's new budget, will be spent on projects this year.

Rites set today for Mrs. Everett

Last rites for Mrs. Lillie Mae Everett of 216 West 11th St., a resident of Post for 64 years, will be held at 2 p.m. today (Thursday) at the First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Everett, who would have reached her 88th birthday Friday, died about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday in Garza Memorial Hospital where she had been a patient two days.

She was born April 9, 1883, at Meridian, Tex., and was married to C. B. (Charlie) Everett on Oct. 3, 1897, at Meridian. They moved to Post from Bosque County June 5, 1907. Mr. Everett died April 8, 1957.

Mrs. Everett was a longtime member of the First Baptist Church and of the Order of Eastern Star.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Clarence George of Alexandria, La., and Mrs. W. L. (Dick) Wood of Post; 10 grandchildren, 25 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

The Rev. A. C. Hardin, interim pastor of the First Baptist Church, will officiate at the funeral services. Burial will be in Terrace Cemetery under the direction of Mason Funeral Home.

Pallbearers will be Jimmie Redman, T. C. Polk, Robert Cox, Paul Jones, Bob Collier and Gene Moore.

POSTEX PLANT BOOKKEEPER

Retires from 'temporary' job

FOR 40 YEARS SERVICE . . .

Thelma Clark, a Postex Plant bookkeeper, is presented a retirement pin by Vic Slater, general manager, upon her retirement last Friday. On the left, she is being honored by Miss Clark and served along with other refreshments at a party in her honor Friday afternoon.

Miss Thelma Clark retired last Friday as a bookkeeper at the Postex Plant after 40 years on a job that was to have been only "temporary" when she took it.

The textile plant was owned by the Post Estate when Miss Clark began work there on Aug. 7, 1931. She was employed in the payroll department for several years, then invoicing, bookkeeping and as office manager for eight years before returning to bookkeeping.

What have been some of the highlights of Miss Clark's 40 years with Postex?

"Well, one of the highlights just happened," she said. "It was when I received my 40-year service pin."

The pin was presented Miss Clark by Postex General Manager Vic Slater at a retirement party last Friday afternoon attended by office manager Charles Adams and other office employees.

Other highlights have included changes of ownership, with different companies buying the plant, bringing new management and new benefits, and especially when Burlington Industries took over. Miss Clark commented,

"The plans for the future include . . ."

Harold Voss of Post and Margie a Hoteling and Doris Clark of Lubbock. She also plans to travel some.

Born five miles from Flat Top Mountain, between Post and Snyder, Miss Clark lived east of Plevanna until moving to Post in 1933. Refreshments served at the party. (See Thelma Clark, page 8)

Case of constitutional confusion

With the city, school trustee and hospital board elections now history, Post voters can look ahead to May 18 when they go to the polls to decide the fate of four proposed constitutional amendments.

By holding the election in May, Texans will be getting the jump on residents of the 49 other states in the next lap of the constitutional amendment sweepstakes.

The necessity of continual revision of state constitutions emphasizes the flaws in these charters.

In 1970, voters in 42 states were presented 336 proposed amendments, according to a study by the National Municipal League. Of the 328 amendments proposed by the legislatures, 222 dealt with statewide problems and 106 concerned local issues. A preliminary report indicates that 130 of the statewide amendments were approved.

including 5 of 7 proposed in Texas.

Most amendments dealt with subjects that would more appropriately be legislative or administrative matters. But because most state constitutions, like Texas' anachronism, are too restrictive, prohibiting rather than encouraging government action, amendments were required.

The danger of constitutional amendments is that important issues are decided by the whims or prejudices of a small number of uninformed voters. Despite media efforts, including publication in nearly every newspaper in Texas, many voters do not even know what the amendments are about.

Texas, like most other states, needs a new constitution to make government more flexible, and to avoid frequent statewide votes on issues more appropriately handled by elected officials. Texas should be the next state to rewrite its constitution.—CD

Big start on clean-up campaign

The mayor's designation of April as "Clean-up Month" couldn't have come at a better time. It finds a number of organizations and individuals either already at work or getting ready to go to work on clean-up and beautification projects.

The Cactus Garden on South Broadway, which is the No. 1 project of the newly-organized Broadway Beautification Bunch, is nearing completion, thanks to the cooperation of many, including a number who have contributed cash or money for its purchase. And the labor needs at the burgeoning beauty spot have been taken care of by David Newby and the county's Green Thumb crew.

Last week, the Woman's Culture Club announced that it is joining the clean-up campaign through its entry in Shell Oil Company's Environmental Responsibility Contest. Earlier, the Junior Amity Study Club announced plans for its Yard of the Month contest.

With so many organizations already at work, it remains only for the individual citizens to do their part the rest of this month to make Clean-up Month a success. The main job, if they want to join the parade, is to clean up, paint up and fix up about their homes the next few weeks.

This is one year in which it shouldn't take much effort to make a big success of a clean-up campaign—not with the running start we already have.

Easter a day of civilizing influence

Easter is a day of civilizing influence. It is merely one day out of 365, but it is a day that expresses the way we should live throughout the year—in humble respect for the unseen power that guides our lives.

All of the ways in which Easter is observed hold a certain humility—as they should. If the lesson taught by Easter could remain with us every day of the year, many of the world's problems would be solved.

Easter customs, as we practice them in the U. S. today, are a singular tribute to the spirit of Easter and to the quiet freshness of a Spring morning when one can almost feel, for a few hours, the pervading sense of tranquility and consideration of our fellowman that 2,000 years ago released humanity from the bondage of sheer barbarism.

Utopia is the dream of idealists and not to be attained. But the next best thing in making this the best of all possible worlds would be to live every day as if that day were Easter.

What our contemporaries are saying

No matter how compulsively Americans spend money, it's not likely they will be able to deplete the government's supply. Printers in the treasury at Washington daily combine 40,000 pounds of paper with two and a half tons of ink to produce $50 million in currency.—Grayville, Ill. Mercury-Independent.

Margaret Mead, who has written a book on "Culture and Commitment," claims voters people of today are just too smart for their elders and this is the "generation gap." I'll admit most young people really believe that, and will not be convinced otherwise. Not until they attain maturity, a family, children and real responsibility. Then the gap narrows considerably.—Covington, La. St. Tammany Farmer.

We'll see that for inflation. It solved the problem of what to do with our raise.—McKinzie County Farmer, Watford City, N. D.

Hudman Funeral Home

LAST THURSDAY was April Fool's Day, but the Texas Daily Newspaper Association wasn't trying to play an April Fool's joke when it suggested headlines for seven stories that could be, and probably should be, written. The suggested headlines were:

1. Seven and a Quarter Million College Students Did Not Riot Last Week.
2. Most Nations Were at Peace This Week.
3. Americans Have Money Left After Taxes.
4. The Bible Is Still the Best Seller.
5. Hippies are 00057 Per Cent of the Population.
6. Millions Love and Obey Their Parents.
7. Spring Always Follows Winter.

Now that you know how the games goes, why not think up some headlines of your own for stories that could be written from the facts that last year.

More than 196,000,000 of our people were not arrested.

More than 89,000,000 married persons did not file for divorce.

More than 115,000,000 individuals maintained a formal affiliation with some religious group.

More than 75,000,000 citizens and corporations paid more than $160 million in income taxes.

More than 9,000,000 of our young men did not burn their draft cards.

More than 4,000,000 teachers, preachers and professors did not strike or participate in riotous demonstrations.

THE MAN UP the street says life is filled with ups and downs... like getting up in the morning and getting down to work.

As far as transportation is concerned, the "dear dead past" that is so often recalled will soon come to include the passenger trains. However, it was long before the demise of the passenger train that Wells-Fargo laid down its rules of the road for stagecoach passengers. In posted notices, Wells-Fargo informed its passengers:

"Adherence to the following Rules Will Insure a Pleasant Trip for All:

"1. Abstinence from liquor is requested, but if you must drink, share the bottle. To do otherwise makes you appear selfish and unneighborly.

"2. If ladies are present, gentlemen are urged to forego smoking cigars and pipes, as the odor of same is repugnant to the gentler sex. Chewing tobacco is permitted, but spit with the wind, not against it.

"3. Gentlemen must refrain from the use of rough language in the presence of ladies and children.

"4. Buffalo robes are provided for your comfort during cold weather. Hoagging robes will not be tolerated and the offender will be made to ride with the driver.

"5. Don't snore loudly while sleeping or use your fellow passenger's shoulder for a pillow; he (or she) may not understand and friction will follow.

"6. Firearms may be kept on your person for use in emergencies. Do not use them for pleasure or shoot at wild animals, as the sound riles the horses.

"7. In the event of runaway horses, remain calm. Leaping from the coach in panic will leave you injured at the mercy of the elements, hostile Indians and hungry coyotes.

"8. Forbidden topics of discussion are stagecoach robberies and Indian uprisings.

"9. Gents guilty of unchivalrous behavior toward lady passengers will be put off the stage. It's a long walk back. A word to the wise is sufficient."

AT DENVER CITY last week (it wasn't on April Fool's Day) two ladies from Sydney, Australia, spent a day and night under the impression they were in Denver, Colo.

According to the Denver City Press, the ladies, on a tour of the United States, were en route from El Paso to Denver, Colo., by bus. The bus driver, evidently having misunderstood the ladies' destination, dropped them and their luggage off at Denver City while the bus proceeded on its way to Denver, Colo.

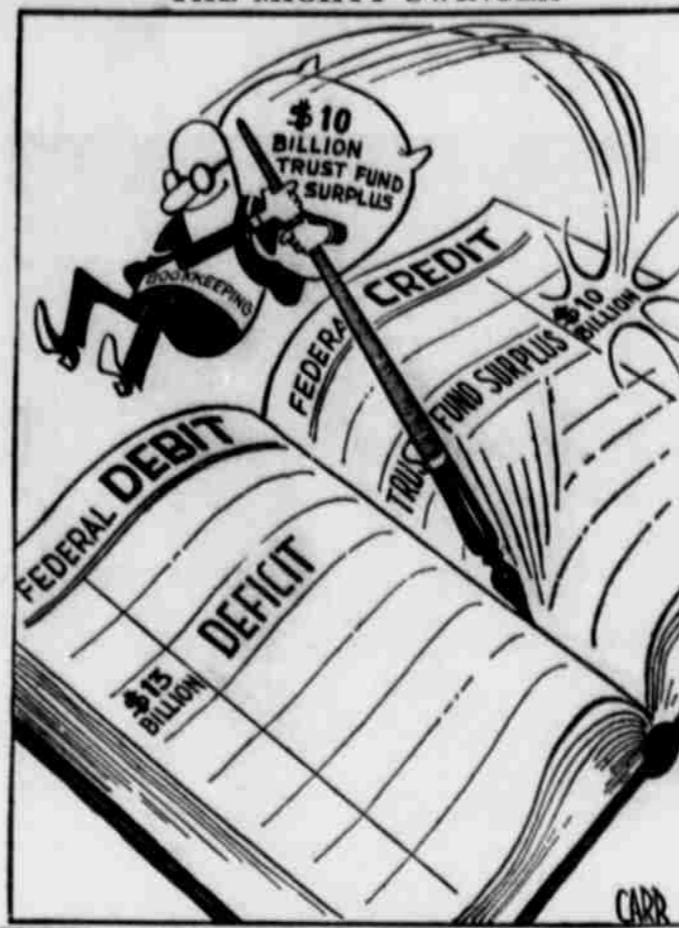

The ladies spent the night in a motel after learning that the town had neither taxi service nor a hotel district. The next day an alert clerk at one of the stores the ladies visited "caught on" to their plight.

The clerk contacted a Denver City woman who is a native of Australia, and that night the woman and her husband took the visitors to Lubbock where they caught a bus for Denver, Colo.

The Press said the Denver City woman reported the two Australian ladies were favorably impressed with the friendliness of Denver City's residents, but they commented that the city should have some place for foot-weary visitors to rest.

Local doctors inspect Postex health program

Post's two physicians, Dr. Harry Tubbs and Dr. William C. Wilson, Hospital Administrator Donald Windham and Dispatch Publisher Jim Cornish were given a tour of the Postex Plant Friday afternoon with emphasis placed on the plant's recently initiated Conservation of Hearing Program to protect the hearing of employees exposed to high noise levels.

Vic Slater, plant manager, conducted the tour and was accompanied by Dr. Harold R. Imbus, corporate medical director for Burlington Industries from Greensboro, N. C.

Burlington has recently expanded its occupational health program at Postex Plant and the doctors and hospital administrator were given a good look at new health equipment and an explanation of the program now being operated by Mrs. Emily Zivec as the new plant nurse.

Slater pointed out that "the company's program gives full consideration to employees' health through selection and placement, through prompt and adequate care of occupational injuries or illnesses, and protection of employees from occupational health hazards by evaluating health factors related to each operation and by encouraging employees to maintain good personal health program."

Slater also pointed out that the plant has established medical department facilities and installed selected equipment.

The plant manager said the conservation of hearing program was initiated following complete noise analysis surveys in the plant by a consultant after which areas were designated for wearing of protective devices.

Each employee working in the designated noisy areas is fitted for and provided hearing protection. All employees are given audiometric tests by the trained staff members while in a sound booth.

Slater said the plant medical staff monitors the effectiveness of the mandatory conservation of hearing program through periodic audiometric testing.

Burlington also has a trained staff of engineers operating from its corporate research laboratories to coordinate and assist plants and divisions in conducting noise abatement projects to minimize or reduce noise wherever possible.

Slater said another important phase of the company's health program is its interest in respiratory research. The company announced an epidemiological research project in November of 1969 to determine the prevalence of respiratory disease. This study is being carried out in cooperation with Duke Medical Center, N. C. Department of Health and engineers from the U. S. Public Health Service. In recent months, Burlington's corporate medical department has initiated respiratory research study among employees working in plants using cotton as a raw material. Postex employees participated in this study. Employees were interviewed by a trained staff to obtain respiratory medical history and given a series of lung function tests to determine whether any respiratory problem is evident. Engineering studies to determine dust levels have been carried out concurrently with the medical survey. Slater said the company expects this research to soon be complete.

Donald Thomason, Weatherford, judge weekend art show here

Thomason of Weatherford, who has painted many times around Garza County, is the judge of the Post Art Guild's art show, which is to be held at the Community Center of the bank and post office. Thomason's work will be displayed at the art show, which will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

and Bryan J. Williams. Ribbons will go to winners of first, second and third places and those receiving honorable mention in each division of the show. Members of the art guild said they were "extremely fortunate" in securing the services of Thomason as judge of the show. Not only has his work been well received in West Texas, but his exhibits have also achieved national acclaim. One of his paintings, "Comanche Country," was selected for display in the National Academy of Design in New York City. His work has also been exhibited at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Art, the Butler Institute, the Fort Worth Art Center and by the American Watercolor Society.

Most of Thomason's work is done in West Texas. Being basically interested in landscape paintings, he restricts his work to a few areas with which he has become intimately acquainted. Fred Cotton, a past president of the Texas Historical Society, has said: "Thomason is capturing for future generations not only the look but some of the spirit of the Texas frontier that otherwise will soon be lost forever." Thomason spends long hours on his paintings and has compared one of his larger works to a pregnancy. "It just can't be completed with a few minutes," he said. "Between the conception and birth there are many hours of misgivings and labor, yet when the painting is complete, the time spent is as nothing compared to the accomplishment."

'Harp' is subject at meeting of Post Music Club

The Post Music Club, a member of the National Federation of Music Clubs, met in the Presbyterian Church Monday night. Mrs. Robert Macy, president, gave the welcome and introduced the guest artist, Miss Joan Seymore of Amarillo. Miss Seymore, a senior music education student at Texas Tech University, gave a detailed description of the structure and the many different parts of the harp. Miss Seymore answered questions about the harp during a question and answer period. Harp selections presented by Miss Seymore were "Largo," composed by Bach and arranged for the harp by Grandjany; "La Fille aux Cheveux de Lin" composed by C. Debussy and arranged for the harp by Reni; "Passacaglia" composed by G. F. Handel and arranged for the harp by Beon; and "Giraffe Argument" composed by Betty Paret. Mrs. Edwin Sawyers gave the program study on the lives of Mildred Dilling, harpist; Carrie Jacobs Bond, composer; and Erica Moreni, violinist. She also gave a history of the harp. Club members hear of Hawaiian trip

Mrs. Mary Crowder and Mrs. Lucille Bush were hostesses when the Graham Home Demonstration Club met April 2 in the Community Center. Roll call was answered with a place of interest in Texas. Mrs. Delwin Fluit presented the program on vacationing. She told of the vacation she and Delwin took to Hawaii and exhibited shells and other souvenirs they brought home. The club adjourned to meet on April 22, after refreshments were served to six visitors and 11 members. The club will entertain a hobby club from Abernathy at lunch on the 22nd. Then there will be a tour of the Postex Plant beginning at 10 o'clock.

Garza women present workshop at district THDA conference

Six members of home demonstration clubs in Garza County and the home demonstration agent attended the District 2 THDA Spring Conference in Muleshoe April 1. The theme for the conference was "Stairway to Progress." The general session held that morning featured guest speaker Dr. Fowler, chairman of the Home and Family Life Department of the College of Home Economics at Texas Tech. In his presentation, "Challenges for the 70's for the Family," he discussed the significance of the changing roles of the family and how to adapt to them. He was also speaker for a Family Life Workshop following the luncheon. Mmes. Lola Peel, Della Davis, Lois Fluit, Faye Payton and Janis Choate of Garza County presented a workshop to 70 women on Recreation and Cultural Arts. Mexico was the center of interest for the program. Another workshop centered on membership and reporting in H. D. Clubs. All workshops were followed by a business session. Plainview Chamber of Commerce extended an invitation to THDA for location of next year's conference. Others attending from Garza County were Mrs. Pearl Wallace and Mrs. Viva Davis.

SPRING CLEANING
 Escape the seasonal cobwebs of cluttered closets and dresser drawers by planning ahead. Before storing and packing seasonal clothing, list the major items in good condition that will be wearable another year. If an item is outgrown by one child and can be passed on to another, place the article on the list of the receiver. Worn-out articles outgrown by the entire family should be discarded. By making note of all clothing to be bought, the homemaker can take advantage of pre-season and special sales.

Prepare clothing for storage when the season is well on its way out. Always pack and hang clothes clean; clean fibers won't deteriorate as rapidly as soiled fabric. Also, make all necessary repairs before storing.

MEAL PLANNING
 Making mealtime interesting for your children is an easier task if you plan to include the wide assortment of textures, sizes, shapes and colors available in the foods today. Each child has different food needs. These needs are influenced by his size, age, activity, growth rate, and ability to digest food. Plan children's meals to include foods from each of the four food groups — milk and milk products, meat, fruits and vegetables, and breads and cereals. Introduce new foods to a child one at a time. If he refuses the food, wait a few days and serve it again. And you can try serving the food on a plate with old favorites for better acceptance. Large servings on a child's plate tend to be overpowering, so

60-day restriction on movement of swine in Texas is ordered

COLLEGE STATION — The Texas Animal Health Commission has ordered a 60-day restriction on the movement of swine in Texas, effective March 29, to control hog cholera. The movement of all feeder and breeder swine within the state will be allowed only by permits issued after inspection of the herd from which they originate. Hogs for slaughter can move to a packing house or to a public market without inspection and without written permits, according to Woodrow W. Bailey, extension livestock and meats specialist. He cautioned producers that hogs leaving the farm without a permit must be headed for slaughter. Once at the market they can't be legally taken home or sold as feeders. Offenders are subject to fines, according to Bailey. Bailey also said that any special breeder or feeder sales must be cleared with authorities in the animal health commission. Written permission can be granted with certain requirements, including on the farm inspection. Hogs going to shows must be inspected on the farm, earmarked and tagged, and accompanied by a written permit. Bailey added that hogs can be moved one time with no diversion enroute from one farm to another if they are inspected on the farm and moved under permit. The USDA announced March 24 that producers may no longer remove apparently healthy animals from their swine herds infected by or exposed to hog cholera. Officials of the USDA Animal Health Division say that all animals exposed from infested or ex-

Dust storm damage said higher than in any year since 1965

TEMPLE — Dust storms that have ravaged Texas in recent weeks may get worse before they get better, warns the head of the state's U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

Clyde W. Graham, SCS state conservationist, says Texas dust storms have reached alarming intensity. "Acres damaged by wind erosion this blow season are already higher than any year since 1965," Graham reports. "If we don't get widespread rains soon, wind erosion damages may reach mid-1960 levels."

Graham said the record-breaking drought is a major cause of the problem. Many areas report winter rainfall to be the lowest since records were started.

"Dry weather last fall kept many farmers from planting cover crops," Graham continued. "The drought has also reduced the effectiveness of emergency tillage which some farmers rely on to prevent wind erosion. And high wind velocities in the December to May blow season always seem to accompany a severe drought."

He said the combination of drought, high winds and lack of cover was causing serious land damage across a wide section of the state. The storms are also creating health problems for people with respiratory ailments. Reports from SCS offices tell of roads and streets blocked with sand and six-foot drifts against houses. And it's

"I am very proud of the band for its excellent performance in the Dimmitt competition, as I know everyone else in Post is," Director Germer said.

Texas dead last in control of drunk drivers

AUSTIN — "While the rest of the nation moves forward in the area of controlling the number one menace on the highways, the abusive drinker, Texas continues to drag its feet," charged George William Perry, president of the Texas Safety Association, today.

The Dallas attorney, who heads the statewide safety group, said that at the beginning of this year three states did not have laws establishing a level of blood-alcohol concentration as presumption of driving while intoxicated, as required by federal standards.

"Now, both Mississippi and New Mexico have established presumptive limits. That leaves Texas as the only state without such legislation," commented Perry.

"Measures have been introduced in the Texas legislature to amend the law. A senate version of action by the full senate, but a companion bill in the house is locked in a subcommittee," Perry said.

"Abusive drinkers, who make up only seven per cent of the total public, last year in Texas were responsible for nearly 1,700 deaths on our highways. This sort of carnage can and must be stopped," Perry said.

"To do this, Texas must act. It needs to act now, to establish a 0.10 per cent blood-alcohol concentration as a presumption of intoxication," he concluded.

ATTEND Easter Services IN CHURCH

Easter—The Life Beat of the World

By George L. Miller

It is strange to think that we should celebrate the miracle of an Empty Tomb when we are a people who do not believe in miracles.

It is odd that we should celebrate the resurrection of Jesus Christ when we think of him as a dead man who died 1900 years ago.

Perhaps strangest of all is our Easter celebration that proclaims the triumph of our God alive in the world when we are unalterably opposed to His Church being involved with the world.

To the outsider it seems as though we worship a dead God in churches that are tombs.

Easter is a time to remember that Christ's Empty Tomb means a world filled with the grandeur of God. It is a time to remember that the life God gives is stronger than death. Easter means God is not through with us. He is alive and well, His spirit is the vitality and wonder that pulses in our world today.

Here's how one person put it:

Universe
and every universe beyond, spin and blaze,
whirl and dance,
leap and laugh
as never before.
It's happened.
It's new.
It's here.
The liberation.
The victory.
The new creation.
Christ has smashed death.
He has liberated the world.
He has freed the universe.
You and I and everything
are free again,
new again,
alive again.

Let's have a festival and follow him across the skies, through the flames of heaven and back down every alley of our town.
There, let's have him come to liberate our city, clean up the mess
and start all over again.
You conquered.
Keep on fighting through us.
You arose.
Keep on rising in us.
You celebrated.
Keep on celebrating with us.
You happen.
You are new.
You are here.

History Appreciation Week plans are told

Plans for History Appreciation Week to be observed here beginning April 25 were announced at the April meeting of the Garza County Historical Survey Committee held Tuesday morning in the bank community room.

Shiver talk—

A professional educator was similarly employed to make recommendations about needed building changes which also were included in the overall program.

Another example of long range planning given was the short-term investment of idle school funds that since 1969 has produced a net rest revenue totaling $6,411.63.

Shiver also said that when the interest and sinking fund account fell to zero back in 1963, school trustees adopted the recommendations of school financial experts to build up a surplus in this fund equal to at least one year's bond and interest payments.

"We now have $49,334.06 surplus and we hope to be able to reach the $80,000 (one year figure) in three or four more years," Shiver told Rotarians.

The PPBS program is an effort to reduce teaching and educational projects through time studies to the point that an accurate price tag can be put on every unit in the educational process here. Shiver said.

"In 1969, we had planned for a three to five year phase-in for this program," Shiver said. "Nearing the end of the second year we are still frantically searching for behavioral objectives. When we complete the task, we will study the price tag and see if it is worth the money."

"This is where the board of trustees steps in. It may decide to cut one program and add to another when the dollar cost of each and every program is accurately determined," Shiver said.

"And, of course the taxpayer will make the final decisions. In some areas we already have completed the objective stage — in others we are just beginning to get an idea of what is to be done."

In closing, Shiver said that the schools "must protect the unorthodox teacher who gets results. We must not restrict him to a specified area and break his back with boring statistics, and drive him from the profession, because he just might be the person who knows through his intuition, how children learn — something that is still baffling the 'big wheels' of psychology today," Shiver said.

the county will be honored on Sunday afternoon, April 25. The observance will continue on Tuesday with members of Mrs. Beth Walker's junior high history class presenting a program at the Rotary Club luncheon. Wednesday, a regional meeting will be held in Lubbock, and the rest of the week programs of historical interest will be given in the rural communities.

Mrs. Ruby Kirkpatrick reported on the Post Art Guild's recent meeting at which Mr. and Mrs. John F. Lotz of Lubbock spoke on tourism as a Garza County attraction.

F. A. "Chief" Runkles reported on the progress being made toward the establishment of a county museum.

Those attending Tuesday's meetings were J. E. Parker, Walter Duckworth, Runkles, Walter Boren, Mattie Belle Fluit, Mrs. Tuffing, Mrs. Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Walter Boren.

Postings—

We almost forgot. The cactus garden had its first tourist last Thursday afternoon. A couple from Missouri were gassing up across the street at Stone's Texaco and the woman just couldn't resist walking over and inquiring a bout "all these pretty cacti you're planting." Ruth Ann Newby happened to be there getting a record of the various varieties being planted and she told the woman all about our cactus project.

Churches—

Regular services are also scheduled for Easter Sunday at the Calvary Baptist, Trinity Baptist, Assembly of God, Church of God of Prophecy, Church of the Nazarene, First Christian, Presbyterian and Methodist churches.

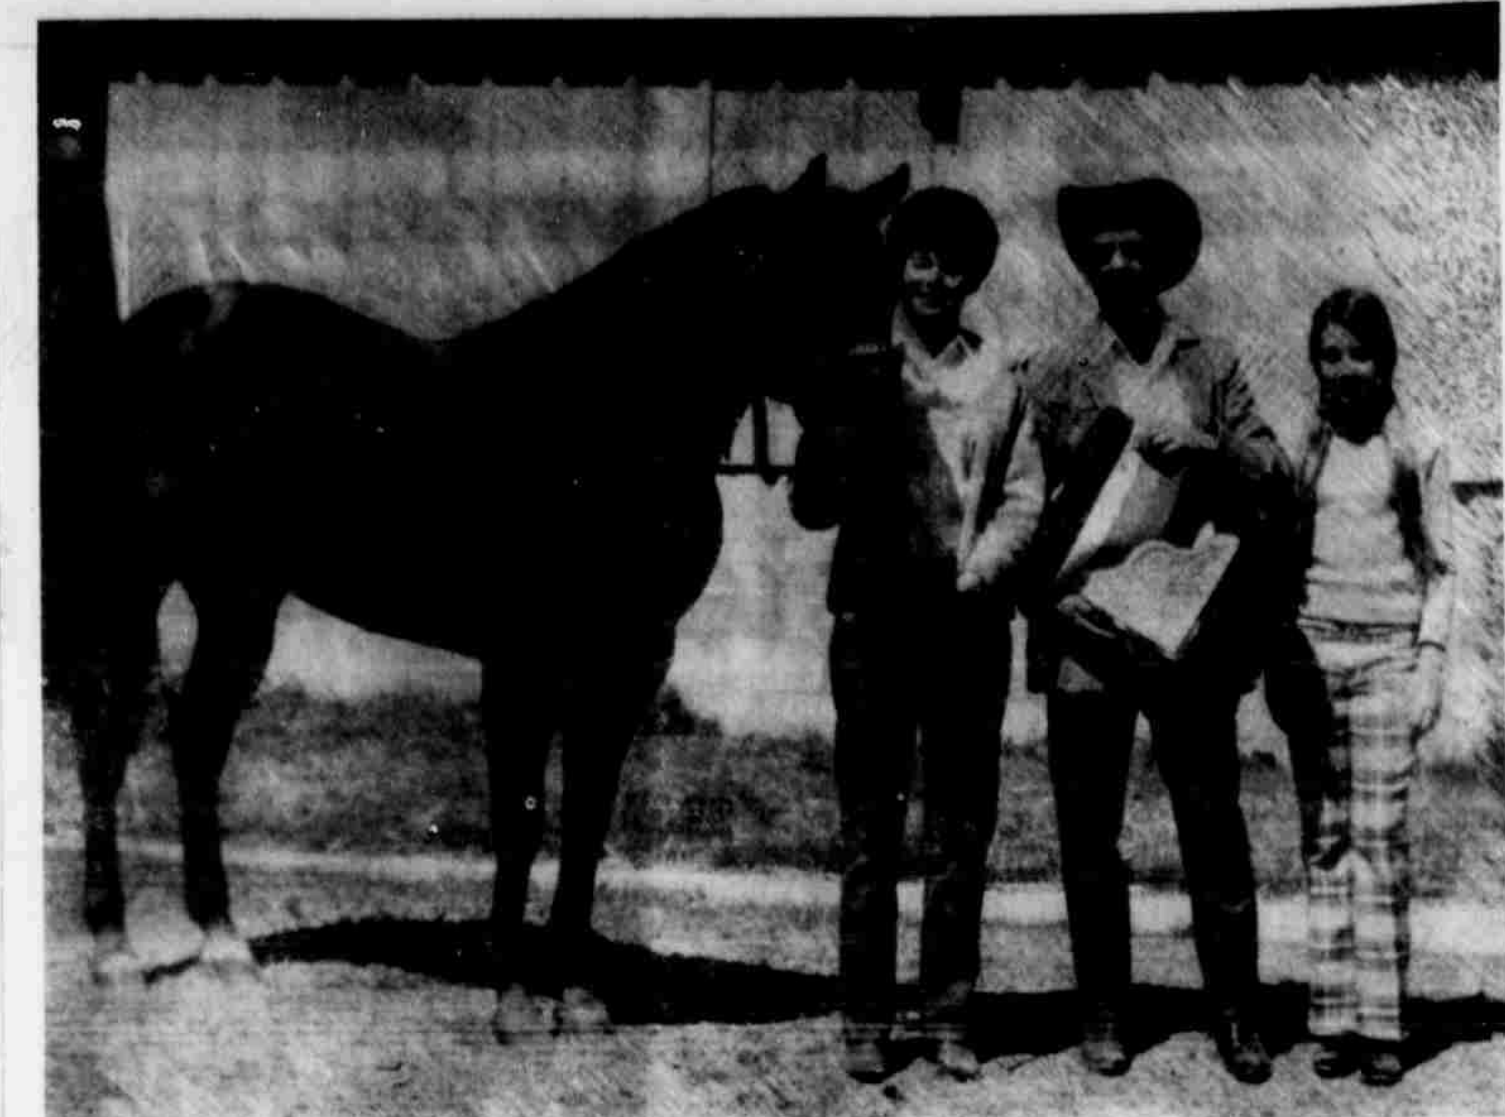

Bernard S. Ramsey, minister of the First Christian Church, will have as his sermon subject at the 11:30 worship hour, "The Meaning of Easter," with the Lord's Supper to be observed. There will not be an evening service at the church Sunday, Ramsey said.

Holy Week services, including a Good Friday service, are being held at the Holy Cross Catholic Church, where there will be a midnight Easter Mass.

Cactus Garden—

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Marks, who were visiting over the weekend in Phoenix, brought back two unusual cactus varieties for the garden — one a hedge hog cactus and the other a barrel cactus. They purchased them both in Phoenix.

Mrs. G. N. Leggett has provided a big Hen and Chicken succulent plant for the garden. Other cactus has been offered by Mrs. Bryce Martin, Mrs. S. Pierce, Jack Kennedy, Rancher Jimmy Bird, and Loyd Edwards.

Newby also gives the FFA boys credit for a big assist. The group helped plant the yucca and did some graveling work at the garden last Thursday afternoon.

Cornish reports additional cash contributions received since last week include Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mills, $20; Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hibbs of Mountain Grove, Mo., $5; Mrs. Rosemary Chapman, $75; Mrs. A. C. Surman, $10; Marge and Vachel Anderson, another pair of former Post residents who now live in Irving, Tex., and Bill and Margie Wilson, $15.

Mr. Anderson's wife, Mrs. Wilson, also will take in money of Mrs. C. by her post office garden. We hope others will call Post our headquarters. Cactus are very popular in this area and we do wish all to be eye-catchers to everyone they see by."

Ted Hibbs, former Southwestern Public Service Co. manager here, says that "we surely want to help — small bit on the cactus garden which we have been reading about in your paper. Use the money any way you like, but please, to be sure the Post will be pleased to receive the funds and the cactus plants."

LOTS of money and more...

"Anyone who thinks dirt is cheap never looked for a lot to build a house on."

City council —

The council decided, upon the engineer's recommendation, to offer property owners an optional choice of "asphalt alleys" instead of concrete curbs and gutters on side streets. The asphalt valleys would cost the property owner only 90 cents a foot, whereas concrete curbs and gutters would cost $2.20 a foot.

Douglas told the council that these asphalt valleys would "get the job done" on the side street paving, including good drainage, and would save the property owner $1.30 a foot on his paving costs.

The first phase of the city's paving program, a 27-block project, was begun on Avenue S here Monday by the contractor, W.D. Turner Construction of Lubbock.

Tom S. Gates has been employed by the city to confer with property owners who want streets paved. Those wanting paving done are asked to contact Gates before May 1.

Of six houses up for condemnation before the council Monday night, only one was spared, and hearings were set on four more recommended for condemnation by Charlie C. Cooper, fire marshal.

The council gave more time to Dennis Guichard after he told them of the progress being made in repairing and improving the house in question. Of the five structures condemned, the council agreed that none of them are "worth trying to put in shape."

Mayor Giles C. McCrary explained to Guichard and to Nathan Wilson, who was also present on a condemned house hearing, that it is not the council's intention to work a hardship on anyone, but that it is to the best interests of everyone that houses or other structures constituting fire and health hazards be repaired or demolished.

The council decided to request the county commissioners' court to deputize members of the city police department in order to give the city "some legal control" of the airport, cemetery and dump ground, all of which are within the city limits. Mayor McCrary formed the council that the sheriff's department can be the police for such an area under Senate Bill No. 41.

The council also decided to request of the county commissioners and members of the baseball organizations that not be dragged off baseball fields in the city and their help in leveling dirt that have accumulated over years from the dragging of practice fields to help in blowing.

City Manager Bobby McCrary appointed by the council to the city in all its financial institutions with the First National Bank. Such an appointment made annually, the council decided.

Pete Maddox, city work supervisor, reported to the council storage tanks and other equipment and materials have arrived applying street emulsion and the work will probably get way Monday. The street work is being tried by the city and it will save on seal coating.

The mayor received telegrams and other communications to the appropriate bodies concerning laws pertaining to cities.

The council voted for the way stop signs recently placed at the four corners of the highway to be taken down as soon as is out, and for it to be taken consideration by the council whether they will be put up.

Other action by the council included the canvassing of the in Saturday's city election.

Why 'big show' is coming to Post

C. A. Frank, tour director of the Zogi TV Variety Revue, playing at Post Elementary auditorium on Thursday, April 29, under the sponsorship of Post Rotary Club says there is one question asked him quite frequently and worded like this: "If the Zogi Revue is such a big and lavish production, why is it playing such a small city as this, and similar ones?"

That is a good question says Mr. Frank, and this is the way he answers it. During the past ten years, say Frank, thousands of theatres closed their doors due to the inroads of TV. The remaining theatres that have not been torn down and are still in operation, have been altered, especially on the stage, to take care of the demands of a wide screen and super sound. In most cases these new installations are permanent and not mobile, and allow no room for stage shows of any size. In many cases, dressing rooms are now used for storage of supplies and equipment.

There are still some theatres in large cities suitable for large productions such as the Zogi Revue, but special permits to transport and unload equipment at their stage doors must be obtained from the city and transfer companies hired to bring the tons of equipment through the downtown city streets during the small hours of the morning, due to the ever-growing traffic problems. This has practically forced the few remaining road shows of any size to play the smaller cities and to play in civic centers and high school auditoriums, and in fact, most any place that will hold a large audience.

In spite of the fact that much special equipment must be carried to transform these auditorium

NEW FUN GAME PROMOTES FAST THINKING

In any season for any reason, swingers with a lot on the ball know the exciting score about a new game that provides fun for the family. Even football players like this get a kick out of Paddle Pool. Milton Bradley's fast-moving skill and action game for two to four players of any age develops the rapid responses of participants. The object is to keep the ball out of your own goal with your swinging paddle and try to bat it into your opponent's. This battle of the paddle is making a big hit.

MY THANKS TO VOTERS

I wish to express my appreciation for your support in electing me to the City Council of Post.

I pledge I will do my best to help make this community a better place in which to live and raise our families.

'Lily Day' set for Saturday by footballers

The annual Texas Football Boys' Lily Day for Crippled Children will be held in Post on Saturday, April 10, Coach Bobby Davis announced today.

Members of the Antelope football team will be stationed on streets downtown to pin Easter lilies on laps of shoppers.

The Easter Seal Appeal is conducted by the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas, which last year provided treatment and services for 21,563 crippled children and adults in Texas.

Ninety per cent of the funds contributed during the Easter Seal campaign remain in Texas to finance rehabilitation services for handicapped Texans. The Easter Seal Society annually spends more money for direct services to the handicapped in Texas than is collected in the Easter Seal Appeal.

It's a fact

"CLEOPATRA'S NEEDLE" granite obelisk carved in 1600 B.C. was moved from Egypt to New York's Central Park in 1882.

88 YEARS of exposure to polluted air of New York did more damage to the obelisk-- eating off hieroglyphics on one side-- than was done in the 3,500 YEARS it stood in Egypt.

TO AVOID health hazards of air pollution more and more home owners are turning to mechanical filtration of air and electronic air cleaning to purify air inside their homes

Southland youth breaks shoulder

By TOMMIE WILKE
Hello and how are YOU this week? As for me, I'm happy! "Happiness is good. The place to be happy is here. The time to be happy is now. The way to be happy is to help make others happy." Hope you too, are happy, wherever you are.

One young man that probably is not too happy is Tommy Jack Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Taylor, because he broke his shoulder last week (Monday). He also has a bone separation which could give him a lot of trouble. Tommy, we sure hope that all goes well, so take care!

Patricia Pollard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Pollard, who has been working in Washington, D.C., since sometime last year, is home. After living up there for awhile, she decided that Texas is the place to live, so she decided to quit her job and move back. She will probably go to work in Lubbock and maybe enter college in the fall. Welcome back, Pat.

Congratulations to Miss Carol Stolle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stolle of this community, and Alvin Cowen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Cowen, of Sedan, New Mexico, on their engagement and approaching wedding. Carol graduated from dear ole Southland High and Texas Lutheran College and is now teaching school in Amarillo. This young couple has set their wedding date on June 12th at Grace Lutheran Church in Slaton. May God's richest blessings be theirs. We extend our sincere sympathies to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Basinger and family on the loss of Mrs. Basinger's father, James L. Alfred, who died last Thursday in the Veterans Hospital in Big Spring after a lengthy illness. May God comfort them in their sorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Stonewall Jefferson's granddaughter, Doreen, has come to live with them.

Edmund and Yours Truly were invited to a fish fry at the Howard Moebe's last Saturday night. Sure was a lot of good food and good fellowship and we enjoyed it so much. On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Stabeno and Lynn and Ed and I went to Morton where we visited with Mrs. Bertha Betts and Darrell Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ware and children. We think the sand blows down here, well you should see how it blows up there!

Mrs. Mary McKee has gone to Roundup, Montana, where she will be visiting with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. E. lam, for several months.

Last week visitors in the D. D. Pennell home were Mr. and Mrs. Arvil Ferguson from Post and Mrs. Bessie Howard from Slaton.

Mr. and Mrs. Buford Jones from Ruidoso, N. M., where here last week visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. Otto Klaus is still in Mercy Hospital. Haven't heard from her today (Monday) but she was doing some better last Friday. May God continue to watch over her.

Mr. and Mrs. Dillard Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Hallman and Mrs. Mary Lois McNeely spent this past weekend at LBJ Lake. They went down to see the "fish-kill". The lake officials were killing the fish that were left in the lake before they start refilling the lake about the 11th of this month. They will be restocking the lake with better fish. Guess it was something to see!

Mrs. Mary Lois McNeely's grandson is spending the week with her. I will leave you with this little thought for the day. "Science has made the world a neighborhood, but it will take religion to make it a brotherhood."

It's the Law ...

FORCED FINGERPRINTING

Arrested for a traffic offense, Harold objected strenuously to being fingerprinted. He finally gave in, but only under protest. Shortly afterward he filed suit against the city, demanding that his prints be destroyed.

"They were taken by force," he pointed out at a court hearing. "That was a violation of my constitutional rights. According to the Fifth Amendment, no one shall be forced to be a witness against himself."

However, the court ruled against Harold, saying he could no more withhold his fingerprints than he could mask his face or cover up a tattoo.

"The witness does not testify," said the court. The facts speak for themselves."

Generally speaking courts have agreed that forced fingerprinting is not a violation of the Fifth Amendment.

But another objection has also been raised: isn't this an invasion of privacy? A man arrested on a misdemeanor charge made that argument in opposing the fingerprint procedures of the local police.

But this objection too was turned down in court. Calling attention to the great need for fingerprinting in law enforcement, the judge said:

"The right of privacy has its limitations and is not always superior to the rights of the public. The taking of fingerprints is a humiliation to which a possibly innocent person must submit for the benefit of society."

Of course fingerprints, like all facts, are neutral. They may be just as useful in proving a man's innocence as in proving his guilt.

In a murder case, a bottle found at the scene of the killing had several fingerprints on it. But none matched those of the man arrested for the crime. The prosecutor decided that since the prints did not help his case, he would not bring them into court at all.

But at the trial, the defense attorney said the fingerprint evidence should be brought in for the benefit of the prisoner. To the court, this was "elemental justice." The prints were duly displayed to the jury — and helped the prisoner go free.

? Your Name ?

WHAT'S IN IT?
By CHARLES DIDWAY

NORRIS

The four cardinal directions, North, South, East and West, have given surnames to many individuals who had come to a new residence from an indefinite place in the direction named. If you had moved from somewhere "up north" in the countries of England or Ireland during the Middle Ages, you might have been called "le Noreis," or "the man from the north" by your new neighbors. Today the name survives in the form of Norris.

Another possible derivation of Norris as an English surname is from the Old Norse "norric," meaning "a nurse." The occupations of many workers in the great medieval households of England became surnames and nearly all these households had at least one "norric," or nurse as it later came to be spelled.

As a surname, Norris was spelled a number of different ways before evolving into its present form. We find a Robert Noreis in Hampshire, England, in 1148, and in 1166 a Robert le Norries witnessed a charter in Scotland. Richard Norreys was a citizen of Berwickshire, a district of Scotland, in 1296. In England, Norris was the name of an old Berkshire family, many members of which held positions at the English court. One member of the family, Sir William Norris, commanded the royal troops against Lambert Simnel, claimant to the English crown, at the battle of Stoke in 1487.

The name Norris is fairly numerous in nearly all the provinces of Ireland where it is mentioned in records dating from the 13th century.

Among the first of the name in America was Edward Norris, a clergyman, who came to New England in 1629. He was followed in 1693 by the famous Isaac Norris, who became a wealthy merchant and mayor of Philadelphia.

Norris is the 273rd commonest surname in the United States, with an estimated 82,000 persons by the name.

Drought disaster relief is sought for 60 counties

AUSTIN — Gov. Preston Smith has called on President Nixon to declare 60 Texas counties eligible for drought disaster relief and requested initial allocation of $5 million in federal aid.

All the counties, said Smith, received less than 1.5 inches of accumulated rainfall in the past six months, creating a critical drought condition which adversely affects ranches, farms, dairies, businesses and employment throughout the entire state.

Smith said he would not call for emergency disaster legislation from the state legislature because of the "extremely critical" state financial problem. State and local health, employment, agriculture and welfare agencies, the Governor stated, are performing emergency disaster duties as required.

The governor asked an initial allocation of $5 million. In addition, he urged that the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Department of Labor, Health, Education and Welfare and Small Business Administration representatives be assigned to counties to collaborate with state and local officials in inspections, cost estimates and technical guidance.

Texas counties included in the request (others may be added), ranging from the tip of South Texas to the top of the Panhandle, are:

- Armstrong, Aransas, Atascosa, Bandera, Bee, Bexar, Blanco, Brooks, Burnet, Caldwell, Cameron, Carson, Childress, Coke, Comal, Cottle, DeWitt, Dickens, Duval, Uvalde, El Paso, Frio, Garza, Gillespie,

OUR READERS Write

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE
 Dear Mr. O'Brien:
 At a recent city council meeting we were discussing the fortunate position we are in regarding our city's water supply and the council instructed me to let it be known that the City Council of Post voted a vote of confidence to the White River Authority board of directors and the management of the lake.

The council also commended the management in the way they handle the recreation problem. The city officials believe that the lake has come too crowded with people at the present time and that the charge be increased enough to control the situation. In other words good drinking water first and recreation, etc. in their respective places.

As a solution to the best problem and feels that what boats could be paddled away from the ramp by hand by a steering the motor until we get a good rain to refill the lake, which we hope will not be long off.

Sincerely,
 Bobby Pierce
 City Manager

Library LISTENING POST

By GEORGE L. MILLER

Some readers like to keep up with the "best sellers", on the theory that "best seller" means "best book". This is a dubious theory since many of the best sellers are poor books at best. For example "Naked Came the Stranger", one of the trashiest books ever written — and intentional so — was decidedly a "best seller."

Still other readers keep up with the best sellers in order to know what other people are reading. This does keep you in the know, but you have to suffer through a miserable reading to do it.

Whatever the reason, a best selling book does cause interest and you may enjoy seeing a list of the best sellers for 1970.

Heading the list of best fiction was "Love Story" by Erich Segal, followed by "The French Lieutenant's Woman" by John Fowles, "Islands in the Stream" by Ernest Hemingway, "The Crystal Cave" by Mary Steward, "Great Lion of God" by Taylor Caldwell, "QB VII" by Leon Uris, "The Gang That Couldn't Shoot Straight" by Jimmy Breslin, "The Secret Woman" by Victoria Holt, "Travels With My Aunt" by Graham Greene, and "Rich Man, Poor Man" by Irwin Shaw.

Number one in the best non-fiction category was David Reuben's book "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex: But Were Afraid to Ask". Remarkably enough, second place was captured by "The New English Bible" followed by "The Sensuous Woman" by J. Compton. The list was "Better Homes and Gardens Fondue and Tabletop Cooking", "Up the Organization" by Robert Townsend, "Ball Four" by Jim Bouton, "American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language", "Body Language" by Julius Fast, "In Someone's Shadow" by Rod McKuen and "Caught in the Quiet" also by Rod McKuen.

Of these 20 titles, the library has every one except the fondue cookbook. If it should develop that there is a demand for a fondue cookbook, we'll be happy to get it and make the list complete.

Since I'm not one of those readers who tries to keep up with the best sellers, I can't give you advice on which of these 20 books are worth reading. I can recommend "The New English Bible" at reservation and I did enjoy "Up the Organization", "Travels With My Aunt" was entertaining, but I felt the ending was a let-down. I've expressed my opinions before about "Love Story" so I won't go into that again. I leave it up to you.

Looking at the list as a whole I would say there isn't much here that is likely to become a classic except for two significant exceptions. The "American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language" is one of the finest dictionaries available and ought to be a standard reference tool in every home. It's by far the most handsome dictionary you'll find, and it is the most helpful dictionary I've ever used.

"The New English Bible" is the most important translation of the Bible ever published. For clarity and literary beauty it is unsurpassed. The "King James Version" of the Bible still is the norm for many people, but the "New English Bible" deserves to stand beside it.

Have you marked your calendar for the Flower Shower and Rummage Sale? Don't forget, April 10 through April 24. I'd sure hate for you to miss it!
