Work to resume Monday on city paving project

About 50 blocks to be completed

W. D. Turner Construction Co., contractor on the City of Post's current street paving project, is scheduled to move in equipment and materials this weekend for the resumption of paving Monday, the city council was told by Mayor Giles C. McCrary Monday night at its regular April session.

There are about 50 blocks yet to pave in the project, which is being done at a cost of a little over $100,000. The city lacks only about $20,000 having the paving project paid for, including engineer's fees, the council was told.

Nearly all the city's share of the paving costs — 40 per cent — is being paid for out of the city sales tax. Property owners are paying 60 per cent of the costs and for the installation of curbs and gutters.

Also, Monday night, the council voted to make a 50 per cent reduction in the Post Public Housing Authority's water bills for the months since August of 1971.

In comparison with previous months, the PHA's water bills were considered by the council as "unreasonably" high for the months included in the reduction. Since a complaint of the "high" bills was first submitted by PHA authorities several weeks ago, individual meters have been installed for each housing unit, according to Pete Maddox, superintendent of public works.

The council canvassed the returns of Saturday's city council election, in which Donald Windham and Fred Myers were re-elected and Jim Wells was elected as a new councilman. Wells, who attended Monday night's session, is to be sworn in Friday, along with the two re-elected councilmen.

At a request of a representative of the owner, the council agreed to defer for 30 days condemnation proceedings against a house in the Bingham Addition. The owner's representative told the council the property is being improved and promised to make a progress report on the improvements at the council's regular May session.

The council briefly discussed future expansion of the Post Public Library with three members of the library board — Jim Cornish, chairman, Rosemary Chapman and Patty Kirkpatrick.

There was also a brief discussion between the mayor and council and Pete Maddox on the need of some 40 manholes to upgrade the sewer system. It was pointed out that in some areas of the city there are two or three blocks without a manhole. When a sewer line stops up in those areas, Maddox said, it becomes necessary to dig a hole and break into the sewer line.

It was estimated that the manholes will cost about $200 each. Donald Windham was reappointed mayor pro-tem, and the March bills were read and approved for payment in the only other business on the agenda that was disposed of by 9:15 p.m.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE RACE CLOSE

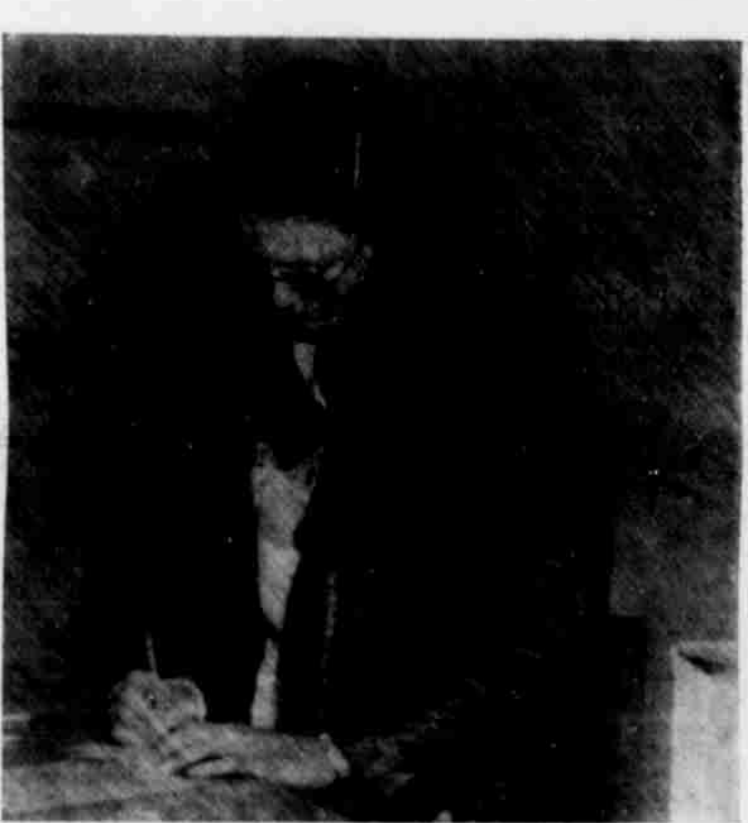

Spring elections give boards new members

The city council, school trustees, and Garza Memorial Hospital board each gained one new member as a result of the annual spring elections here Saturday.

Incumbents were reelected to the other five positions being filled. In the closest race of the day, John Boren, former president of the Justiceburg school board prior to the 1971 consolidation of that school district with the Post Independent school district, defeated Bob Macy, local rancher, by a six vote margin, 147 to 141, for Place 7 on the school trustees.

Parmaclist Jim Wells was the new city councilman named, succeeding Ed Blanton. Dr. Charles G. Tubbs is the new member of the hospital board succeeding George Pierce, who did not seek reelection.

In the city council race, in which the top three vote-getters were elected from a field of five, Fred Myers polled the most votes with 181 out of 268 cast to win reelection. Donald Windham with 161 votes (See Elections, page 8)

FIRST-TIME VOTER
One of the nation's new crop of "pre-21" voters is shown marking her ballot in the Garza Hospital District election Saturday. She is Sharon Windham, student at the University of Texas and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Windham.

'Pioneer Roundup' slated for Sunday

Garza County pioneers will be guests of honor at a "pioneer roundup" program from 3 p.m. until 5 p.m. Sunday, April 9, at the museum building.

The pioneer roundup will be the concluding feature of History Appreciation Week, which was proclaimed by County Judges Giles W. Dalby for April 4-8.

The week's observance officially opened at a meeting of the Garza County Historical Survey Committee Tuesday morning, at which the program was presented by representatives of the Texas Highway Department.

A historical theme will be carried out at a meeting tonight at the Justiceburg Community Center, according to Winnie Tuffing, history chairman.

Later in the month, on April 21, the committee will sponsor a tour of the county's historical markers by students of the Southland schools.

Another sheriff's sale due May 2

Another sheriff's sale of tax delinquent property is scheduled for the courthouse steps May 2 with 32 pieces of property now scheduled to go on the bidding block.

Five of the 32 properties are listed in legal notices on page 6 of today's Dispatch for the first of three appearances in the newspaper.

Notices of the other 27 pieces of property are now posted on the bulletin board of the courthouse.

SNOWMAN SAYS "DRIVE FRIENDLY"

A motorist-flagging snowman was built by Texas Highway Department workers during last Thursday's "surprise" snowfall.

He didn't last long, but he got across a good message while he did last at his vantage point on U. S. Hwy. 84.

Over 5 inches gauged in late snowfall here

The weather, unseasonably mild a couple of months, did an about-face and belated about-face last Friday and dumped five and a half inches of snow on Post. One and one-half inches is what snow here measured "on the ground" according to the Southland Public Service Co., where weather records are kept.

Moisture from the snow measured .51 of an inch, SWPS reported. The snow fell on an area from Post west to Morton and south to Andrews, with accumulations of from five to six inches reported at those places.

The snow began falling shortly before 8 o'clock Thursday morning and the ground was covered by noon, with temperatures dropping and the U. S. Weather Bureau issuing freeze warnings for most of Northwest Texas.

Those who had been expecting the traditional "Easter spell" of weather agreed that "this is probably it."

The snow stopped falling early Thursday afternoon and much of the accumulations had melted by nightfall. No roads were closed in the area, and no serious accidents were reported here as a result. (See Late Snowfall, page 8)

George Childers this week has a new building, a new partner, and a new name for the feed and seed business he started last November.

The partner is his brother, Wayne, who has moved here from Dallas, where he was a controller for Arrow Foods, a wholesale food firm. He will bring his family here as soon as school is out.

The Childers have purchased the former Ford house at 122 West Main and in recent weeks have had a new roof put on, the front of the showroom improved, new ceilings installed, and other improvements made.

They moved from next door on the corner into the new location over the weekend, but George still thinks it will take 30 more days of hustling to get ready for their grand opening.

Junior Relays 'helpers' to meet here tonight

An organizational meeting of all people interested in helping with the Post Junior Relays will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the athletic fieldhouse.

The Post Junior Relays are to be held Friday on the school track, beginning about 11 a.m. and ending about 6 p.m.

Ambulance, auto collide near here

Highway patrolmen yesterday afternoon were looking for a driver who left the scene after his automobile and a Hudman Funeral Home ambulance were involved in a collision northwest of Post at the intersection of U. S. Hwy. 84 and FM Road 211 (Wilson Road) about 12:30 p.m.

Highway Patrolman Gene Posey, who investigated the accident, reported that the front of the ambulance, driven by Darrell Eckols, struck the rear of the automobile as the latter made a left turn off the highway onto the Wilson road.

The ambulance was en route to a Lubbock hospital with Garland Davies, a heart patient, at the time of the accident. The patient was transferred to another Hudman ambulance and taken on to the hospital, the officer said.

City police move into courthouse

The police department moved to County Sheriff J. A. (Jimmy) Holleman's office on the first floor of the courthouse last Saturday.

The move was made after the county sheriff and commissioners' court collaborated in accepting a recommendation to the county by the city council that the police department be moved to the courthouse "with closer cooperation with all law enforcement officers."

The move entailed the transfer of file cabinets and a desk to the sheriff's office from the building just south of the city hall which the police department had used since its establishment in the early 1960s.

The police department consists of Police Chief Otis G. Shepherd Jr., Patrolman Jerry Jolly and Relief Patrolman Ray Bagby.

Committee on housing briefed on programs

The Post Chamber of Commerce housing committee, headed by J. P. Potts, met Tuesday afternoon to discuss federal housing programs now available for development here.

Bill Stewart of Tahoka, county supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration, met with the committee in the bank community room, to explain the FHA programs and answer a wide variety of questions about them.

Lewis Herron, a committee member who also is Garza's representative to the new Southland Regional Housing Authority — only the third organization in the nation — explained the role of the authority's program to build some 600 new homes in the county area in the next five years for persons in the lower income brackets.

He said surveys conducted by Community Action groups and Technical over, the seven counties indicate that Post's quota would be 100 units.

He said some $240,000 in federal funds could be loaned the regional housing authority to finance a start-up program at the rate of $400 per home which would be paid back through house payments.

The regional authority would prepare a "package" including home sites, lining up house buyers, and completion of a counseling program to determine if these buyers can assume the responsibilities of home ownership. Loans then could be secured from the FHA or any other lending agency which would accept them.

Herron reported the regional housing plan is "just getting off the ground."

The committee also briefly discussed the need for duplexes, rental units, and housing for middle income families who could not qualify for the present governmental programs because of their incomes.

Mayor Giles C. McCrary, also a committee member, reported on the aid programs which might be (See Housing, page 8)

Benefit branding coming up April 15

Two benefit projects for the Post Public Library are scheduled in the next two weeks.

The benefit U Lazy S Ranch branding is scheduled for Saturday morning, April 15, with tickets now on sale at $2 for adults and $1 for children.

Those who plan to attend the branding are asked to meet at the library for 9:30 a.m. departure with bus and car transportation provided. The group will return to the library shortly before noon.

Mr. Patty Kirkpatrick is chairman of the benefit branding project to raise money for the memorial building fund of the library. The second benefit is the annual Flower Shower and Rummage Sale which will open Thursday, April 22, in the vacant business building in the 100 block West Main.

Mr. Ruth Ann Newby and Mrs. M. McCrary are in charge of the Flower Shower and Mrs. Rosemary Chapman of the rummage sale.

CONDITION STILL CRITICAL

Mrs. Ella Mae Hudman remains in critical condition in Baylor Hospital in Dallas, her husband, Victor, reported yesterday. She has been in a coma since undergoing six-hour operation a week ago Saturday in Dallas.

THE WHEELERS DO IT AGAIN

Southland's Wheelers did it again in this year's Garza County Spelling Bee. Jenny Wheeler, this year's winner, placed second last year to her sister, Amanda Wheeler. Jenny's cousin, Kendon Wheeler (left) finished second this year and was third last year. The third place winner this time around was David Morrow of Post, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morrow.

Tightening up of operations

Just maybe, something good is happening in the gigantic U. S. Postal Service, which not so long ago was converted into a federal corporation with the promise that it at long last would be put on a business basis of operation.

Last week Postmaster General E. T. Klassen announced plans to cancel a $450 million rate increase scheduled for next January. He explained, "We must learn to live within our income. This means that without impairing service, costs must be substantially reduced in order to enable us to eliminate the need for additional revenue."

General Klassen, we editorially salute you. This, for many years, has been the belief of most Americans.

Already the effect of what Klassen is saying has been felt right here in Post. Postal management is tightening up on local personnel requirements.

According to Klassen the immediate steps of putting this policy into effect will be a freeze on hiring, more flexibility in placing postal workers where they are needed, elimination of "outside help" and "renewed emphasis on service and customer courtesy."

The Dispatch wants it on the record that our local post office personnel have always done, and are doing now, an excellent job in the way of local service. And here there is no shortcoming in the "courtesy effort."

When the corporation took control an immediate study indicated one of the biggest rate boosting programs in post office history had to be projected over the next few years if the postal service hoped to catch up with modern mail demands.

At the same time, it has been obvious to the public that postal "service" as defined by the quick and efficient handling of all kinds of mail with reasonably prompt delivery across the nation has for years been steadily declining.

It is hard for the average citizen to understand the complex problems of daily delivery of hundreds of tons of mail. It's a tremendously complicated and sprawling business. But the public has long believed that a private corporation could improve the situation. Now a public corporation is trying instead. It is trying to operate without an annual deficit which more times than not has perpetuated its operating deficit by tying a postal pay raise to virtually every Congressional action to "make up the deficit."

This small newspaper, which every week mails hundreds of Dispatches far and near, thinks a real constructive step has now been taken which the public can understand.

Surging inflation in recent years already has "fried the fat" out of almost all private business operations. Management has had to tighten up drastically to survive, whether the operation was large or small.

Klassen now indicates the postal service is moving down the same hard road.

This won't be easy. It never is. But the fact remains that the government must face the problem too that service charges and/or taxes no longer remain in inexhaustible supply. Somewhere along the line the American people will "revolt" against continually rising governmental costs. And a lot of experts think such a revolt is almost at hand.

We can only hope that the postal service will be successful in tightening up its operations and that other units of government—federal, state, and local—will "get into the act" and turn today's alarming situation around.

Somehow government at all levels must learn to live realistically within the limited increased income which comes with population growth.

A full and fair day's work must be required everywhere in government just as it is in private business as labor costs are the prime costs of government.

Government today—at least at federal and state levels—is so big this is difficult. But just as big and small business has learned the hard way to live within its income, so must government. When you add it up on even a hand-pulled adding machine, which we are still using at The Dispatch, more government efficiency for the dollar spent might even turn America's whole inflation around because government today is virtually the biggest business in the United States.—JC

Player strike threatens baseball

Baseball fans in Post, like those the nation over, were "sweating out" the baseball strike the first of the week and wondering if it would be settled in time for the opening of the season Wednesday. At the time The Dispatch editorial page went to press Tuesday, a settlement in time for the opening appeared unlikely.

Players on the major league baseball teams are striking to back up demands for an improved pension contract with club owners.

The baseball pension plan guarantees a player a lifetime pension of $800 a month after six years of playing. If he plays as long as ten years, he can draw $1,000 a month for life.

Yet the baseball players want a better deal. They want to up their demands so that the owners will kick in another few million bucks to sweeten the pot.

The way we see it, the professional baseball player can't make a very good case for being downtrodden when he makes more in a few years with his inflated salary and off-season job than most people can expect to make in a lifetime. Many of the players holding out for more money are in the $100,000 per year salary bracket.

We're enough of a baseball fan that we would hate to see the season not open on schedule or see anything happen to it at this time that would mar the season farther down the road after it does open. But we are sure the nation will survive even if the baseball season doesn't open, and it would be interesting to see some of these million dollar babies try to make a comparable wage in some other line of work.—CD

SINCE LAST Thursday, I haven't heard a single soul kid Publisher Jim Cornish about the snow shovel that leans against the wall just inside The Dispatch front door.

Some say the snow, falling on March 30, is the latest one we ever got here. I have been here since 1953 and the latest one I remember before last Thursday's fall March 21, the first day of spring, about 1958 or 1959.

SOME OLDTIMERS say that the snow that fell here one July Fourth, years and years ago, was the latest—but there has to be a line drawn somewhere between early and late. It appears to me that a snow is considered "late" if it falls before June 30, which is about midway of the year, and "early" if it falls after that date.

Looking at it that way would make the July Fourth snowfall undoubtedly the "earliest" on record, and last Thursday's one of the "latest," if not the latest.

WHILE ON THE subject of the weather, I might mention that Polly Duren came in the other day to set me straight on the testing of the Indian legend on wind direction in relation to the crop outlook. I was under the impression that the test was made at sunrise on the first day of Spring and that those testing it were mixed up in their thinking that March 22 is the first day of Spring.

Polly says the test is not made on the first day of spring, but at sunrise the day after the first day of spring. Polly is a firm believer in the Indian legend and says last year's wind forecast of a good crop year worked out just right, except for the late rains that practically ruined one of the best crops the county ever had.

THE MAN UP the street says if some people had brain surgery, it would be a minor operation.

The Dispatch has just received the new Calendar of Texas Events, produced by the Texas Highway Department and prepared from information furnished by chambers groups. The long list of events, running from April 1 through Sept. 30, includes Post's July 4th Celebration and Barbecue and the 33rd Post Stampede Rodeo set for Aug. 17-19.

THE LISTINGS in the Calendar of Events encompass old and new events ranging from the 104th Washington County Fair (Breham) to the first annual Howdy-Roo Festival (Marble Falls) and the first annual Texas State Arts & Crafts Fair (Kerrville).

Some intriguing happenings appear for the first time in the latest calendar. These include: First Statewide Folklife Festival at the Institute of Texas Cultures (San Antonio); Annual Slingshot Championships (Carrizo Springs); State Frog-jumping Contest (Refugio), and Spring-Ho Festival (Lampasas).

OTHER EVENTS recently started are the Black-Eyed Pea Jamboree (Athens), International Aarmadillo Confab & Exposition (Victoria), Rendezvous Lunar Festival (NASA area near Houston), and the Cajun Festival & Texas Championship Crawfish Races (Port Arthur).

The Lorenzo Leader says history does seem to repeat itself if you wait around long enough. Not long ago, the ex-editor of the Leader received a letter from the Coca-Cola Company reprimanding her for using their trade-mark "Coke" and not capitalizing the word.

"Your point is well taken, from an advertiser's view, but may I remind you that the Coca-Cola Company did not originate the name 'Coke,' as it is applied to the excellent soft drink produced by

HOW BABIES LEARN

Educationally the first few months of life are almost as important as the early school years. So parents should help baby to learn. Babies learn by looking, listening, touching, tasting and feeling. They learn by exploring, watching you and imitating what you do. We now know that babies learn most when they are moved about and held.

The first thing a baby learns to do is look. He learns this during the first three months of life. Since he learns by looking, give him something to see. Hang a mobile over his crib, or suspend one from the light fixture in the room where he spends most of his time. Make one by hanging magazine pictures, scraps of old material, old costume jewelry and other interesting household items from a clothes hanger. Be certain, however, that it's high enough to be out of his grasp.

Easier still, hang a shiny aluminum pie pan by his crib or a brightly colored picture of piece of fabric. Aluminum foil or bright paper crushed into a ball and hung where it can twist and turn will amuse him.

Anything bright and eye-catching that you can show him helps him learn about his world. Hold the baby in your lap, and let him play with different objects. Talk to him about what he's seeing. He won't understand now, but you'll soon find him listening ever so carefully.

Hold him up to the window to see what's going on outside. Have lots of things for him to look at, because the more he sees, the more he'll want to look.

In a few months holding the baby up to a mirror and playing games with him will be a source of great delight. It teaches him who he is. See if he recognizes you in the mirror. Soon you can help him find his ears, eyes, nose and mouth. He'll soon point out these things on your face, too. What better way can a child begin learning who he is and what he looks like than by playing in front of a mirror with someone close to him?

All babies are different. Make yours feel special by giving him plenty of attention and loving care. Because a baby who feels loved learns better.

Parents can make this first learning experience fun for the baby. A active, interested and alert child, little attention can lead to a more

Rosemary Chapman has put an outstanding committee selection of new books. She got to work sending off
The result has been a number of new titles which to please our patrons.
John Updike's "Rabbit-Run" is on our shelves. This is one of his most famous and readable books. Sorry,
I don't read either one so I can't say much about them. I do Updike is considered one of the best novelists in America today. These two books are to be his best work.
Kazan, better known as a screen director, has been writing novels lately. His new novel "The Assassins". The book jacket tells us "The Assassins is about two murders, one at the beginning of the book, one at the end. The dramatic center of this novel, however, is not the murders but a murderous way of life." Sounds dramatic, doesn't it?

We have several new mysteries. Agatha Christie — the granddame of mystery fiction, has a new title out called "Nemesis." She's a tricky lady. Some of her books are so good there's no way to praise them enough. Others are so bad you'd rather not mention them. I hope this one of the first kind. If I ever catch it in the library, I'll find out for you.
Emma Lathen — my favorite — has spun us another tale called "The Longer the Thread". It, too, is checked out, so I can't tell you what it's about. I can pretty well guarantee, though, that its good reading. I have yet to read a bad one by her.
And do you remember Kemelman's Rabbi, the one who slept late, went hungry and stayed home — all on different days of the week? Well, "Monday the Rabbi Took Off" and I understand in this one he takes off for Israel, surely an excellent location for mysterious goings on.
The world of fact is also alive in the library. Bill Mauldin's biography "The Brass Ring" is available. He's the one who gave us those classic World War II cartoons of Willie and Joe. Those of us who remember the war have a more vivid memory of it because of Bill Mauldin. This book ought to be great reading.
Another biography that will be popular is "Tracy and Hepburn" by Garson Kanin. The public is always interested in the private lives of the famous ones. This book is sure to circulate a lot.
A surprise title and a book you have to see to believe is "Colleen Moore's Doll House". It is beyond description! Made up of color photographs of what has to be the world's most elaborate and expensive doll house, Miss Moore tells how this project got started and what has been put into it. It's a gorgeous book, don't miss it.
Sports fans are bound to enjoy "Brian Piccolo: A Short Season", a story that has captured the imagination and emotion of the country. Amateur archeology buffs — especially those interested in early American artifacts — will want to take a look at C. W. Ceram's "The First American." Mr. Ceram is the one who wrote that fantastic book probably the most readable and enjoyable book on archeology ever. If his latest book is half as good it's bound to be a winner.
And before I sign off, a book that will be very popular is Ralph Hall's biography "The Main Trail".

An Open Letter
To The People
Of Texas

...a candidate for attorney general of Texas because I believe it's for a change in the office.
...Crawford Martin is seeking a term. It's the first time in history of Texas an attorney general is running for a fourth term. Campaigns should be run on the merits and I don't like to inject politics and personal relationships into a political campaign. But, relationship between Frank and Atty. Gen. Crawford cannot be swept under the rug.
...the new book about the Texas fraud scandal, "Under the Hood" tells about that relationship. On page 128 the book says: "Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin, got some free newspaper publicity when it was revealed in 1971, that he received a tip from Frank Sharp — a tip that Martin and his family were to each guest late in 1969 again at Sharp's Houston office in 1970."
...Sharp was trying personally to National Bankers Life stock to buy, although the attorney general said that Sharp never mentioned the possibility of Sharpe's Bank loans to buy the stock. Martin said that he turned the offer down because it would cost too much, because NBL was in "shaky" condition, and because he did not buy "speculative" stock.
...he did not comment on the fact that a state official is buying a stock tip of that sort — especially because Martin, as attorney general, had ruled in favor of a key legal issue about National State Bank only two years before Sharp's stock offer to Martin.
...Martin's ruling had the effect of making the bank's capitalization illegal and thus its ability to make large loans, ultimately giving to the financial resources he had in the manipulations charged to NBL.
...If you know, hundreds of people lost their life savings because of Sharp's stock manipulations and it probably wouldn't have happened but for Atty. Gen. Martin's legal opinion.
...If you agree, it's time for a change in the office of attorney general of Texas?
...So you'll know what you'd be getting to, I'd like to tell you a little about John Hill. I'm a native Texan, grew up in Wink and Killbuck national debate champion at Junior College and from the University of Texas Law School. I served in the military during World War II, practiced law much of the time in Houston, and was attorney of state from 1966 to 1970. I would appreciate your support for a change.

SWEET FOOD FOR THOUGHT

IF YOU'RE ONE OF THE MILLIONS RETURNING TO NATURAL FOODS, YOU'VE PROBABLY DISCOVERED MOLASSES AS YOUR SWEETENER. BUT YOU MAY WONDER, WHAT THE DIFFERENCE IS BETWEEN SULPHURED, BLACKSTRAP, AND UNSULPHURED MOLASSES.

SULPHURED MOLASSES IS A BY-PRODUCT OF SUGAR-MAKING. IT IS WHAT YOU HAVE LEFT AFTER TREATING SUGAR CANE WITH SULPHUR FUMES, AND REMOVING MUCH OF NATURE'S NATURAL SWEETENER... SUGAR!

BLACKSTRAP MOLASSES IS THE END PRODUCT OF SUGAR MAKING. AFTER ALL THE COMMERCIALY AVAILABLE SUGAR HAS BEEN REMOVED FROM THE CANE, THE DARK, BITTER TASTING MOLASSES LEFT IS CALLED BLACKSTRAP.

UNLIKE SULPHURED AND BLACKSTRAP WHICH ARE BY-PRODUCTS OF SUGAR MAKING... GRANDMA'S OLD FASHIONED UNSULPHURED MOLASSES IS MADE TO BE JUST THAT... MOLASSES. NO SUGAR HAS BEEN REMOVED... NO PRESERVATIVES ADDED. IT IS THE TOTAL PRODUCT OF SUN-RIPENED SUGAR CANE. USE IT FOR ITS OWN SWEET SELF, OR IN PLACE OF BROWN SUGAR IN GLAZES, SAUCES, ETC.

The food store always offers something 'new'

COLLEGE STATION — The food store always offers something that is "new." It may be new forms of the same old thing, or it may be a completely new division because of a processing method.

"Look for something new when you shop this week," said Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing specialist with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service. "This is one of the best ways to keep up with innovations in nutrition."

At retail meat counters, look for best beef values on chuck roasts and steaks, boneless cuts for pot roasting, round steaks, ground beef and beef liver.

Find pork values in some lines of bacon, fresh and smoked picnic roasts, Boston butt roasts and in shoulder steaks.

"Fryer chickens are an excellent protein and price choice. Grade 'A' large eggs offer the best combination of quality and economy for your egg money this week," the specialist noted.

"Abundant sources of vitamin C are now available in the markets at reasonable costs," Mrs. Clyatt said. "Oranges, grapefruit, tangelos, and lemons present good fruit buys."

Apples, pears, bananas, pineapples and strawberries are other fruits worthy of consideration because of their moderate prices.

"Good values remain on root vegetables including carrots, dry yellow onions, turnips, potatoes, rutabagas and sweep potatoes," the specialist concluded.

TAKE EASTER TRIP
Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Didway and children, Cristal and Blair, spent the Easter holiday touring the Big Bend country.

Mr. Hall is a retired Presbyterian preacher, one who was a cowboy evangelist you might say. He's of particular interest here because he was the first pastor of the Presbyterian Church here in Post.

WANTED - Your Vote for JOE SMITH for District Attorney

Thanks, Voters

I want to take this means of thanking the voters for your support in the City Election Saturday.

I will do my best as a city councilman to give you the kind of local government Post needs and deserves.

FRED MYERS

WE SALUTE

These Firms Which Are Giving Post's Business District A New and Better Look:

1. United Super Market
2. Wacker's
3. The Medical Center
4. Garza Feed and Supply
5. South Broadway Coin-Op Laundry
6. White Auto Store
7. Danish Imports
8. Marshall-Brown's
9. The Post Dispatch

These firms have invested over $225,000 in the future of Post. This is very substantial proof that "our town" is "on the move."

More business improvements here already are in the planning stage. Here at the bank we are remodeling too to offer better service to our customers.

We pledge to do our share in helping Post to continue to grow and prosper.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
The Bank of Distinction

4 more Chamber groups to meet

Four Chamber of Commerce committees have additional meetings scheduled for the next few days, with downtown merchants invited to a lunch at 1 p.m. today at the Drover House Restaurant by the retail promotion committee to begin discussing the community-wide promotion program for the remainder of 1972.

Mrs. Maxine Marks, chairman of the committee, is asking for as big a turnout as possible. The industrial committee, headed by Giles C. McCrary, has a 1:30 p.m. session scheduled at the bank community room this afternoon with a small industry prospect. The industrial committee met Friday afternoon for an organizational meeting.

New requirements met by junkyards

Thanks to a city ordinance passed several months ago, junkyards in Post are already "pretty well" in compliance with the bill adopted by the Texas legislature requiring junkyards, or automobile "graveyards" within 1,000 feet of a main highway to be removed or screened. Mayor Giles C. McCrary said yesterday.

Postings—

George's idea is that he is going to handle "everything a farmer or rancher needs" to operate so there will be no need for anybody having "to drive all the way to Lubbock to get one or two items."

The way the Childers are getting after it, it looks like Post is going to have the finest seed and supply house you'll ever find in a smaller town.

They're not only planning "one stop service" but "drive through service" as well.

On page 7 the First National Bank has an unusual ad saluting all the firms which together have added over a quarter of a million dollars worth of improvements to Post's business district in the last few weeks.

The bank, of course, is busy improving too — "we're just trying to keep up with everybody else," J. B. Potts says.

There's more improving been made in business property here in the last three months than at any time in well over a decade. And what's more, there are plans being made for additional business construction right now.

If you think Post business folks are back on their heels, you'd better think again.

But by far the most unusual ad The Dispatch has run in many a year — and by far the sweetest — appears on page 5. And we bet Maggie will love it.

Housing—

(Continued From Front Page) obtained through SPAG. The committee will meet again in two weeks to consider what kind of a housing program it believes the community now needs.

Attending the session were Dr. Charles G. Tubbs, James Mitchell, Bryan J. Williams, Tom Bouchier, Potts, Herron and McCrary, all committee members, Mrs. Wynne Kennedy, Chamber secretary and Jim Cornish.

Bob Ford in talk to Post Rotarians

The Rev. Bob Ford, minister of the First United Methodist Church, addressed Post Rotarians at their city hall luncheon Tuesday on the subject, "Who Am I", in terms of being a Christian and an American in that order.

"My first allegiance is to God and my second loyalty is to my country," Mr. Ford declared. But he went on to say that there are "some things that are bothering me about this country."

First, he said, is the often-seen sign, "America — Love It or Leave It." That, he contended, indicates a first loyalty on the part of the individual to America.

Second, he listed pollution. "I see that people are spoiling our earth, our water, and our air because they are not willing to give up a portion of their profit to prevent pollution."

Third, Mr. Ford told Rotarians, is the attitude of many condemning everybody on welfare as "lazy and no account." He said he has realized that neither he nor the people who think this way have tried to create jobs for these unfortunate.

In conclusion, he affirmed the fact that "I am an American who loves his country more because 'I realize it is a gift from God and therefore can love it more.'"

Firemen to get new equipment

The Post Volunteer Fire Department expects delivery soon of new equipment, including fire hose, air packs and a fog nozzle, Fire Chief Neal Clary said Wednesday.

Four hundred feet of new 2½-inch fire hose has been ordered. Two new 30-minute air packs are being purchased, which will give the fire department the required number of four 30-minute and two 15-minute air packs, Clary said.

The air packs are worn by firemen over their face when entering burning buildings where such equipment is necessary, the fire chief explained.

Eighteen members of the historical survey committee were among the 35 persons who attended the meeting.

Late snowfall—

North of Post, the snow was much lighter. One driver from Lubbock said he didn't see "a sign of snow" until he approached the edge of the caprock northwest of here.

"The moisture from the snow helped a little, but actually we needed about a foot and a half more of it," said County Agent Syd Conner. He said the dry ground soaked up the snow as fast as it fell.

Farmers, still waiting on moisture, are variously engaged at this time in putting down chemical weed control, listing, and pre-planting irrigation, the county agent said.

The Post Cactus Garden got a "white rock improvement" via the Green Thumb crew this week.

Sam Etter of the Chamber of Commerce tourist committee secured the free delivery of two loads of the white gravel, left over from a state highway project, from County Commissioner Herbert Walls.

The Green Thumb crew was then scheduled by Etter and this week they cleaned weeds from the garden and spread the white gravel over the garden to give it a much improved appearance.

Trackmen undecided between two meets

The Post Antelope track team will compete this weekend either at Kress or Seagraves, Coach Lane Tannehill said Tuesday. He had not definitely decided at the time The Dispatch sports page went to press which of the two meets the 'Lopes would attend.

Both the Kress and Seagraves meets are on Saturday, and this weekend's competition will be the last for the Antelope thincials before the District 4AA track and field meet at Idalou on April 14.

In a crowded field at Andrews last Friday, the Post team scored only eight points on Mark Bevers' second place finish in the mile run.

Friday was the first since since the opening Brownfield meet that Bevers had failed to place first in the mile.

Bevers lost by about seven yards to Jay Jones of Floydada after leading for the first three laps. Jones' time was 4:41.4 and Bevers was 4:42.6. Jesse Davila of Littlefield placed third in 4:43.9.

Roger Pace of Post qualified for the finals in the 220-yard dash with a time of 24.5 and for the finals in the shot put with a throw of 43-9. Hamlin scored 85 points to win the Andrews meet in the Class AA division and Floydada was second with 82 points. Of the District 4AA teams competing, Idalou scored 17 points, Roosevelt, 14 and Slaton, 11.

David Vasquez of Roosevelt won the 440-yard dash in a time of 51.6. Bryan Kendrick of Idalou placed second in the long jump, and teammate David Ancisco finished third in the half-mile run.

Slight jump in traffic deaths

AUSTIN — Col. Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said today the final tabulation of 1971 motor vehicle traffic accidents shows that 3,594 persons died last year on Texas streets and highways. An additional 121,082 were injured and the total economic loss was $1.045 billion.

"The death figure of 3,594 represents a 1 per cent increase over the 1970 toll of 3,560. Actually, with all factors considered, the rise in deaths could have been greater," Speir said.

Of the 3,594 deaths, 2,184 occurred on rural roadways and 1,310 in urban areas. There were 2,993 fatal accidents and total accidents reported for 1971 was 394,166.

Speir said driving too fast for conditions and driving while intoxicated continued as the primary law violations contributing to fatal mishaps. Other major violations included driving on the wrong side of the roadway and failure to yield the right-of-way.

Annual 'Career Week' held at high school

By WYNETTE BYRD

Well, this is a new week and the seniors can begin classes again. Last week, the seniors and Juniors at Post High School were involved in Career Week, with some 20 guest speakers 'presenting' their colleges or professions.

The week was started off Monday with Ronald Tyler introducing Mr. Griffin and Dr. Dunning of San Angelo University. They showed slides of the campus and described the curriculum.

Randy Strickland was the speaker for McMurry College, which is a Methodist church - supported school.

Representing South Plains Junior College of Levelland was Don Miller, who said South Plains is high in academic in technology, the classes are small and individual attention is available.

Monday afternoon, the students heard T. D. Cramer, president of the Chevron Oil Co. He discussed the oil business and showed films of land wells and offshore wells.

Tuesday's first speaker was Coach John Alexander, who spoke of the teaching profession. He said the most important thing in being a teacher is a willingness to work with young people.

Dr. Charles G. Tubbs spoke on the medical profession and health careers in general. He pointed out that there are 64 persons employed in health care in Post. He discussed the work of medical secretaries, dental assistants, dental hygienists, hospital administrator, medical and psychiatric social workers, etc.

Bob Collier, a 1941 graduate of Post High School and a graduate of the University of Texas, told of the pharmacist profession, which requires a five-year course including all sciences.

The ministry was the subject of the Rev. Robert Griffin, who said, "Education cannot make the preacher, it can only sharpen the tools you already have."

Mr. Milton, a law enforcement officer, spoke on public safety, and Larry Wilson of Lubbock on careers with the FBI.

Ann Tubbs' subject was the nursing profession, along with all the health careers available. She told what courses you must have to qualify and what courses you need in high school.

A gentleman from Lubbock spoke on a program of "live and learn" and told how to acquire financial aid if you need it to attend college.

Two speakers from the United Electronics Institute explained how electronics knowledge may be acquired in only two years. They showed film strips and illustrations.

Career Week was concluded with talks by representatives of Western Texas College in Snyder and Texas Tech University.

The National Honor Society sponsored Career Week. The students wish to thank all the speakers.

Monday, April 17, is fast approaching for those taxpayers who have yet to file their federal income tax returns for 1971.

The Director of Internal Revenue urges taxpayers to avoid the last-minute rush - to make every effort to prepare and file their own returns now.

"Many taxpayers prepare their own returns by following the instructions, but a qualified tax specialist is a sound investment for complex tax problems," the director said.

Besides all of these qualities you would have an overall B average in the preceding semester. If you decide that you want to run for president or vice president, you would have a chapter degree or be working on it. For the other offices you only have to have a junior degree.

Before voting for a person to be a leader in FHA be sure that they have some of these qualities. Here are a number of girls in Post High with these qualities.

YOUR BEHAVIOR IS SHOWING

By LANITA JUSTICE

In today's world, the main thing the teens hear from grown-ups is their behavior. Put this question in your mind. Do you, as a teenager have the behavior that is equal to your age? If you don't, then you may have a problem once you are out on your own.

Tickets on sale for Senior play

The Senior Play, which is scheduled for April 8, is still in full swing. If you would like to purchase a ticket contact Carol Compton, Wynette Byrd, Kim Owen, Randell Hays, Mark Hays, Mary Ann Wright, Ronald Tyler, Larry Hair, Jackie Moore, Liz Torres, Lucy Justice, and Debbie Cross.

own. However, no one's behavior is perfect. No one's behavior will ever be perfect, not even that of the grownups.

There is a time, however, to be serious in the things that may affect your future. People tend to judge you by your behavior whether it is good to you, and bad to them or the other way around. By bringing your self-discipline to the surface, you may be introducing a new person to the people around you, who looked down on you for your behavior. Behavior isn't everything, but it plays a big part, because:

- B is for — Bringing your self-discipline to the surface.
- E is for — Effort.
- H is for — Having a serious side at serious times.
- A is for — Acting your age.
- V is for — Victorious over all.
- I is for — Impressing people with your attitude.
- O is for — Obtaining success.
- R is for — Remembering all of the above.

No one is asking you to change your behavior, that's up to you. So if you think your attitude is perfect, tell everyone your secret!

First deadline on PHS annual met; another coming

By RANDELL HAYS

Finally, the first 45 pages of the Caprock 1972 Annual were sent to the Taylor Publishing Co. Forty-five pages were due in the factory by April 1, so they could start production. Our next deadline is May 1 when a total of 45 more pages will be sent to the company.

This year's annual will consist of 136 pages with over 250 pictures. This year's annual will also have some activities and things that were not included last year. Post High is in the process of starting some new organizations, and we have several new groups already started.

Our main interest is to provide you with a nice, attractive and beautiful annual for 1972, and the annual staff is working hard to make that interest come true.

Our next page deadline will be May 1, and the remainder of the pages will be sent in on June 1. The annual is due to arrive for distribution sometime in August.

Volleyball gets groups involved

By SCOTTY HOYLE

Two groups of students have taken up the exciting game of volleyball. The groups selected by the team themselves, have named themselves the "Soul Spikers." All so there is another group which have named themselves the "Amateurs."

Each day, Monday through Friday, at 12 noon, these players get together and "do their thing."

Everyone is invited to come on and watch these teams in action. You will enjoy the performance as well as watching all the "Soul Spikers" and "Amateurs" laugh themselves, to where they are unable to play the game. If you want to laugh your head off and still see good volleyball playing, go to the high school gym at noon.

advertising advice...

BY A BANKER

-IN-

AMERICAN BANKERS' MAGAZINE

"No business man in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and address being mentioned somewhere in its columns. This does not mean you should have a whole, half or even quarter page ad in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned, even if you do not use more than a two-line space.

"A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town by looking at the paper. This is the best possible town advertising. The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and to the town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town, but refuses to advertise his own, is not a valuable addition to any town... The life of a town depends on the live, wide-awake and liberal advertising men."
