Our congratulations to County Judge Giles W. Dalby and the Garza County Commissioners Court upon obtaining approval for a $44,125 federal grant from the Texas Criminal Justice Council.

It was not exactly easy.

It looked for many weeks as if Garza was going to come out on that proverbial short end of the stick, but Judge Dalby and the commissioners worked hard at it, dug for support wherever they could find it, and emerged Friday afternoon with the council's final approval.

Judge Dalby, just to be sure that there was no last minute slip-up, went to Austin himself Friday to meet with the executive committee which first must approve the grants and then stayed for the council's action that afternoon clearing the funds.

Certainly, no one can deny that Garza needs the new law enforcement offices and the new county jail, which when built will be one of the few county jails in Texas to measure up to all modern standards.

With all the billions the U. S. Government has poured into improving the nation's law enforcement in the last four years, Garza at long last is now ready to reap a real major benefit.

There are several alternatives open to the court to provide the county's matching financing. The commissioners and Judge Dalby are now studying the possibilities and it is hoped will reach a practical choice with no lost motion.

Postings wishes to call attention too to the public open house next Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 5 p. m. at The Little Foundry. We hope everybody will take an hour to go look over Post's new industry and to make George Carter and his men feel welcome in our community.

They are really getting the former grain warehouse, which they now call "home", all fixed up for the public open house and for a formal opening earlier that same afternoon to which The Little Foundry's customers and suppliers have been invited.

Getting organized in a new plant, adding more equipment, enlarging the work force and getting "caught up" with back orders at one and the same time has been no easy feat.

The State Criminal Justice Council in Austin Friday afternoon approved Garza County for a $44,125 federal grant to build a new law enforcement complex and jail just behind the county courthouse on the courthouse square.

County Judge Giles W. Dalby, who met with the executive committee of the council Friday morning in Austin, told The Dispatch he and the commissioners court were very appreciative of the help given them by Gov. Preston Smith's office in getting the federal grant approved.

Walter Vines new city patrolman

Walter Vines, a retired veteran of 12 years service in the air police for the U. S. Air Force, is Post's new police patrolman.

He began his duties here Saturday, replacing Dean Gressett, who resigned after only two weeks on the job. Vines works the night shift.

Vines, who is 39, has been working as a civilian policeman for the last 10 months at Friona while living in Hereford. In a few months here he will be qualified for state certification as a law enforcement officer.

Vines, his wife, and three daughters have moved into the deputy's apartment on the third floor of the courthouse while seeking suitable living quarters. Anybody with a two or three bedroom house for rent is asked to contact Vines through the police department.

Area soil chapter presented award

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Mayo returned to Post Sunday from Corpus Christi where he received the award presented the South Plains Chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America as the state's outstanding chapter for 1972.

Mayo, SCS district conservationist here, is currently serving as the 15-county South Plains Chapter president.

The award was presented last Friday at the society's three-day state meeting, which was attended by approximately 600 persons. The lettering on the award plaque reads as follows: "Soil Conservation Society of America Outstanding Chapter Award, awarded to the South Plains Chapter in Texas for exceptional chapter activities leading to the advancement of the art and science of good land use."

SUFFERS ACID BURNS

Lee Price, area farm employe, was dismissed from Garza Memorial Hospital Monday after being admitted last Thursday for treatment of acid burns on his face and chest, received when a battery exploded.

County efforts to secure the grant to build the $88,250 building, which will have a corridor connecting it to the courthouse through the old west door, began in earnest in early spring.

As it turned out, Garza County barely got under the wire with the big federal grant which will pay half the cost of construction of the law enforcement annex.

Judge Dalby said at the same Friday afternoon meeting in which the state criminal justice council approved the grant, the council set new guidelines for any future building projects with federal funding to provide that such would not be approved unless a building was destroyed by "an act of God" or was condemned.

Judge Dalby told The Dispatch that the county has several routes to choose in putting up the county's 50 per cent matching share for the project.

He said the commissioners court are discussing the various possibilities and he hopes the court will have a decision as to financing, possibly for next week's Dispatch.

The architectural plans for the building have been drawn and approved by the state criminal justice council in its approval of the application.

Such plans call for office space for all law enforcement agencies operating in the county, including the Post police department, state highway patrol, sheriff's office, state game warden, with an extra office for FBI or Texas Ranger use when needed.

The new jail will meet all present jail requirements of both state and federal agencies, Garza County's jail has been condemned by a grand jury for a number of years.

The city police now operate out of the sheriff's office in the courthouse in a rather recent move to obtain effective coordination of the two local law enforcement agencies, one of the conditions necessary to qualify for federal funding of the new law enforcement complex.

Two injured in mower mishaps

Mower accidents have resulted in injuries to two Post residents. The victims have been County Supt. Dean A. Robinson and Johnny Mickey.

Robinson had to have the middle finger of his right hand amputated just below the first joint after his hand became caught in the mower while he was making an adjustment. Two other fingers on the same hand were injured in the accident, which happened last Thursday evening.

Mickey lost part of the fourth toe on his right foot Tuesday of last week when his foot became caught in a mower while he was using his foot to push the mower into a decline at the base of a peach tree. The toe was cut off just below the nail and two other toes on the same foot were broken in the accident.

Early Tuesday rain helps swell total

A "soaker" of a rain fell north and northeast of Post early Tuesday morning, with measurements varying up to two inches, and Post itself recording .59 of an inch from the sudden downpour, which hit about 3 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Traces of rain Wednesday and Wednesday night measured only .06 of an inch in Post.

The .65 of an inch total for the two days brings Post's total measurement for the year to 11.26 inches, according to records at the Southwestern Public Service Company office.

New accounts need social security number

Banks are now required by new federal law 91508 to record the social security number of individuals opening new checking accounts, Will Parker, officer of the First National Bank, said this week.

The law became effective July 1. It is not retroactive, according to Parker, to existing checking accounts. Parker said the bank will do all the paper work necessary to secure a social security number for any customer not having one who wishes to open an account.

Escapes in stolen car after kidnap fought off

A youthful trio, one of them a woman, went on a crime spree here before daybreak Tuesday. After failing at gunpoint to kidnap Marts, an obliging Post resident who was giving them a lift in his pickup, they apparently stole a station wagon at the Julian Smith residence and barely got away from local officers already looking for them.

The spree all began when they saw the car they were driving, a 65 Mercury four-door hardtop, parked in Missouri, at 5 a. m. 13 miles northwest of Post on US-94.

The three got out of the wrecked car with only minor cuts to one of the occupants and walked "back country" to the Marts' home at the end of West 13th St. They told Marts about having an accident. He let them into the house to clean up and then was taking them into Post at their own request in his pickup down 13th St. One of the boys pulled a .32 caliber revolver on Marts and told "We're going to take you a way from here."

Marts, according to officers, let the wheel and grappled with the youth for the revolver. The youth nosed into the ditch. Marts still holding onto the gun and the revolver away from him, slammed him against the side of the pickup.

The trio fled on foot into the brush. Marts immediately drove to Deputy Sheriff Jim Pippin's home and told him of the attempted kidnap.

Marts dressed rapidly and he and Marts went looking for the car.

Blocks away, the trio stole a white Dodge station wagon from the driveway of the Julian Smith home.

Marts heard the car being backed out of the driveway and immediately telephoned the radio dispatcher at the sheriff's office.

The dispatcher notified Deputy Sheriff Jim Pippin of the car theft. Pippin immediately gave the dispatcher details of the attempted kidnap and headed south on US-94, hoping the trio would continue in the same direction in the locally known area.

A roadblock of US-94 at Snyder was ordered by radio but the trio fled and stopped at a low tire. The deputy drove into Snyder and headed around, stopping at the Snyder home where the trio had stopped before and getting a description of the youthful trio before the stolen car.

The highway patrol investigating the wrecked car at Snyder northwest of Post which had been abandoned. It had been abandoned. It had been abandoned.

Local fire department was called to extinguish the blaze. The car, according to the high school, belonged to Mrs. Stansberry of Route 2, Bourbon, and had been reported stolen.

Investigating officer found a 1972 Texas license plates, stolen from Canadian, and the back seat of the burned car. (See Crime Spree, Page 8)

Seriously injures hand while repairing fence

Roy Gary was still in Garza Memorial Hospital yesterday after suffering a freak injury to his left hand while repairing a picket fence at his home, 615 North Ave. P, Wednesday of last week.

Gary was "squatting" a post hole when the wind blew a loose section of the picket fence back and his hand came down on one of the pickets. The picket pierced his hand and caused temporary paralysis to his hand and left arm.

This was the year for Syd

At a Chamber of Commerce banquet a few years ago, Mrs. A. C. Surman, who had just been presented the "Woman of the Year" award, brought down the house by saying, "What I want to know is why it took you so long."

Mrs. Surman was joking, of course, but seriously, we are wondering why it "took them so long" to get around to tabbing Garza County Agricultural Agent R. S. (Syd) Conner for a Distinguished Service Award, which is the highest award given by the National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

Certainly, everything Syd has done as county agent since he came on the job here some ten years ago has qualified him for consideration for such an award as he is to receive at a national meeting Nov. 5-10 in Atlanta, Ga.

After Syd's first year as county agent here, we have annually checked the list of the NACAA's Distinguished Service Award winners, without once failing to wonder what a county agent had to do to qualify for the award, but never doubting that one day we would receive a list of the award recipients with Syd's name on it.

And this was the year. There is no need of repeating here Syd's many contributions that have won him the award. They were itemized in the announcement story we ran, along with Syd's picture, in last Thursday's Post Dispatch.

We do want to add one contribution that wasn't mentioned in the story sent us by the Texas Recognition and Awards Committee. And that contribution has been the excellent way in which Syd has cooperated with The Dispatch on news from his office, especially news having to do with 4-H Club work. Not only has he gone out of his way to see that we got full and complete reports on events we were for some reason unable to cover, but he also has been patient and understanding about news from his office that we sometimes have had to leave out of the issue of the paper for which it was intended.—CD

Rural legislators 'hang in there'

Having just read a comprehensive report from State Rep. Renel B. Rosson of Snyder on the third special session of the 62nd Legislature, which ended July 7 following three weeks of intensive work on budget matters, we are impressed by two things: (1) Budget matters were the only legislation considered during the session, with the exception of a few resolutions, and (2) in debate involving the urban versus rural point of view, the rural representation gave a good account of itself.

Point No. 2 seems especially important to us because, although the urban-rural line has been finely balanced in the House of Representatives, that balance is already swinging toward the urban areas, with a much stronger swing of weight to the larger cities due in the next session as a result of redistricting.

According to Rep. Rosson's report, a typical example of the rural-city conflict came late one night when debate was being heard on the appropriations for the Texas A&M University extension service programs and a member proposed an amendment to take one-half of the funds from the predator animal control funds and transfer it to the predator control funds in which cities are the primary beneficiary.

Mr. Rosson says the Appropriations chairman was about to accept the amendment on voice vote, not knowing the full extent of the rural areas' predator problem, when he (Rosson) along with the representative from Fort Stockton and other rural legislators rose to oppose any move to divert predator funds. "We had so little time," Rosson continued, "that our effort fell short by four votes; however, after the situation had been explained to members of the conference committee, we were able to get the funds restored to the predator control program."

"The urban people," Rosson added, "were also able to secure some additional funds for fighting rats."

What it all amounted to, of course, was a battle over funds for the control of coyotes and other predators in the rural areas and for the control of rats in the urban areas. Much to the credit of the legislators from the rural areas, it can be said that they did not lose the fight.

Rep. Rosson does not seem to think that the urban areas are as likely to vote together as consistently as the rural members.

"Some rural members occasionally vote with the city boys as a matter of principle, and vice versa," he says. "Sometimes the rural viewpoint gets a boost from the big city press, such as a recent Dallas News editorial pointing out the interest big city folks have in the farm-to-market road program."

Rosson warns, however, that with each redistricting of the Legislature we must recognize the added responsibility facing our rural membership.

"Incidentally," he adds, "we consider Lubbock, Wichita Falls, Abilene, San Angelo, Midland, and Odessa part of the rural representation."—CD

What our contemporaries are saying

Scientists agree that the earth is at least 4.5 billion years old. However, there are varying theories as to its origin. Some have suggested that it was created from a great cloud of dust. Others would have you believe that it was created from a piece of the sun. Frankly speaking, we still prefer the one that begins, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth."—Alma, Ga., Wiregrass News.

WE STILL HAVE several days of July and all of August to go before we get to the month of September, which is the month that thoughts of most of the populace start turning to football and the caliber of the team we're going to have.

Helping move things right along toward the local football season is the wind-up, now in progress, of the summer baseball season. Then will come the state coaching school, followed by a flock of predictions on district winners, and, after coaching school, the opening of football practice.

FEW OF US football fans have any doubt that the Post Antelope's dismal 1-9 mark of 1971 is going to be improved on. Just how much it will be improved on remains to be seen.

The man up the street says he hates to grow old alone, but that his wife has quit having birthdays.

MAYBE THE new slogan, "We're all in this together," doesn't apply to the Democratic party following its national convention. But it still applies to enough of us that somebody might be in for a big surprise next November. Go get 'em, George and Tom!

MANY OF THE top 20 tunes in the pop field apply to this year's presidential campaign. The No. 1 record, for instance, "Lean on Me," could be a dedication from John Connally to President Nixon. The No. 2 tune, "Too Late to Turn Back Now" almost fit Sen. Ted Kennedy after he woke up the Democratic convention with his 1:30 a. m. speech.

The No. 3 tune, "Alone Again (Naturally)," fits Hubert Humphrey, and Wayne Newton's No. 6 hit record, "Daddy, Don't Walk So Fast," could be applied to Nixon's man, Henry Kissinger. No. 15 among the top 20, "Song Sung Blue," will fit whichever side loses the election.

A HARASSED Dallas housewife tells about a rascal who broke into her car and pilfered $35 worth of groceries—out of her glove compartment.

The Post Dispatch has had its share of misprints down through the years, but none so outstanding as to make the particular issue of the paper in which it appeared a collector's item.

IT IS DOUBTFUL that any newspaper and very few books have become collector's items through little slips made by the printer and not caught by the proofreader. "But let the printer get one word wrong in the Bible and you have a collector's item," writes Dr. Howard V. Harper in his column, "Days of All Faiths."

Dr. Harper writes that many editions of the Scriptures have been given special names simply because a proofreader overlooked a typo or some other error. The Adulterous Bible, printed in 1932, was so called because the word "not" was omitted from the seventh commandment, making it read, "Thou shalt commit adultery."

THE BREECHES Bible, Dr. Harper says, gets its name from its rendering of Genesis 3:7—"The eyes of them both were opened and they sewed fig-tree leaves together and made themselves breeches."

Then there was the Bug Bible, published in 1535, which makes Psalm 91:5 read, "Thou shalt not be afraid for any bugges by night." In the King James version it is "the terror by night."

THE MURDERER'S Bible, printed in 1801, is so called because it makes the 16th verse of Jude say "These are murderers," instead of "These are murmurers," which, Dr. Harper says, was certainly a harsher indictment than the writer intended.

Dr. Harper says the only one of the famous misprints that looks as if there might be more than just carelessness behind it is the Printer's Bible. The mistake in this 1782 edition makes Psalm 119:161 read, "Printers have persecuted me without a cause." It should be "princes."

"WHY," ASKS Dr. Harper, "did this typesetter put in such a gratuitous knock against men of his own trade? Was the boss giving him trouble? Was he on the outs with some of the boys around the shop? One wonders."

So, forgive us our misprints, as you do our misdeeds.

New library record set here for month of June

Patrons of the Post Public Library, including more young readers than old ones, set a new circulation record for a single month in the library's six-year history by checking out 1,264 books in June.

The monthly library report of Mrs. Peewee Pierce, librarian, shows 3,069 total circulation for the first six months of 1972, a new record for the library. A total of 728 juvenile books checked out in June, as compared to only 536 adult books, the activity among young readers.

A total of 34 new books added to library shelves during the month, bringing total stock for 1972 to date to 623 volumes. A total of $21.60 in overdues fines was collected in June, bringing the fines for six months collected to $105.20.

81 enrolled in summer reading

Mrs. Peewee Pierce, librarian, reports some boys and girls are "working hard" to read 12 or more books this summer in the Texas reading club project sponsored by the Post Public Library.

A total of 81 are enrolled in the reading club.

Reading at least 12 books is required for a club certificate. Mrs. Pierce says she hopes that every one of the 81 youngsters will qualify for certificates.

Peewee says the young readers have only about four more "reading weeks" in which to reach their goal. A meeting then will be held at the library to give out the certificates and enjoy refreshments together.

"Please surprise me and read 12 books, if you are enrolled and haven't been doing your reading," Mrs. Pierce said in an appeal this week to book club members.

South, West Texas ranches surveyed

COLLEGE STATION — South and West Texas cattlemen seeking to expand their herds are looking for greener grass in neighboring rangelands and concentrating more on improving their own.

"The region has reached a point where the land is supporting nearly all the cattle it can," explained Calvin C. Boykin, a researcher with the U. S. Department of Agriculture at Texas A&M University.

In a special project for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Boykin analyzed the economics of typical, medium-sized livestock ranches in eight counties in South and Far West Texas.

As the price of cattle increased, so did return on investment. Between 1967 and 1970 operators in most ranches surveyed had boosted returns from between 80 cents

VITAMIN E
Vitamin E has often been called the elusive, mysterious vitamin. The vitamin is very popular today. According to one report, sales of Vitamin E surpassed those of vitamin C last year.

Vitamin E is an essential nutrient that naturally occurs in nature. It's a fat-soluble vitamin that is stored in the body, along with the other fat soluble vitamins A, D, and K.

Deficiencies of vitamin E are extremely rare in man. Many scientists believe a deficiency of the vitamin doesn't occur naturally by itself, but only in combination with deficiencies of other vitamins.

Vitamin E acts as an antioxidant. In the body it prevents the lipid and fat parts of cells from oxidation or degradation. Other possible functions and relationships may be equally important though until now they haven't been thoroughly researched and proved.

Thus there's little basis for the claims that vitamin E is the answer to sterility and sexual impotence, disorders of pregnancy, rheumatic fever, heart disease and others.

Dietary sources of vitamin E include vegetable oils, green leafy vegetables, legumes, nuts, meats and eggs.

There's no evidence to support the belief that massive supplemental doses of vitamin E are necessary for the average healthy person.

ODDS AND ENDS

The following are just a few of the odds and ends that come across my desk during the week. You might enjoy reading them as much as I do. They're full of helpful tid-bits.

Yogurt, ice cream and ice milk can replace milk in diets, but at added cost. A cup of ice cream, then may cost three times as much as one-half cup of milk it's replacing.

One rotten apple can ruin a barrel. And partially decayed vegetables can ruin several if stored together. So before storing vegetables, check for bruised, soft or decayed ones. Store only those in good condition.

Ever get involved in the controversy of whether a tomato is vegetable or fruit? By cultivation and use, it's a vegetable, but botanically, it's a fruit. As a fruit the tomato is considered a berry since it is pulpy and contains one or more seeds that aren't stones. But whichever category you choose, now is the time to enjoy the fine quality of vine-ripened homegrown tomatoes.

Fondue is the newest food craze. It's fun and nourishing. Cheese fondue means easy casual entertaining. Serve unusual "dippers" such as raw fruits — apples, pears and pineapple — and favorite raw vegetables — carrots, green peppers and cauliflower flowerettes.

Hot scrambled eggs will entice even the sleepiest camper to greet the day with hearty breakfast. To prevent eggs from breaking en route to the campsite, break them yourself at home, pour into a plastic container and store in the ice chest. When morning comes, shake the container, transfer beaten eggs to a hot skillet and scramble.

Dry milk, an economical camping trip pal requires little storage space and no refrigeration until reconstituted. Prepare only the amount needed for the meal with ice water. Then the milk will be cold enough to drink immediately.

Don't lessen the quality of food by storing it improperly. Potatoes need careful storage and keep best in a dark, dry, well-ventilated place at 45 to 50 degrees F. In a warm place, potatoes shrivel and sprout and in a cold place the starch in potatoes changes to sugar. Citrus fruits, melons and pineapples keep best out of the refrigerator at room temperatures of 60 to 70 degrees F. It's advisable to refrigerate eggs in the original container or some other covered container because uncovered eggs lose moisture very quickly through their porous shell.

The Great Invitation

By Tommy Davis

SCRIPTURE: Matthew 11: 28-29

"Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls."

Christianity is a religion of divine invitation, not a religion of human request or demand. God takes the initiative, while man responds. Man is acted on; he is the receptor; he is the object of divine love. The great invitation may be called a condensed outline of the gospel message.

The great invitation is personal. Although Jesus lamented the indifference of the cities in which His mighty works had been performed, He still invited individual persons to come to Him. Salvation is primarily an individual and personal matter.

Society cannot make decisions that are ethically and spiritually significant to every individual. But every individual can make ethical and spiritual choices which influence society. The social gospel puts the cart before the horse, for it attempts to convert society before it changes the individual. Society is simply the total of individuals, and regenerated individuals will eventually make a better society. Christians are hand-picked, not sacked up in bunches like grain coming out of a threshing machine.

The great invitation is all-inclusive. One lesson this twentieth century has taught is that the Christian must think in universal concepts. Every human being has an unsigned lease on a piece of God's kingdom. If anyone chooses to sign the lease with confession and repentance, then he is a citizen of God's kingdom on earth, with all the rights and privileges of that Kingdom.

The great invitation guarantees rest. Such rest is not inactivity, nor blissful daydreaming, nor irresponsibility. The Christian rest is repose; it is relaxation from guilt and the tension of sin. The Christian rest is freedom from the strain of carnal ambition. The Christian rest is relief from false standards of personal worth based on possession, position, or power. The Christian rest is the glorious freedom of spiritual release and of spiritual realization.

The great invitation includes work, or service; for taking the "yoke" is putting one's self in the harness for God. Taking the "yoke" means that the Christian does not compromise over the meadows like a young colt. The yoke indicates the Christian is ready to plow spiritual fields, sow spiritual grain, pull spiritual loads, and perform spiritual tasks.

The great invitation brings enlightenment. Christ is the greatest inspiration for learning this world has known. Christ enlightens the mind about the glories of the natural world; Christ illuminates the soul about the meaning of life and the worth of the individual; Christ elevates the sensibilities and enhances the talents.

The great invitation is God's offer of a dynamic, ever-expanding, always-thrilling kind of life.

Lamesa sweeps through BR 13-yr.-old meet unbeaten

Lamesa clobbered Tri-City, 18 to 9, last Friday night to win the championship in Post's 13-year-old Babe Ruth Tournament, which was held at the Lamesa Ball Field. Lamesa swept through undefeated. In an earlier game Friday, Tri-City had stayed in competition in a double-elimination tournament by defeating North Lynn, 12 to 3. The Tri-City team of all-stars were eliminated by Lamesa, 9 to 0, and by eliminating Brownfield, 15 to 0.

er, with relief coming from Scott Murray. Together, they gave up a total of 14 hits to the free-swinging Lamesa batters.

Thursday, Lamesa's Kent Parchman pitched a no-hit game as his team eliminated the North Lynn entry, 8 to 0.

Each team got but two hits in Tri-City's 7 to 4 win over Post Thursday, but wildness and errors hurt both clubs, with the locals being hurt the most.

Each team scored a first inning run without the benefit of a hit, but Post took a 2-1 lead in the second frame when Dan Sawyers led off with a walk, advanced on an error and scored on Rodney Teaff's single.

Tri-City took a 3-2 lead with two runs in the top of the fourth, but Post knotted the score at 3-3 with a run in the bottom of the inning, both teams scoring without the benefit of a hit.

Tri-City scored three in the top of the fifth on two bases on balls, a fielder's choice, two errors and a hit batsman.

Post's final tally came in the bottom of the fifth when Jimmy Dorland scored after reaching base on an error, advancing on walks to Roger Mullenix and Shorty Hester and scoring on a throwing error.

Tri-City's final run came in the top of the seventh when Murray led off with a double and scored on Max Ward's single.

Bobby Ribble went the route for Tri-City to receive credit for the win, while the Post starter, Mike Waldrip, was charged with the loss. He was relieved on the mound by Kyle Duren in the top of the fifth.

Post's only hit besides Teaff's single was a one-base blow by Sawyers in the final frame.

Delbert Wilkerson, Lamesa catcher, was awarded the Most Valuable Player trophy, with Raymond Nelms, Tri-City catcher, and Johnny Hernandez, North Lynn pitcher, runners-up. John Pogue, Lamesa outfielder, won the batting championship trophy with a phenomenal .711 average for the tournament.

Caprock 'Y' loses to Lubbock team

The Caprock team, whose roster included four Post players, lost to Lubbock, 10 to 2, Friday night in the deciding contest of a best two-out-of-three Babe Ruth district series, played in Lubbock.

Lubbock won the first game Thursday in Lamesa, 9 to 2. The Caprock team was composed of players from Post, Tahoka and Lamesa.

In Friday night's first game, the Caprockers evened the series at 1-1 with a 3 to 1 victory, only to lose the deciding game to the Lubbock nine behind the three-hit pitching of Kenny Hill.

By virtue of its series win over Caprock, Lubbock advances to the West Texas state tournament set for July 27-29 in Olton.

Post players on the Caprock squad were Leroy Holly, Kim Owen, Kyle Josey and Danny Lee.

AT DENVER CITY

BR League stars still in running

After losing to North Lynn, 10 to 8, Monday night, the Post Babe Ruth League All-Stars beat Tri-City, 3 to 2, in extra innings Tuesday night to remain in contention for the District 4 tournament championship at Denver City.

The Post team was to meet either Lamesa or North Lynn in their third game in the double elimination tournament at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

With the Post-Tri-City game deadlocked, 2-2, at the end of the regulation seven innings, the locals won it in the ninth frame when Randy J. Josey doubled, with one out, stole third and then scored on Rodney King's bunt, with the Tri-City pitcher unsuccessfully trying to cut Josey down at the plate after fielding King's bunt.

Post was ahead, 2-1, but Garland Dudley, who had relieved Rodney King on the mound, walked in a run to tie the score and send the game into extra innings. Dudley held the Tri-City club scoreless the rest of the way, however, to receive credit for the win.

In Monday night's loss to North Lynn, the Post all-stars got off to a bad start, mainly due to fielding and throwing errors, and trailed 10 to 4 at one point early in the contest. Tony Conner, who went the distance for the losers, held North Lynn scoreless the rest of the way, while he and his teammates were scoring four more runs to pull within two runs of the winners.

The Tri-City team which Post edged in extra innings Tuesday night is made up of players from Denver City, Plains, Seagraves and Seminole.

LL All-Stars lose to Lamesa, 3-0

Post's Little League All-Stars were to play O'Donnell at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday for third place after losing to Lamesa Tuesday night, 3 to 0, in the Area 4 Little League Tournament at Tahoka.

Lamesa and Tahoka, which beat O'Donnell, are to play at 7:30 p.m. for the championship.

Rain fell during much of the Post-Lamesa game, with an especially hard downpour halting the contest at one stage.

Lamesa scored all three of its runs in the first inning, but from there on the game settled into a pitching duel between Post's Evans Heaton and Lamesa's Keith Lee.

The Post team got only two hits off Lee, with Heaton getting one of them and Ronald Bratcher the other.

OUR READERS

THAT 'COLDEST FOURTH'

Dear Jim and Charlie:

Here attached is a clip from your Postings column about that "coldest July 4th" in Post.

I am sure you have already had corrections of this date: 1919 was in column), probably from Tom Bouchier himself for I know he knows that date of the cold July 4th was 1924 and NOT 1929, and I surmise that it must just be a misprint. Anyway I was at Lorenzo at the time, working for the same company Tom was and is working for, and I, along with another fellow planned to go to Post to the picnic at Two Draw that day, but that night Grandma Easter died and we had to help dig a grave. We put up two posts, stretched a wagon sheet up and built a fire behind it to warm by. When our time came to dig in the grave, the fellow we relieved put on his overcoat and stood by the fire. I didn't see any snow flakes. I think it was too cold!

We welcome the old Post Dispatch and usually scan it pretty well. Glad you are having rain out there. We are dry here.

Tell the gang around hello for us. We haven't forgotten Post and the good people of that fair city. Sincerely,

Lowell and Lillie D. Short

New industry—

(Continued from Page 1) moved to Post from his former leased quarters at Lorenzo in early June but since starting up operations here has been forced to concentrate upon catching up with the foundry's back orders.

Carter also has purchased considerable amount of additional equipment which is being installed this week.

This includes a complete overhead sand system to automate the foundry's molding line before pouring. It also includes two additional cupolas to go with the one moved here from Lorenzo in which to melt the metal used in the castings.

Two new British molding machines already have been received here and Carter told The Dispatch a third one is on the way. New core room equipment and new air stations also are being added.

A new blast cleaning setup also is being installed to facilitate the cleaning of the castings.

Carter has had a 12 by 65-foot house trailer moved onto the company's site north across Fifth Street from the plant itself. It is being remodeled this week into the firm's business office and engineering department.

Carter told The Dispatch that the plant's payroll now exceeds 20 employees. The payroll for his operation at Lorenzo totaled eight.

Carter has purchased a residence at 608 West 4th St. and is moving his wife and son here from Lubbock. Granberry also has purchased a home here and plans to move his family into it in September.

BETTER MOUSETRAP

But the United States Patent Office is not so easily impressed. If your mousetrap is better merely because it is made of better materials, you probably could not get a patent. It must also work in a new and better way.

For example: But these advantages of plastic were already well known. Simply applying them to another product was held not original enough to qualify for a patent.

Program given on foil, gold leaf

Mrs. Lucille Richardson gave the program on art foil and gold leaf at the Monday, July 10, meeting of the Post Art Guild.

Mrs. Richardson told how art foil is the easiest most creative, and least expensive way to decorate or refinish almost anything in your home in the appearance of beautiful metal. It can be used to decorate or renew statuary, picture and mirror frames, also candlesticks, lamps, serving trays, and many other things. Old furniture can be transformed to look like new and new home accessories can be made to look like cherished antiques.

Mrs. Lil Conner was welcomed as a new member, and after a short business meeting refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Evelyn Neff, to Meses. Boo Olson, Helen Welch, Ada Lou Bird, Polly Cravy, Marie Neff, Ann Bishop, Estelle Davis, Ruby Kirkpatrick, Lois Williams, Conner and Richardson.

Even if the change of material means added convenience, that usually won't do. Another would-be inventor put together a map case of lightweight metal, making it easier to carry. But again, a court found no basis for a patent. "The lightness" may prove beneficial," said the court, "but it is not invention. There must be original thought or inventive skill, not mere mechanical change of what was old."

On the other hand, a change of material might actually change the way the product functions. Take the matter of garter buttons. Originally made out of metal, garter buttons had two major drawbacks. If the clasp was tight, the stocking had a tendency to tear. If the clasp was loose, the stocking had a tendency to slip.

Someone finally hit upon the idea of making the button out of rubber. This solved both problems at once. Stockings neither tore nor slipped, because the rubber button gripped the fabric in a new and better way.

"It is this capacity for accomplishing results," said the court, "which has always distinguished success from failure and the inventor from the mechanic."

Little League '9' wins third place

Post's Little League All-Stars won third place by beating O'Donnell in the district tournament at Tahoka last night, but the Babe Ruth League All-Stars were eliminated by North Lynn, 3 to 1, in the district tournament at Denver City.

Doug Hall pitched the Little Leaguers to an 11-0 win over O'Donnell for third place honors at Tahoka after the locals had lost to Lamesa, 3-0, Tuesday in their first game. Lamesa won the championship last night by edging Tahoka, 11-10.

Ray Martinez was Post's pitcher in the Babe Ruth All-Stars' loss to North Lynn last night in the double elimination tournament at Denver City. The locals lost their opener to the same team Monday, but came back Tuesday to beat Tri-City in extra innings.
