Opposition mounts here to food stamp contracts

Entire program is threatened

Considerable controversy over the proposed new contract for the Department of Public Welfare wants Garza County to sign for 1972 is threatening the entire new federal food stamp program here. County Judge Giles W. Dalby told The Dispatch yesterday that he is writing the county judges of the other three counties involved in the food stamp office here — Borden, Dickens and Lynn — asking them to confer with their commissioners courts on the proposed new contracts and then meet here around Jan. 15 to inspect present facilities and determine the probable added costs to the counties imposed by the new contract.

The contract would add a lot of expensive additions to the four counties' share of the cost of administering the program.

For one thing, the contract provides that the counties henceforth be responsible for the collection of the money from those on the food stamp program instead of the state workers. The contract also says the counties must furnish an "armed guard" for the collected funds while enroute to deposit in the bank depository.

"This would mean the four counties probably would have to share the expense of an employee to collect the money," County Judge Dalby told The Dispatch.

The contract also requires over 500 square feet of space in the food stamp office here whereas the two rooms now being provided in the Mason Memorial Building contain only 288 square feet.

Garza County already has spent $7,000 fixing up this landmark building for use and if the new contract is enforced on the space requirement probably the county would have to go "rent space" for the food stamp program in another building.

The new contract also sets forth other requirements for office equipment and supplies to be furnished by the federal food stamp offices by sponsoring counties.

The requirements call for electric typewriters and adding machines whereas hand-operated models are now provided. It even specifies certain type desks and lists the supplies to be furnished "right on down to the toilet paper."

Also in the new contract is the requirement that the counties pay 60 cents per food stamp recipient.

As Garza had over 800 persons in the program last year this means the county will have to pay almost $500 for what Judge Dalby calls a "head tax."

Not only will this have to be paid for 1972, but for 1971 as well, and that doubles the added financial burden this year.

Garza County is one of only 28 Texas counties now participating in the federal food stamp program and the food stamp office here serves Lynn, Garza, Borden and Dickens counties.

34 PROPERTIES TO BE OFFERED

Sheriff's tax sale is scheduled for Feb. 1

The largest sheriff's sale of tax delinquent properties possibly ever held in West Texas is scheduled for the Garza County courthouse steps here Tuesday, Feb. 1.

Thirty-four properties will be offered to the highest bidder by Sheriff J. A. (Jimmy) Holleman. Some of them are regarded as rather valuable properties too — the only reason they haven't been developed long ago is that nobody could find the owners, and taxes against them have piled up over the years.

Back in November and in early December citation by publication legal notices were printed for four consecutive weeks in The Dispatch in an effort to find the property owners and notify them of pending sheriff's sales for payment of back taxes.

Since that time the court has issued tax judgments on these properties and they are now ready to go on the block.

A total of 33 sheriff's sale legal notices are printed in today's Dispatch on pages 6 and 7 and page 4. They will be printed for three consecutive weeks as required by law.

Back in early November when the first such sheriff's sale was held on tax delinquent properties in the Post Independent School District, acting as representatives of all the taxing districts involved in the suits, stepped in and purchased all but one of the properties. The school district is expected to do the same thing in the Feb. 1 sale — buying in those properties for which there are no interested buyers.

At some future date, the taxing units will offer these properties for sale. In fact, any such properties now in possession of the taxing units are now subject to negotiated purchase.

Although the taxing units do not expect much return on their back taxes from the sheriff's sales they do want to get the properties back on the tax-paying rolls again.

Pat N. Walker, local attorney who has stayed busy for two years with the local tax delinquency effort, explains that state law provides a two-year redemption clause in the sale of such property. (See Sheriff's Sale, page 8)

Long-delayed cotton harvest hits stretch

Despite another cotton harvest stoppage due to light snow and severe cold this week, The Dispatch's weekly gin check yesterday revealed approximately 9,500 bales out of Garza fields and either ginned or on the gin yards.

Strippers were expected to be back in the fields, probably today, to push the long-delayed harvest into its final stages.

The weekly "gin check" showed 9,246 bales of Garza cotton ginned and another 282 bales on the yards. Gimmers reported all the way from a "third to half finished" all

What bugs us at the moment is when is the city council going to sit down and decide whether or not it favors combining the city and county law arms and thus reap the benefit of a bunch of federal money which would build a new "law enforcement complex and a badly needed jail" with the city's and county's shares thereby reduced to affordable range.

According to what we hear the council members would like the federal aid but are very hesitant about the joint law enforcement procedure.

Well, it should be pretty obvious to everyone you can't have one without the other. Everybody would like a new jail financed by Uncle Sam, but only by a willingness to explore the road of joint law enforcement cooperation will such funds be forthcoming.

As we understand the situation, the county is "ready to go" and negotiate a joint agreement with the city.

We think this is a two-step procedure. First, the city and county governing bodies have to agree on initiating joint law enforcement and come to grips with the essential details. After that, both bodies need to "sell" the program, and its benefits, to the general public.

We can tell you this. The public won't make up its mind on anything new like this overnight. And there won't be 100 per cent agreement on anything, either.

All of which means that it is high time to get going and look the proposition over carefully. The federal money has been programmed as available for the project only this (See Postings, page 8)

O'Donnell, Tahoka men buy tractor business

Wayland F. Taylor Sr. of O'Donnell and his son, Wayland F. Taylor Jr. of Tahoka have purchased the John Deere tractor business here from A. C. Cash.

They will operate it under the name, Taylor Tractor & Equipment Co. with Bill Green, who will soon move to Post with his family, as manager of the local operation.

Cash, who has operated the business for almost six years, plans to return to farming full time.

The joint announcement ad on this business transaction, effective Jan. 3, appears on page 9 of today's Dispatch.

Green, the local manager for the business, has eight years of experience in John Deere operations in Levelland and Amarillo.

He and his wife, Janella, have three children, Terri, 14, Amber, 11, and Billy, 8, and are members of the First Baptist Church.

Taylor Sr. has been in the John Deere tractor business for 25 years — the last 20 of it operating the John Deere franchise in O'Donnell. Prior to that he was in Ranger one year and Big Spring four.

His son, Taylor Jr., joined him in the firm last year and is manager of the firm's business in Tahoka.

Green and the new owners invite all farmers in the area to stop in soon and get acquainted.

Personnel of the Cash Implement Company will be retained under the new ownership.

Court decision brings speculation

Considering the work at hand, the two-year time limit set by a federal court for the state government to establish a more equitable system of funding education is not too long.

The court decision, obviously aimed at evening up the public school opportunities for all youngsters in the state, is a noble objective, but it will not be easy to achieve.

The problems are complex and finding satisfactory solutions will be a time-consuming, exhaustive task. The consequences of the design of the replacement system will be enormous; a poor plan could wreak havoc with the public schools, causing damage far worse than that resulting from the present inequities between individual districts.

The federal court decision came as something of a bombshell. Nearly everybody even remotely connected with public education had been expecting some new regulations concerning school financing, but few expected it so soon.

As a result, speculation has flourished. Spokesmen for some of the wealthier counties have been quoted as expressing hope that it will reduce demands on their taxpayers. Subsequent speculation, however, indicates that the opposite is more likely. The wealthier counties and school districts may be called upon to bear an even greater burden — not merely to maintain their own schools, but to support those in other counties as well.

Some have interpreted the court decision to mean that the property tax is automatically out. This may not be so. It may merely mean that all property is to be assessed for taxes at comparable valuations. It also may mean development of other sources, such as a state income tax, corporation tax, very likely a natural resources tax, and possibly others.

One of the greatest dangers, in our view, is that the new plan, with its greater reliance on state funding, might destroy or erode severely the local control that is a basic part of public education today. Local control is inseparable from the local support and participation that we believe the public schools must have.

We are not unmindful of the unfairness that has resulted from the existing system of administering the property tax. But other examples around the nation have shown that loss of the community's moral support and dedicated participation in the maintenance of the local school system can be disastrous.

Drastic changes are bound to evolve, but let us hope that in working out a new method of financing education, Texans take care that in trying to solve one defect, they do not create a worse one.—CD

Going to get better—all over

It seems the saying, "Wait until next year" is getting almost as popular in agriculture in these parts as it is in football circles at some colleges and high schools who won't embarrass by naming.

This year's cotton crop in Garza County and elsewhere on the Plains is poor in every respect, excepting market prices. Quality and acre yields, both of seed and lint, are well on their way toward the lowest averages in recent history. Only the price of lint pre-

A relatively painless tax

Everything points to Post's one-cent city sales tax bringing in considerably more the first year than anyone thought it would when it was voted here late in 1970.

Sales tax returns for the first three quarters of 1971 totaled approximately $29,000 and the fourth quarter payment from the state, which will include Christmas sales, is expected to boost the total for the year past the $40,000 mark.

City officials estimated at the time the tax was levied that the first year receipts

New Year's resolutions shouldn't be made just to be broken, and, confidentially, that is one reason I don't make them. But wouldn't it be wonderful if each of us could make and keep a set of "Royal Resolutions" such as these:

- I will study the language of gentleness, and refuse to use words that bite and tones that crush.
- I will practice patience at home, lest my testy temper break through unexpectedly and disgrace me.
- I will remember that my neighbors have troubles enough to carry without loading mine on them.
- I will excuse others' faults and failures as often and as fully as I expect others to be lenient with mine.
- I will curb criticism with commendation, close up against gossip, and build healthy lives by service.
- I will love boys and girls, so that old age will not find me soured and sullen, but fresh and free.
- I will gladden my nature by smiling out loud on every fair occasion, and by outlook optimistically.
- I will pray frequently, think good things, believe in men, and so do a full day's work without fear or favor.

THE MAN UP the street says, "Instead of weeping because your dreams don't come true, rejoice that neither do your nightmares."

This scrapbook clipping came from a Scottish Rite bulletin published several years ago. It probably won't get a smile from the modern generation, but some of the older readers will know just how this farmer felt.

In a corn field on the side of a hill walked a man behind a mule drawing a plow.

The man said, "Bill, you are a mule, the son of a jackass, and I am a man, made in the image of God. Yet here we are at work, hitched together year in and year out. I often wonder if you work for me or if I work for you. I really think it is a partnership between a mule and a fool, for surely I work as hard as you, if not harder. Plowing or cultivating, we cover the same distance exactly, but you do it on four legs and I do it on two. Therefore, I do twice as much work as you do."

"Soon we'll have this corn crop laid by. When the crop is harvested, I will give one third to the landlord who is so kind as to let me have this little speck of God's universe. One third will go to you, Bill, and the remaining one third will be mine. You will eat all of your portion except the cobs, while I will divide my one third among seven children, six hens, two ducks and a banker."

"If we both need shoes, you will get yours first. Bill, you are getting the best of me, and I ask you, is it fair for a mule, the son of a jackass, to swindle a man, made in God's image, out of his own substance?"

"Why, you only help to plow and cultivate the ground, while I alone must cut, shock and husk the corn while you loaf over the pasture fence and hee-haw at me."

"All fall and most of the winter the whole family, from Grandma to the baby, picks cotton for the neighbors to help raise money to pay taxes, interest at the bank and to buy a new harness for you. And what do you care about the mortgage? Not a damn, you ornery cuss! I even have to do the worrying about the mortgage on your tough, ungrateful hide."

"The only time I am any better is on election day. I can vote, but you cannot. But after election I realize that I was fully as big a jackass as your papa. Verily, I am prone to wonder if politics were made for men or jackasses, or to make jackasses of men."

"And that ain't all, Bill. When you are dead that's supposed to be the end of you. But me? The parson tells me that when I die I am going to hell. . . . that is, if I do not do just as he says. . . . and most of what he tells me keeps me from getting any kick out of life."

"Tell me, William. . . . considering these things. . . . how can you keep such a straight face and look so dumb and solemn?"

WELL, IT'S Monday morning, Jan. 3, 1972, and the honeymoon is over as far as time off for the holidays is concerned. Like nearly everybody else, I got my fill of football over the weekend, and my vote goes to the granddaddy of all bowl games, the Rose Bowl, as the best game of the bunch, and to the New Year's eve game between Colorado and Houston as the second best.

Just a Reminder: Don't forget to date those checks and letters 1972 instead of 1971.

The Abundant Life...

A NEW YEAR

The start of a new year is so exciting and should be most welcome by all of us. Though we cannot erase the mistakes and errors of 1971, we are granted a fresh start and a new beginning in 1972.

The need for 1972 is not for more debate, arguing and rhetoric, but for all of us to live better lives. Robert V. Ozment suggested the following rules to live by in 1972. They are very personal and if followed will not only make us happier in 1972 but much more productive individuals.

1. Don't live in the negative. By that I mean you should find something beautiful in each day and thank God for your blessings.
2. Find some person who needs you each day, and do your best to make life better for him. It might be a sick neighbor, or one who has known sorrow. Too many of us are so busy with our own lives that we never think about the burdens of others.
3. Refuse to accept the unpleasant things of life as inevitable. Do what you can to make life more cheerful.
4. Be more understanding with the people who do not always think like you do. The world is large enough for people who have other views.
5. Express kindness and concern for those who live under the same roof with you. Don't take those you love most for granted.
6. Keep a generous supply of forgiveness handy. Don't hold a grudge against a fellow human being and never seek revenge.
7. Keep a bagful of smiles available. Sometimes a friendly smile can cause a heavy burden in another to fall away.
8. Maintain a cheerful spirit. No one likes to be around people who are always complaining about their lot.
9. Ask God to help you each day to live fully. Don't be satisfied with less than your best.
10. Finally, let love be the guiding light in your life. Don't be afraid to express love to those close to you.

LISTENING POST

By GEORGE L. MILLER

We've finished up another year at the Post Public Library, and in our usual tradition of excellence — it was a good one. We didn't break a circulation record — as we have every year before — but we came close. 8,089 books were read in 1971, just 46 short of the 8,135 record set in 1970.

We did set a circulation record for the month of December. Holiday time is normally a slow time for reading. This past month, because of the way the holidays fell in the week, we were closed more days than any other December since we began operation. But we checked out more books this December than any other year so far.

There is probably a good reason for this. Having a full-time librarian assures people that the library will be open when they come to town. When we operated with volunteers — as faithful as they were (and they were angels, every one of them) — there were times when we just couldn't get the library open when it was supposed to be open. That shouldn't happen again.

Speaking of things that shouldn't happen, there is one sour note in our year-end report — our number of books lost. While our average is excellent, compared to libraries in larger towns and cities, there is really a very little reason for any lost books in a community our size. There aren't that many places one can lose a book.

It is more often a matter of negligence and good intentions that fall to get acted on. We send overdue notices, we make phone calls, we even drop by your house — trying to recover missing books. All this is expensive — and we don't have free postage! — and time consuming, and it shouldn't have to be done. If you are in the New Year's resolution mood, how about resolving to bring back that library book — TODAY. And do it!

As of this week, I officially dropped my title "Librarian" and took a promotion, becoming a member of the Library Board of Trustees. For over three years I have attended board meetings without a vote. I'm going to enjoy having a vote, and I'll do my best to use it wisely.

And now — on to a new year. May it bring better reading to you all!

Intersection crash hospitalizes one

Mrs. Marie Neff was admitted to Garza Memorial Hospital Wednesday morning for treatment of injuries received in a collision between her car and one driven by Mrs. Ted Tatum.

The accident occurred at 10 a.m. at the intersection of South Broadway and U. S. Hwy. 380 (8th Street). Police Chief Otis G. Shepherd Jr., who investigated, said Mrs. Neff's car, going south on the highway, was struck broadside by the one driven by Mrs. Tatum, which was crossing Broadway west off 8th Street.

Mrs. Neff suffered a cut lip and was being kept in the hospital Wednesday afternoon for observation. Mrs. Tatum received only bruises in the accident, according to the investigating officer. Both automobiles were heavily damaged.

Record reading for December

Post Public Library patrons set a new record for December reading, which doesn't necessarily mean that many curled up with a good book while waiting for Santa Claus.

Total circulation for the year 1971 was reported as 8,089 — which averages out to each resident of the county last year reading a book and a half or more.

These were the highlights of the first monthly library report prepared by Mrs. C. K. Pierce, the new librarian.

For 1971, the library had a total miscellaneous income of $188.17, of which $139.35 came from overdue book fines.

In December patrons checked out a total of 536 books. Because of the holidays, it usually is the lightest reading month of the year.

March of Dimes meeting slated

Judy Hood of Lubbock, district chairman of the March of Dimes, will be at the bank community room at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 10 to present a program on birth defects and the work March of Dimes is doing in research on the subject.

The meeting is to be hosted by Gamma Mu chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority, which also is sponsoring the local march on polio and birth defects to be held March 6.

Group chairmen for each local area will be named as soon as possible with several of the local youth groups to be asked to participate in the campaign.

Anyone interested is urged to attend the meeting, with members of other social clubs and sorority chapters especially invited. Refreshments will be served by the Gamma Mu chapter.

Monday was 'Back to School' Day

It was back to school Monday for students and teachers here following the Christmas and New Year's holidays, which began Dec. 27.

All the schools were reported by their respective principals to have gotten off to a good start Monday following the holidays.

The first semester is to end on Monday, Jan. 17, with the second semester starting Wednesday, Jan. 19, following a day off from school work for a teachers' work day. First semester examinations will be given Friday, Jan. 14, and Monday, Jan. 17.

The next all-school holiday won't be until Easter.

Rhonda Gale Pennington and Leon Tedford exchange vows

Rhonda Gale Pennington became the bride of Leon Debs Tedford at the North Park Baptist Church in Abilene on Friday, Dec. 17, with the Rev. Clayton Pennington, father of the bride, officiating at the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her grandfather, A. L. Mansker, wore a floor-length gown of white silk organza. Her white tulle veil fell from a headpiece of pearls and lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white fringed carnations and japette orchids.

Council appointments fill four vacancies

Appointments and reappointments took up much of the city council's time at its regular January meeting Monday night at the city hall.

The council reappointed J. C. (Julius) Stelzer to the board of the White River Municipal Water District, appointed the Rev. George L. Miller to the Post Public Library board; reappointed Dr. Harry A. Tubbs as city health officer, and Dr. Charles G. Tubbs as assistant city health officer, and appointed Councilman E. L. (Buster) Moreland as the council's fiscal agent.

Also Monday night, the council:

- Re-set the salaries of elective officers.

- Authorized Pete Maddox, superintendent of public works to shop around for a new or used bulldozer.

- Reaffirmed their decision not to sell any of the city's old water reservoir or water field property.

- Voted to ask for estimates on the cost of repairing the city hall air-conditioning unit.

- Decided to recommend to the police department that its work-time schedule be arranged to assure police protection in the early morning hours.

Stelzer was reappointed to his second three-year term as a member of the White River board whose other Post members are S. E. (Shelley) Camp and J. B. Potts. The Rev. Mr. Miller was appointed to the library board on the recommendation of board chairman Jim Cornish. Miller, who has served as volunteer librarian for the last few years, will replace Mrs. C. K. "Pee Wee" Pierce, who was recently employed as the library's first paid librarian.

In reappointing Dr. Tubbs as the city health officer, the council also appointed Dr. Charles G. Tubbs as assistant health officer to serve when the health officer is not available.

As the council's fiscal agent, Councilman Moreland will negotiate with the bank on such matters as interest rates on city cash deposits, and other financial matters.

The elective officers' salaries re-set by the council are $50 a month for the mayor and $35 a month for each of the five councilmen.

Mayor Giles C. McCrary reminded the council that money is budgeted for the purchase of a used bulldozer, which is needed to replace the one now in use. About 75 per cent of the bulldozer's use is digging pits at the city's sanitary land-fill, Pete Maddox told the councilmen.

The council's reaffirmation of its recent decision not to sell any of the city's water reservoir or water field property at this time came in response to a number of inquiries from persons wanting to buy part of the property.

Repeated "shorting out" of the air-conditioning unit on top of the city hall building prompted the council's decision to seek estimates on its repair costs. The council was told that one air-conditioner repairman was of the opinion that the unit will have to be moved off the top of the building before the trouble can be overcome, but some of the councilmen were of the opinion that the trouble can be eliminated by "raising" the unit.

The council indicated that it was uncertain of the police department work hours schedule, but that there appears to be a "gap" in the early morning hours when no city policemen are on active duty.

The council authorized the public works superintendent to find out the police department's working schedule, and indicated that it would rather have policemen off duty for a few hours after daylight in the morning than off duty in the hours just before daylight, which appears to be the case now.

Shiver emphasizes school changes

School Supt. Bill Shiver pointed up a lot of differences between the Post school system today and the one the community had 10 or 15 years ago in a talk Tuesday to Post Rotarians at their weekly luncheon.

He pointed to computerized accounting, computerized grade reports and even computerized attendance records.

But he spent most of his talking time pointing out the school trustees today are basically a policy making board that leaves school management to paid administrators, that the new program budgeting and evaluation system approved last month by trustees promises much for the future and will take several years to develop.

The evaluation will focus not on what is good in our system, but what is bad. He said small segments of the teaching-learning process will be studied separately.

"It is our intention to develop teachers not to run them off," he told the civic clubbers.

Sheriff's sale—

If the present owner buys back the property within a year, he or she must pay the amount for the property paid at the sheriff's sale, or the total amount of taxes, penalty and interest whichever is higher, plus 25 per cent of this amount in addition as penalty.

If the original owner redeems the property in the second year the penalty he must pay is an additional 50 per cent instead of 25 per cent.

Any sheriff sale buyers are assured there will be no taxes or interest outstanding against the property up to the time the court's judgment was taken.

Dalby told The Dispatch. "We can stay with the program and accept the added burden, return to commodity distribution, or drop out of the program altogether."

The county commissioners court up to receipt of the new contract from the state had expressed the desire to go along with the program in 1972.

"But now we don't know really how much additional money the program is going to cost us under this contract," Judge Dalby said. County Commissioner Ted A. Ten told The Dispatch: "I get a little madder every time I re-read that contract."

County Judge Glenn Toombs of Borden County already has written a complaint letter to Commissioner Raymond W. Vowell of the state department of public welfare in which he declared:

"I am surprised to find that the board members (state welfare board members) have seen fit to follow a program that the county judges were firmly against in the meeting you held in Austin back in November.

"I cannot understand why the commission would instigate such a program with all of the resistance that was shown at this meeting. My only observation is that the state is being pressured by the federal government to have the counties bear the financial burden of this program, or it may be that the state does not have funds to bear such a burden of this program, but as stated in the meeting in Austin you know full well that the counties do not have such funds either.

"It is a shame that counties have to absorb all of the burdens of increased programs fancied by federal and state officials yet we are not given legislation whereby we might raise additional taxes to help regulate same.

"Before we sign the attached contract that you have sent us," Judge Toombs wrote, "it is my belief that the four counties involved in my area should get together and talk over the pitfalls of this instrument and look at the horizon whereby we may be engulfed by not seeing another sunset since the financial burden of this could be far greater than anyone could anticipate.

"Locally we have to answer to the taxpayers and they are our benefactors locally, whereby state officials do not assume this burden to a certain extent and like we have said before it is a long ways to Austin but it is not very far to the county seat."

As far as The Dispatch is concerned, we don't see why a joint effort might not produce more efficient law enforcement and possibly even some economy in the process.

134 cases on docket of corporation court

One hundred and thirty-four cases were on the corporation court docket at the end of December, 1971, according to the monthly court report for December, submitted to the city council Monday night by Judge Pat N. Walker.

Judge Walker told The Dispatch Tuesday that the 134 cases on the docket is not an unusually high number for a court of this size.

A majority of the cases on the docket are traffic violations in which the defendants have not appeared, with many of them being out-of-town residents, the judge said. Also, the 134 cases include 33 outstanding warrants, which are the result of cases in which convictions have been handed down, but on which only part of none of the fine has been paid.

The December report also showed that of the 10 cases filed in corporation court during the month nine were disposed of. A total of $220 in fines and $25 in court costs were assessed.

The police department's December report, also submitted to the council Monday night, showed 12 arrests and four traffic tickets is-

"A Mad Jesus" will be minister Bernard S. Ramsey's sermon subject at the 11 a.m. worship hour this Sunday at the First Christian Church, with the Lord's Supper also to be observed. The sermon subject at the 7 p.m. service will be, "Some Things Christians Ought to Forget."

Of the 12 arrests, eight were on charges of being drunk and the other four on undesignated charges in which the prisoners were released to the county.

The four traffic tickets issued in December were one each on a charge of no driver's license, disregarding stop light, failure to grant right-of-way, and leaving scene of accident.

City police worked six accidents and issued 28 warning tickets during December, according to the report.

Post FFA chapter is under way with improvement projects

By JOE CRAIG

The Post chapter of Future Farmers of America is under way with a project to improve Post's appearance and has appointed a committee to find ways to carry it on.

The chapter members already have started carrying out the committee's first recommendation — the painting and setting out of trash barrels.

Each year many FFA chapters compete to see which can make the best improvements in their city or town. This competition is carried all the way up to the national level.

The members of the Post chapter feel that they have enough support from the Post citizens to help get started on this project. These improvements will begin to show up in the near future.

FINAL SCORE 68 TO 67

Post loses close one to Ralls Jackrabbits

The Post Antelopes came within one point of upsetting the league-leading Ralls Jackrabbits on the latter's home court Tuesday night before losing, 68 to 67. On the plus side of the ledger, the Post Does won, 56 to 40, and the Antelope "B" team came out on top, 73-49.

Steve Hays missing both ends of a two-shot foul with two seconds left is all that kept Post from making a clean sweep of all three games.

Coach John Alexander said Wednesday that he was "real proud" of the Antelopes' effort in the Ralls game, in which they came close to upsetting a top-rated Class AA team that the week before had won the Caprock Holiday Basketball Tournament at Lubock by beating the Dimmitt Bobcats, one of West Texas' strongest cage teams. The Antelopes outscored the Jackrabbits in the second half after trailing 19-17 at the end of the first quarter and 37-32 at the halftime intermission. Ralls led 56-52 going into the final quarter, in which they were outscored by the 'Lopes 15-12.

Post almost won the game at the free throw line, hitting on 19 out of 34 attempts, while the 'Rabbits cashed in on only six of 20 attempts. Ralls outshot Post from the field 31-24.

Steve Hays was the game's high scorer with 30 points. Ray Langston's 22 points was the Jackrabbits' top scoring effort.

In the girls' game, the teams were all even, 11-11, at the end of the first quarter, but Ralls held a 24-22 lead at the halftime intermission. The Does pulled a head by four points in the third period to lead 35-34 going into the fourth quarter when they really opened up to salt down a 16-point victory.

Jackie Moore's 25 points led the Doe scoring, with Cindy Bird hitting 20 points, Becky Dalby, eight, and Jodi Norman, three. Sue Cowdrey also saw action at forward. The Post guards were Pam Feagh, Darla Baker, Jan Hall, Sylvia Smith and Wilma Bullard.

Kena Arthur hit 32 points for Ralls, accounting for all her teams scoring except eight points.

'North Country' coming to Tower

"North Country," an outdoor, color, action-adventure motion picture about the exploits of modern-day Alaskan trapper Jeff Graham is coming to the Tower Theatre here Wednesday, Jan. 12.

This exciting film, shot entirely on location, follows woodsman Graham through one year of his life as he camps in the frozen wilds of the far north country trapping beaver, fox and muskrat.

In this true-to-life feature, Graham pans gold and serves as a backcountry guide over some of Alaska's roughest terrain to earn just enough to pay for what little he needs from civilization. Otherwise, he lives off the land, hunting only out of necessity.

None of the characters in "North Country" are actors. They are all real Alaskans portraying their real lives.

Show times are 4:30, 7 and 9:15 p.m.

Business improvement ahead is seen by Burlington Industries

GREENSBORO, N.C.— Burlington Industries, describing 1971 as a "difficult and disappointing year," sees improvement ahead in 1972.

The company's annual report to shareholders, being mailed this week, notes actions taken to offset a decline in sales and earnings and to "improve our competitive position for 1972 and beyond."

Burlington earlier reported sales of $1.7 billion (down 5.2 percent from the prior year) and primary net earnings of $40.1 million, or $1.52 cents per share (down 44 percent). The dividend rate was maintained at $1.40 per share, the same as in the prior year.

Provisions of the Revenue Act of 1971 were not applied to Burlington's 1971 financial statements, as enactment of the legislation occurred after the annual report was prepared. Today, the company reported that investment tax credit under the new act, applicable to its 1971 fiscal year, is equivalent to two cents per share. This amount will be pro-rated to earnings during the four quarters of the 1972 fiscal year.

In addition, investment tax credit for Burlington's 1972 fiscal year is estimated at approximately 20 cents per share. The company also noted that additional depreciation for income tax purposes, authorized by the Revenue Act, was not significant for fiscal 1971.

Commenting on the growth in knit fabrics, Burlington chairman Charles F. Myers and President Ely R. Callaway state that "rapid progress has been made in developing and increasing our knit business; sales increased about 50 percent over the prior year. We expect 1972 knit fabric sales to be approximately $175 million, double the 1971 volume."

The report added that increasing industry knit capacity would bring more competitive conditions in many knit markets over the next several years.

Home furnishings was Burlington's largest single area of higher sales volume and profits. This area of business (carpets and rugs, sheets and pillowcases, draperies and upholstery fabrics, blankets, towels and furniture) accounted for about 30 percent of Burlington's total sales in 1971. "The outlook for this growing area of our business is excellent and further expansion is underway," the report noted.

Trade agreements negotiated by the United States with four Far East countries will substantially reduce the rapid growth rate of textile and apparel imports, and "in the longer run our domestic industries will have a more equitable opportunity to participate in growing U. S. consumer demand."

Burlington spent $7.3 million for corporate and divisional research during 1971, with flame retardancy of fabrics and waste treatment improvements among special research projects.

Water and air pollution control policies and procedures were in force at all Burlington plants during 1971, with capital spending in this area reaching some $3.5 million compared to $2 million in 1970, and $4 million projected for 1972.

Mrs. Raphael to address teachers

Mrs. Mary Raphael of Lubbock, president-elect of District 17 of the Texas State Teachers Association, will speak to members of the Post schools faculty on "Self-Image" at a local TSTA meeting at 7 p.m. Monday, Jan. 10, in the high school library.

Mrs. Raphael taught school in Post for 14 years before moving to Lubbock, where she has taught at Martin Elementary School for the last six years. Her husband, Herman Raphael, is a former principal of the Post Elementary School, and is now a teacher at an elementary school in Lubbock.

BARNES TO SPEAK

BROWNFIELD — Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes will be the guest speaker at the annual banquet of the Terry County Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 15, at the Brownfield High School.

FROM SAN ANTONIO

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Wilkerson of San Antonio spent the holidays in Post visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Wilkerson. Gene is on the city police force at San Antonio.

Overall capital investment spending for plant and equipment totaled $104 million for the year and is expected to be higher for 1972.

The company's occupational program in health was expended during the year, with special emphasis on respiratory research and hearing conservation.

Auto license renewal applications on way

AUSTIN — If you own one or more of the more than seven-and-a-half million motor vehicles in Texas, some important mail is coming your way.

The first of 7.5 million renewal applications from the Motor Vehicle Division of the Texas Highway Department were dispatched from the post office's facilities in Dallas on Friday, Dec. 31.

Owners of motor vehicles should be receiving the renewal applications — for obtaining 1972 license plates — early in January.

The actual motor vehicle registration "season" at county tax offices does not begin until Feb. 1. However, vehicle owners may go ahead and order their license plates by mail immediately.

All that is required is to send the entire renewal application, the registration fee and $1 for each vehicle to be registered to the local county tax office. License plates will be returned by mail after registration begins formally on Feb. 1.

Vehicle owners should allow at least 30 days for processing and delivery. The application should be sent to the local county tax office — not to the Texas Highway Department.

License plates can be obtained in person at county tax offices and designated sub-stations beginning on Feb. 1.

In any case, registration will go faster if the owner leaves the three part form intact and does not separate any of the three parts. Complete, easy-to-follow instructions are contained on the form and on the envelope.

Deadline for displaying 1972 license plates is midnight, April 1.

"The Level Path of Life"

By Robert D. Griffin

Haven't the holidays been enjoyable, but now we settle down to a routine and everyday responsibilities. In the book of Proverbs there is a remarkable expression, "the level path of life"; and there is great comfort in knowing that God is ever before us, leveling our pathway, taking insurmountable obstacles out of the way, so that our feet do not stumble.

It may be that you are facing a great mountain range of difficulty. Before you, obstacles rear themselves like a giant wall to heaven. When you cross the Jordan there is always a Jericho which appears to bar all further advance, and your heart fails. But you are bidden to believe that there is a level path right through those mighty barriers; a pass, as it is called, in mountainous districts. The walking there is easy and pleasant if only you will let yourself be led to it. God has made it, but you must take it. How we dread the thought of those steep cliffs! It seems as though we could never climb them; but if we would only look at the Lord instead of at the hills, if we would look above the hills to Jehovah, we should be able to rest in sure faith that He will show us the level path of life.

Your path is not level, but full of boulders which have rolled down upon and choked it. But may this not be partly due to your mistakes or sins—to your willfulness and self-dependence? There are sorrows and trials in all lives; but these need not obstruct our progress. The text surely refers to those difficulties which threaten us with their arrest, putting barriers in our way. When Peter reached the iron gate he found it open; when the women reached the sepulchre door they found the stone gone. So, exercise faith in God and walk the path before you in 1972.
