Freak ice storm brings heavy damage on 'cap'

Electric power, phones 'kayoed'

A freak ice storm, the first in this area in a number of years, knocked many rural homes out of both electric and telephone service for up to 72 hours last weekend in an area of northern and western Garza County, above the caprock, and extending west into Lynn County.

The winter weather also brought the first two snows of the season to spread a white mantle of up to four inches across as yet unharvested cotton fields.

Post received a total of .74 inches of moisture through Dec. 7 from the mixture of rain and snow. The town had its first winter snowfall of three-quarters of an inch last Thursday and received another half inch Sunday.

Electric and phone companies reported no trouble from the ice below the caprock.

Hardest hit by the ice was the Lyntegar Electric Co-op of Tahoka which estimated it cost approximately $25,000 to restore electric service to its customers in the ice area.

Lyntegar brought in seven repairmen from the Bailey County Co-op in Muleshoe, six from the Caprock Electric Co-op in Stanton, and 10 from a Big Spring contractor, besides putting its whole force of 83 employees into various types of emergency work.

Repair crews got started with first reports of lines down Wednesday afternoon and worked straight through to Thursday night, caught seven hours of sleep and went back to work at 6 a.m. Friday and stayed in the field until 10 or 11 p.m. Saturday.

At 6 a.m. Sunday they went back to work after the second "sleep break" and finished up with the restoration of service to all but two or three customers Sunday afternoon.

Muddy ground conditions made it impossible to get equipment to the remaining downed lines.

Bert Stevens, administrative assistant in Lyntegar's office at Tahoka, told The Dispatch the cooperative lost approximately 100 poles, mostly due to the weight of ice, 75 crossarms, and a number of transformers.

Stevens explained if the bottom wire (neutral line) had the ice thaw off it first, it would kick together with the phase lines above causing either the breakers to kick or the lines to burn apart.

Primarily it was the north and south lines which had the most ice trouble in the Hackberry, Pleasant Valley, Close City and Graham areas in Garza County.

Glen Barley, Southwestern Public Service Co. manager here, said his firm had two miles of ice "on the ground" along the Lubbock highway above the cap.

The line went down early Thursday morning under the weight of the ice and the company ordered in four or five crews from Lubbock to restore electric service to oil fields and the Bell Telephone Co. in the area.

Barley said company engineers figured that with "two inches or better" of ice on each line, that over 2,400 pounds of ice formed on company lines between each pole.

Gerald Hamilton, district General Telephone Co. manager, said 15 telephone poles in the Post area went down in the ice storm. He told The Dispatch General Telephone had a seven-man crew in the area until Tuesday morning making necessary repairs.

Santa's return, band concert set Saturday

Shouldn't be mentioned that the fact remains that he did his visiting indoors last Saturday because he was just getting a touch of the flu and strong enough to brave winter weather outside. "Interview room" was at the Post Chamber of retail committee in the ings because of the weather and it was not only held, but had a winner.

Mrs. Jeanette Bell had her name drawn and was on hand to claim her $50 letter of credit from the Post Chamber of Commerce which can be spent with any participating local merchant.

This coming Saturday afternoon, the Post Antelope Band is scheduled for a two-hour downtown concert appearance, beginning at one o'clock.

Santa will be back too to talk to his little local friends again and hand out candy.

The second of the three drawings will be held at 4 p.m. with the winner, if present, receiving a $50 letter of credit to any participating local store.

If the winner isn't present Saturday afternoon, the prize will be added to $100 in credit for the final drawing on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 18.

Any persons 16 and over are eligible to sign up without obligation for the drawing prize in any of the participating local stores. A list of the stores with sign-up boxes will be found in the Chamber ad on page 3.

Christmas party at plant Sunday

The Postex Plant's annual Christmas party for employees and their families will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 12, with Santa Claus booked for an appearance.

An open house for employees who wish to tour the plant will be held following the party. The program will include songs by the "Top Twenty," Post High School choir group. There will be treat bags for the children, and door prizes for adults.

RENEW TAX ENGINEERS' CONTRACT

City council okays firemen's annual bill, paving invoices

The Post Volunteer Fire Department's annual bill, amounting this year to $6,606, was approved at the city council Monday night at its regular December session.

The fire department bill listed 46 city fires for a total of $3,444 and 38 county fires for a total of $2,511.50. Firemen's pay for weekly fire practice totaled $540, and $100 was listed for the fire men's annual Christmas party.

This year's fire department bill, which covers the period from Dec. 1, 1970, through Nov. 30, 1971, is about the same as last year's, the council was told by Pete Maddox, public works superintendent.

The council also approved the invoices of paving contractor Dub Turner and engineer Ralph Douglas. The invoices showed the amount due the contractor on the paving program to be $39,286.31 and the amount due Ralph Douglas for engineering fees to be $1,964.

The payment was the second made by the city to the contractor in the current paving program, which is scheduled to be completed next summer at a total contract price of $95,611.54.

The engineer told the council that some of the paving being paid for had not been completed due to the contractor's late start and rainy weather late in the summer. He said the contractor had applied a base preservative to the uncompleted paving to "hold it" until work can be resumed next spring.

The council voted to renew the one-year contract of Pritchard & Abbott, tax valuation engineers, and to pay them a fee of 4 cents per $100 property valuation instead of the 3½ cent fee the city has been paying.

The council voted the one-half cent increase to 4 cents a year ago at the tax engineers' request, but due to a "mix-up" in the wording of the contract continued paying only 3½ cents.

The one-half cent raise voted Monday night is subject to its legality under Phase II of the President's economy program.

Donald Windham, mayor pro tem, presided at the council meeting in the absence of Mayor Giles C. McCrary, who had been called out of town by the illness of a relative.

Nelson rites are held Wednesday

Last rites for Arthur V. Nelson, 68, of 410 North Ave. 1, who died about 3 a.m. Monday at his home following a lengthy illness, were conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Faith Lutheran Church, of which he was a member.

Nelson, a retired farmer, had been a resident of Garza County since 1915. He was born Dec. 11, 1902, in Sweden, coming to this country with his parents in 1907 and settling in Bosque County. He was married to Essie Marie Parrish in Post on Oct. 23, 1926.

Survivors include his wife; three sons, Charles Ray Nelson of Lubbock and Doyle Nelson, both of Post; one daughter, Mrs. Betty Striblin of Post; one brother, Farmer Nelson of Tahoka; four sisters, Mrs. Edna Pierce and Miss (See Nelson rites, Page 8)

GINNERS SPEAK

Cotton harvest program presented Rotary Club

Post Rotarians heard J. B. Potts predict a 1971 Garza cotton crop of only 16,000 bales at their weekly luncheon Tuesday and also learned that "gin bookkeeping" at least for one area gin, has turned to the computer this year with gratifying results.

The civic clubbers in a cotton harvest program also were told that an Acuff ginner has solved the problem of what to do with the cotton burrs now they can't be burned. He has put in a plant to convert them to cattle feed. Now he is selling the plant's entire output to Lubbock feed lots and is hauling in burrs from other gins to process.

The First National Bank president, who was in charge of the program, had as his "speaking guests" Weldon McGehee, president of the board of directors of the Hackberry Co-op Gin, Hackberry Gin manager Dan Siewert, and Producers Co-op Gin of Grassland manager Dan Martin.

Siewert predicted only a "4,000 to 4,500 bale crop this year" from the Hackberry gin area as compared to 7,200 bales ginned last year. He said he has only ginned 184 bales so far as compared to 7,169 bales on the same date last year. Hail cut a damaging swath through this gin area.

Martin said his gin has solved the "experienced bookkeeper" problem by going to the computer.

"Instead of a bookkeeper we now have file clerks who put all the essential information on a gin ticket," Martin explained. "We keep one copy, the customer gets one, and after each day's run we send the third copy to the Plains Cotton Cooperative Association in Lubbock which runs the day's tickets through a computer."

Martin said that the gin receives all essential tabulated records in 24 hours after they are sent in. He said the cost of the computer records is only 10 cents a bale, a very nominal charge.

He added that when the farmers get used to the system, they like our computer method real well.

Martin predicts the two-cooper— (See Rotary Club, Page 8)

Present officers of the association include F. A. "Chief" Runkles, president, and Mrs. J. D. McCampbell, secretary.

DISPATCH TO PRINT LETTERS TO SANTA

The Dispatch will print Santa Claus letters in its Dec. 16 and Dec. 23 issues, but needs the letters now so they can be copied and forwarded on to the North Pole.

To make sure a copy of their letter appears, youngsters are asked to mail them or bring them to The Dispatch office not later than Thursday, Dec. 16. "Keep those cards and letters coming," is the word Santa sends from the North Pole.

The money is to come from a $500,000 appropriation by the Legislature for airport construction and development for the fiscal year 1971-72.

Water crisis faces High Plains

There's an old saying that "you never miss the water until the well runs dry," but that day isn't far off as far as the High Plains of Texas are concerned, says Harry Burleigh, executive director of the Texas Water Development Board.

Burleigh says that the High Plains, the state's major agricultural region, faces the most critical water situation of any area of Texas.

The High Plains, which is just north of us here in Garza County, is the state's leading cotton and grain-growing region. It leads the nation in fattening cattle. Irrigation water from underground produces most of its crops. About one million Texans live largely on the business generated by this irrigated activity.

Water authorities say the area south of Hale County is about out of water. Counties to the north will exhaust their supplies within a quarter of a century at the present rate of depletion.

Outside water must be obtained to maintain the present irrigation activities and prevent economic disasters. Making it questionable, however, as to whether water can be supplied to the Plains before shortages become acute are political, economic and engineering problems.

Some of those who have made a study of the situation say that unless West Texans get water, they will be forced to move elsewhere, perhaps to jam themselves into already crowded cities.

Texas ignored this coming crisis in August of 1969 when they turned down proposed financing for the Texas Water Plan. That indifference must be offset by concern now—an awakening by Texans everywhere to the need for concerted action to obtain the water this state must have to grow, or even to survive on its present economic level.—CD

Veterinary school not needed

Dr. Robert A. Emmett, president of Texas Veterinary Medicine Association, appears to us to be correct in his statement that a new Texas Tech veterinary medicine school is not needed.

He said that a survey shows that the Texas A&M veterinary school is supplying enough graduates to meet the state's needs through 1980.

Dr. Emmett added that the state money would be better spent aiding other medical professions needing more graduates.

The teaching of veterinarians is one of the most expensive degree programs in the United States. The cost of instruction, including state money, tuition, etc., averages about $6,000 per professional student per year. This does not include the living expenses of the student.

A new veterinary school costs approximately $20 million to build and equip. This figure does not include annual operating costs, faculty, etc.

Duplication of educational facilities is resulting in too much money being wasted in Texas today. The tightening economic situation and skyrocketing taxes make it imperative that this trend to satisfy local pride and political and alma mater ambitions be curbed.—CD

Decorate . . . you might be a winner

The Amity Junior Study Club, which sponsored a "Yard of the Month" contest here last summer, shows that it is a "club for all seasons" by coming up now with a Christmas door decoration contest.

Nothing big is being offered as a prize, but there will be a first place gift for the winner in each of three categories, and the club makes the contest easy for everyone by not having a complicated set of rules and regulations. In fact, you don't even have to notify the club that you wish to enter the contest. Just decorate your door, and it will be judged.

The Dispatch joins the club in urging everyone to decorate their front door, if nothing else, this Yuletide. It will help add to the Christmas spectacle and will even help generate that old Christmas spirit which means so much.—CD

Must be doing something right

The following facts were brought out in a recent editorial broadcast by station WKRC in Cincinnati:

"Suppose you wake up one morning and, overnight, the following things had happened in the United States: All paychecks slashed 75 per cent. Forty million TV sets destroyed. Fourteen out of every 15 miles of paved road torn up. Sixty million Americans transferred back to farms.

"Sixty per cent of our steel-making capacity abandoned, along with two-thirds of our petroleum industry. Nineteen out of every 20 cars junked. Two out of every three miles of railroad track torn up.

Nine out of every 10 telephones ripped out, and seven out of every 10 houses torn down. By doing all this, the United States could become the equal of Soviet Russia.

"We think it shows that we must be doing something right in America."

What our contemporaries are saying

Another waste of time may be involved in fabricating an alibi to conceal a mistake, when the truth would have been more attractive in the first place.—Douglas Meador in Matador Tribune.

The reason so many girls wear hair-dos that look like mops is because they don't know what a mop looks like.—Joe Harrison in The Texas Spur.

Some boys don't follow in their father's footsteps because the old man didn't make any tracks.—Johnny Valentine in The Lynn County News.

The Abundant Life . . .

IS IT OLD FASHIONED TO BELIEVE IN GOD?

"The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God." Psalms 14:1

For centuries now many intellectuals have told us educated people should outgrow the idea of God. They give the impression that all scientists and intellectuals no longer believe in God, and that only the ignorant still cling to such faith.

This is certainly misleading to our young. Many of our young people go off to college and are overwhelmed by some young professor who scoffs at their faith. Not wanting to appear dumb to their contemporaries they turn from God.

But, let us all take notice, not all intellectuals and scientists have rejected their faith in God. Dr. Werner von Braun, head of our space program, made the following statement concerning his belief in God. We quote in part.

"The materialists of the nineteenth century and their Marxist heirs of the twentieth, tried to tell us that, as science gives us more knowledge about the creation, we could live without faith in a Creator. Yet so far, with every new answer we discover comes a new question.

"The better we understand the atomic structure, the nature of life, or the master plan for the galaxies, the more reason we have found to marvel at the wonder of God's creation. Science and faith are the two dominate forces in this century."—"Why I Believe" from This Week, July 15, 1969

Masons of Texas elect Hightower

WACO — One of the state's most respected young political leaders, Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernon, was installed last Thursday as the leader of Texas' more than 234,000 Master Masons.

At 45, Hightower, attorney and a leader in Baptist Church activities, is one of the youngest men ever to ascend to the top elective post of grand master of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Texas.

Hightower succeeds Joe W. Steed of Mount Pleasant.

TANNER LAINE'S new book, "What's in a Name?", is off the presses of Pioneer Book Publishers, Inc., of Hereford, Tex., just in time for Christmas gifting. By the time this appears in print, The Dispatch either will have copies of the book for sale or will have them in a day or so.

"What's in a Name?" features West Texas postmarks and post offices and is Tanner Laine's third book. His first two were "Campfire Stories" and "Cow Country," both of which enjoyed good sales in the Post area, as well as elsewhere throughout West Texas.

THE NEW BOOK'S section of 10 postmarks (there are 250 of them) is prefaced with 53 short stories that serve up accounts about the most unusual town names, from the Panhandle of Texas to the Big Bend and as far east as Wichita Falls and Mineral Wells. The section on postmarks includes, of course, the towns of Post, Justiceburg, and Southland, all in Garza County, and tells how each place got its name.

In the book's "short stories" there is something to interest everyone, no matter in which direction his reading taste runs, or the sport fan, for instance, there is a cleverly written story on the nicknames of high school football teams in West Texas. Its title is "West Texas 'Zoo,' from which here is a sample: "Antelopes play at Abernathy, Post and Whiteface. Wolves howl at Colorado City and Dahlhart. As do Lobos at Level and Monahans."

IF YOU'VE EVER wondered where the community of Oklahoma Lane, in Parmer County, got its name, or the origination of the terms "Cow Pasture Pool" or "Saddle Tramps," you'll find it all, and more, in "What's in a Name?"

Many persons in Post and Garza County either are well acquainted with Tanner Laine or know who he is. For those who don't, he is regional editor of The Avalanche-Journal at Lubbock and pretty much of a roving reporter. Also to his credit is the fact that he is a native West Texan, having grown up at Spur, "in Winchester range" of such big ranch spreads as SMS-Spur, #666s, Pitchfork, Matador, and O Bar O.

IF YOU ARE thinking of a book as a Christmas gift for a relative or friend, come by The Dispatch office and buy a copy of Tanner Laine's "What's in a Name." Better buy two copies, so you'll have one to read yourself, in case you don't have time to read the one you're going to gift-wrap.

The man up the street says business is what if you don't have enough of, you go out of.

BECKY DALBY, and not Jackie Moore, made the field goal that enabled the Post Does to beat the Jayton Lady Jays in a high school girls' basketball game here Monday night, Nov. 22. The winning field goal was credited to Jackie in the game story in last Thursday's Dispatch.

It took more than one telephone call Friday morning to convince The Dispatch's sportswriter that he had erred in giving the field goal to Jackie. But now he is convinced that he was wrong and is happy to credit the winning goal to Becky, who is a sophomore and who the sportswriter predicts will help win many more games for the Does before she graduates.

THE DISPATCH sportswriter is doing his best to keep up with ten basketball teams this season from the 7th grade girls on up through the varsity Antelopes. He is seeing as many games as he can and is depending on the coaches or team managers to "bring in" the scorebooks on the ones he doesn't see. So far, they're doing a good job or getting the scorebooks to The Dispatch office after every game the sportswriter doesn't attend.

Keeping up with all those teams is going to make it "easy" for the sportswriter to make other mistakes, especially in giving credit for the one-pointers and two-pointers that make the big difference in any basketball game. So, any time he makes a mistake, such as he did in giving Jackie Moore credit for a field goal made by Becky Dalby, don't fail to call it to his attention.

INSTEAD OF being "miffed" at having the mistake called to his attention, The Dispatch sportswriter is happy to know that so many people are reading the sports page. It makes all his work seem that much more worthwhile.

Busy schedule is ahead for choir

By MARK HAYS

There seems to be a busy schedule that confronts the choir for this month of December. Although most of choir time is spent practicing "Lil Abner", the "Messiah" and concerts, Top Twenty still finds time for a few rounds of singing if everyone can remember 7 o'clock.

Dec. 12 the Top Twenty will be entertaining the mill employees at their once-a-year Christmas party. Singing will begin at 2 o'clock sharp and a 35-minute program is planned.

On Dec. 16, a concert is scheduled in the primary auditorium at 7:30 for the citizens of Post; this includes Top Twenty and the Junior High choirs also. There will be no admission charge.

On Dec. 18 all the choirs of the Post schools will sing down town.

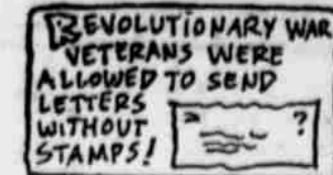

This program will be various selected Christmas carols.

On Dec. 19, the Top Twenty will perform at the First Christian Church at 5 p.m.

Granddaughter of Postites named 'best dressed'

Miss Vicki Head of Baton Rouge, granddaughter of a Post couple, was named best dressed and most outstanding coed at Southeastern Louisiana University, Hammond, in the annual pageant held recently.

Miss Head is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. T.C. Head of Post and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Head, former residents here.

She will represent Southeastern in Glamour magazine's contest for the "1972 Top Ten College Girls."

Miss Head is a cheerleader at Southeastern and is also a member of Alpha Omicron Pi social sorority and the University Dancers, SLA's modern dance group. Long active on campus, she has been a Freshman Associate, sweetheart of her class, on the homecoming court and a member of the popular entertainers, "Students of the States."

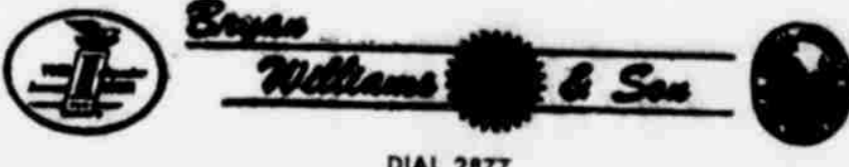

FLYING AIRPORT

One morning in 1952 citizens of St. Joseph, Mo., awoke to find that the wandering Missouri River had cut a new channel. Since then their city airport, though still legally Missouri domain, has been on the Kansas side of the stream.

Card of Thanks

The recent bereavement which has visited our home has brought to us a greater appreciation of our relatives and friends. Such kindness and neighborly thoughtfulness can never be forgotten. A special thanks to Dr. "Butch" Wilson for his long attentive care, the nurses and all staff members at Garza Memorial Hospital. Also thanks to Dr. Charles Tubbs and Marion Lee Minor. The food, telephone calls, visits, cards, flowers and contributions to worthy causes will all ways be remembered.
 The family of Wesley W. Stephens

In my humble way, I want to say thanks to all my friends for the many acts of kindness you have shown me and my family while I was in the hospital and since I have been home. The beautiful flowers, good food and the many cards I have received means more to me than I can express. May God bless you and we wish for all of you a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

Talks on alcoholism heard at Woman's Culture Club meeting

The effects of alcoholism on the human body was presented by Mrs. Dalby and The Rev. George Miller as the program at the meeting of the Woman's Culture Club, Dec. 1 in the home of Mrs. Young, with Mrs. Ira Duckworth as co-hostess.

Mrs. Dalby told of alcoholics who are not aware of their condition and explained how alcohol changes one into an alcoholic through the process of overcoming an illness. She said there are many who are not aware of their condition and that the figure of tax dollars spent each year in courts and hospitals due to alcoholics is more than for all other illnesses.

Mrs. Dalby said the American Medical Association and many other organizations are working to help the alcoholic sufferer from the illness over which he or she has no control.

Mrs. Miller, speaking on behalf of the Miller Family Group, explained how one can become a member of a group when he has a husband, wife, relatives, or friends who are alcoholics. The A.A. program shows how to cope with our difficulties and find a serene approach to life. Our attitudes, in turn, may influence the alcoholic to seek the help he needs.

Mrs. Ralph Welch gave a devotional based on Dr. Fosdick's "Walk in Tough Times."

Mrs. Bailey Mayo appointed a committee consisting of Mmes. R. L. Marks, R. T. Dickson, J. H. Haire and D. C. Williams to make a study of the area for which the group plans to make into a beautification area as the second phase of the Shell Oil contest.

PRESERVING COTTONSEED
 Although the 1971 cotton harvest is just beginning, it is not too early to start thinking about proper planting seed for next year says Dr. Bob Metzger, Extension area agronomist at Lubbock.

 "Producers should make a early seed," the specialist says. He explains that the late crop in this area will probably result in a heavy clear-out of immature seed.
 This could in turn result in a short supply of some varieties next spring.

The abundance of underground moisture indicates a good cotton crop in 1972. Under these favorable moisture conditions, Metzger says a producer cannot afford to jeopardize his yield potential by planting low-quality seed.

"Producers lacking the time, facilities or equipment to properly care for planting seed should consider purchasing certified or registered seed from a reputable company," he suggests. "The extra money is well worth the guaranteed varietal purity and germination."

Seed carried over in storage or caught in the gin for planting should be tested for germination quality. A preliminary test prior to delinting can serve as a guide in deciding whether to delint the seed or release it to an oil mill.

Metzger says that carry-over seed is an excellent source for planting, but that a producer should be wary of quality loss during storage. He suggests that carry-over seed be retested before planting because improper storage can greatly reduce quality.

The Free Fatty Acid (FFA) test can determine if seed is good enough to be stored for next season. The test can be conducted at various seed laboratories and oil mills. FFA is a measure of seed deterioration. Readings between one and two per cent indicate that some deterioration has occurred, and the seed should not be planted, Metzger explains.

He warns that the FFA test should not be used by itself, but in combination with a regular germination test. For instance a low percentage FFA reading does not necessarily indicate a high-quality planting seed. Light or immature seed may give a favorable FFA reading because of little or no deterioration in the field before harvest.

Research has shown that seed density or weight is directly related to seed vigor, the heavier the seed the more vigorous it is.

The seed may be low in vigor and still not be detected under the usual germination test procedures. He suggests careful screening for low vigor by making the germination tests at 68-70 degrees instead of the optimum conditions at higher temperatures.

Finally, producers should remember that maintaining lint quality also improves seed quality. Metzger says the cotton should be dry when stripped. Seed cotton with 12 per cent moisture can suffer quality damage if left on a trailer for even a short time and allowed to build up heat.

The optimum moisture content is seven to eight per cent, which is usually indicated by a relative humidity of less than 60 per cent at boll height in the field. He suggests delaying stripping cotton until the humidity drops to this level.

Cattle rustlers make haul in Lamb County

Rustlers were active in Lamb County last week, with Douglas Teague reporting the theft of three head of cattle from his farm north of Anton.

The missing cattle were driven into a corral and loaded into a trailer. One was a 500-pound bull and there were two whiteface steers weighing between 600-700 pounds each.

France was the first country to recognize the United States of America.

A study of shopping habits of the American housewife showed that customers in a supermarket shopped an average of 11.5 minutes, and the majority shopped less than 10 minutes. Eighty-three per cent of the shoppers had no shopping lists.

Gas bills going to get steeper

WASHINGTON — Natural gas prices are going up an average 5 to 10 per cent this winter for the half of all American homes which are heated by gas.

The steeper gas bills were triggered by Federal Power Commission decisions in the past 1½ years which permitted producers to raise their rates at the wells, setting off a chain reaction which is only now beginning to reach consumers.

THEY'RE PAYING BETTER

The Army just isn't what it used to be

"... You'll never get rich digging a ditch, you're in the Army now..."

Those words, by Irving Berlin, don't hold much weight anymore. Not only is the Army developing an automatic foxhole digger, but pay has been increased to the point that a new private makes as much money, if not more, than a young man or woman starting his first civilian job.

Under the new pay bill passed by Congress, which went into effect Nov. 15, privates in the Army start off at $268.50 a month. And, according to Sgt. Charlie Cockrell, local Army recruiter, through rapid promotions it's possible for a soldier to be promoted to E4 and make as much as $323.40 a month within 12 months of entering service.

And, in addition to the pay, all enlisted men get free room and board. "That's worth quite a bit of money, too," said Sgt. Cockrell. The increase in Army pay is part of the government's program to make the Army a more attractive place at which to work. "Basically, we look upon the Army as our place of work," the sergeant said. "Each man has a job to do, and when it's quitting time, he leaves his job and his time is his own."

The Rev. George Ascher, pastor of the Faith Lutheran Church, officiated at the funeral services. Burial was in Terrace Cemetery under the direction of Hudson Funeral Home.

Palbearers were: Jimmie Redman, B. A. Mitchell, Dejuan Wilson, Rivie Garrett, A. E. Redman, R. L. Simpson, Jimmy Parrish and Troy Nelson.

Living conditions have also improved. At many posts, soldiers have semi-private rooms, as opposed to the old barracks of World War II vintage. Dining facilities have been improved, and sports and recreation facilities are being expanded too.

Sgt. Cockrell also explained that the Army is permitting men to pick locations where they would like to serve. "We have programs where men can pick areas in the United States, and other parts of the world where they would like to serve," he said. "Of course, some of the more popular locations such as Europe and Hawaii are not always available, but most of the time we can accommodate enlistees."

Virtually every man or woman who enters the Army as an enlistee receives a written guarantee of some form, the recruiter said. It will be a guarantee assuring the assignment location, the training he or she desires and in some cases both can be guaranteed.

As Sgt. Cockrell said, "A World War II or Korean veteran would never recognize today's Army. In 1941, privates only made $21 each month. Today's Army isn't what the Army used to be."

About everybody on the program had something to say about the government's cotton support program.

Martin started it by saying that it's "no give away." He said the government is supporting the product, not the farmer, because the product is essential to the nation and without the support could not be grown.

Martin also said that while 1971 cotton, 90 per cent of it still in the field, will grade lower than a year ago, it won't be reflected in the farmer's income because cotton prices are much higher this year and the increased price will offset the grade loss.

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

By Crawford C. Martin
Attorney General of Texas

INTRODUCTORY COLUMN

Remember that unordered set of books you received in the mail along with a receipt requesting payment? Did you return the books or pay the bill? You didn't have to, you know. Recall the time you got up early so you could get to the store in time to purchase an item at a "one-day-only special sale", only to find that there were "all out" of the bargain 10 minutes after the store opened? Or how about that nice young college student who came to your door asking for a few minutes of your time to take a survey for a paper he was writing... and didn't leave until he had spent three hours trying to get you to buy a $600 set of books you didn't want or need?

Unfortunately, most consumers — at one time or another — have had their anger aroused by these and similar incidents.

The Attorney General's files are filled with case histories of problems encountered by innocent, although sometimes gullible, consumers. Many of these legitimate gripes could have been avoided if the consumer had been aware of certain laws, or had been aware of the types of fraudulent practices typically used by unethical sales organizations. An informed consumer can be his own best protection in the market place.

The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division enforces Texas's Deceptive Trade Practices law which presently permits the Attorney General to enjoin certain false, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce. The Attorney General has received some 4,000 complaints in the last year from Texas citizens who felt they have been defrauded. Such complaints are processed and, if necessary, legal action is instituted to enforce the consumer protection laws. The Attorney General's office is not permitted to render legal advice or opinions to individual citizens, nor may this office obtain refunds for individuals who have been defrauded. The Attorney General may secure up to $10,000 in penalties for each and every subsequent violation of the injunction.

Law enforcement in this area is emphasized by my office because compliance with fair and honest trade practices benefits not only consumers, but the majority of businessmen who want an honest and ethical climate in which to conduct their operations.

This column, "The Informed Consumer", has been developed by my staff and by me to give the consumer facts on consumer protection laws and information on con-

The rural area north and northwest of Post had no phone problems because Caprock Telephone Co-op of Spur which services this area has its lines underground.

Southland area gets two 'good' snowfalls

By TOMMIE WILKE

Greetings from Southland. We have really been having some weather since we last met. We have received two pretty good snows and the weatherman says we might be in for some more this week. The snows were beautiful and I just love snow, but I would have liked them a lot better if the farmers were through pulling cotton, but as it is, most of them right around here haven't even started! Well, guess we can't have everything.

Would like to share with our Southland Junior High and Senior High basketball schedules.

First, the junior high games, all starting at 5:30 p.m.: Dec. 6 New Home, there; Dec. 13, St. Joseph, here; Jan. 17, Wilson, there; Jan. 24, LCC, here; Jan. 31, New Home, here; and Feb. 7, Wilson, here.

Senior High Games, starting at 7 p.m.: Dec. 7, Smyer, here; Dec. 9, 10, 11 Whitharral tournament; Dec. 21, Wilson, here; Jan. 4, Meadow, there; Jan. 6, 7, 8, Wilson tournament; Jan. 11, New Home, here; Jan. 14, Sundown, here; Jan. 18, Ropes, there; Jan. 21, Smyer, there; Jan. 28, Wilson, there; Feb. 1, Meadow, here; Feb. 4, New Home, there; Feb. 8, Sundown, there; Feb. 11, Sundown, there; Feb. 11, Ropes, here; and Feb. 15 Smyer (boys) here.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Travis Lancaster on birth of a son on Tuesday morning, Nov. 3, at 11:50 in the St. Mary's Hospital in Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Basinger from Mercedes have been here visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Basinger. Mr. Basinger was admitted to Mercy Hospital Friday, Dec. 3. Haven't heard today (Monday) how he is. May God be with him in his time of need.

Good news! Mrs. D. D. Pennell returned to her home this past Saturday after a long stay in the Brownfield General Hospital. Welcome home, Opal!

Trisha and Robin Crawford spent the weekend here with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Payton Crawford and Debra. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Crawford of Lubbock came to pick them up Sunday. Also visiting in the Crawford home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Maner and boys.

I am sorry to report that I. J. Duff has suffered another serious heart attack and is in the Methodist Hospital in Lubbock. May God be with him and help him in this time of need. I. J. is the son-in-law of Mrs. W. P. Lester.

Southland school didn't hold classes on Thursday and Friday of last week due to the weather. Until next week, here is a little bit of the truth: "If we live Christmas each day as we should, and make it our aim to always do good, we'll find the lost key to meaningful living that comes not from getting, but from unselfish giving."

Walker recovering from knee surgery

Neff Walker, a sophomore student in Princeton University, is reported recuperating satisfactorily from knee surgery which he underwent just before Thanksgiving.

Walker, son of Pat N. Walker and Mrs. Beth Walker, injured his knee here last summer and reinjured it in football practice at Princeton, where he was a flanker back on the football squad.

Neff is expected home about Dec. 19 to spend the Christmas holidays.

Rain, snow halt cotton harvest

LUBBOCK — Unfavorable weather halted all cotton harvest activities on the South Plains and sample receipts at the four USDA Cotton Classing offices dwindled to a few hundred Friday, according to W. K. Palmer in charge of the cotton classing office here.

The classing offices at Lubbock, Brownfield, Lamesa and Levelland classed 79,000 samples during the week ending Friday, Dec. 3, bringing the season's total to 134,000. At this date last year the four offices had classed 1,073,000 samples of the 1970 crop.

This is one of the latest cotton harvests on record with still only about 10 per cent of the crop out of the fields.

Quality of the cotton classed at the Lubbock office last week remained about the same as the previous week.

DECORATIONS CONTEST
Christmas door decorations in a community-wide contest sponsored by the Amity Junior Study Club will be judged Dec. 19 between 4:30 and 7 p.m. A gift will be awarded the winner in each of three categories — religious, comic and traditional.

General Lee's sword was returned to him by General Grant after Lee's surrender at Appomattox.

Library LISTENING POST

By GEORGE L. MILLER

There's no question about it — the big news this week is the interviewing of a new librarian for the Post Public Library. How we've looked forward to this day! I'm so excited I don't know whether I can stand the suspense until next week when the board makes its final selection.

We've had a gratifying response to the news that we were in the hiring business. Several applications had already been received before last week's Dispatch was 48 hours old. We are receiving strong applicants, the choice will be hard to make. On the other hand, the future of the library never looked brighter. Whoever we pick, we can be confident of continued high quality library service.

I have to confess that my excitement is tempered with a twinge of regret. I have enjoyed working for the library the past four — or nearly four — years. My association with the volunteer staff has been so very pleasant, and meeting the public, searching for the books you want, all has been a delight.

Of course, I'm not quite retired yet. I will still be very much involved in the library. My first task will be training the new librarian. I hope I will be able to help out on the book selection committee.

And if The Post Dispatch hasn't gotten tired of me, perhaps they'll let me continue to write this column. I'm not through with the library by any means.

Hopefully, the same is true of our fine staff of volunteers. The step toward a salaried librarian is a sign of progress, but it is one we make with some regret as well. We have been blessed with volunteers that cannot be replaced by one paid librarian. The interest and loyalty of our volunteers is well known. They have been the making of our library.

We hope we can find ways to keep our volunteers at work. There will be times our librarian will have to be away from the job — either through sickness or vacation time, or when she (or he) attends workshops in Lubbock. Our volunteers will be a God send to us then.

Beyond that, we hope the library can begin to develop new services employing the volunteers. There are all kinds of possibilities. And, lest we forget, there will still be the annual fund raising events. We'll always need our volunteers then.

We're on the threshold of a new day in the library. We've had five and a half wonderful years with a volunteer staff. It's going to be a different kind of library, but the quality is going to be as high as
