Highways are freedom in action

On page one of today's Dispatch is a story about the awarding of a $799,980 contract for the four-laning of three miles of U.S. 380 from Avenue S west.

This is good news to everyone interested in better and safer highways. But did you know there is a conspiracy afoot in the United States to stop all highway construction?

The plot was hatched in the densely populated northeastern part of the United States but its disciples are spread throughout the land—including Texas.

Eugene W. Robbins, executive vice president of the Texas Good Roads Association, told the Gonzales Rotary Club on Feb. 8 that the conspirators of the above plot are pseudo-environmentalists, rail mass transit zealots, politicians and bureaucrats, and social planners with active support from some news media.

The primary spokesman for this group is the Highway Action Coalition. Their clearly stated objectives are to stop all urban freeway construction, to spend highway user revenue on rail mass transit, and to restrict your use of your automobile.

In short, they are out to "Bust the Highway Trust."

If they are successful, what does this mean to us here in Texas?

It means a good chunk of our highway user taxes would be spent for rail mass transit facilities and operating subsidies in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Chicago, Detroit and San Francisco.

No matter how you slice it, there would be fewer dollars available for highway construction in Texas.

Are highways detrimental to the environment? No. Some 30 per cent of the cost of the cost of federal highway projects are directly or indirectly related to preserving and enhancing the environment.

This includes the control of soil erosion, prevention of water pollution, beautification, providing replacement housing, environmental impact studies, and continuing, comprehensive urban planning.

We all have a genuine concern about the environment. After all, we have to live in it. The highway engineers and scientists are doing more to improve the environment than the ecological can men.

If the Highway Action Coalition has its way and we lose our freedom of mobility, our other freedoms won't mean much. Highways are truly freedom in action.—CD

A busy week for everybody!

This is that long-awaited week in Post . . . the week of the Garza County Junior Livestock Show and Garza County Fair.

It is a busy week for the youngsters who will be exhibiting livestock, and it is also a busy week for the home demonstration club women who will be putting on the fair.

In fact, the week is shaping up as a busy one for everybody concerned—the show and fair judges, the auctioneer, the officers and other members of the Garza County Junior Livestock Association—just to mention a few.

And let's by no means forget the parents of the young exhibitors. In the final analysis, they might turn out as having been the busiest of all!

The fact that all these people have been so busy and will continue that way throughout the week means that the rest of us will be able to enjoy an outstanding stock show and county fair. Let's show our appreciation of these two outstanding events by our support and our attendance during all three days and nights.—CD

Not just 'cookie salesmen'

Girl Scouts are not just 'cookie salesmen'; they are young people who are facing enormous challenges on what the quality of life will be in the future. How they meet the problems of a rapidly changing society will test their ingenuity, imagination and abilities. How they prepare themselves to meet these challenges is of utmost importance.

The Girl Scouts here in Post and everywhere else is a youth-serving organization which is taking the lead in molding young people in a mostly self-directed, self-planned project.

The concept of responsible citizenship and service with others has always been a basic one in Girl Scouting. Today's Girl Scouts are involved in projects to help close the gaps separating economic, racial, cultural, and age groups.

Prepared by their training, these girls give many hours of service to their community. So, during this Girl Scout Month, marking the organization's 60th birthday, The Dispatch extends its thanks and congratulations to the Girl Scouts of Post and to the nearly four million other girls, men, and women in Girl Scouting.—CD

Even a new kingdom won't sweep unless someone uses it.—Southwest Virginia Enterprise.

A columnist in Life Magazine proposes a fad of silence. Since most of us talk too much and say too little, he suggests a time of silence would have medical as well as psychic benefits. Prolonged silence, he suggests, could reduce the volume of noise, and induce great peace and euphoria. The lesson is that there are times when a man doesn't need words for understanding.—Newton, Miss. Record.

We live in a fast-moving world and few are able to retain the simple, fundamental values in dealings with their fellowmen. The dollar is tremendously important. The urge to follow the crowd is often almost irresistible; the urge to deviate from the truth powerful. Yet the great men and women of achievement are usually those who retain simple, basic virtues. They dare disagree with the crowd. They speak the truth when it's unpopular. How about you?—Brookville, Pa., American.

There's no wholly satisfactory substitute for brain, but silence does pretty good.—Missile, Red Bank, N. J.

IT'S TOO LATE now to do anything about it, but all three of our spring elections — city council, school board and hospital board — are to be held on April 1, which is April Fools' Day.

Holding the elections on April Fools' Day could mean that there will be more than the usual number of write-in votes, since most of those cast here in previous elections have been jokes.

I'M NOT CALLING any names since I've just paid one dentist bill and don't want to have to pay another, but there is one fellow in Post who has received enough write-in votes the last 15 years that if he had them all in one bundle he could be elected to just about any office he pleased. This fellow has never run for any office, but his "friends" have written in his name for every office from dog catcher to governor.

Hello out there in outer space! America's Pioneer 10 which took off last week toward the planet Jupiter and an eternal journey through the stars carries with it a message for alien civilizations which might exist beyond our solar system.

ON THE OUTSIDE chance that it might one day be intercepted by intelligent beings from another civilization, Pioneer 10 carries a gold plaque which tells in drawings and scientific symbols when and where it was launched and by what of people.

So it has come to pass that a government which for years has told us that there are no such things as flying saucers finally admits that the planet Earth might not be the only place in the universe on which there are intelligent beings.

IN EDITORIALIZING a few weeks ago on the candidacy of Joe E. Taylor for district attorney, The Dispatch stated, "It's the first time to our knowledge that a candidate from Post has run for the office." Well, J. C. Taylor called Monday morning to say that The Dispatch was guessing wrong about Taylor being the first Postite to seek the office.

Mrs. Taylor said a Judge Price of Post had filed the office of district attorney "a long time ago." She couldn't recall Judge Price's initials or first name, but The Dispatch called ex-County Judge J. E. Parker and learned that Judge Price's initials were W. I.

JUDGE PARKER said he could not recall whether Judge Price ran for and was elected to the office of district attorney or whether he was appointed to it. "But I'm pretty sure he was a candidate for the office," Judge Parker said. Anyhow, it all took place back in the late 1920's or early 1930's.

The yearbook's uniqueness makes it difficult to describe, so if you get an opportunity, ask an Art Guild member to show you one.

As It Looks from Here . . .

By REP. OMAR BURLESON, 17th District, Texas
WASHINGTON, D. C. — Last week's hometown Lions Club bulletin, "The Bull-etin," ends up with this quip: "We know how it is, so tell us like it ought to be."

This is pretty tough talk for orn sociologists prefer to the Sodomites as having a life-style, a confused pattern and maybe a subculture.

Starting with this idea, we are reminded of a sign in the museum at the head office of the Union Pacific Railroad in Omaha, Neb. A faded photo of the sign stuck up along the right-of-way somewhere in Nebraska or Wyoming about a century ago reads: "NOTICE, trespassers will be persecuted to the full extent of 2 mungrel dogs which never was over sochle to strangers and 1 dubble bri shot gun which ain't loaded with soft pillers. Damn if I ain't gettin tired of this hell raisin on my place. B. Griscom."

OF COURSE, Mr. Griscom has long departed this life but he leaves a simplicity needed in our gobbledy gookish language of today, found particularly in government.

Good Advice: State your position, make it plain; don't try to be elegant.

SOME TIME AGO, a certain city hired a consultant firm to make a survey on which to base an application for Federal funds for urban renewal. The report cost $12,000 in municipal tax money and it appears not to contain much more than could have been gathered by looking out the window of a ten-story building.

The document contains all the bureaucratic references dearly loved by those to whom it is directed. Someone in Washington will nod over it approvingly, then throw it on a stack where it will remain until the Congressman from the area calls up and wants to know what has happened to it.

WHAT IT essentially says is "the core area of the city is suffering from disinvestment and needs to be looked at in the broad picture. If prompt actions are implemented within the suggested perimeters, meaningful and relevant objectives may be finalized." This for 12,000 bucks!

Of course, this is common to about everything else in our public life. New ones pop up every day. Until recently not many parents ever heard of "sibling rivalries" but they did know that healthy brothers and sisters squabbled and sometimes fought, tooth and toenail, and often got the seat of their pants warmed for doing so.

THE BIBLE HAS a way of making things pretty clear. "Go to the ant, thou sluggard," says Proverbs. Sluggards are now "under-achievers." No one cheats any more. Rather he is "ethically disoriented."

Genesis says that the people of Sodom "were wicked and sinners before the Lord exceedingly."

Want A Mobile Home? Advantages of different models and brands. This is where "caveat emptor" or "let the buyer beware" really applies. Don't just listen to the dealer's or salesman's sales pitch when comparing brands and models. Their business is to sell the mobile homes on their lot — nothing more. Only by comparing and talking to mobile home owners can you decrease the risk of making a mistake you and your family will have to live in.

(4) After you have decided on the size you need and the amount of money you can spend, try to find out what a dealer's reputation is for service after the sale. Once more, the way to do this is by asking people who have previously purchased homes from the dealer. If some problem arises after you complete your purchase and then you discover that the dealer of the manufacturer will do nothing, it may be too late to protect yourself.

(5) In some mobile homes the furniture and appliances are of the lower price range, and you might consider using your own furniture or buying furniture from a local furniture dealer of better quality than that which is supplied by the mobile home manufacturer.

(6) Interest rates on mobile homes are like interest rates on everything else. It puts money in your pocket every month if you will shop around and compare interest rates. It is now possible for purchasers to obtain FHA and GI loans if qualified. Always check to see what interest rate your local bank or savings and loan association is charging on mobile home loans. Always be wary of salesmen who tell you that their loan rates are as low as the banks or savings and loan associations. The salesman gets a commission for selling the mobile homes, and he may also receive an additional commission if he arranges the financing. Thus it is to his advantage to have you finance through his company. Always pay as much down as possible and arrange your payments for as short a period of time as your budget will allow. This will save you money.

(7) You should also remember that the term mobile home is not a completely accurate description. These homes are really pre-fabricated homes that can be moved if

INSTALL GAS AIR CONDITIONING NOW?

Install GAS air conditioning now and beat the rush that always comes with the first hot days. While everyone else is waiting on installation, central GAS air conditioning will be quietly and efficiently cooling your whole house. And another benefit of installing now is you have the time to consider the advantages that GAS air conditioning has over the other kinds.

A GAS air conditioning system is ruggedly built and operates on a simple principle. Heat from the steady blue flame circulates a refrigerant through the system to cool the air. There are fewer major moving parts and no compressor to break down or wear out. It's this simplicity that gives GAS air conditioning its low operating costs, its long life with no loss of cooling capacity, and its easy maintenance with few repair bills. GAS air conditioning also filters the air to reduce dust and pollen.

If you have a forced air heating system, you may be able to use the same ductwork for GAS air conditioning. So, be foxy. Call Pioneer Natural Gas Company for a free air conditioning survey of your home or business.

Management can cut crop disease losses, says plant pathologist

Garza County farmers interested in picking up some additional profits from corn and grain this year are advised to take a close look at their management practices.

"Certain management practices can effectively reduce disease losses to corn and grain sorghum with little or no additional expense," says Dr. Wendell Horne, plant pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

An important consideration is well constructed and if the mover is careful and experienced. Many mobile homes, however, are damaged when moved because the mover or hauler is not careful, or because there is some structural design problem. Also, the costs for moving may be much higher than you think. If you have to move often, it can be quite expensive.

If you will follow these suggestions, you should be a much happier mobile home owner.

crop rotation. Rotating with an unrelated crop will reduce populations of disease-causing organisms in the soil and will keep actual disease losses to a minimum.

According to Horne, a key management practice is wise variety selection. "Many disease resistant varieties have yield capabilities equal to or greater than susceptible varieties."

The plant pathologist encourages producers to become familiar with the diseases of corn and grain sorghum so that they can be recognized. Also, knowing which diseases are most likely to occur gives a producer a head start in planning preventive programs.

"Take time to observe and identify disease problems each year," urges Horne. "Then you can avoid the field with a serious disease problem in coming years."

Another step in warding off disease problems in corn and grain sorghum is Johnsongrass control. Johnsongrass is closely related to corn and grain sorghum and has almost all the diseases which affect these crops.

"Get the jump on costly corn and grain sorghum diseases," advises Horne. "Stop by your county agents office for a color publication showing these diseases and providing additional information on management practices."

Wily coyote moves into East Texas

AUSTIN — The coyote of western story and song is moving east. Traditionally pictured yapping at the moon in the land of sagebrush and saddle-sores, the coyote is extending his range from West Texas' lone prairies to seemingly more congested areas in East Texas.

It's not that the coyote is changing. The movement instead appears to result from several ecological factors, including a gradual change in land use patterns in the eastern half of the state.

Biologist Dennis N. Russell of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department said coyotes are now common in parts of East Texas where they were rare or nonexistent 10 to 20 years ago.

Russell said East Texas has become the home of more coyotes because of several reasons.

As cotton and other row crops became less profitable in the past two decades, many farmers moved into cities or converted their land to grazing or other use. This opened the door for the spread of brushy cover utilized by rodents and other wildlife.

These life forms are ready-made chow for coyotes, which prefer natural foods over domestic livestock.

Another factor in the rise of the coyotes was the extermination of the Texas red wolf over most of its East Texas range. This wolf—the only remaining wolf species in Texas—is now confined to a tiny corridor of coastal marshland in Southeast Texas.

The coyote apparently stepped with vigor into the void created by the decline of the red wolf. The same predator control programs which hastened the demise of the red wolf may have been a factor in moving coyotes into unfamiliar areas.

Another factor which is yet unproven which has been documented in other states, is a tendency of the coyote to interbreed with domestic dogs. The resulting animal, reports indicate, may be larger and stronger than the coyote—and just as wild.

Russell said there is an apparent two-pronged flow of coyotes into East Texas. One involves animals from the extreme North Central Texas area near the Red River pushing east and south toward Texarkana, Tyler and Longview. The other route appears to be from Central Texas, to deep East Texas, roughly south of Nacogdoches.

Russell said it would be difficult to estimate the population of coyotes in Texas, but it's obviously on the rise.

Fishing guide now available

AUSTIN — Up-to-date information on the laws affecting the Texas fisherman are now available from license deputies across the state, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials.

The Texas Sport Fishing Guide for 1971-72 contains license requirements, fresh water regulations, county listings, lake laws, laws concerning minnows, saltwater regulations, laws concerning tropical fish and laws concerning other protected species.

Regulations for commercial fishing, shrimping, netting and other commercial activities related to fish are included in another publication, the "Texas Commercial Fishing Guide," now being prepared.

First enrollment set for 1973 in new vet school

LUBBOCK — The first 25 freshman candidates for doctor of veterinary medicine degrees hopefully will be enrolled in the fall of 1973 in the School of Veterinary and Zoological Medicine to be developed within the Texas Tech University School of Medicine at Lubbock.

The Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System authorized the school Nov. 19, 1971. As submitted to the coordinating board, the veterinary school plans to enroll 50 freshman students each year when the school is fully operational and compress the four-year degree program into 38 calendar months.

The central goal of the veterinary facility is to graduate highly skilled and professional doctors of veterinary medicine. A major portion of clinical training will be centered around the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of diseases of animals in feedlots and proper management of food producing animals such as cattle and swine.

The coordinating board's approval of the new school was made with the knowledge that the needs of the feedlot industry in West Texas constitute an integral part of the state's economy, and that the need for a domestic center, large-animal clinic and more large-animal practitioners is not being met.

He drives the Texas way

What do Ed McMahon, Bob Lilly, Bob Hayes, Phyllis Diller, The Carpenters, The Lettermen and Charley Pride have in common?

They all "Drive Friendly."

And they're telling Texans of their own personal ways of driving friendly on a new series of radio public service announcements now being distributed to more than 400 stations by the Texas Office of Traffic Safety Administration.

In one of the announcements, Ed McMahon, Johnny Carson's food-and-drink-loving sidekick on the "Tonight" show, admits that he does "enjoy a nip every once in a while."

"But," he says, "I never drink when I'm going to have to do the driving home. If you plan to drink, let someone else drive. That's just one more way to 'Drive Friendly'—the Texas way."

The entertainers and athletes on this new record, which is third in the series, join a long list of state and national personalities who support the Governor's traffic safety program.

Garza bond goal of $130,000 set

The 1972 sales goal for Texas is $202.3 million. During the month, sales were $19,365,593 compared to January 1971 sales of $17,375,765—an increase of 11.4 per cent.

The Department of the Treasury announced that during January there were new purchases of Series of E and H bonds amounting to $521 million, 21.3 per cent above January a year ago.

? Your Name ?

WHAT'S IN IT?

By CHARLES DIDWAY

MACY

Companions of William of Normandy when he crossed the English Channel to conquer England came from all parts of France. Many of the invaders were surnamed for the towns and other places in France from which they came. Since there were a number of places in France with such names as Macy, Macey and Mace, it naturally followed that many of those making up the Duke of Normandy's army had taken their name from one of those places.

The name de Maci occurs in the list of companions of William engraved over the doorway of an old church in France, and in 1086, twenty years after the Conquest, a Hamo de Masci held the lands of Dunham Massey in Cheshire, England.

Due to the illiteracy of most of the people of that time the spelling of names took various forms, and Macy often became Massey, Massie, etc. Usually Macy is considered to be the French form as it was brought to England, while Massey is the English name.

Among the earliest written records of the name in England is that of Alan Macy, whose name appeared on the Hundred Rolls of Suffolk in the year 1275.

A less likely source of the surname Macy is from the mace, a very fierce-looking medieval weapon. A warrior who was skilled in the use of the weapon might have received this as a nickname, much as one of our Western cowboys could have been called "Two-gun Pete." The mace appears on the coats-of-arms of a number of European families.

The first Macy in the New World is believed to have been Thomas Macy, who also used the spelling Macie on occasion. He emigrated to America from England before 1639 and settled later in Nantucket, Mass. Among his many descendants was Josiah Macy, born in 1785, and founder of the shipping and commission house of Josiah Macy & Son, on which he founded a great fortune at a time when great fortunes in the nation were few.

Trees one of biggest bargains in our environment, says specialist

Garza countians are reminded that late winter and early spring the good times to set out new trees in their home or community landscape.

Dr. Bill Welch of College Station, Extension landscape horticulturist, points out that planting trees demonstrates a feeling of continuity with the past and anticipation for the future.

"Trees are probably one of the biggest bargains in our environment," says Welch. "Varieties should be planted that are adapted to the area and that will meet specific needs. Trees can provide lasting beauty if cared for properly."

In addition to aesthetic reasons for planting trees, there are many other bonuses, notes the horticulturist.

1. Trees reduce smog and purify the air by acting as dust and pollution filters and by releasing life-giving oxygen into the air.
 2. Trees moderate the climate by protecting from extremes in wind, heat, cold and drought.
 3. Trees provide food and shelter for many bird and animal species.
 4. Planting good trees increases the value and sales appeal of homes.
- For information on selecting trees for your home or community, consult your county Extension agent or local nurseryman, a d d s Welch.

"We are such stuff as dreams are made on."

W. Shakespeare

Life would be pretty dull if people couldn't dream. Take that boat you're always dreaming about. Just thinking about it makes you feel pretty good. But you won't just have to dream if you buy U.S. Savings Bonds. Because Bonds can make your dream boat a reality.

Now Bonds mature in less than six years. Which means maybe it won't take forever for your ship to come in. Just knowing you've got the safety and security of U.S. Savings Bonds working for you can make dreaming for anything a lot more fun. Because, with Bonds, the good times and the good things can really happen.

So, don't give up dreaming. Just keep buying U.S. Savings Bonds—they're the stuff dreams are made of.

There's nothing you can't do with the security of U.S. Savings Bonds. Buy them now and you'll have the safety and security of U.S. Savings Bonds working for you. Because, with Bonds, the good times and the good things can really happen.

He Never Intrudes!

By Bernard S. Ramsey

There is a story in Luke's Gospel (Chapter 18, verses 34-43)—and there are many others throughout the Gospel, that tells us that while Jesus is always near, ready to help when men and women are in deep trouble or hurt by life, He never intrudes! It is one of the most remarkable features of the Gospels . . . that in their records Christ never intrudes on anyone.

The same as in the case of Zaccheus — we have "to seek" Jesus. The key phrase in the story to which I have referred is "JESUS OF NAZARETH PASSETH BY" . . . "PASSETH BY" . . . don't miss it . . . there is no intrusion . . . no pushing, no high pressure, no interfering. We always find Him being sought by people. To be certain he is always ready to meet our needs . . . BUT ALWAYS AWAITS our movement towards him. To paraphrase Bishop Vincent slightly: "REACH UP AS FAR AS YOU CAN AND JESUS WILL REACH DOWN ALL THE WAY". That is why he taught us to always

"pray without ceasing." Have you ever noticed that the Bible is packed and jammed full of prayers? Our Lord waits patiently to be asked . . . and prayer is our way of responding when His grace is near: "JESUS OF NAZARETH PASSETH BY" . . . but it is always up to us whether or not he just passes us by . . . or turns attention to us at our entreaty to ask: "What do you want me to do for you?"

The patience of our Lord is devastating and how terribly possible it is for us to miss the help—to reject the grace . . . simply because, in our silly pride we have refused to invite him to look on us and pray: "LORD, BE MERCIFUL TO ME A SINNER."

That is also why he gave us His Church—it is there if nowhere else—we are to seek Him—and I'm sure He would not object to our adding: "without ceasing."

HIGH SCHOOL EDITORIAL

HOW WILL YOU VOTE, 18-YEAR-OLDS?

By RANDELL HAYS
For about two years now, the young generation, such as we, have been fighting for the right to vote. Well, now you have that right. But on election day, how will you cast your vote?

Will you know all the candidates and their issues? Will you understand their policies and goals? Will you vote for them because they are friends or relatives? Or will you vote for the one best qualified?

On election day make sure that you know the candidates and the issues. Don't go to the polls and vote without knowing anything about the candidates. Any of the candidates will talk to you about anything you want to discuss concerning their issues. Talk to them.

The Supreme Court put its confidence and trust in the young Americans to vote. Let's show them that we can do a good job and are just as capable of voting as they are.

And if you are called upon to help in local elections, give them a helping hand. There is a lot of work in becoming ready for elections. And, most of all, if you are registered to vote—VOTE!

CLASSROOM COPYCAT

Scene: a college classroom. The professor is delivering a lecture on philosophy. Most of his listeners are paying only intermittent attention to his pearls of wisdom.

But one alert young man is zealously taking down every word. For he has a great idea. He will gather the lectures together, publish them in book form, and then sell them to students who are less energetic than he is.

Could the professor block the young man's project if he so desired? This question arose not long ago when a professor actually did go to court against a classroom copycat. He claimed that publication of the lectures would violate his "common law copyright."

The defendant retorted that the professor had lost the copyright by uttering his words in public, thereby making them "free for all."

But the court sided with the professor and granted him an injunction. The court pointed out that he had spoken not to the general public, for general use, but to a limited group for limited use.

Other courts have agreed that a professor does not lose his common law copyright merely by delivering lectures to his students. By the same token, a minister probably retains rights in his sermons after delivering them to his congregation.

However, a copyright generally protects only the mode of expression, not the information itself. For example:

A professor of medicine complained in court that a new book contained certain details about surgery that he had described in his lectures.

But it turned out that the book did not use the professor's language at all—and used his data only in combination with material taken from other sources.

The court decided that the professor had no grounds for complaint. The court said he could not, simply by stating facts out loud, gain a monopoly on those facts for himself.

Historians see film at Tuesday meet

Members of the Garza County Historical Survey Committee were shown a film of the type that is to be made of Garza County in a pilot program of the Texas Historical Society at their monthly meeting Tuesday at the Postex Plant.

Garza County has been invited as one of ten counties in the state to furnish slides and commentaries on historic places and sites of interest for the pilot program.

The film strip will be made at no charge to the county for showing in public schools and before other groups. The Post school, through their superintendent, Bill Shiver, have pledged their approval and support of the film project.

The film shown Tuesday was of Freestone County and was shown by Bill Clamp of Postex, who also showed slides of the textile plant's expansion and decoration programs.

Texas Highway Department publications were displayed by Julian F. Smith, resident highway engineer and a member of the committee.

Also on display at the meeting was a United Press International (UPI) article on Post, "West Texas City Leads Way to Preserving Area History," which appeared recently in the Amarillo Globe-News and in other UPI newspapers. Mrs. Gwen Boren and Mrs. Winnie Tuffing expressed to the committee members their appreciation of the sustaining memberships presented them at a recent meeting. Jim Cornish, new president of the Post Chamber of Commerce, was introduced, and pledged his support and that of the Chamber to the historical committee's work.

Attending Tuesday's meeting were: Ted Aten, Paul Jones, Ben Sanchez, George Samson, Walter Duckworth, Walter Boren, J. E. Parker, Wynone Kennedy, Cornish, Ralph Welch, Helen Welch, Mattie Belle Fluit, Ruby Kirkpatrick, Frank Runkles, Ed Neff, Evelyn Neff, Lois Williams, Mrs. Tuffing, Mrs. Boren and Clamp.

Payment of dog bounties decline

The $2 bounty stray dog roundup now under way is going slower than any of the three previous roundups, according to city officials.

The current roundup started on Feb. 25, but bounties had been paid on only 19 strays up to 3 p.m. Wednesday. Each of the previous roundups resulted in the picking up of from 75 to 80 dogs.

From the number of complaints received, there is no indication the stray dog population has been reduced that much, city officials say.

Those wishing to claim the bounty are asked to notify the police radio dispatcher that they have picked up a dog and then take the animal to the dog pound at the city warehouse between 4 and 5 p.m.

One of the new projects is reconstruction, grading, structure and surfacing of 12.7 miles of U.S. Hwy. 84 from one mile south of Southland to three miles northwest of Post. The cost has been estimated at $763,000.

The other project included in the two-year program is the purchase of right-of-way on 8.1 miles of U.S. Hwy. 389 from 11.3 miles east of Post southeast to the Kent County line, with the cost estimated at $19,000.

They were to appear with Briscoe at a barbecue in Snyder Tuesday night in the rancher's honor. Briscoe then planned to campaign on into Abilene Wednesday.

Briscoe, a successful rancher who was named "Mr. South Texas" in 1967, served eight years in the Texas Legislature during which time he co-authored the farm-to-market road program, voted in the aid of progressive government, and introduced the first resolution demanding an investigation of the Vestal Land Board which resulted in uncovering a major scandal involving millions in state funds.

County racks up third fatality

Garza County's third traffic fatality of the year occurred about 4:30 a.m. Sunday when Gary Lee Scrivner, 21, of Slaton, was fatally injured when the car he was driving overturned on U. S. Hwy. 84 just inside the county's western boundary.

The city council appointed a tax equalization board and released six condemned structures for demolition at Monday night's meeting.

The council briefly discussed, but took no action, on employment of a city attorney and a proposed electrical code, with both matters scheduled to be acted on at the council's next meeting.

Gene Moore, Bob Dickson and Dick Tanner were appointed to the tax equalization board, with Robert Cox, Grant Lott, T. B. Odum and W. G. (Bill) Pool named as alternate board members.

County seeking 'Green Light'

Garza County has in its application with federal authorities for a Green Light program for elderly women.

The program is similar to the Green Thumb program for men.

In the Green Light program, women 55 years of age and over would be eligible for assignment individually to a variety of Green Light projects for three days work each week.

County Judge Giles Dalby's office said considerable interest already has been shown here in such a program, but federal funding is still awaited.

Library LISTENING POST

By GEORGE L. MILLER

Last week I went to Lubbock to represent our library at an election, the purpose of which was to create an advisory council for the Lubbock area library center. Before it was over, I was elected to the council, and made vice-chairman to boot. It got me lots of keen publicity in the newspaper, plus my picture.

What it didn't do is ever explain to me just what this honor was that had been bestowed on me. I tried to ask a few questions—you need to ask them very carefully or people will think they voted for a dumbbell — hoping I would finally understand what this Advisory Council was supposed to do. I must have asked too carefully for I never found out.

The best I could understand, we are to advise the Lubbock area libraries how to spend their share of $50,000 which the State of Texas voted for library service for this year. This sum was instead of the $1.1 million that had been requested originally.

By the time you chop up $50,000 between ten major resource centers in the state, you don't get much for Lubbock. $5,000 would seem to be about the limit. Actually, the figure is less than that because we figured our share on the basis of our population. After the figuring was done, we got $3,275 to share with 15 libraries in the Lubbock area. Our library here in Post is included.

Since some of the money already has been spent, we're down to $2,500 or thereabouts, and when that's spent there just may not be any more appropriated. Looked at this way, I figure the Advisory Council won't be called on for much advice. I suspect my honor could be short-lived.

In a more serious vein, I wish there was some way to get people to be more library conscious. It seems sad but true that legislators aren't about to spend a lot of worry over the state of libraries in our state until people are library conscious. Money will be appropriated for various and sundry items in the state budget and books will pick up the scraps — assuming there are some scraps to pick up.

It's baffling to me why people don't take libraries more seriously. A library is about the only guarantee of freedom a country like ours has, for a library is the one place we can preserve the documents of our heritage, supply the information we need to cope with our society, and insure that ignorance is dispelled.

Freedom is the product of knowledge, not a word printed in a political document. If it is to be real freedom it must come from understanding. Where men are ignorant they are enslaved. This is the chief tool of the propagandist, and in totalitarian societies the one institution that must be regulated and controlled the most strictly is the library.

We have free libraries in our society — in spite of hate campaigns, in spite of political persecutions, in spite of fear. You can get the facts in the library that you will have difficulty getting anywhere else. Taking libraries for granted is the same as taking our freedom for granted. Unfortunately far too many of us do both.

Libraries have a job bigger than ever before trying to equip society with the information and resources it increasingly needs. At the same time budgets are being trimmed, and the scraps get thinner for the libraries. If this trend continues we may well wake up one day and discover there is no place to go for the information we need to preserve our democratic society.

If that day does come, we will have to blame ourselves, for we will have been the ones who let our values get out of kilter. We're the ones who never raise a protest against waste and corruption, the ones who think a library is a luxury, the ones who allow budgets for library services to be cut back, trimmed, and ignored.

In the meantime, I will serve on an advisory council that has so little to do it plans only two meetings for the year. When you realize this council represents 29 counties, I feel like someone should be indicted for criminal negligence. But the more probable result will be another budget cut next year, making the whole council unnecessary. And a few of us will have another cup of coffee and talk about what could have been.

Pee Wee Pierce and Libbie Ford have put together a display for the library to show at the Stock Show and County Fair. Be sure to drop in and take a look at it.
