It's all a part of Christmas

The ubiquitous Christmas songs have been crowding the airwaves for weeks and even "piped" into downtown Post. The tinsel across the streets has been up since soon after Thanksgiving Day. Santa Claus has long since made his arrival to greet wide-eyed little girls and boys who stammer their Christmas hopes, and he is due back again this Saturday to listen to those who "missed" him on his first two visits.

There are those who bemoan the commercialization of Christmas and yet the truth is that it is all an authentic part of something wonderful that happens every December.

Nothing ever really gets in the way, nothing ever succeeds in hiding the fact that what makes this a season of joy is that we approach the day when all over the world people observe the birth of Jesus.

And there is the wonder. Imagine that nearly 20 centuries ago in a city of little importance except to the family of David a baby was born-and the world still remem-

Imagine that a stable in the little town of Bethlehem is still remembered because a mother gave birth to an infant there. Imagine that such an unimportant event as the world, if it had known of it, would have thought of it should touch the lives of people 2,000 years later, that the world should even date its calendars from that event.

Imagine that what happened that evening so many years ago still brings about a change in people, still stirs the whole world to thoughts of joy and dreams of the reality of the hope that peace would come to men of good will through the wonder of that night in Bethlehem.

Santa Claus, the tinsel, the mistletoe, the trees, the rush and bustle, the shopping lists, the greeting cards, all are a part of it but the center of everything is in the remembrance of Joseph standing tall beside Mary who cradled in her arms a Baby who transformed the world.

Armadillo aids leprosy research

No matter how useless some of them might appear, all living creatures were put here for a purpose, and more often than not that purpose is a good one.

Who would ever have thought, for instance, that the lowly armadillo might have a vital role in new research which could produce a vaccine against leprosy?

Well, that might be just the case, according to the weekly public service feature of the Texas State Department of Health, just received at The Dispatch office.

The news release states that another milestone in the fight against the disease was reached at the Public Health Service leprosarium at Carville, La., when scientists were able to transmit lepromatous leprosy to an armadillo.

Dr. Waldemar F. Kirchheimer, chief of laboratory research at Carville, said, "This is the only animal in the history of the world that has contracted the full-blown disease other than man. In fact, it was worse than in man.

Scientists were about at the end of their rope. It's true that bacilli had been injected into experimental animals before, and a selflimiting multiplying of bacilli had occurred, But in the armadillo, multiplication occurred throughout the entire body. In other animals, the infection didn't spread beyond the site of injection

The armadillo development has produced great hope that at last the road is clear for pushing ahead toward discovery of a vaccine against leprosy, a disease which, until just a few years ago, gave people chills at the very mention of the word. But scientific discoveries and new treatment procedures have shattered some of the myths and untruths about it.

At this point, scientists say, it is only hope, but that they now have better tools to use in their efforts.

Each new development in the prevention or treatment of any disease brings new hope, of course, that someday science will find the cause and cure of cancer. And who knows? When that day comes, some creature as unlikely as the armadilla might provide the key .-- CD

The Abundant Life ...

ONE SOLITARY LIFE

People the world over pause this time of the year to remember the birth of Jesus Christ. I wonder though, if we really appreciate the tremendous influence He has had on our lives and the world. This divine man should be honored by us daily. The following tribute to Jesus by Phillips Brooks reminds us of His eternal presence.

"He was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman.

Until He was thirty He worked in a carpenter shop, and then for three years He was an itinerant preacher.

He wrote no books. He held no office, He never owned a home, He was never in a big city. He never traveled two hundred miles from the place where He was born. He never did one of the things that usually accompany greatness.

The authorities condemned His teachings. His friends deserted Him. One betrayed Him to His enemies for a paltry sum. One denied Him. He went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed upon a cross between two thieves. While He was dying His executioners gambled for the only piece of property He owned on earth-His coat. When He was dead He was taken down and laid in a borrowed grave.

Nineteen wide centuries have come and gone, yet today He is the crowning glory of the human race, the adored leader of millions of the earth's inhabitants

All the armies that ever marched, and all the navies tha: were ever built, and all parliaments that ever sat, and all the rulers that ever reigned-put together-have not affected the life of man upon this earth so protoundly as has that One Solitary Life."

A Christmas Spectacular

(YOU WON'T SEE ON TV)

By George L. Miller

In the Rock Opera "Jesus Christ: Superstar", Judas asks an interesting question-

Why'd you choose such a backward time and such a strange land? If you'd come today you would have reached a whole nation. Israel in 4 BC had no mass communication.

Why indeed! What couldn't the miracle of TV do for the arrival of the Son of God!

Prepare the lights on the stable. Get the spot trained on Mary's head, the blue will look better in sharp light. Joseph can stand behind her to give the proper contrast.

Be sure the Wise Men are put in the foreground. Their robes are so colorful and all that gold and jewelry will add sparkle to the production. We can omit the shepherdsperhaps let one in if he stays in the background. We don't want to spoil the effect with a figure in dirty clothes and a ragged beard-someone might think we had a hippie here.

The stable-we'd better change that. A hotel suite would be more suitable. After all-this is the Son of God we're televising. See about the possibility of renting the Presidential suite at the Bethlehem Biltmore. And if you can't rent it, buy the whole hotel. We can use the room for foreign correspondents.

Better have a team of obstetricians and nurses standing by, wouldn't want any slip-ups at the last minute. In fact, lets scrap the Bethlehem idea all together. Book Mt. Sinai hospital in New York. We'll have a whole hospital staff on hand. That leaves out the shepherd and Wisemen -perhaps we can televise their arrival at the U.N. building We'll need a symphony orchestra made up of musicians from every country on the globe. Music especially written for the occasion-in fact it might be smart to have a sacred concert with musical selections from all the major foriegn powers. Of course, we'd have Lawrence Welk, Andy Williams and Perry Como standing by for one-the-spot lullabys.

If we televise from New York, we'll need to check air pollution levels to see if the angels will be visible through the smog. We may have to televise them indoors-Carnegie Hall might be the best bet-if there aren't too many of them.

Don't forget to contact Macy's for commercial time we're going to need plenty of sponsors. Depending on how long it takes, we could be on the air for as much as 48 hours.

Of course we could skip the baby part and concentrate on the wise men and angels. Make it a memorial birthday concert. It would free us to get more scenic views, on the spot interviews with the man in the street, sermonettes from prominent clergymen; Catholic, Protestant and Jewish.

Cancel the hospital reservation. We can put together a better show without the baby.

Yes, the miracle of TV could put together quite a Christmas Spectacular, but what chance would the Son of God have?

Christ comes to us more quietly so that we can have a chance to meet him and get to know him. The real Christ-

A French story of the 13th century relates how a huge tree was discovered in a forest, its branches lit with candles.

Some branches rose straight up, while others were turned down Atop the tree was a child, with a halo around his head. The story explains that the tree is mankind Its candles represent people good or bad, and the child is the Christ Child.

Christmas Suit project begins at Boys Ranch

AMARILLO - The annual goal to provide each of the 370 boys at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch with a new suit or clothing package began today through the Christmas Suit Fund Project.

Providing new suits for the boys has become a favorite way of holiday giving for many of their friends who contribute $25 for a suit. Amarillo merchants permit the boys to select suits or clothing combinations according to their prefernces at a special discount. Ages of all the boys are from four to 18, and the difference in the prices of the lothing for the younger and older boys will make the average cost approximately $25. In many cases, they are the first new suits the boys have ever owned, and for others the suits replace those that have become worn or outgrown.

Smith and A. F. Cox,x president of Pioneer Nuclear Inc., a subsidiary of Pioneer Natural Gas Company, appeared before the group of security analysts and institutional investors. Smith highlighted the operations of the company for the past year and outlined to the group some of the growth potential of the West Texas area served by Pionper.

Cox discussed Pioneer Nuclear's uranium activities. He announc e d that the company's joint venture mill in Karnes County, Texas, was nearly 90 per cent complete and would definitely meet the previously announced start-up date of March, 1972. He told the analysts that first deliveries would be made in July of 1972.

Both Smith and Cox touched on the natural gas supply situat i on. Smith stated that the company was still in excellent position with a gas reserve life index estimated to be between 18 and 20 years. He pointed out to the analysts that Pioneer traditionally tries to maintain it s gas supply with a 20 year reserve. He went on to say, "This known supply of energy should result in the attraction of industry to the company's service area in the years to come.

Select good quality trees, shrubs or house plants from your local florist, nursery or garden center as gifts for your gardening friends. Evergreen plants or potted house plants make very attractive g if t items, especially if the base is wrapped with Christmas paper and tied with a colorful ribbon, says

Janne. Some of the ornamental plants that will make attractive gifts include: Yaupon, Possumhaw, Burford Holly, American Holly, Juniper, Deodar Cedar, Pyracan tha, Pittosporum, Nandina and Japanese Yew.

For plants to be used in the home, Janne suggests the following: Ponsettia, Azalea, Camell i a, Jerusalem Cherry, Christmas Pepper and Chrysanthemum, as well as the multitude of foliage plants that are available.

Be sure to select a plant that is adapted to the area in which it will be grown, he adds. In case of inclement weather, the recipient of the plant should know to keep it in a cool place where the oil ball or container will not become too dry until it can be placed in its permanent location.

For that distant relative or friend that is interested in gardening, how about a useful gardening tool or a copy of a good garden book for a Christmas gift, proposes Janne. There is something available for every gardening interest.
