Forty-Fifth Year

Post, Garza County, Texas

Thursday, May 4, 1972

Number 49

Post's acquiring of a new small industry this week in George Carter's foundry and industrial designing firms is the kind of good, substantial news The Dispatch loves to print.

The best thing about our new small industry is its growth potential.

It isn't the kind of a business which is necessarily going to stay small for long. George already has three production contracts "going for him" and if he has a fair bit of luck in new industrial prototype developments his firm will grow — and grow some more.

Small as he is now, George actually is only one of four industrial designers in the entire country who has his own prototype capabilities (which means he has the equipment to develop and test his own designs).

We'd guess that makes George a very independent sort of business man.

What's more, George didn't ask for any special inducements to come to Post. He just wanted a town that offered him a bigger opportunity at an economical price he could afford. And he thinks Post is "it."

Post has long needed, and long sought, a new industry which would employ men so that their wives could seek employment at the Post-Text Plant. The attraction of labor from the city to the smaller town isn't the same problem with two such industries helping each other with the "pull."

We're hopeful Carter's industrial designing and foundry combination will be the other member of the "industrial team" Post has been seeking so long.

So welcome to town, George!

The Dispatch this week has a new society editor and "gal Friday" in Mrs. Bonnie Duren. Starting Monday, she succeeded Nancy Jolly as society editor, phone answerer, the counter waiter-on, classified ad manager, subscription chief, proof reader, photo-engraver operator, etc. We hope to teach her telephone punching too if she finds time.

We're sorry to have lost Nancy to "more home life", but we're glad Bonnie showed up when she did.

The Dispatch is stuffed with a record 50 political advertisements this week, making it pretty obvious to every Dispatch reader that this "humdinger" of a Democratic primary campaign is heading for its ballot box decision Saturday.

Over on page 11 you'll find a big sample ballot for voter study as a public service offering of The Dispatch. A lot of voters like to look it over before heading for the voting booth.

So read all the political ads, including the only one we've ever seen with a touch of humor (page 11) and then go vote Saturday. All these hustling candidates deserve your answer, tough as it's bound to be for most of them.

Christie to visit in Post Friday

State Sen. Joe Christie will bring his campaign for lieutenant governor to Post at 2 p.m. Friday — just hours ahead of the opening of the polls in the May 6 primary election.

Preston Poole, who is in charge of arrangements for Christie's visit here, said the El Paso senator will attend a question and answer session on the courthouse lawn and then "shake hands" in the downtown area.

Christie's last day campaigning begins with a 9:15 visit in Big Spring and a noon luncheon in Snyder before coming on to Post. The senator will wind up the day in Andrews where he will attend a public reception at 4 p.m.

Christie, who was born in Rising Star and grew up in Cisco, has represented the El Paso senatorial district since 1966.

Pre-schooler roundup scheduled for Friday

The annual spring roundup of children who will enroll in the first grade in August of 1972 is scheduled for this Friday, according to Principal Jack Alexander. The roundup will be held from 3 until 4 p.m. Pupils currently enrolled either in kindergarten or the first grade will be dismissed at 2:30 p.m. roundup day.

Industrial designer to move foundry to Post

Storage building will house firm

George Carter, an industrial designer who has his own foundry business so he can develop his own prototype capabilities, announced here today he is moving his business operations to Post.

The Lubbock man has signed a lease-purchase agreement with Mike Mitchell to acquire Mitchell's 16,000 square foot metal grain storage warehouse on the Santa Fe right-of-way in southeast Post.

He plans the immediate conversion of the big building into a combined foundry and machine shop which also will include his industrial designing offices.

Carter is moving his two businesses — The Little Foundry Corporation and G. C. Carter & Associates, his industrial designing company — here from Lorenzo where they have operated since he organized them three years ago.

Carter said he will bring eight employees and their families with him to Post.

He told The Dispatch that "by the end of the summer" he hopes to have increased his payroll here to 40.

Carter, who was born in Memphis, Tex., has been an industrial designer for 18 years. Through recent design development he has secured several rather large production contracts for his expanded foundry here.

He specializes in fluid and rotary machinery design.

Carter, who has been seeking a larger location than the leased quarters in which he has been operating in Lorenzo plus added industrial advantages, told The Dispatch his foundry now has contracts to manufacture:

(1) Aerators for Turb-Aire of Amarillo for both industrial and municipal sewage systems and for waste matter treatment.

(2) Basic hydraulic systems for heart and kidney machines.

(3) Evacuators for vacuum cleaner systems for an associate company of Holiday Inn Corporation. (The evacuators will be used in industrial type cleaners that will do the cleaning for most Holiday Inns throughout the country.)

Carter said he also is equipped to handle all types of machine work for oil firms and other companies in this area. Carter reports a good possibility exists his foundry will be approved by the federal government for an "on the job training program" of considerable size.

The lease-purchase agreement for the grain warehouse here also includes four lots adjacent to the Santa Fe right-of-way north of the warehouse. These will be held for possible future expansion.

Bringing of Carter's foundry and industrial designing businesses to Post came about while Carter was establishing a line of credit for operating purposes with the First National Bank of Post via a Small Business Administration loan agreement.

The Post Chamber of Commerce's industrial committee had been negotiating with another industrial prospect for lease or purchase of the big warehouse for another type business.

Through these negotiations, the details of a lease-purchase agreement had been worked out with Mitchell. When Carter expressed immediate interest in the building after bank officials proposed to move his operations to Post, the Lubbock man was given an inspection of the warehouse and its facilities.

Following the inspection, he agreed to the lease-purchase terms and expressed his willingness to convert the big warehouse to his use at his own expense.

Carter plans a fire wall through the middle of the building, using the north half for his foundry operations on a six-inch sand base. He will use the south half for manufacturing facilities and warehouse space.

He already has arranged for the south half of the building.

In his foundry work, Carter says he will be pouring cast iron, brass and aluminum.

He hopes business growth will necessitate use of the entire warehouse for foundry work within 18 months and the construction of new manufacturing facilities on adjacent lots for his machine shop.

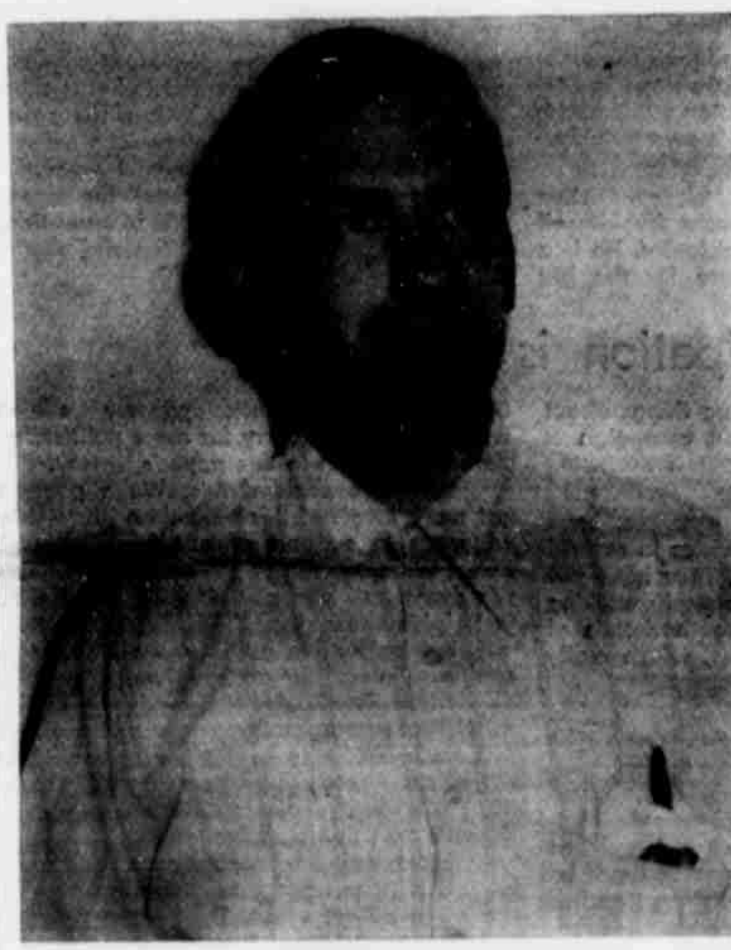

Carter told The Dispatch conversion work will start "immediately" and that he will move his foundry here as soon as the necessary remodeling is completed.

"We feel very fortunate, indeed, in bringing Mr. Carter and his dual business operations to Post," Giles C. McCrary, chairman of the Chamber's industrial committee, told The Dispatch.

Negotiations with Carter have proceeded over the past three weeks with J. B. Potts, bank president and industrial committee member, McCrary, and Jim Cornish, Chamber president, involved.

Carter was referred to the First National Bank here by Small Business Administration officials because of the success the bank here has had with funding a number of absentee voting for Saturday's primary election pick-up in Garza County the final week for a total of 49 absentee votes up to the 5 p.m. Tuesday deadline. In addition, six absentee ballots had been mailed out, with Saturday noon the deadline for their return.

New voters in the 18-to-21 year age group have helped boost registration in Garza County to 2,445 for Saturday's Democratic primary and a near-record vote is forecast by some political observers.

Wayne W. Connally Lt.-Governor candidate makes helicopter visit

Senator Wayne Connally, brother of U. S. Secretary John Connally, made his campaign for lieutenant governor to Post via helicopter Thursday morning.

He said he wants the best education facilities we can afford," Connally said. "What we need in a better budgetary control."

He added that this was one of the reasons why he was injured in a motorcycle accident here last week, and underwent amputation of his left foot at Lubbock Methodist Hospital Saturday.

He returned to his home here last night.

He will be in the front joint and about the second joint of the toe amputated, according to Rusk County Agent Syd Compton.

FOR SPECIAL CHILDREN Students, helpers needed by school

The Post School for Special Children, which is the new satellite school for mentally retarded youngsters, is in need of both more students and more volunteer helpers.

A wide variety of gifts and donations have been given the class, since it opened its five-mornings-a-week schedule April 17, directors for the school were told at their monthly meeting last Thursday night. But more volunteers are needed and more students too.

With the addition of one more student today, the class, originally sponsored by the Amity Study Club, now has five students. An average attendance of four must be maintained to qualify for state support.

The class here is under supervision of the state school at Lubbock with the state paying the salary of the instructor, Mrs. Marjorie Compton.

Longshore rites conducted here

Funeral services for Bonnie (Bon) Longshore, 77, retired farmer of Route 3, Post, were held at 3 p.m. Tuesday at the First United Methodist Church.

Longshore, a resident of Garza County for 50 years, died about 8 p.m. Sunday in Garza Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient for ten days.

He was born Aug. 1, 1894, in Collins County, and was married to Lillie Davis in Post Oct. 20, 1923.

Survivors include his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Irvin (Billie Jean) Cross of Post; a nephew, R. H. Sappington, also of Post; a brother, Tom Longshore of Odessa; two sisters, Miss Beas Longshore and Mrs. Minnie Lee Casey, both of La Feria; and three grandchildren.

Officiating at the funeral services were the Revs. James R. Criswell of the Calvary Baptist Church, Bob Ford of the First United Methodist, and Rex Newkirk of the Trinity Baptist Church.

Burial was in Terrace Cemetery under the direction of Hudson Funeral Home. Pallbearers were: Jimmie Bartlett, Jim Barron, Dillard Morris, Virgil Stone, S. A. Horton, Floyd Hodges, W. H. Childs, Lonnie Peel and Bandy Cash.

Lions' broom sale set for Saturday

The Post Lions Club's annual broom sale will be held Saturday, May 6, with the broom truck parked all day in front of the post office.

Lions will also canvass the residential areas, according to Walter Didway, club president.

The local club's percentage of the proceeds will be used in its sight conservation and other community projects.

INVESTIGATION CONTINUES Condition of beating victim said 'serious'

Joe Vasquez of Post was in serious condition today in Garza Memorial Hospital after being severely beaten by three youths Sunday night near his home on South Avenue F.

Police Chief Otis G. Shepherd Jr. said Vasquez suffered cracked ribs, a punctured lung, and had both ears badly mauled in the beating.

The police chief said Wednesday he has the names of three suspects in the beating, but that no arrests have been made, pending questioning of the victim when his condition improves.

The beating is said to have taken place between Vasquez' home and the railroad tracks. Vasquez, who lives alone, reached his house after the beating and was found there Monday morning by his daughter.

One of the beaten man's cracked ribs reportedly punctured a lung. The bottom parts of both his ears were almost severed, the police chief said.

Vasquez, a yard worker, is about 50 years old.

Picture info on history needed

Families who have submitted histories for "Wagon Wheels," Garza County history, are asked to check with Ed Nelf to see if a picture relating to their family has been turned in to him.

Those who have written church, lodge or school histories also are asked to check with Nelf about the pictures in his files. This needs to be done immediately.

The last call has gone out for stories yet to be submitted on industries, organizations, etc.

The history committee of the Garza County Historical Survey Committee met Saturday at the A. C. Surman home to work on plans for publication of the book, with Winnie Tuffing, chairman, presiding.

James Sweeten to head Jaycees

James Sweeten, an employe of Burlington Industries' Post-Text Plant, was elected president of the Post Jaycees at a dinner meeting of the organization last Thursday night at the VFW Hall.

Sweeten, who will be installed along with other officers at the Jaycees' annual installation banquet May 27, succeeds Don Ammons as president.

Others elected at the Jaycee meeting were: Glenn Polk, vice president; Don Rankin, secretary; Joe E. Taylor, treasurer; Don Ammons, state director; Amado Fuentes Jr., Dr. Charles G. Tubbs and Billy Williams, directors.

The Jaycees voted at the meeting to sponsor a team in this season's Minor League baseball play.

Gaylon Hutto was introduced as a new member, and Greg Jones as a guest.

IF BILL APPROVED City, county may get 'big money'

Post and Garza County would benefit substantially from a revenue-sharing bill passed by the House Ways and Means Committee recently, according to information received by The Dispatch from state officials.

Based on information received by state officials, the bill will provide a total of $202 million during the first year in cities and counties of Texas.

Allocation of funds would be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1972, if the bill receives final approval.

Of the $202 million for Texas, governments in Garza County would receive $63,041. Of that total, the county would receive $49,692, and the City of Post, $13,349.

One race with candidate quality

One of the most unusual political races in recent Texas history is that for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant-governor, which also will be up for grabs Saturday.

Probably there is more candidate quality in this lieutenant-governor's race than there is for the more highly publicized governor's race.

Top candidates in the big field include State Senators Wayne Connally, Joe Christie, and Ralph Hall, Houston newspaper executive Bill Hobby, and Bill Jones, Odessa oilman.

Connally, the brother of Secretary of the Treasury John Connally, stopped here for a campaign visit last Thursday morning and drew a good-sized and appreciative crowd at the Reddy Room.

He is a very articulate conservative type who has done his "homework" on state government through his activities as a state senator. He knows Texas' problems from close range. He made a pitch here for Texans demanding every penny's worth out of each tax dollar, pointing out that the state needs far more budgetary control than it now has. Like other states Texas has a mushrooming bureaucracy of its own in Austin which is hard even for lawmakers to control.

We came out of the Reddy Room convinced that Connally, who has the magic of his famous brother's name going for him, is top quality in his own right and should make Texas a good lieutenant governor.

Tomorrow, we will get a look at another top candidate when Joe Christie stops in Post on the final day of the campaign while heading home to El Paso to cast his own vote Saturday.

Joe is another young, vigorous state senator who has made a name for himself in the upper house of the legislature. He is a comer and trying in this race for the big "break through" to state-wide prominence.

Hobby, who commands attention because his "hometown" is metropolitan Houston with the biggest bloc of votes in Texas, is another of real star quality.

Hall and Jones have been campaigning vigorously.

Few think the issue will be completely decided Saturday. A June runoff between the top two candidates appears assured.

Actually the average Texas voter doesn't know what to do about this race. One political poll released Sunday showed that over half the state's voters, or 55.6 per cent to be exact, are still undecided about whom they will vote for lieutenant-governor.

Our guess would be Hobby versus either Connally or Christie in the runoff with the big Houston vote putting the newspaperman into the June showdown though not assuring him by any means of ultimate victory.

Connally, who has taken his campaign to the people far more than most candidates, should nudge Christie for the remaining spot in the June face-off.

The prize at the end of this political trail is a big one. The winner will be only one step away from the governor's mansion and the candidate quality in this race is so good that it isn't difficult to see the ultimate winner as the "next after the next" governor of Texas.

But one final note to help confuse those voters who haven't made up their minds. There are a lot of knowledgeable folks who will tell you that the lieutenant-governor's position in Texas government today is actually far more powerful than that of the governorship, because of the tremendous influence and decision he can have on all lawmaking as the man who literally "runs" the senate.

Mull that one over this scandal-ridden political year as you ask: Who did you say all the candidates were?—JC

Voter participation is stronger

One of the most appealing things about the topsy-turvy Texas political campaign is the strong voter participation it is attracting this year.

Far more Post folks, for example, have jumped in to help state candidates in several of the races than ever before. They have put up some of their money, are actively working themselves, and are attending to details of local visits by their candidates, which really is no small chore.

There is so much involvement in fact that we don't know what to expect next. The other day we were talking to one local business man and asked him if he had a particular candidate he wanted to back in the election. We had no candidate in mind and just used the question as an "opener" to see if he might want to advertise his own merchandise this week.

Instead, he told us "just a minute," went to the back of the store and came up with a political ad mat for "his candidate" and told us to "run it" this week. We have and billed him $20.40. He told us as we were leaving the store, "I don't know why but I have always liked the guy."

A Garza farmer stopped in the office Friday and wanted to get an ad plug in for Dolph Briscoe. Editor Charlie put him in touch with the man who is trying to finance local Briscoe support. The farmer wrote him out a check.

We don't know what to expect next—this is only early Tuesday morning as we write this editorial at home. We had so many Monday surprises and still have two more big political days to go before we get out the Dispatch's "Democratic primary edition" which is going to carry far more political ads than any edition in this paper's history.

We have decided this. We're going to get more involved this time than just writing editorials in support of our favorite candidates. We are going to call up the local "Briscoe manager" and contribute a small check to Dolph's cause, too.

But before we quit, we want to get in one last "plug" for a candidate.

Young Joe Taylor has made the kind of a political campaign for district attorney most folks would like to see all the candidates make. He has really gotten after it all over the four-county district. That's why you haven't seen much of Joe lately.

Post hasn't had a candidate for a good while to jump right into a hot contest and make the all-out effort. That's why we hope Joe attracts the local support he deserves.

And to wind up the political campaign we will be at The Dispatch Saturday night answering the phone and giving out county results to all who want them. It will be a long, long night probably now the state is involved in the primary vote-counting because of the new rules.

Editor Charlie won't be helping directly, but he will be indirectly. As election judge of the biggest county box at Teen Town he will be trying to get that one "in before midnight."

Oh yes, maybe you've got your mind made up as to how you want to go in the "straw vote" on the Saturday ballot on school busing, but you had better study the way the proposition is worded on the ballot because "it ain't easy" to figure out what "yes"

One of my readers found a copy of this letter, author unknown, in an old file:

Dear Superintendent: I appreciate your offer of a job for my girl. She had her heart set on being a school teacher, but I talked her out of it. Teaching school is too much like being a preacher's wife. It's a high calling, but people expect you to give more than they pay for.

You take the teachers here in this town. The only difference in them and Christian martyrs is the date and lack of bonfires. They're hired to teach the ones that learn and entertain the ones that fell on their heads. But that ain't enough; half the time they're nurses so the mothers can get a rest.

But that ain't the worst. They've got to set up shows and plays to work the school out of debt, and sing in the choir and teach Sunday school. I'd just as soon be a plow mule. A mule works just as hard, but it can relieve its soul by kicking up its heels after quitting time without starting any talk.

I appreciate your offer and may the Lord have mercy on you, but my daughter is not interested.

THIS CHURCH NEVER ON FIRE BEFORE

Several years ago a minister in the midwest told this story: "One cold winter morning he received a telephone call at 1:00 that the church building was on fire. He rushed to the church and stood with tears in his eyes as the little building burned to the ground. As he looked around at the crowd who had come to watch the fire he spied a man he had been working with for two years trying without success to get him out to the services. With bitterness he lashed out at the man saying, "For two years I begged you to come to church and the first time you come is to watch it burn to the ground." The man replied sheepishly, "This is the first time this church was ever on fire."

There are two ways of looking at this story. No doubt one reason more people don't attend church more is that most churches are dead and asleep. There is no spiritual fire in them. People want to be where the action is. No one wants to be on a losing team. We all appreciate a winner. No where should this spirit be more prevalent than in the church. Christians are to be on fire for the Lord.

"Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost its savor, wherewith shall it be salted? It is to be cast out and trodden under foot of men. Ye are the light of the world. A city set on a hill cannot be hid. Neither do men light a lamp, and put it under the bushel, but on the stand; and it shineth unto all that are in the house. Even so let your light shine before men; that they may see your good works, and glorify your father who is in heaven."

Population growth rate shows drop

WASHINGTON — The nation's rate of population growth fell below one per cent last year, on the second time this has happened since 1940, the Census Bureau reports.

According to the bureau, the national growth rate in 1971 was .098 per cent compared with 1.09 per cent in 1970.

The rate also fell below one per cent in 1968.

On Jan. 1, the total population, including military personnel overseas, was estimated at 208.1 million, an increase of two million people over the previous year. The bureau said the decline came mainly because the birth rate dropped dramatically last year to 17.2 per one thousand population, the lowest rate ever recorded.

The estimated net population gain was the result of 3,562,000 births, 1,924,000 deaths, and net immigration of 382,000.

VERNON ADCOCK

TO THE VOTERS OF THE 106TH JUDICIAL DISTRICT:

On February 2, 1970, I filed for election to the office of District Attorney and 18 days later was appointed to serve until my election in November. Thus, I have served you a little more than two years and I am asking for re-election to a full term on my record thus far, as well as my many years experience in connection with criminal law.

I have devoted an average of over 50 hours per week to this work and I am proud of the results. In considering these results, please keep in mind how tax money and time of citizens on juries are saved by pleas of guilty. Keep in mind that the experience and reputation of your District Attorney for his success in the trial court and in the Court of Criminal Appeals, results in the increase in the number of pleas of guilty and the speedy and just disposition of more cases. Keep in mind that our felony rate in this district is such that it is impossible for one prosecuting attorney to keep the docket down without the disposition of about 80% or more of the cases through pleas of guilty.

Within the past six months, five pleas of guilty have resulted in terms of 25 years, 40 years, 50 years and two life terms. In this same period, three jury trials resulted in terms of 10 years, 12 years and another life term. The number of felony convictions in this district increased 83% my first year and 200% my second year, over the 1969 number. We have had no acquittals nor reversals. While I am proud of this record, I shall continue to strive for improvement.

It would not be fair nor reasonable to elect an inexperienced man as District Attorney under the current circumstances. Such action would not be good for him nor the citizens.

Your vote for Vernon Adcock for District Attorney will be appreciated.

Respectfully,
VERNON ADCOCK
Candidate for a second term as District Attorney

State Sen. Joe Christie

Candidate for Lt. Governor
On Garza Courthouse Lawn
2 P. M. Friday, May 5

governor candidate Joe Christie was born in Rising Star, Texas, June 28, 1933.

grew up working in West Texas oil fields as a truck driver, roughneck and welder. He held part-time jobs while attending North Texas State College and earning a BS in Geology degree from the University of Texas at Austin in 1958.

received a hitch in the U. S. Marine Corps, then returned to the UT Law School where he graduated in 1961 with an LL.B.

was assistant county attorney in Garza for two years before entering the law practice there in 1963.

was elected in 1966 to the Texas House of Representatives. He was re-elected in 1968.

Christie was named "Outstanding Young Man Senator" of the 60th Legislature by the Sheriff's Association of Texas for his work in aiding law enforcement.

was also commended by the Texas Municipal Police Association.

was the only first-term senator that was to receive a committee chairmanship and vice-chairmanship. He has served the State Departments and various Constitutional Amendments Nominations committees.

Christie was a conservationist before people could spell ecology or environment. He helped to create the Guadalupe Mountains National Park, the Hueco Tanks State Park and El Paso's Mount Franklin Wilderness Park.

Christie is married to the former Tana Harwitz, a third generation El Pasoan. They live in a brightly remodeled adobe house and grow some cotton, along with the kids, on a small farm in the westernmost tip of Texas.

Joe stays trim—at six feet and 167 pounds—by running at least a mile every day around a course staked out at home or along the banks of Town Lake when he is in Austin. He's an accomplished skier and a dedicated member of the Governor's Physical Fitness Committee.

Christie has the courage to fight for what he believes in... and the ability to win. He has a quick smile and an easy sense of humor. He likes dogs, W. C. Fields and an occasional cigar.

Christie's civic concern is reflected in his leadership of two United Fund drives and membership in El Paso County's Museum of Art, Symphony Association and Historical Society.

He is a Methodist, a trustee for the Festival Theatre and a member of the Sierra Club, Marine Corps League and American Legion. He belongs to local, state and federal bar associations.

Best for Us and All Texas For Governor: PRESTON SMITH

Lubbock Avalanche-Journal Editorial, April 23, 1972
(Reprinted by Permission)

IN A MATTER of two weeks (now two days), Texas Democrats will "go up to the lick-log" and select a nominee for Governor of Texas.

Our recommendation: PRESTON E. SMITH.

As always in political years, some Texans would rather vote for someone not on the ballot.

This year, for example, some might rather vote for John Connally, some for Ralph Yarborough, some for the fellow next door.

But they'll decide the issue only among the candidates: Governor Smith, banker-rancher Dolph Briscoe, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and State Rep. Frances Farenthold.

No one effectively can refuse the claim that Governor Smith offers more EXPERIENCE in State Government than those seeking to unseat him.

He was six years in the House of Representatives, six years in the Senate, six years as Lieutenant Governor and now is rounding out a fourth year as Governor. None of his opponents can come near matching that record in EXPERIENCE and KNOWLEDGE.

Nor can one effectively argue that as Governor, Preston Smith has not done a highly creditable job. This is because he has worked at it. As no Governor before him has done, he has kept open his channels with the people. Without theatricals, he quietly has triumphed over problems large and small, keeping the State's government, its economy and its tranquility on an even keel. What a man has done he may be expected to do again—and that is why Preston Smith is, once more, the best choice for the gubernatorial nomination.

No other Governor ever has kept constantly in contact with as many people in Texas, in cities, towns and villages.

Preston Smith not only knows the man in the street in Dime Box. He knows his counterpart in Old Dime Box. A grassroots Texan himself, the Governor identifies with the needs of the farmer, the rancher, the small town business and professional man, and of those of that army of urban residents who work for a living. He and "the folks" are in tune.

ALL THIS IS why, we think, Texas has done so well under Preston Smith's administrations—all of Texas.

Without doubt, it is why West Texas, under Preston Smith, actually has become a part of Texas as a whole. No longer is Texas Tech jokingly referred to by some in Austin as the "University of New Mexico" and the fair treatment Tech has received in the Smith years is reflected in the treatment of every one of the numerous State agencies here, nearby and across the State. Preston Smith has been good not only for West Texas. He simply has been as good for West Texas as he has for other areas—and that wasn't always so before his day.

Ambitious politicians who have sought to connect Governor Smith, somehow, anyway, with the Sharpstown bank debacle have failed utterly to do so. The people are not stupid. They have NOT forgotten that legislation hastily wangled through both House and Senate by that master of financial and political intrigue, Frank Sharp, was stopped ONLY BY THE GOVERNOR'S VETO. Hopped up campaign rhetoric will not induce Texans to forget that Preston Smith—and ONLY Preston Smith—kept Sharp and his political buddies from "pulling it off." For that is a matter of OFFICIAL RECORD.

After all, in any election the voter is faced with deciding which man best will represent him and his neighbors. In this city and area, the "home grounds" of the Governor, the decision in the gubernatorial race is crystal clear and it is Preston Smith.

He doesn't just yell from the stump that he knows us and understands our needs—he has PROVED IT.

That's why we're for Preston Smith for Governor and there is NO BETTER REASON.

It's the Law...

SUE THE WEATHERMAN
"Fair and warmer," says the weather man's morning forecast, and you dress accordingly. But during the day a cloudburst hits town, drenching — and ruining — your clothes. You might feel a distinct urge to sue the weatherman for damages. Or, to be more technical, to sue his employer, the United States Government.

Could you win such a lawsuit? A quick answer would be no, because a weather forecast is only an educated guess, not a guarantee. But what if the weatherman was not only wrong but also guilty of negligence in making his prediction?

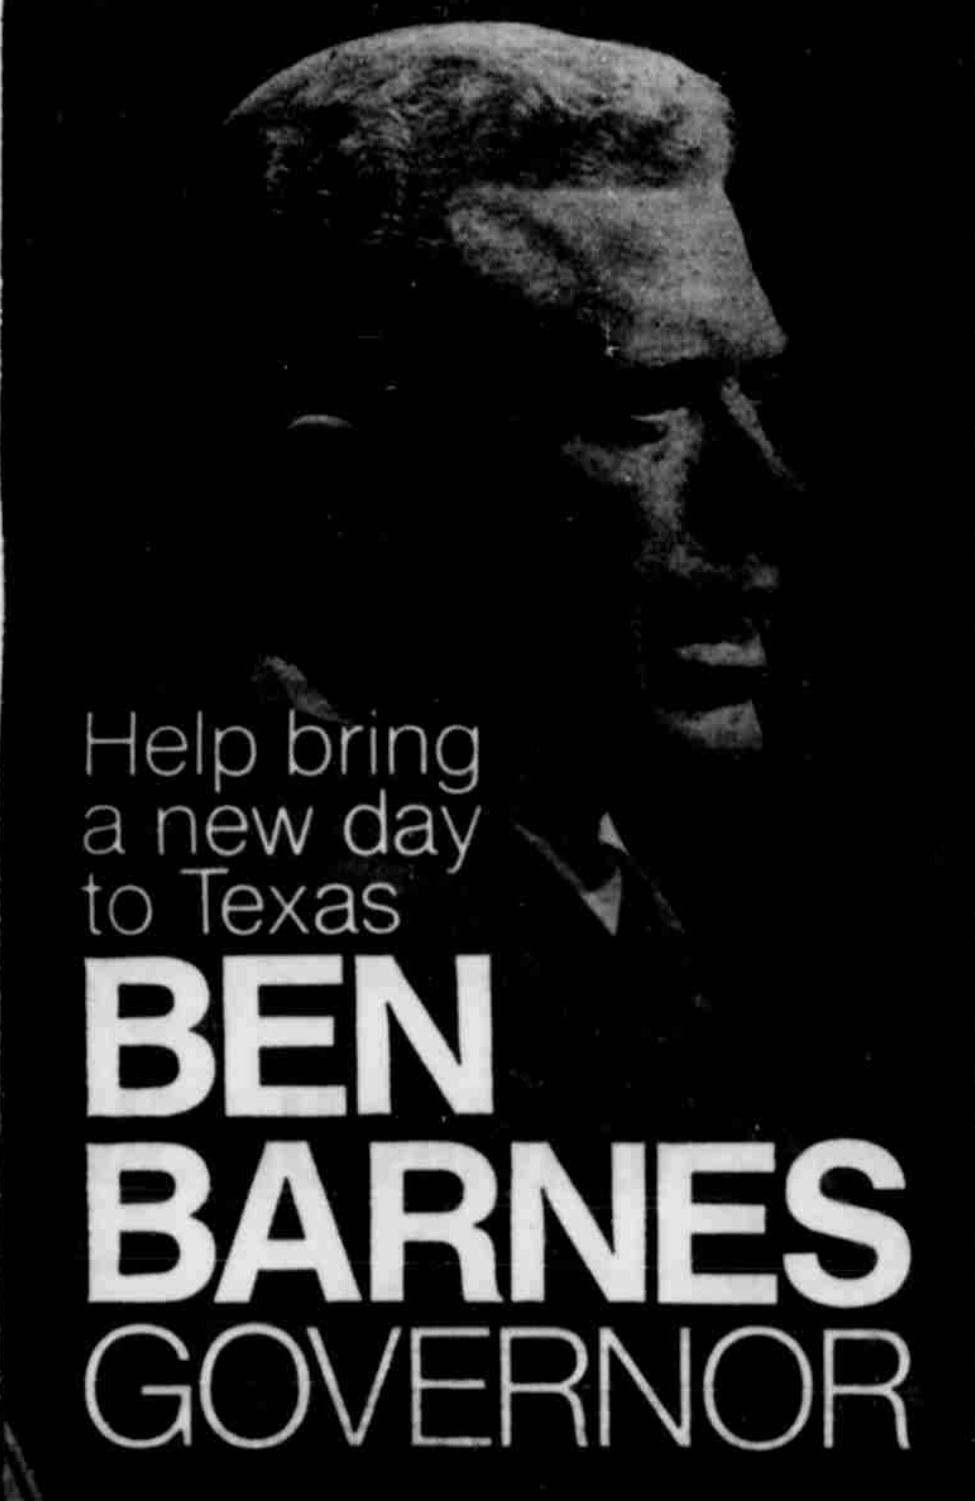

That complicates matters. Consider this case: A hurricane was bearing down on a coastal city, and the weather bureau issued a series of warnings. But the winds and flood waters arrived several hours ahead of the predicted time. A woman, caught on low land, was drowned.

Later, her husband demanded damages from the government. "I realize," he told the court, "that weather predicting is not an exact science. But this was worse than just a mistake. It was outright negligence. They had discovered that the storm was coming in ahead of schedule, but they failed to pass the word along to the public."

Nevertheless, the court turned down his claim. The judge said the government cannot be held liable for broad, generalized activities like forecasting the weather because this would place too heavy a burden upon basic governmental functions.

But that may not apply to weather forecasting in a limited, specific situation. Thus: The weather bureau at an airport, although aware of air turbulence near the ground, failed to warn the pilot of a private plane that was just taking off. The plane crashed, the pilot was killed, and the government was sued for damages.

This time, the government was indeed held liable. The court decided that in a particular, localized situation like this, the government ought to pay the penalty for its negligence — just like any other wrongdoer.

Do You Really Love Jesus?
By Robert D. Griffin

How many people do you know who have convinced you they really have a deep and abiding love for Jesus Christ? Whatever the answer may be, it is not likely to be as many as say that they love Him. True love for Him cannot be hidden nor counterfeit.

One of the most personal questions ever asked by Jesus was "Lovest thou me?" although this question was addressed to Simon Peter, it has a personal meaning for us today. If the question is taken real seriously it causes us to take a close look at ourselves and our priorities.

When Jesus questioned Peter, He knew that if Peter did love Him, then it would be evident in his life. This is also true in our lives. If we love the Lord then our daily actions will reveal that love. You don't steal from a neighbor that you love, you don't lie to people you love, and you certainly don't gossip about them either. Peter's love for Christ caused his life to affect the lives of other people. So should ours, loving them with His kind of love.

It would be unthinkable for a person to love Jesus Christ and then not allow Him to have first place in his life. This means in every area of one's life: home life, social life, and business life. If there are some areas that we want to keep to ourselves and not let Jesus control these, then we are not letting Him completely have first place. Out of love for Jesus the disciples served faithfully when times were easy or difficult. They knew a happiness that all Christians are experiencing that are truly IN LOVE with Jesus!

Dolph Briscoe will clean up the political mess in Austin.

If Texas government had been close to the people, there would not have been so much scandal and corruption. Because the people wouldn't have allowed it. But the established political machine has held the people arm's length, acting in secrecy to legislate for the benefit of unscrupulous officials. Dolph Briscoe is determined to return the control of state government to the people of Texas. By requiring public hearings on all legislation. By establishing a mobile governor's office. By keeping a "hot line" open to local representatives. Government should be close to the people. You can help make it that way.

New industry—

Small Business Administration loans.

Potts told The Dispatch that he is pleased that the opportunity has presented itself to attract Carter and his two businesses to Post. "Businesses of the size of Mr. Carter's are the kind a town like Post can properly handle to both Mr. Carter's advantage and to our advantage as a community which actively seeks new industry," Potts said.

"Mr. Carter through 18 years of industrial designing work has acquired a national reputation as an industrial designer. We are hopeful that his business, though now small, will grow and prosper here and add materially to this community's industrial payroll in the years to come."

"Post had something of value to offer Mr. Carter and we think his move here will materially benefit our industrial growth," McCrary added.

Carter has played a prominent role in the research and development of submersible pumps in the United States and has held several patents on their design.

In 1959 Carter felt the submersible pump, then in its infancy, was the answer to the economic lifting and moving of large quantities of water. At that time he was plant manager and chief engineer for a turbine pump manufacturer. Since the turbine pump company indicated no interest in the submersible type of pump, Carter resigned and began the design and development of his own submersible pump.

Through his practical experience as a machinist and tool and die maker, along with his professional education as an engineer and in research in Texas Technological College, he was able to design and build a very successful pump. From 1961 through 1967, he developed several series of submersible type pumps.

Carter got into the foundry business when he was faced with a delay of several months in developing a design prototype requiring foundry work.

He experimented with small foundry operations and became so interested in this endeavor he formed his own foundry firm which enables him to develop his own design prototypes.

Carter plans to move his family to Post within the next couple of months and already is "house hunting" here.

His family consists of his wife, Ona Beth, and a son, Charles Glyn, who is 7. He is a member of the Methodist Church.

Carter said Post not only offers him a large and suitable building to house his operations but cited "a reasonable labor market, transportation advantages, and a good tax structure" as other essential business advantages of his move.

And he added, "It also looks to me like Post is a very good small town to raise a family in."

Library gets $92 from price suit

The Post Public Library has received a $92 check from Texas Attorney General Crawford Martin as the library's share of recovery of almost $700,000 from book publishers and distributors that allegedly conspired to fix the price of children's books sold to Texas schools and libraries.

Martin said this boosted to $1.1 million the amount recovered in the last year and more would be coming.

The Post library is one of the 757 school districts and 189 public libraries on whose behalf Martin originally filed the price-fixing suit.

Red Sox top Little League standings with three wins

For the first time in over three years, Post's Little League has a leader.

Moving into first place last Monday night with an 11-8 win over Postex Plant's Yankees were George R. Brown's Red Sox, who won Saturday and Monday nights to maintain their lead.

The Yankees, who have won the championship the last three years, were always jumping into an early lead and never faltering, are in place this week after having lost to the Fire Department's Athletics, 17-4, Monday night.

Starter Larry Harper and Gary Seals combined to pitch a no-hitter for the Red Sox against the Dodgers Monday night, beating the First National Bank team, 3 to 1.

Three Red Sox errors and a fielder's choice in the bottom of the sixth inning allowed catcher Jackie Reiter to score the Dodgers' only run.

The Red Sox collected seven hits off the Dodgers' Doug Hall, who went the distance. Second baseman Jeff Williams and third baseman Mark Williams got two hits apiece for the Sox, with Scott Walker, Ronald Bratcher and Seals getting the other hits.

In Monday night's second game, the Cardinals whopped the Yankees, 17-4, with Brad Davis the winning pitcher and Evans Heaton the loser. The Cards rapped out 14 hits, with Brent Terry, Kent Craig, Dale Redman and Danny Gunn getting two each. Heaton and Bryan Compton each had two hits to lead the Yankee batters.

The Red Sox banged out 14 hits, including doubles by Jeff Williams and Mark Williams, in the Red Sox' 32 to 3 slaughter of the A. C.

Cash Wildcats Saturday night. Scott Walker was the winning pitcher and Mark Clamp the loser. Clamp and Rodney Gray, with two apiece, accounted for all four Wildcat hits.

The Bob Collier Drug Tigers came up with a five-run second inning Saturday night en route to a 7-4 victory over the Cardinals. Caine Abraham and Raymie Holly pitched for the Tigers, with Abraham receiving credit for the win. Brad Davis, the first of three Cardinal pitchers, was tagged with the loss.

Catcher Mike Holly got three of the Tigers' nine hits. Steve Hair accounted for two more, with Raymie Holly, Mark Shedd, Caine Abraham and Junior Mahon also hitting safely. Brad Davis accounted for two of the losers' three hits, with Kent Craig getting the other one.

The Red Sox were held to two hits by three Yankee pitchers in their 11-8 win over the Yanks last Thursday night, but wildness on the part of the Yankee hurlers and errors led to their downfall.

One of the Red Sox' two hits was a home run by shortstop Ronald Bratcher, with Jeff Williams getting the other hit. The losers got four hits off winning pitcher Larry Harper and Gary Seals, who came on in relief in the bottom of the fifth. James Bilberry, the second of 3 Yankee pitchers, was charged with the loss. The four Yankee hits were collected by Heaton, Ken Bell, Bud Jones and Wally Wright.

The Tigers and Dodgers were deadlocked 5-5 when their game was called on account of the time limit, with the Tigers batting in the top of the fifth. The Dodgers had already used three pitchers, Doug Hall, Billy Smith and Charles Hall, and the Tigers two, Tommy Lockhart and Raymie Holly.

Hackberry Gin holds membership meeting

SOUTHLAND NEWS
 By TOMMIE WILKE
 Hello dear friends. May I call you that? I have made many new friends through this little weekly column, and to me these friendships are just precious. The light of friendship is like the light of phosphorus, seen when all around is dark. Friendship is to be purchased only by friendship. Thanks to each of you for your friendship.

Mrs. M. E. Morris returned home recently from a trip to Dallas where she visited her daughter and their families, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lyman, Marc and Leslie; and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Maeker and Pam. While there, her daughter Janey drove her to Tyler where they visited with a long-time friend, Mrs. Alpha Taylor, who is a resident in Colonial Manor. They found

Mrs. Taylor fairly well and enjoying being near her son, J. L. and his family. J. L.'s wife was in the hospital for surgery, so J. L. was busy taking care of their baby daughter. Mrs. Taylor asked about all her friends and neighbors here in the Southland community and said she would enjoy hearing from anyone who would like to write her. Her address is Colonial Manor, 930 S. Baxter, Tyler, Texas 75701.

The Hackberry Coop did it again! Tuesday of last week they held their annual membership meeting, preceded by a delicious barbecue dinner. Every year this affair is a great success and it was equally successful this year. R. W. Saunders and J. D. Basinger retired as directors and Edmund Stolle and Pat Taylor were elected to replace them. And as always, many nice gifts were given to the lucky ladies. And guess what? For the first time in my life, I won a gift, a set of sheets and pillowcases, and let me tell you — I was so surprised that I could hardly hold up my hand to let the children that were delivering the gifts know where I was. Other lucky ladies who won gifts were Helen Gerner, Lorene McGehee, Doris Lester, Lottie Shelton, Easter Edmunds, Mrs. Harley Martin, Mrs. Alvin Kaata, Mrs. W. P. Lester, Myrtle Lichey, Norma Stolle, Mrs. Stonewall Jefferson, Pearl Neugebauer, Mrs. Spence Bevers, Mrs. Walter Stolle, Cleo Johnston, Doris Dunn, Charlotte Gerner, Ruby Rackler, Mrs. Wilburn Maeker, Lubby McGehee, Mickey Miles, Dolly Shelton, Audrey Bishop, Maxine Burkett, Mrs. Don Basinger, Mrs. Max Chaffin, Elsie Camden, Mrs. Oscar Thomas, Irene Saunders, Thelma Dabbs, Mrs. Tom Mason, Mrs. Bessie Becker, Faye Warsaw, Mary Houchin, Lorene Gerner, Mrs. Edgar Moseley, Wanda Clary, Mrs. Werner Klaus, Mrs. Robert Lee Hagler, JoAnn Smith, Mrs. B. L. Thomas, Mrs. Leta Haire, Grace Cummings, Mrs. Rex Welch, Mrs. Hansel Hallman, Mrs. Selma Kiesel, Barbara Townsend and Grady Taylor. Congratulations to all!

Otto Klaus and Mr. and Mrs. Werner Klaus went to Sealy, Tex., Saturday where they attended the funeral of Harmon Michaelis Sunday. Mr. Michaelis was the uncle of the late Mrs. Otto Klaus. He died at the age of 98.

The freshman and sophomore classes of Southland High went to Lubbock Friday to attend the movie of The Ten Commandments. Mrs. F. D. Wheeler is their sponsor and teacher, and she went with them along with Mrs. Billy Lester, Mrs. Alex Cisneros, Mrs. Paul Winterrowd and Breonne Winterrowd.

Saturday of last week, the seventh and eighth grades of Southland and their teacher, Mrs. Betty Hall, went to Lubbock to see the same movie. Mothers attending were Mrs. F. D. Wheeler, Mrs. Valtion Wheeler and Mrs. Max Chaffin.

The Eagle's Nest (annual) has been distributed and Jerry Winterrowd brought his by for me to see and they are real pretty. Cathy Jo Long was editor, with Connie Abshire as assistant editor, Laura Bevers, business manager, Mrs. Irene Kuykendall was their advisor and Johnny Medrano and Eva Garza helped along too. Well done, seniors. By the way, the staff dedicated the book to their coach, Rod Callaway.

We extend our deepest sympathies to the family of Pete Kellum who passed away recently in California. Mrs. Nellie Mathia, long time resident of this community is his sister, and Walter Kellum of Slaton is a brother. May God comfort this family in their sorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Callaway have been visiting around the community for the past week. They have been staying out at Buffalo Lakes but their plans are to go to California for a visit with Jerry's mother, Mrs. Snow Moore, and then come back to Southland for graduation.

daughter from Albuquerque visited here with their folks this past weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Crawford and Mr. and Mrs. Webster Crawford spent this past weekend at Oak Creek. While they were gone, Tiffani, small daughter of the Donald Crawfords, stayed with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Payton Crawford. Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Maner and boys went to Oak Creek Sunday.

Sunday dinner guests in the P. W. Crawford home were Mr. and Mrs. James Crawford and family of Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Becker attended a fish fry at the W. A. Basinger home Sunday night.

Guests visiting Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Ellis last week were Mr. and Mrs. Motheral from Olustee, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Ben Vernon of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Mudgett of Slaton, Mrs. Winnie Henderson and Mrs. Maudie Hanks from Post, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Giles of Fort Worth.

The Pleasant Valley 4-H Club helped run the concession stand at the Paint Horse Show in Post this past weekend. They had a girl that demonstrated the English Style riding which was very interesting and different from our western style.

A belated happy birthday to Elmer and Chris Gindorf, Harold Wayne Donahoo and Leroy Voigt.

Lunchroom Menus

Post school lunchroom menus for the coming week are as follows:

Until next week, here is a little bit of the truth. "He who sows courtesy reaps friendship, and he who plants kindness gathers love."

Hair care topic at 4-H meeting

A county-wide 4-H meeting was held Tuesday evening at Anne's Beauty Shop as a part of the modeling project 4-H'ers are currently participating in. Anne Leake was the guest speaker at the meeting. She stressed the importance of proper hair care and its relation to a good complexion. She also explained how to choose a hair style that fits the individual's face and profile shape.

Eleven 4-H girls attended the meeting. They were Irene Sanchez, Mary Ann Sanchez, Edna Solis, Lucy Ayala, Julie Raymundo, Pilar Vasquez, Patricia Maddox, Lisa Cowdrey, Amy Cowdrey, Sue Cowdrey, and Nora Valdez, plus Mrs. Leake and Dana Feaster, HD agent.

A GAS outdoor grill gives food a tangy outdoor flavor without the time and bother of charcoal fire. Char-broiled flavor comes from the smoke of meat juices dripping on hot briquets. Charcoal itself provides no flavor. Permanent ceramic briquets in the gas grill reach cooking heat in a few minutes, and there is no long wait to start cooking. Number of out-of-state tourists shows whopping increase in '71

AUSTIN — The Texas Highway Department today released its annual summary of the state tourist industry, showing a healthy 8.9 per cent upsurge of auto tourists from out of state who visited Texas during 1971.

Following two years of successive slight declines after the banner HemisFair year, out-of-state auto visitors returned in numbers totaling 16,452,000.

Myrtle Peel attended a teachers workshop in the Broadway Church of Christ in Lubbock Monday evening.

Forty-five attended singing last Wednesday evening in the Noel White family home.

Even more encouraging than the volume of visitors were tourist expenditures, up 33.7 per cent for a total of $1,305,367,000. Earned elsewhere and added whole to the Texas economy, the sum represents an immensely valuable stimulus of new money.

The Highway Department's survey covers auto travelers from other states and foreign countries who entered Texas during every month of the year. Statistics are derived from questionnaires reported by nearly 22,000 tourist parties, and are supplemented by visual traffic counts on all major highways entering Texas.

The substantial increase in the Highway Department's survey shows an expanding state tourist industry. Tom H. Taylor, department's travel and promotion division, said "tourists are finding it more than just time to spend the travel dollars. More attractions and choices offer more opportunity to spend the travel dollars."
