Justiceburg lake tests to determine Post's chances

Lake here in balance

The City of Lubbock will be interested in buying water from the proposed Post Lake only if future development of a bigger lake at Justiceburg is feasible. This is what Al O'Brien, White River Municipal Water District manager, told White River directors last Thursday night at the director's July dinner meeting in the Cattleman's Steak House at White River Lake.

Justiceburg would be of proper quality for drinking and if the earth structure at the lake site would support the size of dam needed to form the lake. The third requirement for the Justiceburg lake site would be for Lubbock to obtain a state water permit for such a lake site. O'Brien reported Lubbock wanted O'Brien to go with them to Austin to request the water permit. The White River water district manager said that Walls told him that Lubbock is not interested in building the Post Lake, but only in buying Post Lake water. O'Brien pointed out with a water pipeline going to Justiceburg the cost of obtaining Post Lake water here would be minimal. (See White River, page 12)

MAYOR McCRARY HAS UNUSUAL PROBLEM

Over 40 unexpected guests for dinner

How would you like to have over 40 unexpected guests for dinner?

That was Mayor McCrary's problem Tuesday evening. Over 40 members of the Permian Basin Water Association arrived for their monthly dinner meeting to find the city hall auditorium locked and nobody on hand to welcome them.

Mayor McCrary isn't sure who goofed on the arrangements. But he soon got a call that a large crowd of water men were standing around in front of city hall trying to get in.

First, City Manager Pete Maddox who would have made catering arrangements for the dinner which is rotated among (See Over on page 12)

Dispatch editor's widow wins $85,000 judgment in suit

Mrs. Zula Didway of Post was awarded an $85,000 judgement in federal district court in Lubbock Tuesday afternoon in her suit against the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and the Southwestern Publishing Corporation of Georgia, its parent company. The suit was based on the death of her husband, Editor Charles Didway of The Post Dispatch, Dec. 2, 1974, almost five months after he suffered a broken hip in a fall in the Lubbock newspaper's pressroom.

Sizzling snake makes many late to work

A crawling snake in the middle of the night made lots of Post folks unknowingly late to work here Monday morning.

According to Glen Barley, manager of the Southwestern Public Service office here, the snake made the mistake of crawling into the tower and grounding itself with a high voltage line at the Garza interchange sub-station and grounding out all local power for 25 minutes.

The stoppage occurred at 12:28 a. m. stopping all electric clocks and alarm clocks.

Barley said most of the power was restored in 25 minutes but all of it wasn't back on until 2:30 a. m. or shortly thereafter.

Barley told The Dispatch the snake "grounded out" the power this time and that no damage was caused at the sub-station.

Several years ago another snake got into the sub-station and caused considerable damage by "blowing" electrical input here for several hours. A grounding switch was installed after the first snake incident preventing real damage.

The jury in answering 35 questions, found the Lubbock newspaper 100 per cent liable.

Orville Smith, attorney for the newspaper, indicated after the verdict was returned about 3 p. m. that the newspaper would appeal on the grounds of insufficient evidence to support the verdict.

Testimony given before Federal District Judge Halbert O. Woodward and a jury of 12, which included five women, showed that Editor Didway and his wife had gone to the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal on that Saturday morning in July to be interviewed by Avalanche-Journal reporter Gerry Burton.

Mrs. Burton was planning to write a feature story about Didway and Mrs. Margaret Coward of Seagraves.

Didway and Mrs. Coward worked together on a newspaper at Littlefield and then in the last two years each had edited the county history of his or her county, "Wagon Wheels" by Didway and "The Gaines County Story" by Mrs. Coward.

After the joint interview, the group went to the basement pressroom of the Avalanche-Journal for a picture of Didway and Mrs. Coward looking at a big modern press. (See Didway suit, Page 12)

Car 'totaled' in hwy. wreck

A local car was "totaled" seven miles northwest of Post on US-84 late Tuesday night when it hit a trailer containing a combine which was parked on the highway shoulder behind the grain truck which was pulling it.

No one was injured. Investigating highway patrolmen said the car was driven by Monocla Madrid Yanez of 402 South Ave. 1 of Post with Ben Lored of Brownfield a passenger in the 1974 LTD.

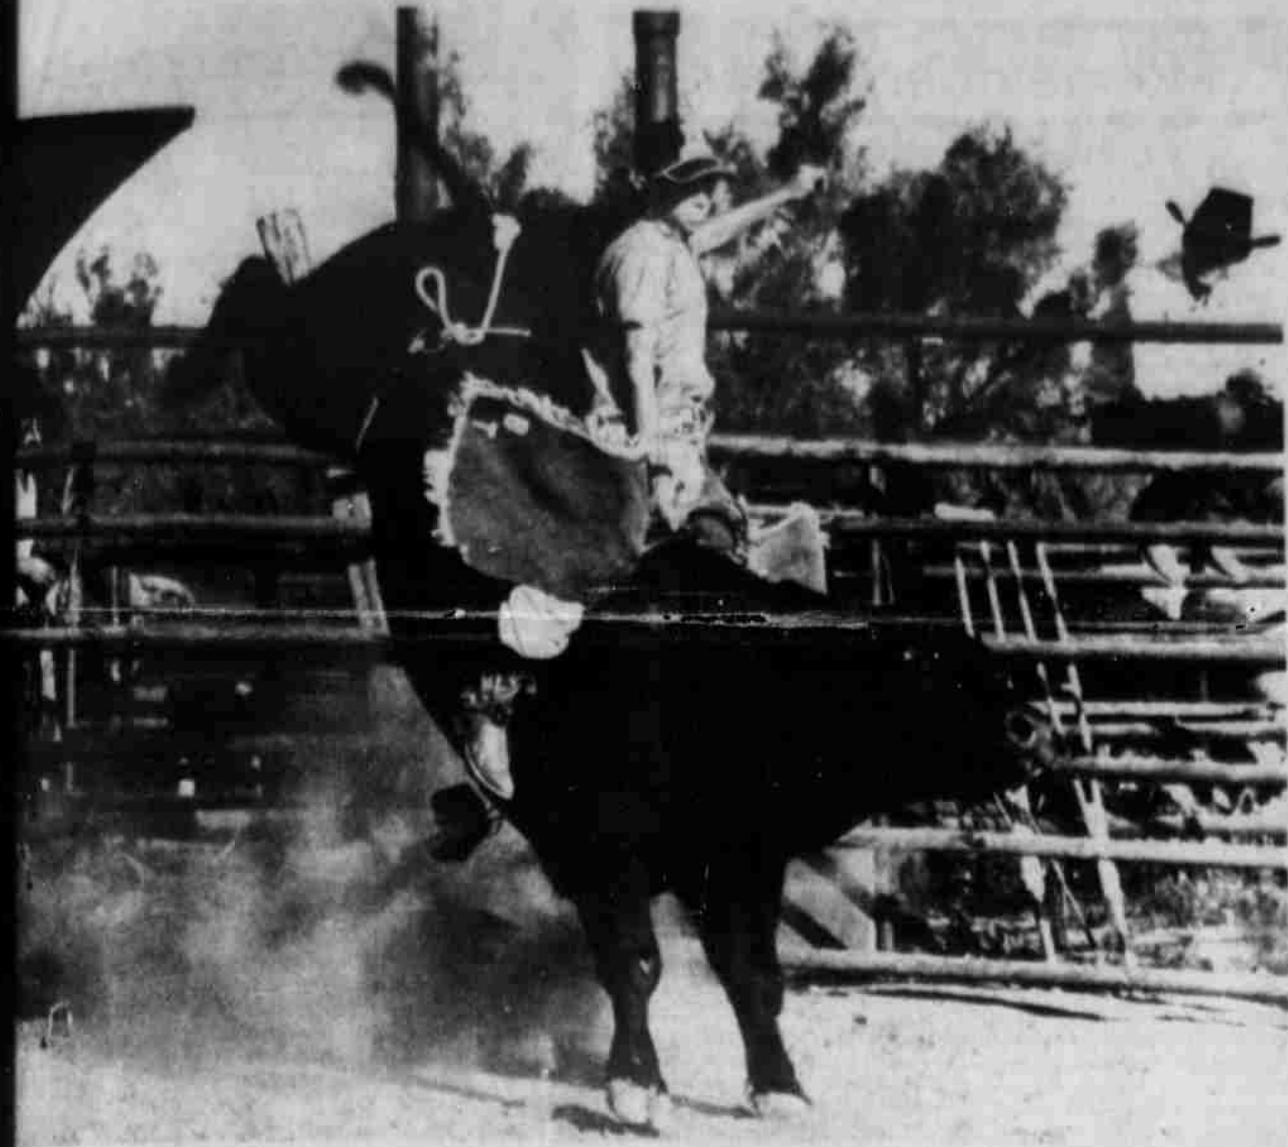

John Allen Anderson of Friona was the driver of the grain truck pulling the trailer and combine. The car did not overturn.

Seven Garza 4-Hers to electric camp

Garza County will be well represented next week at Camp Scott Able, near Cloud Craft, N. M., when members of its 4-H clubs attend the District 2 Electric camp.

Seven 4-H club members representing the different clubs in the county will leave Monday on chartered buses from Lubbock and will return the following Friday afternoon.

Members attending are Belinda Flett, Sandra Bostick, Katrina Chaffin, Cindy Halbert, David Pugh, Kisty Moore and Mark Short.

is not a "women's lib" man, per se, as the lawyers would say. But it is a welcome area more new local Post business women into our business community here.

La Lou Bird on page 5 traces her new La Posta shop in a converted building at 412 North Broadway. Course Jimmy Bird has finished with all the renovation work quite yet and the stock hasn't arrived, but it's enough here now to be a business.

It's amazing how the two converted the property into a very attractive drive-in. Stop by and take a look.

Another new "business woman" here is Jan Stelzer who Monday reopened Bill's Steak House on the Clairmont Highway at the edge of Post with a dinner menu of steaks and Mexican food only. You'll find her announcement ad on page 1.

We were moving too fast last week to get in a column mentioning of Katie Mae Martin purchasing the Fabric Mart on Charlotte and Richard.

Youth Center movie Friday

The city-county youth center's Friday night movies have been moved to the grade school auditorium because the school is now remodeling "teen town."

This week's movie, which will start at 8:15 p. m., is "The Bad Room", a psycho-drama starring Shelly Winters and Mia Stevens.

Mrs. Patty Kirkpatrick, chairman of the youth center board, said only 30 youngsters showed out for last week's movie which cost $150 in rental fees.

She said continuation of the movie program here will depend upon a much greater response from teenagers.

The movies will be shown at the primary school auditorium each Friday night until the "teen town" remodeling is completed.

Jim Strawn now camp cook for three weeks

By BETH SHORT

Jim Strawn, local businessman in one of the most rugged areas of work, will be changing wrenches and grease rags to kitchen utensils and dish rags.

Jim is instrumental in helping to begin the camp and has been a director from the start, when it began in 1971, on land donated by the Arnold Anderson family, at White River Lake. He has worked in every part of work at the camp

RUNNERUP IN BULL RIDING — Bobby Cobb of Haskell won second here Sunday afternoon in the first "buckout" bull riding at the Jim Jackson arena. — (Cobb Photo, Haskell)

Brent Terry first in 'buckout' bull riding

"Big kicks" came to Post and were enjoyed at Jimbo's Buckout, Sunday afternoon at the arena at the home of Jim Jackson. The bull riding event began at 4:30 p. m. with eleven entries trying their luck at staying aboard.

Eleven bulls were ridden 22 times with only four riders completing their rides. A jackpot of $110 was given with Brent Terry of Post winning first place and $65 and Bobby Cobb of Haskell winning second and $45.

Entries included Craig Simpson, Joe Clary, Ricky Cross, Steve Short, Garland Dudley, Karl Bruce Hall, Eddie Gannon, Brent and Mark Terry, and Jackie Blacklock from Post and Bobby Cobb of Haskell.

Practice bucks will be held each Tuesday night at the arena with the Buckouts held Sunday afternoons. For more information call Jim at 495-3245 daytime or 495-2682 at night.

Bonham rites for Mrs. Denton

Funeral services for Mrs. Nannie Mae Denton, 73, of Post were held Monday at Wise Funeral Home Chapel in Bonham, Tex. Burial was held in Sunnyside cemetery in Savoy, Tex., under direction of Mason Funeral Home and Wise Funeral Home.

Mrs. Denton died in Garza Memorial Hospital, Saturday following a lengthy illness. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Frances Edwards of Post, one son, Clarence Denton, one brother, Jack Large of McAllen, five grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

Rites today for Mrs. Lucas

Funeral services for Mrs. A. M. (Alma) Lucas, 79, of Post will be held at 10 a. m. today in the first United Methodist Church with the Rev. Kenneth Metzger, pastor, officiating the service.

Mrs. Lucas died in Garza Memorial Hospital Monday, July 14 following a lengthy illness. She had been a resident of Garza County 47 years, 22 of which were spent in the city of Post. She was born in 1895 in San Saba Co., Texas and was married to A. M. Lucas in Chapel, in San Saba County September 20, 1916.

She was a member of the First United Methodist Church since childhood and was a member of the Berean Sunday School Class.

Interment will be in Terrace Cemetery under the direction of Hudman Funeral Home. Survivors include her husband, three sons, Harold W. of (See Rites today, Page 12)

Newberry rites held Sunday

Funeral services for G. H. "Lee" Newberry, 85, of Post, were held at 3 p. m. Sunday afternoon in the Graham Chapel Church of Christ with Homer A. Jones, minister officiating.

Burial was in Terrace Cemetery under direction of Hudman Funeral Home. Mr. Newberry died at 10 a. m. Saturday at Twin Cedars Nursing Home following a lengthy illness.

A longtime area farmer, he had lived in Garza County 63 years. He was a member of the Church of Christ.

Survivors include his wife, Betty; a son, C. C. Newberry of Lubbock, a stepson, Mack Ledbetter of Post; seven grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers were Quanh Maxey, James Stone, Albert Stone, Elva Peel, Troy Nelson and Bobby Cowdrey.

Fielding was introduced by J. B. Potts.

Seven new artists in OS show

Forty artists, including seven new ones, will exhibit their paintings and sculptures here Oct. 4-5 at the OS Ranch Art Exhibit, show officials announced today.

The new artists include Gary Carter of Cameron, Montana, Lincoln Pix of Alto, New Mexico, Don Pollard of Prescott, Arizona, Morris Rippel of Albuquerque, David Sanders of Austin, Ray Swanson of Prescott, and Una Hanbury of Santa Fe.

Una Hanbury is a sculptor of international reputation with her works on public view from Yugoslavia to Kuala Lumpur. Her portrait busts are on exhibit at the National Portrait Gallery in Washington, D. C., as well as in numerous private and public collections. Her subjects range from Andres Segovia to Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, with a series of great American women perhaps closest to her heart. These include Georgia O'Keeffe, Dr. Frances Kelsey, Rachel Carson, and Laura Gilpin.

Statebeat

By KURT E. JOHNSON

AUSTIN — A lot of things were happening in different places of high state government in the River City this week, and interestingly enough the normal state government press coverage wasn't giving any of it very big play. There were, nonetheless, a number of very significant events occurring if you asked the right questions in the right places.

For starters, it looks as though Governor Briscoe will not be in politics after his recent term expires. The bigger news is that at least four Democrats and one Republican are arranging plans to get in the thick of the fight for the top state office when that election rolls around in the late fall of 1977.

The likely candidates are former U. S. Representative (and Republican) George Bush, who was beaten for a U. S. Senate seat by Lloyd Bentsen, and Democrats Price Daniel, Jr. (former Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives and President of the ill-fated 1974 Constitutional Convention), Bob Bullock (the aggressive State Comptroller who has defied tradition by putting out nearly-daily press releases), Attorney General John Hill (who has evoked consumer sympathy by taking on the phone company and its high rates), and the young, popular and efficient Secretary of State, Mark White (who has a strong political base and can't seem to do anything wrong).

The list, needless to say, is impressive, and provides one of the brightest signs on the voters' horizon as has been visible for quite some time.

It has been quite surprising to me that none of the real crackerjack capital reporters (including the avant garde "Texas Monthly") picked up on this data, which was lying around ready to be printed.

Speaking of Mark White, the Secretary of State's office has been charged with the responsibility for printing and distributing the proposed, new State Constitution which will be voted on in November, along with the new "Texas Register" (which will provide information to the citizen previously very difficult to uncover), scheduled to begin publication on a twice-a-week basis beginning in January. It will be available by subscription (the price remains undetermined) but will be sent to every county clerk in the state along with a lot of libraries. Among other things the Register will contain: (1) new rules and regulations by state agencies; (2) executive (Governor's) proclamations; (3) requests for Attorney General opinions on legal questions and the results of these opinions; (4) notice of bids for state-contracted services; (5) important, pending legislation; (6) notices of public hearings; and (7) miscellaneous data of particular interest to the citizen and voter.

More information on the Register and data about subscriptions can be had by writing the office of the Secretary of State, Capital Station, Austin, Texas 78711.

The Secretary of State was really getting it in the neck this week from a small number commercial printers who wanted the bids on printing the proposed constitution and the Register. Mark White did some cost studies which showed that it might be more efficient for the Secretary of State's office to buy its own printing press, and the responses he got from a few in the industry were pretty stiff. He was accused of promoting "creeping socialism" and contributing to "bureaucratic empire building."

The funny thing about all this is that a great number of state agencies (like the Texas Rehabilitation Commission), and even the state legislature (with its Capital Print Shop) have their own presses.

Just as an aside, don't be surprised to find that if Mark White doesn't run against any of these already mentioned in the Democratic primary for governor, he just might take on John Tower (Republican) for his U. S. Senate seat. Preliminary indications are that if such a case were to transpire, Tower would at the very least be in for the fight of his political life.

Word also has it that State Representative Dan Kubiak of Rockdale and Sarah Weddington of Austin are both looking to the possibility of running for the U. S. House of Representatives. The insightful and resourceful Kubiak probably has a shot at being successful should he decide to give it a try, but for Weddington it is really nothing more than daydreaming at this point.

All indications (and they are strong ones) reveal convincingly that South Texas Judge O. P. Carrillo is on his way in impeachment unless he resigns first. Impeachment Committee Chairman DeWalt Hale is taking a fair, public position on the proceedings (talking about due process, weighing the evidence, and all that), but the real dope is that there is already enough

Common sense approach

Lubbock's interest in the proposed Post Lake as a limited source of additional water only if the larger Justiceburg lake is feasible and the site available certainly is a common sense approach.

This community simply will have to wait and see how things turn out at Justiceburg.

There is no reason to think that tests won't show the feasibility of such a lake.

But if the Justiceburg Lake couldn't become reality there would be no use building a pipeline here for Post Lake water if Lubbock would eventually have the cost of going off in some other direction for a lot more of the same.

It is nice to know that action is being taken and within a few months Lubbock and Post will have the answer.

It also is nice to know Lubbock is thinking of proceeding rapidly enough to have construction going by 1978. That is only two and one-half years away.

Cactus Garden answer

Our opinions of the weed conditions of the Post Cactus Garden the past few years mostly have been confined to what a motorist sees on a "drive by." By volunteering an hour of weed pulling Saturday we got a closer inspection.

That led us to the conclusion that a major overhaul is needed. So much sand and dirt has blown in over the last few years there is just too much "soil" above the material originally laid below the gravel to keep the weeds from breaking through.

Instead of constant chopping, the garden needs to have present gravel and "soil" removed and a new gravel base put in. That would keep down infestation for two or three years and wouldn't cost more probably than constant hoe attention.

What's more it would look a whole lot prettier.

We're worried ever since Dave Newby built the garden from donations raised by the Broadway Beautification Bunch that its future was problematical because it wasn't somebody's continuing responsibility.

Bill Mills, who cared for the garden as a volunteer effort for two full years after it was built, wrote us a note this week pointing out that some new gravel was put on the garden once but it was full of dirt and weed seeds and the untidy appearance mostly since has been due in large part to this mistake.

We would like to see the city volunteer to take care of the garden and to renovate it from the grass and weeds with a new gravel bed.

Is revenue sharing in trouble?

Federal revenue sharing, after only two years in operation, is being debated again in Washington. Next year the Congress will have to authorize additional funds if it is to continue. President Ford wants to see it renewed in its present form.

There are many, however, who want to see a variety of changes made.

One group are officials of the nation's big cities. The cities are now floundering financially. They want more of the revenue sharing, and suggest giving smaller communities less.

Pressure groups representing the poor and the minorities want to see more of the revenue sharing funds spent for the poor. Some lawmakers favor passing out such funds to states and cities only when there is a federal surplus. Others want to tie it to tax reform. Others say give revenue sharing funds only to communities with the greatest need, which would knock out most small towns and suburbs from where revenue sharing now draws its greatest political support.

A sub-committee of the Federal Government Operations Committee will hold hearings on revenue sharing this fall, but its chairman has opposed revenue sharing in the past.

Those favoring revenue sharing fear that if all those wanting changes in the present law "gang up" on revenue sharing it will be stripped of funding.

The Dispatch hopes that doesn't happen.

Post gets the 'credit'

Colorado City voters voted down legalized liquor by a two to one margin last week and the Colorado City publisher gave Post full credit for the dry victory.

Those pamphlets declaring Post the "sin city of West Texas" were widely used by the "drys" in Colorado City.

The dry forces print these pamphlets by the bushel every time there is a liquor election in Texas and Post gets wiped in the mud but good every time.

We're getting a little sick of this procedure. The pamphlets, written a dozen years ago or so, quote officials long retired or "authorities" who have moved away to the "big city."

We often wonder if the good church folks who distribute the "Post pamphlets" so lavishly know or care whether the one-sided written "hatchet job" really is false.

Our contemporaries say . . .

Snyder has a worthy means of "footing the bill" for their 15-year-old Fourth of July celebration. They ask $5 donations from individuals in advance. We could improve on that here by having a donation receipt good for a plate full of barbecue.

How about the motorist who got a speeding ticket after he had set his cruise control on 55? It happened to H. M. Baggarty, Tulia Herald Publisher, recently. The highway patrolman told him he ought to get his cruise control fixed.

There's a cool way to add the Bicentennial spirit to your summer entertaining. Serve distinctive flavored iced teas with authentic colonial finger foods.

Tea was the colonists' favorite beverage. The tax on it caused the most important tea party in history—and started the whole move to independence. Two hundred years later, the best tea parties are the ones you plan around the "revolutionary" new teas by Bigelow called Special Blends.

What makes these teas so special are their flavors. One called Plantation Mint has a built-in hint of mint; Constant Comment, the original special blend, has an intriguing taste of orange and sweet spice. Both are brisk and refreshing served hot; but for summer, brew them, pour over ice and garnish with fresh mint leaves and slices of lemon or lime. Have plenty more waiting in ice-filled pitchers.

Other flavors include lemony-light Lemon Lift, flavor-scented Rose Garden and tangy Cinnamon Stick. When company comes, you might brew up a few flavors—they all come in convenient tea bags. That way, your family and friends can sample several, making the event a real tea party!

For another touch of history, have cookies or tea cakes made from colonial-day recipes. These lacy Benne (sesame) Seed Wafers were a specialty of early Charleston—and will be a special treat at your house, anytime or anytime.

Camp Post summer program to date 'big success'

The South Plains Council's Camp Post Summer Program to date has been termed a big success.

During Scout Summer Camp, which is a week long outdoor experience for Scouts, there were over 350 Scouts for 44 Scout Troops at camp this year. The Scouts came from a 20-county area served by the South Plains Council, according to Bob Moody, the vice President of Scouting for the Council.

"The Scouts who attended Camp Post earned over 1175 merit badges in swimming, canoeing, rowing, archery, conservation, nature study, pioneering, and many other areas too numerous to mention," according to Moody. Also there were 169 Scouts advancing one complete rank at Camp Post.

The aquatic section under the leadership of Bill Nelson, Ralls, qualified 23 boys as Scout Life Guards. The aquatics section also had 49 boys pass the swimming merit badge. 36 Scouts completed the life saving merit badge, and 93 finished either the rowing or canoeing merit badges.

In addition to the Scout Program at Post, there are programs for the Cub Scouts, who are boys 8, 9 and 10 years old. For the Cubs are the Cub Day Camp and the overnight Lad and Dad campout.

The Cub Day Camp, to be held three times this summer, is under the leadership of H. E. Logan and Ladelle Logan, who plan and operate the activity. It has been held once on July 7 with 191 Cub Scouts and leaders from 28 Packs attending. The other Day Camps will be Saturday, July 19, with 193 Cubs from 28 packs already signed up, and August 2. The Cub Day Camps feature archery, Indian lore, geology, splashtime, nature trails, obstacle courses, and plaster crafts.

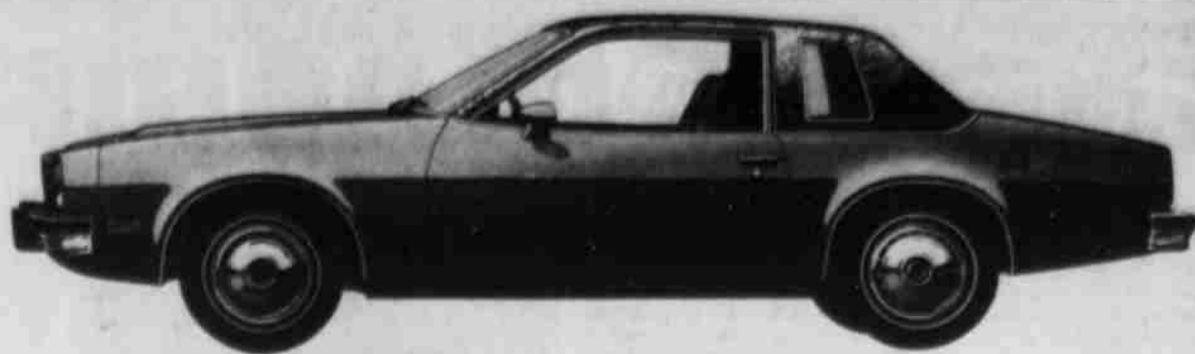

The Lad and Dad overnight campout is for the Webelos Scouts who are 10 and 11 years old. The boy and his dad spend the night in a tent in the woods. The Lad and Dad Camps will be held two times this summer. The first one was held June 14th and had 24 fathers and sons from 7 packs attending. The next one will be July 26th with 120 fathers and sons from 16 Packs signed up presently. Woody said.

Now, the attention for Scout Camp switches to Camp Tres Ritos, which opened this week, located in the Carson National Forest, New Mexico, Moody said. "We are expecting 370 Scouts from 39 Troops to attend one of the four weeks the camp will be in operation," Moody said.

Tres Ritos features a program of forestry, conservation, nature study, and various out of camp overnight back packing trips into the Pecos Wilderness area.

"If the balance of the summer program is as smooth an operation as the first half, we will have one of the best summer programs this Council has ever held," Moody stated.

Julie Edwards becomes Edward Stacha's bride

In a ceremony performed at 8 p. m. June 27 in the Cox Memorial Chapel of the Highland Park Methodist Church, Julie Edwards became the bride of Edward Angus Stacha. The Rev. Chuck Cox read the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Maxine Edwards of Richardson and W. H. Edwards of Royce City. The groom's father is Mr. Edward Stacha of Richardson.

Pre-nuptial selections were presented by the minister of music, Phil Baker. The processional was Lohengrin's "Wedding March" and the recessional was Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

The vows were said before a Gothic style altar framed by two huge brass urns filled with spring flowers and greenery. The bridal aisle was marked by a white aisle cloth which continued up the steps to the central altar.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a formal length gown, an original creation fashioned in the elegance of frosted silk organza. The gown was designed with a fitted empire bodice appliqued with Venise lace which also cascaded from the high neck band into the sheer upper yolk. Appliques of the Venise lace encrusted with beads and pearls were scattered over the full sheer Bishop sleeves and banded the wide cuffs. The skirt of silk organza fell in tiny soft gathers from the raised waistline. Added skirt fullness at the back bodice line extended into a flowing chapel train. Her veil of English silk illusion fell in tiers to her fingertips from a caplet of Venise lace sprinkled with pearls and beads to frame the hairline. The bridal bouquet was of stephanotis, baby's breath, and two dozen white roses.

An antique gold bracelet belonging to the bride's late maternal grandmother, Mrs. T. R. Greenfield, was the traditional something borrowed and something old, for something blue the bride wore the handmade ribbon garter and something new was the wedding dress. For good luck she wore an English sixpence in her shoe.

The attendants were identically attired in formal gowns of organza and butterfly silk. The sheer gowns were a watercolor print in shades of yellow, green and apricot, styled with fitted empire bodices accented by princess lines. The A-line silhouettes were softly gathered to form a bouffant line. Sheer Bishop sleeves were caught with a wide tight cuff. Each wore a pale yellow sheer picture hat with an organza band. Their bouquets were colonial nosegays of apricot Preuvian Lillies, baby's breath and Springer.

The bride's three sisters served as her attendants. Mrs. Troy James of Perryton served as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Ronnie Parker of Irving and Mrs. John Hegi of Lamesa.

Serving as best man was Joe Oslin of Richardson and groomsmen were Colin Bell and Mark Williamson of Richardson. Ushers were Mark Ward and the groom's brother, Lance Stacha, both of Richardson. The attendants were formally attired.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Great Hall of the church. The guests were registered by Miss Kim Copeland, niece of the bride and Miss Trisha Stacha, sister of the groom. The bride's table was covered by a pleated silk cloth and centered by the five tiered wedding cake decorated with pale yellow roses and fresh greenery and topped with an arrangement of fresh spring flowers. Two huge urns of daisies, gypsophila, baby's breath, stock and tropicanna roses were on either side of the cake and the punch, nuts, mints and coffee were served from crystal and silver appointments.

Presiding at the bride's table were Mrs. Elizabeth Pearce and Miss Susan Hinton of Richardson. The groom's table also was covered by a white pleated silk cloth and was centered with a confection of deep rich chocolate topped with fresh glazed strawberries and grapes and fresh spring flowers. The cake was served by Miss Dianna Collier and Miss Jill Cash of Post.

Following the reception at the church the groom's father was host at a dance for all the wedding party and guests. For the wedding trip to Nassau, Bahamas the bride wore a navy linen dress topped by a Kelly green jacket.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Pearce High School in Richardson and has attended Texas Tech and Richland College. The groom is a 1972 graduate of Pearce High School in Richardson and also attended Texas Tech and Richland College. He is employed by Stacha Sprinkler Supply Inc. in Richardson where the couple will make their home.

Special guests for the wedding were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Edwards and the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Louis Stacha.

MRS. C. V. SILER (Debbie Jo Craddock)

Craddock-Siler vows are read in Slaton

A double ring ceremony uniting Debbie Jo Craddock and C. V. Siler was held Saturday at 7 p. m. in the Slaton First Baptist Church with Rev. J. L. Cartrite, minister, officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Ned Myers of Southland and parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Siler of Slaton.

The bride given in marriage by her step-father, wore a floor length organza dress in white, with daisies lace trim on the bodice and sleeves, accenting the cuffs and featuring a chapel train. The picture hat she wore also featured a long net train flowing from the back of the hat. Her bouquet was of white carnations, french mums and featured a cymbidium orchid in the center that could be removed and worn as she left the church, with streamers of gypsophila.

Matron of honor was her sister, Nedra Myers. Her dress was of mint green long silk organza, featuring a floral bodice trimmed in white lace. Bridesmaids were Melanie King Arla Nelson and Joy Jean Basinger, and they wore identical dresses in baby blue.

Young people hold outing

Members of the Young People's class at Graham Church of Christ enjoyed an outing Thursday night when they attended a get-together and devotion held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Jones in Wellman.

Guests were served refreshments and enjoyed an evening of visiting and singing.

Mr. and Mrs. Noel White, adult leaders, attended with Dale Odom, David Williams, Amy and Lisa Cowdrey, Kerry Cowdrey, Steve White, Virginia Boothe, Mark Short, Kam and Derrek Huntley and Danny Nelson.

Trade bead program given

Lil Conner presented a program on Indian trade beads to the members of the Post Art Guild at their regular meeting held Monday evening at 7:30 in the Womens Club House.

Inez Hartel served as hostess for the meeting.

Two associate members, Ann Bishop and Ruby Kirkpatrick were present along with members, Evelyn Neff, Maxine Marks, Margie Compton, Geraldine Butler, Lois Williams, Jo Ann Reed, Lil Conner and hostess Inez Hartel.

As It Looks From Here . . .

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The news media have concentrated their attention on the transgressions of the C.I.A. described in the Rockefeller Commission report. The Commission identifies a number of areas where the Central Intelligence Agency obviously overreacted in certain situations, as well mentioned in this release, February 6, 1975. Most of these activities occurred during the late 1960's and early 70's when the radicals were demonstrating. Efforts were made to find out how these huge revolutionary assemblies were financed and if paid for with money coming from outside this country, to identify its source. What has not been reported, with very few exceptions, is Chapter 2 of the report which is headed "Need for Intelligence." In that chapter the report says, "The number of Communist government officials in the United States has tripled since 1960 and is still increasing. Nearly 2,000 of them are now in this country and a significant percentage have been identified as intelligence agents."

The report goes on to say, "In addition to sending increasing numbers of their citizens to this country openly, many of whom have been trained in espionage, communist bloc countries also place considerable emphasis on the training, provision of false identification, and dispatching of 'illegal' agents — that is, operatives for whom an alias identity has been systematically developed which enables them to live in the United States as American citizens or resident aliens without our knowledge of their true origins."

reports point out that, while making large scale use of human intelligence sources the communist countries also appear to have developed electronic collection of intelligence to an extraordinary degree of technology and sophistication for use in the United States and elsewhere throughout the world and we believe that these countries can monitor and record thousands of telephone conversations. Americans have a right to be uneasy, if not seriously disturbed, at the real possibility that their personal and business activities which they discuss freely over the telephone could be recorded and analyzed by agents of a foreign power.

"This raises the real specter," the report points out "that selected American users of telephones are potentially subject to blackmail that can seriously affect their actions or lead in some cases to recruitment as espionage agents."

In these findings of the Rockefeller Commission, the report seems fairly well balanced and not simply an indictment of the C.I.A. Those who would abolish our intelligence system, including the F.B.I., like nothing better than to point out the criticism of these agencies in the report but to ignore the warnings contained in Chapter 2 of the Commission's document.

Right now there rages in the U. S. House of Representatives the matter of who is to conduct hearings on the C. I. A., comparable to the one now going on in the Senate headed by Senator Church of Idaho. The radicals want a forum to attack our security agencies and, from all indications, would abolish them if they could. These are mostly the same people, both in and out of Congress, who oppose adequate military preparedness and who would relegate our nation to a second-rate power in this world.

WEARING THE ARMY WHITE?—The Army Green is a familiar sight to people throughout the United States and the world. But the Army White? In winter in Anchorage, Alaska, the Army white is a familiar sight indeed. Soldiers from Fort Richardson frequently play a large part in the city's parades and festivities. Here, infantrymen of the 172d Infantry Brigade pass in review during a winter festival.

Less tender beef cuts more economical buys

COLLEGE STATION — Demand for beef, particularly for quick-cooking cuts, is influencing the price, one consumer marketing information specialist said this week.

"For real economy, select the less tender cuts such as chuck roasts, chuck and round steaks. Other good choices are ground beef and liver, price-wise," Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said.

Another economical possibility is fresh fish and shellfish. Many varieties will be available in the coming weeks, adding to good supplies of fresh frozen seafoods. This means attractive buying opportunities at prices substantially below a year ago, the specialist reported.

"Increasing supplies of peaches, nectarines, plums and grapes have resulted in slightly lower prices.

Fresh vegetables soon to be arriving on the market in canning-size quantities are purple hull peas, soft-shell squash, carrots, corn, cucumbers, cucumber, green onions and radishes.

Prices are slightly higher for fryer chickens. Eggs are in good supply at reasonable prices. Corn, large and medium sizes, are the best value for egg consumers. CONSUMER WORDS: This year's apricots is large. But the season is short, prices remain relatively high.

Vets should apply now for fall school aid

SNYDER — Veterans who are planning to enroll in college for the first time this fall and who will be applying for veterans' educational benefits should make application for those benefits well in advance of the beginning of the fall semester, Dan Dever, Western Texas College veterans' outreach coordinator and associate registrar, said.

Dever is in his office in the WTC Administration Building from 8-5 each week day except Friday when the offices close at 4 p.m. Veterans who cannot talk to Dever during those hours may arrange an evening appointment by calling him in advance. He has all the necessary forms to be used in making application for educational benefits.

Most veterans with service after Jan. 31, 1955, are eligible for benefits, Dever said, provided the active duty was continuous for 181 days or more, any part of which occurred after Jan. 31, 1955. The veteran must hold a discharge or release from active duty under conditions other than dishonorable.

The amount of money paid to a veteran as an educational allowance depends on the number of credit hours taken and the number of dependents, Dever pointed out. For example, a single veteran enrolled for 12 credit hours or more will receive $270 per month. A married veteran with two dependents going full-time would receive $366 per month.

A single veteran enrolled half-time (six to eight credit hours) would receive $135 per month, while a married veteran with two dependents enrolled half-time would receive $182 per month.

The Dependents Educational Assistance program provides financial aid for the education of sons, daughters, wives and widows or veterans, and Dever can also give these persons details about the benefits they may receive.

Twin Cedars Nursing Home News

By LOIS DAVIS

Visiting the home this week was Edith Clary, Inez Huntley, Ruby Carpenter, Myrl Mathis, Henrietta Nichols, and Rhonalea King.

Visiting Mrs. Will Cravy was George and Anna Waldrop from Odessa, Tex., and Mack and Lola Ledbetter visited Mr. G. H. Newberry.

We regret the loss of Mr. Newberry. He expired at about 9:30 Saturday morning.

Mrs. Susie Brown is in the hospital. I've been informed that she is doing some better today. We sincerely hope she gets well real soon and is back with us.

Paul Sherrell and Gus Sherrell are frequent visitors of Mrs. Myrtle Sherrell, as is Ms. Freta Harmon a very frequent visitor of her mother, Mrs. Blanch Clary.

Mrs. Bill Cravy has been in to see Mrs. Will Cravy. Preston Brookshire visited Irene Wheeler and Stanley Butler is a very frequent visitor of his mother, Mrs. Ruby Butler.

We wish to thank Bro. Houston for his songs and message last Thursday evening. He is a great inspiration to us all.

Also wish to thank the Trinity Baptist Church for their services last Sunday. We will have with us, Father O'Connor from the Holy Cross Catholic Church at 3 p. m. Everyone is invited.

I regret that I am unable to keep up with all the happenings at the home as I am only there part time and if someone doesn't sign the register then I have no way of knowing they have been there. Would appreciate it if you would all sign it so I can know when you have visited someone.

That is all for this week. See you next week.

Four locations in Garza field

Four new drilling locations were announced for the Garza field in this county this week. George R. Brown announced one and Sun Oil Co., the other three.

The Brown drilling effort will be the No. 37 Post Estate, two miles southeast of Post. It will be a 3,100 foot effort 1004 feet from south line and 3,407 feet from the west line of Section 9, Block 5, K. Aycock survey.

The three Sun wells will be the No. 39 Post Estate, the No. 40 Post Estate, and the No. 42 Post Estate.

All three will be approximately two miles southeast of Post in Section 7 of the K. Aycock survey. Each also will be drilled to 3,100 feet.

TEXAS TALK

By FRED MYERS

Officials are predicting a decrease of no more than 20 percent in domestic purchase of feed grains during the current marketing year. Others are saying that an improved livestock market will cut the decrease to even less. USDA projections are for the production of about 220 million short tons of feed grains with about 165 million tons sold in the United States and another 42 million tons exported to foreign countries. According to the figures released by the Department of Agriculture, total carryover of feed grains by the end of the marketing year should not exceed 30 million tons. Although that's a lot of grain, records show it to be only about 60 percent as much as the carryover at the end of 1971. Officials citing these figures are predicting relatively stable prices for grain sorghum. Major factors which could produce a change in the situation include the extent of recovery of the cattle market and, as always, the most variable of all, the weather.

Lance Dunn throws no-hitter in Little League meet

Slaton wins title 7-4 over Post

Slaton's Little League All-Stars defeated Post's Little League All-Stars, 7 to 4, Tuesday night to win the Little League area tournament at Tahoka.

Most of Post's "big tournament moments" came in their 6 to 0 first round victory over the Tahoka Little League All-Stars Monday night when Lance Dunn pitched a no-hit game for the locals.

Dunn faced only 21 batters in the six inning contest. He walked four, two in the third and two more in the fifth. The other four innings he retired Tahoka hitters in order.

Bryan Taylor, Post catcher, also had a "big night" against Tahoka. He made what the scorekeeper termed "a fantastic catch" on Cleanup Hitter, John Alvarado's foul pop to end the game, and at the plate he collected two doubles and a walk on four trips, scored three times himself, and drove in two runs.

In Post's clinching four-run rally in the sixth, he stole home for the third run after driving across Gary Lamb, who had walked, and Alvin Taylor who had singled with his second double.

Shortstop Mark Greer came up after Taylor slid across homeplate on the steal and added to the rally by knocking the ball out of the park for a homerun.

The locals got only seven hits and were leading 1-0 in a tense mound duel until Taylor scored the second run in the fifth when Pitcher Dunn singled him home with two outs after Taylor had hit his first double.

Then came the four-run rally in the sixth to clinch it.

Post used three pitchers in the loss in the finals to Slaton with Mark Holly pitching in the first two innings, Mark Greer the next two and one-third innings and David Foster then relieving Greer who was in a game to retire the final five Slaton hitters in order.

Slaton jumped into a 4 to 1 lead in the second on two doubles, two walks and two Post errors; added another pair in the third on three walks and a double; and got their final run in the fifth on three consecutive singles.

Post got its first run in the second on singles by Lance Dunn and Kevin Craig; added another in the fifth on singles by Mark Holly and Alvin Taylor; and then saw a final inning rally fall three runs short.

In the sixth, Raymond Raymundo, Joe Lofton, and Craig singled and Foster walked to bring two runs home with one out. But the Slaton pitcher got Holly on a grounder to second and then threw a called third strike by Alvin Taylor for the final out.

All told the locals collected eight hits to only seven for Slaton.

Lewis Holly was manager of the Post All-Stars and Larry Waldrip, the coach.

Post Babe Ruth All-Stars are runners-up in district meet

The Post Babe Ruth League All-Stars (14-15 year olds) battled their way into the finals of the district tournament at Tahoka last Wednesday night with an upset 6 to 1 victory over Lamesa, but dropped a pair Friday night to the same Lamesa All-Stars to lose the title.

It was the first time in many years the locals had advanced into the district finals.

Friday was a "long night" for the Post squad as it bowled 15 to 1 in the first game and 10 to 0 in the nightcap in five hours of baseball that lasted until nearly midnight.

Post jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the first inning of the first final game of the double elimination meet when Centerfielder Bryon Monk led off with a single and Randy Baker, the second batter of the game, tripled him home.

For the next 13 innings after that, Post was shut out and permitted only three hits.

Lamesa took command of the first game Friday night with a five-run burst in the second on four hits and then cut loose for four more in the fifth and six more in the sixth.

All told Lamesa collected 11 hits off the offerings of Starter Raymie Holly and Bryan Compton.

The second game Friday night with a tight 2-0 game for the first four innings with Lamesa picking up a pair of runs in the top of the first on two hits.

Then came the fifth with the Lamesa club unloading their bats for seven hits and seven runs to put the game out of reach. Lamesa added their final run in the top of the seventh.

Leslie Looney started that one for Post with Evans Heaton coming on in the sixth.

A single by Larry Harper and a double by Mark Williams were Post's only hits of the game with a dozen Post batters striking out.

The big victory for Post in the tourney was its 6 to 1 triumph over Lamesa on Wednesday night to advance the locals to the Friday night finals.

Looney pitched that victory, giving up only three Lamesa hits, two of them coming in the seventh for Lamesa's only run.

Looney struck out nine, walked none, and permitted only four Lamesa baserunners for the seven innings.

Post took a 1-0 lead in the second when a shortstop error put leadoff hitter, Ronnie Bratcher, aboard and he worked his way around without benefit of a hit.

Lamesa lost the game in the fifth when Post pushed four more runs across on only one hit. Second baseman Compton's double after four walks had forced one run home and left all the sacks loaded.

Post got its final run in the seventh on Holly's single, a fielder's choice, and Compton's second single of the game, which gave him two of Post's four hits for the night.

Post team splits pair in 13-year-olds' tourney

The Post Babe Ruth All-Stars (13-year-olds) lost their first game and won their second in the double elimination district tournament at Denver City this week.

The local club defeated Brownfield in the 8 p. m. game Tuesday night, 9 to 4 with Hiram Martinez pitching.

Post was scheduled to play the Lynn County All-Stars at 6 p. m. last night (after Dispatch presstime) in their third tourney start.

If Post defeated Lynn County, it would advance with a 7 p. m. scheduled tonight with the winner of that one advancing into the finals at 7 p. m. Friday night.

Five teams were entered in the meet, Lamesa, Post, Lynn County, Brownfield and Tri-City.

Lamesa and Tri-City were to meet at 8 p. m. last night with the winner advancing into Friday night's finals undefeated and the loser meeting the Post-Lynn County game winner of Wednesday night in the only

Tests show dog didn't have rabies

The stray dog which bit a couple of Post men along last week wasn't "mad."

A report back last Thursday from the state laboratory in Austin showed the dog did not have rabies, as had been feared.

The game scheduled Thursday night.

Lynn County defeated Post their first round game Friday night 11 to 7. Danny Gamm the starting pitcher for Post that one with Scott W. relieving him in the sixth. Allan Hampton is manager of the Post All-Stars.

Archery meet here Sunday

The Post Archery club has scheduled a tournament for Sunday, July 20, beginning at 2 p. m. It will feature a 28 target field round with a new regular event to begin called the 80 yard dot shot. A novelty shot will also be held featuring a running animal target, with a special award to be given for this event.

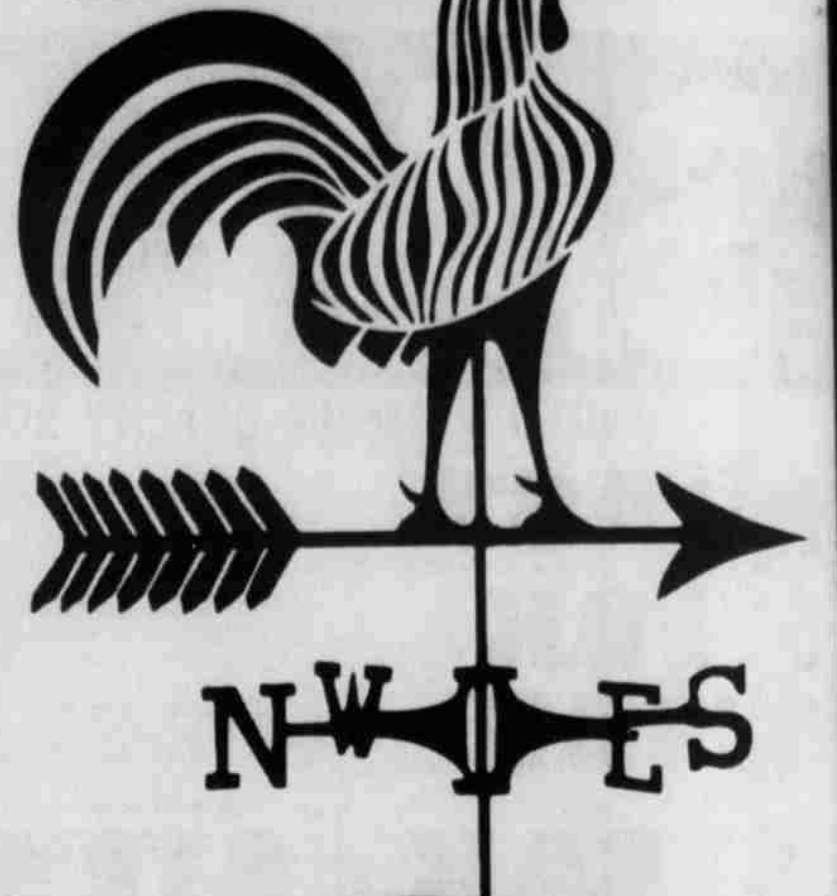

The Men's Bowhunting Championship Award is to be awarded as soon as the tie is broken.

Everyone is urged to attend this special tournament.

A sweeping change in state-wide ambulance service has taken place in recent years, and one of the reasons is the Emergency Medical Services Division of the Texas Department of Health Resources.

Where ambulances once were directed toward speed, they now put emphasis on trained personnel and life-sustaining services while en route to a hospital.

The types of modular ambulances seen on popular television shows are becoming quite commonplace across Texas. These are the preferred types and more and more Texas communities are installing them.

A move to further assist communities in setting up ambulance service, complete with trained personnel, has prompted the Division to place its training personnel at strategic locations in regional settings in Texas.

No longer will it be necessary to call Austin for assistance, says Charles E. King, director of the Emergency Medical Services Division.

"Trainers are stationed in the Regions," says King, "and they are enthusiastic about being close to those in need of assistance. All are knowledgeable in all phases of the program — which includes Emergency Medical Services, Medical Advisory Board, Civil Defense and Radiological Defense."

The EMS Program has had a tremendous effect on upgrading ambulance services, and cities throughout the state have gone to highly trained personnel and sophisticated life-sustaining equipment which goes far beyond that required for certification. In some cities, medical colleges have entered into training of ambulance attendants to assure the finest use of equipment.

In the beginning, those in the Health Resources Department's emergency medical program had to knock on doors to interest cities and towns in attendant training. And, the Division provided training, with help of local medical society members. But the life-saving program now has developed on such a broad scale that there's not enough personnel to provide training.

Through its regional setup, says King, the Division provides expert consultation services with towns suddenly without ambulance services or those wishing to upgrade services. They help organize classes, inspect and certify ambulances and give examinations to those taking various training courses. They also do basic communications counseling, aiding operators of emergency vehicles in selecting and properly utilizing radio equipment.

"One of the most exciting fields in medicine today is in the area of emergencies," said King. Many emergency teams operate from military helicopters to speed patients to hospitals, he said.

Andrew L. Woodward said the regionalizing of EMS personnel is basically the same as the whole concept of regional offices — getting services nearer those who need them and taking them into areas which haven't received them before.

With regionalization, many areas find the EMS representatives can coordinate between agencies and other interested personnel in the formulation of a more efficient EMS system.

"You'd be surprised how important it is to people not to have to deal with someone from the State Capital," said Woodward. "If someone near Lubbock needs help, we have men stationed there for them to contact. A Northeast Texas County Judge who came to the Austin office for help was delighted to learn that a regional man was stationed in Tyler."

The basic function of EMS, reiterated Woodward, is to assist in training of ambulance attendants, consult with local people in setting them up, helping with communications problems and "to do a lot of personal consulting." Further, he said, we can do about 90 per cent of licensing and inspecting of ambulances.

Where ambulance companies may not have seen the value of their vehicles having proper equipment before, they can have it explained personally by the regional representative of the Emergency Medical Services Division of your Texas Dept. of Health Resources.

The Area Development Department of Southwestern Public Service Company has completed a survey of industries in the area served by the electric company.
 The first phase of the survey, completed in March, was made in all of the towns that SPS serves in Texas except Amarillo and Lubbock. The second phase of the survey covers these two metropolitan areas.
 "The purpose of the survey is to assemble information that will aid in the design of programs to assist existing manufacturers expand their production facilities," commented Larry Milner, area development manager for SPS in Amarillo.
 The survey, representing 23 communities on the North and South Plains, reveals that 52.4 percent of the existing industries responding to the survey plan future expansion. Forty-seven of the companies surveyed plan expansion within the next 12 months, while another 61 plan expansion in the next three years. During the next five years, 25 more companies plan expansion.

 Employment expansion for the near future was projected in the range of 43 percent.
 The survey covers general manufacturing, agri-related and oil and gas related industries, with a total employee representation of more than 14,000. Of this number, about 9,000 are production workers, 1,000 are management employees and the remainder work in clerical or administrative jobs.
 In discussing the survey, Milner said, "Some of the major problems faced by industry when planning expansion are labor supply, reduced sales, resources, financing, lack of technical information, transportation, building space, management and air pollution laws."

"Helping all the towns in our service area with new and existing industries is one of our primary functions. We feel that the information in this industrial survey will aid us in providing that help," Milner concluded.

Protecting Our Health Environment and Energy

THE PLASTICS ENERGY CYCLE

MANUFACTURING OF PLASTICS REQUIRES VERY LITTLE ENERGY. IN 1973, ENERGY NEEDS FOR PLASTIC PRODUCTS OF ALL KINDS AMOUNTED TO JUST ONE PER CENT OF THE TOTAL ENERGY CONSUMED IN THE U.S.

BECAUSE PLASTIC MATERIALS ARE EXTREMELY LIGHTWEIGHT, GREATER QUANTITIES OF FINISHED PRODUCTS CAN BE SHIPPED BY TRUCK OR RAIL WITHIN GIVEN WEIGHT LOAD LIMITATIONS. FEWER TRIPS ARE MADE, LESS ENERGY IS CONSUMED.

FINALLY, ONCE DISCARDED, A PLASTIC PRODUCT CAN BE BURNED IN MODERN INCINERATORS DESIGNED TO PRODUCE STEAM FOR THE GENERATION OF ENERGY. THE HIGH HEAT VALUE OF PLASTICS MAKES THEM AN IDEAL FUEL. PLASTICS ARE THIS CAPABLE OF RETURNING TO THE ENVIRONMENT MUCH OF THE ENERGY CONSUMED IN THEIR MANUFACTURE.

happy, enjoying his stay at camp and wanting to return. "Feed him good food, and lots of it."

Food is not the only facet of the camp, which offers study in Bible, music, nature, hiking, swimming and crafts of all kinds. This year a new swimming pool was installed for the campers use, and the amphitheatre was completed, where all programs are held in a natural out of door setting each evening after the sun goes down.

The camp was founded as a wilderness camp in 1971 with the campers sleeping in tents and eating their meals from a chuck wagon, owned by Guy Goen of Spur. Each year since, the campers have voted to keep the tents, so concrete slabs were poured and pipe frames built for the special made tents, for the second year the camp was in session. A new modern kitchen facility was built in 1972 and meals are served there now.

This year the camp will have three weekly sessions, with approximately 360 campers registered. The first session of camp in 1971, registered 71 campers, so it has grown each year.

Jim's work is cut out for him for the next three weeks, but you can be sure his job will show in a most efficient way. His days will begin at 5 a. m. and not end until each camper has been fed a nightly snack and put to bed at 10 p. m.

If you haven't been there, you will be surprised what you will find, "right in your own back yard," and visitors are welcome at any time and can eat a meal with the campers for a small fee. So go out sometime during the next three weeks and see for your self the job Jim is doing there.

Other business women who have made the plunge into retail business here more or less recently are Sharron Morris who opened "Trends for Men" this year. Loveta Josey and Lometa Epley who operate Twins Fashions together, and Margie Wilson and Nancy Howard of Lubbock, who operate Raferti.

And this isn't to mention of course newcomers to the already established women's field of beauty shop operations here.

Oh yes, Mary Beth Stalcup is the manager of Allsup's 24-hour convenience food store now which is another addition to our mushrooming brigade of Post business women.

To us, we can see a definite trend here. And if we get into the professions we have a woman attorney in Sue Ray. Probably we have left out some others in our haste to complete this effort just ahead of the front page deadline, and we will live to regret the fact we picked this subject to write about this week.

White River —

Asked how fast Lubbock might be willing to move on the Post Lake development, O'Brien said he understood Lubbock would like construction either begun or finished here by 1978.

Engineers had projected the need for Post Lake water in Lubbock by 1984 and the need for a great deal more water from the proposed Justiceburg Lake in 1992.

O'Brien said there is no reason to believe that tests at Justiceburg will not show feasibility for the lake there, and that Lubbock should have no real difficulty in obtaining a state water permit for such a lake.

The White River water manager told directors that tests of the Justiceburg lake site should be completed by early 1978 permitting an agreement to be worked out sometime next year between Lubbock and the White River district for a long-term purchase contract for Post Lake water, providing the Justiceburg lake is feasible as expected.

O'Brien told the board that the state water board in loaning lake construction money now often "buys storage rights" for a portion of the lake water to be sold to future customers to speed up construction.

Any Post Lake development by the White River district would be on the basis of revenue bonds so that no taxes would be required for the four towns in the water district, or a tax obligation incurred in securing state funding.

Attending the meeting from Post were White River director Ed Bruison and Publisher Jim Cornish.

Post's grant under review

Post's application to HUD for a $200,000 block grant to help build a new community-youth center here is still in the review process at HUD's regional headquarters in Dallas.

Mayor Giles McCrary was informed of this in a letter from Mike Lumaden, community development staff member of SPAG.

The mayor said it probably will be early August now before the city and county will find out how their joint application for funding for the $250,000 project fared.

member cities is off fishing on a two weeks vacation.

The secretary of the organization got his meeting notices out late, so Maddox may have received a notice of the meeting here after he left for his vacation and it was in a pile on his desk.

Whatever, Mayor McCrary got busy trying to find a dinner for his hungry guests.

One local restaurant was closed. Another one told the mayor but they simply didn't have that much extra food for a "no notice" situation.

Mayor McCrary solved the problem by ordering up hamburgers, french fries, coffee, milk and Cokes from the Super Dog Drive In and taking them to the city auditorium.

Out of town water men told the mayor it was the first time that they had shown up for a meeting with no arrangements being made for their eating.

"But it probably won't be the last," they added. And they seemed to enjoy the mayor's efforts to please.

The only thing that worries Mayor McCrary is that the association's dinner meeting is always the third Tuesday night of the month. It fell on July 15th this time because Tuesday was the first day of the month.

Usually 60 to 75 members attend the dinner meetings.

The mayor is worried now that maybe 20 or 25 more will show up next Tuesday night for what could be a repeat performance of Tuesday night's embarrassment because they "got their dates mixed up."

Didway suit —

According to the testimony of Mrs. Didway, Mrs. Coward and Mrs. Burton, Editor Didway fell in the pressroom and broke his left hip.

Testimony given by these three, and also by a janitor in the newspaper building and a newspaper photographer showed that the janitor and photographer had carried Didway back to the newsroom on the second floor and that Didway was then taken by ambulance to the West Texas Hospital where he underwent two hip pinning operations.

Didway's hat and shoes were introduced into evidence at the damage suit trial by Mike Millsap of Lubbock, attorney for Mrs. Didway.

Both were stained with a dark substance believed to be either grease or ink from the pressroom floor. Mrs. Didway testified that the dark substance got on the hat and shoes when her husband fell, indicating he slipped causing the fall.

Also introduced into evidence was a picture of Didway propped up on the pressroom floor that was taken immediately after the fall by Mrs. Burton.

It was never used in the newspaper, although the feature story later appeared in print.

Dr. William C. Wilson of Post testified Tuesday morning that the broken hip suffered in the fall developed into the debilitating condition which led to Didway's death.

Hospital Administrator Donald Windham, Dispatch Publisher Jim Cornish and Mrs. Norma Baumann, a Dispatch employee, were other Post witnesses who testified at the trial Monday afternoon.

Cornish and Mrs. Baumann testified that after being dismissed from the hospital Editor Didway continued to perform as many of his regular newspaper duties as possible from his bedside and only returned to the newspaper office for three consecutive days of work to put out one issue of The Dispatch before he was admitted to Garza Memorial Hospital here in early November for a hospital bed he was not to leave until he died.

Mrs. Didway in her suit against the newspaper and its parent corporation sought $85,000 for damages in the loss of care, maintenance and support, advice, counsel and contributions she would have received from her husband had he lived; for funeral and burial expenses; for the physical pain and mental anguish Didway suffered between the time of his pressroom fall and his death, and for medical and hospital expenses totaling approximately $9,500.

Paul Walker to head census

The Garza County Commissioner's Court Monday named Paul Walker to replace David Pierce as supervisor for the young people employed under the federal manpower program to conduct a county-wide census this summer.

Pierce was named as the county's new probation officer July 1.

The court also voted to provide office space on the first floor of the courthouse for a public health nurse who will be in Post three days a month. The health service program will be operated by the Texas State Department of Health, according to information presented the court by Judge Giles Dalby.

The court voted to increase the hourly pay rate for county clerical help, radio dispatchers and part-time office help from $2.05 an hour to $2.10 an hour.

effective July 1, to comply with the federal wage law requirements effective that date. The court also held a budget work session, discussing 1976 requests for Post Public Library financing with agreement to budget $3,000 from funds for the salary librarian and other expenses. Salaries for elected and county employees discussed.

HOW'S The Electric Company DOING?

Let's ask Don Webber, transmission line foreman . . .

"What's going on here, Don?"

"We're putting in a new 115,000 volt line . . . gives us another feed to back up our dependability . . ."

"Cost us about $14,000 a mile just two years ago, now it's running $30,000 a mile."

Higher costs to keep your electric service dependable . . . part of the reason your electric bill may be higher these days. But without dependability, electricity wouldn't be worth much . . . would it?
