FARM INCOME TAX

There are some points on the new Federal income tax which may help farm folks understand how it operates. The law went into effect on July 1.

According to T. R. Timm, A. & M. College Extension staff, it is not a tax which is merely a collection of paying your income.

It is a way to figure out how much of your income is being paid to the government.

For the 1942 tax in all it has been a bit confusing. There is a simple way to figure out how much you should pay.

For the 1943 tax, the farmer's income is divided into two parts. One part is for the 1942 tax and the other for the 1943 tax.

The farmer should begin now to figure out his income tax. It is especially valuable if you have a limited supply of cash on hand.

Survey Being Made For War Fund Drive

Millions of people all over the world will be given help through the contributions this Fall of Garza County to the National War Fund. Frank M. McBrown, field representative for the United War Chest of Texas, said on a visit here.

The Garza County War Fund will combine the appeals of 16 war-related agencies approved by President Roosevelt's War Relief Control Board in the first unified campaign of its type ever conducted.

Mr. McBrown pointed out that giving to the United War Fund means support for the far-flung USO—the home away from home for our own fighting men, comforts for the "barbed wire" legion of prisoners of war, food for starving Greece.

The National War Fund has estimated that nearly 60,000,000 people all over the world will receive direct aid from the $125,000,000 which is to be raised in the U. S. for war relief this year.

Governor Coke Stevenson is serving as honorary chairman of the campaign in Texas. George A. Butler, prominent Houston attorney, is president and campaign chairman.

ABOUT THAT GARDEN

... the Scotchman

This year, August will be a month of vacations spent at home—very largely a month spent on gardening and on dehydrating and canning vegetables we've grown.

We in the south are fortunate that our vegetable gardens aren't summer gardens only, but year-round ones. Fall gardens are being planted now as we harvest our spring vegetables.

Among the most popular pastimes now among garden growers for this county is comparing the color, size and quantity of the vegetables being grown in various gardens now. In several gardens tomatoes and gladioli are being grown side by side with the two plants vying with one another in growth.

Mrs. Bryan Williams is growing tomatoes by the peck and is planning on canning a large percent of the crop. She also has in her garden beans and more beans.

The V. J. Campbells are growing carrots at their place crop. "This makes the third or fourth year for this vegetable and this year we were successful," Mr. Campbell said, and Mrs. Campbell will use everything we don't eat.

Among the flower gardeners that are producing a great deal of interest are the Mrs. M. S. Speck of Stamford, Mrs. I. L. Lee Dicks of M. A. Foster Heights, Mrs. V. E. Hunt and Mrs. J. L. Ramsey.

Bill J. Davis, who left last weekend for New York where he will begin training in the U. S. Naval Reserve at Columbia University, was a guest last Tuesday at the local Rotary club.

Bill J. Davis Is Guest Of Post Rotary Club Tuesday

Cotton Quotas For 1943 Crops Terminated

Based on recommendations of the Agricultural Adjustment Agency, the War Food Administration today announced termination of cotton marketing quotas for the 1943 crop and indicated that no quotas would be in effect on the 1944 crop.

The action followed announcement of the July 8 cotton crop allotment was about 27,200,000 acres. A later provision permitting ten per cent additional planting increased this year's permitted acreage to about 30 million acres.

The cotton acreage in 1943 larger than in 1942. The cotton acreage estimate for this year not only is 8 million below that permitted acreage but is also nearly a million and half acres under the acreage in cultivation on July 1, 1942.

Officials said the cotton loan program will remain in effect without change for the 1943-44 marketing season. Also, termination of marketing quotas will not effect the basis on which payments will be made to farmers under the 1943 Agricultural Conservation Program.

Post Continues To Swelter In 110 Degree Weather

Post sweltered through the hottest day of the year Monday. In the opinion of many it was believed the hottest day in 20 years.

A reading of 110 degrees was reported from the Santa Fe station where a recording instrument is maintained. Tuesday the readings recorded 109 degrees. Some instruments over town, however, registered as high as 110 in the shade again Tuesday and 118 in the sun. On Wednesday readings at 4 p. m. were 104 degrees. A slight shower caused a several degree fall at about 5 o'clock.

Hott records continued to be broken elsewhere in the state. Abilene reported an all-time high of 111 degrees. Relief was temporarily broken by a thunder storm which drove the mercury down 17 degrees, but soon after the temperature started climbing again.

San Angelo also had an official reading of 111 degrees, a 20 year record. Coleman blistered under a sun which sent the temperature up to 114 degrees, highest in weather bureau history. Crops in that area were reported dying from lack of moisture and many farmers were hauling water for livestock and domestic use. Lubbock reported 105 degrees, the highest since 1940.

It's A Small World After All

Sergeant Glendon Presson who is stationed somewhere in England has been visiting the Samsons and the Joneses in England and Scotland. The two families mentioned are relatives of our own Samsons and Joneses here.

He and a companion were guests in Scotland recently of George Samson's father in Forfar. In writing his parents about the visit he said, "It's difficult to go back to work after such a swell furlough. I'll never forget the visit with the Samsons at Forfar. The elderly Mr. Samson amused me as much. He received our letter saying that we were coming and said that he went down to meet every train and said that he came down to the station so often that he wore corns on his feet. He and all the others really gave us a royal welcome and I am sorry that I could not have stayed longer with them. After leaving Glasgow going north we came into the Tweed's country. Here we found some of the most beautiful scenery in the British Isles. From Inverness we visited Aberdeen. This city is often called the granite city because most of the buildings are of the granite that is quarried nearby.

At the Samsons we had a swell breakfast of fresh eggs and poultry hams. That was a real treat to us."

They visited Herbert Jones' brother and his family in Oldham.

Glendon told of his visit to the Jones family in a letter to his uncle and aunt, the W. R. Greenbors. He also recounted more of his recent trip to them and said, "We saw some pretty country in Scotland and enjoyed our stay in Edinburgh. There we saw the castle and the Holyrood Palace as well as the floral clock."

Glendon's companion on the trip was Sgt. Agee, also a Texas boy.

He requested that the Dispatch be sent to him at his English address as he would like very much to get the home town paper.

Glendon is attached to the Motorized Medical unit. He enclosed pictures of his unit and those of Red Cross Nurses on parade in London recently.

Elton wrote that her was sorry not to have written sooner but just couldn't get to it. "I got a letter a few days ago and was simply glad to get it, he said. In answering a question about receiving the paper he said that he had not received it nor the paper, see his mother sent him but "hope it will come on through as I would like to read some of the news from home."

"Have not heard from Cody or Murphy in a long time. . . but I know how it is. . . you can't just sit down anytime and drop off a few lines." He inquired about members of the family and especially his younger brothers, Weldon and Lloyd. "Guess they will want in the army too. I hope they don't get in for Dad can't work the farm by himself."

bridge Beyond Golden Gate bridge is the blue waters of the mighty Pacific . . . with ships against the horizon at most any time you can see beyond the bridge after the fog lifts.

In looking over the other shoulder appears Oakland. Beyond this city to view huge mountains, which makes the city settle at the foot-hills down to the waters of the bay and the miles of baywards. Oakland spreads for miles along the bay and doesn't seem to be as crowded as San Francisco. Directly across the bay is Richmond. Hundreds of barge balloons hover over the ship yards of that city.

There's not the merriment here on Treasure Island as there once was . . . the grim business of war replaces the gaiety that ran with the fair . . . sailors report to the receiving ship here daily in large numbers . . . some of them are here one day and out the next; others stay here for weeks before they go to sea, or are transferred to the different naval units . . . most of the men I meet are anxious to shove off from Treasure Island . . . few of them know where they're going . . . they do know they're marking time while here, and are anxious to be assigned to duty . . . they all want to "get in there and pitch" to get this fit as over as quickly as possible so they can return to their families and homes . . . they look to Treasure Island as a good place to be from."

Birthplace of Tire-Type Synthetic

The polymerization tanks in which Texas plants will mix up hundreds of thousands of tons of synthetic rubber latex under the government program dwarf these two units operating in Akron. But these tanks, in a plant operated by B. F. Goodrich and Phillips Petroleum company as early as 1939, are in a sense the birthplace of American tire-type synthetic rubber, being the ones in which the first such rubber used in regularly-sold tires was produced.

Texas Sawmills Making Lumber For Home Use On Farms

The 375-odd farm sawmills in Texas, including 11 owned cooperatively, are reacting to the wartime demand for lumber by expanding their output for home use on the farms. The product of these mills contributes to the war effort through relieving the demand upon commercial mills, says C. W. Simmons, farm forester for the Extension Service. A substantial part of the increased production represents larger processing of hardwoods.

Wartime demand, Simmons says, creates problems in logging and the most efficient use of transportation equipment. Regardless, owners of woodlands should continue selective cutting in order to conserve their timber stands. This may include trees of small diameter which will grow, no larger, and more lumber will be obtained by cutting crooked trees into short logs. Otherwise, cut logs long whenever it is possible. An estimated 10 to 15 percent increase in lumber production can be obtained from 16-footers, for example, than from 12-footers.

and chard expand very little and require only one-half inch of head space; starchy vegetables such as string beans, limas, peas, corn and soybeans expand more when canned and need a full inch of head of space. Regardless of whether the liquid used for filling jars is boiling water or syrup, it must only just cover the food. The only exception to this rule is when canning by the open kettle method, and then jars should be filled to overflowing with boiling hot fruit.

AROUND THE HOUSE...

A leaky water bucket can be stopped-up by putting melted paraffin inside.

Less sugar will be needed if a pinch of salt is added to sour fruits during the cooking period.

Hooks, eyes, and snaps are most satisfactory when sewn on with the buttonhole stitch.

Watering a garden in the evening means less evaporation and more moisture left in the ground.

Additional flavor is given baked beans by adding salt pork which has first been ground fine and fried a delicate brown.

To protect the ends of hemp rope and to prevent them from fraying, wrap well with light but strong twine and then dip the bound ends in shellac.

Instead of spreading newspapers on the inside of bureau drawers to keep them clean, try finishing them with a coat of white enamel.

String beans will be more tender if you cut them twice lengthwise before putting them on to cook.

Most amateur gardeners water their gardens too often and not deeply enough. A good soaking when the ground has become practically dry is the rule for best results.

Mrs. Earl Rogers is improving after an emergency operation in the Lubbock General hospital last Wednesday. If she continues to recover she will probably be released from the hospital on Sunday. Mr. Rogers reported this morning.

Mrs. Clyde Handley underwent surgery at the Lubbock General hospital last Wednesday. At this time she is resting well, reports indicate.

1943 Canning Tips Worth Remembering

Blanching in Steam

Recent tests definitely prove that blanching vegetables in steam saves more essential vitamins than blanching in boiling water. Blanching in steam is a comparatively simple process: Put about one inch of water in the bottom of a deep utensil and bring to a brisk boil. Place vegetable to be blanched in a wire basket or colander. Place that in the utensil containing the rapidly boiling water, cover tightly and steam. Steam for five minutes when canning or preparing vegetables for a quick freeze licker; when dehydrating or brining, steam until vegetable feels soft but isn't completely cooked.

Don't Forget To Salt Vegetables

Salt should be added to all canned vegetables—one teaspoon each pint. Make a habit of putting salt in the jar first where you can see it. Otherwise you may either forget it or salt the vegetables twice.

Safety First

All home-preserved vegetables, except tomatoes, must be cooked at boiling temperature in a covered container for at least ten minutes just before serving. Even if vegetables are to be used for a salad, they must be cooked first, chilled quickly and used immediately.

After Processing

Don't ever invert jars after processing—it's an outdated practice, say home economists. Set hot jars upright on several thicknesses of cloth or newspaper. Avoid drafts. Don't move or handle jars for at least 24 hours—it takes that long to complete the seal. Screw bands may then be removed and re-used.

Don't Fill Jars Too Full

How much headroom to leave at the top of each jar depends on what you're canning. Home economists explain that fruits and such leafy vegetables as spinach

Left side of test illustrated above shows that ordinary linseed oil does not level out well, leaving "hills and valleys" or brush marks. The film in the valleys is thinner and that is where breakdown occurs. When "Vitolized Oil" is used (see right side of test) sharp brush marks do not occur. They are rounded and not sharply defined, resulting in a film of uniform strength.

THE DEBTOR'S PRISON

One of the greatest dangers that can follow price restrictions which do not allow a sufficient operating profit is the idea that government loans or government subsidies can bridge the gap so that production may be continued at less than the actual cost. The danger from this policy is that it opens the door for government ownership or control of industry and business.

Such a system is like the old debtor's prison—when a man could not pay his bills, he was put in prison. The result was he often rotted there, because when in prison, he could not earn the money to get out. The same can easily happen to an industry forced by law to sell below cost of production, and maintain its existence from subsidies or government loans—it might never get out from under such bondage.

Political pressure to force subsidies on producers and distributors, instead of permitting necessary price adjustments, could easily be part of a program to socialize American industry, while the public is lulled with the idea that such a palliative will hold down the cost of living. At best it can but take money out of one pocket and put it in another—costs are not reduced.

If industry can be brought under political domination in this manner, we will all become subjects of Federal thralldom.

Australia, through retirement aid, has furnished American forces with more than 36 million pounds of fresh meats, 20 million pounds of potatoes, 2 1/2 million quarts of milk, and almost 3 1/2 million quarts of milk.

WILL NOT FORGET

It is often said that war is harder for those who remain behind than for those who go. Millions are now experiencing the sleepless nights, the ceaseless worry of remaining at home while others go to war. No small source of concern over loved ones in the service is the fear that they may not receive proper medical care. This can be dispensed with. The men in military service are receiving the best that medical science can give them.

In reviewing the military medical record of the first year after Pearl Harbor, the American Medical Journal says: "During the year the only serious incident from a medical point of view was the jaundice associated with inoculation against yellow fever. The first week of February, 1943, found a typical pneumonia and meningitis most prominent of the febrile diseases but even these were scattering with a few cases here and there and only a score or slightly more of cases of either in the few camps most seriously affected. . . . Since January, 1941, and up to now, excluding battle casualties, the death rate has been the lowest in the history of our army. During World War I 1 patient of each 3 with meningitis died now only 1 in 20 dies. Prompt diagnosis, efficient care and sulfonamides have made the difference."

The American public owes a debt of gratitude to the medical men that it will never be able to fully repay. The countless thousands of men who will return after the war, thanks to the skill of doctors serving in the front lines, will not forget that debt.

Our Merchant Marine

Pepper and Spice

Salem, Mass., so dominated the Pepper and Spice Trade that the Dutch East Indies became known as the 'Salem East Indies'.

Salem ships combed the East Indies and South Sea Islands for sea snails, birds' nests, pearls, shell and sandalwood, for the China trade, found wealth in pepper, whose source was then a native secret.

Captain Jonathan Carnes of Salem, in 1796, accidentally discovered pepper's source in Sumatra. America soon cornered the Pepper trade. In 1805 alone, Salem reshipped to Europe, 7,559,244 pounds.

American merchant ships, managed by private companies, are now carrying tanks and planes for use in driving the Japs out of those same East Indies which played so important a part in our national economy.

American ships in this trade went heavily armed against Malay pirates.

WHO ARE THEY?

You hear, "I see they are going to ration canned milk. What next?" or, "Well, they've started rationing married men." or "They don't know beans about strategy. Now if I . . ." Just who are these vague conversation scapegoats of common conversation called "they"? They are people—honest, earnest, everyday folks who are working hard to make "a go" of a tremendous, thankless job. That pronoun "they" has small part in a healthy democracy.

The Size Of A Ship

A few months ago, a convey of approximately 40 ships sailed from an East Coast port laden with materials for the battle fronts. To fill those ships, it took nearly 300 miles of freight cars. The materials delivered to the loading port originated from 20 different points in the United States.

The city of Peoria, Ill., is named after the Peoria Indians who once made their home in that vicinity.

Views of Neighboring Editors:

The Lynn County News—Just last week the report came that twenty-six more Texans had died recently in Japanese prisons, eight or nine of them being from the Plains. Those Japs evidently are deliberately starving and neglecting the prisoners they have taken until disease takes hold upon them and finally produces death. Such barbarity is enough to make the blood of every American boil. Barbaric Japan must be utterly crushed.

The Slaton Shamite—There is no finer fellow in all West Texas than Uncle George Marriott and most certainly there is not a person in this section of the Plains who has a livelier interest in what is going on. Uncle George knows more young men in the service and keeps up with them by correspondence better than many of the youngsters own parents do. If there is anyone entitled to know what he is "so" many years young then I believe Uncle George is the man who can stick his chest out and in his booming voice tell the world that he still has young fire.

Uncle George is always doing nice things for people and as one of the recipients of his favor, I wish to thank Uncle George for the big bag of big potatoes he brought me along with another big sack of small peanuts. Uncle George has proven time after time that diversification is profitable in this section and his big Irish potatoes prove again that potatoes are a neglected crop in this part of the country.

Lubbock's Avalanche—Queueing is something Lubbockites are learning to tolerate. A lot of people who behave quite well otherwise are very poor sports about standing in queues.

They begin by trying to wedge into the line of people who have been waiting patiently a long time. They join the queue with a scowl that seems to indicate that life has offered them a particular bad lemon by forcing them to stand in line at all. They press forward impatiently, ramming their elbows or their packages into other people's backs.

After all this bad temper display they are not ready for business when they finally reach the window. They have to fish in handbags for papers or change while a crowd behind waits and waits.

And when they finally have finished their business, they leave, muttering about this and that and how much better they could run the works themselves.

Standing in queues is one of the ways you can help fight the war in the home front. You may as well learn to mind your P's and queues.

We know how difficult it is to wait in line behind a woman who has bought out one side of the store, watching her groceries being checked while you stand behind her holding a loaf of bread and a sack of fruit. But what are you going to do with the next few minutes when you rush away; what's your hurry?

The growing of fiber flax, to meet wartime needs, is rapidly expanding in Oregon.

Mrs. L. W. Dalby Is Hostess To All-Day Canning Meeting

On Tuesday, July 27, twenty-one members of the Merry Makers Club met at the Ragtown school house for an all-day canning for the lunch room with Mrs. L. W. Dalby as hostess. There were seven visitors. Mesdames Alma Millson, Jennie Roberts, Madeline Cook, Gerlie Reno, Lala Hughes and Helen Williams and Billie Caldwell.

This is the second canning the club has sponsored. Two hundred and twenty-nine cans were put up of which 114 were corn and the remainder were beans and peas.

Each lady brought a covered dish so at noon a very delicious lunch was served.

It was a full day and many useful and beautiful gifts were exchanged. Some heard from their club jolly.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. J. F. Brandon with Mrs. Woodrow Furr and Mrs. Ed Gossett acting as co-hostesses.

The P-T-A wishes to thank the club at this time for sponsoring the two cannings and to invite any one who will to come and help with another canning which will be held on Wednesday, August 4. The food put up this summer will go a long way toward feeding the school children this winter and help with the war food program. —Reporter

In the bridge games Mrs. Wallace Kimbrough won high score and was presented a jar of strawberry preserves. Several persons tied for high score in the domino games and Fate Williams cut high.

Following the games, guests were invited into the yard where ice-cold melons were served.

Those attending were Messrs. and Misses J. E. Parker, Nona Stone, Frank Nease, Elmer Long, Fate Williams, Wallace Kimbrough, Lee Hedgesock and R. E. Young.

Miss Lois Frances Williams Married In Lubbock Sunday

Traditional nuptial music and decorations provided a suitable background for the recitation of wedding vows for Miss Lois Frances Williams and Captain James C. Arceneaux, Jr., on Sunday at six o'clock in the evening in the chapel of the Lubbock Army Air Field. Captain John F. McKenna officiated with the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Ashley Lawson, organist, played "At Dawning" and "Ave Maria" preceding the ceremony and accompanied Mrs. Harvey Herd as she sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." The Lohengrin wedding march served as the processional and the Army Air Corps song as the recessional.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore for her wedding suit a brown wool model with pink trim, a small veiled flumed hat and lizard accessories. Her shoulder corsage was fashioned from gardenias.

Mrs. John Haskell of Lubbock was matron of honor. She wore a blue wool suit, blue hat and carried antique accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

John Herd of Post served as best man.

The bride, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Williams of Post, was a student of Texas University where she was a member of the Alpha Delta Phi society. Before her marriage she was living in Denver where she was associated with the office force of the Dalby Motor Freight company. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Arceneaux of Ravine, La. He is stationed at Fort Logan, Colorado and is with the administrative department of the Air Corps. He is a graduate of Louisiana State University Law School and has been a member of the army reserve since 1937. He was stationed at air fields in Texas, Louisiana and California before going to Colorado.

Following the wedding the couple left for Colorado.

A large group of Post friends attended the wedding.

At the conclusion of the bridge games the hostess presented the high scoring winner with War Stamps. The honoree was presented with several pieces of her chosen sterling silver. The large and attractive floral arrangements of gladioli and dahlias were presented to persons cutting high. All gifts were then presented to the honor guest.

Fifteen Tips For Housewives

Food pennies, saved here and there pile up into food dollars before you realize it.

There are a hundred and one ways of making small savings in the kitchen—savings that you will find valuable in stretching your food budget in this year of high living costs.

Here are fifteen best tips for saving time, energy and money:

1. Belong to a weekly marketing driving pool. Several housewives can drive in one car to market on Friday or when special prices and best assortments are available. During the week keep lists of foods which need to be replaced. Make out tentative menus. Compare prices in different food advertisements. A notebook kept for this special purpose is very convenient.
2. Select stalks of celery with fresh leaves which can be washed and used as seasoning for soups, stews, meat or fish leaves, and sauces. Dice and cook the tough outside stalks of the celery and add to cream sauce or combine with carrots, peas and turnips creamed. The tender inside stalks of celery are vitamin packed and refreshing served as is, in salad, appetizer or sandwich blends.
3. Select firm heads of lettuce. Wash quickly and store dripping in covered pan, in refrigerator. Use outside leaves in a tossed green salad. Carefully cut out the core of the lettuce head and store the rest for use as needed. When a lettuce cup is desired to hold a blended salad, place the lettuce under running cold water and let the stream of water at the faucet run into the cut-out center, and soon the leaves will easily loosen and can be separated.
4. When melted shortening is called for in cornbread or ginger-bread recipes, melt the shortening right in the pan to be used for baking the bread. As the shortening melts it greases the pan.
5. If there are only a few drops left in a bottle of vanilla, lemon or other extract, add to teaspoon water to the bottle. Cork tightly, shake well and you will have enough liquid to flavor the average cake, cookies or pudding.
6. Flatter gravy gets all the goodness out of a pan used for cooking steaks or chops. After the meat has been removed from the pan, pour in 2 tablespoons boiling water. Shake the pan so the water gets around it and after a minute of boiling pour these drippings over the meat, potatoes, vegetables, or into the soup kettle.
7. After breaking an egg, run your fingers around the inside of the shell to remove all the egg white. From a dozen eggs, you can save almost one egg white.
8. Soaking whole oranges saves water and minerals. If you take the family a little longer to get their oranges, but it does.
9. After squeezing lemons or oranges juice pour a tablespoon of water over the remains, shake it around lightly and you will have more juice.
10. Reheat small slices of leftovers by placing in egg poacher. Cover and heat 5 minutes over low temperature. Rolls or biscuits can also be reheated this same way. Sprinkle them with several drops of water.
11. Do not crowd the frying pan when browning foods. Overcrowding will cause irregular browning often resulting in waste.
12. When you are making gingerbread or molasses cookies and have just enough molasses for this one recipe, clean out the molasses can or glass jar by pouring in the liquid called for in the recipe. Shake it and the milk will collect any molasses sticking to the inside.
13. Pour leftover foods in glass jars, first rinsed out with cold water to prevent sticking. Cool, cover and store in refrigerator. Use up promptly. Each morning inspect the refrigerator for leftover possibilities.
14. If you have an enameled or linoleum covered table, be sure to put bread on a wooden board placed on the table. You can get a small board at low cost. A knife will scratch the enamel and cut linoleum.
15. You can save a lot of silver polish if you wash your silverware in hot soapy water and wipe quickly, directly out of the suds.

H. C. FERGUSON GROWING ACRES OF GARDEN PRODUCTS ON THE AL BIRD RANCH

Acres and acres of watermelons—that is what you would see if you would drive out to the Al Bird ranch. "And that is not all," said H. C. Ferguson who has gone in for gardening on a tremendous scale this year. "I have put fifteen acres in garden stuffs this year and am trying to raise all I can. I supply all we can eat at the ranch and am selling the surplus to the local markets."

This old-timer who helped to lay the brick on many of the buildings in Post when the city was first organized, is very enthusiastic over his gardens. He has five acres in peas, beans, tomatoes, one acre in corn, five acres in cantaloupes, a garden near the ranch house that provides cucumbers, squash, okra, beets, cabbage and other seasonal food stuffs. He has employed the stagger method in planting and will probably have melons and cantaloupes throughout the entire summer. The gardening was started last March and April and has been very productive.

POST-WAR PLANES TO COST ABOUT $2,000

Los Angeles—The air-minded citizen probably will be able to buy a reasonably safe and roomy airplane for about $2,000 after the war, William A. M. Burden, special assistant to the secretary of commerce, predicted recently.

Addressing the chamber of commerce, Burden said three main types of post-war private planes should be built:

A businessman's model for longer trips and Navy type, fast, maneuverable and carrying four or five persons.

A "vacation-class" model designed for safety and ease of control, big enough for a family.

The helicopter or something similar, able to land and take off from small places.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hill visited Sunday with their daughter and family, Mrs. Dillard, Morke of Bruscfield.

Paint Awnings Now
New awnings will be scarce this summer—but sun will beat down as usual. A new, flexible paint recolors old canvas and protects from mildew. Brush or spray paint on last year's faded canvas awnings, porch umbrellas and chairs, and they will look new; the canvas will be pliable, flexible and water-repellent. When paint is used on canvas chairs or cushions, a transparent finishing coat protects against colors' rubbing off onto clothes. For professional-looking two-tone effect, use cellulose tape to mark the color line during painting and design will come out clean and distinct. Fashion note: Dinky canvas play shoes can be given a new bright color with canvas paint.
