Leonard H. Beasley, fireman 1-c, who is attached to the Submarine Division, is now in the South Pacific area. He is the son of Mrs. Helen Beasley who moved several years ago to Arkansas to live near her father. Leonard was a student in Graham school while his parents lived in this county. He went into service last spring.

Mrs. Juanita McBee received word from her husband recently stating that he had been transferred from Sicily, where he has been stationed for the past five months, to "somewhere in Italy." Cpl. McBee is with an Engineering Unit and has been overseas since May. Contrary to public opinion, the Engineers do see combat duty as Cpl. McBee writes home that he has seen "action a-plenty" and is ready for more.

Writes From England

Dear Mr. Truelock:
Thanks very much for your Xmas greeting which I received yesterday. It made good time getting over here. It was nice of you to send it.

How is everything going there by now? It seems a long time since I left there. Very soon I will have put in a year on foreign soil and it has been a rather long year to me, uneventful in most respects—a lot of hard work—of course we do a lot of looking and a little ducking occasionally—just enough to break the monotony. Jerry's very obliging in that matter. How is Marvin? Express to him my best wishes. How are Shorty and Fred? I hope they are enjoying the best of luck wherever they are. I suppose I am getting along about as good as could be expected in the army—have a couple of ribbons, one for being over here and one for being a good boy—they are pretty liberal with their ribbons. The only war I have seen so far has been kinda like looking at the moon—of course the moon looks awfully close at times. Perhaps the next year will move a lot faster than the past one has. We all hope and think so anyway.

I have been fortunate in getting a chance to see a lot of England since I have been over here. I have visited a lot of places that I used to read about such as: Scotland Yard, Buckingham Palace, Windsor Castle, Tower of London, London Bridge, Big Ben, The Houses of Parliament, Eaton College, Stratford-on-Avon, Coventry, Edinburgh, Castle Warwick castle, Lock Lomand, St. Andrew's Golf course (play golf there), and so many other places too numerous to mention. I really think that I could enjoy studying English history now (which I detested while I was in school).

Guess I had better ring off before I have the censor pulling his hair out.

I hope that this finds the P. O. paying you well and that you are having no difficulties at all with it. Extend my kindest personal regards to my many friends there.
Yours truly,
J. R. K...

Food Production Up 50% Over 1917-1918

United States food production is up at least 50 per cent above that of 1917-18, AAA administrator B. F. Vance revealed at a meeting at the University of Texas recently. Wheat acreage has risen from 1,544,000 acres in 1923 to 3,424,000 acres in 1942; rice acreage from 145,000 acres to 392,000 acres; peanuts from 122,000 acres to 896,000 acres.

Chaplain Nat Tracy Writes From Persia

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Tracy have received a very interesting letter from their son Chaplain Nat Tracy who is stationed in Persia. Excerpts from his letter are reported here for Dispatch readers:

I made my first trip north last Monday. I went to Ahwaz and Andimesk which is up near the hills and mountains. I saw two very interesting sights which I want to tell you about. Near Andimesk is the city of the Blind, Diswel, which is built on the banks of the Karun River. This city is probably three thousand years old or more. It is supposed to be mentioned in the Bible but I don't remember where. The bridge across the river has its approaches made of stone which, they say, was constructed by Alexander the Great. The people have dug down into the earth, some places four or five stories beneath the surface and live there. The buildings are of 'dobe mud brick' the color of the earth and look something like the cliff-dwellers of New Mexico. The people live in filth and dirt and have shops and bazaars which look the same way. But here, surprising to say, we did see some fairly clean looking stores—all of them not over ten feet square.

We rode through the main street of the city but could not stop because we were on forbidden territory and the beggar-children would smother us and steal everything we had.

Then on our way back, we stooped by Daniel's Tomb and Queen Esther's Palace. Daniel's Tomb was probably a later built Tomb than Daniel, but it is many hundred years old. It has a high white steeple with surrounding brick walls and a court yard, but otherwise was not remarkable.

But the thing I enjoyed most was Queen Esther's Palace. In the middle 1800's, a French Archaeological society rebuilt this palace on its original site and it is today about as it was then. It is on a little hill and towers above one as he approaches it. A sloping passageway leads from the center of one side up both sides, around the ends continuing up on the other side.

I went up the side approach, on top the drive way which was wide enough for a car and knocked at the gate on the other side. Finally I was admitted and escorted over the palace. I could not enter the main rooms for they were sealed, but the court yards, the high towers, the top and other parts were easily reached. You can imagine how I enjoyed this. The building is very large, I suppose it is 300 by 600 feet or maybe larger.

When I got up on the highest tower I could see the valley below, the valley where a smaller stream wandered around in a large valley before flowing into the larger river and I imagined life as it was there in Queen Esther's time. Just over to the side was the ruins of Shushan the palace where much of the story of Daniel, Esther, and Israel of the Exile was laid. I could see the remains of the foundation of that palace which must have been very immense in its greatest glory. I simply had to take my hat off and dream a bit of that time so long ago. I could imagine the palace, the cultivated—but now somewhat barren valley over to one side, the camel caravans—of which I saw two—making their way to the palace and all its life and activity—the desert on one side and the cooler valley on the other. I wished for you then to enjoy that moment with me.

Coming back we passed a herd of camel being driven back to their home for the night and did they smell to high heaven—but it all was about as it was in the ancient days.

I hope to make some more journeys before our time is up here in this pagan land but am not sure that I can but I will try.
Yours,
Chas. Nat Tracy

HINTS WORTH REMEMBERING ABOUT STORING POTATOES

With the all-time record crop of Irish potatoes now available, the government suggests buying them by the bushel and storing them against any possible future scarcity. While there are a number of methods for home storing potatoes, all are very simple, home economists say these are the cardinal principles to remember: 1. Potatoes must be mature and free from bruises or rot. Don't wash. Brush off excess soil using care to avoid scratching and marring. Store in barrels, bins, boxes, baskets, crates or on the floor. 2. Keep in cool place but don't allow them to freeze. 3. Storage space should be moist and ventilated. 4. Protect from light—if necessary, cover with paper bags.

Married women who secure their social security number cards in their maiden names should request the nearest field office to issue cards bearing their present names.

Improved SUNDAY International SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for November 21

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education, used by permission.

HONESTY IN ALL THINGS

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:15; Leviticus 19:11, 13; Luke 19:11-13, 45, 46.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt not steal.—Exodus 20:15.

Honesty seems to be so obviously right that one might expect it always and everywhere—if bitter experience had not indicated the opposite to be true.

As a matter of fact, dishonesty has become so common that a person who is strictly honest is a bit of a novelty. Some even think he is peculiar.

Under such circumstances the Christian needs to be vigilant lest he also accommodate his own ideas of honesty and begin to justify little evasions rather than being absolutely upright.

The teaching of Scripture on this matter is very plain.

I. Honesty and Fair Dealing (Exod. 20:15; Lev. 19:11, 13).

The very commandment against stealing implies that men have a right to that which they have made, earned, or saved. If no one had property rights there could be no stealing. Some of our modern laws deny such rights, but their reasoning is clearly not biblical or Christian.

"Thou shalt not steal" forbids every kind of theft, and the passages from Leviticus indicate that this includes more than robbery or ordinary stealing.

It relates to every kind of false dealing with another, such as oppression or the withholding of just wages. That, too, is stealing in God's sight.

Perhaps we ought to be more specific and apply the truth to our own day. Stealing includes such things as looting on one's job, "borrowing" money from the cash drawer, taking goods from the stock with which one is working, stealing another man's sermon and preaching it as one's own, "lifting" material out of another man's book without credit, contracting debts which one can never pay, using false weights and measures, adulterating food or other material, "watering" milk for sale, selling worthless stock, dodging taxes or lying to the tax assessor, or using a slug instead of a nickel in the telephone to escape proper payment.

One might add gambling (which is taking another man's property by skill or by chance), making an unduly large profit on the labor of another, making money out of the sorrows and failures of others, etc. To be honest means to be fair—and that has broad implications.

II. Honesty and Restoration (Luke 19:1-10).

The reality and thoroughness of Zacchaeus' conversion was indicated by his willingness to restore all the money he had unjustly (but legally, note that!) taken from his fellow citizens—and that in fourfold measure.

Insofar as it is possible to do so, the honest person will make right any known injustice. To be right with God must mean that we are to be right with men. The testimony of many Christians could be presented to show that they have only entered upon real peace and usefulness as they have made consistent effort to right every wrong, to pay every debt.

Often such actions open opportunities for Christian testimony and point others to the redemption in Christ, which makes a man live right as well as talk right.

III. Honesty and Religion (Luke 19:45, 46).

One might think it unnecessary to urge honesty upon religious folk. They ought to be honest. But here we see in sharp contrast to the quick honesty and restitution of Zacchaeus, the stubborn disobedience and dishonesty of the priests in the temple. Jesus had already cleansed the temple of the traffic in money-changing and the sale of animals for sacrifice practiced there (see John 2:13-17). On that occasion He rebuked them because they made His Father's house "a house of merchandise."

Had they known the change of heart of a converted Zacchaeus they would have heeded His admonition. But they did not believe in Christ and went on with their ungodly desecration of the temple area until it became "a den of thieves" (v. 46).

What happened so long ago needs application to our present day. So apt is the quotation from the "Lesson Commentary" which we have used before that we repeat it now.

Speaking of "the gringos in our own churches" the writer says, "Is a church honest when it assumes obligations that it cannot meet, and is then forced to use all sorts of questionable means to raise money for the benefit of the church? Is a church honest when it turns a building consecrated to the worship of God into a restaurant or a theater? Is a church honest that turns its pulpit into a lecture platform for the discussion of current events or the review of popular books or plays?"

Charlie Jenkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Jenkins, who is in San Diego, California, wrote the Post Dispatch recently and gave some interesting data on his school work. He is at the Naval Air Station and is classified as Seaman, second class. His letter follows:

Just a few words about my schooling . . . I like it fine and will finish in two more weeks—just after I make my parachute jump. I am really looking forward to that as I know it will be quite a thrill to me as I have never made a jump before. My average in school for 10 weeks has been 96, not so bad is it? I have one more test coming up and that is the final examination. This has been quite an interesting school to me. I have studied history, assembly of all types of parachutes and have also packed and repaired all types of parachutes and have learned to sew on the machine, believe it or not. I enjoy getting the paper every week as papa (F. M. Jenkins) sends it to me.

With best wishes to all.

PRISONER OF WAR MAILING INFORMATION

A cable received from International Red Cross Commission, Geneva, late in August indicated new mail regulations for Japanese government prisoners of war held by Japan, effective "after the present notification has been received."

The most specific information now advised is that letters not be more than 25 words in length. The request previously that letters be typewritten or printed is now established regulation, with the proviso be "in capital letters clearible." Letters not complying with these regulations, or those not correctly addressed, stated, will not be forwarded to the Japanese military authorities. An endeavor will be made to have the Japanese liberalize this ruling, but it will be observed pending further instructions.

The cable also stressed "letters to prisoners of war contain only personal news, and that they must not contain any military, political information or opinion." Mail to civilian "interns" in Japan or "overseas Japanese territories" is not restricted by words in length, and it is explicitly required that such be typewritten or written in capital letters.

Bruce Sheppard Writes Interesting Letter From South Pacific

"Dear Ashley"—Bruce Sheppard wrote from the South Pacific area this week—"Sorry to wait so long to answer your last letter, but I got it just a couple of days before I left for Australia. I can't tell you where I am but I may give you some idea what it looks like here. Every where you go you see jungle, a lot of coconuts, bananas, and etc. There are a lot of natives here, can't describe them but they are all black.

About the first week I was here I saw Lewis Nance. It was sure nice seeing someone from home. Probably you know where he is for I think he was able to tell where he was up until a few months ago.

"I guess Clyde is still in England. I had rather be there than here. Maybe over there I could buy me a bicycle. Here you can't buy anything for there isn't anything to sell. We are issued free of charge everything we need, cigarettes, soap, etc. Pretty cheap living.

How is Fate, Raymond, and all the boys. Tell them all hello for me. Will close for this time and will write again soon. Best regards to all your family."

Bruce was an employee of the Piggly Wiggly store before going into service.

'Forts' Raid Schweinfurt

By Doris Fleeson

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Woman's Home Companion.)

I was lucky. By chance I walked right into preparations for one of the greatest bombing missions in history. This was the vast raid on Schweinfurt. I saw our boys take off and I saw them return.

The small world of a bomber base in England is organized with utter precision toward one end—to get those planes off the ground, over the target and home. One mission follows another and everybody knows exactly what to do or is told. Outwardly it is calm, but in the background is always one brutal fact: some of our aircraft do not return.

Americans and the RAF share their secret skills but not their way of life. Our base is a piece of America—food, equipment, wise-cracks. Few English faces are seen and these are usually liaison officers.

Everybody knew that the coming raid on Schweinfurt was to be something special, that there were some of the most important targets ever bombed anywhere. The Nazis are aware how vital ball bearings are to the war and the plants that make them had been tucked deep into the mountain folds of Bavaria. The Nazis knew Allied fighter planes could not carry enough gasoline to protect the invading bombers which would have to face Nazi fighter fire for hundreds of miles. But Fortresses have firepower to protect themselves and they have a bomb-sight to hit any target.

Restricted to Post.

Finally the crews were briefed. But weather forced cancellation. So important was security on this raid, Colonel Harding restricted to the post every man who attended the briefing, gave special orders that they were not to discuss it among themselves and cut off telephones.

Colonel Harding gave the group final instructions. A West Pointer from West Virginia, he has ice-blue eyes, a quiet manner and a fistful of medals. The latest of these is a silver star for gallantry and achievement in leading bombing raids over enemy territory.

"Don't let the boys tell you they aren't scared on raids," Colonel Harding told me. "Nobody could be such a fool as not to be frightened when flak and fighters come at him. I've been scared plenty."

I was assured by the boys that Harding's briefing technique was okay. One thing the boys can't stand, they told me, was what they called "drip." They know what they are fighting for. What they want to be told is why the target is so important, so that if they get hurt they can feel it's worth it.

Maj. John Kidd of Cleveland led the group off the field. Three squadron leaders seconded him. "Sweating it out" is the air force's inelegantly accurate phrase for the business of waiting for the planes to return from a raid. The waiting is undramatic but very wearing.

'Happy to Be Alive.'

Outwardly all went on as before after the bombers roared down the runway at the base. Another mission went out and returned. It was a milk run over Holland. Another was briefed but canceled. After many long hours, the Fortresses came back. The gleam of a major's oak leaf on a red fez perched at a rakish angle over a grinning Irish face was the herald. The wearer of the fez was Major Egan; his simple heartfelt greeting was: "I'm very happy to be alive."

Then from all mouths tumbled out stories of the man-made hell they had been through, beginning hours before the target was reached. All agreed that nothing like it in size, venom and duration was ever before experienced in aerial warfare. All around were fighters, Forts blowing up in flame, and the thunder of guns without end. The Nazis arched strings of blinding new rocket shells.

The Fortresses battled German fighters for 2 1/2 hours—the longest engagement in the history of heavy bombings—but they had gone over their target and got away.

A measure of the raid was the volatility of the crews who made it.

Their talk lasted through their days of rest and was still going strong when I left the base. Crews are encouraged to talk, of course, not only to help get it out of their systems but to keep intelligence officers fully informed. What they say might help greatly in planning the next encounter with the Nazis.

Sgt. J. B. Jones' wife received several letters from him last week. He can now tell where he is for the first time in seven months. He had seen many interesting sights while on Attu. Jones is going to try to send some Christmas gifts home. Sgt. Jones is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Jones of Gordon community and is now stationed in Hawaii.

Cpl. John L. Jenkins wrote his wife (the former Olga Mae Jones) that he and J. B. Jones were still together and glad to get back to civilization again.

Cpl. Fulton Fletcher wrote his mother that he was on his way back to the place in Australia where he is stationed after spending a furlough in civilization.

Lt. and Mrs. W. E. Pharr and baby came Monday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Johnson and her sister, Mrs. Aubrey McNeeley and family of Hackberry. Mrs. Pharr (Julia) had an imbedded tooth extracted at Lubbock before they returned home Saturday. Lt. Pharr was recently transferred to Norman, Okla. for a short time so they decided to continue to live in Shawnee.

Mrs. Marvin Truelock's twin brother, Foster Fletcher last week received the rank of Lieutenant. This flying instructor is stationed at San Antonio.

Mrs. G. N. Smallwood has received her Christmas present from her son, Harvey, now in the Southwest Pacific. There were several hand-woven articles.

Elton B. Carter has written to his mother, Mrs. C. T. Anderson, that he has been moved a long way to a general hospital, but failed to even mention the continent or island. He has been hospitalized for several months because of back trouble.

THE OPA PROGRESSES ... BACKWARD

"A diatribe recently emitted by the OPA with intent to shame complainers about rationing," says the Portland Oregonian, "tells us that our forefathers did without sugar until the thirteenth century, without buttered bread until the fifteenth, without potatoes until the sixteenth, without coffee, tea and soap until the seventeenth, without gas, matches and electricity until the nineteenth. A common comment on this record is that our forefathers also did without OPA."

Our forefathers also did without false teeth, safety razors, patent toilets, and thousands of articles too numerous to mention. They didn't have department stores, chain stores, milk in bottle, canned food or bath tubs.

Eddie Rickenbacker and his companions starved on a raft for nearly a month and still lived to tell the tale. But is that any parallel we should seek to follow? If our national economy has created shortages, at a time when surpluses are needed, we can do without as our forefathers did if necessary.

Our planning and energies, however, should be directed toward increased production and progress, the constant aim of our forefathers.

William Caxton was the first to print a book in England.

NO UTOPIA

Let no one be deluded with the thoughts that the railroads are going to come out of this war into a transportation Utopia. Ernest E. Norris, President of the Southern Railway System, presents a striking picture of postwar conditions that the railroads know they will face. He says: "On the debit side of our ledger, we will find these items:

"The railroads will be in the worst physical condition they have ever been in; Worse even than they were at the end of World War I—because they are now being used much more intensively than they were during that war period.

"They will need rail, ties, ballast, cars, locomotives, machines of every description, repair parts galore, and a thousand other things that have been denied them by the restrictions of war.

"They will be saddled with a continuing load of taxes that would have been called fatal just a few years ago.

"They will have the highest level of wage rates in all their history. These, together with iron-clad working rules, will continue labor cost of railroading at its all-time peak.

"They will be regulated by government, as they are now, in respect to almost every detail of their income and outgo...

"They will be faced with competition, the like of which they never encountered before."

The credit side of the ledger, according to Mr. Norris, will include stronger post-war rail financial structures as a result of wartime reductions in funded debt; organization and personnel will be fairly intact and hardened by doing the impossible over and over again. The railroads will have the appreciation and the good will of the American people for a war job superbly done. With imagination and courage typical of a railroad man, Mr. Norris observes: "I dare to predict, without reservation, that the railroads will lick their postwar problems to a frazzle; that they will go on... to higher levels of usefulness and greater success than they have ever known before."

"The American people respond better to a statement of the need under the word 'please' and 'serve' than they do under the word 'verboten.'"—Herbert Hoover.

Lynn County News—"Tell the truth, the whole truth, about the treatment we receive. We can stand any reprisals. But tell Washington to send another ship soon." This was the appeal made by prisoners of the Japs left behind to those repatriates leaving for home abroad the Gripsholm recently, according to a story sent to newspapers in this country by Royal Arch Gunnison, a former American newspaper correspondent in China, Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines, who was made a prisoner of the Japs when Manila fell and who is now one of the repatriates on the Gripsholm. American prisoners of the Japs are being treated with barbaric cruelty, according to Gunnison. There are 1303 abroad the Gripsholm but 6,000 are still left in Japanese prisons. Nearly half of those being sent home are former missionaries, 500 of them being Protestants and 162 being Catholics. Most of the others are business men, representing business firms in America. These repatriates are underweight and badly run down physically, so that their badly worn clothes hang on them like sacks. Many of them are dejected and some of them slightly "cracked" mentally. All this attests to the fact that the Japs, morally and spiritually, are yet nothing more than cruel barbarians. They are trained in the arts of cruelty and deception, with little sense of honor, and America is going to have to deal with them now and hereafter for a long time as barbarians.

Country Gentleman—Confused as we sometimes are by all those strings of capital letters, signifying something or other official in Washington, we believe a hearty "You said it" will go up for an idea suggested by Miss Anna Carlson in the McPherson, Kansas, Republican. She expressed the hope that the postwar planners won't forget to include among their plans one for giving the alphabet back to the children.

The Texas Spur—Well, Navy Day has passed, without any essay on our part to persuade readers that the United States needs a strong Navy.

The publicity policy of the Navy Department has prevented the people of this country from understanding the role played by warships and cargo vessels in the present war.

We are not able to say that the silence with which the Navy cloaks its operations is erroneous although the public finds it difficult to believe that there would be danger in a more liberal revelation of naval operations.

At the request of Catherine the Great, John Paul Jones once became Vice Admiral of the Russian Fleet.

Bride Is Party Honoree On Tuesday Afternoon, Nov. 9

Mrs. W. H. Childs, the former Lois Custer, was honored with a shower Tuesday, Nov. 9, in the home of Miss Frances Terry. A delightful program was enjoyed by everyone. It consisted of a piano solo by Mary Margaret Duckworth, "People Will Say We're In Love"; solo by Maxine Tucker, accompanied by Mary Margaret Duckworth; two readings were given by Hazel Cash; "You Would Be So Nice to Come Home Town," a duet by Mary Helen Robertson and Hazel Cash, accompanied by Miss Duckworth. After the program, all took part in giving advice to the bride and groom.

The gifts were then opened by the bride and many beautiful gifts, including a set of pottery dishes, were admired by all. Many sent gifts who were unable to attend. Delicious refreshments were served the guests.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

A special Thanksgiving sermon will be conducted Sunday at the First Christian church according to word received this morning from Frank Crow, pastor, who is a student in Texas Christian University. A special offering will be taken.

"The Bible, the Most Misused Book" will be the topic for the night service. The pastor hopes that a large group will hear this sermon as he expects to bring out some vitally important points.

A cordial welcome awaits all who would like to worship with us, he continued.

WE'RE STILL FAR FROM COUNTY WAR FUND QUOTA

What's happened to Garza county? Never before have we failed to meet a quota that was set to help take care of the War Needs. The War Fund drive quota is far short of the goal.

We are lagging behind almost all other counties in our district. A number of Texas counties have already met their quotas in this nationwide effort to raise desperately needed money for USO, Greek Relief, United Service Men's League, and fourteen other home and foreign agencies.

Our quotas are high . . . but the quotas of other counties are high too. Our incomes are high . . . now is the time to give.

If you are not called on to give, mail your check to your United War Chest Treasurer John Herd.

Garza county could well take to her heart the slogan made popular last year by President Roosevelt:

"WE CAN, WE WILL, WE MUST."

Southland News

Mrs. Marvin Truebeck, Correspondent

Sunday, the Church of Christ was the only one of the four local churches to give a definite decision to adopt Mrs. Barney Walker's plan for a cooperative Christmas program and play of the Nativity for the Sunday night of December 21. We hope to have the other decisions next week; so that we may assign the parts. The play includes special music and several Christmas songs. If the shepherds are appointed to one church, the Wise Men to another, etc., the entire play may be ready with only one or two practices of the entire cast in the school auditorium. Several have suggested a community Christmas tree, also; but there is the scarcity of candy, nuts and fruit to be considered.

School Superintendent J. P. Hewlett is realizing his life-long ambition of adopting a boy. Last Friday he brought 8-year-old John Kieth Becham from Milan Orphans' Home, Lubbock. We understand.

To lessen the mailing load for December, the Postal Department advises that most of the Christmas packages be mailed in November. Many local people are taking advantage of the mail order houses full stock and are ordering their gifts early.

The Southland OES held a rummage sale in Slaton the 13th. Julia Kellum and Annie Landers were the salesladies and even with six other rummage sales going on the same block, they were happy to report their sales total of $94.50.

Friday afternoon, to celebrate Armistice Day and also the end of six weeks' exams, the faculty and student body gathered in the auditorium for a show song.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady King and son were Sunday visitors of her aunt, Mrs. Pariah, who lives across the canyon.

Rev. E. C. Armstrong is a resident here until the decision of the next annual Methodist conference.

E. F. Parker had a family reunion, one of those rare ones among large families now. His son, Billy of Liberal, Kansas is here on leave. His daughters, Mrs. Mary Bowlin and baby who recently visited their husband and father stationed in Nebraska and Miss Elizabeth Parker of Ft. Worth.

J. L. Bartlett's who moved here Thursday had as their guests last week, their grandson, Odell Owens and wife of Wichita Falls and the Bartlett's daughter, Mrs. Van Owens.

The J. L. Taylor's son, J. L., is now stationed in Tacoma, Wash.

On Nov. 18 there was a called meeting of the Order of Eastern Star of Southland for the purpose of a memorial ceremony. Mesdames Walter Kellum, Kenneth Davies, Hub Haire and Riley Wood attended the reception held for their Deputy Grand Matron, Imogene Purison, Monday evening at Tahoka.

The G. N. Smallwoods were Sunday guests of former residents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hawthorne of Lubbock.

The Assembly of God church located in the store building just back of the Double U Building are in a revival meeting. Rev. Donald Newman of Clarks N. M. is doing the preaching. Special singing.

Fifteen Quilts Made By Graham Club for Red Cross

The Graham Homemaker's club met on Thursday afternoon Nov. 11th with Mrs. Mary Cowdrey. There were seven visitors and fifteen members present.

Two more quilts were finished for the Red Cross making a total of fifteen that the club has donated and quilted and the Graham school children pieced one top and the women of the community quilted it and gave it to the Red Cross.

At the next meeting each member and anyone else that wishes too is asked to bring all their old papers and then the papers will be turned over to the proper persons in the paper drive.

It was also decided to have our Xmas tree on the 16th of December with Mrs. Hoover.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Myrtle Cox with her daughter, Mrs. Naomi Norman, as co-hostess. This meeting falls on Nov. 25th which will be Thanksgiving day. A committee was appointed to get a program for the afternoon.

Refreshments were served to the following visitors: Meses Carrie Wall, G. W. Lee, Ethel Howard and little daughter, Dee Cowdrey, Wynona Gossett of Bryan and Misses Billie and Jo Ella Cowdrey. Members were Meses. Claude Fluitt, Rene Fluitt, Alma McBride, Minnie Wright, Pearl Wallace, Ada Mae Tucker, Dora Redman, Vivian Davis, Dorothy Cowdrey, Naomi Norman, Mae Norman, Myrtle Cox, Mervie Hoover, Lola Peel and the hostess. —Reporter

Patriotic Program Is Observed By PTA On November 11

The Parent-Teacher Association and the Senior Culture club met in a joint meeting Wednesday afternoon, November 10th.

Mrs. J. E. Parker, president of the P-TA, presided during the business meeting and the Culture club president, Mrs. T. L. Jones, had charge of the program.

The flag was presented by Marshall Mason, Jr., and the Pledge of Allegiance was given, after which the "Star Spangled Banner" was sung.

Three songs rendered by Miss Kral and a choral group from the grade school were enjoyed.

Mrs. Esma Cash conducted a Youth Panel. Discussions on "Teen Trouble" were given by Norma Joy Hudman, Wanda Thomas and Alma Outlaw.

Junior Culture Club To Meet With Margaret Stone

The Junior Culture club will meet in the home of Miss Margaret Stone on November 23. Following the roll call, Miss Inez Caffey will have charge and will direct the program. The subject of Medicine will be discussed. New treatments will be discussed by Mary Kelly and new drugs by Mattie Evelyn Stone.

PRISCILLA CLUB

The Priscilla Club will meet with Mrs. Bob Warren Friday at 3:30 o'clock.

Helen Jo Hundley Named "Who's Who" Student Recently

Miss Helen Jo Hundley was chosen by the student body and faculty of McMurry college to represent the college in "Who's Who Among American Colleges and Universities." She was chosen along with six other girls from a field of thirteen.

Requirements for membership are character, scholarship, leadership in extra curricular activities, and potentiality for future usefulness to business and society.

Who's Who Among Students was originated with the idea of creating one national basis of recognition for students, devoid of politics, initiation fees, and dues, and was conceived more than ten years ago. After two years of research, correspondence, travel, and interviews with college officials, personnel managers, and others, to determine whether there was need for such a publication as Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, the first book came into print in 1934-35.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hundley, parents of Helen Jo, received a notice from the dean of the college, W. B. McDaniel, recently congratulating them on the selection of their daughter for this honor. In concluding his letter the dean said, "Congratulations on a job well done."

ARMISTICE DAY IS QUIET IN POST

Post probably saw its quietest Armistice since the day was designated as a National holiday.

Not a sign of festivity was displayed either by voice, or by news of citizens leaving town to celebrate at ball games, etc.

Just because the Armistice did not prove permanent is no reason why we should forget the sacrifices the men made in World War I and continue to observe its

Grade School News

Miss Bonnie McMahon, Reporter Class Compositions

The following stories were written by students in Mrs. McCre's health class. In addition to fire prevention stories, talks and class discussions, we have had several fire drills recently.

The Fire

One evening late Paul and Janet were sitting lazily on the front door steps. "What shall we do?" asked Janet. "Oh, let's ask if we may build just a small fire and play," said Paul. "Oh no we mustn't play with fire, don't you remember the safety rules, Paul?" asked Janet.

Barbara Lewis Health, Grade 5-2

John Goes Camping

Once John went camping with his mother and sister. They built a fire and began cooking the food they brought with them. They had a nice fire and John said "I am glad that there isn't a forest fire."

Annie Mae Pierce Health, Grade 5-2

Third Grade Unit

Mrs. Nola Brister and Miss Theilma Cramer's third grade pupils have begun an interesting study of Pilgrims.

They have read several stories and have learned some interesting things about the customs, religious ideas, home life, and how food was obtained by the Pilgrims and Indians.

They know that the Pilgrims came to America Dec. 20, 1620, and that was three hundred and twenty-three years ago.

The pupils have drawn several attractive original pictures to illustrate Pilgrim life.

The last part of the unit will be a picture show, showing the life of the Pilgrims from the time they left England to their life with the Indians in the new world.

New Teacher

Mrs. Nina Wright of Childress, Texas is teaching in Mrs. Labeff's place. Mrs. Labeff moved to Lubbock.

Mrs. H. Leroy Bell, her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. H. Leroy Bell, Jr., and two daughters, Mrs. Valde Jones and Mrs. F. E. Balshaw, all of Texas City, were guests last week of Mrs. Bell's mother Mrs. Ella Littlefield, and her sisters, Mrs. Gladys Demson, and Mrs. Thelma Kishandoll.

Mr. and Mrs. Giles Connell are in Denver where Mrs. Connell is taking a series of medical treatments.

LATEST MARCH OF TIME "YOUTH IN CRISIS" COMING TO GARZA THEATRE SOON

"Youth In Crisis," the latest March of Time, tells the story of war's effect on the youth of the U. S. It will be seen next Wednesday and Thursday at the Garza.

Mental or nervous instability is responsible for one fourth of all draft rejections among white youth, says the film, but the upsets of war are not limited to draftees. The flaring old repressions is seen at home among the youth in race-rioting, misguided "V-girls," and the rising tide of juvenile delinquency.

Door-key kids, trailer settlements, broken homes, add to the problem. War's excitement opens to youth a new field of temptations—marijuana, drinking, obscene books—outlets for over-stimulated emotions. High wages make youth hard to handle. And young girls of thirteen and up see a hero in every uniform, and flout parental authority to make dates.

Dramatic and entertaining handling of a difficult subject makes this a film of interest to every American home.

Raymond Young is in the Lubbock Sanitarium. He underwent surgery there on Monday. He is an employee of the Piggly Wiggly store.

Mormonism originated in New York in 1830.
