Five-Man Garza County Drouth Relief Committee Begins Operations

With Garza named as one of the 152 Texas counties President Eisenhower has declared eligible for government assistance to farmers and ranchers, machinery was set in motion here Wednesday afternoon for operating the drouth relief program.
At a meeting in the Production and Marketing Administration office, Avery Moore, Jr. and O. L. Weakley were named to round out a five-man committee which already included Claude E. Spence, chairman of the county PMA committee; County Agent Lewis Herron and Perry Walker of Tahoka, FHA administrator for Garza and Lynn counties.
Mike Custer, Garza county PMA officer, received a telegram Wednesday morning from B. F. Vance, chairman of the state PMA committee, advising him of the appointment of Spence as chairman of the committee and Herron and Walker as members. The telegram continued:
"Please call meeting immediately of county agent and FHA representative and select a prominent farmer or rancher and a local banker who are vitally interested in the welfare of agriculture and understand its problems to serve on committee with you."
Vance's telegram added that specific instruction for operating the program will be sent soon. Earlier, Custer had announced that the first relief will be in the form of a carload of cottonseed pellets to be used as livestock feed. The feed will be distributed under the direction of the local PMA office at $35 a ton, which is about half the regular price, Custer said.
Custer also announced he had been authorized to order immediately 2,000 bushels of corn and 200 tons of cottonseed cake for use in the relief program. Although the general picture is the same throughout the 152-county area designated for drouth relief, County Agent Herron Tuesday briefly outlined some of the reasons Garza County is included.
Herron said the only growing crops are on approximately 6,000 irrigated acres of the county's 110,000 acres of cultivated soil. This means, he said, that about 92 per cent of the cropland is either idle or planted in cotton which is not yet up.
The over-all picture, he said, is equally bleak for ranchers. Rangeland is in bad condition, with no grass whatever, and stock water very low.
The President's designation of the drouth-stricken areas was made following Secretary of Agriculture Benson's visit Saturday to the American Cotton Congress in Lubbock. He made a personal inspection tour of the drouth area.
After returning from his tour of the countryside, Benson heard reports from area farmers and others at a meeting in the lobby of Lubbock's Caprock Hotel.
Attending the meeting from Garza County were: Custer, Spence, Herron, Will Wright, Oscar Graham, Ozell Williams, Elvis Davis, Glenn M. Davis, E. F. Schmedt, J. E. Birdwell and Novis Rodgers.

OFF FOR ALABAMA—The J. L. Ballentine family is shown here just before leaving on a vacation trip to points in Alabama, including their former home town of Tallahassee. Mr. Ballentine is overseer of the carding and spinning departments at the Postex Mill, which closed Saturday for a one-week vacation. The Ballentines are among the many families connected with the mill who are out of town on vacation and July 4th trips. The Ballentines have been residents of Post for 21 months. In the picture, left to right, are Mr. Ballentine, Kay, Jack, Jane, Judy and Mrs. Ballentine.—(Post Dispatch Photo).

Jaycees Name Committee On Park Project

Directors of the Post Junior Chamber of Commerce appointed a park committee and filled three vacancies in the organization at a meeting last Thursday night.
On the park committee, which is to work with the City of Post and other groups in development of the park project, are Malcolm T. Bull, chairman; Bud Everett and Giles McCrary.
Jack Lancaster, a member of the Post Grade School faculty, was appointed vice president to replace L. J. Richardson, Jr., who has moved to Brownfield.
D. C. Roberts, Jr., was appointed to the board of directors to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of J. D. Barrow, who has also moved away. Bull was named chairman of the projects committee to replace Charles T. Meacham, who recently moved to Lubbock.
The Jaycees will hold a regular meeting tonight in the Pickett Abstract Company office. The group is on a summer meeting schedule, meeting every other Thursday night. No meals will be served at any of the summer meetings.

City Installs New Pump; Lets Contract For Line Additions

Two long steps toward safe-guarding the City of Post against any future water problems due to inadequate facilities, were taken this week with installation of a new 975-gallon-a-minute booster pump, and awarding of contracts for construction of approximately 14 blocks of new water mains.
Installation of the new equipment at the pump station five miles west of town began Monday, a few hours after its arrival. The electrician was finishing his work Wednesday afternoon, and the pump was expected to be turned on today, according to R. H. Tate, city utilities superintendent.
Until the new pump has been thoroughly tested and is running on schedule, city water users are asked to continue their cooperation in conservation of water. If in doubt about the pressure, they are asked to call the utilities superintendent at the City Hall or at his home.
The new pump, which replaces one with only 530-gallon-a-minute capacity, will get the job done, but we are asking continued cooperation of the public until it is running without a hitch," Tate said. The old pump, he explained, has been dismantled and if something should happen to the new one, the city would be in dire straits for water.
Tate said the city reservoir, helped by Tuesday's shower, lacks only three feet of being full and that water pressure generally is back up near normal.

EDUCATOR IS SPEAKER AT BANQUET

Says Lionism Can Cure Ailing World

"There is nothing wrong with this world that a good dose of Lionism won't cure," Dr. Doyle D. Jackson, professor of education at Texas Technological College, said Tuesday night at the Post Lions Club's annual ladies night installation banquet held in the school lunch room.
Calling the Lions the "world's biggest doers," Dr. Jackson, who has been a member for 29 years, traced the development of the organization from its founding by Melvin Jones in 1914 to the present day.
Installation of new officers by Walter Crider, master of ceremonies, preceded Dr. Jackson's address. Those taking office were Virgil L. Short, president; Phil Trammell, first vice president; H. W. Schmidt, second vice president; Jess Rogers, third vice president; Weaver Moreman, secretary-treasurer; E. E. Pierce, Lion tamer; Ben Owen, tail-twister, and Walter Johnson and Will Scarborough, directors.
In his talk, Dr. Jackson called attention to the prominent role the State of Texas has taken in the development of Lionism. The first full-fledged national convention, he said, was held in Dallas in 1917, and the first club that turned out to be a "genuine Lions club" was organized at San Antonio in 1915.
Dr. Jackson, who is author of the book, "What Every Lion Should Know," said that at the end of the fiscal year June 30, 1952 a total of 116,276 community activities by the thousands of Lions clubs was reported by See LIONS BANQUET, Page 8

CECIL BULLARD'S HOBBY IS SHOOTING MARBLES

Newsboys Enjoy Trips, Too

Cecil Bullard, one of the Post Dispatch's newsboys, is enjoying a well-earned vacation this week along with other members of his family, including his older brother, Kenneth, who is also a Dispatch newsboy.
Cecil, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Bullard, paused long enough after "checking in" last Thursday afternoon to inform the Dispatch staff that he would not be here to sell papers this week.
"We're going on a week's vacation to Buchanan Lake and come back by way of Graham," Cecil announced. "I won't be here to sell papers next week, but I'll be back on the job by the following Thursday."
Cecil and his brother, who is 13 years old, have built up a nice business in the north section of the city, using their bicycles to carry copies of the Dispatch to purchasers.
Cecil, who has been a newsboy for the paper about a year, always sells all the papers he takes out. He says he has a number of regular customers and that he adds new ones every week.
He'll be a fifth grade pupil in Post Grade School during the 1953-54 school term. His hobby is shooting marbles, at which See POST NEWSBOY, Page 8

Stores And Offices Here To Close Saturday, July 4

The 177th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence will be observed here Saturday, with practically all business houses and public offices closed throughout the day.
July Fourth is one of the holidays on which a group of local business and professional men agreed to close their firms at an open meeting called several months ago by the Post Chamber of Commerce.
Like this year's Memorial Day, July Fourth falls on a Saturday, which presents an additional problem. However, Mrs. Fritz Greenfield, Chamber of Commerce secretary, reported Wednesday that indications are that "just about at the business places will be closed during the day."
No public observance is scheduled for the day. The annual See JULY 4 HOLIDAY, Page 8

Public Relations Course Continues

An eight-hour course in public relations, being sponsored by the Post Chamber of Commerce, is to close tonight, with certificates to be awarded those who have attended as many as three of the four nights.

D. C. Arthur, superintendent of the Post schools, will "pinch hit" for C. D. Lee from July 1 to Aug. 15 as president of the Rotary Club. It was announced this week.

Scouts, Brownies To Sell Cookies

Post Girl Scouts and Brownies will sell cookies Friday for the benefit of their "Little House" building fund.
Plans for the cookie sale were made Thursday night at a meeting of members of the Girl Scout Council at the City Hall. The success of the cookie sale a few weeks ago prompted the adult leaders to stage another one for the Girl Scout fund.
Members of two Girl Scout troops and three Brownie troops will take part in the sale.
The funds will be used to finance remodeling of the scouts' "Little House," which is located west of the football stadium.

TO MARCH IN PARADE OPENING JAYCEE RODEO Post Riders Visit Levelland

The Post Stampede Cowboys loaded out their steeds at 11:30 o'clock this morning for Levelland, where this afternoon they were to ride in the parade opening the Jaycee Rodeo.
In calling on Stampede riders for a good turn-out for the Levelland parade, Phil Bouchier, manager of the local riding unit, reminded them that the Hockley County Sheriff's posse has visited Post at least a half-dozen times in recent years, whereas the Stampede Cowboys have made only one trip to the Hockley County seat town.
Following this afternoon's parade, the Hockley County riders were to be hosts at a "feed" for visiting mounted groups. The Stampede Cowboys will also stay over for tonight's grand entry, which opens three nights of rodeo events.
Last Thursday, the Stampede Cowboys rode at Graham in the parade setting off the annual Possum Kingdom Roundup. First prize there was won by the Santa Rosa Palomino Club of Vernon, which earlier in the season won the first place trophy in the Post Stampede Rodeo. An Oklahoma riding group won second place at Graham, and one from Odessa placed third.
Tom Power, secretary for the Post riders, said Tuesday that they are considering an invitation to ride in the O'Donnell Rodeo parade next weekend. Other July dates already set are July 23, Lamesa, and July 29, Spur.

Thursday to Thursday...

By CHARLES DIDWAY

A news release from the Social Security Administration office in Lubbock tells how one JOHN SMITH lost his identity when he neglected to put his Social Security number on the tax return at the time he made the SS report on self-employment last March. Now the Social Security people are trying to pick him out from among the 1,287,315 other persons named SMITH for whom Social Security accounts are kept.

The first name, JOHN, doesn't help much, the news release goes on to explain. It says there are 39,345 JOHN SMITHS to whom Social Security account numbers have been issued. They'll get him straight, but it will take time and trouble for all concerned, including MR. SMITH, and it will cost some Social Security taxes to get the job done.

The news release reminds us of the story having to do with a large crowd of late-afternoon loafers, all of whom jumped up in alarm when an excited passerby announced, "MR. SMITH's house is on fire." Then, when he added, "It's JOHN SMITH'S house," half of the crowd sat back down.

While SMITH is the most common American family name, Social Security accounts are also kept for nearly a million JOHNSONS, 857,753 BROWNS, 730,884 WILLIAMSSES, 696,120 JONESSES, 617,120 MILLERS, 536,845 DAVIDSES, 418,367 WILSONS, and 413,393 ANDERSONS. These figures are included in the Social Security office news release, which did not, however, include the figures for people named MOORE, which is also one of the ten most common family names.

All ten of these leading family names are represented in the Post telephone directory, and it would take a long look to find a directory anywhere, no matter how small the town, in which the ten surnames are not listed.

The origin and meaning of family names is a fascinating study. All surnames are derived from four sources: (1) patronyms (names of parents or ancestors); (2) place-names; (3) personal characteristics; and (4) occupations.

Among the ten leading family names, those of JOHNSON, JONES, WILLIAMS, DAVIS, WILSON and ANDERSON are patronymic in origin (son of JOHN, son of WILLIAM, etc.), those of SMITH and MILLER are occupational, BROWN, personal characteristic, and MOORE, place-name.

Also patronymic in origin are all such Irish and Scottish surnames as O'BRIEN, O'MALLEY, McDONALD, McMINN, McBRIDE, etc. Common occupational names other than SMITH and MILLER include TURNER, BAKER, CLARK, MASON, WEAVER, etc. Personal characteristic names also include WHITE, BLACK, LONG, SHORT, etc. Among the more common surnames derived from places are HILL, LEE, STONE, MEADOWS, etc.

As one of those attending the public ceremony Friday night at C. W. Post Memorial Scout Camp, we heard Frank "Chief" Runkles, camp ranger, tell the story of his "adoption" by the Indians. Attired in full tribal costume, Runkles stood in the council ring and told the

WHICH TOWN IS BEST? ...

The enterprising and energetic manager of the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce recently appeared on a Lubbock television station's guest program and told TVers of the area why, in his opinion, Brownfield is the best town on the South Plains. Then, apparently not satisfied with having sung the praises of his town, he penned a letter to the TV station asking that they broadcast an invitation to Chamber of Commerce managers of other towns on the South Plains to answer him if they thought their towns could challenge Brownfield's claim.

Now it's extremely doubtful that the Chamber of Commerce managers of Post, Levelland, Tahoka, Littlefield, Ralls, or any other South Plains town, will agree with Grady Elder that Brownfield is the best town on the South Plains, but each of them must admit that Grady is earning his salary as manager of the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce. We even doubt that anyone in Spur, where Grady was C. of C. manager before going to Brownfield, will admit the Terry County seat town's superiority—if any.

Upon Grady's suggestion, the Lubbock TV station issued the invitation, and now it's up to these area towns to answer Brownfield's claim through their C. of C. managers or other officials. We don't think Grady proved that Brownfield is the best town in his TV appearance, but until his claims are challenged, lots of people are going to take his word for it. Personally, we, like hundreds of others hereabouts, think Post is the best town on the South Plains. And we'll wager the citizens of Slaton, Tahoka, Floydada, Crosbyton, and other South Plains towns, will stick together almost 100 per cent in the opinion that their respective hometown is the best.

Maybe Grady started something when he made his claims for Brownfield on the TV program. Such civic pride is admirable in any one. If we could talk as well as Grady, we'd already be making plans to answer him via TV. Since we can't, we're offering to do the next best thing—help anyone who wishes to plug Post on the program prepare his speech for the occasion. Who'll volunteer?

What of the future? Bayard L. England, president of Edison Electric Institute, says that air conditioning, dustproof and insect proof, will be as common as radio and the push-button equipment will be more completely automatic than is dreamed of now. Thus the home manager will have still more time for community affairs and enjoying life. And perhaps with those electric brain machines, the men will have time for extra activities—such as darning their own socks.

story to a large number of Boy Scouts crowded around the outer edge of the ring and to a large number of visitors seated on the hillside overlooking the site.

The "Chief" told the story in such a way as to make it doubly interesting—about how a nine-year-old youngster went to the Dakotas to live with a tribe of Indians and how he finally was received as one of them and given the name "Little Bear Claw." He did not, however, disclose the boy's identity until the last. Then he said, "I know this story is true, because that boy was me."

If caution guides our July the Fourth activities, the day may be remembered with joy instead of sorrow.

Getting Out On The Limb

by EDDIE the editor

The most popular labor-saving device for women is still a husband with money.

A plunging neckline is something you can approve of and look down on at the same time.

If you're going to pay attention to all the precautionary warnings, taking a vacation is hardly worth the effort. I know the Texas Division of the American Automobile Association is trying to be helpful, but the advice they send out to those about to take off on vacations almost tires one out just to read it.

Here is a list the AAA advises all prospective vacationers to check to see that they have done everything possible to discourage prowlers from entering their homes while they're away:

1. Stop all deliveries of milk and your daily newspaper by phone or letter; don't leave a tell tale note to advertise your departure.
2. Lock windows and doors and put your valuables in a safe-deposit box.
3. Arrange to have the lawn mowed if you're going to be away more than a week.
4. Leave your shades up as though you were home.
5. Tell your neighbors and the police you'll be away; then a light or any unusual activity around your house will alert them.
6. Ask a neighbor to pick up any advertising pamphlets.
7. Wait until you return before notifying the society editor of your trip; burglars love to be notified in advance.
8. Remove anything stealable from the yard: garden tools, bicycles, wagons and toys, and lawn furniture.

Like I said, I'm sure the AAA is trying to be helpful, but I doubt like heck if I have anything in or around the house that'd be worth going to all that trouble for, just to keep some prowler from lugging it away. By the time I went through such a process, I'd still need a vacation, but I wouldn't have enough energy left to go through with it.

A bachelor is getting old when the friends who used to say, "Why don't you get married?" change it to "Why didn't you get married?"

THE WOMEN. God Love Em? Did you hear about the new perfume that drives them mad? It smells like money.

The Fourth of July weekend is coming up, and we are told by Paul E. Burke, executive director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, that Fourth of July travel today presents more danger to motorists than the Revolutionary War held for the troops of George Washington.

Burke says that while 4,435 men died in battle in the seven years of the Revolution an estimated 40,000 persons will be killed on U. S. highways this year, "several hundred of them while celebrating on July 4 the independence won on the battlefields 175 years ago."

Since Burke didn't charge me anything for the following suggestions, I'm passing them on to you at the same price:

- (1) Take long trips by easy stages. Make a coffee stop of ten minutes every two hours. Refreshment and rest will help ready muscles and reflexes for the next leg of the journey; (2) Stay unruffled. Irritation blurs judgment and leads to dangerous chance-taking; (3) Schedule departure early enough for arrival on time at the destination. Include adequate time allowances for coffee and rest stops, meals and possible delays so that no speeding is necessary to arrive at the hour selected.

A disgusted parent wrote a note of complaint to the teacher and wound it up with this: "If all Herbert learns in school is to swear, I'll keep him home and teach him myself."

I've heard of a club whose top officers serve for one day only and never seek re-election. It's a Coffee Club in Iowa, and I think it would be an excellent idea to organize one here and every other place where fellows get together for that mid-morning cup of coffee. A Post Coffee Club, for instance, wouldn't have to meet as a unit, but its members could meet in groups of as small as three or four. Each group could drink its coffee, elect a president and adjourn. Any stranger who could be persuaded to attend the meeting would be a cinch to be elected president. His sole and unavoidable responsibility would be to pick up the check for everybody's coffee. Before you'd know it, there would be past-presidents scattered from here to Timbuctoo, and new ones being made every day. At least, it sounds like a very Democratic sort of thing.

As one of the 400 newspapers having Roger W. Babson's weekly column, The Post Dispatch is to be honored by having a copy de-

Psychiatrist's Vacation

A stranger was noticed spending some time every few days at a large dairy farm for no apparent reason. So, one day the manager asked if he could help. "No," says the visitor, "I am a psychiatrist, and after a hard day with a bunch of nutty patients, it gives me great rest to come out here and spend an hour with a hundred happy, contented females."—Terry County Herald.

Why All This Hullabaloo?

Every few weeks some man—or in a few cases, some woman—dies in the electric chair here in these United States. Their crime usually is murder. For the most part they killed just one person. The public reads about the execution and with the exception of a few who do not believe in capital punishment, feel that the man or woman has met his just rewards. So why all this hullabaloo about the Rosenbergs? Their crime might result not in the death of one, but in millions of Americans. Their acts make Chicago's "Murder, Inc." look like child's play. They committed acts that jeopardize not only the people of the United States, but the world. In our opinion, if any persons ever deserved to be executed by their government, the Rosenbergs are it. Any attempt at making martyrs out of the worst criminals this country has ever known would be firmly resisted by every thoughtful American.—The Crosbyton Review.

Why Are They Leaving?

We are beginning to seriously wonder what is causing the exodus from Littlefield. Within the past month we have lost two pastors, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, our school superintendent and city engineer. All left for perfectly good and legitimate reasons, and yet, we wonder why those reasons were not already in existence here. It seems odd that so many of our leading citizens should find greener fields all at the same positioned within the cornerstone of the new auditorium to be constructed on the 400-acre campus of Babson Institute of Business Administration in Wellesley, Mass. The cornerstone within which is to be deposited the 400 newspapers and other items is to be opened up 100 years hence. Few, very few, of us here now will be around to read an account of the reactions of those present for the cornerstone opening, but it'll probably be very interesting. Having seen a few copies of newspapers printed 100 years ago, I am sure the typographical and other changes in newspapers a century hence will be just as startling—if that is the word. But the differences in type faces, make-up, advertising, etc., probably won't be near as interesting as the difference in the news. We can go right on week after week and year after year using the same type faces, make-up, etc., but we have no control whatever over what is going to happen to make news tomorrow, next week, next year or a hundred years from now.

Crop Outlook For Most Of Country Seen As Fairly Good June 1; Prices Should Hold

BARBON PARK, Mass.—Although it is too early in the season for me to make a comprehensive forecast of the 1953 crop prospects, there are a few highlights that may be of interest. But, first, I can say that as of June 1 the outlook for most of the country was fairly good.

Another Bumper Wheat Crop

Wheat crops of a billion bushels or more have been commonplace in this country during recent years. The 1953 crop should be no exception to the rule, notwithstanding the very poor outlook in certain dry sections. Things would look brighter for the wheat farmer if the total crop were smaller, since storage space at the peak of the harvesting season will be at a premium. This will make it difficult, if not impossible, for some farmers to avail themselves of the Government loan. Supplies of old-crop wheat are also heavy. This all adds up to burdensome total supplies for the 1953-54 season, and may well presage some form of Government control on 1954 production.

I expect another relatively small rye crop this year, perhaps moderately larger than the 1952 output of 15,910,000 bushels, but well below the ten-year average of 25,837,000 bushels. However, it should suffice, since imports from Canada probably will take up any slack. Despite floods and other setbacks in the southern rice area, another big crop is on the way, and will be needed to meet a good prospective domestic and export demand.

Good Corn And Soybean Crops—If

Last spring, farmers indicated that they intended to plant almost as much acreage to corn this year as in 1952, when the final output amounted to 3,307,000,000 bushels—the second largest corn crop on record. Although excessive rainfall and cool weather delayed plantings in a number of important areas, the setback has been largely made up. Given favorable growing weather and no widespread frost damage later on, we should have another big corn crop this year. This should be good news to hog raisers, since it should help to maintain a profitable corn-hog ratio.

tie us yet on which to base a reliable forecast. However, private reports reaching me indicate that planted acreage this year did not differ very much from that in 1952, and that the crop is developing well. Last year's production amounted to 291,682,000 bushels—the second largest on record. Both soybeans and corn are marked more or less heavily in the fall. For lack of storage space at that time, I expect downward pressure on price of corn and soybeans.

Cotton Prospects

At this early stage, I would not hazard a forecast as to the probable size of the 1953 U. S. cotton crop. Plantings were badly delayed in some sections by inclement weather, but my guess is that cotton farmers finally got in a fairly large acreage, nevertheless. The price support program alone offered them a good inducement to plant rather generously. I should not be at all surprised if this year's crop turned out to be well above average, barring severe weevil or other damage. Following a big carryover, another large crop would necessitate more price support.

Flaxseed is another oilseed crop. The odds are that a fairly large crop is in the offing, since farmers last spring expected to increase acreage 20%. I am inclined to doubt, however, that the final output will come up to the ten-year average of 38,056,000 bushels. Large carryover stocks are in Government hands, chiefly in the form of linseed oil.

What About Future Prices?

Prices of farm products have been declining for more than two years. In fact, they are down 12.8% from January 1951, but still are 3.6% above June 1950—the month in which the Korean War began. This drop occurred despite Government price drops. Continued large production, dwindling exports, and mounting surpluses are a combination hard to beat. Thus again is the old Law of Supply and Demand confirmed. Farm prices, in general, will be under pressure this summer and fall, but I don't expect them to collapse. Farmers should still be able to buy all that they need, although perhaps less than they want, which may prove salutary in the long run.

THE VOICE OF FREEDOM

When the Declaration of Independence was signed by representatives of the 13 colonies in 1776... the news was months in reaching the farthest outposts of freedom in the new world.

Today, telephone service spans our nation and the entire globe, bringing the cities and towns of the 48 states within seconds of each other. And today, there are more telephones per person in America than in any other nation in the world.

This communication... the free interchange of ideas, thoughts and opinions... is at the basis of a free nation. It is the heart of America's freedom of speech. It is the motivating power behind America's system of free enterprise that has helped America grow from these fledgling 13 Colonies in 1776 to the greatest and most powerful nation in the world today.

When you pick up your phone to speak to someone across the street... or across the nation... remember, freedom is speaking, too!

Fabulous Cattleman's Story Told In Texan's New Book

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — When Shanghai Pierce was building his Texas cattle empire, only the brave—and rascally—cattleman could survive. Shanghai was the bravest of them all, probably the most profane, the richest, the most colorful, the loudest, possibly the biggest. And he may have been more of a rascal than all the rest. It was the last half of the last century.

For the first time, the story of Abel Head (Shanghai) Pierce has been given full-length treatment. The job was done by Chris Emmett of San Antonio, whose "Shanghai Pierce" was published by the University of Oklahoma Press. The 326-page, carefully-documented volume sells for $5.

Born in Rhode Island and soon under the thumb of a sanctimonious storekeeper uncle there, Pierce came to Texas as a stow-away. He was 19 years old, six feet four, and already had a voice to shake the rafters.

He went quickly to work becoming a cattleman. Like others, he put his own brand on many of the cattle then drifting over the unfenced coastal pastures. A knowing banker offered him unlimited credit. Shanghai was on the way.

Shanghai's empire was along the Texas Gulf Coast, centering in Fort Bend County and around Wharton. By purchasing, foreclosure, and other means he put together more than 100,000 acres which made him one of the "Big Pasture" men. He became so rich he bought an Arkansas hotel when refused a room, but still remembered to dun a relative for a 25-cent pair of socks. He helped introduce the Brahma cattle to the Southwest, but made most of his fortune buying and selling the tough range cattle of the time.

He was vain; he built a monument to himself topped by a statue. He was crafty; he sewed the eyes of a herd of mean cattle shut, sold them to a native Yankee who saw them break loose and head for home when the threads rotted. He built a church for his people, swore mightily when a storm leveled it.

But most of all he was a huge, colorful, loud personality important to Texas history. Emmett, author of several books about Texas, has done a historian's job which embraces not only Pierce and his family but many other characters important to

Semi-Retired Amarillo Contractor Names His Workshop 'Glory Hole'

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR—Dr. J. M. Bethea (above) has arrived in Austin to assume his duties as executive director of the Texas State Board for Hospitals and Special Schools.

AMARILLO (AP)—J. M. Hobson established his "Glory Hole" in depression days when he had plenty of loafing time. Now that the 71-year-old Amarillo contractor is semi-retired, he wouldn't give up his "Glory Hole" for anything.

The "Glory Hole" is a workshop in his basement where Hobson makes things from wood. He still has the same lathe, powered by a Model T Ford engine. And the same jig-saw, constructed from an old treadle sewing machine.

Hobson's workshop is not a money-maker. He has made things of every kind of wood in the nation. Except for the few items of woodwork in his home, he has given all his work away. He estimates he has given away $12,500 of his handiwork.

"I have never sold an item," Hobson says. "They definitely are not for sale. I got the idea of making the hobby express my gratitude for an appreciation of mankind."

Coffee tables, lamps, library tables, serving trays, nut bowls, pin trays, plates, paper weights have gone out in a stream over the years to those for whom Hobson has affection. Each item bears a number, the date and Hobson's name, and each is recorded in a book here. Almost every state is represented.

"I try to impress upon the young wood hobbyists of Amarillo the beauty of our native woods. I make my most beautiful things of wood found in Palo Duro Canyon—cedar, mesquite, chinaberry, hackberry and cottonwood." He also has used Chinese elm, cherry, apricot and peach wood, all found in Amarillo.

He has made one discovery he believes may be valuable. "After 40 years of patching splits in cured wood, I learned a simple way to dry and season wood without it splitting."

He uses the same principle our forefathers used in curing meat—he salts the wood down in barrels. The sap is drawn out from the wood by the salt before the wood ages and cracks from the outside.

Seven Cancer Deaths In County Last Year

There were seven cancer fatalities in Garza County during 1952, according to a report contained in the memorial issue of "Texas Cancer Triangle," official newspaper of the American Cancer Society, Texas Division.

There were 8,788 cancer deaths in Texas during the year, according to the report.

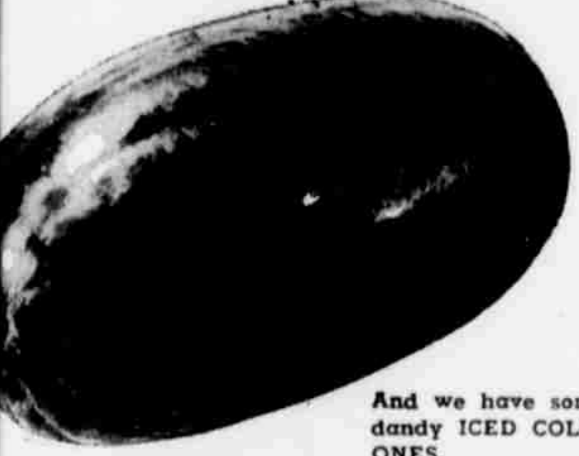

Cancer deaths in other area counties during 1952 were: Lubbock, 93; Crosby, 11; Dickens, 7; Lynn, 7; Terry, 14; Dawson, 12; and Scurry, 18.

Longhorn Cavern Is Becoming Of Prime Tourist Attractions

Longhorn Cavern, the third largest cave in the world, is finally about to become one of the prime tourist attractions. Galloway, manager of the cavern, declared Saturday that more than 100,000 visitors will total more than 100,000 long before the anniversary as a public place. Mr. Galloway, after studying attendance figures for past years, in a quarter-millionth visit, Sam Bass entrance, in time in July, he said, the cavern was first opened for public inspection by the State back in the fall of 1932, after four years of development, few people even knew about it except the folks who lived in this area—like Mr. Galloway and his boyhood friends who used to play hide and seek in the dark reaches of the cave.

The OASIS on your route

The traveler of ancient times sought rest and refreshment at an oasis on his route.

So does the traveler of modern times... he stops at an oasis that prepares his automobile for another hundred miles or more of driving... at an oasis that provides ice water and a chance to stretch... at an oasis that offers clean and sanitary rest rooms... at an oasis where our traveler can give and get a friendly greeting.

Today's oasis is the service station on the American highway.

It makes your trip. It provides your contact with the country through which you're driving. On its driveway you feel at home; you get the impression wherever you stop, that this is your America.

Not one service station, but thousands of them. All along the highways you'll find them staffed and equipped to give your car the expert care it requires, to make your brief visits on their driveways comfortable and pleasant.

The service station where you buy gasoline and motor oil is your chief contact with the American oil industry. It is probably an individual enterprise; and it competes to give you better service and better products than another station down the street or on the other side of town. No small part of the oil industry's progress in the service of the motorist finds final expression on service station driveways.

Ranch House Ramblings

by United Salt Corporation's Range Reporter

Texas hog raisers, at long last, are having their day.

While cowmen wall over drought and sagging prices, the swine breeders and raisers of Texas are singing the song of prosperity—for the first time in years. "There's a big scramble right now to get into the hog business," E. G. Regenbrecht, of College Station, swine specialist and secretary of the Texas Swine Breeders, reports to Ranch House Ramblings. "This summer, for the first time in years, hog prices are above cattle prices," he says. Hog prices got so low a few years ago, compared to grain feed prices, that liquidation of swine began, and this past spring such a point of scarcity developed that prices had attained full scale prosperity proportions, he explains. If Texas gets only two-thirds of its feed crop, prospects still look good, said Regenbrecht. The swine breeders' association will come out in July with a new manual and directory.

Texas' Angora goat industry isn't suffering any—in fact, it is about normal, and you can take it from the nation's "goat king," Adolf Stieler, of Comfort, near Kerrville. Stieler tells us that: Spring mohair is solid; went at good prices; 2- and 3-year old range muttons now bring $8.50 to $9.50, nannies $8.00; two cars of fall mohair have been contracted at 9 1/2 cents for adult hair and $1.15 a pound for kid hair. "The goat business is good," says Adolf, but he wrinkles a

Wanda Norman Is Beauty Candidate

Miss Wanda Norman, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Norman of Post, has entered the Miss Lubbock Contest, which is being sponsored by the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce. She was the sixth entry, according to Oscar Primm, general chairman of the Jaycee sponsoring committee.

Miss Norman is of sophomore majoring in business at Texas Technological College. She is employed during the summer by a Lubbock stockbroker firm as a secretary.

One of 30 Texas Tech beauties last semester, Miss Norman has green eyes and light brown hair. She is 5 feet 3 inches in height and has measurements of 35-23-35.

First, second and third place winners in the contest will receive prizes. Each contestant is allowed to purchase a halting suit costing up to $35 and charge it to the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce.

brow when he remembers he is a cattleman, too—feeding his 1,400 head of cattle on the range in Hudspeth County, in the Texas Highlands.

Texas' dairy business is good, too, Ed Knolle, of Sandia, near Corpus Christi, president of the Texas Jersey Cattle Club and owner of the largest Jersey herd in the world, tells the Range Reporter that dairy cattle prices are still good and not affected by the factors driving beef cattle prices down. A good producing Jersey cow today sells for $175 to $250, and a purebred Jersey cow from $250 to $400 or more, he says. Reasons: Good prices for milk and a firm demand for Jerseys—particularly in Latin America. Increased consumption of dairy products per capita and increasing population in Texas favor the dairy cattle business. The head of Texas' 3,000-member Jersey Club reports that there is still a shortage of labor. Feed—both grain and roughage—is down somewhat from last year, but in distress areas there is abnormal buying of feed. Texas is gradually increasing its production per cow but the state still ranks low in milk production per cow, Knolle reveals. A production average of around 6000 pounds of milk per cow and 350 to 400 pounds of fat per cow per year is a good average, he says. The spokesman for Texas Jersey cattlemen points out that their problems are: To establish better marketing conditions; and to produce milk as cheaply as possible, by better feeding and breeding methods, pasture improvement, and use of modern machinery.

Major problem of the Texas wool industry, besides the drought, is the competition from Australia, other British dominions and South America. It is pointed out by Secretary Ernest Williams of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Assn. He tells us that lower costs of production enables them to land wool here, pay existing duties and to sell at a profit at less than the American producers' costs.

RIDING RANGE: Is there a longer trip between towns in Texas than Del Rio north to Sonora, 92 blistering miles? Hill Country ranchmen growing feed for deer, as usual, in droughty years, to assure ample deer roasting season, a big dollar crop from hunting leases. Is there a cooler, neater spot than New Braunfels on the scenic Canal River, after a long drive? Crop undamaged by the drought: The big cacti of the Southwestern "Brush Country," good feed when burned and chopped.

Pvt. Gene M. King At Camp Roberts

Pvt. Gene M. King, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. King of Post, has been assigned to Company D, 77th Armored Infantry Battalion at Camp Roberts, Calif., to begin his military training.

The huge military installation, one of the largest replacement training centers during World War II, is now the home of the "Lucky Seventh" Armored Division and is located on U. S. Highway 101 about halfway between the cities of Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Recognized as one of the best training centers for the Infantry soldier, Camp Roberts' instruction and training is the responsibility of a new system in the Army called Division Faculty. The instructors in this unit are selected for their initiative, ability, knowledge of military subjects and experience. They are combat veterans, college graduates, and former college and high school instructors. All must know their subject well in order to produce the best combat infantryman, which is Camp Roberts' primary mission.

Veterans Advised On GI Loan Plans

Veterans of the Post area who plan to seek GI loans from private lenders for homes, farms, or businesses should apply to Veterans Administration regional office in advance for certificates of eligibility. Robert W. Sisson, manager of the VA regional office at Lubbock, has announced.

This will reduce delays in processing the loan applications later, Sisson said, when the veteran is anxiously awaiting completion of the deal or is pressed for time to close the loan.

Certificates of eligibility are proof for lenders that VA will guarantee or insure a loan if the veteran meets other usual loan requirements.

In the past, veterans have been advised to submit their discharge or separation papers to the lending institutions making the loan. They, in turn, would submit them to VA on behalf of the veterans.

Old Time Trains Carried Bibles

ST. ALBANS, Vt. (AP)—Old time trains in Vermont used to have brass Bible holders in each of the cars. Older residents remember when they had Bibles in them. Al Sauviat, railroad historian, has unearthed some of the old brass holders, but for a time he was stumped to explain why Bibles were considered necessary in railroad cars. Now he thinks he knows why.

In 1888 the legislature of Vermont passed a law permitting Sunday trains in Vermont. It authorized "Running on a railroad of such through trains on Sunday as, in the opinion of the Board, the public necessity and convenience may require, having regard to the due observance of the day." Sauviat thinks Vermont railroaders provided for "due observance of the day" by making the Bibles available.

Social Security Field Representative To Make Stop Here Thursday, July 9

To assist in all matters pertaining to Social Security, a representative of the Lubbock Social Security field office will be in Post on Thursday, July 9, at 11 a. m. at the post office.

All benefits under the old-age survivors insurance provisions of the Social Security Act are based on the record of earnings credited to each individual account. For that reason it is important that your account reflect all your earnings covered by the Social Security Act.

Also, before any payments can be made, in case of your death or retirement, it is necessary that a certain number of "quarters of coverage" be credited to your individual account. A quarter of coverage is a 3-month period beginning on Jan. 1, April 1, July 1, or Oct. 1, in which a worker was paid $30 or more in covered wages. If a self-employed person nets $400 or more in a full taxable year he is given credit for 4 quarters of coverage.

Therefore, it is doubly important that your earnings covered by the social security law be credited to your account—to determine whether a payment can be made and to determine the amount of such payments.

You can check your account once a year by mailing a simple post card Form DAR 7004 which can be obtained at any field office of the Social Security Administration. You can learn the address of your nearest field office from your post office.

Since there are limits to the time when an account may be corrected you should check your account at least every three years. Your survivors insurance protection and your future retirement benefits depend on the accuracy of your social security account. Take a look at it at least every three years.

Bad Case of the "Ztutters"

Our copyboy is out sick. So the editor (me) is taking over some of his chores—which include running the addressing machine on "mailing-out night."

Last week I didn't have the usual number of papers left over for sale at the office. Couldn't figure what had happened—until Chub Zimmer called to ask why he'd gotten 58 copies.

Then I realized—"Zimmer" is the last name the machine prints. Guess I forgot to turn it off ... and it just kept grinding out Chub's name on all the remaining copies. That machine just didn't know when to stop.

From where I sit, people are like that sometimes. They often don't know when to stop. Like those who are prejudiced against someone with an accent, perhaps ... or against someone who likes a cool bottle of beer with his supper. So, in these columns I try to persuade everyone to "throw the switch" on prejudice so it won't get repeated.

Garza County's 230 Irrigation Wells Are Watering 9,000 Acres, Survey Discloses

The number of irrigation wells in Garza County has increased from 125 in 1952 to 230 in 1953, according to a survey conducted by Robert V. Thurmond of Lubbock, Texas A. & M. College irrigation specialist.

The county's 230 wells irrigate 9,000 acres on 200 farms, according to the survey.

Two years ago, in 1951, Garza County had 65 irrigation wells, and 51 in 1950.

The Garza County survey was part of one conducted by Thurmond in 45 High Plains counties, where a record increase in irrigation wells has placed an additional 598,094 acres under protection against the continued drought.

From 18,036 wells last year area farmers have increased pumping units to 24,304—chalked up the biggest numerical gain in any single year. The irrigated acreage has been advanced from 2,463,454 in 1952 to an estimated 3,063,548.

Thurmond said that a break in the drought would have boosted the acreage even more. A portion of the additional water supply must be used in irrigation where normal rainfall would be a sufficient supplement.

The 28 South Plains Counties paced the increase numerically and three of those counties, leaders already, opened more than a third of the new units. Lubbock, Hale and Hockley are listed with approximately 3,000 wells each.

Thurmond compiled the records on the figures submitted by the individual county agents. Most of the figures are estimates, but are the closest approximations available. The fourth of a series of annual surveys, the report ofers the first broad comprehensive analysis of the intensive water hunt staged last winter and spring.

Larger percentage gains were noted in southern counties of the South Plains where a sandier soil and lighter rainfall have critically limited dry-land activity. Terry County jumped from 200 to 450 wells. Nearby Dawson County, victim of three hard drought years, found enough producers to advance from 92 to 160. Lynn County's 400 wells were almost doubled to 725.

Drilling activity now is limited as farmers are occupied with seasonal activities. Continued high interest, however, indicates another heavy drilling play this winter, he said.

Thurmond said the reports indicated that as a whole the water level has not dropped sharply. Reports on numerous wells drying up this year were discounted.

Poor construction and accidents near the source of water made ineffective some wells, but the water is still available at the same location, he said.

Many of the new wells were located on farms that already had some irrigation. Farmers in these instances wanted ample water and in other cases wanted to irrigate additional portions of their land.

The impact of the present number of wells is best understood with comparative figures from previous annual reports, he said. The area had 16,509 wells in 1951 and 14,078 in 1950.

"People throughout the area are just now really appreciating the safety in production that irrigation offers," Thurmond said. "The continued drought has prompted many new irrigation projects and prompted planning for more water."

Depth of new wells is about the same as for previous installations. Thurmond's survey asked that wells be classified for depth above and below 125 feet. In 1952, 10,024 wells were below that depth while 7,911 were above. In 1953, 14,652 were below and 9,447 were above. The ratios are about even and do not indicate any sharp dropping, he explained.

Eleanor and Everett Webb of Dunlap's are taking off this weekend for a few days vacation with their son and his wife in South Texas but they have assembled an array of bargain buys for you for the weekend and first Monday Dollar Day. Governmenting through Dunlap's ad for a partial listing of these good old summer-time values.

If you haven't tried the ice cream mix from T. L. Jones Ice Company you are missing out on a fine product. Ask T. L. about it when you go down to pick up a prize "Pink Perfection" watermelon that is cold, cold, cold.

"Cool" is a new expression of the current crop of teenagers. To them it means nice. And what could be nicer than cool, comfortable houses, business quarters or offices? On the market in Post are all types of coolers. In fact, there are five types of coolers offering summer relief, including the refrigerated coolers, evaporative and attic fans, so popular in this area.

Although the United States has led in the development of air conditioning it has been more quickly accepted abroad than here. The first air conditioned school was in Venezuela, and the first air conditioned train was South Manchuria's "Asia Express." More than a dozen years ago race horses in Ceylon were as comfortable as customers in New York's Radio City. A herd of dairy cattle in Singapore were provided with an air conditioned barn. And if you wanted to ride in the first air conditioned bus you would have had to be a tourist taking a trip from Damascus to Bagdad.

Air condition dealers here in Post say you can run a kitchen ventilator for six hours, a floor fan almost three hours or a room air conditioner for more than a hour for a penny's worth of "Juice." Ted Hibbs, the Southwestern Public Service Company representative, can also give you some amazing figures on the economics of operating air conditioners or other appliances that use "Juice." Consult McCrary Appliance Company, Mason and Company, Hudman Furniture, White Auto Store about your air conditioning needs. Personnel at these firms can give you pertinent information about size, style etc., for your home or business buildings. As the teenagers say—"It's 'Cool' to be cool."

For outdoor entertaining or indoor entertaining or for supplies for a family affair on the fourth, you will find at Post Walgreen Drug many picnic or party supplies. Some of the grandest things for home entertaining are the Thermo Tumblers, the colorful polystyrene glasses which keep ice cubes and iced drinks cool for long periods of time. You will find these popular tumblers and water pitchers, coffee pots in all the favorite colors at Post Drug. Check this firm's ad for a list of the July 4th weekend items Alva and Jake Heiskell have arranged for you.

Garza County's First Sheriff Is Subject Of Feature Story

O. B. Kelly, who was Garza County's first sheriff, is now living in Ontario, Calif., and was the subject of a feature story in a recent issue of the San Bernardino Sun-Telegram.

Accompanying the article was a picture of Kelly posing with a prized chair fashioned from Texas longhorns.

O. B. Kelly, 82, 916 E. Rosewood Ct., has made his home in California for the past seven years, but in spirit he is still "Deep in the Heart of Texas."

The octogenarian enjoys the distinction of being the first sheriff of Garza County in the Lone Star state and he still enjoys such wide popularity in that "neck of the woods" that his pals there for the last two years have sent him a ticket to take him to Post, Tex., for the annual roundup and rodeo.

Despite his advanced years, Kelly travels by plane, making the trip from Ontario to Post in seven hours.

Kelly was first elected sheriff on June 10, 1907, at the time of the formation of Garza County, and served continuously for eight years, at the end of which he declined to become a candidate for re-election in order to devote more time to the operation of his own cattle ranch.

The official certificate of his initial election, which is framed and hung on the wall in his home, bears the signature of Gov. D. M. Campbell.

Asked about his experiences with desperadoes, the former sheriff shrugs it off with the announcement that "I guess they were as 'skeered' as I was."

One of Kelly's prized possessions is an easy chair fashioned from the horns of Texas steers. It was sent him as a gift from Bill Cravy, an old-timer, from whom he learned that Porter Bridges, his former partner in the cattle business, had it made from horns he had collected during dehorning operations on the Kelly ranch years ago.

Recalling the organization of Garza County, Kelly relates that "we had to have about 75 votes, so we voted some of the horses that had names." Returning to Post after being out on the trail, he found himself a candidate for sheriff with Bob Willoughby as his opponent.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hardesty and family of Friona visited the Cecil Smiths and Elton Nances Monday. The Hardestys formerly lived here.

Vivian Samples of Big Spring is visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bevers.

Mrs. W. C. Messer of Redlands, Calif., is a guest in the home of her son, Herman, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Jones of Corpus Christi and their daughter, Mrs. Gilbert Morrison of Colorado visited Mrs. Jones' brothers, Raymond and Henry Key, and families last week. They were en route to Corpus Christi from Colorado.

W. T. Parchman, Sr., a former resident, is seriously ill in Slaton Mercy Hospital. He was brought to Slaton from his home in Loving, N. M., by ambulance Sunday. He was accompanied by his wife and sons, W. T., Jr., of Carlsbad, N. M., H. B. of Odessa, and W. E. Parchman of Loving and a daughter, Mrs. L. H. Graves, of Andrews.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Henderson of Amarillo spent the weekend in the George Duckworth, Sid Cross and George Evans homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Nance recently visited in Ringling, Okla., with their son, Lewis, and family.

Sandy and Micah Cross are in Pecos for a visit with their aunt, Mrs. Bud McLaurin, and family.

Bud Cross of Hermleigh spent the weekend with his nephew, Sid, and family. Sunday afternoon guests included Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Jones and children of Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. Juber Brown and children, Germaine, George and Lynn, H. V. Williams and Mrs. Ella Davis visited in Rotan Sunday.

"I guess I got more than 100 votes, horses and all," Kelly declares.

The erstwhile sheriff came to California to be near his five children, all of whom are now Southland residents. His daughter, Peg, Mrs. Rex Seckler, resides at 541 Flora St.; his son, Bill, at 716 E. H. St.; his son, Elwood (Bud), at the Rosewood Court address; his son, Max, in Los Angeles, and his son, Knox, in Burbank.

City Limits - - -

The other bids submitted were: Continental Construction Co. of Big Spring, $38,775.50, and H. B. Jordan Co. of Plainview, $40,052.60.

One phase of the project calls for 12-inch cast-iron water mains from the master meter, just west of town, to south of the City Hall. The new mains will be laid from the master meter to one block within the city limits, then south to the Tahoka Highway, and east to Farm-Market Road 1313, on the east side of which they will tie in to eight-inch lines laid in 1951. This eight blocks of new mains will afford two circuits of fire-flow into town, as recommended by the State Fire Insurance Commission.

"With the 12 inch lines paralleling the eight-inch pipes, either could be cut off and the other used in case of an emergency," the utilities superintendent explained.

The other part of the waterworks improvement project, consisting of about five blocks, is to start southeast of the business section, near the Bowen Camp, tying in with an eight-inch line. The new pipes will go east under the railroad and highway, passing the Postex Mill, and then turning south to tie back into a six-inch line now serving the mill. This improvement will also provide a two-circuit fire-flow.

The project also calls for fire hydrants along both routes.

The contractor expects to get under way with the work within the next three weeks. Completion is promised within 45 days, which would place wind-up of the work in late August or early September.

The City has also approved additional waterworks improvements on which a contract will be let later. This project includes about seven blocks in the northwest part of town. New six or eight-inch mains will be laid from a point on J Street three blocks north and four blocks east. This will also find two lines paralleling each other, increasing water pressure and carrying out recommendations of the State Fire Insurance Commission.

H. N. Roberts of Lubbock, engineer for the City of Post, drew up plans and specifications for both projects.

MORE BICYCLES ON WAY NEW YORK (AP)—More than two million new bicycles were turned out during 1952, reports H. Clyde Brokaw, president of the Bicycle Institute. With removal of metal restrictions, he predicts the 1953 output will surpass last year's. Brokaw says there now are more than 21 million two-wheelers zipping along the nation's roads.

Post Wood Bees Play Strong Lubbock Team Here Sunday

The Post Wood Bees, who defeated the Smeyer Independents, 23 to 10, on the Postex Mill diamond Sunday afternoon, meet the Lubbock Independents here next Sunday, and the Lubbock Boosters the following Sunday, according to Manager Oscar Garner.

The Wood Bees journeyed to Seagraves Friday night for their first out-of-town game of the season, and were snowed under, 32 to 15, in a comedy of errors. It was the third loss of the season for the Post team against eight victories.

In defeating the Smeyer nine here Sunday, the Wood Bees scored in every frame, piling up five runs in the second inning, and four each in the fourth and fifth frames.

The Wood Bees' barrage of base blows included a sixth inning home run by Third Baseman Dink Taylor.

Although the visitors managed only four hits off Billy Ramage and Garner, they piled up runs on a flock of Post errors. Ramage hurled one-hit ball for six innings, and Garner gave up only three safe base blows in the three frames he toiled on the mound.

In Friday night's game at Seagraves, the winners scored 11 runs against the Wood Bees in the ninth inning. They also had a big sixth inning, with eight runs, and scored five runs in the fourth. Ramage was the losing pitcher, and Lefty Faulkner, veteran semi-pro hurler, was the winner.

Jess Cornell smashed out two home runs for Post. Other Wood Bee home runs were by Holland and Williams.

Lubbock (Sp.)—Texas Tech will have a cinder track by next spring.

The track was among athletic facilities approved Monday by the Tech Board of Directors. Baseball diamonds, tennis courts, and a practice football field will also be built. They will be located in the vicinity of a huge field house being built by the City of Lubbock on the Tech campus.

Tech's old dirt track was considered fast enough under ideal conditions, but lack of suitable drainage sometimes made it unfit for regional meets. This spring, however, some of the best times in the state were run on it, including a 96 hundred yard dash mark by J. Frank Daugherty of Olton.

To go with the new track, Coach Landon Westbrook is also seeking top-notch athletes of the region. Already, several who placed in the state meet have signified that they will enter Tech this fall.

Fluvanna Meteorite Placed On Exhibit

A 258-pound meteorite, found in 1937 near Fluvanna, is being exhibited in the Science Building of Texas Christian University, Fort Worth.

The Fluvanna meteorite is one of two being exhibited at TCU on long-term loan from the collection of Astronomer Oscar Monnig and associates of Fort Worth.

The Fluvanna find was made by a farmer, Ira Drum, half buried in the grass near the Scurry-Garza County line.

In going over its interesting history, Monnig relates that H. M. O'Brien of Comanche, a real "rock hound," tried to purchase the meteorite from Drum, but the latter refused to sell for $60—all the money the trucker had.

However, the two finally agreed on the price when Drum's mother-in-law broke the ice with:

"Two fools have really met. One's a fool offering that kind of money for a rock and the other's a bigger fool for not taking it!"

Association Meetings Of Young People's WMU, Brotherhood Held

Meetings of the Lubbock Association of the Baptist Men's Brotherhood and the youth organization of the Women's Missionary Union were held Monday night at the First Baptist Church here.

One hundred and seventy young people attended the WMU meeting, while 81 men were present for the Brotherhood gathering. The WMU meeting was in the auditorium, and the men met in the Businessmen's Bible classroom. Following their meetings, the groups enjoyed a social hour together.

Lloyd Leasing of the Highland Baptist Church of Lubbock, associational president, presided over the WMU meeting. The program included showing of the film, "In All His Glory," and songs by Misses Claudia, Janelle and Billie Tiger of Post.

Following the meeting, the attendance banner was awarded representatives of the First Baptist Church of Idalou, and the efficiency banner went to the East Side Church of Lubbock.

Henry Heek of Idalou, president of the Lubbock Baptist Association, presided over the men's meeting, which opened with a song service led by John Leverett.

Following scripture and prayer by the host church, Judson Burnett of Levelland, district Brotherhood president, spoke on "The Brotherhood and Youth Camp."

Following special music, the Rev. Lee Ramsour, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Tahoka, spoke on "The Brotherhood and the Cooperative Program."

The attendance banner was awarded to men from the West Side Baptist Church of Slaton, which has been organized only a few weeks. The Rev. Bryan Ross is pastor.

Assisting in plans for the meeting were Mrs. R. H. Tate, associational WMU president; Mrs. Iven Clary, Post WMU president, and Lee Bowen, president of the Post church's Brotherhood group.

GOP CHOICE?—Heard L. Floore, an assistant city attorney at Fort Worth, is being reported as a Republican choice for U. S. District Attorney of the North Texas district.

NEW CAUSEWAY TO PADRE—Here is the latest photograph of the $2,250,000 concrete causeway which soon will link the southern tip of Padre Island with the Texas mainland at Port Isabel. The causeway is the first step in a longrange recreational development program by Cameron County which also calls for establishment of three park areas on the island. The causeway is expected to be completed and ready for use next February.

GOOD NEIGHBOR ADVOCATES—Mayor Hugh S. Cluck of Laredo presents Dr. Z. Cuellar Garcia, mayor of Nuevo Laredo, with a framed copy of a portrait Dwight D. Eisenhower, his favorite of himself. Mayor Cluck made the presentation to emphasize Ike's Good Neighbor views which Mayor Cluck are realized in the relationship of the two Laredos during more than 100 years. In the background is a picture of President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines of Mexico.

TWINS WITH GOAT QUADS—Something rare in the goat world is birth of quadruplets, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McAnaney near Amarillo. The mother, a white Nubian, gave birth to two males and two females, held by Amarillo twins Glenda and Linda Vaughn, 5.

NOMINATED—William Steger, Longview attorney, has been nominated by president Eisenhower to be U. S. attorney for the Eastern District of Texas. He will succeed Warren G. Moore.

DROUGHT DEVASTATION—Drought conditions which have prevailed in Texas prevented any planting in this field four miles west of Lamesa this Spring. Sand fills the furrows where ranchers in the drought-devastated area are watching two important factors—a disaster-relief program to be announced in Washington and promise of rain from clouds now blowing up from the Gulf of Mexico.

WHAT'S A DINGO? HERE ARE TWO!—Fort Worth's Forest Park Zoo's dingo couple had twin puppies some time ago, as this photo shows. A dingo is a wild Australian dog, but Dora and Dad Dingo were born in captivity, in the Philadelphia zoo two years ago. Unlike dogs, dingos cannot bark, but they can whine and yowl. Zoo Director Ham Hittson did not plan to keep the new dingos. They are worth money to the zoo, perhaps $150 each.

NEXT SPEAKER? — Rep. Jim Lindsey of Texarkana is reported as having the inside track for the speakership of the 84th legislature that will meet in Austin in 1955. If elected, Lindsey would succeed Sam Sabar's Reuben Senterfitt.

THEY'VE GOT A BUZZ ON—John Sanders, 13, Marshall, Tex., junior high school student, removes a swarm of wild honey bees from a car parked in downtown Marshall. The bees swarmed into the car shortly after its owner left it to go to a beauty parlor. They remained for about two hours, stopping passersby and traffic until Sanders, whose hobby is bee keeping, came to remove them. Swarms entered two other cars, and one unabashed teenager drove off, bees and all. No one was stung. Bee experts say that bees seldom sting while swarming.

SMALLEST AIRMAN—Airman 2/C Richard K. Mackey of Ft. Meade, Md., stationed at Fort Worth's Carswell Air Force Base, stands unchallenged as the tiniest man in the Air Force. He weighs 85 pounds of him rising to an altitude of 4 feet 7 inches. For comparison a typical Texas stands beside him—Airman 1st Class Floyd C. Honeycutt of Fort Worth, 6 feet. Special warrants of General Vandenburg were necessary for Mackey.

Exchange Is In Lamesa District Phone Company Reorganization

An Exchange will be in the Lamesa district under a reorganization of the General Telephone Company of the Southwest effective July 1. The Lamesa District is a part of the newly-created Western Division with offices in Brownsville (Bob Saunders will be the Lamesa district manager and J. L. (Dusty) Kemper will be Western division manager. Walter G. Wright, president of the company, in announcing the reorganization, said, "Our primary objective is to improve the service to our customers and we expect to achieve this by placing more responsibility and authority in the field closer to our telephone users." Under the new type of organization, the General Telephone Company of the Southwest will be divided into five geographical divisions and these, in turn, will be composed of districts varying in number from three to six. The company, which operates exchanges in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana, has doubled the number of company telephones in service since January, 1950. It is the largest of any independent (non-Bell) telephone company rendering service in the Southwest.
