Trying to awake America

There have been a number of candidates over the years who attempted to chart either "a third party" or independent course to the presidency. None of them came close.

But this year John B. Anderson, the liberal Republican, says he can win. He has given back $307,000 in campaign matching funds to the U.S. Treasury to strike out on his own.

We received an eight-page letter from Anderson this week explaining some of his positions and asking for financial help. We know thousands of other Texans received such letters too as well as thousands more in states all over the country. (This presidential year we received a letter from every major candidate asking for money.)

"You and I can make a difference in this country," he writes. "The politicians and the press don't think you count. You may have strong beliefs, be well-informed, intelligent, courageous, and fair-minded but you don't count."

"The reason they think you don't count is simple. They believe that presidential candidates are selected by fools, by citizens who believe lies, evasions, half-truths and soft soap. I simply refuse to believe that. I've based my last act of political faith on your existence. I do believe you count. That you and I can make a difference in this country."

John's letter is long — and very refreshing.

We like many things he says. He calls for "real sacrifices" and says he stands "ready to challenge powerful, narrow interests."

Three examples. On energy he would put a 50-cent a gallon tax on gasoline for energy conservation. He would use these billions to reduce social security payroll taxes and boost social security benefits and allow tax credits for those businesses unfairly penalized.

On abortion, he says the government simply cannot be allowed to interfere with the intimate choice a woman must make in conjunction with her God and her physician. "I am steadfastly opposed to a constitutional amendment which would ban abortions and feel that poor women should have the opportunity to choose abortion as do women who can afford the cost."

On gun control: "Something simply must be done about handguns if we are to control the arming of our society. I favor a waiting period before a handgun can be purchased to allow a criminal records check, a strengthening of rules for commercial handgun dealers, the registration of all handguns at time of purchase or transfer, a license to own a handgun, a mandatory prison sentence for all persons using a handgun in a crime and a ban on the sale of small, cheap, low-quality handguns."

Now John Anderson is not going to harvest millions of dollars in campaign donations and lusty support in Texas on those issues.

The refreshing thing about John Anderson is that he will take such stands and announce them as campaign starters. You won't hear the two party candidates talk like that.

We don't expect John Anderson to come close to winning either. He will stir up too much "trouble" for himself by speaking out. That's our problem in this country today. We don't have leaders, but only politicians.

And we can't blame the politicians either. They duck because that's the way you win. If you stand for anything, everybody who opposes that issue opposes you. So if you stand for very many things you simply don't have a chance.

John Anderson is a refreshing guy. He won't be the next president — but he wrote a very interesting eight-page letter. He made us think about what he was saying, too. And in doing that he did everybody he sent his letter to a great big favor. It will take a lot of John Andersons to wake up America — but doing that could do a lot more for our country than his being elected president.

"THE LAST BALLOT SHOWS THE DELEGATION WANTS YOU TO RUN, SENATOR, BUT NOT FOR OFFICE."

Crazy economic year

The recession has slowed the inflation. But if the government starts spending big bucks to put the nation's eight million employed back to work the inflation will take off again.

That's the way our economy works. What makes it all the more unusual is that this is an election year and it is the Democrats not the Republicans who are the "in party" with all the troubles.

What's more the Democrats are trying hard to balance the budget. Who ever heard of them doing that before.

Yep, these are crazy times and things are hard to figure out.

The stock market has been climbing for two months as the recession indicators flash all sort of red warnings.

Interest rates are almost in a free fall. Controls put on credit cards by the Carter administration have had a surprising effect. Consumer credit plunged this last month — the very first turnaround in years and years.

The auto industry which hung onto the "big car" too long and the home construction industry are the two industries which have almost come apart in the last six months.

Here in Post, though the inflation continues to cause far more problems than the recession. The only people in a recession around here are the farmers because they are caught in a price squeeze, since they don't control the price of their products.

Speaking of balancing the federal budget, that is going to be impossible now. A whole lot more federal money — billions in unemployment taxes along — is going to have to be spent than had been anticipated.

Stenholm leads fight on low micronaire discounts

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Charles W. Stenholm this week led the opposition to increases in the low micronaire (mike) discounts for the 1980 Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) cotton loan schedule, asking Agriculture Secretary Bergland for a reversal in the formula which Stenholm said could cost the Texas cotton industry "millions of dollars in penalties."

Stenholm, a member of the House Agriculture Cotton Subcommittee, contacted Bergland in behalf of several other Texas delegation members, including Senators Lloyd Bentsen and John Tower and Congressmen Jack Hightower, E. (Kika) de la Garza and Kent Hance.

The micronaire reading of cotton denotes the fineness of the lint, which many cotton mills believe effects the fiber's spinning characteristics. "A low mike reading means the farmer receives a penalty both on the spot market price of cotton, as well as the CCC loan schedule," Stenholm explained. "It is the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) responsibility to come up with the most equitable formula to keep the loan schedule in line with anticipated spot market prices."

"It is our understanding that the loan discount differentials were figured on a 2 to 1 weighting procedure this year," Stenholm said, "a dramatic departure from previous years. In fact, my information shows that since 1972 the weighting formula has always been at least 5 to 1 and has ranged as high as 10 to 1."

A 2 to 1 weighting factor gives only twice the emphasis to last year's mike loan discount as it does to last year's spot market discount, he explained.

Hosie Wynn rites are held Saturday

Funeral services for Hosie Wynn, 71, longtime Post resident, were held Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. in the Pleasant Home Baptist Church with the Rev. Arthur Kelly officiating.

Wynn died early Wednesday, June 4, in Cogdell Memorial Hospital in Snyder following a short illness.

The Hudman Funeral Home was in charge thereby increasing the downward effect upon this year's low mike loan discount. If a 5 to 1 factor were used, the increase in the discount would not be as great.

Stenholm said the 2 to 1 ratio was "particularly objectionable since the 1979 crop year in Texas was one of abnormally large supplies of low-mike cotton which drove down the spot price differentials an inordinate amount over what would normally have been expected."

"It is not like all of this cotton went to the loan or even that CCC will end up with large amounts of low mike cotton in their stocks", Stenholm said in comments to Bergland. "In fact, I expect that all of this cotton will be utilized by the trade. "I don't object to the continuation of the 5 to 1 weighting factor," he continued, even though I realize that this formula will result in an increase in the loan differentials. However, I think it is unfair to Texas producers to change this formula from the 5 to 1 factor that had been used for a number of years.

Conditions in nature dictate the mike reading and last year was just a freak year which produced an overabundance of low mike cotton in Texas.

"This decision by USDA, which officials there have told me was a 'judgment call,' will result in an unusually harsh burden on the cotton farmers in the Texas Rolling Plains and High Plains areas when combined with the 2.23-cent per pound drop in the national average base loan rate for 1980," Stenholm said, "and it is most urgent that this decision be reversed quickly."

Pork and poultry among 'best buys'

COLLEGE STATION — Best buys for the next two weeks include pork, poultry, dairy "specials," peanut butter, eggs and many fruits and vegetables, says Dr. Carol Akkerman Sain, a consumer information specialist.

Dr. Sain, on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, also advises consumers to watch for other promotional items offered at a savings.

These include frozen fruit juices, canned vegetables, cake mixes and frostings, she says.

Meats — Economy-minded shoppers will concentrate on pork and poultry, so it may help to know different poultry terms, she adds.

Poultry — means chickens, turkeys, ducks, geese or guineas.

Ready-to-cook poultry — means whole dressed poultry which has been cleaned and is ready for cooking.

Broiler — or fryer is a young chicken usually seven to 10 weeks of age. It's tender-meated with smooth-texture skin.

Fowl 8 or stewing chicken or hen is a mature female chicken usually more than 10 months of age with meat less tender than a roaster.

Roaster — is a young chicken usually three to five months of age that is tendermeated with soft, smooth-textured skin.

Since poultry is very perishable, be sure not to leave it uncooked in the refrigerator for more than one or two days, the specialist cautions.

Peanut butter — considered a meat substitute by nutritionists, is frequently overlooked by consumers. However, it delivers more protein for the money than any other food except dry beans, Dr. Sain points out.

Dairy — Watch for promotional on milk, yogurt, margarine, cheese slices, cottage cheese and a variety of cheddar cheese.

Fruits — Fresh-fruit economy buys will be apples, strawberries, bananas, and in some markets cantaloupes and watermelons.

Hold off on buying peaches and grapes — since prices are high and they are first-of-the-season shipments.

Lemons and limes are becoming more plentiful, so prices will be leveling.

We're seeing the last of the grapefruits for awhile, so enjoy them now.

Asparagus is in its peak season, so you may want to freeze some for later, if you have the freezer space.

Also plentiful are broccoli, carrots, corn, mustard and collard greens, potatoes and yellow crookneck squash — and they promise even greater supplies and lower prices in the next few weeks.

Don't overlook local road-

2 new wells completed

Two more completions in Garza oil fields were reported over the weekend.

In the Three-way field, Petroleum Exploration — Development Funds, Inc.'s No. 1 Peel produced 23 barrels of oil and 37 of water daily on test, 5 miles west of Post, from an interval of 4,002 to 4,062 feet.

R. K. Oil & Gas Co.'s No. 1 Beulah Bird, nine miles east of Post, in the Post field produced three barrels of oil daily and 45 of water from 2,607 to 2,624 feet.

side vegetable and fruit stands — they offer the best buys, freshness and moneywise.

Sweet potatoes and rutabagas are at the end of their season, but reasonable prices still prevail.

NLRB rules on Cal Maine Farm labor election

The National Labor Relations Board in Washington, D.C. in a May 30 decision has ruled that shipping and receiving employees of Cal-Maine Farms, Inc. of Post and Lubbock should not be included in an election to determine if Local Union 577, affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, should represent employees in contract negotiations.

In a release to The Dispatch, the NLRB overturned a ruling Jan. 23 by Regional director that all truckdrivers and mechanics as well as shipping and receiving employees be included in the election.

The National Labor Relations Board found "due to the differences in job duties and skills necessary, in-requent contact and inter-change, separate supervision, and differences in compensation, that the dockworkers are not appropriately included in the same unit with the truck-drivers. According, we shall remand the case to the regional director for the purpose of conducting an election pursuant to his decision and direction of election, as modified herein, except that the payroll period for determining eligibility shall be that ending immediately before the date of issuance of this decision on review."

The election will include 14 truckdrivers, a mechanic, and a mechanics helper. The firm's five dockworkers will not be involved in the election.

The NLRB opinion said Cal Maine Farms is engaged in the production, processing, distribution and sale of shell eggs and has facilities in Post and Lubbock. The Post facility consists of laying houses, the processing plant and a cooler-warehouse where the eggs are stored until distribution. The Lubbock facility, according to the decision, consists only of the truck maintenance shop which will soon be moved to Post.

Some ways a woman can tell she is growing old

The Dispatch a few weeks ago ran a listing so a man could determine when he was getting old.

You guessed it. This one is how a woman can tell age is creeping up on her when:

When you quit reading Dear Abby because you thing she has become too liberal.

You can remember when "the pill" used to be an aspirin.

When inner beauty suddenly becomes very important.

When you convince yourself that a couple of wrinkles give your face character.

When your children keep reminding you to act your age.

When you cancel your subscription to Cosmopolitan and begin taking Good Housekeeping.

When somebody whistles and you're not sure whether they are whistling at you.

When somebody whistles and you are sure they aren't whistling at you.

When people ask if you can "remember when?" and you can.

When you secretly hate any woman who still looks good in a two-piece bathing suit.

CBers plan fund drive

Plans for the upcoming Muscular Dystrophy drive were discussed during the regular monthly meeting of the Caprock CB Club held Sunday in the bank community room.

James and Dora Halford, Freda Schronk and son, Daisy Redman, Robert and Marie Bartlett received special recognition for going to Lubbock on May 17 to collect door prizes for the jamboree.

The Caprock CB club would like to use local talent on the program the first day of the Jamboree, August 16. Anyone interested in donating their time and talent are asked to call 495-2523 or 495-3283.

The following members were present: Bobby and Marie Bartlett and son; Anna Marie Bartlett; James and Dora Halford; Freda Schronk and son; Jake Baldree, Connie Halford, Leslie Seals and Carolyn Halford.

When you stop going to high school reunions for fear that everybody else will look younger than you do.

When somebody mentions "A Star is Born" and you immediately think of Judy Garland.

When people keep telling you that your stockings are wrinkled and you're not wearing any stockings.

When your beautician automatically adds tint to the rinse without even asking.

When you overhear your husband talking about a "hot little dish at home" and you know he is talking about your cooking.

When your favorite magazine articles have to do with dieting, marriage and regularity.

When you can put on weight by eating nothing more than peach slices and cottage cheese.

When you can wear hair curlers to bed and your husband doesn't complain.

Burlington clears the air on "brown lung"

What is "brown lung?"

Actually the term "brown lung" is misleading. The disease we are referring to is called byssinosis. It appears to be caused by some substance in the stems and leaves of the cotton plant which gets mixed in with the cotton when it is picked. This material gets ground up and released in the air in tiny invisible particles during the process of making cloth from raw cotton. Some people who are sensitive to cotton dust and who work in cotton textile plants can get disabling byssinosis or chronic lung disease through prolonged, unprotected exposure to it. It is important to realize, however, that some 20 percent of the adult U.S. population has some form of lung disease. And that many lung diseases with symptoms similar to byssinosis are often caused by other pollutants — not cotton dust. It is also important to know that we believe we have already licked the disease.

The misconceptions about byssinosis.

Contrary to what many believe, Burlington, along with the entire textile industry, cares a great deal about the health of its employees and is doing something about it.

Burlington strongly supports compensation for workers who have contracted byssinosis in its plants.

Byssinosis does not affect all people who work in cotton processing plants.

It does not turn people's lungs brown — or any other color.

Cotton lint and other visible particles do not cause byssinosis. It's what you don't see in the air that is the important contributing factor.

How Burlington cleared the air.

A little over ten years ago byssinosis began to be recognized in the United States as a health problem. Ever since, Burlington has been firmly committed to protecting our employees from it. We feel we are industry leaders in this regard and we intend to stay that way.

In 1969, Burlington began working closely with industrial health specialists in universities and governmental agencies. Based on the findings of this effort, we developed our own medical research, employee testing, and medical and chemical surveillance programs. Today, employees in Burlington's cotton plants undergo medical screening tests on a regular basis. This enables our medical staff to identify those people who may be sensitive to cotton dust and give them respiratory protection or transfers to less dusty areas.

We've spent over $50 million to install the most modern dust control equipment available. As a result, the air at Burlington plants is now much cleaner and dust levels much lower than they were 11 years ago. In fact, in many cases, the air is actually cleaner inside the plant than out.

We are proud to state that with our testing, surveillance and equipment programs new employees in Burlington plants are not contracting disabling byssinosis. We believe that due to our continuing efforts, no new employee ever will.

If there's anything you're not clear on concerning byssinosis, please write to us at Burlington.

TEEN SCENE By Norm

Lots of RED noses, rosy cheeks and lobster colored backs can be seen about as most everyone is frequenting the Ole Water Hole at the park to try and cool off from the HOT, HOT days of early summer.

The torture that these people go through just for that perfect tan (which usually peels off the first three or four times.)

Twelve of our local teens are missing from the action this week as they are attending the Wayland Flying Queens Basketball Camp in Plainview. They all left last Sunday and will return to Post Saturday following the exhibition game. Attending are eighth graders, Channa Williams, Rhonda Williams, Marta Holly, Misty West and Roxanne McClellan; freshmen include, Dana Dudley, Kim Carlisle, Rhonda Storie, Michelle Hill, Denise Smith, Carol Holleman and Cindee Jackson.

Congratulations to Donna Nelson and Cindy Polk as they became Mrs.'s instead of Misses last weekend. Donna became Mrs. Bradbury and Cindy, Mrs. McKibben.

Jerri returned home last week following a visit in Idalou with Pam Baker.

There is a new familiar face in Post again. Kurt Chapman has returned to the old stomping grounds to live once more. Welcome back Kurt.

Terry Huntley of Lubbock was visiting in Post over the weekend with relatives and friends.

Churck Morris is planning a trip to Six Flags this weekend with relatives.

Mark Holly is driving a new pickup. A tutone brown????

A birthday party and dance is in the making for Mike Babb towards the end of the month. More details later.

Greg Williams is up and around again (on crutches) and doing great. He was released from the hospital on Saturday.

People, don't forget the Youth Center has reopened. That's what you've been waiting for, and participation is not all what it should be. Interested parents are taking their time to open it for you, so please take part again and let them know how much you appreciate

It's estimated that it took a work force of over 100,000 men 20 to 30 years to build the pyramids in Egypt.

City Council in meet—

(Continued From Page One) killer has been sprayed along airport runways, and that a Texas Aeronautics Commission inspector, C. Jay Lyons, Jr., in a recent inspection cited three runway low spots which needed filling.

Airport repairs have been in the talking stage with the council for the last two years.

Maddox reported 80 to 100 tons of hot mix would be needed for the filling and that neither city nor county had the necessary equipment, including a roller, to do the job.

The council decided to advertise for bids to meet necessary legal requirements, then purchase he material and arrange to rent the necessary equipment.

Maddox said the city still is awaiting delivery of two trucks it has ordered and at present can't even haul the hot mix.

He was to contact the county to work out arrangements for its cooperation on the badly needed project.

The city has $10,000 in its budget for airport repairs and the county has $8,000 according to Maddox.

Councilman Jack Alexander who is also chairman of the park board, said since Post is situated in a flood plain, a public hearing on park improvements will be required legally before the city can make application for federal aid funds for improvements.

He said the first park improvement to be sought will be to obtain new playground equipment.

The council set the Tuesday date for the public hearing as it coincides with the next meeting of the park board.

The new cemetery ordinance will apply some restrictions to a new development area of the cemetery, forbidding trees, shrubs or bushes to be planted in the area and limiting the height of grave stones to 18 inches.

A fine of up to $200 is provided in the ordinance for violations.

City Clerk Wanda Wilkerson told the council she would have a preliminary budget in members' hands within a few days for the study prior to a council session on the new budget June 23.

Two possible items for the new budget were discussed briefly.

One was the replacing of the entire piping system at the swimming pool due to leak problems. Alexander promised to have some kind of an estimate ready for the council in a few weeks.

The other was whether or not the city should make the Commonwealth Theatres an offer to purchase the two local theater properties. Officials of the firm say if the city is interested it should make the company an offer.

The city wants to tear down the older of the two theaters in the 200 block East Main as a fire trap and has considered condemning it for that purpose.

Chamber president Larry Willard proposed last year that the city purchase the Tower Theater next to the Post Public Library and city hall and possibly restore it to use rather than let it completely deteriorate and also become a fire hazard.

Council members in a brief discussion said they would want to know how expensive repair costs on the Tower might be before considering its purchase. They agreed they would have to budget the money for purchase and repair, so their decision becomes a possible budget item.

The council also agreed with a request by Library board chairman Jim Cornish to adjust Librarian Peewee Pierce's salary for the next fiscal year.

In another action, the council approved an agreement with the state highway department and adopted an ordinance on an emergency basis to give the state the right to install, operate, and maintain highway traffic signals past three Post schools on West Eighth street which is US-380.

The city plans to file charges against five local mobile home owners for non-compliance with the city's mobile home ordinance as a result of a recent "compliance inspection" of all mobile homes within the city.

Such homes are required to be "tied down" and skirted and violators can be fined up to $200 if found guilty.

The council Monday night gave "another two weeks" to one mobile home owner to get into compliance after she explained no one is now living in the trailer and that work already has put the trailer partially in compliance.

Maddox sent a letter to all mobile home owners found in violation of the city ordinance in May advising them to get into compliance by June 9 or face misdemeanor charges.

The council also agreed to distribute to surrounding counties a proposed agreement to limit the legal liability of volunteer fire departments which go to the aid of their neighbors in fighting major fires.

The agreement was drawn by Morton.

The "dog problem" came to the fore again when Chief Sheriff Deputy Donnie Walker appeared at the start of the meeting to discuss any law enforcement matters the council wanted to take up.

He told the council that the city-county dog catcher had not responded to three recent calls by the sheriff's department to pick up strays.

Maddox replied that neither had the sheriff's department responded recently either when the city called for an officer to shoot dangerous dogs within the city limits.

Deputy Walker said the sheriff's department didn't have a rifle needed to shoot dogs. He said discharging a shotgun inside the city limits was too dangerous.

Council members suggested the sheriff's department purchase such "a dog gun" and the city would pay half of it. Maddox also agreed to check with the dog catcher on answering calls.

The dog catcher has a tranquilizing gun to help catch dogs, but Maddox said its pellets required two to three minutes to take effect on the dog and by that time it may have gotten away from the dog catcher. He added that the tranquilizer gun is not effective to bring down skunks which also are a local problem.

Mayor pro-tem Bill Pool chaired the council session in the absence of Mayor Giles McCrary.

On the average it takes 1.2 seconds to make a field goal in football, including the snap from center, the ball placement and an accurate hit by the kicker.
