The Crown Princess of Sweden, who is a daughter of the Grand Dulke of Baden, and a grand-daughter of the Emperor William, had along her maids of honor a young Swedish lady, Miss Munck, known for her beauty, grace and charming manner. Wherever she went she was admired, and while with the Crown Princess in Germany she even attracted the attention of the Emperor William, who has always been a worshiper of the fair sex; but although of noble birth, Miss Munck was poor and an orphan. Her father, Col. Munck, had left her a long line of ancestors, all galant soldiers, but very little money. W. B. MERRILL.
Yesterdny afternoon, under the lustraction of Mr. Adams, a force of men was sent to guard the Merrill residence and sternmously oppose any attempt on the part of the health officer or his agents to remove the girl to the pest-house. Among those who are guarding the house is a constable, who is instructed to arrest any person who attempts to enter the house is a constable, who is instructed to arrest any person who attempts to enter the house after being warned. The small gramy is now awaiting the coming of Dr. Crowley or his agents, and what the result of the meeting will be remains to be seen. Atty. Adams says that all his actions in the case will be within the law.

The code provides that "homeless and indigent persons" may be sent to the pest-house, and it is believed that Merrill's position will be sustained should the matter culminate in law proceedings.

Puritanical Persecution.

In September, 1638, the General Court of the Colony of Massachusetts decreed that no one should "take any tobacco in any inne or common victualing house, except in a private roome there, so as neither the master of the same house nor any other guests there?" should "take offense thereat. Which if they do, they such person is fourwith to forbeare, upon paine of 2s. 6d. for every offence."

This statute comes under the head of what the people of Massachusetts now call "an Old Blue Law." Nevertheless the Rev. Mr. Wassall, of Mendon, Mass., has been recently dismissed from his pulpit because he was in the habit of "smoking a pipe on secret."

Just 250 years, therefore, after the Colonial ourt haid down a law regarding tobacco-canoking which seems to possess many elements of justice and lenlency, we find a Massachusetts minister who is obliged to suffer severe punishment for doing that which the Puritan lawmakers directly countenanced by statute. For the law of 1638 says plainly that a man shall be permitted to smoke solong as he thereby offends no one in his immediate vicinity.

Now, if the Rev. Mr. Wassall had been in the habit of smoking his pipe in public, or had blown through the streets of Mendon the amonying odor of cheap cigars, there might have been some slight excuse for the action of his courgregation.

But Mr. Wassail always secluded himself that the light of the lighted his light and except and the people do favor a freer trade." That's and the people do favor a freer trade." have been some slight excuse for the action of his congregation.

But Mr. Wassail always secluded himself when he lighted his pipe, and never, even in the secrecy of complete retirement, did he so far forget himself as to smoke a cigarette.

When, therefore, the narrow-minded congregation over which he has presided rises in its abourd wrath and says that Mr. Wassail must go, the reverend smoker becomes at once a martyr and is entitled to the sympathy of all just and reasonable men.—New York World, favors free trade. One of the nuisances about the leading hotels of New York is the hotel detective. With one openful acceptions he in considerably worse of a the average private detective. On account of being connected with the hotel has great facilities for making money in a doubtful sort of way. I heard a story of one of these follows who had just been of these fellows who had just been discharged, and it convinced me that the hotel detective can be a very dangerous person to deal with if he is devoid of principle. Being connected with the hotel he naturally learns all about the business of the guests, and has little difficulty in getting acquainted with them. There is hardly an officer of the hotels who make so much money as these detectives. Outside of their duties of looking out for the affairs of the hetels, they are allowed to act as guides in showing guests the dark ways

The Sweetest off in School.

"She's the sweetest off in school." enthusiastically exclaimed one young miss to another, as they passed down the street together. "Edith is so kind, and gentle, and unselfish, every one likes her. And she has lovely golden hair and pretty eyes. Isn't it a tity her complexion is so bad; it stools her looks. And then she has such dreadful headaches!" The girls skipped along, but it happened Edith's mother had heard what they waid. It set her thinking. What could be done for thoge headaches and the rough, muddy complexion that was such a trial to her gentle daughter. She recalled what she had read of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and on the sour of the moment she slipped into a drug store and bought a supply. Edith took it faithfully, with the result that it cleared her disordered blood, relieved the headaches, made her skin soft, fair and rosy, and now she is not only the sweetest girl in school," but the most beaus, itiful. March April

"For many months I suffered greatly. My whole space when my little boy was playing space when my little boy was playing state seemed to be entirely run down, my ambition was gone, had pains in my back, and a feeling of lassitude which I could not throw off. I was treated ansuccessfully for kid-ey trouble. I determined to try Hood's Sarsaparlia. Before the first bottle was taken I can candidly say I was relieved. I have used the medicine off and on ever since, and recommend the medicine off and on ever since, and recommend to for kidney or liver complaint." Mrs. W. II. strang, 387 Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.
