The Post Dispatch publisher Wesley W. Burnett has announced this week a new service to Garza County people serving in the U.S. military on duty in "Operation Desert Shield", which provides for a free subscription during their tour of duty in the Persian Gulf.

"This is just one small way we can help bring a little joy to the lives of those so far away from home in a very uncertain situation," Burnett said. "It's like getting a weekly letter from home," Burnett added, "and when I read in a recent newspaper trade journal edition about this idea from an out-of-state publisher, I realized that we could do the same thing."

Those interested in taking advantage of the "Desert Shield" free subscription offer should call the Dispatch office at 495-2816. The offer is limited to those military personnel from Garza County currently serving on duty in "Operation Desert Shield" in the Persian Gulf area.

Cotton Unlimited, Founder's Day highlight 1990

by Wes Burnett

The two big stories for Post in 1990 had to be the formal opening of a new industry and the tremendous success of Founders' Day.

Cotton Unlimited, Inc. held formal opening ceremonies during the Founder's Day week in October, signaling the production of cotton insulating materials at the Postex Plant building.

The 1990 Founder's Day Celebration was packed with activities, too numerous to recap, and filled the streets with visitors from all over.

January

The year began with a successful Junior Livestock Show and Sale with $49,588 in the sale, with 61 exhibitors. The Garza County Commissioners' Court received road plans for the Lake Alan Henry area, Alan Henry was the surprise guest speaker at the Garza Theatre "Willy Awards" and the Post-Montgomery families and foundations presented a generous donation to the Caprock Cultural Association.

The late Joe Callis was inducted into the Garza County Cowboy Hall of Fame at the Post Chamber of Commerce banquet, which featured Texas Tech University President Robert Lawless as guest speaker. Will McCrary was named citizen of the year and Wallace Lumber was tabbed as business of the year at the banquet. Reconstruction work began on East 15th Street between the Ralls Hwy and U.S. Hwy 84.

February

Garza County commissioners approved funding for "bat proofing" the museum, local Texas Department of Public Safety troopers cautioned motorists about the use of seat belts, Post High School's Jackie Cruse was the subject of taping by members of the "Texas Country Reporter" crew, and PHS was realigned by the U.I.L. to compete in Class AA. Wanda Mitchell was named as Main Street Manager.

March

Brandon Bird won the Maine-Anjou Junior Market Steer Show competition at the Houston Livestock Show, and The Post Dispatch editor Lonnie Welborn died March 10. An armed man with a shotgun burglarized Fort Justice, giving owners Riley and Mary Miller a real scare when they happened onto the scene.

April

Post High School put a number of athletes into regional competition with track qualifiers including Dusti Cash, Sara Alexander, Crystal Clay, Dana Morris, LouAnn Ammons, Ranetta Cruse, Megan Bush, Reshea Hair, Bobby Blair, Roger Adams, Matt McCook, Jamie Perez and Matt Holly. The varsity girls won the District 3AAA gold championship with team members Dusti Cash, Misty Bartlett, Cathi Cash, Becky Shumard and Raeline Bagby advancing to regional competition. Nancy Criado qualified for the tennis regionals.

Cliff Kirkpatrick and Will Kirkpatrick were subjects of television commercial filming at the Kirkpatrick ranch by a Japanese film crew. The commercials were aimed at the Japanese market. "Chief" Frank Runkles, performing the annual Taba'na Yuan'e ceremony, found a southwest wind at sunrise, pointing to a below average year.

May

The Post Art Guild Spring Art Show featured 233 displays. The Post High School varsity girls won the 800 meter relay state championship at Austin, with Dana Morris, Megan Bush, Crystal Clay and Sara Alexander bringing home the gold. The Cinco de Mayo celebration was termed a success and landscaping on East Main Street got underway with planting of trees. Luci Rodriguez, Tina Brumalaw and Krista Kemp were state U.I.L. qualifiers in feature writing, headline writing and news writing.

June

The signs of industrial growth here took shape with the signing of a 15 year lease with the Post Economic Development Corp. by Cotton Unlimited, Inc.'s Joe Pate. Post ISD honored former trustees Jack Kirkpatrick, Tom Middleton and Don Payne. Garza County benefited from a generous six to eight inches of rainfall, putting smiles on area ranchers and farmers. Also in June the Main Street landscaping project was formally dedicated, with State Senator John Montford, State Representative David Counts and Texas Highway Department representatives at the event.

July

Dr Jeff and Syan Young and family were honored at a reception, as he began his medical practice here. Brent McDonald was awarded an $8,000 scholarship by the Houston Livestock Show. The Texas Commission on the Arts awarded three grants to the CCA and the Post City Council put an ordinance on the books outlawing skateboarding and bicycles from business sidewalks. The Garza Theatre got rave reviews from patrons on the popular "A Harley Sadler Show." The Post Volunteer Fire Department battled a stubborn grass fire for two days and the community enjoyed one of the best Post Chamber of Commerce sponsored July 4th celebrations. Congressman Charles Stenholm cast a courageous vote against amending the U.S. Constitution, providing an eloquent defense of the First Amendment and freedom of speech.

August

Work began on renovation of the Garza Theatre building and the Post Art Guild's Kids 'n' Art provided local support for the MDA telethon. The Post Antelope football team began practice for its 1990 season and a record attendance was reported by the Post Stampede Rodeo. Vandals desecrated tombstones at the cemetery and broke several windows at downtown businesses. (Continued on Page 8)

Rafe Foreman, Joe Duran, Curtis Hudman, Barbara Hardin, Jerry Taylor, Christy Morris or Joy Fluit.

Mark and Jennie Lynn Hodges, who live in Plainview, Texas, are native West Texans having been born and raised in the Olton community. They began at an early age singing and playing at church, and for various civic organizations in and around the area.

Graduating from Olton High School in the mid 1970's, they both attended West Texas State University where Jennie Lynn continued her musical studies while Mark pursued an agricultural degree. Having grown up as very close friends, and with their musical interests, it was inevitable that they would marry each other which they did in 1977. Jennie Lynn graduated in 1979 with a B.A. in Music Education with her main concentration being in voice and organ. In 1982 she earned her masters degree in the same field. That same year she went to work at Wayland Baptist University, and is currently an Assistant Professor of Music there. Mark graduated with a B.S. in Ag-Business and Economics in 1979, and has been working at Kress National Bank since that time, currently serving as Executive Vice President.

Through the years both have been very involved in Christian music ministries having served as Ministers of Music at First Baptist Church in Olton for thirteen years and currently serving in the same capacity at First United Methodist Church, Plainview.

They have two children Heather, seven, and Harlan, four. Performing with the Hodges' is another Oltonite, Lonnie Venable. He has been adding his own unique style of rhythm and lead guitar to the couples' music for the past nine years.

Most noted for their entertaining at Chamber banquets, conferences, annual meetings, and benefits, the threesome compliment each other by combining their varied musical backgrounds and interests with the latest musical technology to reproduce the unique and sophisticated sounds of today's progressive country music. Besides many of the banquets they have performed for some of their past performances include Texas Cattle Feeders Assn. Annual Meeting, Texas-Tech Ag-Credit Conference, Boys Ranch Telethon, Hale County Pioneer Roundup, Amarillo's Centennial Celebration, as well as singing regularly at the West Texas Opry.

MARK AND JENNIE LYNN HODGES will provide entertainment at the January 12 Post Chamber of Commerce annual banquet.

USDA announces 1991 wheat, feed grains and cotton acreage reduction program

Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter has announced the acreage reduction program (ARP) requirements for the 1991 crop of wheat at 15 percent, grain sorghum at 7.5 percent, and upland cotton at 5 percent. Yeutter said, "This announcement is in accordance with the recently enacted Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990. This Act will guide American agricultural farm policy through the 1995 crops. This announcement provides farmers with basic information they will need to plan for the 1991 crops."

Program signup will begin in March. Other specific dates will be announced later.

Target prices for 1991 crops will be: wheat ($/bu), 4.00; grain sorghum ($/bu), 2.61 and upland cotton ($/lb), .729.

Advance deficiency payments will be: Estimated Payment rate and Advance Rate are winter wheat ($/bu), 1.40, .56; grain sorghum ($/bu), .56, .224 and upland cotton ($/lb), .10, .04.

The advance payment rate is equal to 40 percent of the estimated deficiency payment rate. All advance payments will be made in case.

Price support loan rates will be: wheat ($/bu), 2.04; grain sorghum ($/bu), 1.54 and upland cotton ($/lb), .5077.

Marketing loan programs are in effect for upland cotton. Under this program loan deficiency payments (difference between the loan rate and the level at which the loan may be repaid) will be available to producers who agree to forgo loan eligibility in return for such payments.

Producers may plant crops other than the program crop (wheat, grain sorghum and cotton) on up to 25 percent of any participating program crop acreage base (CAB). This acreage will be known as "flex" acreage. Permitted crops on flex acreage are any program crop, any oilseed, and any other crop except any fruit or vegetable.

Cotton crop yields varied according to insect problem

by Lee Howard, CEA

42,351 bales ginned in 1990

Now who could have believed that we would have had as good of a cotton crop as we did with all the dry weather in June. However, we lived through that and it turned into a pretty good cotton year with a great fall.

Yields were up across the country as compared to a year ago, but due to a very heavy bollworm and aphid infestation individual farmers realized an increase or a decrease in yields according to their insect practices.

An economic impact of around $15,542,817.00 could be seen in the county due to this year's crop. This figure was generated from multiplying the total pounds of cotton by the target price.

Farmers needs to be taking soil samples and preparing to make next year's crop budgets and plans to help generate good yields if mother nature will cooperate with them.

1990 a milestone year in ag research at A&M

Cotton with high quality fibers, rice that yields two crops a year and a grass that seldom needs mowing were among this year's developments from the $100 million agriculture research program at Texas A&M University.

The maximum payment acreage for each program crop will be the product of multiplying the crop acreage base established for crop by 85 percent (the other 15 percent is known as "normal flex acres" or "triple base") conservation uses under an acreage reduction program.

As required by the 1990 Act, the amount of land (i.e. ACR) producers will be required to idle under the acreage reduction program will be determined by multiplying the acreage reduction percentage time the crop acreage base established for a crop on the farm. Previously, the ACR was determined by multiplying the planted acreage of the program crop by a factor calculated by dividing the announced ARP requirement by the permitted acreage of the commodity.

Wheat and feed grain producers may devote a portion, of all, of the permitted acreage to conservation uses and be eligible to receive guaranteed deficiency payments on these acres less 8 percent of the permitted under the 50/92 or 0/92 program. Cotton producers only have the 50/92 option available.

Farm program payment yields will be the same as those established for the 1990 crops. For the 1991 crops and subsequent years, irrigated yields will not be established on any acreage not irrigated prior to the 1991 crop year.

Producers who certify that no acreage on the farm was planted to the program crop and that any fruit or vegetables planted on the farm was not in excess of normal plantings will have the entire program crop acreage base considered as planted for base retention purposes. This option will be available for nonparticipation program crops. This provision is known as "zero certification."

Garza County doing better than state in employment

The unemployment rate in Garza County for November was reported at 5.2 percent, compared to the state-wide average of 6.8 percent, according to a report from the Texas Employment Commission.

The report showed 1,972 total available for the work force with 1,870 employed and 102 seeking employment in Garza County.

The state-wide rates increased from 5.3 percent in October. "We obviously had good reason to doubt last month's jobless rate," commissioner Mary Scott Nabers said, "because this month's unemployment numbers are right back up there."

The November jobless rate is the highest for the state since February of 1990.

J.P. Wood, executive director of the Consulting Engineers Council of Texas and president of the League since its creation five years ago, said Montford provided strong leadership for badly needed reform bills in the 1987 and 1989 Legislatures.

"Taxpayers and consumers pick up the tab for lawsuit abuse," Word said. "Without the dedication of John Montford, the people of Texas would have made no headway in bringing more equity to the civil justice system."

Nitroglycerin Relieves Angina Pain

Nitroglycerin is a blood vessel dilator medicine that is used to prevent and/or reduce the severity of discomfort and pain associated with angina pectoris. Angina is thought to be caused by an insufficient flow of blood through the vessels of the heart. Nitroglycerin relieves chest pain by relaxing the muscles that surround the blood vessels in the heart, thus allowing more blood and oxygen to reach the heart.

Nitroglycerin in its various dosage forms can cause brief temporary headache, facial neck flushing, weakness, and dizziness. One may need to sit down for a few minutes after taking nitroglycerin.

Sublingual Tablets: Small nitroglycerin tablets that are to be placed under the tongue are called sublingual tablets. They should not be swallowed. As the sublingual tablet dissolves, the medicine is absorbed into blood vessels inside the mouth. Pain may be relieved in 2 to 3 minutes.

Oral Tablets and Capsules: Long-acting oral capsules or tablets may prevent angina pain for 8 to 12 hours.

Topical Dosage Forms: Nitroglycerin also may be absorbed through the skin from an ointment or a skin patch.

Wendy Medlin, Greg Adams wed December 22

Wendy Medlin became the bride of Greg Adams on December 22, 1990 in a double ring ceremony performed at 7:00 p.m. in the sanctuary of the Oakwood Baptist Church in Lubbock. Dr. Cleve Haley, pastor of the church, officiated the ceremony.

Mr and Mrs Charles Medlin, of Loop, are the parents of the bride. The groom's parents are Mr and Mrs Charles Adams of Post.

The foyer of the church held the registration table which was attended by Kelli Watts of San Angelo. It was accented with long stem white and royal blue silk roses in a vase adorned with white iridescent and royal blue ribbon and baby's breath, also on the table was a bridal portfolio taken by Reggie Vaughn of Lamesa.

An arched brass candelabra flanked with votive candles centered the front of the church. On each side were red poinsettias placed to resemble a Christmas tree. Garland and bows draped the front of the church. A lighted Christmas wreath hung above the piano and organ. Royal blue pew bows marked the pews.

A prelude of instrumental Christmas music was provided. Organist Robin Dain and pianist Sandi Davis accompanied soloist, Kathy Gwyn, as she presented "The Rose." Kathy performed a solo "There is Love" during the symbolic unity candle ceremony.

The bride, escorted by her father, entered to the traditional "Wedding March" presented by Mrs Dain.

Wendy's gown, designed by Wendy and Laura McKenzie and made by Laura, was of white satin with an open neckline and a deep cut bodice back, bordered with scalloped of jeweled lace. The entire bodice was richly adorned with Victorian lace, encrusted with pearls and white iridescent sequins. The sequins and pearls were put on the lace by the bride, her family and close friends. The full bouffant satin sleeve was attached to a fitted sheer sleeve at the elbow and stopped in a point at the center of the hand. The sheer sleeve was adorned with Victorian lace encrusted with pearls and sequins.

The satin skirt with sheer overlay swept up to a large satin bow at the back of the long waistline, cascading into a sweeping cathedral length train. The skirt was ornamented with lace, pearls and sequins. The train contained 83 yards of sparkle organza ruffles.

Wendy's veil, made by Laura, was double layered, gathered and complimented with a satin bow and a waterfall of pearls and miniature iridescent flowers. It was attached to a headpiece of flowers and pearls.

She carried a dainty, silk cascade of white roses, rose buds and baby's breath, made by J.D. Keel.

In keeping with tradition, the bride chose her wedding attire as "something new." "Something old" was a pair of pearls given to her by her grandparents, Mr and Mrs McFarland. "Something borrowed" was an heirloom handkerchief borrowed from her aunt, Irene McFarland, and "something blue" was her garter. Patty Kirkpatrick of Post gave Wendy a sixpence for her shoe.

Trenia Lawson of Seagraves, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Suzanne Medlin of Lamesa, sister-in-law of the bride and Tonya Deel of Andrews, cousin of the bride.

The attendants wore tea-length dresses, made by Laura, of crepe back royal blue satin. The low back neck line was accented with crossing straps. A flounce with a satin flower flowed from the low waist line in the back. They carried a white long stem silk rose with royal blue and white streamers.

Lauren Heintzelman of Big Lake served as flower girl. She was dressed in crepe back royal blue satin with a matching bow for her hair.

The groom wore a white tuxedo with white accessories.

Roger Adams of Dallas, brother of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Michael Price of Sherman, cousin of the groom and Scotty Bruington of Lubbock.

Ushers were Brent Medlin of Lamesa and Bobby Medlin of Loop, both brothers of the bride.

The male attendants and ushers were each attired in black tuxedos with royal blue accessories.

A reception followed in the church parlor.

The focus of the bride's table was a four-tier white cake. Centered on top was a crystal heart surrounded in white flowers, white ribbon and pearls. The groom's table held a white connected double heart chocolate cake with the inscription "And the two shall become one" on one heart and "Greg and Wendy" inscribed on the other heart.

Assisting guests were Barbara and Denise Abbott of Andrews, Irene McFarland of Seagraves, Jeanie Jones of San Angelo, Renee Hillis of Lubbock, Gentry Owen of San Angelo and Anne Price of Sherman.

Wendy is a graduate of Loop High School and is attending Angelo State University. The groom graduated from Post High School and earned a business and marketing degree from Angelo State University.

After a honeymoon in Ruidoso, N.M., the couple will reside in San Angelo where Greg is presently employed with Schertz Landscaping.

Radle considered for academy

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm (D-TX) is pleased to announce that Michael Radle has been selected as a nominee to the United States Service Academies, Naval and Merchant Marines. He will be considered for the academy classes entering in July 1991.

"I am always so impressed by the high caliber of candidates that apply to my office each year," said Stenholm. "But it certainly makes a selection decision all the more difficult."

Ten individuals per academy were nominated to compete for one appointment each at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colorado; the Military Academy at West Point, New York; and the Merchant Marine Academy in Kings Point, New York. Twenty individuals were nominated to compete for two appointment slots at the Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland.

Stenholm's nominees for the 17th District and the academies to which they have been nominated, are: Bryan Baird of Ballinger, Air Force; Paul Boatman of Weatherford, Naval and Military; Charity Breidenbach of Abilene, Air Force and Naval;

James E. Collins II of Azle, Naval and Merchant Marine; Bryan Conlon of Weatherford, Air Force and Military; David Erwin of Jacksboro, Military and Naval;

Christopher Ficke of Big Spring, Military and Naval; Aubrey Gabriel of Dyess Air Force Base, Naval and Merchant Marine; Bobby Holloway of Decatur, Air Force;

Tony Horn of Jacksboro, Military and Naval; Keith Horton of Abilene, Naval; Jason Hull of Bryson, Naval; James Ray Johnson II of Abilene, Naval;

Robert Manore of Abilene, Naval and Merchant Marine; Layne McDowell of Crosbyton, Naval and Merchant Marine; Alex McKinney III of Mineral Wells, Naval;

Jason Mosley of Abilene, Naval and Merchant Marine; Wade Parks of Big Spring, Military and Merchant Marine;

Michael Radle of Post, Naval and Merchant Marine; Ricky Roberson of Clyde, Military and Merchant Marine; Robin Russell of Mineral Wells, Air Force, Naval and Merchant Marine;

Zachary Staples of Abilene, Air Force, Naval and Military; Matthew Thornton of Springtown, Air Force;

Patrick Villa of Sweetwater, Military; Blair Williams of Snyder, Air Force and Naval; Colin Witt of Abilene, Naval, Air Force, and Military.

The nominees will now be conducted by the academies with addition information and instructions, and will be scheduled for medical and physical examinations. The academies will make appointment announcements by late spring.

Vets given first chance to bid

Texas veterans wanting information on a February 26 sale of 456 tracts of forfeited state land can call the Texas Veterans Land Board at 1-800-252-8387. A catalogue describing each tract will be mailed out around January 10, 1991.

Located in 118 Texas counties, these tracts are being offered exclusively to eligible Texas veterans and can be purchased with no down payment.

The VLB will finance the full amount of all winning bids. There is no limit on the amount loaned or on the number of tracts that an individual can bid on. However, eligible Texas veterans are limited to one land purchase in the sale.

"Texas veterans should take advantage of this sale if they are in the market for land to use for recreation or as an investment," said Garry Mauro, who serves as chairman of the Texas Veterans Land Board. "Since these tracts have never been offered for sale by the board, this sale gives Texas veterans an excellent opportunity to buy good land with 100 percent financing."

Mauro noted that setting aside new forfeitures exclusively for bids from Texas veterans is a long-time VLB policy.

"The land program is a Texas way of saying thanks to our veterans," Mauro said. "It's only fair that they should get first shot at these tracts."

Tracts not sold in the February sale will be offered to both veterans and non-veterans through local real estate agents.

Eligible Texas veterans will receive a 7.99 percent interest rate with a 30-year assumable fixed-rate loan. A $25 non-refundable fee for each bid submitted is required.

The sale will be by sealed bid only, with a minimum bid set by the board. All bids must be received by February 26 at 1 p.m. Bidders need not be present at the bid opening.

Details of the sale and a description of each tract and its location can be obtained by calling the VLB toll-free at 1-800-252-8387.

Nugent elected as RRC chairman

Commissioner James E. (Jim) Nugent has been named chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission after nominations by outgoing Chairman Kent Hance and a concurring vote from Commissioner John Sharp.

Nugent will head the 100-year-old regulatory agency through the beginning of the new year. In January, the three commissioners in office at that time, Nugent, Bob Krueger, and Lena Guerrero, will meet to elect a chairman from among themselves.

Extension Council committees conduct long range planning

Members of Extension Program Council Committees and Long Range Study Groups Extension Program met for their annual meeting and to discuss and distribute the 1991-94 Long Range Extension Program Books.

The 1991-94 LREP had been developed by the groups since March.

The mission of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service is to develop research-based educational programs designed to meet the changing needs of the people of Texas. In carrying out this responsibility Extension is guided by the principle of "helping people help themselves." The strength of our efforts to provide meaningful programs comes from the involvement of community leaders in our program planning process. Representatives in each county of the state work with their County Extension Agents on committees to identify problems that affect their lives. They then develop a long-range program of action for solving those problems.

The long-range programs from the counties then became the foundation of a statewide four-year program that guided program development and the resource allocation for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

In 1987 this such group met in Garza County and developed their Long Range Extension Plan. Community and County leaders met in four areas that are, 1. Agriculture and natural Resources, 2. Home Economics, 3. Community Development, and 4. 4-H and Youth. These groups met and discussed the future of Garza County as it related to each issue heading. This group of leaders came up with 12 issues. These issues were then developed into the 1987-90 Long Range Extension Program.

Some of these issues were Agricultural Management and Marketing, Maximum Economic Yields, and Natural Resources and Water. Programs were conducted in each of these issues with the intentions of broadening the knowledge of the producers and other interested persons. I am currently surveying agricultural lenders to see if the producers that they serve have improved as to generating budgets and fact sheets about their businesses. Producers are also being questioned to check their knowledge base as to their ability to keep records and make budgets. They are also being asked about how they market their products they produce. The information that is gathered from these surveys will be used to develop a data base to check the progress of the programs that will be conducted as to the issues that were identified by the study groups in 1990.

There are a lot of similarities between the agricultural related issues that were identified in 1990 and in 1987. Some of these issues are: Increasing Agricultural Productivity and Competitiveness, Water Quality and Quantity, and Awareness of Agricultural Policy and Chemical Use. Programs are being developed in these areas to help increase the knowledge base of the producers in Garza County. We are also planning another evaluation of these programs to check the progress of the Extension Services Programs and to see if these products are taking advantage of all programs to make life as easy as possible.

Issues in the Home Economics and Youth areas were also identified. Some of the issues in 1987 were: Family Economic Stability, Lifestyles, Parenting, 4-H Leadership Development and 4-H Stress Management. Lots of programs were conducted to enhance these issues such as the continuing work with our Garza County 4-H programs, Health Fairs, Child Safety Seat Program, and Alcohol and Drug Abuse Programs.

The Home Economics issue that were identified in the 1990 process are again very similar to those that were identified in 1987. They include Parenting, and Developing the Economic Skills of Young Parents. Plans to develop and start programs in these areas will begin as soon as we can attain another Home Economics Agent.

In 1990 we directed our efforts to include all youth when identifying issues that relate in this area. The issue to be addressed in the next four years will be Youth Leadership, Involvement and Self-esteem. Plans to increase the ability of the youth to be leaders in all aspects of life and to increase their ability to make decisions about their careers are just a couple of plans for programs that will be conducted in this issue.

Also in the 1990-94 Long Range Extension Plan an issue was identified that was titled Improving Intra-Community Communication. This issue will be directed to improve the working relationships between the service and social organizations in the county. There will also be efforts to get these groups along with both the city and county governmental organizations more involved in the Extension efforts to provide quality programs for the citizens of the county.

It is you, the leaders and concerned citizens of the county, that make our jobs as the Garza County Extension Agents the challenge that it is. Your interest in the counties well-being and increasing the opportunities for Garza County to excel is appreciated by all that are involved.

Ag students to study crop research

Ag students at Western Texas College will have more opportunities to study crop research as a new cooperative agreement between the college, Texas Tech University, the Soil Conservation Service and Texas A&M Extension Service goes into effect, David Kattes, assistant professor of agriculture said.

WTC owns a 320-acre farm south of Snyder where the research will be conducted. It will include studies of fertility, insecticides and herbicides, and a variety test on cotton and small grains and sudan. Eleven varieties of wheat are being tested for their forage capabilities.

"The cooperating agencies will provide specialized knowledge and, at times, needed equipment," Kattes said. "We are looking forward to working with Scurry County extension agent as well as Lee Howard, Garza County extension agent, and other county agents right around us as we get into the crop research program."

A graduate of Texas A&M University; Kattes joined the WTC faculty at the start of the 1990 fall semester. He formerly served as research director for Von Roeder Seed Farms, Inc., in Snyder. At WTC, Kattes teaches agronomy, herbicide and pesticide use and entomology. Other instructors in the WTC ag department are Bob Doty and Jim Judah. Information about the WTC livestock and agriculture programs can be obtained by contacting any of the instructors.

Poka-Lambro scholarships

Poka-Lambro Telephone Cooperative, Inc will once again award two $1,000 scholarships. The son or daughter of any Poka-Lambro member graduating from an area high school is eligible.

One scholarship will be awarded to an engineering student and the other will go to a college-bound student entering into general studies.

Scholarship recipients will be chosen according to grades, financial need and extra-curricular activities.

Scholarship applications have been mailed to area high schools. They may also be picked up at our office located at 409 8th in O'Donnell or we will gladly mail an application upon request.

All applications must be received in our office by March 15. Scholarships will be presented March 28th at the Poka-Lambro Annual Meeting.

If you have any questions or would like additional information, please call Amy Preston at 806-924-7234.

FMHA taking applications

The Farmers Home Administration, preparing to ease its ban on granting emergency loans to farmers without crop insurance, has instructed local FmHA offices to begin accepting loan applications, says U.S. Senator Phil Gramm.

"The 1990 farm bill specifically waives the crop-insurance requirement, and now FmHA is moving to reverse its policy as the law requires," Gramm said.

Specifically, FmHA's Washington office has advised its state directors, district directors and county supervisors to begin processing emergency loan applications from farmers who did not carry crop insurance in 1990.

"Clearly, FmHA intends to complete the procedure in January by revising an old regulation under which even accepting the applications was prohibited," the senator said.

In fact, the FmHA directive instructs local officials to advise farmers of the waiver and for those who appear to meet other eligibility standards, to process loan applications "to the point of approval."

"Such applications will be held for final action by the County Committee and the loan approval official when the revised regulations are issued," says the FmHA directive.

The senator called the FmHA directive "a step in the right direction to help Texas farmers who did not have the benefit of federal disaster payments this year, even though the many Texas producers are experiencing their worst harvest in years."

RRC names gas committee members

As a surge of arctic air grips Texas, the Railroad Commission has named members to a committee of representatives from major natural gas pipelines across the state.

The committee will monitor and coordinate preparations by the state's gas pipelines to deal with peak cold-weather demand from natural gas users.

"Several years ago, the Commission asked the state's natural gas pipelines to form a Voluntary Allocation Committee," Commission Chairman James E. (Jim) Nugent said.

"In periods of peak gas use, this committee works to move supplies of gas around the state from areas where there are adequate supplies to areas where pipelines are struggling to keep up with consumer demand."

"The pipelines and their cooperation through the Voluntary Allocation Committee are an effective defense against gas curtailments," Nugent said.

"The committee has performed extremely well in previous years and they are ready to swing into action now. Citizens should be assured that the state's pipelines will be doing their best to avert gas supply problems during periods of unusually cold weather this winter."

Poka-Lambro offers new telcard service for customers

Poka-Lambro Telephone Cooperative, Inc is now offering its customers the new "Poka-Lambro Telcard."

The calling card, which is free, will keep long distance and local charges on one bill and will work with most long distance carriers.

The new TelCard will replace the calling cards currently issued by Poka-Lambro.

Poka-Lambro will be mailing its customers a form for the new card in billing statements.

Amy Preston, Public Affairs Manager for Poka-Lambro said, "We believe this card offers distinct advantages over other cards."

For example, the Poka-Lambro TelCard will allow our customers to use most any long distance carrier.

Another advantage is that in most instances, customers will receive one combined bill for long distance and local charges.

With other cards they could begin receiving separate bills. Research shows that customers definitely prefer a single telephone bill.

Preston added that customers also like a calling card issued by their local telephone company.

She said customers have developed a personal relationship with Poka-Lambro and would have more confidence dealing with them.

The Poka-Lambro TelCard can be used in practically any location nationwide.

For more information, contact the Poka-Lambro business office at 806-924-7234.

Cotton production was a highlight...

"This was a milestone year," said Dr Robert Merrifield, Deputy Director of Texas A&M's Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. "In research, we continued on a growth curve that has been climbing for a number of years." Merrifield said the investment of public funds in research yields about a 44 percent annual rate of return. "Results in 1990 will confirm that," he said.

The research successes in 1990 aim at the university's long-term goal of finding answers to issues in food safety and the environment, for example. "One of the most exciting areas in research now is molecular biology," Merrifield said. "We have tremendous germ plasm resources in cotton, wheat, rice, sorghum and peanuts - a fantastic reservoir that can be exploited rapidly through molecular biology."

Textmont, the double-crop rice, is an example. The variety was developed through another culture, a biotechnological first for grain research in the United States. Researchers used the method to genetically install a trait to ripen the variety faster than typical varieties. Textmont was created in less than one year whereas normal rice variety breeding can take more than six years.

"We can deal with so many issues through molecular biology," Merrifield said. "We can develop varieties that require less pesticides and less water or change nutritional qualities."

"A lot of the research done in molecular biology is universal, meaning that it can be applied to either plants or animals," Merrifield said. Texas A&M was the location this year for the first planting of a bio-engineered cotton with insect resistance, for example. The so-called Bt cotton was created when scientists inserted a widely used, naturally occurring bacterium, Bacillus thuringiensis, into the cotton plant's genetic material. That made the cotton plants produce a protein that kills certain types of worms that try to feed on the plant. Bt cotton is still in the developmental stage.

Developing crops with natural insect resistance will lower the amount of chemicals needed, thus preserving the environment.

HQ95, another Texas A&M cotton variety, was released to commercial seed companies in 1990. It answers the call from U.S. textile mills for a stronger cotton fiber to spin. That trait was bred into the variety along with natural resistance to eight diseases and four insects.

Although crop research is a major effect at Texas A&M, researchers also are addressing urban needs. Prairie buffalo grass, developed by turf grass breeder Dr Milt Engelke of Dallas, is the dream of anyone with a yard: a dense grass that needs 50 percent to 70 percent less water and only two or three mowings a season.

Engelke said prairie buffalo grass, already available from many nurseries in the state, can be grown successfully from Nebraska to the South Texas plains.

While lots of new varieties were added in 1990, at least one research project at Texas A&M devised a way to help a beloved old plant -- the live oak tree -- stay healthy. Dr David Appel, a plant pathologist, found a way to inject a new fungicide, Alamo, into oak trees as a prevention against oak wilt, a deadly disease that has cost millions in lost trees since it was first diagnosed in Texas in the mid-1970's. Apple said three years of research showed the product, which came on the market in the late spring, prevents oak wilt if the fungus has not already begun infecting a tree.

During the 1990's, the new biotechnology methods being applied in research should produce results more quickly than many conventional techniques.

Texas, U.S. cattle industry numbers continue below normal
A relatively low supply of cattle in Texas and the rest of the nation kept prices high during 1990, a situation likely to continue through 1991. With this continuing short supply of animals, ranchers saw record prices for virtually all classes of cattle and calves in 1990.

It is predicted that in 1991, for the fourth straight year, numbers of cattle and calves in the United States will fall just below 100 million head -- between 99.6 million and 99.9 million.

In 1990, prices paid to producers were the highest recorded. This year's prices for feeder cattle and calves will average $4 to $5 per hundredweight more than those received in 1989 and $7 to $10 per hundredweight above those of 1979. But high prices don't necessarily translate into high profits. Many ranchers have found their costs rising as well.

The size of the Texas herd in January 1990 actually declined by 200,000 animals from the 13.6 million head counted the previous year. As in other parts of the country, two or three years of drought has forced numerous cattle sales and put some ranchers out of business in Texas. Ranchers have been reluctant to restock on ranges that have become fragile with lack of rainfall. Tighter credit also has limited investments in cattle.

Beef supplies next year should be about the same as in 1990 with increased beef imports likely to offset a slight drop in domestic beef production.

Fed cattle prices will probably average $2 to $3 a hundredweight below 1990's average because of larger supplies of competing meats, particularly chicken and pork. Higher numbers of cattle on feed this fall and larger feedlot marketings in December, January and February will create a temporary glut on the market and bring down fed cattle prices in early 1991. Consumers also should see a corresponding temporary drop in beef prices.

Feeder cattle prices should continue strong in 1991. Feeder cattle supplies will be tight. Lower feed grain costs will partially offset lower prices received for fed cattle, keeping cattle feeder margins tight but for the most part profitable. Feedlot profit margins will be further squeezed in 1991 as feeder cattle purchase prices continue at about the same level as this year.

Cattle prices should stay strong until ranchers get bullish on herd expansion. If the U.S. economy enters its predicted recession, cattle ranchers probably won't be hit too hard by consumer spending cutbacks.

These (consumer) spending cuts usually occur with more costly purchases such as automobiles, televisions and furniture rather than food items. Many consumers most sensitive to food prices already have switched to lower-cost beef cuts or to chicken, so any further change is likely to be minimal.

Some positive factors impacting cattle numbers and prices during the past year have been a general improvement in the demand of U.S. beef from international trade, primarily from Japan and other Pacific Rim countries and Canada, and the positive food safety and high quality aspects of U.S. fed beef.

In the coming years, there should be an increasing export demand and generally increasing worldwide demand for U.S. beef. This should provide more stability for the cattle market.

However, beef export sales could dip in the spring, chiefly because Japan may be buying less U.S. beef. Japan is expected to drop its trade barriers limiting its beef imports in April, but the country has so much U.S. beef in storage that it may actually buy less in 1991. Such an action would make more beef available for U.S. domestic consumption, tending to drive meat prices down.

For consumers, January sales will offer savings of about 10 percent on many beef cuts. There will be special sales on beef cuts each week at meat counters of supermarkets throughout the year, many coinciding with holiday observances. It is recommended that consumers take advantage of the weekly discounts on beef cuts and stock up.

Local families needed for students

ASSE International Student Exchange Programs (ASSE) is seeking local families to host boys and girls from Scandinavia, France, Italy, Spain, Germany, Holland, Great Britain, Switzerland, Japan, Canada and New Zealand, 15 to 18 years of age, coming to this area for the upcoming high school year.

These personable and academically select exchange students are bright, curious and anxious to learn about this country through living as part of a family, attending high school and sharing their own culture and language with their newly adopted host family.

The students are fluent in English and are sponsored by ASSE, a nonprofit, public benefit organization, affiliated with the Swedish and Finnish Departments of Education.

ASSE also cooperates with the Canadian Provincial Ministries of Education and is approved by the New Zealand Department of Education.

The exchange students arrive from their home country shortly before school begins and return at the end of the school year.

Each ASSE student is fully insured, brings his or her own personal spending money and expects to bear his or her share of household responsibilities, as well as being included in normal family activities and lifestyles. The students are well screened and qualified by ASSE.

Families may select the youngster of their choice from extensive student applications, family photos and biographical essays.

Students and families are encouraged to begin corresponding prior to the student's arrival.

ASSE is also seeking local high school students to become ASSE exchange students abroad. Students should be between 15 and 18 years old and interested in living with a host family, attending school and learning about the land and people of Scandinavia, France, Italy, Spain, Germany, Holland, Britain, Switzerland, Canada, Mexico or New Zealand.

Students should have a good academic record and desire to experience another culture and language through living with a warm and giving volunteer family.

Academic year and shorter term summer vacation programs are available.

Those persons interested in obtaining more information about becoming a host family or becoming an exchange student should contact ASSE's local representative: Sheila Butterfield, 4708 88th Street, Lubbock, Texas 79424, 806-794-9194 or call 1-800-333-3802.

Letter to the Editor

Saddam Hussein is unmoved by U.N. Resolutions and undeterred by the world's guns. However, he might be moved by the pleas of tens of millions of women and children worldwide. Why? Because he would gain a unique place in history if he were to respond to our appeal.

We invite everyone to join The General Federation of Women's Clubs' International Petition from Women and Children. Our goal is to have women and children all over the world to write to Saddam Hussein. We want to prove that the pen is truly mightier than the sword.

We urge all women and children to ask Saddam Hussein to abide by the U.N. Resolutions on resolving the conflict in the Persian Gulf. Send your letters to Hussein at: Box 400, JAF Building, New York, New York 10116-0400.

As Mother Theresa says, "It's immoral to be discouraged by the magnitude of a problem. The good that we can do, we must do."

Please write today! The cost is small, the risk is zero and the benefits can be measured in the body bags that never will be filled.
