Phase I of West Main Street landscaping to begin soon

funded by private contributions and locally contracted

by Wes Burnett

Post city manager Bob Turner informed city council members Monday night that work will begin in the near future on extending the landscaping project to West Main Street from Broadway to the courthouse. The project is funded by private contributions and will be contracted locally by Bo Jackson. Phase I includes framing and concrete work.

At the regular meeting, council members approved May 4 as the municipal election date. Positions filled by Mayor Giles McCrary and council members Larry Mills and Dan Lamb will be on the ballot. First day for filing will be February 18 and the final day for filing is March 20.

In other action, the council approved the lone bid by Bryan Williams and Son Insurance for vehicle coverage for an annual premium of $12,017, a decrease in the rate from the previous year.

The second reading of an ordinance to establish an emergency fund for volunteer fire personnel was approved, with council members Jim Schooler, Irene Fry and Larry Waldrip abstaining from the vote due to their association with the Post Volunteer Fire Department.

The council approved the recommended appointment of Cathy Courtney to serve on the Post Library board of directors.

The annual agreement with the engineering firm of Parkhill, Smith and Cooper was also approved.

Caprock Golf Course's Jimmy Bartlett explained to the council that the application for a permit from the Texas Water Commission to continue using recycled water from the city pond is expected to be completed soon. Bartlett emphasized that the golf course "will do everything in our power to satisfy all the requirements, and we assure you that we will never do anything that might jeopardize the city.'

Turner added that the golf course has voluntarily discontinued using the Mayor Giles McCrary emphasized the value of the cooperative agreement with the golf course, and complimented Bartlett for the excellent and professional manner of the installation of equipment and development of the use of the

"I think this arrangement is good for the city and the golf course," McCrary. Caprock Golf Course last year paid for a pipeline to be laid underground from the city sanitation pond, and installed equipment for pumping and a lagoon at the golf course. The recycled water is used for irrigating the golf course grounds. The entire project was funded from private sources.

Turner informed the council that emulsion work had begun on city streets and that a preliminary agreement has been concluded for the city to use a regional landfill when the city landfill becomes full or new rules require the closing of the landfill.

La Posta, The Frame Shoppe and The Prairie Flower Shop. Wide range of emotions give audiences feel for 'Anne Frank'

From the moment the lights come up on stage, it is obvious that something really special is about to happen at the Garza Theatre. The play continues this Thursday through Sunday, with evening performances at 7:45 p.m. and the Sunday matinee at 2 p.m.

"The Diary of Anne Frank" treats audiences with perhaps the best set design director Will McCrary and assistant Troy Timms have offered.

But, as great as the set looks and feels, it is the brilliant acting and timing that makes this production a must see for theatre patrons.

Even those of us who have never read the original work or seen the movie version can feel and understand the power of human drama unfolding as two Jewish families and a lonely old Jewish man share cramped quarters in an attempt to survive the Nazi death camps. The action takes place in a loft above the 'Frank' business in Amsterdam during World War II.

McCrary offers us one of his best dramatic performances as 'Mr Frank', the devoutly religious and dedicated father, struggling to offer a bit of faith in Helping the 'Frank' family in their ordeal, Mandy Swafford sweeps the stage as 'Miep', delivering vital food and other essentials, as well as good news about the progress of the war against the Nazis.

A sterling new actress on the Garza stage is Karen Copple, who plays the part of the flirtateous 'Mrs Van Daan' with just the right touch of flair and emotion.

> She is masterful especially in the Act I scene when she shows off her legs to the cautious look of 'Mr Frank.'

In what I consider his best acting on stage here, Charles Somervill gives a striking performance in his role as the selfish 'Mr Van Daan', demonstrating that had he not been a Jew, his character would have been

Troy Timms gets better with every appearance on stage, and it is a delight to see him in action. This time he plays the young 'Peter Van Daan'. The playful romance that develops between him and young 'Anne'

amidst such turmoil is overwhelming. I think Emily Hataway is one of the brightest stars at the Garza Theatre, and her fans from Colorado City made it clear Saturday night that they agree. She is simply brilliant as the beleaguered 'Mrs Frank', balancing the duties of wife, mother and hostess. I can't imagine anyone playing this part any better.

We are really blessed here to attract so many talented volunteers, and one of the best of these is Slaton High School senior Michelle Smith, who is at her best as the older daughter, 'Margot Frank'. Her scene with McCrary near the end of Act I is a highlight that must be seen, as she pleads desperately in a loud whisper, 'Father, no, father, don't go!'

"Where have you been all this time?" we might ask about the star of this show, Lisa Klenke. A student at Roosevelt High School, Lisa, playing the part of 'Anne Frank,' is making her first appearance at the Garza. She delivers a level of emotion and energy, as she carries the audience directly into the tragedy.

You don't see everything that Randy Sutherland is doing, that's because he not only provides the glue on stage as 'Mr Kraler', but back stage he is a busy bee helping stage manager Christy Morris and Tricia Sims with the complicated prop sets and changes.

Milton Cox, making his first appearance here, is cast wonderfully as the elder 'Mr Dussel', a lonely and private man thrust by circumstances into complex relationships. I first saw Milton in the Lubbock Community Theatre's production of "I'm Herbert" in "You Know I Can't Hear You When The Water's Running." He brings the same personal presence to our stage.

Back stage a lot of action takes place that could be the subject of a play in itself. Such a complicated production takes a lot of intense effort in support of the cast, and this group is one of the best ever assembled here.

In addition to Morris and Sims, the back stage crew includes costume coordinator Linda Ellis, costume assistant Amy Nowlin, prop mistress Alison Reed, prompter and crew assistant Jennifer Hubble, crew assistant Joshua Hubble, lighting operator David King and sound operator Nancy Griffichs.

Also assisting are box office manager Gayla Leary, head usher Eva Lou Page and door person Briann Wilson.

Call the Garza Theatre box office at 495-4005 for information and reservations. The box office is conveniently open Monday through Saturday 10 a.m. to 4

Tickets are $7 for adults and $3 for children 12 years or younger.

Proper Use of Inhalers in Asthma Treatment

Asthma is a common lung condition that affects more than 9 million Americans (about four percent of the population). According to a recent issue of the Mayo Clinic Proceedings, asthma is the most common chronic condition treated by pediatricians and the leading cause of childhood disability. Medically, asthma is a narrowing or obstruction of the small air passages in the lungs. tightness, breathlessness, wheezing, and coughing.

Prescription medicines given by way of a metered-dose inhaler have been found to be effective in treating asthma. Such medicines include albuterol, terbutaline, and metaproterenol. Some studies have shown that very few patients actually use metered dose inhalers correctly. The most common problem relates to inhaling and holding the breath for the proper amount of time. The correct procedure, according to most references is: remove the inhaler cap; shake the inhaler container; hold the container upright; tilt the head back slightly; inhale and exhale through the mouth or nose normally; seal the lips on the inhaler mouthpiece; breathe in slowly and deeply through the mouth to activate the inhaler; hold the breath for 10 seconds; exhale slowly through the nose; use one puff of medication; wait 30 to 60 seconds before administering another puff.
