PRAYER
for the Week

Rev. I. A. Smith,
Pastor of the First Methodist Church

We pray, our Heavenly Father, that thy blessing may be upon our boys and girls who are in the midst of dangers. Our faith would be utterly discouraged if we did not believe that God rules and overrules, that somehow out of this tragedy the work of God will go forward, and out of this tragedy will come about a better world.

We cannot understand these things but in the midst of mistake and in the midst of transgressions of the law, good men and good women have been seeking to find the way.

We believe that in thy care we are against all that is dear to us —our homes, our sons and daughters and the cause to which we are dedicated.

As this fast hour our griefs and sorrows be in good things, prayer is to share thy grief and bear with thee thy cross even as our master chose to do.

Improve us with true loyalty, teach us to greater love for thee and for our fellow men. Guide our steps toward the day of universal peace and joy.

Creeds within us the spirit of forgiveness that leads to reconciliation among men. Turn our feet from the ways of destruction.
Teach us the ways of good will and brotherhood that peace may come to us that on Christmas day we can sing again as the Angels did of old, peace on earth and good will toward men, Amen.

Dairymen, was making every effort to get the legal details worked out for dairymen of this area.

Mr. and Mrs. Lefty Davis were

Camp Hennessy, California, was allowed to come home and see his wife and new daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Hansford Han-that the Southwestern Life Insurance firm with which he is associated was to buy $10,000 in county getting credit for the amount.

The Garnolia 4-H club girls

Newly-weds were Lucille Lil-lan Fultz and Melvin Bush. They were married in the home of Rev.

Another marriage was that of Lois Marie Daniel to Pfc. Stanley Young in El Paso.

Announcement was also being made of the marriage of Miss

Williams.

Mrs. Bryan Mathis was being entertained with several informal parties prior to her going to Washington for the winter.

Wounded British Flier
Fights Death Eight Days

Americans Rescue Cheerful
Tommy From Badly Wrecked Plane

By Ernie Fyle

EDITOR'S NOTE: Although Ernie Fyle is now back in the United States for a much-needed rest in his two and one-half years on the fighting front, this column was written before he left France.

ON THE WESTERN FRONT.—I would like to tell you in detail the remarkable story of the wounded RAF pilot whom we released after he had lain unnoticed in the wreckage of his plane for eight days on a battlefield.

Ernie Fyle

Several American soldiers sprung out of nowhere a few moments after we arrived. They grasped the situation instantly, and began tearing at the sides of the plane with pliers and wire clippers.
They worked as though seconds had suddenly become jewels.

The tough metal
came off in strips
no bigger than your fingers, and only after terrific pulling and yank-ing. It seemed as if it would take hours to make a hole big enough to get the pilot out.

The ripping and pounding against the metal sides of the hollow plane made a thunderous noise. I peered inside and asked the pilot:
"Does the noise bother you?"

He said, "No, I can stand it. But tell them to be careful when they break through on the other side—my leg is broken, you know."

But the American boys worked faster than we believed possible.
They tore their fingers on the jagged edges of the metal; they broke strong aluminum ribs with one small crowbar and a lot of human strength. Soon they had a hole big enough so that I could get my head and shoulders inside the cockpit.

Somebody handed me a canteen of water and I sipped it through the hole to the pilot. He drank avidly.
When he put the canteen down he set it on his bare chest and held it with both hands.

"By God, I could drink a river dry," he said.

Somebody outside said not to let him drink any more right now. The pilot said, "Would you pour some on my head?"

I soaked my dirty handkerchief, and rubbed his forehead with it. His hair was not brown in color and very long. His whiskers were reddish and scraggly and he had a little mustache. His face seemed long and thin, and yet you could tell by his tremendous chest that he was a big man and powerful.

His eyes were not glassy, but I was fascinated by his eyeballs. They didn't protrude; it was just that they were so big. When he turned them toward you, it was as though he was slowly turning two big brown marble balls.

He had complete command of his thoughts. The half-delirium you would expect of a man trapped for eight days without food or water, just did not exist in him. He was just being himself.

His face was dirty from much sweating, but the skin of his body was white and clean. There was a small scab on his forehead and there were some light bruises on his arms.

Inside the plane, the stench was stunning. My first thought was that here must be another man in the plane who had been dead for days.
I said to the pilot:
"Is there someone else in the plane?"

And he answered, "No, this is a single-seater, old boy."

What I had smelted was the pilot himself. We couldn't see the lower part of his left leg, but we judged it must be gangrenous and in a horrible shape.

"I can move my right leg," he said. "It's all right. In fact I've had it cut from here several times, and moved it around for exercise. But the left one I can't move."

I asked, "Where did you get the cigarette you were smoking when we got here?"

He said, "Your chap gave it to me. The man who came first. He fished it for me and stuck it in through the hole, and went searching for the rest of you."

I was wondering if it wasn't dangerous for him to be smoking during
the wrecked plane. I mentioned something about his being lucky that
the plane hadn't caught fire when
he crashed. And he said:

"I was wondering if it wasn't dangerous for him to be smoking during
the wrecked plane. I mentioned
something about his being lucky that
the plane hadn't caught fire when
he crashed. And he said:

"I'll tell you about that. Do you see that woods a little way north of us?"

There were several small woods
but I said, "Yes."

"Well," he said, "that first night they set fire to that woods. I could tell it by the glow in the cockpit.
And, sure the plane was soaked with hundred-octane gasoline. I thought the fire would spread right across the field. But it didn't!"

Actually what he had thought was the woods were the little town of La Desnais, which had been set afire by shelling. I didn't bother to tell him, for he was alive, and after all what could the technicalities matter?

We had sent one soldier to the nearest aid station as soon as we discovered the wounded British pilot, trapped for eight days in his plane.
He had to drive about six miles.

Just a few minutes after the other soldiers finished tearing two holes in the sides of the plane, a medical captain and three aid men popped through the hedge and came running.

The doctor knelt down and stared up everything in a few seconds. He asked an aid man for morphine. The pilot willingly held out his right arm, and the doctor stuck a needle into the bend of the elbow. The pilot never flinched, but looked on almost approvingly.

"You're in good condition," the doctor said to him. "This is just to make it easier for you when we start to pull you out. We'll wait a few minutes for it to take hold."

While we were sitting there on the ground beside the plane, waiting for the morphine to take effect, the pilot said:

"I am delaying you from your work. I'm feebly sorry about it."

One of the soldiers, touched by the remark, blurted: "Good God, lieutenant, you aren't delaying us. This is what we're here for. We're just sorry we've been so long getting you out."

The pilot momentarily closed his eyes and put his hand on his forehead. And then, as if in resignation at his own roteness in bothering us, he said:

"Well, I don't know what I should do without you."

So incredibly strong was that pilot's constitution that the morphine never put him out.

They waited about 10 minutes.
Then two soldiers took off their web belts and hooped them around the pilot's armpits. The medical man on the other side said: "They had hold of his trapped foot and could gradually free it."

"It's my back that's weak," the pilot said. "All the strength seems to be gone from the small of my back. You'll have to help me there."

They pulled. The pilot, although without food for eight days, was tremendously strong, and he reached above his head to the plane's framework and helped lift himself.

The hole slipped, and the soldiers took them off. They knelt and lifted his shoulders with their hands.

They had padded the jagged edges of the two aluminum, over which they would have to slide him, with the heavy rubber of his collapsible lifeboat.

The doctor said, "We'll be as easy as we can. Tell us when to quit."

And the brave man said, "Go ahead. I'll stand it as long as I can."

They pulled again. The pilot made a face and started himself to help them. They slid him slowly a few inches through the hole, until he suddenly called: "Whoa-whoa-whoa! My back! It's stuck in the ground. We'll have to break it loose slowly."

They reversed the pull. The pilot pale a white, trying to figure a less painful way of getting him out. There wasn't any, he said.
"I can't faint my head at all. If you could slide something under me to carry the weight."

Pilot Released Shows Courage

At least, in a sort of final surge, he came clear of the plane. They reached him with him, so hands and knees, struggling to hold him back on the ground. You could see that he was standing barefoot.

"Quick! Slide that litter under me," the doctor called.

The pilot said, "Yes, that's what we'll have to do! There's nothing in the next five minutes he mentioned the break all.

When they finally laid him tenderly into the canvas litter and straightened his neck, you could see the trembling relief and his facial muscles relaxed, and he gave a long halfgroan half-sigh of relief.

And that was the one stage toward a normal human condition created by this case of great courage.

A GOOD EDITOR

Good One is National Newspaper at work in every town in the country. Its definition of a good editor is given by one of the members of the newspaper profession who knows where to speak.

"A good editor is one who has never made a mistake, who never has offended anyone, who is always right, who can ride two horses at the same time he is straddling a fence with both ears in the ground, who always says the right thing at the right time, who always picks the right horse as well as the right politician to win, who never has to apologize, who has no enemies, who has worlds of prestige with all classes, creeds and races."

One soldier out of every 100 is named G.I.

So—here are 356 John W.
Smiths, 240 John W. Johnsons, 288 James Browns. The 12 most common names in the Army, accounting for 280,000 soldiers, are:
Smith 72,000, Johnson 48,000,
Brown 28,000, Miller 22,000, Jones 11,220, Davis 11,000, Wilson 20-

The Texan's Share In The War

"Sure, I'll Give a Texan's Share!" With that slogan, more than 5,000 "war fund commandos" will launch Texas' biggest war-related campaign this week.

More than half of the funds raised by the National War Fund are expended for services to our own fighting men.

While we are considering our war fund gifts, other Texans are dying. While we on the home front are working to support them, our sons, husbands and friends are fighting fiercely and bravely against a brutal enemy.

Gov. Stevenson has called on all Texans to give—and give generously—to their county war funds. Newspapers have taken the lead in publicizing the National War Fund Drive.

Isolate Chemical Aid To Human Growth

When children and young adults grow, they do so because of a chemical regulator produced by the pituitary gland, known as the growth hormone. This chemical has just been isolated in pure form by Dr. Choh Hao Li, lecturer and research associate, and Dr. Herbert M. Evans, director of the Institute of Experimental Biology at the Berkeley campus of the University of California.

Trial so far has been limited to animal experimentation, Dr. Li reported. Growth has been produced in young rats after their pituitaries have been removed. However, Dr. Li predicts important developments for human use as soon as enough of the hormone has been produced.

It is sure to help the dwarfs, especially the young ones, he said. It might possibly influence the older ones, too. In this laboratory added growth has been secured in rats that had stopped growing. First, tests must be made to see if the chemical, which is a protein, will be tolerated by the human body.

The pure chemical is very rare at the present time. There is enough to affect the growth pattern of a few rats, but not enough to influence even one human. The isolation technique is long and tedious, and includes grinding, extraction with alkaline solution, salt fractionation, and isoelectric precipitation. The yield is 1/2.

Improved Uniform SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for October 8

Learn subjects and Scripture texts which are prepared for International Council of Religious Education, used by churches.

JESUS PROGRAM FOR MEETING LIFE'S PROBLEMS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 4:1-4; 6:24-34; Luke 4:1-4.

GOLDEN TEXT—Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.—Matthew 4:4.

Problems, sorrows, needs, anxieties—how they press in on mankind from every direction. What is he to do about them? He cannot meet them in his own strength.

There is just one answer, and it is blessedly simple and completely satisfying. Take your burdens to the Lord and leave them there! Cast all your care upon Him, for He careth for you (I Pet. 5:7).

From the teachings of Jesus our lesson tells us why and how we may do this. Let us not miss its glorious—and convicting—message.

I. We Can Overcome Temptations Through Christ (Matt. 4:1-4).

Temptation is the common lot of all mankind (I Cor. 10:13). The strongest and most noble of men are subject to it. Angels were tempted, and our Scripture reveals that even Jesus was tempted. We recognize that Jesus was tempted as the Messiah (vv. 3, 6) and as one without sin (Heb. 4:15), but it is also true that He was tempted in all points as we are, apart from sin, and that we may learn from His temptation how we may meet and by the victors over temptation.

We learn of our Lord that temptations may be victoriously overcome—

1. By the right use of Scripture. If Jesus needed that weapon, how can we do without it? But how can we use Scripture if we do not study it and hide it in our hearts?

2. By dependence on God. Every Scripture used by Jesus honored God. We cannot fight Satan in our own strength. To attempt to do so is to fall utterly. The real victory for the Christian is to bring Satan back to the cross where Christ won a decisive victory over him.

3. By denouncing Satan. Jesus sent him on his way. We may do the same in Jesus' name. It is a serious error to try to fight with Satan or to engage in any discussion with him. Let us meet him with Scripture—say "Get thee hence."

4. By Learning to Trust God for our Daily Needs (Matt. 6:21-34). Some want to be rich. Their folly is made clear in verses 19-24. But then there are some who while not wanting to be rich, are in constant anxiety about food and raiment for the morrow.

What is the answer of the Lord Jesus? Consider the birds. They are not able to work, nor are they able to pray, but God feeds them. Consider the glory of the flowers of the fields, for not even a lily can dress himself in such beauty. "Are ye not much better than they?" (v. 26).

"As far as known, no bird ever tried to build more nests than its neighbors; no for ever fretted because it had only one hole in which to hide; no squirrel ever died of anxiety lest he should not lay up enough nuts for two winters instead of one; and no dog ever lost any sleep over the fact that he did not have enough bones laid aside for his declining years" (Public Health Service).

Proper forethought is good and right, for we are intelligent beings, but anxiety about our daily needs is always dishonoring to God.

Yes, says someone that's all very well, but how about the future? Well, why should we fret about that? It is in God's hands, and even if it were in our hands, what would we do about it? Even tomorrow, with its needs and its blessings, with its joy and its sorrows, is not yet here, and when it does come, there will be God's gracious provision for each passing day.

III. We Can Follow Christ in Sacrificial Service (Luke 4:14-21).

Let us be clear at once that we cannot do what Christ did, for He is the Son of God. He had a special ministry to perform as the Messiah. But we may learn much from His story.

Jesus began His ministry among His own people even though He knew of their unbelief. He used the word of God as the background for His calling. He recognized the special need of the poor and the suffering, and especially of those who were leprosy-stricken and blind by sin.

In all these things we may follow His example. Let us declare the truth to those nearest to us, even if they do reject it. Let us look to God's Word for our rule and our conviction—different from that of Jesus, but nevertheless from God and for His glory.

Then, too, let us learn of Him that we are to serve those who are truly needy and genuinely suffering, serving their physical needs, but above all bringing to them the light of God's redeeming grace.

How is light then to be kind in our service of the suffering, poor and needy?

ERNIE PYLE SAYS:

"A lot of our soldiers overseas are functioning as one-man relief agencies. The sight of hungry Italian children always gets them."

"At any army show line near a village or camp, he farms you see a few solemn and patient children with tin buckets waiting to get what is left over. One soldier said to me: 'I just can't bear to eat when they stand and look at me like they do. Lots of times I've filled my mess kit and just walked over and dumped it in their buckets and gone back to my foxhole. I wasn't hungry.'"

W. R. Graeber Heirs From Sister In Germany

W. R. Graeber had cause for rejoicing Friday when he heard from a sister in Germany, the first time since Pearl Harbor, she is a prisoner of war in her own country. The message was sent through the Red Cross and was dated in April. It was received here by Otis Weakley, Red Cross representative.

The message read: "We are all well." Mr. Graeber took the word all to mean that his other sister and his nephew were also alright.

By Lillian B. Storms

If you're having trouble with baby's interest in food, you'll be glad to hear about the two-cereal idea. It's just about the smartest way I've heard of getting a baby to eat better—for babies like variety too! It's quite simple—use ready-to-serve strained oatmeal at one feeding, and cereal food at the next. Many doctors think this two-cereal idea is so good they're telling mothers about it!

Strained oatmeal is a wheat-free cereal made from finely ground oatmeal. It is enriched for extra nourishment with both iron, and Vitamin of the "B" Complex. It mixes to a creamy, smooth consistency when you add hot or cold milk or baby's formula and teats.

Then at the next feeding I suggest you try giving your baby a specially prepared Cereal Food made of whole wheat, iron, and oat meal. It, too, can be obtained with iron and Vitamin of the "B" Complex added.

The iron needs to be supplied to baby in greater quantities than present in any form of milk, and the Vitamin may make the difference between just "getting along" and having baby just full of pep and vitality!

VICTORY HINTS

Slip an etched-steel bowl cover over the hand wheel of a sewing machine. Keeps small children from getting their fingers and hands caught when its turning.

If you have an old windshield wiper, it may be used when washing the windows of your home.

You can boil a cracked egg in the following way: Put a tablespoonful of salt into the water for boiling. Rub common salt thickly on the crack and put at once into the water, which should be boiling fast. You will find that the white will not bubble out and be wasted.

If you have a piece of furniture with a dent in it this is how it can be removed. You need a thick pad of brown paper which should be soaked thoroughly in water. Put this on the dent and a hot iron on top of it, pressing well until the paper is dry. This raises the sunken wood, but you may have to repeat the process before the wood is quite level again. Don't use on highly polished or veneered surfaces.

Cut off just enough of the corner of the soap box to allow a thin stream of soap to pass through. The larger the opening, the more likely it is that more soap will pour out than is needed.

Frozen Food Lockers To Play Important Role After The War

There is a growing conviction that frozen food locker plants and home freezers after the war will play an important role in the distribution of foods. Meat will receive considerable attention from both renters of community food lockers and owners of home freezer units. Retail meat dealers and the packing industry will find a new form of competition. However, it is likely that both the retail meat dealers and the packing industry will put some new marketing methods out of the bag of tricks that will burst open with the ending of the war. The meat packing industry has done much to popularize meats and to increase the facilities for marketing them, and it hardly seems likely the industry will permit the food lockers to take their business without a battle.

Car Owners Are Cautioned About Gasoline Coupons

Garza counsels are reminded by the OPA officials that "A" gasoline coupons are worth four gallons. Some customers, it is understood, are receiving just three gallons for their "A-15" coupon. It is not known about this condition in Garza county but the Dispatch has been notified to give this information to its readers.

In the old "A" books eight coupons, each worth three gallons, were validated each three months. In the new books six coupons, each worth four gallons, will be validated each three months. "But the amount of gasoline allowed is still the same," the official pointed out.

FARM MACHINERY IS REMOVED FROM RATION LIST ON SEPTEMBER 28

The State AAA office has sent out a notice that all farm machinery has been removed from the rationing list with the exception of corn pickers. This bit of information was welcome news to farmers over the section. The order became effective last Thursday, September 28. How this order will materially help Garza farmers is not known yet as much machinery is simply not being manufactured. It is hoped, however, that replacements will be available soon.

Students In Grade School Endeavor Through Visual Education

A classic and an interesting piece of literature was shown on the screen in the auditorium last week. Robert Tennison, a fifth grade student and a student of Mrs. Nina Wright's Language Arts Class, wrote a summary of the classic as he saw it on the screen.

Summary of the "Last of the Mohicans"

by Robert Tennison

The school enjoyed the picture show Thursday. It helped us in our history. It was about the fighting on Lake George. The title was "Last of the Mohicans." The author was James F. Cooper.

The story started when the English were making speeches to the natives about stopping the French and Indians. The English were arguing that they were peaceful people. Then the Colonel said, "If you don't stop arguing there won't be homes for any of you." An Indian stepped up and said, "Me want to see Big Tree Chief." The English gave a message, and he tore it up and started down the street. Soon after that the Colonel, his daughter, and the Indian were going through the forest, and the Indian said, "You take um pack horse, I go back to put out camp fire. Oh, all right," said the Colonel. The Indian went back and sent up a smoke signal. An Indian went up to it, and told some others and they started swiftly through the woods. They came upon the "White man" and his daughters. The Colonel started to strike them but the guide said, "My people." Then he said, "Kill man save squares." Hawkeye and his two Indian friends shot the Indian that was holding the man, then shot the ones that were holding the girls. Soon they killed an unfriendly Indian and got his canoe and started back to Fort Mifflin. Soon the fighting started. It lasted for a week. After hard fighting the British surrendered. The Indians turned against the French, captured the two girls, and the Hawkeye's Indian friend helped one to escape. Later Hawkeye saved Captain Duncan's life. The Duncan saved Hawkeye's life.

SNOOP COLUMN

We see Marian Edwards and Billy Shepherd together a lot these days and it makes us very happy. What happened, Alma?

Jimmie Chandler should not be afraid to admit Bobby Pierce is her heart-throb. Does Mary Nell worry her?

Iris seems to be only interested in Don Shirley these days. We hope their happiness continues. But was he really mad last Saturday?

Bad Everett and Billie Cowdrey seem to have a good case started.

Is Joy Shepherd really enjoying being so true to W. L.? We can't help but believe she isn't.

Get on your toes, boys! Edna Ruth Swanger is a plenty cute number.

Wayne Hundley and Alene Jones have been seen together and they are certainly a cute couple.

Diamond rings are becoming quite numerous among the Senior girls. Congratulations to you and lots of luck.

Why don't we see Gaudin Ruth and W. F. Cato together anymore? Is someone robbing your dreamboat, W. F.?

The old flame between Marian Hodge and Ben L. Thomas seems to be aglow again. Another new couple is Peggy Sue Robinson and Carroll Bowen.

Who is Holmes McList so true to be can't see these girls around here? The girls are wondering, Holmes.

Betty Jo and Billie June Kennedy seem to have quite different opinions about Vernon Ray McNabb. Too bad sisters don't agree—or is it Billie?

Mary Robertson seems quite happy over her new bracelets. But can you blame her? It is said she and Jeff Justice have parted—is this true, Mary?

There seems to be six very cute 8th grade boys in High school this year, but no one can find out who they like as girl friends. How about it, boys?

Tire Quota To Be Same For October

A total of 1,000,000 passenger tires has been made available for rationing in October by the OPA. This is the same number provided in September.

The quota of heavy truck and bus tires is up 3,000 to a total of 105,000, while 200,000 smaller sized tires for these vehicles have been allocated. The latter quota is the same as in September.

They Look to the West

THEY LOOKED to the West for strength of arms for liberation from the yoke of the oppressor.

And still they look. But they look now for food to keep alive the spark of life. They look for food for their children . . . their hope of the future . . . the hope of their unhappy, war-racked lands.

They look for clothing . . . warm clothing to protect them against the dread, sickening chill of coal-less houses.

They look for medicines and vitamins . . . to help them save their wounded, their ill, and their plague-stricken victims.

They look for seed . . . to plant the fallow earth once more . . . to chee out their famine-rattened grass and weeds and create, sawdust bread.

They look for hope.

Out of the cradle of liberty they pray that there will come the inspiration to build anew . . . with new rights, new freedoms, new opportunities for themselves.

They have suffered long, and they are weary. We cannot fail them. . . we must not fail them. . . now that a new day is so close at hand.

The things they need . . . food and clothing, medicines and vitamins . . . and hope for the future . . . are all made possible by your contribution this year to your Community War Fund, representing the National War Fund.

Now is the time to open your heart . . . and open your checkbook. Now is the time to give, as you have never given before, that others may have the chance to life, and liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

Coleman Browning Took Part In Bitter Battles In Italy

Coleman Browning was not seen in Italy during his wife and daughter's stay in Santa Barbara, California, to the residence center where he will be assigned to duty. Before coming home he was in the 51st Signal Battalion in Naples where he was decorated for wounds received in the Italian campaign. "One of the most exciting events of the entire eight-month stay here was the air raid we witnessed in the harbor of Naples just as our headquarters was to leave the harbor for the states," Browning said.

The combat infantryman who was assigned to the 50th Infantry Division of the Fifth Army under General Mark Clark, has seen some of the bitterest fighting of the entire war. His division was one of the first to enter service units in combat and they performed like veterans. The part they have played on the battle fields will be recorded in the history books. Browning's unit went into the line on May 11 on Easter Sunday to help relieve the boys who were hounded in on the Anzio beachhead. "We helped to break up the German line," Browning related. He has seen battle for 90 straight days and such names as Cassino, Terracina, Cassino and others will never fade from his memory. This division took a half dozen important enemy held strongholds and pushed their way past Rome in toward Florence. It was at this point in the progress of the Fifth Army that Browning was wounded by the enemy.

While in Rome he was in the machine gun platoon of the 50th Infantry and was one of the soldiers who was given a Cross by the Pope.

November Election Ballots Ordered For Garza County

Preparations are under way for the General Election. Orders for ballots have been given the Dispatch from the County Judge's office. Copy is being compiled in the Secretary of State's office at Austin at this time.

This year's ballot carries eight vertical columns in this order: Democrats, Republicans, Texas Regulars and Prohibitionists. The full status of presidential and vice-presidential electors. These are at the top of their respective columns. The Socialist and American First columns have a special list of electors.

Two proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on will also appear in the bottom of the ballot.

The Battle of Bull Run is the name used in reference to two different battles. The first, July 21, 1861, the second, August 30, 1862. Both battles were between the Union army and the Confederates. Both were won by the Confederates. The first battle of Bull Run is sometimes known as the Battle of Manassas.

Mrs. Dan Cochran and son, Dan, and Mrs. Marable attended the circus in Lubbock Wednesday.

Believe going overseas Browning trained at Camp Shelby, Miss. spent 4 months in desert training in Colorado. He continued his training at Casablanca, Africa.

Browning wears the Combat Medal badge for proficiency rating, the European battle ribbon with battle star and the good conduct medal. He is the son of Mr. C. J. Mangum.

William Marvin Whyburn was installed as new president of Texas Technological college in Lubbock Saturday in a ceremony attended by a host of educational leaders from over Texas. Many representatives from out-of-state schools also attended. Whyburn is Tech's fourth president and succeeds Clifford B. Jones.

MY VOTE . . .

My vote is an index to the principles to which I subscribe.

I subscribe to the highest moral standards and the most ethical rules of life.

I delight in living in a county of the best social environment, its kind of place to rear our children.

In voting for beer to be sold in this county one may be voting the downfall of his own house, and of his neighbors.

My confidence is that most righteous, God loving men and women in Garza County will express their sentiments and assert their rights next Saturday by voting against legalizing the sale of beer.
