Holiday Greetings

ONCE again, as the Christmas season is ushered in, we wish to take advantage of the opportunity to express our sincere good wishes to those whom we have been associated in a personal and in a business way during the past twelve months. Serving you has been a happy privilege, from which we have received a tremendous amount of satisfaction and it is our sincere wish that we may continue to be of service to you in the future.

Without your friendships and your goodwill we would have been dissatisfied but because of your understanding of our problems and because we tried desperately to understand yours, we have enjoyed a continuation of your patronage. It is our expressed desire to improve our facilities of service and we assure you that as conditions return to normalcy you can depend on our institution making every effort to fulfill your requirements.

THANKS A LOT FOR YOUR CONSIDERATION.

Holiday Greetings 1945

To each of us the word Christmas summons many happy memories. To some it recalls a ride over the frozen countryside to grandma's, sleigh-bells tinkling all the while. To others it recalls happy seasons in birth-filled living rooms, gay banquets and glowing Christmas trees. But to all it recalls days of shorn and endowment, the happiest days of our lives. May you live the happiness in all its fullness once again, dear friends, this Christmas season of 1945.

Famous Artist Sketched First Santa for U. S.

Thomas Nast Credited With Pictorializing Famous Character in 1873.

Thomas Nast, the famous cartoonist who created our conception of Uncle Sam, the Republican elephant and the Democratic donkey, is also credited with giving America its first modern pictorialization of Santa Claus.

Nast first sketched his notion of Santa Claus in 1873. This Santa was a rollicking, chubby old man smoking a pipe and dressed in what looked like a night shirt with fur collar and cuffs. Since that day he has grown taller and rounder, has developed a full white beard and mustache and above all has acquired the traditional red suit bordered in ermine.

The story of how our American version of Santa Claus evolved is interesting. According to legend, children of Lapland and Siberia, raised on tales of the good and generous St. Nicholas, thought of their benefactor as dressed in furs and traveling in a reindeer-drawn sleigh, just as they did themselves.

Stories of St. Nicholas.

Wondrous stories of this great fourth century saint, who gave handsome presents to good little children, were repeated at the fire-sides of all Europe from the time of his death in 342. The Dutch children observed the anniversary of his death on December 6 and received presents in their wooden shoes.

These Dutch youngsters thought of St. Nicholas as a stern old man with a long white beard, garbed in bishop's robes and carrying a stick to chastise naughty children.

The little Hollanders coming with their parents to found New Amsterdam brought Santa Claus or "San Claus" as they said, with them. In no time the English colonial children whose fathers had taken over the Dutch settlement and renamed it New York caught on to this wonderful man. The English moved his yearly visit from December 6 to New Year's Eve.

Germans coming to America brought their Christmas customs; Christmas trees and Christmas candles burned in honor of the Christ Child, whom the German children called "Kris Kringle."

At about the time that these festivities were making Christmas Day important, families beginning to spread across the country chose this celebration as a day of reunion. Thus the Dutch figure of Santa Claus, the German traditions of Christmas and the English season of celebration became combined in one single holiday.

Balsam Fir Chosen by Heavenly Messengers

According to Ansgarius, who converted the Vikings to Christianity, the Lord sent Faith, Hope and Charity to earth to select His Christmas Tree.

They selected the Balsam Fir because it was as high as Hope, as wide as Love, and bore the sign of the cross on every branch.

The news that the army released 20,000,000 pounds of butter for civilian use was good news. We'd like to help spread it around.

Christmas Card Is Century Old

The centennial of the Christmas card is being observed this year.

It was in 1843—just 100 years ago—that the first Christmas card was designed and distributed.

This pioneer greeting was the creation of W. C. Dobson, a noted British artist, who was said to be a favorite of Queen Victoria. Dobson, according to tradition, made copies of his card and sent them to friends in London and elsewhere in the British Isles.

The custom, established by Dobson found numerous devotees. In 1846, an English nobleman, Sir Henry Cole, commissioned an artist, John Horsley Hursley, to design a Christmas card for him.

According to one story, Sir Henry Cole had received such a large number of holiday letters that he could not find time to answer them all. As a means of solving this problem, he called in Horsley and asked him to design an appropriate card. Horsley's first Christmas card depicted a Victorian English family enjoying the holiday. Except for the profusion of detail, the card is like many of the modern greetings. The traditional "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year" was inscribed on the card, with blank spaces for filling in the name of the sender and the recipient.

From this beginning a century ago, the custom of sending Christmas cards has spread across the ocean to the United States where it has become a traditional part of the holiday observance.

In national affairs, a million seems to be just a drop in the budget.

And Now--Peace on Earth

... good will toward men. This year as we celebrate our Lord's birthday, we give thanks because He has sent us the most precious gift of all—Peace. It is in this spirit of world peace and friendliness that we wish you the blessings of the Season—much happiness and bestitude in the New Year.

Peace On Earth
Good Will To Men

How wonderful and joyous this Christmas is for at last triumphant peace has come to this world and for the first time in many years, we can again enjoy a Merry Christmas. During the long years of war, we fervently prayed to our Lord that He would send Peace to the world. And our prayers were answered. The tyrannical foes of freedom have been conquered and once again, there is blessed peace on earth, good will to all men. For this greatest gift of all—a gift so rare that without it all mankind would perish from this earth—let us offer thanks to our Lord, the Prince of Peace, this 1945th year of His Birth.

OLD SPIRIT
By GERTRUDE H. WINDERS

IN THE street crowded with holiday shoppers Mrs. Weston couldn't see the couple behind her but their words added to her mounting despair and fury. Overhead, finsel-wreathed placards exhorted to buy fur coats, diamonds, perfume. She shut her eyes to them but she could not shut her ears.

"That was one swell party last night," sighed the man. "Oh, boy!"

The girl squealed. Mrs. Weston cringed. The high laughter was like the whistle in Puppo, the rubber dog they'd given Harvey Jr. his third Christmas. Puppo had become more than a toy. He still lived in glory, a kind of household god enshrined in the whatnot in Harvey's room. "Love to Puppo," Harvey ended his letters. Puppo always topped the "Lady, you have the wrong angle." Christmas tree. There'd be no tree this year. It was worse than childish of Harv to want one. She wouldn't have it. A package had been sent to Harvey Jr. overseas in October, but there'd be no Christmas at home.

Wicked, horrible, thought Mrs. Weston, that people are going through all the old motions of a Merry Christmas. No one has a right to be merry.

"You looked super last night," said the man. "You are super, honey. You're so beautiful." Mrs. Weston turned slightly and caught a glimpse of a fat pretty face surrounded by blood curls. "You rate orchids, honey," the man went on, "and you're goin' to have them."

The constant ache in Mrs. Weston's heart sharpened to a stab. For such toots her Harvey was risking his life. Another block of their chatter and Mrs. Weston would say, "The money squandered up orchids, young man, would buy a good many war stamps." or, "This is no occasion for whoopee."

"Jack thinks the Army is going to get him this time." It was the girl speaking. "And is he scared?"

The woman next her got off and another squeezed in. "Certainly going to be a big Christmas," observed the newcomer cheerfully. "Were you down on Saturday? What jam I ever saw!"

"I will not," Mrs. Weston felt compelled to explain. "I am going to town now only to select a wreath for my mother's grave."

Behind her the young people were still shrieking about Jack and the Army. "Tell him we'll give him a farewell party. Tell him if he gets shot he'll have a pretty nurse." The man was chortling. "Let's get off next corner, beautiful. You can buy me a drink."

Liquor, thought Mrs. Weston furiously. That explained their incessant giggling over nothing. She raised her voice. "I don't see how people can think about Christmas. How they can drink and laugh and waste money on silly things. Life is so terrible—" her voice broke. Heavens, people were staring! "My son—somewhere in the Pacific," she added hurriedly in a low voice. "I—I'm thinking of him."

She felt a hand on her shoulder. "Lady you have the wrong angle." The man behind her leaned forward. Her eyes met compassionate blue ones in a face curiously pale. "It don't help your boy any for you to have no Christmas. Be as merry as you can. Like as not he'll be back, fit as a fiddle—like me." He lurched to his feet.

Something caught in Mrs. Weston's throat. He was limping to the door. The car jolted to a stop and the girl thrust a steady little hand under his arm. Drunk, thought Mrs. Weston, drunk with the joy of being alive. She sprang to her feet, without apology pushed through the crowd. "Wait!" But they were getting off.

She was halted by the crowds on the sidewalk. Standing on tiptoe she saw the couple turn in at the dairy bar. A drink. They'd laugh and make love over an ice cream soda. "Merry Christmas, soldier," she whispered. "Be as merry as you can."

Misty-eyed, she walked to the corner rimmed with Christmas trees. "A small tree," choked Mrs. Weston. She wiped her eyes and picked one up, testing its weight. "It must be strong," she told the vendor firmly. "Strong enough to hold up a good sized rubber dog, and—our spirits."

The word kerossone comes from the Greek word, Keros, meaning wax.

MERRIEST Christmas OF ALL 1945

And now comes another Christmas to be added to your store of memories. We hope this Christmas of 1945 will be a very enjoyable one—a truly happy one—fulfilling all the fine traditions of Christmas.

Save Greeting Cards for Making Different Unique Gift Decorations

Here's a suggestion that will make your friends wish they had thought of it first.

Don't throw away the lovely greeting cards you have received and saved during the year. Keep them as ornaments for packages, or to decorate an otherwise plain wall.

The next time you wrap a gift for someone, glance through the greeting cards you have saved and pick out one with a colorful or appropriate picture on it. Cut the picture out neatly, glue or paste it on your gift wrapping. That's all there is to it.

There are any number of objects about the house that cutouts from greeting cards might brighten: closet doors, furniture, waste paper baskets, screens and cigarette boxes. Pasted on and coated with a preservative of clear shellac, greeting cards can serve a variety of decorative purposes.

Inexpensive and distinctive gift novelties can be made from the greeting cards. Bookends, jelly jars for flower vases, bookmarks, matchbooks, handblotters, tally cards and score pads can be made to look quite impressive by the simple addition of a design cut out from greeting cards and pasted on these objects.

The lovely etchings and reproductions of famous masters and the flower prints that appear on so many greeting cards are well worth the price of a small frame. These pint-sized pictures are "just the thing" to brighten a dark corner of some room or entrance hall.

Some rainy afternoon when the children are looking for something to do, give them the greeting cards you have saved during the year. Especially will they like to make gay blotters from the cutout designs. Have them make small-sized ones for checkbooks, a good-sized one for Dad's desk, and a pretty feminine one for Mother's correspondence, or selected ones for friends.

The motto of the Royal Canadian Police is not "Get Your Man" but "Maintain The Law."

A DRIZZLING rain seeped through Mike Duncan's threadbare coat and soaked him to the skin. Snow had preceded the rain that afternoon and the going was pretty tough. He wearily trudged along, endeavoring to keep out of the way of reckless herds of last-minute Christmas shoppers who thought of him only as a bar to their progress.

Ordinarily Duncan would not have thought of his wet skin, his tattered clothes, or even of his empty stomach. They were all part of life on the road—but this night was different. It was Christmas Eve.

It must have been the holiday season—why else would someone thrust a fifty-cent piece into his hand and then vanish into the shadows? He could only murmur a grateful "Thank you, sir, and a merry Christmas to you" before the donor disappeared into the swirling crowd.

"Are you sure that's all you want?"

Duncan reached into his left pocket, pulled out two dimes and five pennies, laid them with the half-dollar in the palm of his other hand and stared at his entire fortune of seventy-five cents.

He smiled sardonically when it occurred to him presently that the building in front of which he stood was the United States Mint. He turned and, with a laugh that had a hysterical ring to it, jingled his handful of coins. His mirth attracted the cop who had been standing on the corner watching him. The officer said to him in a brogue so thick that it could have been cut with a knife, "Move on, blash' ye!" Mike wandered off down a deserted side street, clinking his money.

After about an hour of aimless roaming through endless alleys, he found himself directly opposite a brightly decorated restaurant. He crossed over and from sheer curiosity looked in the window.

There were only two patrons inside—an elderly man and woman seated at a front table who were avidly devouring with much relish a whole roast turkey with all the side dishes.

Duncan's mouth began to water—his stomach seemed hollow—he felt his legs go weak, and his ever-present hunger was getting the best of him. Suddenly he remembered the seventy-five cents. He thought quickly. A bed for the night at a flophouse would cost fifteen cents—that would leave him sixty. He decided to go in and order a roast turkey sandwich. He gave his hat a few deft pats and opened the door.

He hung his battered hat and coat where he could grab them in case of an emergency, and made himself comfortable at a table in a corner. Duncan knew that his appearance was none too prepossessing and that a waiter would not dash up to someone from whom he could not get a tip. After a while a vinegar-faced man deigned to come to him.

"What'll you have?" he asked, stifling a yawn.

"A hot roast turkey sandwich," replied Duncan.

"On toast or tye bread?"

"Rye."

"Anything else?"

Duncan shook his head. "No, nothing else."

"Are you sure that's all you want?"

"Yes, that's all. Just a roast turkey sandwich."

The waiter returned with the order, placed it before him, shook his head wonderingly and withdrew. Duncan virtually devoured the sandwich in three bites. He delicately wiped his mouth with a napkin, then beckoned the waiter. "Check, please," he said.

"Check?"

"Yes, the check." Duncan raised his eyebrows.

"But there is no check."

"No check? What do you mean—no check?"

"There are none tonight. This is Christmas Eve. Didn't you see the sign in the window? Customers can order anything they want. It's on the house. You're the only guy who didn't order the whole darned menu. Well, merry Christmas," he added.

Duncan's jaw dropped. His gaze fell on the half-dollar, two dimes and five pennies still clutched in his hand. Slumped in his chair, his eyes followed the back of the retreating waiter.

WE'RE GLAD It's CHRISTMAS

The approach of the Christmas season gives each of us cause to ponder a moment or two in retrospect.

We can look back over a year in which each of us has had many obstacles to surmount, when it seemed as though so much needed to be done and when we wondered where we would receive the strength with which to carry on.

Now, as we look back, we see that there was courage and cheer to be gained from those about us, whose actions and deeds made us realize that the pursuit of freedom had not been in vain.

Viewing these things, we do not find it difficult to be thankful at this Christmastime. We are truly glad that we are a part of the fine people of this community, to have friends, and to enjoy their associations. It gives us a sense of satisfaction and a desire to be of greater service in the next twelve months.

Sure—we're glad it's Christmas. The Season's best to each of you!

"Happy, Alice?" he asked.

Custer has invited Bill before the young people go to the dance.

"Come on, Alice, let's show these kids what for." In spite of the crowd, William covered the ground as he had in college when she fell in love with him. She was glad that she had managed to have her hair done Saturday. The gardenias the children had given her to wear to church yesterday were still fresh. She'd let Sister wear them tonight if her date didn't crash through. Bill had bet Six fifty cents he wouldn't.

The orchestra melted into "White Christmas," and young Bill tapped his father on the shoulder. "Mom's favorite, Dad. Let's change."

Alice said, "You dance almost as well as your Dad."

"Look at him, will you?" said Bill. "Quite the old boy."

Before long everyone was helping Bill and Sister dress for the dance. Bill lost his wager, and whistled over the red roses that were just right on the turquoise blue of Sister's frock.

She said Bill looked simply gorgeous in his tuxedo and when his father saw him he said, "Too bad they don't wear 'em in the army, son."

They heard Bill call Rosemary's number on the phone downstairs and then he closed the door for privacy. "Wouldn't you think," said Sister, "he'd give the poor girl a chance to take a bath? I bet she gets good and sick of him."

Suddenly Alice remembered a call she had forgotten to make about the baskets the church distributed yesterday. She flew to the upstairs extension, and when she heard Bill still talking in leisurely fashion, she opened her mouth to say, as she often did when necessary, "Hang up, you two, I need the phone."

But she didn't say those words or any others. She listened a few moments and her eyes filled with tears. The disappointment and hurt at the way her family had preferred to spend their Christmas vanished as her very best Christmas present of 1945 was received on the wire.

"Heck no," Bill was saying. "I can hardly wait for an old-fashioned Christmas dinner. That hotel business was all Dad's idea so Mom wouldn't have to cook and wash dishes all day. None of us liked it at all. Mom had a good time, though."

Pruning and training grape vines is important in securing high yields of top quality fruit.

As this great year of Victory draws to a close, we want to extend to you and yours our most sincere...

VOLUME XX POST, TEXAS "OUT WHERE THE WEST IS THE WEST" MONDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1945 "THE GATEWAY TO THE PLAINS" NUMBER 2

TO OUR READERS and FRIENDS...

The New Year is the traditional season of hope. Hope for a lasting peace. Hope for a speedy reunion with loved ones far distant. Hope for happiness and hope for health.

Each of us has a stake in this harvest of hope. How we reap will depend on how we cultivate the opportunities that lie ahead.

Just as a merchant takes stock at the beginning of a New Year and closes his books on the Old, so we at this season ought to take mental inventory and do some spiritual bookkeeping. The past is good only as its achievements strengthen us for the tasks of the future—only as its mistakes teach us lessons for the improvement of tomorrow.

The road of the past was paved with injustice, discontent and tyranny. We must pave the road of the future with hope, confidence, understanding and neighborliness.

The world is no better or no worse than we ourselves make it. It is the sum of thousands of communities like our own, all added together. We each have responsibilities as individuals and citizens to make it better.

With the coming of 1946 let us resolve to work and live so that peace on earth may be a reality rather than a dream. Then the horrors of battle will not be visited on the next generation and the sons of tomorrow will not have to go forth to war.

The future offers challenging opportunities. Strengthened by our nation's achievements in the past four years, we can meet these opportunities with confidence.

So it is with a spirit of hope, fortified by a feeling of thankfulness that this newspaper asks for every one of you

A Very Happy New Year

Special Service For Servicemen To Be Held At Graham

The Sunday evening hour at the Graham Methodist church will be devoted to veterans and college students, reports Rev. J. E. Stephens, pastor. "We have arranged a special service in which recognition will be given to servicemen and college students who are at home for the holidays," said the pastor. The service is to begin at 7 o'clock and everyone in the community is cordially invited to attend.

County Offices To Be Closed Two Days

Both Monday and Tuesday will find offices at the county court house closed in observance of Christmas Eve and Christmas Day holidays, it was announced Saturday by County Judge J. Lee Bowen.

Local A. C. A. Office Will Be Closed December 24 and 25

The office of the local A. C. A. will be closed for Christmas on December 24 and 25, it was announced Thursday by the Secretary of Garza County A. C. A., James A. Boyd. It will reopen on Saturday, December 29 and remain open all day. The office will again close December 31 and January 1, remaining open on Saturday, January 5. Beginning January 7 the office will resume its regular office hours.

LITTLE RESPONSE SHOWN ON PLEA TO 'GIVE BONDS'

Christmas shoppers, who apparently have looked to purchasing gifts that could be wrapped in pretty Christmas packages and tied with colored ribbons, rather than giving bonds again this year, have turned a shoulder on the County War Finance Committee's plea of "Give A Victory Bond for Christmas."

A check-up of bond purchases Saturday revealed that E-bond sales showed only a slight gain, which might be credited to Christmas gift giving, over regular weekly sales. During last week only $3,150 E-bonds were purchased, which brought the total of the campaign up to $38,380.

With only a few more days to go, Garza county finds itself $42,097 short of its over-all quota of $250,000, and $36,020 short of its E-bond quota of $75,000.

County Victory bond leaders are making a final appeal this week but hope who have not purchased bonds during the current campaign do so before the final date, December 31.

Alex Webb At Home

Alex Webb arrived in Post Wednesday to spend the holidays in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Webb. His wife was already here awaiting his arrival. He received his discharge at San Antonio on Dec. 18.

Lions Club Enjoy Stag Dinner As Holiday Feature

A stag dinner was enjoyed by members of the Post Lions club last Tuesday night at Jennie's Tea room as the group observed their regular Christmas party.

The Christmas motif was emphasized in table and room decorations, and in the delicious turkey dinner. Each member brought a gift. These packages were numbered and later were exchanged as each member was also asked a number by Elmer Long as they arrived at the party.

Ralph Carpenter had charge of the program and presented an interesting story on Christmas customs as they are observed in other countries.

Two talented young ladies, Moses Edwards Daynes and Laurie Stevens, both pupils of Mrs. J. A. Stallins, gave three vocal selections. They sang "Little Star of Bethlehem," "White Christmas" and "Kiss Me Once, and Kiss Me Twice." Their rendition of these favorite numbers was thoroughly enjoyed by the Lions.

During the dinner Tail Twister Dick Wood was quite active in collecting fines. All members paid off in a most willing manner at this particular dinner as the "fines" were to go to a jolly-good cause—a Christmas gift for Jennie Scarborough, manager of the tea room.

Club songs concluded the gala affair. January 3 was set for the next meeting night.

Army-Navy Slash Discharge Score To Release 837,000 Men

The Army and Navy announced last week another cutback in requirements for release from service which will make another 837,000 personnel eligible for release for discharge within the next two months.

The holiday season also brought good news on the draft front when Selective Service announced a halt in the induction of fathers. The draft now will be limited to single men aged 18-25, although fathers with fewer than three children may be permitted to volunteer.

Since V-E day last May, 6,000,000 men and women have been released from the service. Discharges are now running around one and one-half million a month and are being stepped up.

The new Army-Navy discharge quota will be obtained by Army cuts of three to five points for enlisted men and women and most officers (35 to 50 for the enlisted personnel and 75 to 70 for male officers, other than those in the medical corps) effective Dec. 31, and by Navy cuts of one to eight points for all personnel effective on three dates—Jan. 1, Jan. 15 and Feb. 2.

Colorful General Dies In Germany, Burial In Europe

PATTON TO BE BURIED ON STORIED ROUTE OF HIS TANK ASSAULTS

America's great master of tank warfare, General George S. Patton, Jr., died in his sleep Friday of blood clot, which developed gangrene in his lungs and weakened his heart.

Mrs. Patton, who flew to Germany soon after the general was injured in an automobile accident and was at his bed side when he died, decided immediately that the general would be buried in Europe, along the storied route of the victorious Third Army he drove to victory. The exact place of burial had not been decided, but presumably it will be in France. The funeral is to be held today.

The colorful general, one of the greatest in American history, died 12 days after a hunting trip accident. His neck was broken in the mishap.

Among the many messages which were sent to Mrs. Patton by leaders of the world is that of President Truman's which stated "The entire nation to whom his brilliant career has been a constant inspiration, has suffered a great loss."

Post Fire Department Elects New Officers At Recent Meeting

Ira Greenfield Re-elected Chief; Ralph Carpenter Named Assistant Chief

Post volunteer firemen met Wednesday night in the final session of 1945 at the city hall and elected officers to serve the department through the new year.

Ira "Dad" Greenfield, who was returned to his old post of chief when he returned to Post several months ago after being discharged from the Army, was re-elected chief to serve through 1946. Greenfield replaced Dick Wood when he returned from the Army.

Ralph Carpenter was elected assistant chief, and Jesse Barnes second assistant chief.

Other officers elected were: Walter Holland, president, succeeding Homer McCrary; R. B. Dodson, re-elected secretary.

Firemen named to driver places were: Dan Altman, first driver; Carl Hughes, second driver and Jesse Barnes, third driver. Walter Crider is fire marshal. The appointment is made each year by the City Commission.

The department is now at full strength of eighteen members. In addition to those named above the members are: Homer McCrary, Reese Hodges, Bala Robinson, Ben Briggs, Charlie Williams, Dan Colburn, Mark Owens, Dick Wood, Marshall Gibson and Smokey Woods.

During 1945 the department answered thirty fire calls. Most of the fires were of minor nature, including trash, out-buildings and automobile fires. The city paid $471 to department members during the year. Firemen answering calls receive one dollar, and additional pay for fighting fires which last over an hour. Bonus pay of $50 per meeting is paid each fireman.

The department meets semi-monthly on the first and third Wednesday nights.

Recognition will be given discharged veterans and service men who are visiting their relatives next Sunday at the meeting service at the Methodist church of Grassland reports the Rev. J. J. Stephens, pastor of the church. "We wish to invite the entire community to attend this service and bring the service book with you," said the pastor.

Last Sunday night a Christmas program was presented at the church. Besides the Christmas tree, a splendid program was rendered, reported Rev. Stephens.

Tire Rationing Ends Jan. 1, Supply Low

PRICE CONTROLS ARE RETAINED

Tire rationing will end January 1, Price Administrator Chester Bowles announced Thursday.

The rationing program will terminate then, "because production of tires, particularly passenger tires, the shortage of which has been acute, has increased steadily during the past two months, reaching an output for this quarter of about 11,000,000," he said in making the announcement.

Holders of tire purchase certificates will have through December 31 to turn in ration coupons to dealers and obtain passenger or truck tires before unrationed sales begin. No additional ration certificates are being issued, except in emergency cases.

OPA price control over tires will be continued and would be "closely checked," declared the chief.

Bowles warned that termination of rationing does not mean there is an ample supply of tires to meet all requests. "For many months it will remain important that motorists continue to do everything possible to avoid excessive wear and tear on tires. There will be many who will have to wait to get tires," he asserted.

Local tire dealers say that many persons wanting tires would still be unable to get them when tire rationing ends, but all are happy that "red tape connected with rationing" will be lifted, and look to the end of rationing with a sigh of relief.

American Legion To Sponsor Second Clothing Campaign

W. S. DUCKWORTH TO BE IN CHARGE OF LEGION'S PART IN COUNTY DRIVE

W. S. Duckworth, who served as chairman for the James C. Cole American Legion post in sponsoring the local clothing drive this year, will promote the Legion's part in the county-wide clothing campaign which begins January 7.

Mr. Duckworth has accepted the post and will promote the Legion's campaign, he informed the Dispatch Friday. President Truman said in a letter to Duckworth that the need for the collection is "urgent." The campaign, to be known as the Victory Clothing Collection, is scheduled for January 7, 1946 through January 31. The national goal is 100,000 garments with additional shoes and clothing.

In charge of the national campaign will be Henry J. Kaiser. "In view of the President's appeal and Mr. Kaiser's message in accepting the national goal, I feel that the Legion must accept the responsibility to meet this new challenge," said Duckworth. (Continued On Back Page Col. 3)

The Memory of Friends...

Maybe the person who said "there is no sentiment in business" is right, but he would have a hard time convincing us that it is true—and we strongly suspect that we have lots of company.

Our thoughts turn back over the years. Some recollections are vivid and some are misty. Out of it all comes a picture of many wonderful friends. Small wonder then, that we cannot agree with anyone who says there is no sentiment in business.

Believe us, we are truly thankful, and in that spirit we extend to you the wish that this will be much the happiest Christmas of your life.

MASON & COMPANY

We Know What We'd Do...

IF WE WERE SANTA

We know exactly what we would do if we had the opportunity of making old Santa's "run" this Christmas. First, we'd see to it that every one in this community received all the nice things so richly deserved as a reward for their loyal patronage and genuine friendships.

Then, we'd find a way to make it clear to all the people around here that the sentiment expressed in this Christmas message is from the bottom of our hearts.

We know there are no finer people anywhere than those whom it is our privilege to serve. Many times this has been proven to us and we are certain that when Santa's sack is emptied, a large share of its contents will have been left with the people here.

Since we can't take Santa Claus' place, please accept these good wishes in the spirit in which they are meant, with kindest thoughts of our friends: Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Evolution Given Of Santa Claus

St. Nicholas and Santa Claus met at the Sunday School Christmas party and, being spirt of busy right then, agreed to rendezvous at midnight under the Christmas tree.

St. Nicholas, a lean Asiatic wearing his mitre and canonical robes, spoke first:

"I lived in Asia Minor some 1600 years ago. I was Archbishop of Myra and, while living on earth, I did drop a few purses of gold down a poor man's chimney so his daughters could be supplied with dowries. European countries celebrate my liturgical Feast Day—December 6—as a day of gift-giving and for centuries I rode across Europe on my old gray mare; my pockets bulged with apples and nuts and trinkets, which I gave to good children while switching the naughty ones with my bundle of birch rods. But what is all this Christmas business—and where did that red suit come from?"

"When the Dutch settlers came to America," replied Santa Claus. "They brought many legends about St. Nicholas with them. These legends, with writers and cartoonists cooperating, gradually slipped into American traditions; Santa Claus started coming around at Christmas time; Washington Irving suggested the sleigh and reindeer in 1809; Thomas Nast supplied the red suit, and Dr. Clement Moore sort of tied the whole idea together when he wrote 'The Visit of St. Nicholas' in 1822."

Someone forgot to turn out the lights after the Sunday School party—and St. Nicholas was so interested in Santa's zippered boots that he forgot his bundle of birch rods.

A Merry Christmas

★ Stealing over the countryside is the blessed peacefulness of Christmastime. The very air seems charged with it. Even the birds—what few remain—appear to share in the general rejoicing that has come over the world.

We earnestly hope that this Christmas season of 1945 will bestow unusual blessings upon you and yours . . . that it will bring to your home the soft glow that even Christmas tree lights cannot bequeath—the full joy of Christmas seasons long past but forever remembered. May such a Christmas be yours!

Christmas

Has a Meaning of Its Own

Every holiday occasion has its significance but none can compare with the Christmas Season. It is the one time of the year when all are united in one common attitude of good will toward fellowmen.

Christmas is always a welcome event with us. The reasons are twofold, first, because we enjoy the spirit of friendliness that predominates everywhere, second, because it affords us an appropriate opportunity of expressing our sincere thanks to those whom we serve, for their cooperation in the past. It is also fitting that we, at the same time, invite your continued patronage, as well as the consideration of those whom it has not been our pleasure to serve.

We hope this will be a Merry Christmas for you, one and all. We also wish you all the joys of a happy, successful New Year, one in which you will see the fulfillment of your every ambition. Best wishes to everyone!

Miss Shirley Bowen Honored With A Bridal Shower

Miss Shirley Bowen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Bowen, was honored last Thursday night with a bridal shower. Mmes. Ira L. Duckworth, Ray Smith, W. L. Davis, O. L. Weakley, and J. P. Manly were hostesses in the Duckworth home.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Duckworth, Miss Bowen, and Mrs. Bowen. The holiday season was used as a theme for decorations throughout the entertaining rooms.

The table was centered by an arrangement of winter berries and greenery. Burning red tapers cast a glow over the silver service from which tea was poured. Small iced cakes were served. Misses Gradyline Osborne, Maxine Tucker, and Frances Terry assisted at the table.

A lovely array of gifts was on display. Guests registered in the brides' book. Clever little corsages of winter berries and autumn leaves were worn by all members of the house party.

Miss Bowen is to be married soon to Ray Ownby, jr., of McCloud, Oklahoma. He was discharged last month after serving three years as a sergeant in the Air Corps.

There Will Always Be Christmas

No matter what turn of events, no matter what may befall us, somehow, someday, Christmas is sure to come. It may be with scores of remembrances from those we know—it may only be a word of good cheer from one real friend, but from these expressions comes the true appreciation of the Christmas season.

And for that reason, there will always be a Christmas. And as long as there is a Christmas we welcome the opportunity it affords to express our greetings to everyone.

Reason for Eight Reindeers
Have you ever stopped to think why St. Nicholas drives eight reindeer instead of one? You haven't? Well, let's pause for a moment and figure it out.
St. Nicholas is a mythical character; he rides in a mythical sleigh, carries a mythical bag, and drives mythical reindeer. The creators of St. Nicholas knew that one reindeer would do the job, but in order to make the character more impressive and longer remembered, they hitched a matched unit of eight to the sleigh.

For The Benefit of Garza World War II Veterans

This space is devoted to questions and answers of interest to Garza County returning service men. It will be published for a while as a regular feature. For additional information contact Geo. Sessums office, 703-5, Lubbock National bank building, Lubbock.

Q. What determines a veterans entitlement to medical treatment?
A. Need of hospital treatment must be shown before a veteran may be admitted to a Veterans Administration Hospital.
Q. If a man has applied for and has been denied a pension, is he entitled to the benefit provided by the G. I. Bill?
A. The fact that a man has been denied a pension does not disqualify him for any of the benefits provided in that bill.
Q. Can a veteran who has continued his National Service Life Insurance after discharge reduce the amount of his policy?
A. Yes, he may reduce the amount of his insurance. However, the amount of insurance continued must be a multiple of $500.00 and not less than $1,000.00.
Q. When a soldier changes the name of the beneficiary of his National Service Life Insurance is the beneficiary notified?
A. Neither beneficiary is notified unless the soldier has made a specific request that the Veterans Administration do so.
Q. Is a veteran limited to one loan to be guaranteed by the Government?
A. A veteran is not limited to one loan. He may execute any number of loans provided the aggregate of guarantees under such loans does not exceed $2,000 for any one veteran.
Q. Does the remarriage of the widow of a veteran who is receiving pension for herself and children stop the amount payable to the children?
A. Only the pension payable to the widow will be stopped.
Q. What is the official designation of the so called G. I. Bill?
A. The permanent converted policies do, but the five year level premium term policy initially issued does not.

Vets To Profit Most On The New Housing Program

Veterans are expected to get the lions share on homes built under the government's new housing program, according to Washington Federal officials working out details of the program.

President Truman recently ordered that veterans be given preference in the sale or rental of new homes costing $10,000 or less. It has been estimated that at least seventy-five per cent of all homes built next year may be purchased or rented by veterans.

Miss "Boo" Presson of Dallas will arrive Sunday to visit for several days in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Presson, and to visit with her brother, Glendon, who just recently returned from many months duty overseas. The Pressons other son, Kent, is still in France.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thaxton left Saturday morning for El Paso to be holiday guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George McPherson.

G. I. Bill of Rights Is Liberalized

Congress last week approved and sent to the White House a measure liberalizing benefits to veterans under the GI Bill of Rights.

The bill included a provision amending the loan guaranty so that the government may guarantee a veteran's home or business loan up to $4,000 instead of the $2,000 maximum previously set.

The age clause requiring veterans who were over 25 when they entered the service to prove their education was interrupted, in order to qualify for educational opportunities, was eliminated.

Subsistence allowances for veterans undergoing schooling are increased from $50 to $65 for single men or women, and from $75 to $90 for those with dependents, and from $92 to $103 for disabled veterans taking vocational training.

Mrs. Betty Justice left Friday for a visit with her children in Bakersfield, Calif. While there she will visit Lt. and Mrs. "Cotton" Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Efford McCrary, and "Pokey" Ammons, and will be a guest of relatives near Bakersfield.

a Happy, Prosperous New Year, too!

The observance of the Christmas season is an essential part of the American way of life. Other nations observe the Yuletide, 'tis true, but it remains for Americans to celebrate the occasion in a spirit that closely follows the goal of everyone—the pursuit of happiness, the right to live our lives as we choose.

Christmas, but for the privilege of being an American as well.

We are a free people and will remain so. Our youth has gone to the far corners of the world that we may maintain the principles upon which this nation was founded. Our boys have been victorious and will continue to be victorious.

And from these victories will come more happy Christmas seasons and a continuation of our way of life.

Large Crowd Enjoys Second "Fun Night"

The second of a series of "Fun Nights," planned by the athletic department of Post High school, was well patronized and enjoyed by last Thursday night's crowd. Proceeds from the entertainments go towards buying football sweaters.

The high school girls edged out the girls' outsider team 40-14 in the first game. The second game played between the high school boys team and an outsiders boys team proved to be the most exciting of the season. After a see-saw battle, the outsiders team was finally defeated with a score of 20-18. High point players for these teams were not announced.

Last but not least was the game played between faculty members and preachers and the local business men. After four quarters of hard struggle the faculty members and preachers won, N. C. Outlaw proved to be the star player for the businessmen's team as he rolled up a total score of two points made at the opposite goal with an extra basketball furnished by fans and spectators. Acting as official manager for both teams, R. L. Cummings, sr., modestly garbed in a T-shirt and beany cap and red flannel athletic pants and carrying a water bucket, towel and a megaphone, kept both spectators in an uproar.

New Income Tax Plan Will Bring Relief To Many

Your new income tax law will bring relief in 1946 mainly to the men and women who support sizeable families on small or moderate incomes.

Since many of Garza County's people are vitally interested in just what the 1946 income tax picture will be, the following Washington release will be of considerable value:

All of the estimated 12,000,000 persons who will move out of the taxpaying class next year are married or have dependents. They will escape taxation because the new law gives exemptions from both normal tax and surtax of $500 each for the taxpayer, his spouse and his dependents. Under the old law these exemptions were allowed only for surtax.

While the exemptions hardly can be described as a "bonus for boys," they will be of considerable help to millions of people at a time of high living costs. For example, a man with wife and five dependent children and an income of $2,500 pays $33 tax this year. Next year he will pay no tax on a $2,500 income.

Besides the exemptions, the tax rate applied to each surtax bracket is reduced by three percentage points. Also the combined normal tax and surtax, as computed under the new exemptions and rates, is further reduced by five per cent of the tax.

A tax cut of $40 or even $20 means a substantial saving to many low income taxpayers. Take a man with a wife and three dependent children and an income of $2,000. This year his tax is $111 or $9.25 a month. In 1946 his tax will be $43 or $3.50 a month.

Wage earners will get their first close-ups of reduced taxes in smaller withholdings from pay checks received on and after January 1. For a married man with two dependent children and a weekly wage of $45 the withholding will be 50 cents, as compared with $1.40 from the same wage during 1945. If his wage is $40 there will be no withholding in 1946. In 1945 the withholding has

Peace Has Returned But Suffering Goes On . . . Buy Victory Bonds!

PFC Carmine Schimia, 20, White Plains, N. Y., 7½ months in Germany, feels lucky because Victory Bonds have helped him recover from injury to his right eye and arm by shell fragments. New cartilage was inserted under his eye at Holloran Hospital, N. Y.

Lt. Fred H. Rhodes, 26, Stroudsburg, Pa., paratrooper, suffered broken eardrums, leg and shoulder when shell hit his tank, killing two companions. Still at Holloran Hospital, he hopes Victory Bonds will be bought to help all wounded making their comeback all over the nation.

Pvt. Joseph T. Wallace, 21, Baltimore, Md., had both legs fractured, knee cap lost and nerve system shattered when an "88 landed in my lap in Italy." Another at Holloran Hospital who needs good care that investment in Victory Bonds will help provide.

When wondering whether or not to invest in more Victory Bonds, think of PFC Albert H. Rohrmann, 25, Brooklyn, N. Y., a parachute infantryman, who must be under medical care for a long while. Wounded first in New Guinea and then when caught in ambush advancing on Manila, he is in a body cast at Holloran Hospital, N. Y., for a bone injury and shock to his nervous system. Bond purchases will help many more like him in hospitals all over the nation, help them to re-establish themselves in both the social and economic American way of life.

Constructive Toys Make Better Gifts

When you buy toys for children, give a thought to their constructive qualities. How much can they do with the gifts you are providing them? Will they soon tire of them and go back to the good old spoons and pans in the cupboard that they can do so many things with? If you buy a doll, get one that can be dressed, bathed and brushed. If a boy wants a doll, let him have it. Fathers love children.

Growing children need big toys that require lifting, tagging, running—movement of muscles. Blocks are ideal. Think of the things that can be done with them! One carpenter out of work made quite a good thing last Christmas of children's blocks. He collected odds and ends of boards at the lumber yard, planed them off smoothly, painted them gay colors and sold them in lots of a dozen up to 100. Wagons, cars, scooters, skates, sleds, and skis are good. But the toy should suit the age of the recipient. Every boy should have a ball of some kind. Boys like trains, but wooden blocks painted to resemble cars are better than the kinds that can run only on tracks. Girls are pleased with rolling pins, doll beds, houses, trunks, small chairs and tables, and dishes. One mother writes that her son's most cherished gift last Christmas was five pounds of assorted nails given him by an understanding uncle.

For older folks, books and Christmas just seem to go together as naturally as bread and jam, or ham and eggs. A home-made book may make a hit. It may consist of leaves of brightly colored cambric, ten colors in all, sewed securely through the middle to hold them together, and with pinked edges.

Educational toys are popular.

Pictures by the famous artists Stuart and Botticelli were never signed by them, Stuart's because he was vain and Botticelli's because he was modest.

PEOPLE on the snow-packed downtown streets were hurrying home. Wretchedly Private Kane hunched his shoulders deeper into his Army coat. It was Christmas Eve—and his last furlough. What should he do with himself? And he didn't even have a bed.

A sign on a door read "Bundles for America," and he went in. At a desk a woman was warning, "Miss Rigby, don't shove the candy into these stockings too hard. The net tears."

"I'm sorry," Miss Rigby's hands fluttered. "I—I guess I don't do much good." Private Kane figured she must be seventy.

The young woman urged, "You'd better go home now. It's dark. You've helped a lot, really." She informed Private Kane, "Homes Registry—344 Market Street—will get a room for you." Then added, "Merry Christmas."

At the door he stood looking out. Merry Christmas! That was a laugh. Christmas meant home and he'd never had one. Not that he hadn't appreciated the orphanage. But he was to be shipped soon and perhaps—perhaps he might never know what a home was like.

His Army buddies wore mittens knitted by mothers, sweaters by aunts. They whisked out family pictures, pictures of sweethearts. And he—he had nothing! His chest hurt him, and his cough was harsh. "Lament's good for that, soldier."

It was the little lady. Her black hat sat high on her head. He thought, her ears will be cold.

"Rub your chest and put flannel over it." Her hands made a darting gesture to push his collar close about his neck. She was the kind who mothered everybody. "You—you could sleep at my house," she said timidly. "You—maybe have an engagement first—"

What could he lose? But as he

"You could sleep at my house," she said.

helped her into a taxi he supported his impulse to smoke.

The driver stopped in front of a box of a house. "How pleasant the furlough party and why the stranger commands on the way. She opened a door into the kitchen, and Private Kane looked around at the empty table with glass and plates, the elegant silver cutlery on the wash tub and white checked tablecloth. "Where's everyone?" he asked.

"I live alone." Her blue eyes were apologetic. "I told you you'd better go on and have a jolly Christmas Eve—"

He lifted a stove lid on the range. A red glow flickered. He dumped in coal and opened the drafts with an authoritative flip. "It'll be cozy in no time. Better getcha some coal."

"You shouldn't have all this trouble," she protested.

"Trouble!" A wry grin twisted his lips. "Say, don't take off your coat. We're going to shop."

Private Kane and Miss Rigby selected carefully. He stopped before a tin. "Let's buy it." Private Kane smiled as he set his purchases down at the door. "You wait here a minute." Of course, he reminded himself, this was only make-believe having a home. Just the crumbs.

He had bought her a fleecy blue scarf when he asked her to wait. Back at the house he set the table. The silverware was carved with cherubs. "Gosh, that's swell hardware."

After supper they trimmed the tree. "Timed a little larnished," she said. "Oh! The angel!" She held it tenderly. "Pa always fastened it on the very top."

His eyes lingered on the lamp, the tree, the silverware. Gosh, the quiet of it! Crumbs to remember. "You—could have a room of your own—" she stopped. Then, "If—if you wanted to come back here. After the war, I mean." She pushed a round fat object into his hand. "It was Pa's. I want you to have it."

Private Kane sat up. "Me?" he breathed. "Me." The watch was heavy and solid. He turned it over, observing the grand manner in which it was carved. "Thanks. Aw, gee—"

"Merry Christmas," she beamed. "Merry Christmas to you."

Once more his eyes swept the room. Home! Why—this wasn't crumbe. This was bread!

SEASONS, SEETINGS

Proclaiming a brief interlude in the restlessness of a troubled world, the glad tidings of the Christmas season is welcomed by all mankind.

May they in some unfathomable way realize that we are thinking of them on this, the greatest season of all. From these consoling thoughts, it is our Christmas wish that you may derive the greatest amount of satisfaction possible during the holidays.

Yule Cards Chosen On 'Scientific' Basis

A bright high school girl has worked out a scheme for choosing Christmas cards that really seem to fit the recipient. First she figures out the pet likes and hobbies of the people on her list, and puts them down opposite their names—this way—
Auntie Agatha—kittens.

Johnny—ice skating.
This sort of gives her an idea of what kind of pictorial matter they'd like to see on their Christmas cards. Then for the extra special people like Mummy and Dad, and her brother in the Army, and her sister, and the nice pastor of her church, she underlines their names a couple of times which means that they get Christmas cards that say right on them—

CHRISTMAS

At It's Best . . .

It is the duty and obligation of every American to make this the best Christmas of them all. It's going to be a big job, it's true, but for the sake of the sacrifices that have been made and because it's the neighborly and friendly thing to do, it is our job to make every effort to enjoy the full blessings of Christmas.

All of our loved ones cannot be home but may we keep in our thinking the idea of Christmas as it should be, and to observe it accordingly. That is the way those who will be absent would have it.

Let's be happy and considerate at Christmas and let us strive to maintain this same attitude through the months of the new year. It will make for a happier living for all.

Best wishes for the Yuletide and a host of good things for the year just approaching.

Santa Claus Is Bearer of Gifts In Many Lands

Mothers of America are overwhelmingly agreed that parents should teach their children to believe in Santa Claus.

At least that is the conclusion drawn from a recent opinion poll by a leading woman's magazine.

One of the women polled made an answer typical of many: "Belief in Santa Claus is one of the beautiful wonders of childhood. It gives us a period in which dreams come true and anything is possible."

Christmas is like heaven on earth for the very young, the magazine points out. But as America moves from war to peace, there is an inevitable emphasis on reality and truth. No one wants to fool or be fooled. Therefore, should even happy myths be promoted?

They knew he would come.

Should children still be taught to believe in Santa Claus? Should they enjoy all the magic of childhood while they can, including the traditional myths, or should they be told the truth in preparation for the adult world they must some day face?

Considering these questions, the opinion poll asked a group of women representing a cross-section of millions of American homes, "Do you think parents should teach their children to believe in Santa Claus?"

The response was decisively affirmative. More than 87 per cent of the women voted "yes."

"If a child thinks of Santa as a man there will be eventual disillusionment," commented one woman. "But Santa portrayed as the spirit of giving remains a beautiful idea." Another woman pointed out: "Santa is as real as Uncle Sam" and Dad," "Hi, Sis, it's Christmas" or "Christmas Greetings to My Pastor"

Then she looks for cards that will express her own personality, just as if she had written the verses herself. She thinks it's lots of fun reading through the cards then suddenly like coming to one that's IT. For example, she said that no matter how darling a card she saw with kittens, she wouldn't send it to Auntie Agatha unless the verse sounded as if she herself had written it.

NEW YEARS AT THE CORNERS

"POP," Maw Levis called from the kitchen, "you get your lazy bones out of that chair and wash up! Dinner'll be ready in two shakes of a lamb's tail."

Pop managed to lift his six feet of bone and sinew to his feet and headed for the kitchen sink.

"Don't you go wash that clean towel, neither," Maw admonished. "That's for company. Use the roller towel. Sakes alive, I do believe you'd wipe your dirty feet on the front door mat if I'd leave it out."

"What's a door mat fer," Pop fared, "if it ain't to wipe feet on?"

Pop gave the roller towel a vicious jerk. "Y'know tonight bein' New Year's Eve, Maw, you 'nd me ought to step out somewheres. They're having a big shundig over at the Corners store. Jed Hafey's openin' a keg."

"Jed Hafey's openin' a keg."

"If it's anything like that keg he opened Thanksgiving, you ain't gettin' any nearer to it than you are right now. Pretty howdy-do, you comin' home six o'clock in the mornin' and shootin' off the shotgun through the roof so it leaks like a sieve. No, siree, you ain't even gettin' near enough to have a smell of any keg Jed Hafey opens," Maw said.

Suddenly Pop looked up from his plate. "Well, consarn! What you cryin' about, Maw?"

"I ain't cryin'," Maw denied. "I'm just thinkin'—thinkin' back fifty-two years. You was payin' attention to me and kind o' jealous like. I couldn't turn 'round but what you was kisasin' me. You was jealous o' Jed Hafey—jealouser than anything."

Pop started disdainfully. "What'd I have to be jealous o' Jed Hafey fer? Tell me that."

"Plenty," Maw said, "I was going to marry him."

Pop dropped his fork. "You was a-goin' to marry Jed?"

"Sure. Only his folks wanted him to marry Edda Stout. She owned all the bottom land nearly in Clarke county. He couldn't marry me until he was of age, on account o' his folks wantin' him to marry Edda. In a year he figures he can get all her money and then divorce her and marry me. Meanwhile he said I might as well marry you, then when he got all Edda's money I could divorce you and marry him. Said you was about the most bareless male bein' in all Clarke county and no harm would come to me marryin' you. He said if I married anybody else I might fall in love with him and then he'd lose out."

"So that was the way o' things! I remember. Jed did divorce Edda a year or so later. How come you never told me this before, Lil? And how come you not to divorce me and marry Jed after he got his divorce?"

"How come?" Maw said. "Well, Pop, I guess maybe you was kind o' responsible for that. Ain't no tellin' how a woman looks at things until she's hogtied to a man. I just kind o' forgot about Jed. Money didn't matter so much, after all. I found out it was the man that mattered. You kind o' had good ways about you, Pop. Different kind o' ways, only they was the right kind. Made a girl think twice afore jumpin' from the fryin' pan into the fire. You was good enough for me, I found. If there was any better men'n you, I wouldn't have no way o' knowin'. o' course. Everything was so nice I didn't think it could be any nicer, so I just decided to hang onto you and let Jed root for himself."

"By gum!" Pop exclaimed after a moment's reflection. "Now I am a-goin' to that keg openin' tonight if it kills me. And you're a-goin' with me, Lil. I won't have Jed thinkin' he didn't get cheated in the deal, consarn his danged hide! If I go without you he'll think I don't care none about you, and I want to make him feel right good and jealous."

"Jed jealous after fifty-two years?" Maw said incredulously.

"Well, if he ain't he ought to be! Happy New Year, Maw!"

"I'll go," Maw said, "but remember, Pop Levis, if you get drunk tonight I'll break the mop handle over your head when we get home—that is, if I'm still able to tell a mop handle from a crowbar."

MEXICAN CLOCK

Many Mexican families still observe the "old clock system" on New Year's eve. On a table in a main room of the house, lighted candles surround a tiny casket upon which stands a clock. On the stroke of midnight the clock is stopped, placed in the casket and buried in the garden, symbolizing the passing of the old year.

He was just a little boy, even though he was 10 years old, and and shoe sole kept flapping and turning under when he walked. But there was a look of hope in his eyes as he followed the man ahead of him into a big room full of toys and machinery.

On one side were stacks of new-looking sleds and by these the man halted.

"How about a nice sled?" the man asked. "Would you like that?"

He did not need to wait for an answer; it was on the boy's face.

So Santa Claus, in the person of William P. Dwyer, managing director of the Santa Claus Castle in Kansas City, Mo., had scored again. The little boy was one of 1,329 children who received free toys from the "Castle" last year besides more than 400 children in orphan homes for whom Dwyer had saved playthings.

His organization collects used toys during the year, some slightly damaged ones being contributed by business firms. He and his helpers repair and rebuild them. At Christmas they are given to needy children.

Last year they had about 2,200 toys, Mr. Dwyer estimated.

SALVAGED HOUSEHOLD FATS ARE STILL NEEDED

Salvaged household fats still are necessary for production of soaps and other industrial uses despite the end of rationing of edible fats and oils, E. A. McBryde, District Officer for Marketing, announced.

Used fats are needed to boost the supply of inedible tallow and grease from which many civilian household items are made, he explained.

"So far cooperation between local housewives, meat dealers and renderers has been excellent and we hope it will continue so long as the job of collecting used fats is necessary," he said, adding the need will continue great until imports are sufficient to help meet our demand for industrial fats.

BAYBERRY WAX

Many people used to utilize the bayberry for indoor decorations at Christmas time. In Maine and Massachusetts the wax which invests the berries was one collected to make into candles. It was obtained by boiling the berries in water, when the wax rose to the surface.

Under the name of bayberry tallow it was also used in soap making; in stiffening the ends of circular or solar lamp wicks. A relative, sweet-gale, grows on the border of ponds, and sweet-fern, also a sister of the pastures, was used for medicine.

Meat Supplies For First Quarter Of '46 To Be 150 Lbs.

Meat supplies for civilians during the first quarter of 1946 will be about the same as they have been for the past three months, according to E. A. McBryde, District Officer for Marketing.

Total allocation for all purposes is estimated at 5,970,300,000 lbs. carcass weight of which civilians will receive 84 percent, allowing each an average of 150 pounds of meat per year. For the first quarter of 1945, civilian allocation was 18 lbs. per capita less.

Others sharing in the January-March allocation include U. S. military and war services, 483,400,000 pounds, and foreign shipments and U. S. territories, 483,500,000 pounds. A large part of the latter allocation is designated for countries served by UNRRA, he said. The 483,400,000 for military purpose is slightly higher than 445,100,000 pounds allocated for this purpose for the current three-month period but is only 36 percent of 1,337,100,000 pounds produced in the first quarter of 1945.

McBryde said total meat production in 1946 is currently estimated at 23.4 billion pounds, about 800 million pounds more than in 1945. While heavy marketing of beef cattle is expected to continue, output of lamb and mutton likely will decline because of decrease in sheep numbers this year, he added. Pork production, however, should be moderately larger.

SGT. "JUNIOR" DARDEN VISITS FRIENDS IN POST

Sergeant O. L. "Junior" Darden who is spending the Christmas holidays in Lubbock with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Darden, visited in Post Thursday with friends. Darden, a member of the "Lost Battalion" and who was interned in a Japanese prison camp 42 months, apparently is in the best of spirits and was happy to meet his many friends here. Although he has been confined to an Army hospital the past ten weeks since his arrival back in the States, Junior declares he is in good health and expects to receive his discharge sometime in January.

The former Post boy, who was reared here and an Antelope football star several years ago, returned back to an Army hospital in January for final check up before receiving his discharge. He is on 45-day furlough.
