Post Boy Returns From Aleutians After 27 Months

Eleventh Air Force Headquarters, Aleutians—Just returning to the United States after 27 months in the Aleutian Islands is Sgt. Clifford W. Williams of Post, who served as an aircraft mechanic with the 77th Medium Bomber Squadron, first serial combat unit to go overseas after declaration of war by the United States and veterans of Japanese attack against Dutch Harbor, Alaska, and the Attu, Kiska and Japanese Kurile Island campaigns.

The 77th Bomb Squadron, alerted for overseas shipment two days after Pearl Harbor, were still fighting the Japanese in the Kuriles when the enemy finally offered to surrender. During this period the Squadron set up an enviable combat record. Battling the Aleutian weather as much as the enemy, they rose up from Secret Aleutian bases to intercept a Japanese carrier task force attacking Dutch Harbor June 3 and 4, 1942. They then drove the enemy back to Kiska and Attu, where the Japs settled, and where they were given no rest by the 77th until Americans regained those Aleutian Islands.

Of the many notable firsts of the 77th Bomb Squadron were the July 19, 1943 Mitchell bomber raid on Paramushiro and Shimushu Islands in the Kuriles. That was the first time Japanese home islands were raided in the war, with the notable exception of General Doolittle's famous Tokyo raid from the Carrier Hornet the year before.

Heavily virtually wiped out four times during overseas service (49 medium bombers lost), the 77th conducted 51 bombing missions against Kiska, seven against Attu and 146 missions against the Kuriles, for a long time the longest overseas mission of the war. During this period, 77th Bomb Squadron shipping sweeps cost the enemy at least 22 cargo and warships and transports sunk, seven probably sunk and 30 damaged. At least six Japanese aircraft were shot down, nine probably destroyed and 30 damaged.

Because of the secrecy of Aleutian warfare, the existence of the 77th Bomb Squadron was never made known publicly from that day in Spring of 1942 when they flew out to the secret Aleutian bases, until the war's end.

Sgt. Williams reported for duty with the 77th on June 3, 1943 since that date, he has seen arduous and courageous service, whether flying against the enemy or

Long Missed Items To Be Seen In Stores Within A Few Months

With the cut-backs on army materials and needs, many long-missing items will return to store counters and shelves. Although they may not be plentiful, there will be an increase in leather shoes, which will probably lead to removal of shoes from rationing. Clothing stocks and textiles will be noticeably increased. An improved supply of meat is expected soon which will probably require rationing of only pork and top grades of beef by Christmas. The chances seem good of obtaining a new radio or electric iron before January 1. However, such items as refrigerators, washing machines and ranges will return to civilian use more slowly. The item that is most wanted for and perhaps the most scarce, namely tires, will be easier to get and are expected to be off the ration list by the end of the year. Besides the return of some materials, there are many new ideas and processes which have been introduced and will probably be in use very soon. New ways to put up food which will insure cream to stay fresh for a year or more without refrigeration, chocolate bars which won't melt from heat, hamburgers in cellophane for purchase by the yard or individually and a powdered pudding mix which requires no cooking. To increase the wear span of wooden fabrics, an anti-shrink process has been introduced and perfected. Other new inventions are such items as baby tractors for part-time farmers and for those who will farm only a few acres, a quick action camera no bigger than a railroadman's watch and a new deodorant for paint. Even with the return of old-luxuries and the introduction of new, there will still be a world shortage of coal, tin, natural rubber, burlap, lumber, sugar, fats and oils for many months to come.

Cotton Prices Said Too High

If it is to survive competition from synthetics, the price of cotton must come down, declared Dr. A. B. Cox, University of Texas cotton marketing expert, in a press interview Tuesday. He based his statement on a two weeks tour of cotton and textile mills in the southeastern states.

"The consensus among fellow cotton researchers, and among the operators of mills is that the price of cotton must come down," asserted Dr. Cox.

"The present pegged price means that the mills may buy other fibre, such as rayon, at 24 cents per pound rather than spend 23 cents per pound for raw cotton and use time and money in cleaning it of impurities and getting rid of waste materials."

Texas farmers are now raising livestock, and crops other than cotton, because in 1929 there were seventeen million acres in cotton, and today there are only seven million, the economist said.

As a representative of the Price committee, set up by Congress, Dr. Cox is interested in the re-distribution of cotton marketing, warehousing and transportation, the investigation of synthetic fibres, and the industrialization of the south as a means of absorbing agricultural workers affected by the decreased cotton production.

Cotton mills are now running three shifts daily, in order to catch up with production of household necessities such as sheets, towels, pillow cases and garments, Dr. Cox said.

Congress To Hear Of Silk Project In Texas

A delegation from Mineral Wells will appear before the House agricultural committee early this week to report progress on a community project to grow silkworms which has been carried out successfully for a year.

The Texans visited Washington last week and then went on to New York. They have been negotiating with a silk hosiery mill that is locating in Mineral Wells as a direct result of the successful new industry.

Representative Poage of Texas, committee member, described the silkworm industry as a new source of cash for Palo Pinto county farmers and said a number were engaged in the process. The worms are kept indoors altogether and the mulberry leaves fed to them. While mulberry trees have been grafted to produce large leaves, Poage said Texas farmers have gone ahead of the Jap farmers of the last thousand years, who painstakingly threaded the silk from worms by hand. At Mineral Wells, machinery is used to card the silken gloins.

THE CHURCH AS A FELLOWSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Romans 12:3-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—Be kindly affectioned one to another.—Romans 12:10.

The greatest and most important institution in the world is the Church. The home, which we have been studying in recent weeks, is the primary unit of society, but its relationships are primarily of a personal nature. In the church there is an organized fellowship within a God-made institution, the living organism through which the Lord brings such blessing to the world—the Church.

Here, in God's house, among God's people, the believer finds strength and joy. The Lord's people are:

I. Different Yet United (vv. 3-8).

God is not interested in uniformity, but He does want unity. In the Church are all types of gifts and personalities, each one useful to God. He does not want them all reduced to that drab uniformity which characterizes so many man-made products.

Prophecy, ministry, teaching, giving, ruling—yes, all the various works to which God calls men should be done diligently for His glory. No man is to think of himself as more or less useful to God. His work is different, but it is God's work, and when all serve as they should there is unity and efficiency in the accomplishing of His blessed purpose.

The unity of believers in Christ (v. 5) is something which needs emphasis in our day. The forces of Protestantism are so divided as to be largely ineffective in many important fields.

Not only are they divided but there are almost endless divisions within denominations—yes, and even in local churches. Sometimes there are issues which cannot be met except by separation, but there are also many unnecessary divisions, dishonoring to God and weakening to the Church.

Let's remember we can be different (God wants us to be!) but we can still be united! God wants that, too!

II. Active Yet Kind (vv. 9-11).

God puts no premium on laziness or indifference. We are not to be "aloof," but "fervent" in spirit. Sometimes one feels that the Church has gone sound asleep. It is alive but inactive. It professes to have a zeal for God, but if there is any fervency of spirit, in most places it must be well hidden. But that is not possible, is it?

How much we need a stirring revival in the Church to bring the people of God into active service for Him. If your church as a whole does not respond to the Lord's Word, why do you not as an individual ask God to rekindle His fire in your heart?

There is to be a humility (v. 10), a fine cleanness of thought and life (v. 9), an unfeigned love for the brethren (v. 9), along with all the fervency of spirit and zeal for service.

There is much talk of uniting Christendom and no little danger of compromise for the sake of an outward unity. Such schemes are destined to failure, but unity in Christ, which recognizes Him as the divine Head of the Church, that we do desperately need and should seek for His glory, for the good of the Church and for the blessing of a world lost in sin and strife.

III. Troubled Yet Peaceful (vv. 12-16).

The Church of Christ is in the world to witness for and to serve Him. Hence, it must face all the persecutions and trials which an unbelieving world will bring upon it. Christians are not exempt from the troubles and sorrows common to all mankind.

Therein we find one of the great opportunities for effective witness, for as the Christian and the Church rightly meet such difficulties, they testify to the grace of God which can give peace in one's heart in the midst of turmoil and distress.

Read the verses. Persecuted, but not embittered thereby; weeping but also rejoicing; meeting evil with good and crookedness with honesty; meeting pride with humility and division with unity; yes, living at peace (as far as it is possible) in a belligerent world.

There is something essentially fine and noble and inspiring about the Christian Church wherever and whenever it lives up to the Lord's purpose for it and its members. There is something dismal and discouraging about the Church when it fails the Lord and His mighty cause.

Some feel that the Church is in just such a state of failure and impotence in our day. If it is true of your church, why not pray and work for a revival which will sweep all the deadness out and bring in a new refreshing breath of power from the very throne of God? Do it now!

Must files die in winter.

Dinner Party Honors Mr. and Mrs. Miller In McRee Home

By Miss Bonnie McMahon
The home of Mrs. Lillie McRee was a scene of much enjoyment last Thursday night when High school and Grade school faculties and husbands and wives gave a dinner party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Miller.

The entertaining rooms were decorated with cut flowers of red, gold and white dahlias, and gold chrysanthemums. Plate flowers were large colorful wedding bells made by Miss Rachel Hogg and girls of the homemaking classes.

Following the dinner games of dominoes and "42" were played, after which everyone gathered in the room where Mr. and Mrs. Miller were seated at the domino tables and Supt. R. H. Ranson presented the honorees a gift from the two faculties.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller were married in the home of the bride's parents at Kateracy, Texas, Oct. 21. That date had a double significance for Mr. Miller as it was also his birthday. A birthday cake was served at the wedding dinner.

Mrs. Miller is the former Miss Thelma Green. Before her marriage she was employed at the Naval Air Training Base at Corpus Christi.

Mr. Miller is the new principal of Grade school. He came here from the Allen Academy at Bryan, Texas.

Ladies' night was observed by the Post Lions club Tuesday night. Approximately fifty persons attended.

A Halloween theme was emphasized in the informal program which was under the direction of L. V. Presson. The affair was strictly a social occasion and after a short introductory speech by President George Barker, Mr. Presson directed a number of games suitable for such an occasion and introduced Billy Baker and Walter Crider. This duo rendered a number of popular songs. Mrs. Presson played the piano accompaniment.

A delicious three course supper was served by Mr. and Mrs. Will Scarborough.

The hostess served a delicious refreshment plate of cheese sandwiches, pumpkin pie with whipped cream and coffee to Meses, McAnally, Tomlinson, Stoker, Mahaff, Bingham, Boush, Greenfield, Shults, Durrett, Terry, Campbell, T. L. Jones, Faulstich, and Robinson. Special guests were the Fortune Teller, Mrs. Weldon Jobe, Mrs. Willard Kipphutack and Mrs. Ivan Stoker of San Antonio.

NATIONAL PHARMACY WEEK

National Pharmacy week this year is celebrated from November 4 to 10th. In calling attention to the national event, we also want to call attention to the pharmacists who serve the people of Post and Garza County.

These men, Bob Warren, R. H. "Doc" Collier, O. G. Hamilton and Arthur Talley are on the job all day and "part of the night," filling prescriptions accurately and quickly—helping to maintain the health of the community. They have served this community many years and will continue to ever be alert to the needs of the residents of this county.

Let us salute these men for their unselfish devotion in this field.

"CIVILIZATION," A WORLD MENACE

General Marshall's final report on the war, his peace proposals for military preparedness, and his grim warning of "prepare or perish," should be "required" reading for every American. It calls attention to the development of 600-mile-an-hour planes, 50,000-pound bombs, and finally the ultimate in destructive power, the atom bomb. If there should be another war, the enemy will attack with "supersonic" speed. Never again will distance protect this country from attack. Never again will this country have years to construct defenses after war starts. Our fate may be decided in days, hours, even minutes.

The cynics and the philosophers who think that the world will always be stilled with war because war is part of normal human behavior, should study Marshall's report. If the horror it depicts is normal, then why bother with the claptrap of schools, universities, churches, "higher education" and all the paraphernalia of what we are pleased to call civilization? Why drape distinguished personages of superior mentality in caps and gowns? Why end them out with little gold boys and Greek letter badges hanging from their vests advertising their intellectual capacities to advise and teach the rest of us? Why send them to international conferences where they join in the gibberish of "diplomacy," while the rest of us stand around swayed by portentous stage settings? Why go through all this rigmarole of war and total destruction are inevitable at the end of the play?

Something is wrong somewhere. Normal people are kindly. They don't want to fight and kill. Different languages, different flags, different habits—these things are superficial. War comes because the leaders of groups and the leaders of nations fail to measure up to the responsibilities imposed upon them. So-called mad men never commit the world to war until a condition is established by supposedly sane men that creates a following for mad men.

Are we capable of understanding the implications of General Marshall's words, or will we allow the perversion of science and higher education to destroy mankind?

READING & WRITING
 BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

"Armies fight to stab an enemy country's heart. That means, generally, take the capital. But to take the capital you have to destroy their army. To destroy their army, you have first to take the roads behind them so that they can't run away. To do that you must take high ground. To take high ground you must have an army. To have an army you must have men. To have men, you must have supplies. . . . Our present battles are for supplies. We don't even fight for our lives. That would waste bullets. We just run for them. But we fight Japs for supplies."

IRA WOLFERT

Philippines" the journalist and novelist, Ira Wolfert, has written for him the amazing and inspiring story of his adventures. "American Guerrilla in the Philippines" is the Book-of-the-Month Club May selection.

Shortly after the Japanese occupation, some fifty guerrilla bands sprang into existence, some of these unfortunately run by racketeers more interested in raiding the countryside than in killing Japs. Richardson thought of himself as a technician rather than a fighting man; his main assignment was to set up radio communications with the world outside. But he also helped to punish collaborators, stamp out the lawless elements, and to organize the work of the different bands. His abilities finally led to his being appointed liaison head between the whole Leyte guerrilla movement and MacArthur.

There are some scenes of grim horror here; for example, the description of the tortures devised by the Japs for captured guerrillas; there are thrilling moments, as when an American submarine lands secretly to leave its marvelous supply of ammunition, food, cigarettes. There was also a little time—though not much—for romance.

Richardson was out in a small boat with three of his Filipino fighters, when he met up with an American destroyer, part of the fleet invading Leyte. He didn't know how to answer their recognition signal, and the ship turned all its guns upon him. He shouted his name, but they were still suspicious. "I am an American guerrilla," he called, giving it the Spanish pronunciation. They thought he said "gorilla." "The guy is crazy," commented one of the sailors. "He thinks he is Gargantua."

After they were finally recognized and taken aboard, Richardson introduced the three Filipinos as his soldiers. The boys were dressed in sbacs shorts, all dirty and ragged, and wore no shoes. "Is this the army?" said a sailor. "Where's their clothes?" One of them held up his trigger finger happily. "Sr," he said, "here is my uniform only."

In Dallas, La Reunion Homes, Mustang Village and Texas Courts house 2,681 families.

A LUCKY NATION

A striking fact of the tumultuous years through which we have just lived, a fact which no one can truthfully deny, is that the people of the United States wanted for nothing. They kept more than twenty million autos running. Their homes remained brightly lighted and well heated. Their diet, in spite of griping, was nothing less than abundant. They had plenty of clothes and plenty of luxuries. The families of men in the service were, by and large, the only ones who had the vaguest notion of the horrible sacrifice and destruction being endured elsewhere. This is not a criticism of the home front. It is merely stating facts. It was because of continuing high living standards that we were able to turn in a war production miracle.

It is worth reflecting upon the reasons for the maintenance of such living standards. Of course, there was rationing and price control to insure stability. There were also hundreds of thousands of miles of paved highways, railways, countless fleets of trucks, trains, planes, ships; there were countless business organizations, manufacturing plants, and millions of individual producers topped by a mass distributing system of hundreds of thousands of retailers. All of this vast activity functioned with clock-like precision. Temporary stresses and strains were absorbed without hitch.

Now that the war is over, we can begin to appreciate this intricate machine. What it did in war it can do on an even greater scale in peace, providing we don't underestimate its ability and turn to paternalistic government in a futile search for perfection.

A nationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments. Mr. Shevnan will be glad to demonstrate without charge. Large incisional hernia or rupture following surgical operation especially solicited.

GOING FISHING?

Garza county fishermen could try this system when making preparations for a fishing trip.

How It Works

Most women are economy-minded, especially if it involves just throwing money away. A Dallas advertising man takes advantage of his trait when planning a fishing or hunting trip with friends. He suggests that a penalty of five dollars be forfeited by anyone of the group who backs out for any reason other than sickness. Then he tells his wife about the proposed trip. If there are any objections, these quickly disappear when the penalties of non-participation are sorrowfully mentioned. The forfeit money can be set at five, ten or twenty-five dollars, according to the importance of the occasion.

Congress already has its eyes on the 1948 elections. And what the country doesn't need right now is a scramble of legislators to see who can make the most promises for the quickest demobilization, and to introduce numerous hurried, ill-considered and time-wasting bills to implement these promises and impress the voters.

Sidelights . . . FROM WASHINGTON, D. C. By Congressman Geo. Mahon

West Texans who are interested in dirt-moving equipment and machinery for use of local Soil Conservation Districts will approve action recently taken by Congress. For months many of us here have sought legislation which would require the transfer of certain surplus dirt-moving machinery to these Soil Conservation Districts. A few days ago the Senate passed unanimously such a bill, and the House Committee on agriculture has approved and plans to present to the House for passage a similar bill.

My mail indicates widespread interest among farmers in the use of this machinery by Soil Conservation Districts. It would be difficult to exaggerate the importance of soil and water conservation, and much of this surplus machinery could not be put to better public use.

In Texas there are one hundred and fifteen Soil Conservation Districts embracing 336,000 farms. In the United States there are fourteen hundred Soil Conservation Districts embracing a vast territory in excess of seven hundred million acres. These of us who are advocating the proposed legislation feel that it would be in the public interest to make much of this surplus dirt-moving equipment available to these districts rather than let it lie idle or sell it for a few cents on the dollar.

The proposed construction program which has been approved by the House and sent to the Senate for consideration, provides for Federal participation in the cost of local airports up to fifty per cent. But the Federal Government would not participate in the cost of the land, and the project would have to be approved by the Civil Aeronautics Administration. The CAA office for Texas is in Fort Worth. L. C. Ebbell is Director.

Manufacturers of airplanes suitable for private ownership and use are trying to gauge the public demand for such planes. One private plane manufacturer estimates that the airplane industry will make and sell to the private users fifty thousand planes in 1948. Most of the surplus Army and Navy planes now being disposed of are war weary combat types, or are otherwise so constructed that they are not economical or safe for individual use.

Our West Texas High schools that desire war-weary airplanes for educational purposes can get them. Even though such schools do not have courses in mechanics and aviation, and do not have shelter for the planes, they can secure a plane by making application and paying the packing, handling and transportation costs, ranging from $80 to $350. The Educational Disposal Section, Surplus Property Division of the RFC in Washington, has circularized the schools as to procedure. The disposal regulations have recently been modified. I would be glad to provide further information to the schools upon request.

The surplus aircraft disposal program is a big one. Planes of the original total value of ten billion dollars are in process of being declared surplus and offered for sale to the public. Up to Oct. 15, forty-four thousand planes had been declared surplus and fourteen thousand of them had been disposed of.

There are 614 surplus aircraft on the airfield at Lamesa, Texas. At the South Plains Army Airfield at Lubbock, there are 1500 flying fortresses, many of which have served with distinction overseas. The Air Forces will declare 1200 of these planes surplus within a few weeks.

Texas To Share In Nation's Post-War Road Plan

Texas will share in the nation's post-war highway program, which includes construction of improved, fast roads linking the southwestern states of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana. The work will come under the three-year nation-wide program authorized by Congress, with federal and state governments each putting up $500,000,000 annually for a total expenditure of $3,000,000,000.

The Texas allocation for the three-year period includes: Federal-aid highways, $14,258,270; secondary roads, $10,943,311; urban roads, $4,464,068, total, $29,665,649.

Brother Of Mrs. W. E. Huffman Survives Bataan Death March

Pfc. Richard James Watson, brother of Mrs. W. E. Huffman of this city, arrived in San Angelo October 26 after having survived the infamous "Death March" from Bataan to O'Donnell prison camp in the Philippines. Pfc. Watson enlisted in the Marine Corps on May 10, 1941 and landed in the Philippines on September 16 of the same year. He was wounded in January 1942 and after rejoining his company, he was captured on April 9, 1942. On March 25, Pfc. Watson met his brother Eugene, a private in the regular army, when they were put together on a work detail and discovered that he too was a survivor of the death march. They were separated within 5 weeks. Eugene was freed early in 1945.

While Watson was a prisoner, he was made to do work in a copper mine in northern Honshu near Sendai. Although the work was not hard, he said he lost 100 pounds because of the malarial diseases resulting from malnutrition. After the Jap surrender, he was taken by rail to Tokyo and Yokohama, then to Guam. After hospitalization there, he was flown to San Francisco and later to Corpus Christi.

He now lives a 60-day furlough after which he expects to receive his discharge.

Mr. McCrary received his first Frigidair machine Saturday. The new piece of equipment was sent and delivered also on that date. Other electrical appliances are expected next week. OPA ceiling prices have been set on Frigidairs.

R. A. Lancasters Moving Next Week To Sulphur Springs

Post is losing another fine family. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. "Blondie" Lancaster and children are moving the first of next week to Mrs. Lancaster's former home, Sulphur Springs, Texas. The Lancasters have lived in Post many years and have made many contributions to the life of the community.

Blondie, for the past ten years, has operated Blondie's Laundry Service and has many friends over this area. He notified the Dispatch that Hazen Ricker, a returned serviceman, is taking over the laundry service. In the advertising columns of this issue of the Dispatch Blondie thanks Garza folks for their patronage and asks that they continue their support of the Laundry Service through Ricker.

The Lancasters sold their home this week to Max Gordon, a former Post citizen who has been living for the past several years in Greenville but who has moved back to Post.

For the next few weeks Blondie indicated that he was "just going to rest and visit with the folks." He said he wanted to look around before settling down for good and that he wasn't throwing the key 'o Post away. "We like Post and its fine people and the country too well to say definitely that we will stay away for good."

"Best Luck" is the farewell that everyone in Post will say to the Lancasters.
