Four Named Directors Of C. Of C.

A large crowd of Post business men and their wives and local and out-of-town guests attended the annual Post Chamber of Commerce banquet at the City Hall Monday night. Four new directors were elected, as follows:

W. S. Land, manager of Wacker's; Alton Carr, manager of the Community Public Service Company; Lowell Short, hardware merchant, and Dowe Mayfield of the Post Truck and Tractor Company.

They will replace John A. Lane, Joe Moss, Robert Cox and Paul Jones, whose two-year terms have expired. Holdover directors include James Minor and Dr. Glenn Kehler.

The banquet, for which James Minor, vice-president, was master of ceremonies was highlighted by a talk by Delbert Downing, manager of the Midland Chamber of Commerce. He entertained the crowd with his Will Rogers type of humor and drove home the message that "a town has to run ahead to keep from going back."

After the invocation by Dr. David H. Templeton, Sherrill Boyd, secretary, explained the long-range projects now under way.

Minor, as a chamber of commerce officer, and Boyd both paid tribute to George Samson, whose time and energy spent on fair exhibits, 4-H activities and other projects for many years have been invaluable not only to the chamber of commerce but to the community. (Continued On Back Page Col. 3)

Red Cross Drive Nets $1,713.26 By End Of Month

Lewis Nance, Garza County chairman of the American Red Cross drive, has deposited contributions totaling $1,713.26 in the bank.

Some collections are yet to be turned in, he said. Approximately $500 of the money raised will remain in Garza County.

In commenting on the success of the drive, Nance attributed much credit to the home demonstration clubs which sponsored pie suppers in most of the communities.

Typical of these social gatherings was the one given at the Cross Roads School building the night of March 19. Walter Crider served as auctioneer, Judge J. Lee Bowen kept books for the auction of pies and Conor Howell, candidate for Garza County tax assessor-collector, also attended and made a short talk in behalf of his political campaign.

Auction of pies and two cakes netted $77.85 for the Red Cross. The cakes were baked by Mrs. Doyle Howell and Mrs. W. C. Graves. Mrs. Howell's cake figured in a contest which netted a good sum of money and finally was won by Clifton Wells. Mrs. Graves' cake which was iced in white and decorated with red lettering, "Give To the Red Cross," brought $34.95 in a contest to determine the prettiest girl in the community. Miss Juanita Williams, "the prettiest girl," received the cake as a prize. Naith Howell, Jr., was voted the "ugliest boy" and received a pie prize.

The chairman of arrangements, Mrs. Graves, and Mrs. Elizabeth Fisher served coffee. Games of forty-two were played.

NEW GOOD YEAR TIRES

GOOD YEAR TIRES

GARZA TIRE COMPANY

ROGER W. BABSON WRITES THIS WEEK:

Half Of Building Cost Is Due To Government Taxes

New York City—There are many factors connected with new building today which should hold up costs for some time. Most of the increase is due to two main causes:

(1) The increased powers of labor unions causing higher wages, shorter hours, and poorer work.

This is partly due to the higher cost of living, restrictions as to apprentices, and the increased demand for houses. This labor cost applies from the cutting of the timber in the forests through every step of transportation, milling, superintending, marketing, etc., up to the real estate man who sells the house. Moreover, this costly situation is encouraged by Federal and State labor laws, municipal codes, social security deductions and a dozen more additions.

(2) Another factor is the taxes which must be paid by those who cut the tree, mill the lumber and other building material—as well as the taxes which the contractor must pay. These all snowball up one upon another with this result: The house which ten years ago cost $6,000 now costs $12,000; but 50 per cent of this increase is due to the increased taxes which our present Administration at Washington collects.

Houses Recently Built

In view of the above, I seriously doubt if the cost of building new houses will decline much for some years. It is true that the quality of building materials should improve and that labor may give more value for a dollar of wages because non-union labor competition will become more plentiful. Ultimately, there will be a decline in building costs to a point about halfway between the cost of ten years ago and the cost today: Even such a decline, however, is some time away. So much for new construction.

Now as to the price during the next few years of houses already built. There is no building boom ahead. Residential building in 1948 may be less than in 1947, while 1949 may be less than 1948 owing to war preparation restrictions. When Universal Training and the Draft take effect, contractors may begin to unload. They may be glad to get out even and some will be forced to take losses. It's all a question of supply and demand influenced by war preparations. Thus far, more people have been moving into most cities—especially returning veterans—than there were houses. Now some of these people will wish to leave and to sell their houses. At first, this may be easy; but after the supply of such houses exceeds the present demand—prices could crumble fast. So much for houses built during the past three years.

What About Old Houses?

The most attractive thing about real estate—outside of properly located subsistence farms—are old well-built houses in the best sections of small cities. These can still be bought for half what they would today cost new:—and in many cases are better than they could be built today at any price. As people become more war conscious and as the draft takes young men, they will gradually sell their homes in large cities and move into safe communities.

Hence, while big city property is going down in price, these small city properties may be going up in price. If you own such a house, continue to hold it. If you live in a good section, buy a house next to you as an investment. Many of these old houses will double in price while the new houses built for veterans during the past few years may sell at perhaps one half what is being asked for them. Unless you want one of those now, the wait for distressed sales. What About War Outlook? A great question is whether war boom honeymoon is ahead of us? If so, houses, and most city property could go up awhile longer. There will be a war this year; but the very preparation for war should stimulate certain buying and retard buying. One thing that looks like certain large houses—the market at very low prices which can be made over into apartments. There will always be demand for well-located apartments. Even these you should in or be near and attend to. Now is no easy way to make money in real estate.

GETTING OUT On The LIMB

By EDDIE the EDITOR

This is National Boys Club Week. The Post Chamber of Commerce elected four new directors Monday night.

I hope these four new men will be as willing and as anxious to get a Boys Club organized here as are the three holdover officers and the secretary.

If they are, we will have a Boys Club this summer. I understand this is one of the first subjects to be presented to the new board.

And how about re-opening the Youth Canteen? Any number of boys and girls have asked me in recent weeks to write something on this subject.

I am convinced that a sufficient number of teen-age youngsters need a gathering place where they can play ping-pong, phonograph records, dominoes and engage in other harmless pastimes in a chaperoned group.

The objection to the Youth Canteen, I'm told, is that somebody might be tempted to dance and there seems to be a general opinion around here that dancing is sinful.

As I'm not qualified to define sin, I will not take issue with the Sage group of Garza County residents who are sincere in their convictions against dancing.

But, I will say this. I know that those youngsters who are clamoring for the Youth Canteen do not give a hoot about dancing. They didn't dance to any extent when the canteen was open.

So... Why can't we have a DANCELESS Youth Canteen? Let the youngsters play the records but ban dancing. I believe the canteen will be just as successful on this basis and there will be no cause for squawks from conscientious objectors.

What about this? Am I wrong? Is there some other reason why we should not provide a gathering place that is well-chaperoned for the youngsters to gather on a Saturday night for some entertainment?

I'd like to have some letters on this subject.

THE WOMEN: God love 'em—When a man is on his knees proposing to a girl, he might as well say his prayers at the same time.

Big daily newspapers, with their specialists on sports, golf, aviation etc., certainly have the advantage over the country newspapers whose society editor also has to write the football, fishing, oil, etc.

My reporter-in-chief doesn't know a pitcher from a catcher in baseball terminology and she is even dumber when it comes to fishing. I found that out last summer when I took the staff on the annual fishing trip, but last week I got too busy to censure her copy and she really embarrassed me. She wrote about her brother-in-law catching a 35-pound bass down near Menard and bringing part of it up here for the family Easter dinner.

It was a cat fish that he caught! Bass just don't grow that big.

It's getting time again to close up for a week and go fishing. I think this year, we'll let Cisco rest and try to get it down where that 35-pound catfish was caught. The biggest thing we caught last

Garza and the World

Editor's Note—Opinions expressed here are those of the author, and they do not necessarily reflect the opinions or policies of the Post Dispatch. The column is carried in the interest of applying world news to the situation here at home.

By EVELYN BOYD

The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal is being remodeled and brought up to date, in keeping with Lubbock's phenomenal growth.

The society editor, Margaret Turner, at long last is getting a badly needed private office. When Lubbock was a small town like Post, back in the days when newspaper reporters were expected to shoot the breeze all day with all types of visitors, then work all night writing the bits of news which came out of the various conversations, it was not impractical for the society editor to have the first desk in the news room, handy to everybody with some loafing to do.

Newspapers, like all other industries, are putting their employees on an eight-hour day. In order to do this, the writers have to work during their eight hours. They cannot write accurate copy while shooting the breeze with any and all passersby.

The Post Dispatch, of course, will not have to face this problem for some years to come; not until we are making two deadlines a day instead of one a week. We like the slower pace, which gives us time to visit with our friends.

Working in a gigantic newspaper plant, such as the New York Times, is somewhat like being in prison. If a writer's own wife wants to see him, she has to make an appointment, then wait in a reception room until he makes his deadline and has time for a little breathing spell before starting in on the next deadline, which is only a few hours off.

It is impossible for a visitor to get into the news room of the New York Times, unless he has a drag with the publisher and can arrange a conducted tour. Even then, he will not be permitted to stop and gab with the writers and editors, the typesetters and other workmen.

Once in Oklahoma City I wanted to visit a former Amarillo Globe-News caddy who had become aviation editor of the Daily Oklahoman. I called at the office and was told he wasn't in, by a receptionist. I asked for his telephone number and was told they didn't give out such information. As he was not listed in the telephone book, I insisted that she give me his address. She refused.

year was one and a half times the size of a minnow.

I've been accused unjustly. There are a few people here who think I had one of the girls take all those notes for me on Easter hats. If there's one thing I always notice in detail, it's women's hats, particularly Easter ones.

What Our Contemporaries Are Saying:

AS BAD AS RUMORED—The Lions Club on Thursday and the Rotary Club on Tuesday visited the Canyon high school building to inspect the plant and investigate the suggestions which were made last week in the Canyon News by the Parent-Teachers Association.

All of the defects in the school plant are evident after a tour of the school building.

The high school building is overcrowded, and the defects are very evident.

For instance, the eyes of the children are being subjected to a terrible strain because of defective lighting in all of the class and study rooms.

When the school buildings were erected 25 years ago only one circuit was provided for each building. In that early day this was thought to be sufficient. With the increased use of electricity in the schools, the lights now are entirely inadequate, and the No. 14 wiring is far below power needed.

The metal ceiling in several rooms is rotting away, and needs repairing.

The band, vocational agriculture, manual training shop and cafeteria are taking rooms which are badly needed for classes. So congested are conditions at the cafeteria that the children are served lunches in the hall of the high school building.

The boys athletic room is wholly inadequate, with too small locker space and toilet facilities.—Canyon News.

HE GETS NO BETTER FAST—John L. Lewis is a real problem for the United States. Just how he gets so much power and manages to retain it is something hard for the average law-abiding citizen to understand. A current phase of the Lewis trouble is that his bulky frame is actually standing between the people and a clear view of a most disastrous economic, governmental and legal situation: A coal strike is about to swamp the country. Every day it goes on stops more railroads, steel mills, power companies and naturally must, in a short while, produce general paralysis. Getting past this burly obstructionist and regular fester of governmental authority and public welfare is a necessity.—Seminole Sentinel.

NEGRO PROPAGANDA—Is the negro race really being held down, as per the oft repeated assertions of the Association for the Advancement of the Negro Race? The negro began to be brought to America, against his will, and as a slave some 200 years ago. They were brought over in foreign ships and sold to Southern white planters. Some 85 years ago, these slaves were freed by the Proclamation of President Lincoln. Where this race came from, most of the time for 1000 years or more, they have had their own tribal government. They are still barely out of a state of savagery. On the other hand, the "held down" race in the USA, and even in the south, are moderately well educated and informed. Many of them own good farms, some have good comfortable homes in town and cities. Many have good jobs, and are in comfortable circumstances. They have their public supported schools and the churches of their own choice. They have begun to build hospitals and orphanages. To be perfectly clear, they are hundreds of years ahead of their own race in Africa, where they "are not held down." This comparison makes the wild assertions of the Advancement Association look silly. And to top it all, there is not a negro in the United States that has the least idea of ever returning to their native shores to live, unless as a missionary. So, unless we get some better reasons from this CIO-PAC organization to stir up trouble between whites and blacks in the South, that the colored folks are being "held down" we shall have to conclude that it is some scheme to feather someone's nest.—Terry County Herald.

STORE FRONTS—The Times publisher stopped the other evening in a Central Texas town about the size of Snyder that was one of the darkest places we have ever seen. Store fronts in that town for the most part were like they were 20 years ago. They made us feel like a mantle of death had come over the town—to say nothing of their reflection upon our opinion of any merchandise that might be offered in those businesses. Many of the stores had no semblance of light anywhere in the buildings at 8:00 o'clock.

No wonder some towns don't grow and prosper and do a good business.

All of which made us a lot prouder of our Snyder business establishments that have modernized in nearly every instance. Most of the town's stores literally say "Won't you come in!" by their inviting store fronts, show windows and merchandise displayed attractively.—Scurry County Times.

Clement, a native Texan, moved to Lamesa from Childress in 1941 and has been engaged in general law practice and has served as City Attorney since that time, with the exception of 18 months which he spent in the army during World War II.

The Lamesa candidate is a member of the State Bar of Texas, the South Plains Bar and Dawson County Bar Association. He is immediate past president of the Lamesa Bar Association.

Clement was born in Decatur, Wise County, and was reared on a farm in Collingsworth County. He is a graduate of Wellington High School, and Wayland College, and a former student at West Texas State College and Texas Tech.

Clement was admitted to the bar in 1936, while serving as Clerk of the District Court of Childress county, a position which he held for four years. He was elected County Judge of Childress County, and voluntarily retired after serving two years, to move to Lamesa.

Clement, who is 40 years of age, is married and the father of a 14-year-old daughter and an eight-year-old son. He said in his announcement that he planned to make "no campaign promise other than to endeavor to do right and conduct the affairs of office in an honest, efficient and impartial manner. SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

Build Terraces

Farmers, cooperating with the Duck Creek Soil Conservation District have recently completed 23.5 miles of regular broad base terraces. Two cooperators built 2,300 linear feet of diversion terraces.

Cooperators who constructed terraces and the amount include Ada Webb Estate two miles north of Post, 6 miles of terrace; Lewis West in Barnum Springs Community, 2 miles of terraces and 1,500 feet of diversion terraces; A. L. Robertson Estate at Southland, 4 miles of terraces; C. P. Witt at Kalgary, 1 mile; J. L. Whitted at Southland 1 mile; J. A. Freeman, Barnum Springs Community, 45 miles of broad base terraces and 800 feet of diversions, and Lonnie Peel in Close City Community, 5 miles.

Conservation Pays

Several district cooperators, including Fred Robinson at Post, says: "Last year cotton on unterraced and unconfoured land made a quarter bale and on land well terraced and farmed on the contour it made a third of a bale to the acre. When cotton is selling for $160 per bale, an acre that yields 1/4 bale is worth $40 and one-third is worth about $53. Thirteen dollars difference."

On average land 1 mile of terrace covers 15 acres. Thirteen dollars increase on 15 acres was the turn last year of $195.00 per mile of terraces where the land was also contour farmed.

One of the four corner stones of a coordinated soil conservation plan is economically feasible conservation farming.

Acres To Grass

J. T. Simmonds of Lubbock, whose farm is five miles east of Southland, started planting 72 acres of African weeping lovegrass this week. Mrs. Simmonds, who helps with the operation of the farm said, "The only way to keep this land from blowing is to get it covered with grass." Mrs. Simmonds continues "For the last two years this land has been used for feed. It is difficult to handle and we think we can make better use of the land in grass."

Jim L. Williams is using a double row sod planter with lovegrass seed attachments to plant the seed. Between a half and one pound of weeping lovegrass seed per acre is used. The row spacing is 36 inches.

Irrigation Systems

Soil technicians of the Post Work Unit this week assisted J. W. Stotts and F. W. Hall with the layout of their irrigation systems. The use of irrigation water increases the need for a more intense soil conservation farming system. Soil nutrients are like money in the bank in that they must be replenished at regular intervals. Taking off large crops is checking on the mineral bank in the soil. Growing legume crops such as alfalfa and sweetclover is like making a deposit of nitrogen and organic matter back to the soil bank. It is simple to use one-third or a fourth of the cultivated land in legume crops to maintain the soil at high level of productivity. It is difficult to raise soil fertility after several years when the soil bank is depleted.

Garza Deep Tests Are Disappointing

Deep tests in the Garza Oil Field have been somewhat disappointing.

Humble Oil & Refining company No. 1-G Humble fee, southeast Garza county wildcat, four miles east of Justiceburg, and in section 136, block 5, H&GN survey, has been plugged and abandoned on total depth of 3,357 feet, in granite. The Ellenburger zone above the granite, and all other formations back up to 2,450 feet, were tested, but none of them had any oil. Most of them made water.

The Ohio Oil company No. 1 Swenson Land & Cattle company, in section 26, block 2, H&GN survey in northeast Garza county, had not been able to develop any oil in commercial quantities, and it is also to be abandoned and plugged.

Total depth is at 7,976 feet in the Ellenburger, entered at 7,947 feet. That section showed for a small amount of oil—but the oil was accompanied by considerable salt water, and operator had ordered it plugged.

At the end of last week, Proven Oil company, L. M. Glasco, et al, No. 1 George W. Herd estate, three miles south of Justiceburg, in southeast Garza county, and in section 29, block 6, H&GN survey, was swabbing to clean out and test, on perforated sections in the San Andres-Permian lime between 2,445 feet and 2,511 feet.

That section had been treated with 1,000 gallons of acid. At last report operators had not developed any appreciable amount of new oil.

John Deere Tour Is Enjoyed By Travis

R. D. Travis, along with 67 other John Deere dealers and six John Deere traveling salesmen of the Western District spent all last week touring several John Deere factories.

In Waterloo, Ia., they made a two-mile walk through the tractor factory, one of 15 modern John Deere factories which grew from a small blacksmith shop established in 1837.

The Waterloo plant, which employs 6,000 men and women, is one of the largest tractor plants in the world.

At Moline, Ill., they visited the John Deere plow, harvester and spreader factories, and in Dubuque, Ia., they visited one of the newest John Deere tractor plants, a large factory built since the end of the war.

En route home, Travis stopped in Fort Worth Saturday to see the Brooklyn Dodgers beat the Fort Worth Cats 5-3.
