Mayor predicts joint city-county effort

Prospects brightening for night policeman

Some sort of a joint city-county effort to bolster night-time law enforcement in Post was predicted today night by Mayor Powell at the city council's regular September session.

A discussion of the proposed night police officer position was held by the mayor and city council members. It was thought an eventual agreement could be worked out to permit the addition of a night officer and operation of a night officer on a round-the-clock basis.

Mayor Shytle said he has conferred with County Judge J. E. Parker and other county commissioners at various times on the problem.

THROUGH THE establishment of a new garbage pickup and the city service charge, general funds heretofore spent for a trash and garbage operation have been diverted to added police and other city needs, the mayor said.

The council $7,000 or $8,000 could be available in October from this source for helping with the law enforcement problem. This doesn't mean we can't get a $30,000 a year police department if it does mean we can add more, he declared.

"I can't add a man and buy a police car too," he said.

THE COUNCIL proposed a joint effort be set up with the county business court to see what can be worked out.

The city's tax rate again was set at $1.30.

Mayor Shytle urged each member of the council to take time to study the proposed budget before any action is taken on it.

He commented that it provides $5,000 for repairs and remodeling of the city hall.

A new budget calls for the city to spend $49,251 through the end of the year.

Other major actions Tuesday by the council decided to enact a 10 or 12-year-old ordinance on open toilets and to get writing a building code ordinance.

D. C. Williams, county officer, met with the council to discuss the increasing number of complaints the city has been receiving on open toilets and cesspools.

City Attorney Carleton P. Webb advised the council in Ordinance 87, Section 36, "you've got all the law you need—all you need to do is to enforce it."

This ordinance provides that residents with open toilets and cesspools be given 30 days notice to connect to a sewer line.

Dr. Williams told the council that the State Health Department would help in whatever way it could but would in his opinion, "hesitate to settle something we should settle ourselves."

THE HEALTH OFFICER said in his opinion open toilets are a nuisance and a menace and "should not be permitted in congested areas."

The building code start was triggered by a "billboard problem" which was brought to the attention of the council by S. E. Camp.

Camp, wholesale Texaco dealer here, asked relief from the council for a large billboard which is being constructed on North Broadway in the city limits and would completely hide the Roger's Texaco Service Station from motorists driving north.

Mayor Shytle reported he had received several complaints about billboards in the city limits.

"IT IS JUST this kind of thing we are going to encounter every week now," Shytle predicted, "if we don't get our building code written."

The council expressed the opinion that billboards should be banned from the city just as they are now in most towns.

The council voted to purchase a shredder for the cemetery at a cost of about $400 and an automatic electric addressing machine for the city water department at a cost of slightly over $500. Shytle said both were badly needed.

In a discussion of the new garbage ordinance, some councilmen were surprised to learn that the new ordinance forbids residents from hauling their own garbage.

DESPITE THE forbidding of a trash burning by the new ordinance, trash burning is still a menace here, Mayor Shytle said. The fire department was called out once in August to extinguish a fire ignited by trash burning.

City Attorney Webb proposed sending out a letter to residents who are still burning trash, warning that the ordinance will be enforced. Trash burning is a misdemeanor under the ordinance with a fine of up to $100 set forth as a penalty for those convicted.

Lee Ward and Jim Cornish were reappointed to two-year terms on the P-TA.

"Let's Get Acquainted" will be the theme for the first fall meeting tonight of the Post Parent-Teacher Association which will be held at 7:30 o'clock at the school luncheon.

Informally, over coffee and cookies, parents will be able to meet their children's teachers. Officers of the organization are striving to make local P-TA meetings better and more interesting for both teachers and parents.

At tonight's gathering, the year books will be presented by Mrs. Tom Power, program chairman. David Newby, president, will be in charge of business and R. T. Smith, school superintendent, will introduce members of the faculty.

Assisting in the evening will be Mrs. Warren Yancey, hospitality chairman, and Mrs. Bill Edwards, refreshment chairman.

Hamilton Drug store was burglarized again Sunday night with some $20 in change stolen from a cash register and a .22 automatic pistol taken.

Deputy Sheriff Red Floyd said there were no visible signs of forced entry to the store.

"I don't know how they got in," O. G. (Shorty) Hamilton, the owner said. "Either they forced the backdoor somehow or had a key to the front door."

Floyd said the other possibility was that the burglar or burglars had hidden in the store, robbed it after closing, and left by the back door, locking it behind them.

230 oil firms are being contacted

Almost 100 Garza county oil producers and some 130 oil service firms doing business in this area, are being contacted by the Garza County Oil Centennial Association to support Oil Centennial Week here Oct. 18-24.

David Newby, head of the recently formed association of local oil men, said all letters on the celebration will be in the mail this week.

Climax of the Oil Centennial Week will come Saturday, Oct. 24, with a big parade and barbecue.

The association met Tuesday night in City Hall to push plans and will meet again in two weeks to budget the celebration.

Ted Hibbs and Newby will go to Borger Saturday to witness a similar centennial celebration there in an effort to secure various oil displays for the "week" here.

L. R. Mason purchased two permits, one for the reconstruction of a 28x42 residence at 418 West 5th Street at a cost of $3,000. The other permit was for the reconstruction of a new church.

Vernon Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Scott of Route 1 who has been named as a new assistant vice president of the First National Bank.

The announcement of the bank's new officer was made by Irby G. Metcalf, Jr., bank president.

Scott was graduated from Southland High School in 1954 and was graduated from Hardin-Simmons University at Abilene in 1958 with a double major in business administration and secondary education.

He completed a tour of duty in the U. S. Army in April of this year as a second lieutenant with the Second Armored Division at Fort Hood. He had been farming with his father since his return from service.

Scott and his wife, Jo Ann, the former Miss Jo Ann Lee, live in the Pleasant Valley community and both are members of the Pleasant Valley Baptist Church.

By JIM CORNISH

Needless to say trustees are plenty happy with the bids received yesterday on the new high school building. Construction bidding is hard to figure but one supplier told us before the bids were opened the high school job hit exactly at the right time as far as the Post school district was concerned. He declared a lot of firms were after work right now and predicted they would come in plenty low—5 per cent lower in fact than they would a month later when more fall building became available. It turned out just about like he said too.

Add another pair of real hustlers to the growing list of Post's business men in Jim and Bo Jackson, who have purchased the Post Food Lockers from Wallace Simpson and will continue to operate it under the name Jackson Brothers Food Locker. You'll find their announcement over on page 11. The two came to Post from O'Donnell. Jim came first and started building up the business after Simpson purchased it. When Jim was called into the army, Bo moved in and took his place. Jim is out of the army and back from

Rattlesnake killed on grade school grounds

A rattlesnake was killed on the school grounds here last Thursday.

The rattler was discovered and killed by Custodian Ray Young of the grade school when he was cutting weeds along the edge of the teachers' parking lot on the east side of the grade school.

The snake wasn't killed on the playground as some had reported.

This was another in a series of reports of rattlesnakes invading Post this summer.

Wheel and tire stolen from car

A wheel thief borrowed his victim's jack to steal a new tire and wheel here Tuesday night.

Victor Hudman found his Oldsmobile jacked up with the right front wheel and tire missing in the garage at his new home, 604 West Main, when he started to drive to work yesterday morning.

The trunk was open—apparently the thief has a key to Hudman's car trunk—and the Hudman jack was under the car, supporting it on the right front side.

It was the second tire and wheel stolen from Hudman within two months. The first was taken from the car trunk July 4.

Taillights are 'must' for cotton trailers

Justice of the Peace D. C. Roberts today warned all farmers that the state law requires them to have a taillight burning on their cotton trailers if in use after dark.

He urged farmers to be sure their trailers have burning taillights as the state will enforce the law on streets and highways this fall as a necessary safety measure.

Milo coming in; cotton pulling starts

Crop harvest is getting off to start in county

Garza's milo harvest was begun and cotton pulling of the new 1959 crop also has started in the Close City and Graham areas.

County Farm Agent Lewis Herron reported that irrigated cotton is good, but that dryland cotton has been deteriorating rapidly in the past ten days due to the severe heat and lack of moisture.

The milo harvest is expected to be "light" with early cutting now under way due to the stalks burning and the tendency to lodge.

This has created lots of moisture problems as far as storage is concerned.

The milo harvest isn't expected to get into general cutting, however, until around Sept. 20.

Some cotton already has been ginned at the county gins.

Farm observers estimated this week that half of the county's big feed crop is "down and lost" after the recent blistering heat wave and lack of rain.

Temperatures soared to 108 here early last week.

All the storage needed for the milo crop is available here. That is expected to be no problem.

Mike Mitchell reports the Caprock Grain Company's new dryer is "working overtime" on the green, moisture filled milo. He reports 60,000 bushels of space available.

Earl Rogers of the Garza Farm Store announces today completion of installing a new elevator leg at his elevator to add in the more efficient handling of the feed crop this fall.

Tear gas forces

Hasty exit

Deputy and Mrs. Red Floyd will testify that these tear gas pencils used in law enforcement work are pretty potent weapons.

They "evacuated" their home, 615 West Eleventh, about 10 p. m. Friday when one of the tear gas pencils fell out of Red's shirt pocket and went off on the bedroom floor.

Mrs. Floyd, who was watching television, ran "through" the back door and Red dashed out the front exit. It required about two hours for the last of the fumes to leave the house.

Deputy Floyd had put the tear gas pencil in his shirt pocket when answering a night call earlier. When he started to put on his shirt to answer another, the pencil fell out of the pocket and discharged on the floor.

Decorations for Yuletide ordered

Post's Christmas decorations are going to be even bigger and better this year.

Chamber directors at a meeting Wednesday morning approved the order for the new decorations and they were placed through Chant Lee.

"We'll not only have another big Main Street Christmas tree this season, but we're going to have some added new decorations as well," Chamber Manager Johnny Hopkins said today.

At Precinct 1 polls Saturday

Road bond issue handed drubbing

The proposed $200,000 in road bonds for county commissioner precinct No. 1 were given a sound drubbing by voters Saturday.

The proposal, which would have included necessary funds to purchase right-of-way to four-lane highway US-84 from the Caprock northwest to the Lynn County line, was beaten 122 to 63 in a light vote.

A two-thirds majority of property owners voting would have been required to authorize the bonds.

Only one of the four precincts—Southland—voted in favor of the bonds, and that by a single vote 14 to 13.

Decision is due tonight

The Inland Contracting Company of San Antonio was low bidder Wednesday afternoon on Post's new high school building with a base bid of $336,207—$113,793 under the architect's budget estimate of $450,000.

Second low bidder was Hammock Brothers Construction Co. of Lubbock at $361,200 with W. R. Grimshaw Co. a close third with $361,967.

School district trustees will have a short dinner meeting at Levi's Restaurant tonight with their architects and Fred J. Novak, Sr., owner of the Inland Contracting Co., to consider awarding of the contract.

NOT ONLY WAS the low bid far under the architect's estimate, but the San Antonio firm promised to complete the building in 250 calendar days.

With an immediate start that would bring completion next June, well in advance of the opening of the 1960-61 fall term.

Eleven general contractors bid on the job with the bids averaging some $80,000 under the budget estimate of construction costs made eight months ago.

The bid opening drew approximately 75 contractors and suppliers to the school lunchroom at 4 p. m. yesterday.

THE INLAND Contracting Co. presently has two school construction jobs going in San Antonio, one an $84,000 grade school and the other a $114,000 junior high school. Other construction now under way by the firm include a $102,000 shopping center in San Antonio, a $47,000 hospital addition in Jourd'art, Tex., and a Masonic Hall in Somerset, Tex.

The firm also recently completed LOW BID, Page 8

Teachers banquet will be Sept. 22

The Rotary club will hold its annual Teachers Banquet in the City Hall at 7 p. m. Tuesday, Sept. 22, Leo Acker, Rotary president, announced at the club's weekly luncheon Tuesday.

All local teachers, their wives or husbands, and Rotary Annas will be guests of the club for the occasion. Some 175 are expected.

George Booher of the Post Ready Mix Concrete Co. gave a classification talk on ready mix concrete on the luncheon program and showed a color film of ready mix concrete operations in Lubbock during construction of a large grain elevator.

Farmers invited to big barbecue

All farmers and their families in the Post trade area are invited to the first annual Farmers and Business Men's Barbecue to be held Saturday night, Sept. 19, at the 4-H building and grounds.

The Post Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the big event with barbecued beef being the main course.

Up to 2,000 are expected for the affair.

The big problem is the "inviting." It is practically impossible to reach all the guests on an individual basis.

Matt Stolzer will be chief cook for the affair and Chamber committees are functioning smoothly in all phases of preparations, Chamber Manager Johnny Hopkins reports.

Only one of the four precincts—Southland—voted in favor of the bonds, and that by a single vote 14 to 13.

Close City voters opposed the bond issue 30 to 5, Pleasant Valley, 20 to 11, and Post 59 to 33.

No accurate estimate has been made on the funds the precinct will need next year to buy the right-of-way purchase costs up to what it considers a fair appraisal of the property's value.

Another road bond vote is expected to be ordered later. Probably the total will be scaled down.

The remainder of the $200,000 would have been used for right of way costs on a farm-to-market road, for farm roads in the district, and for paving streets in Post.

Voters weren't told the score

The trouncing handed the $200,000 road bond issue by county commissioner precinct No. 1 voters Saturday wasn't unexpected.

Taxpayers today aren't in any mood to vote big "blank checks" for road construction or anything else.

You could hear plenty of complaints from taxpayers on the bond issue right along. They didn't want to vote the precinct thousands of dollars simply to "build roads or streets."

The voters wanted to know the score and weren't told—as to exactly how the money would be spent.

Cost of the right-of-way purchasing for four-laning the highway north from above the Cap to the county line was never even estimated. But probably it wouldn't even approach 50 per cent of that $200,000 bond issue.

The defeat handed the issue will make it harder to pass next time—even after the size of the bond issue is scaled down to a more reasonable figure.

We don't think the Saturday vote rejecting the bonds was any rejection of the idea of fulfilling the county's agreement with the state to provide necessary funds to buy the right-of-way for the expanded highway. Not at all. The complaint Saturday was against "piling on" a lot of surplus funds which the commissioners' court could use virtually as it pleased in road construction.

But the next time the right-of-way bond issue is presented it will have to be cleared of all entanglements with other precinct streets and highways if approval of the voters is to be expected.

As one of the members of the commissioners' court said Saturday after the vote was in: "Well, I guess we asked for too much."

That's the answer in a nutshell. And it will make the taxpayers even more wary next time.

The defeat of the bond issue proves one point which we argued about to no avail. You have to tell the people exactly how you plan to spend the money if you expect a favorable bond vote.

Nobody signs blank checks these days.—JC

Census questions not so foolish

Next year, 1960, the federal government will conduct its once-a-decade nose count of the people in Post and Garza County and in every other city, town and county in the United States. Taking the census once every 10 years is required by law.

While it seems that there is much foolish information compiled in the process of taking the census, the information gained is actually used more by the business community and individuals and by state and local governments than it is by the federal government.

Many decisions with reference to the location of utilities, roads, schools, hospitals, water supplies, and other phases of private and local planning are tied closely to the numbers and types of people in a particular area and the rate at which a given city or town is changing in size.

Census information is used in the establishment of new industries, new retail outlets, and nationwide as well as local sales efforts. Not the least important is the way the census figures will affect our government, for a re-apportionment of the representatives in the House will be determined on the distribution of the population in keeping with the Constitution, and the figures will have a similar effect on the legislatures of all the states.

Before April 1 of next year, every householder will receive a census form which he or she will be asked complete and hold until the door-to-door enumerator calls for it.

This is the basis of the count of the population. Even though questions asked may seem personal and sometimes exasperating, most of the information is necessary to get a true picture of what the United States in 1960 will be like.—CD

County is losing good HD agent

In something like three weeks from now, Garza County will be losing its home demonstration agent, Miss Jessie Pearce, who has resigned, effective Sept. 30, to return to her home town of Lometa and help take care of her father, who is in ill health.

Not only Garza County, but the entire South Plains and the Extension Service are losing the services of a competent agent in Miss Pearce's resignation.

Since she came here in 1952 as home demonstration agent, Miss Pearce has done a most commendable job in directing home demonstration and 4-H Club work. But her good work has not stopped there. She has taken a prominent part in practically all community and county-wide activities, in church work and in other facets of community life.

Her chief interests, of course, have been those of her profession as county home demonstration agent, and the steady growth of the home demonstration and girls' 4-H Club programs are largely attributable to Miss Pearce's energetic direction—although she would be the last to want to claim the credit.

Every Garza County Fair has been made a better one by Miss Pearce's assistance, and much of the credit for the long-needed county 4-H Club building must go to her. She has been especially diligent in training and coaching 4-H Club girls for county, district and state contests, in which they have made good showings.

In the matter of public relations, which, after all, is the prime interest of this or any other newspaper, Miss Pearce has been a big help to The Dispatch. We, like everyone else in Garza County, regret to see her leave.—CD

Hooray for the band and cheerleaders

Fully as deserving of support as the high school football team is the band and the cheerleaders, without which some schoolboy football games would be rather dreary spectacles.

This year's Post Antelope marching band, directed by Robert Meisch, and the five high school cheerleaders—Sharon Wood, Pat Wheatley, Ann Morris, Judy Morris and Marianne Jones—will provide the color at all Antelope games, at home and away.

Something else often overlooked by some of us is the fact that the band members and the cheerleaders also go through time-consuming drills

—the same as the grid squad—in preparation for the football season. Director Meisch has had his bandmen drilling since early in August, and the same is true for the cheerleaders, who recently attended Southern Methodist University's cheerleader school. The cheerleaders have also been drilling each afternoon since returning from the SMU school.

Let's give these two groups of youngsters a big hand Friday night when they perform before a hometown crowd for the first time this year at the Post-Crosbyton game.—CD

City of Spur nears 50th birthday

It was two years ago this week that Post celebrated its 50th anniversary, in the form of a four-day Golden Jubilee celebration. Since that time, a number of other South Plains towns—Floydada, Crosbyton, Abernathy, and perhaps one or two others—have marked their 50th anniversaries with similar celebrations, and on Sept. 24, 25 and 26, Spur will celebrate its 50th year.

The history of Post and that of Spur are tied in pretty closely, since the areas surrounding both towns were early-day ranching territory, and the two towns have much in common. Many Garza countians are related to pioneer Dickens County families, and vice versa. In more recent years, the two towns have been closely associated in numerous ways, including high school athletics, and the tie was made even closer when both Spur and Post became member cities of the White River Municipal Water District with a common goal—that of securing an adequate water supply. The completion a few years ago of FM Road 651 connecting Post and Spur by way of Kalgary brought the two towns even closer together.

So, there will be many Post and Garza County people attending Spur's Golden Jubilee celebration beginning next weekend, just as there were large numbers of Spur and Dickens County residents attending Post's 50th anniversary observance two years ago.

We salute the City of Spur, its weekly newspaper, The Texas Spur, its schools and other institutions on the eve of this, its 50th anniversary.—CD

What our contemporaries are saying

Another says that the question who came first, the chicken or the egg, has given way to the more immediate and serious question—will people abolish wars, or will wars abolish people?—The Slaton Slatonite.

Trace yourself, Mr. Farmer, the government is demanding you do some more bookkeeping for it. A recent bulletin says:

"Beginning with 1959 every farmer who has work done by a farm labor crew is required by the Internal Revenue Service to keep a record of name, permanent address and employer's identification number of each crew leader who furnishes him workers for farm work."

Not only that, but if there's a written contract saying the crew leader is his employe, the farmer must make regular social security reports and pay wage taxes on the whole outfit.

Knowing with what cries of joy these new regulations are greeted by citizens, we won't linger on the subject. Have fun!—The Crosbyton Review.

Man can criticize women all he wants to, but we know three things in her favor: First, she never wastes two dollars worth of shotgun shells in order to get a 25c rabbit. Second, you never heard of a woman going into a restaurant and buying a $1 meal and giving the waitress a 25c tip because she smiled at her. Third, we've never heard of a woman yet who will use twenty gallons of gas and pay $25 for a boat hired to get where the fish are not.—The Knox County Herald.

THURSDAY to THURSDAY

By CHARLES DIDWAY

LUBBOCK'S FAIR boosters will be in Post Tuesday afternoon in the interest of the annual Panhandle South Plains Fair. We usually stock up on souvenir pencils while they're here.

Incidentally, it won't be long until the annual Garza County Fair, sponsored by the Post Lions Club. The Lions still haven't officially announced the fair dates, but it'll be late this month or early in October.

THE FAIR BOOSTERS here Tuesday will be the first "booster bunch" we've had in a long time. Used to be that we'd have anywhere from three to six rodeo boosting groups come through during the season, but if we had even one this summer, we missed it.

We suppose we've been as guilty as the next fellow in sometimes neglecting to cast a vote, but we ran across something the other day—from the St. Jo Tribune,—that we're going to try to think of every time an election rolls around. Here it is:

"Did you know the word 'idiot' comes from the old Greek word 'citizens who take no part in public voting'. Remember that the next time we have an election of any kind and don't be an idiot."

IN THE NEW telephone directory, A&B Dirt Contractors have moved ahead of L. M. (Leo) Acker as the first number listed. But William Zetzman is still listed last, just as he has been for the last several years. We've picked up one new "Z" in the 1959-60 directory—A. D. Zachary Jr.

We wonder if anyone ever calls Bill Zetzman just to find out what the last guy in the book sounds like, or if anyone ever called Leo Acker just to find out what the first guy in the book sounded like.

IT COULD BE, because in Cumberland R. L. Francis W. Zyons has a "last man" problem. He says the problem is nothing new... his name has been the last one in the phone book for eight years.

"And it's no joke, either," Zyons says. "Especially when creepy guys call me at 2 a. m. just to find out what the last guy in the book sounds like. What am I—a freak or something?"

ZYONS, WHO IS a paper-slinger in a paper plant, allows as how there's one advantage to being the last name listed. "That's when-over I meet someone who needs my number and all I have to do is tell them to look at the end of the book. That's me."

He averages two calls a week from strangers. Zyons says he's complained to the telephone company, but they've told him there's nothing he can do except to get an unlisted number. "And that's a bit too expensive right now, so I sweat it out."

SINCE THERE are no bars in Post (bars are where most of the Rhode Island man's calls come from), we doubt that Bill Zetzman has ever been routed out of bed by a practical joker who wants to know what the last man in the phone book sounds like.

In last year's directory, the Smiths and the Williamses were tied for the lead with 10 each, but in the new book Smith has forged ahead with 14. Williams has jumped from 10 to 12, but is now two behind Smith. The Joneses are third with 11... they had nine listings in the old directory.

OUR FRIEND UP the street says you may not know when you are well off, but the Internal Revenue Department knows.

Heaven used to protect the working girl. Now it takes a union, a wage-hour law, unemployment compensation, social security, health insurance and a pension plan.

The Dispatch doesn't mind having folks tell it how to run its business, since we're so used to it, but we don't like the idea of groundless rumors being circulated about why we do or don't run such and such a story. The truth of the matter is, we print anything that is news, but since we can't be everywhere at once, it is sometimes necessary for people to let us know about something they want in the paper.

Bible Thoughts

"Christ Is Coming Again"

by RONNIE PARKER

In Acts the first chapter we have an account of the ascension of Christ. After Jesus had charged the apostles to be witnesses of him throughout all the world, he was taken up and a cloud received him out of their sight. Verse 10 says: "And while they were looking steadfastly into heaven as He went, behold, two men stood by them in white apparel; who also said, 'Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye looking into heaven; this Jesus, who was received up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye beheld Him going into heaven.'"

Jesus had told His disciples, yea, and all who will be His disciples, that "In My Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you; for I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I COME AGAIN, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also." (John 14:2-3).

Though the time is unknown by all save God (Mk. 13:32), those who have lived a righteous life look with great expectation to the second coming of Christ. They shall live with Him for all eternity. To live a life of sin is to be caught unprepared to stand before the judgment bar of God. An eternal hell awaits the unrighteous. Are you ready for His glorious coming?

Pioneer resident of Garza County is buried Friday

Funeral services for Mrs. Addie Mae Smith, pioneer Garza County resident who died Wednesday of last week in Lubbock, were conducted at 2 p. m. Friday in the First Methodist Church here.

Mrs. Smith, who was 81, was the widow of H. G. Smith, who served as Garza County judge prior to the 1920's. They were married soon after his graduation from law school and moved to Justiceburg in 1906, the year before the county was organized.

Mr. Smith died about 18 years ago. Mrs. Smith had made her home in Lubbock for about three years.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Marjorie Hostler of Clifton Heights, Pa., and Mrs. Faye Richards of Lubbock; one son, Alex Smith of Dallas, and six grandchildren.

The Rev. Eugene Matthews, pastor, officiated at the funeral services. Burial, under direction of Hudman Funeral Home, was in Terrace Cemetery.

Pallbearers were B. F. (Boone) Evans, Harold Voss, Fred Cockrell, Glenn Voss, Roy Ethridge and Pete Kennedy.

About Your HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health.

HENRY A. ROLLE, M.D. Commissioner of Health

The most widely anticipated hour on Texas' sporting calendar arrived Sept. 1 precisely at high noon. It marked the opening of the fall hunting season.

Before it ends in mid-January, an estimated 400,000 hopeful hunters—including young and old of both sexes, skilled and unskilled—will have taken to the field in eager expectation.

Wily mourning doves are present targets of a thousand guns by virtue of a 50-day north zone season that began September 1. The south zone opens October 1.

Duck season runs from November 13 to January 1. For deer and turkey it begins November 16 and lasts until December 31, with date variations depending on county law. Quail shooting becomes legal December 1 until January 16.

It's a satisfying time, with man in quiet communion with a bountiful nature. But all too often an ominous note creeps into the happy symphony.

Thirty-seven hunting enthusiasts ranging in age from 12 to 65 won't be going out this year. And for the very best of reasons: They're dead... killed by their own hand or by others during last year's season.

Four hunters killed themselves in attempting to clean or repair loaded guns. Six others virtually committed suicide by crawling through fences with gun in hand.

In other deaths the victims were mistaken for game, or made errors in judgment while unloading guns, or stalking game, or otherwise mishandling weapons.

A 12-year-old lad, a novice deer hunter, was killed instantly when his doting father—carrying a "ready" rifle—tripped over a log and accidentally discharged the weapon.

And in another incident the situation was almost exactly reversed. A boy tripped on a wooded trail. His father was felled with a bullet in his back.

Be smart this year and follow these basic rules of gun safety:

Never mix fire water with fire power, and never point a gun at anything you don't intend to shoot. Remember that only a knuckthead would pull a gun through a fence. The safe way is to put it over first, making sure it is standing steady before you climb

WMU TO MEET

Tuesday, Sept. 15, the Women's Missionary Union of the First Baptist Church will have an all-day meeting in observance of "Week of Prayer for State Missions". A covered dish luncheon is planned with the husbands invited, and the goal for the day has been set for $600.

Keep the safety catch ON until you get ready to shoot, and be positive you actually see what you are shooting at.

Remember, too, that guns are death traps for curious children. Unload yours before you get home.

Meddlers at sites of aircraft accidents are warned by Air Force

Individuals arriving at the scene of a military aircraft accident are cautioned by the U. S. Air Force not to remove or relocate any part of the wreckage unless this action helps save a life.

Reese Air Force Base officials said there have been instances in the past where parts of wreckage vital to accident investigations were removed. This prevented adequate investigation to determine cause of the accident and prevent additional ones in the future. It is possible that success or failure of an entire weapon system could be at stake due to such carelessness by persons at the scene of the accident.

The Air Force has been able to consistently reduce its major aircraft accident rate through expeditious work of aircraft accident investigation officers who arrive at the scene of accidents as rapidly as possible. Their on-the-scene investigation and subsequent work by appointed investigation boards are essential to good accident prevention. The remaining parts and pieces in a major accident hold the key to their success.

Reese officials said they feel sure the public will cooperate once it understands the facts and the serious consequences of removing parts for souvenirs or for other reasons.

It's the Law in Texas...

LOOKING AHEAD (LEGALLY SPEAKING)

You can tell a lot about people by the way they regard time.

Do they put stock mostly in the past—their record; the present—their direct joy in work or play; or the future—their plans.

Why not use all three dimensions of time? Past experience to guide, the present for zest, and the future to realize dreams.

Lawyers report a sharp shift in the way people regard time and the law: Of old they thought of law in terms of past facts like failures to meet legal duties, misdeeds, etc.—facts useful chiefly in lawsuits.

You still have to think of the record, since you may have to go to trial some time. So keep good records of your affairs.

But more and more people now also think of the law in the future tense—in terms of built-in safeguards for plans which they want to go through without legal hitches.

Our heavy income and death taxes have made people plan ahead legally, rather than wait for the ax to fall.

Any time you buy or sell a home or a business or make an investment you have choices of how you may do it—some wise, some not, in view of your circumstances. Should you insist on an abstract or accept or offer instead a title insurance policy? (Your lawyer has a definite part to play in either event.)

Should you do business as a sole proprietor, a partnership, or corporation? Do your contracts set out ways of meeting unexpected events? How best may you serve your estate (and also carry out your wishes)—by a will or a trust, or by direct gifts?

While all of these things point forward, the past in the form of court records can serve you by showing where trouble may come from.

As more and more people know the symptoms of legal trouble—where to look for legal hitches in plans before big trouble starts, there will be fewer law suits and better human relations.

And where does trouble sometimes start? Most often where you lack a clear grasp of your relationship, your rights and duties, and your own and the other fellow's resources—in transactions involving large personal or financial stakes.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Mitchell ends cruise in Western Pacific

Cunningham, after a five-month cruise in the Western Pacific.

SPUR ENROLLMENT

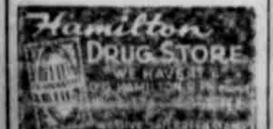

SPUR — First week enrollment in the Spur schools totaled 738, according to James B. Settle, superintendent. There were 224 enrolled in high school.

The first U.S. destroyer developed only 1,600 h.p. while destroyer leaders of today like the USS Willis A. Lee develop 60,000 h.p.

Cook Out

Smell that tantalizing aroma in the air... Yes sir, no wonder thick steaks cooked over a slow charcoal fire with just a hint of hickory smoke are such a great favorite. And this young chef seems to be doing a superb job... with only an occasional bit of advice from his father.

The deep affection and understanding between this father and his son goes far beyond the art of outdoor cooking. They are also partners in the great adventure of a boy growing into manhood. The father is the teacher and his son, the willing pupil. They talk of remembered fishing trips, of school and football. They discuss plans for the boy's future in the business world. And they also have quiet talks about the church and a man's need to make God a very important part of his life. This father, by his example, is showing his son that a life without the church is a wasted and unrewarding life. Go to church and take your family. Show them by your example.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Stamp collecting king of hobbies, says postmaster

Philately is the king of hobbies," says Postmaster Harold Voss. Not only is stamp collecting the number one hobby throughout the world, but it is growing in popularity at a rapid rate. There are, for example, just about as many stamp collectors in the United States as dog owners, possibly more.

The Post Office Department realizes that its first job is to deliver mail, now more than 61 billion a year. The Department realizes also that the fundamental purpose of postage is to preserve the past. Beyond these first purposes, however, the Department is aware that its "miniature billboards" have been effective silent ambassadors of American cultural and economic life, Voss said.

It's well known," says the postmaster, "that stamp collecting is our school children's most pleasant way to learn about the nation's famous men and women, the great events of our history, and the organizations and natural wonders of the United States. It is also known that through commemorative stamps American life is disseminated abroad."

Lightning causes nearly third of all of nation's farm fires

COLLEGE STATION — Lightning still is listed as the causative agent in nearly one-third of all U. S. farm fires. Lightning damage is not confined to personal property for it is estimated that more than 1,300 persons are injured and 500 killed by lightning every year. About 90 per cent of this accident toll occurs in rural areas, states the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council.

Farm buildings and homes can be protected from lightning damage by the installation of an approved, complete lightning protection system. This means more than just the installation of rods, says the Council. Today's systems are engineered to collect static charges from the entire building and the things in it and dissipate the static into the air.

The USDA has released a bulletin which gives the principles of lightning protection systems and the materials used to build them, the Council says.

Although few farmers install their own lightning protection systems, the bulletin will enable them to determine whether installation work is being done properly, and to make periodic inspections of systems already installed.

For farm buildings as well as trees, a lightning protection system consists of three parts — air terminals (rods or points), conductors, and ground connections. The terminals are copper, aluminum, or galvanized steel rods or tubes, 10 to 24 inches long, installed at every projecting high point on a building. Conductors are the parts connecting the terminals with the ground and nowadays, usually are made of aluminum or copper cable, although rods also are satisfactory. A ground connection can be made in one of four ways; by driving a copper-clad or galvanized steel rod into the ground at least 10 feet, by stranding copper conductor cable and burying it in a trench, by clamping copper conductor cable to a buried sheet of metal plate, or by clamping it to an underground metal water pipe. Carefully made ground connections are vital to the operation of a lightning protection system, the Council adds.

For a copy of the new bulletin, write the Office of Information, USDA, Washington 25, D. C. Ask for Farmers Bulletin 2136.

Domestic workers are advised to see that wages are reported

Domestic employees should make sure their earnings are reported correctly. Housewives who employ domestics have done a good job, as a rule, in filing the required quarterly reports, according to John G. Hutton, district social security manager. However, the ratio of incorrect and unreported items is still high and could lead to unfortunate results for the domestic employee. Hutton stressed that unreported or incorrectly re-

CONTROL PROGRAM WILL PAY REWARDS

$70 billion being lost each year by cotton growers to crop insects

COLLEGE STATION — Are you contributing heavily to the 70 million dollars that is lost each year by cotton growers to cotton insects? Dr. J. C. Gaines, Head of the Entomology Department, Texas A&M, says the only way that a cotton grower can realize a profit is to have an adequate insect control program. No single step in the production of cotton is more important than the protection of the plants and fruit from insect damage, he adds.

To carry on an unceasing war against insect enemies of cotton, the planter should be able to recognize the most injurious pests, the nature of their damage and the principles involved in their control. To help the farmer with this important task, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service has released a new bulletin, written by Gaines, entitled, "Cotton Insects."

The cotton plant, with its many succulent leaves, nectaries and abundance of fruit, is attractive to many species of insects, both injurious and beneficial. While the boll weevil and bollworm are considered the most destructive, the pink bollworm is potentially more serious. Beneficial insects may aid in controlling injurious pests, but they alone cannot be relied upon to control the major pests.

According to the bulletin, results of research indicate that an adequate insect control program will, on the average, increase the crop yield by more than 40 per cent. For every timely application of insecticide made when the infestation warrants control of injurious pests, a gain of at least 80 pounds or more of seed cotton per acre may be expected. The planter should net a profit, based on average yields of at least $6 for every dollar invested in his insect control program.

The bulletin discusses the principles of cotton insect control, insects resistant to certain insecticides, insects of major and minor importance and beneficial insects. Contact your local county agent for a copy of the bulletin. Ask for B-933.

First Lynn bale brings in $729

TAHOKE — Arlys Askew of Wells received $729 and the ginning free on the first bale of cotton raised this year in Lynn County, which was also the first bale on the South Plains.

A premium of $200 was given by Lynn County ginners and an equal amount by the Tahoke Chamber of Commerce. The remainder of the $729 came from sale of the cotton and the seed, with the farmer's father and landlord, P. E. Askew, adding another $50 to the premium.

ported items such as name, social security account number, or amount of earnings, might bar the individual from the full protection that social security could give him.

All employees, but especially domestics, should keep a record of their wages. At least once every three years, they should check their social security records to assure that all cash wages have been correctly reported. They can do this by contacting their local social security office and asking for the postcard designed for this purpose.

Hutton also advised the domestics to check with their employers periodically and make sure the items named above are being correctly reported. It was also suggested by the district manager that any household employers who have any questions should contact the local social security office. He cautioned housewives that they should report the earnings of any of their employees who earn $50 or more cash wages in a calendar quarter. As an example, employment for July, August, and September, should be reported no later than Oct. 31, 1959.

When we lost our operator in the backshop over the weekend, Editor Charlie Didway, who is really an old pro at this newspaper business, quietly left his front office desk and took over that machine work. Charlie knows just about everything there is to know about newspapering—and we are very happy that one of his many abilities is the one to start operating an Intertype when the emergency arises. Most people don't know it, because Charlie doesn't toot his own bugle, but he is probably just about the best speller in town. He's a crackerjack proof reader, an able reporter, a solid writer. He can put up a backshop apron, cast his own heads on the Ludlow and make up his front page from scratch. He runs the folding machine every Thursday morning when everybody takes over some "get out the paper chore". Charlie is a quiet sort of guy, not easily riled, but we enjoy seeing him get his dander up every once in a while as he occasionally does when somebody tells him how to edit The Dispatch—particularly about what to leave out of a story. We hope Charlie isn't riding that Intertype machine very long in the backshop, because we miss him like the dickens up front. But despite the operating this week Charlie found time to write his sport page as usual, get out his column and editorials, and check everything pretty close as he always does.

Eddie Warren, the former publisher, came in yesterday to help us get the paper out. And his work with the machine was certainly appreciated. Stave-put kind of operators are hard to find right now, but eventually we'll come up with a new addition, population-wise, for Post.

AN INTERVIEW WITH HER GLAMOROUS MOVIE IDOL

Six practices keep down cotton root rot

COLLEGE STATION—One of the most destructive cotton diseases in Texas is cotton root rot. It is not unusual for over 50 per cent of plants in a cotton field to be killed by the disease in certain areas. On an average, the per cent yield reduction in cotton is approximately equal to half the percentage of plants killed. In some wet years, the disease reduces the potential average yield by 25 per cent in the Blackland Prairie.

Sausage output at post-war peak

COLLEGE STATION—More than two billion pounds of sausage products have been prepared in federally inspected plants each year since 1951, according to Roy Snyder, extension meats specialist.

So far this year production has been above average. It is expected to continue high for some months because of the pork available from this year's huge pig crop—the third largest in history and the largest since World War II. Snyder said that output of fresh sausage, made principally from pork, already has increased. A somewhat larger percentage of pork may be used this year in some products made of both pork and beef.

In the fall, after the "hot dog" or picnic season, demand for franks and weiners decreases and production drops accordingly. However, he added, demand and production of luncheon meats is about the same at all seasons because these meats are used regularly for lunchbox sandwiches. Production of fresh sausage rises in fall and winter months as cool weather increases appetites for his high energy and highly seasoned product.

Large volumes of sausage are packaged by meat packers and processors, and widely distributed. Fresh sausage is usually produced locally and distributed to refrigerated cases of retail stores frequently enough to insure best flavor. Most family food-shoppers buy fresh sausage the same way—enough to use within a few days or a week but not in quantity for long storage. The specialist cautions against keeping sausage too long in a home-freezer as it loses quality after a few weeks.

Night police—

THE COUNCIL approved an agreement with Brown Brothers for a percentage collection of the city oil tax on leases split inside and outside the new city limits.

The council said it had no objection if Dr. John Carter wanted to pave the street in front of his new home on West Tenth Street at his own expense with the understanding that it might have to be torn out later if paving was extended in the area and it did not conform. The city's paving project for the year has been completed and the local physician says he wants to "stay out of the mud".

Mayor Shytles announced that the topographical map of the expanded city limits prepared by engineers has now been completed and "we can now determine all the grades". The council authorized payment of the bill of $589.62 for the engineering work involved.

THE COUNCIL approved the advertising for bids for the city's old Ford fire truck which has been retired and put under canvas at the city warehouse since the purchase of the new truck. The city has two in operation. The Ford truck is without hose. Sale was suggested by the fire department as the equipment is no longer of use but might prove adequate for a smaller community.

Mayor Shytles said that over 30,000,000 gallons of water were used in Post during August—an all-time record.

Dr. L. S. Bird, associate professor of plant pathology, Texas A&M, says that many years of research have found six practices a farmer can use to reduce root rot losses. They are: deep-plow badly infested areas, grow resistant crops in rotation, turn under large tonnages of organic matter, produce early cotton, fertilize properly, and avoid excessive planting rates.

A combination of these practices carried on for a number of years is necessary for best results, Bird says. Where recommended practices have been carried out over a period of years, root rot damage was reduced from 75 per cent to 5 per cent or less. Combinations of practices to use vary in different areas of the state, he adds.

Cotton root rot occurs over all of Texas except the Panhandle and High Plains. It also occurs in Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona, California, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Nevada, Utah and Louisiana. It is prevalent in highly fertile, calcareous, alkaline soils. The disease flourishes with moderate moisture and is suppressed under very dry or very wet conditions. It is also unable to survive where the lowest temperatures are 10 degrees below zero.

Bird and extension specialists Harlan Smith and Fred Elliott are authors of a new publication released by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service titled "Root Rot Losses of Cotton Can be Reduced." This publication is available from local county agents or the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas. Ask for MP-361.

Post Antelopes Vs. Crosbyton Chiefs

Friday Night, September 11
8 P.M. Kickoff

Let's Give Our New Coaches and Team A Real Welcome

The new steel bleachers at Antelope Stadium are capable of holding the largest football opening crowd in any season yet—so let's everybody turn out tomorrow night to welcome the Antelopes and their new coaches to the home grid campaign against the Crosbyton Chiefs.

The new physical facilities, including the new field house, should really help this fall for a home season which spans six of the nine games on the schedule.

Crosbyton and Post always play a good ball game. Shifts in Antelope personnel to new positions were evident last week in the season's opener at Ralls. But with another week of practice, the locals should be working the hitches out of the new offense.

The visitors are again a worthy foe. Don't miss this home opener and the snappy halftime display of our fine high school band as well.

New book, 'Texas Indian Papers,' scheduled for release this month

AUSTIN — Publication of "Texas Indian Papers: 1825-1842" (Austin State Library, $5.25) has been scheduled for this month according to State Librarian Witt Harwell.

Compiled and edited by State Archivist Dorman H. Winfrey and staff of the Archives division of the State Library, the volume contains 219 documents including letters and letters accumulated in the Mexican Period and the eight years of the Republic of Texas. The book also features a comprehensive index which should be of great value to historians and researchers. Winfrey, prior to his appointment as State Archivist in 1958, served as editorial assistant on the Southwestern Historical Quarterly and was assistant editor of The Junior Historical Magazine. He also served as a staff writer for the "Handbook of Texas". A graduate of the University of Texas, he holds both B. A. and M. A. degrees in history.

"This book fills a need which has existed for many years," Harwell said, "Historians and others doing work in almost all phases of Texas history have had to examine the Indian papers frequently. As a result of long and repeated use the manuscripts have become worn and in many instances are in such poor condition that some items can no longer be made available for general use. This work has been brought out in order to preserve the original manuscript copies and at the same time to make their valuable contents available."

The Archives Division, by legislative mandate, is charged with the responsibility to "edit and preface for publication manuscript copies of the Texas Archives" Harwell pointed out. A second volume concerning Indian papers for the last two years of the Republic (1844-45) is now in preparation and should be published in 1960, to be followed by a volume devoted to Indian papers of the Statehood period.

EARLY VINTAGE TANK CARS

The first railroad tank cars, devised by Amos Densmore in 1865, were simply wooden tanks mounted on conventional flat cars. A few years later, American ingenuity brought forth the more efficient horizontal type tank car similar to those used today.

New interest being aroused in Texas' historic heritage

DALLAS — A new, wide public interest in Texas' historic heritage is being aroused throughout the state under a program headed by the Texas State Historical Survey Committee, according to Col. Charles R. Tips of Dallas, president of the committee. Reports have been received by President Tips from more than 200 counties where local historical survey committees have been formed. These local committees have been named by County Judges at the request of the state committee.

In addition to the work being carried on locally by these more than 200 committees, the Texas State Historical Survey Committee is cooperating with the Texas State Historical Association, the Sons and Daughters of the Republic of Texas and other organizations in a state-wide program for increasing public interest in Texas history.

The Texas Historical Survey Committee was created by the Legislature in 1953 to carry out a temporary program aimed primarily at preserving old Texas homes, courthouses, colleges, forts and other historic structures, and encouraging greater public interest in them. The committee met with such prompt public response that, two years ago, the Legislature gave it permanent status as an official state agency charged with the responsibility for encouraging the development of historical resources in every locality in Texas and giving leadership, co-ordination and service to existing historical heritage organizations.

A 9-point program has been suggested by the state committee for guidance of the local committees. First, the local committees are requested to work with local public officials and the State Highway Department in preservation of all historical markers in their respective counties and placing additional markers where points of historical importance have been overlooked. It is also suggested that the county committees encourage the writing of county histories, including biographical sketches of early settlers, also the placing of valuable county records in county libraries or other places for safe-keeping. The local committees are also requested to work with commissioners courts to have the more valuable county records microfilmed and copies deposited in the new State Archives Building at Austin. The local committees are also requested to work toward the establishment of local museums and, if this is not feasible, to cooperate with some nearby regional museum for the preservation of interesting relics of pioneer days. Local committees are especially urged to work for the preservation of any building or other historical landmarks of importance and, where destruction cannot be prevented, to have them carefully photographed and copies sent to the State Archives Building at Austin.

The local committees are also requested to sponsor observations of Texas holidays, and co-operate with the Texas State Board of Education, the Texas State Historical Association and the Sons of the Republic of Texas in their several programs aimed at increasing public interest in Texas history. Full details of the program may be obtained from George W. Hill, Executive Director, Texas State Historical Survey Committee, 112 West 14th Street, Austin, Texas.

$12 per acre is basic rate for 1960 soil bank

COLLEGE STATION — Texas farmers will receive a basic rate of $12 an acre under announced plans for the Conservation Reserve of the Soil Bank for the 1960 crop season by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. A tentative goal of 452,000 additional acres was also announced for the State.

Principal changes listed for the 1960 Conservation Reserve in the USDA announcement include regulations relating to publicly owned land, tenure of ownership, method of setting payment rates and the determination of priorities when more applications are received than can be accepted.

Land owned by a state, county, town or local government will be ineligible for the program. This rule is already in effect on federally owned land. Land which has changed ownership (except through inheritance) since December 31, 1956, is ineligible to enter the program in 1960.

If land under a 1960 Conservation Reserve contract is sold, the contract generally may be assumed by the purchaser only after it has been in effect for three years.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

By VERN SANFORD

Time and again we have commented on the tremendous importation of foreign military rifles.

We warned of the dangers involved in trying to convert them into sporting guns. We also warned of the economic dangers.

Now comes a group of the leading gun manufacturers with a warning to the Federal Government that foreign gun imports are endangering our national security.

Six member companies of the Sporting Arms and Ammunition Manufacturers Institute have filed a petition with OCDM, asking that imports be limited to their 1945-55 historical level.

Those signing the petition were High Standard, Ithaca, Mossberg, Remington, Savage and Winchester-Western. They contend that the market for high-powered hunting rifles has been glutted by foreign surplus guns at fantastically low prices.

WE THINK the expression "fantastically low price" is an erroneous statement. When a person puts good money into a piece of junk it isn't a low price—it's a costly expenditure and a waste of money.

It is possible for the OCDM to recommend to the President that such importations be based on a quota which will not continue as a threat to national security.

Sometimes the wheels of governmental agencies work slowly. If outdoorsmen will quit buying this junk, the get-rich-quick importers will have to sell it for scrap metal.

And as long as some of our leading dealers continue to offer such items they will have only themselves to blame for what happens.

I STILL feel bad about keeping my mouth shut recently. I was in the gun department of a big retail store. Among the generous supply of honest American-made guns there were two rows of surplus military rifles. One was an import with a price of $29.95. It was a monstrosity. Alongside it was a U. S. Springfield for $39.95.

A young fellow, lame from some affliction, walked into the place and studied the guns. He looked first at the Springfield and then at the import. He kept on fingering the price tags.

I wanted to offer him some advice. In the first place I doubt if, in his condition, he had any business with a gun at all. But I could overlook that, for nearly every man wants a gun. But here was a man who definitely couldn't afford a gun. And he was about to buy a piece of junk I only wish that I had put in my two-cents worth and warned him against it.

I DOUBT IF anyone, who knows anything at all about guns, ever would be proud of making a shooting iron from one of these imports. To my way of thinking these guns anything like it. They are found in the Edwards Plateau, the Trans Pecos, Brush Country and the Comanchero Bend. They are throughout grass and mesquite lands of West Texas and even into blackjack country.

They are thick on both sides of the Red River and throughout pine thickets this side of the river.

There are lobs, blues and a few of the Gouarnix. What year for hunting!

DANDY DECORY — We're ways happy to learn of a new product, especially one that's made in Texas.

Latest to come to our attention is a dove decoy. It's called "Real D-Coy". It's made by C. L. B. Co. of Houston. And believe you me it's well named.

Due to heavy rainfall throughout state, doves are scattered. This shooting is likely to be slow. Doves become wary of waterfowl decoys when the dove decoy comes into its own.

"The Real D-Coy" is so designed that it can be placed high in a tree; on limbs that are large enough to support a wooden wire fence; or placed on the ground. A number together look like Real McCoy!

They really look real. So lies in the fact that they are anchored on a perch and not tied to it. Weighted legs enable decoys to be positioned several different ways.

No need to climb trees. Through the use of a cane or these decoys can be placed in a dead tree, where they will be visible for a considerable distance and they are just as easily moved.

Good defoliation key to quality cotton harvest

COLLEGE STATION — The success or failure of mechanical harvesting of cotton is dependent upon the defoliation job. Fred C. Elliott, extension cotton work specialist, says a good job of defoliation under favorable weather enables a producer to harvest just as high quality cotton as by hand pulling. Arsenic acid and pentachlorophenol are the most commonly used defoliants and both have their advantages and limitations. Arsenic acid is applied at the rate of 1½ to 2 quarts per acre mixed in about 8 gallons of water. This material is toxic to man and animals and is very corrosive. For these reasons, precautions must be taken to protect the applicators and the equipment. Most of this material runs about 75 per acre.

The recommended rate for pentachlorophenol is 7 to 8 gallons of 50 percent kerosene per acre. It is non-toxic and has no corrosive action. However, Elliott adds, it is flammable and may cause burning around the nose, ears and lips of the operator. Since it is mixed with diesel or kerosene, the cost runs up to about $3 per acre. The addition of 2,4-D to the defoliant aids in the control of regrowth, in the event of rain between defoliation and harvest. The addition of one pint of 2,4-D per acre costs about 75 cents. It is used only to control regrowth, and should not be used where the seed will be saved for planting purposes. Those who do use 2,4-D should do so only if they are thoroughly familiar with the material. Once 2,4-D is used in a machine, cautions Elliott, it cannot be washed out.

Amino triazole will also check regrowth and is recommended in the defoliation leaflet L-145, "Cotton Defoliation Guide," which is available at the county agent's office.

There's more and more talk about new uses for cotton... new developments in spinning and weaving... and with all this talk and all these developments it's very easy to lose sight of the need for cost cutting research in the production stage... now we are not advocating that any phase of research be slighted to benefit another phase... certainly cotton needs all the help it can get from any angle... but the cost of growing cotton must be reduced to keep farmers interested in producing cotton... no matter how cheaply cotton can be processed into consumer goods, the basic cost is determined in the fields... the raw material sets the pace.

Increased costs of tools, labor, and a couple of other items have increased the costs of growing cotton, and these, together with mandatory acreage reduction, have driven many farmers to other crops... as inflation grows the costs will increase and more farmers—especially farmers with small acreage—will be driven away from the crop, we're afraid... this certainly points to the need for increased research efforts to reduce costs to the farmer... we are, of course, talking about "per pound" cost and the increased yields per acre that have been mounting are steps in the right direction.

NCC Leaflet
A new leaflet on protecting cotton's quality is just off the press of the National Cotton Council... the leaflet is part of an industry-wide educational program to reduce damage caused by excess heating and machining of the fiber before it gets to the mills... this leaflet can put money in your pockets... it's free... just drop a card asking for the "quality leaflet" to the National Cotton Council, P. O. Box 9905, Memphis 12, Tennessee.

Prices Down
Over-all farm prices were down to 239 per cent of the 1910-14 average in mid-August... that figure is lower by one point than the one of the month before... this makes the third straight month that over-all farm prices have fallen... costs were down too, but not so much.

Q. I am a registered plumber. As a Korean veteran, could I take a brush-up course in plumbing under the Korean GI Bill?

A. No. The law prohibits veterans training for objectives for which they already are qualified. And you certainly would be considered qualified as a plumber.

Q. When I took out my GI insurance I named an aunt as beneficiary. I have since married and naturally want my wife to be the beneficiary. Do I have to notify my aunt I am taking off her name?

A. No. In making a change of beneficiaries you need not notify anyone already so named. Selection of beneficiaries for your GI insurance is entirely up to you.

Q. I get a retirement pay check each month from the armed forces. Will the Government deduct the amount of my monthly GI insurance premium from my retirement pay, to save me taking care of this premium myself?

A. Yes. Veterans receiving service retirement pay may arrange for payment of GI insurance premiums by allotment. Authorization must be registered with your branch of service.

Q. I have been totally disabled for six months and have applied for a waiver of premiums on my GI insurance policy. What will be the effective date of the waiver?

A. If your claim is allowed, the waiver will become effective as of the first premium due date after the beginning date of your disability. This is the general rule. There are exceptions for those who wait an unusually long time before applying.

State Capital NEWS
By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN — People who have been writing Gov. Price Daniel in the past few weeks say "no more taxes, please."

In mid-August the governor announced he would call a special session to raise money for higher teacher pay only if the people demanded it. He said he also wanted to find out how legislators felt after they had had a chance to be home a while and talk with the folks in their districts.

In the weeks that have transpired, there has been a heavy volume of mail running strongly against the special session idea. Lawmakers also are taking a dim view of being called for a fifth round of money hunting.

Whether this means that prospects for a teacher pay session are out remains to be seen. It could mean only that the teachers, their families, friends and other school-minded people have been too busy with "back to school" work to get their letters off to the governor.

On the other hand, it could mean that the people are getting tired of taxes, and spiraling wage scales.

PERHAPS THE reason many Texans weren't eager to have another tax session was that they were beginning to feel the bite of new taxes already passed this year.

State Treasurer Jesse James' report shows that many stocked up on cigarettes and liquor during August, before higher taxes on these items became effective in September.

Sale of liquor and cigarette tax stamps soared to $5,227,642 in August. This is $1,098,496 higher than sales for August, 1958.

No statistics are available for the pre-tax selling of items which got out for the first time. But heavy advertising campaigns indicated that merchants hoped buyers would clear their stores during August of such items as air conditioners in order to avoid the 3 per cent sales tax.

GOVERNOR DANIEL'S office has suggested that the State Hospital Board tap its $1,200,000 emergency fund to eliminate any fire hazard to the 800 oldsters housed in the Confederate Home in Austin.

Governor Daniel vetoed a legislative appropriation to build new quarters for these patients. His action brought some reactions of surprise and criticism. State Hospital system's safety officer was quoted as labeling the 50-year-old frame buildings as "definite fire hazards."

A spokesman for the governor reported that the appropriation the governor scratched would not have emptied the Confederate Home. He said it would have provided quarters for only about 300.

He suggested the State Hospital Board use its emergency funds to re-double safety precautions for the old folks.

LEGISLATIVE employees will have to wait until Nov. 4 to get their next pay check.

In its last special session the legislature approved a $330,000 fund transfer for these between-sessions expenses by voice vote. But all bills not passed by a two-thirds record vote cannot take effect until 90 days after the session ends. Hence, the November date for this action.

Legislature also appropriated $1,000,000 for legislative expenses, but this was vetoed by the governor. He said he felt they could get along on the $330,000.

Arrangements were being made for some 20 House and Senate employees, who've missed two pay days now, to get low interest loans from loan companies.

STATE HIGHWAY Department has announced that registration and licensing of boats under the new water safety act will begin next month.

Boat owners will have until March 1, 1960 to get their certificates and identification numbers.

Forms now are being printed and will be distributed to boat dealers, county offices, Highway Department Offices and other public offices.

Cost of the licenses will vary with the size of the craft. Here is the scale: Boats under 16 feet in length, $1; 16 to 26 feet, $3; 26 to 40 feet, $10; 40 feet or more, $12.50.

Boats, regardless of length, if equipped with a 10 hp motor or less, will be exempt from the tax as well as the numbering provision of the law.

The Highway Department will

The Ford Falcon, first of America's new-size cars, represents a "breakthrough" in automotive design that may materially alter the future of the automobile industry. The Falcon Fordor shown here is more than two feet shorter and three-quarters of a ton lighter than a standard 1959 Ford. Yet, the Falcon is a six-passenger car, with interior roominess approximating that of standard models.

Ford releases pictures of its brand new economy car, the roomy Falcon

DETROIT — Ford Division of Ford Motor Company released first official photographs of the Falcon today and said it expects to build 100,000 of the new economy cars by the end of 1959.

James O. Wright, company vice president and Ford Division general manager, said assembly of Falcons already is under way at the division's Lorain, O., assembly plant, and will start shortly at plants near Kansas City, Mo., and San Jose, Calif. Falcon engines are being produced at Lima, O.

Wright said the keynote of the Falcon will be economy of operation and maintenance.

"For example," he said, "the Falcon will have gasoline economy 50 per cent better than the largest of the so-called 'compact' cars of American manufacture, and 25 per cent better than the smallest domestic car made by the same producer. Compared with the latter, the Falcon has 35 per cent more luggage space, 70 per cent more windshield area, and a full foot more of rear-seat width."

Wright said that in the area of replacement parts a Falcon fender will cost 50 per cent less, a windshield 40 per cent less and a muffler 30 per cent less.

With regard to air-cooled versus water-cooled engines, Wright said the Falcon's water-cooled, front-mounted engine will require only $1.80 worth of anti-freeze in the winter—50 per cent less than a full-size car.

Wright said the Falcon will be introduced publicly October 8 at 7,000 Ford Division dealerships across the country.

"Based on the amount of public interest in the Falcon already being reported by our dealers," he said, "we are expecting our busiest introductory period in years."

Wright said the Falcon combines economy of operation and smaller exterior dimensions with ruggedness, "big-car" roadability and passenger space comparable to that of standard cars.

"Its wheelbase is 8½ inches shorter and its over-all length 27 inches shorter than a 1959 Ford Fairlane, yet it is a full six-passenger car with interior roominess approximating that of standard models," he said.

"For example, front leg-room in deal only with the registration phase of the new law and not with safety enforcement.

SEN. WARDLOW Lane of Center has been appointed chairman of the Senate General Investigating Committee.

Others named to the committee by Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey are Sens. A. M. Aikin Jr. of Paris (reappointed), Dorsey B. Hardeman of San Angelo, Bruce Reagan of Corpus Christi and R. A. Weimer of Sequin.

This committee succeeds a panel headed by Sen. Charles Herring of Austin which collected reams of material on the ICT Insurance Company, the state insurance liquidation division and tax collecting procedures in the state comptroller's office.

the Falcon is only one-tenth of an inch less than in a 1959 Ford and front head-room is actually seven-tenths of an inch greater. Rear-seat passenger space also compares favorably.

Wright emphasized that the Falcon is "all new from the ground up." None of its parts will be interchangeable with those of standard Ford models.

The Falcon, which features unitized construction to combine maximum strength and rigidity with minimum weight for this type of vehicle, will be offered in two-door and four-door models. Optional equipment will include automatic transmission, radio, heater, safety padding, seat belts, tinted glass, and interior and exterior deluxe trim.

Falcon styling is simple and functional, with decorative trim and chrome at a minimum. An oval grille runs the full width of the car and contains the single headlights. Both hood and fenders slope downward to meet the grille, providing the driver with better visibility. The center of the hood features a Thunderbird-type air scoop.

Disease threat to cattle cited

COLLEGE STATION — Warm, wet summer weather is likely to bring an increase in the threat of leptospirosis, a disease which causes national annual losses of more than $112,000,000 in cattle alone, warns Dr. C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian. Also, he points out, additional heavy losses occur each year in swine.

The increased fight against brucellosis in recent years has uncovered many cases of "lepto" which formerly were thought to be brucellosis. The similarity of symptoms of the two diseases has led to some confusion among livestock men, Patterson noted.

In cattle, both diseases cause abortions and a reduction in milk production. Signs of leptospirosis in cattle also include loss of appetite, depression, breathing difficulty and in calves, scouring. Affected swine may show no symptoms in some cases, but in others there will be abortions, scouring and loss of appetite.

Leptospirosis, target of a concerted drive this month during National Livestock Loss Prevention Year, can be prevented by having susceptible animals vaccinated by a veterinarian.

Patterson also suggests that veterinarians be called in once suspicious symptoms appear so definite diagnosis can be made before any treatment or control program is started.

50th anniversary to open with fall semester at WTS

CANYON — When West Texas State College opens the fall semester Sept. 14, it will start its 50th annual session, and the Golden Anniversary of the Panhandle's institution of higher learning will be observed throughout the year.

Between 2,400 and 2,500 students are expected to enroll on the campus here, marking a new high in enrollment. Another 1,200 will register for evening classes at the Amarillo Center in Amarillo.

A campus which has been changing continuously for the past ten years, will again show signs of progress, with the opening of a new major addition to the science building, a new fine arts building, housing the speech, music, and art departments, and one of the nation's most modern football stadiums.

First observance of the Golden Anniversary year will be Fall Con-

MAN WITH AN IDEA

Samuel Van Syckel, a small businessman-turned-oil-buyer, who built the first successful pipeline, was one of the many men whose ideas sparked oil's first century of progress.

Despite the failure of several previous attempts to transport oil through pipes, Van Syckel defied ridicule and constructed a two-inch line near Pithole, Pa. It was five miles long, utilized welded joints and pumps, and moved 80 barrels an hour for $1 a barrel.

Teamsters, who had been charging as much as $4 a barrel to haul oil from Pithole to the nearest railroad sidings, fought the construction of Van Syckel's pipeline and others that soon followed it. They ripped them up or blasted them until stopped by guards armed with pick handles and shotguns. In the end, the teamsters had to admit that nothing could hold back this progressive oil industry development.

Since 1859, when the first oil well was drilled, men with ideas have worked to provide Americans with this abundant, low-cost source of energy — energy that has meant more human progress in the last century than in the previous 6,000 years.

Spur to hold its Golden Jubilee celebration from Sept. 24 to 26

SPUR — The City of Spur will celebrate its 50th anniversary on Sept. 24, 25, 26 with a big Golden Jubilee Program that will headline Grand Ole Opry stars singer Ray Price and comedienne June Carter. The Grand Ole Opry performance will be held at Jones Stadium on Friday and Saturday nights, beginning at 8 a. m. Admission will be $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children. The show will be preceded by a square dance exhibition beginning at 7:30 p. m. The square dancers will be school children under the direction of Mrs. Guy Karr.

The celebration will get under way Thursday with registration of Old Timers and Ex-Students who will be staging their annual Homecoming in conjunction with the Jubilee.

Other features of the program will be an Old Fashion Tea, Old Settlers Dance; both of which will be staged all three days of the celebration. Two barbeques are on the program, one Friday and one Saturday. Brothers of the Brush beard judging contest will be held Saturday, a big parade will be held Friday morning prior to the football game, Crosbyton vs. Spur.

The City of Spur was opened on Nov. 1, 1909, with the sale of city lots.

The following is an excerpt from the Jan. 28, 1910, files of The Texas Spur describing the opening:

"Spur town lots were placed on sale Monday morning between 8 and 9 a. m. on November 1, and within a few hours practically every lot in both residence and business portion of townsite were disposed of to anxious purchasers. At that time the only structures upon the townsite were the Western Hotel, townsite office, depot, section houses and the present Texas Spur office which at that time was the temporary grocery store of Barber and Hancock. Two or three hundred people were awaiting the opening and an opportunity to get in on the ground floor."

The Jubilee celebration will be closed out with a big Ex-Student sponsored street dance from 9 p. m. to midnight Saturday and will feature the music of Ray Price and his Cherokee Cowboys, Wayland Jennings Band and Slim Corbins Band.
