ALL-TIME HIGH REACHED IN 1948 HARVEST—

Garza County Ranchers Are Raising Grass, Legume Seed

Garza County is having an important part in the harvesting of grass and legume seed—a business almost unknown in the Southwest a few years ago—which reached an all-time high in 1948 with a yield of 27,826,600 pounds of seed urgently needed in the soil conservation program.

In this connection, A. P. Ottinger of the Duck Creek District Soil Conservation Service said this week that, during the first week in March, Russell Wilks of Grassburr will make a 20-acre trial native grass planting, using seed harvested last fall and provided by the Duck Creek District.

He said also that the Double

U. Company recently made application to the district for assistance in establishing approximately 2,500 acres of Cross Roads land back to grass.

The big harvest will help relieve a serious shortage in the seed of legumes and grasses necessary to halt erosion and improve crop and range lands in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana, Ottinger explained.

Native Seed Harvested
Of particular importance here in West Texas is the fact that the sharpest gain has been in native grass seed harvested—4,041,183 pounds, largely the result of a tremendous fall harvest of Bluestem, Indiangrass and Switchgrass in Northern Oklahoma. The native grass seed harvest was greater by more than 3,000,000 pounds than any previous harvest of such seed in the entire nation, Ottinger estimates.

A total seed harvest poundage by individual states, has been recorded as follows by the Soil Conservation Service: Arkansas, 6,060,888; Oklahoma, 9,341,326; Texas, 11,563,314, and Louisiana, 861,079.

"As big and as timely as last year's grass and legume seed harvest was, it is enough for only a fraction of the land that needs plant cover to control erosion, to lessen flood damage to agriculture and make the land more profitable and permanently productive," Ottinger said.

Some of the grass and legumes now recognized as being extremely useful in the soil conservation battle were introduced by the Soil Conservation Service. Use of others already known to be good weapons in the fight was encouraged by Soil Conservation Service personnel and by soil conservation district boards.

Hairy Vetch Important
One of the most important of the legumes is hairy vetch, a slender twining annual that came from Europe. The Pacific Northwest has been the source of most of the seed planted heretofore in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana, but recent years have shown that hairy vetch seed can be produced and harvested with profit in the Southwest. Hairy vetch had only limited use until soil conservation districts began pushing it for erosion control and soil improvement on sandy lands. Local seed production has spread to many soil conservation districts and it has become an important factor in controlling erosion and improving cropland on many a Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana farm. The yield of hairy vetch last year, despite the dry conditions, totaled 8,634,521 pounds in the region with Texas contributing 6,372,071 pounds.

King Ranch Bluestem is a comparative newcomer to the soil conservation program, but it is becoming immensely popular and very useful east of the Pecos River. It is not a native grass, but has been growing for 30 years in the King Ranch in South Texas. Observing that the grass had spread from a small test plot for miles over the ranch, personnel of the San Antonio nursery of the Soil Conservation Service gathered 75 pounds of seed in November, 1939. A test planting at the nursery showed this bluestem strain to be outstanding. Trials by soil conservation districts have been almost uniformly successful.

School, Lubbock; Earl Dietering, Jr., Boy Scout Troop 10, Knights of Pythias Lodge, Lubbock; J. G. Cash, Air Squadron 16, Rotary Club, Post, and Bill Griggs, Explorer Post 10, Knights of Pythias Lodge, Lubbock. These boys represent the 3381 Cubs, Scouts and Seniors in the 20 counties in the South Plains Council. J. G. is a son of Mrs. Esma Cash.

Hardly Anyone Is Doing The Work He First Did

How did you make your first dollar? Or your first money, if it was less than a dollar?

Victor Hudman recalls that that when he was about 8 years old, it was a bad year for crops. His father bundled up all the kids and they went to Ralls to pick cotton. Victor made a total of 86 cents, plus his meals, in eight weeks.

Tom Power made his first money when he became a delivery boy for his father's grocery store at the age of 14 years.

Arthur Talley got a job sacking potatoes in a grocery store in Oklahoma when he was about 10 years old.

Cecil Osborne, Jr., got his first job when he was 13 years old working for his father, who had the Star Service Station where Floyd's Station is now located.

Robert Miller's first regular job was peddling milk for R. P. Tomlinson, when he was about 11 years old.

Skinned Dead Cows
Mrs. Charlie Benson and her younger brother, Bud Byrd, earned their first money skinning dead cows when they lived in Oklahoma during the bad drought of 1918. It was winter time and the cattle were weak from starvation. The Byrd children were detailed to watch them and then skin them and then skin them, while they were warm to them, while they were warm to them, while they were warm to them, while they were warm to them.

Rainbow Treasury Gains From Party

The Rainbow Girls netted $56.35 on their chili supper at the City Hall last Thursday night. They expressed pleasure at the "good support" from the citizens of Post, their mother adviser, Mrs. Mary Fumagalli, said this week. The money will go into the general expense fund of the Rainbow Assembly.

The Assembly met recently and initiated four members, Ruth Redman, Judith King, Mickey Bryant and Barbara Lusby, bringing the total membership to 37 girls.

The next regular meeting will be the night of February 21 at the Masonic Hall.

The county and city offices were held by the following Scouts on Tuesday:

County judge, J. C. Shedd; county attorney, Cecil Smith; county sheriff, Tommy Malouf; county clerk, James Dye; treasurer, Roy Pharris; county agricultural agent, Charles Shedd; deputy sheriff, Ross Morrow; deputy sheriff's clerk, J. D. Butler; justice of the peace, David Pennington.

Mayor, Dannie Tillman; city commissioners, Donald Moore, Bernard Welch and Frank Smith; city secretary, Wendell Turner, and county school superintendent, John Boren.

The above boys, who were elected by Troops 11 and 16 to fill the jobs, worked all day with adult holders of the office, in an effort to learn something of city and county management.

Members of Troop 16 entertained their sponsoring organization, the Post Rotary Club, with a 20-minute program at their Scout Hut immediately after the regular Rotary meeting Tuesday.

The program included a briefed mock weekly Boy Scout meeting, including the opening and closing ritual, and Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. The boys then demonstrated rope tying and engaged the Rotarians in a discussion of the program. (Continued On Back Page Col. 2)

Sheriff And Deputies In Office Today

E. M. Bass, recently appointed Garza County sheriff, tax assessor-collector, and his two deputies, T. H. Tipton and V. A. Lobban, were sworn in yesterday and are officially on duty today.

Tipton, who is long experienced as a deputy in the tax office, and Lobban, a long-time Garza County resident who formerly was associated with the Justiceburg Sand and Gravel Company, were appointed last weekend.

In announcing the appointment, Sheriff Bass said he believed the two best possible deputies had been selected and he pledged diligent pursuit of the duties of the office.

"This includes," he explained, "the local bootlegging problem and the breaking in of local places of business. I don't know what we can do about these current problems, but I promise you we will be trying our best in the interest of the public."

Bass, while in the U. S. Army where he was a military policeman for four years, attended a Federal Bureau of Investigation School for civilian peace officers. Bass succeeded Will Cravy, who was elected to the office in the 1948 voting. Cravy's reasons for resigning are explained in his own words elsewhere in today's issue.

The tax office was closed Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday while the auditors, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wine who have been auditing the county books each year since 1940, worked on the books.

Hospital Project To Be Pushed By C. Of C. Leaders

The board of directors of the Post Chamber of Commerce, meeting Tuesday night at the City Hall, discussed annual routine matters such as the booth for the Panhandle-South Plains Fair, the local holidays and current projects. No change was made in the program of store holidays.

Among the larger projects discussed was the proposed hospital program, and committees were named to have a detailed outline of possibilities for presentation at the next meeting. The committees will contact local people for their reaction to the hospital proposal.

GETTING OUT On The LIMB by EDDIE the EDITOR

A fella was trying to give me a hunting dog the other day—a fine pointer bitch whose ancestors date back to the Mayflower.

But I'm trying to wean myself from dogs, what with a threatened business recession and my having never made enough money, even in good times, to replace the treasures destroyed by My Dog Bugle.

Bugle didn't cost but $5 to begin with. That was about 18 months ago, and the wife and I had about recovered financially from having had Dinah for so many years, and almost all of the furniture had been repaired and we had finally got the rugs clean.

Now, 18 months and several hundred dollars later, I'm thinking of swearing off of dogs.

Our first problem with My Dog Bugle, of course, was to get him housebroken. Dinah had been a dream in comparison, in that she had a favorite rug to use as a bathroom and we could always count on her to go to the same spot, and sniff around a bit to make sure she was ruining the same place in the rug each time.

But not so with my dog Bugle. He liked all our rugs and he made the rounds until, within a few weeks time, he needed a compass to guide him to a spot that he hadn't contaminated.

My neighbors told me I should train Bugle by putting him on a paper after each meal. I tried this, and his reaction was twofold, depending upon how well he had relished his meal. If he was still hungry, he ate the paper. If he wasn't hungry, he tore the paper into small silvers and scattered them all over the house.

My Dog Bugle would rather eat almost anything than food but he particularly likes bedroom slippers, my wife's purses, the toes and heels of my socks, cigarettes by the package, the fringe on the belt of my bathrobe, and the buttons on the upholstered chairs. It wouldn't surprise me to learn that he is a direct descendant of a billy goat. He claims to be a fox terrier.

I don't know how much terrier My Dog Bugle is, but he's foxy for sure.

There's nothing very dumb about My Dog Bugle. He seemed stupid when we were getting him housebroken, but we know for sure that he is smart. He sleeps outside, at night, and fully an hour before my bedtime he disappears so I can't find him to shut him in the dog house.

And he knows how to tell the time. Before it got cold, he served as my alarm clock at 7 o'clock every morning. Knowing it was time for me to get up, he'd whine until I got on enough clothes to go let him out of the dog house, then he'd bounce into the house—through a hole that he tore in the screen—and jump into bed and dry his wet feet on the sheets.

Now, since the cold weather has set in, he starts whining at 5 o'clock and if I don't get up and let him in I start getting phone calls from Post residents as far away as five blocks. It never ceases to amaze me that a pocket-sized dog can make so much noise.

There are some advantages to his miniature size. If he were an inch and a half taller, he could open the back door all by himself. As it is, I have to replace the screen on the back door about every month. The wood on the door, however, is prewar and "Small Stuff" just isn't enough

ROGER W. BABSON WRITES THIS WEEK:

Venture Capital Should Be Encouraged, Not Drained

Babson Park, Fla.—Mr. Ghandi, rest his soul, advocated a return to the spinning wheel because "machines kill jobs." Without machines, our unrivalled living standards in this country would be totally impossible.

In the last 75 years our workers have become more and more productive. Today they produce four times as much goods as they did then. When Abe Lincoln was a boy, about 79 per cent of our productive energy was supplied by animals, 15 per cent by humans, and 6 per cent by mechanical means. Today only 3 per cent is supplied by animals and 2 per cent by humans. Whereas, the machine does 85 per cent of our work for us! The thought that mechanization is the root of all evil is as old-fashioned as grandpa's six-shooter in an atomic age. The key to our high standard of living is increased character, intelligence and productivity through mechanization. The results: Shorter working hours, more take-home pay, vacations with pay, social security, and a standard of living that has Joe Stalin scared to death.

Conditions Favoring Growth In order for any of God's creatures — plants, animals, or humans — to prosper and develop fully, they need the right environment and the right food. Industrial America burst into bud and blossomed forth in the last 100 years because it had the right food and the right environment. Surely, we have abundant resources; but so has Russia. What we have had that Russia has lacked has been a religious, political and economic environment which encouraged risk taking. This combined system has encouraged and made possible the venture capital to harness the mechanical energy which put money and men to work.

Don't blame the next depression on machines. Blame it on men. The machines are working all right. All they need is a constant tuning up in keeping with the times. But both the men owning and those operating these machines must constantly work for the good of the world as a whole and not for any one selfish group.

Increased Productivity Needed There is as great a need for capital investment today as there was when I was a boy. We could readily invest fifty billion dollars over the next decade in industrial modernization. We need to put another fifty billion into housing in order to bring our housing program up to decent standards. We could easily use many billions for streets and highways. There is certainly a need, therefore, for increased savings. These are possible only with lower taxes.

Projected studies indicate that future income will be quite adequate to absorb increased production schedules. In order, therefore, to increase our production capacity, we need considerably more venture capital.

By 1950-55, our consumer market will be better than double 1929's — or after taxes and savings, about one hundred and fifteen billion left to spend. The money is, therefore, there for goods and services. The resources are there. Why, therefore, do we hesitate?

It's Up To Truman Venture capital is being scared away. The outlook for profits is uncertain. Investors are timid. They fear an unfair deal by Congress. Spotty capital investment contributes to retard production and cause unemployment. Only with fair taxes, fair wages and fair profits, is it possible to plow back into the business sufficient funds to keep new construction and current production rising and to cause costs to go down. If our great America is to forge a head, we need to create a better environment for its capital—not taxing it. Let us hope that President Truman realizes this basic fact.

After 10 years of the of farm product prices has successively higher, it to realize that this same the next 10 years could successively lower. This is worth thinking about.

Price supports for cotton year will be not less than cent of parity.

Garza and the World

By EVELYN BOYD

Wall Street, traditionally the butt of criticism, sarcasm and even jealousy on the part of the man in the street, is, of course, the basis of our capitalism system, around which the world's highest standard of living is pivoted.

Without this capitalism, the United States would not be the financial daddy for a war devastated world.

The "bold new program" of the Truman administration threatens to destroy the power of Wall Street and, if it does, this nation will start going down like some of the old beat-up countries of Europe. It is conceivable that the American dollar could, in time, have no more value than the Greek drachma.

The drachma, which is Greece's official currency, is so worthless that it takes a suitcase full of this money to pay the luncheon bill for four people in a restaurant. We used to use it to kindle the fire in the fireplace, because wood was so scarce over there. We had coal, which was issued by the U. S. Embassy, but it took several hundred drachmae to get it started. I'd hate to see this happen to the American dollar.

The New York Times, in a recent issue, reported that in investment circles, the "bold new program" of President Truman for raising living standards throughout the world through use of private of a beaver to bore through it. Mrs. Giles Connell has a new fox terrier pup, and she is suffering some of the pains of housebreaking mentioned above. I hope she doesn't read this column, because her main happiness right now stems from the hope that in time her puppy will do better. The only thing a fox terrier like My Dog Bugle does better with age is to aim more accurately at the table legs, etc.

But don't get the idea that fox terriers are alone in their destructive ability. It sort of embarrasses me, at times, when one of my reporters comes to work wearing gloves with the cuffs chewed off, shoes with the heels chewed down and a headscarf with tooth-mangled fringe half way around it. She has a Cocker Spaniel named General, and from what I overheard this breed is even worse than the fox terrier.

I heard her talking to Mrs. S. W. McCrary the other day. Mrs. McCrary, it seems bought a black male cocker puppy from Tommy Malouf and she is having house-breaking troubles. The puppy is so playful that when she tries to spank him, he gets so absorbed in the fun they are having he wets twice as often.

If I take this pointer that my friend is trying to give me, I will have to spend about 400 dollars enlarging the back yard and repairing the fence. Then if she costs as much in proportion as My Dog Bugle has cost in portion to the first $5 I spent on him, I'm sunk. I don't believe I can afford her.

American capital is regarded as a long-run objective having little, if any, bearing on major current concerns of the financial market-place.

Because the article gives a good hint as to Wall Street's reaction to Truman's financial program, I am quoting some of it as follows:

With the shares of many major American industrial enterprises yielding more than 8 per cent, and with the domestic stock market so depressed that only the most renowned enterprises can raise new equity capital easily, the question of enlisting new equity money to uplift the world's great areas of marginal civilization is regarded as academic, if not altogether rhetorical, at this time.

The same is true of the extension of long-term private credits abroad. Dollar bonds of the best moral risk in Europe—the government obligations of Belgium, Norway and the Netherlands—are currently selling in the market at yields ranging from 4 1/2 per cent to 7 per cent, and are shunned in general by the fiduciary institutions which hold the bulk of the public's savings. Even at home, prime-name borrowers lying outside the inhabited investment compass of fiduciary institutions are hard put to sell new mortgage bonds at interest costs anywhere near the yield levels of the secondary market for gilt-edge.

Even the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, with its $3,175,000,000 backing from the Treasury of the United States, had to contend until recently with statutory and other barriers separating companies and savings banks from employment in credits to foreign governments or to enterprises domiciled abroad.

It took two years of barnstorming all over the nation by spokesmen for the World Bank to break down this resistance and make the bank's Government-backed bonds an acceptable investment medium for most insurance companies and savings banks.

Although the world bank is the major feasible means at hand for exporting America's private capital abroad, it is likely that even the bank will play a minor part in international lending for a while.

In a recent address before the Foreign Policy Association, John J. McCloy, president of the bank, declared that for the present, the bank's activities in Europe will necessarily be dwarfed. "All we can hope to do," he said, "is to supplement the ERP program by financing certain of the longer-term projects for which ECA funds may be sufficient."

The World Bank's head went on to warn, however, that private investment is far healthier, economically and politically, than Government loans and grants. He said:

"Little could be more productive of hostility towards the United States than to have the other nations of the world over a long period of time regard the United States Government as their principal source of foreign capital. Those receiving financial aid would not regard it as exceptional, but as a matter of right; while those who received nothing, or less than they thought they were entitled to, would consider the United States guilty of unfriendly discrimination. There would be no end to the calls made upon the United States and, should the United States

What Our Contemporaries Are Saying:

WHAT NEXT? — Wonder what they'll think of next... I read in the Star Telegram Monday where electricity-treated highways, which melt the snow and ice are being perfected.

Although snow and ice would cover the rest of the road, the "hot road" will remain clear... a new way to "burn up the highways." — Colorado Record.

EVERYTHING HAYWIRE — It seems that everything goes haywire at what seems to be the most inconvenient time. Most of the time during the ice storm, I drove over town with a spot about the size of a quarter on the windshield from which I could see, with my door open and my semi-bald noggin sticking out like a turtle in its shell. We have been doing without water, driving blindfolded and trying to warm the house for so long that I'm afraid I'll wham into someone in weather where one can see both forward and backward. I'll probably fall down and bust my suspenders when the ice has all gone, and I'll be missing the wind, sleet, snow, skiddy sidewalks and the women with their heads tied up so that you cannot tell whether its worth while to try to figure out who it is in the package. — Slaton Slatonite.

LEVELLAND IMPROVES — Only a small per cent of the voters in the Levelland Independent school district turned out here Saturday to approve of the $20,000 bond issue for the improvement of Lobo Stadium. The election was held at the Junior High building.

Of the 79 persons casting ballots, 54 voted for the issue and 25 against it. Plans are to build 2,000 seats on the east side of the stadium and dressing rooms underneath. — Hockley County Herald.

FINALLY PASSED — Our new State Senator, Kilmer B. Corbin offered his maiden resolution recently, to make January 31, FDR's birthday, a legal holiday in Texas. One great trouble with his resolution, according to some of the more mature men, was that it accused most everyone at Washington prior to 1932 of being thieves and grafters. He was reminded that such a resolution would take in such men as John Nance Garner, Tom Connally, and a number of other top notch Texans. After the resolution was passed down to just about cover Franklin D. Roosevelt and the legal holiday, the resolution passed. — Terry County Herald.

GOING STRONG — For the first time in four winters, farmers of this area say the underlay of "hard pan" that has bedeviled cotton and feed roots is cause of recent freezes... Each summer, when hot, dry days arrive, farmers have seen crops go downhill because plant top roots could not penetrate the hard pan of soil, but this condition has changed. With a resultant dip in insect population of grubs, eggs and young insects found in cotton and feed stalks, 1949 should, with additional moisture, be a good crop year... One farmer, naturally, was going entirely too strong over the week-end by hoping "every peach tree has 80 bushels of fruit on it this season, and every berry vine at least four gallons of berries." — Scurry County Times.

Itself decide to halt the program, it would be confronted by outcries from every side."

However remote the "bold new program" may be, financial observers are already at work dusting off the many plans that have been put forward for effectuating an objective like that avowed by the President. While outright multi-billion-dollar government bond issues have been suggested for world redevelopment by some economist, and Senator Walter T. George, for instance—much of the thinking runs to direct investment abroad by American enterprises.

LOOK IN GRATITUDE — We feel sorry for the folks who go through life looking for the cemetery — for those who worry about the ills that tomorrow may bring. A lot of them, out here in West Texas particularly, escaped the cemetery and they are not bowed with burdens.

Business has been good, we have attained the highest employment rate in history, and big construction tasks are in the making, oil has come gushing prosperity for a score of West Texas counties, and outside of the drought this section goes into 1949 with enough on the bright side to give everybody good cheer. As for being afraid of tomorrow, we in the United States have little reason to have such doubts. — San Angelo Standard Times.

GOVERNMENT BY LAWYERS — Lawyers will continue to denigrate the Democratic Congress just as they did in the Republican 80th. There will be a total of 301 lawyers in both houses. They will account for 66 per cent of the Senate and 54 per cent of the House. — Karnes County News.

Terracing Program To Get Under Way In Area Next Week

If clear weather continues throughout this week, terracing by cooperators of the Duck Creek Soil Conservation District will get under way the first of next week.

R. Harrison of Childress is moving a Caterpillar and grader here to do terracing. He is a son of J. P. Harrison, district co-operator southwest of Pleasant Valley.

Marvin Nash, who saw his four short terraces result in more cotton than grew on his un-terraced land, is planning to have Harrison build all the terraces he needs on his cultivated land in the Barnum Springs Community, the Duck Creek District Soil Conservation Service announced this week.

Nash, one of the few farmers in his community who hadn't terraced his land by last year, had built his four short terraces in time to make the most of a four-inch downpour last spring. He now sees, he said, that terraces, along with contour farming, crop rotation and crop residue management, make up a worthwhile soil and water conservation program.

This Is Good Year For Sweet Clover

Good soil moisture makes it possible for Duck Creek District Soil Conservation cooperators to plant sweet clover, a legume which lives for two years. It's deep tap root system penetrates and loosens tight subsoils.

Since it is a legume and, therefore high in proteins, sweet clover makes good pasture once the livestock learns to like it. It has the ability to store nitrogen in the soil. The large amount of organic matter that it returns to the soil makes it a good soil building crop.

The way sweet clover covers the soil helps protect the land from erosion and increases the rate of water penetration into the soil.

The Duck Creek Soil Conservation District has sweet clover seed for sale at 35 cents a pound, at Fry Feed and Hatchery. The best planting date is from February 15 to March 15, according to local Soil Conservation technicians.

Leslie Stevens Of Isabella, Okla., Says "It Is Hot"

Leslie Stevens, former Post resident who is employed by the Isabella National Bank in Isabella, Okla., recently wrote his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stevens, how it felt to live in the nation's warmest town during the period when Garza County and most of the rest of the nation were suffering through an ice storm or blizzard.

Leslie recalled that it was broadcast over a Dallas radio station, during the ice storm, that the town having the highest temperature during the entire icy period was Isabella, which is in the southeastern part of the state near the Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana lines.

He told his parents that there was no snow nor ice during the period mentioned above but that seven inches of rain fell.

Leslie was employed for a long time with the First National Bank here, then he worked in a Midland bank for a number of years before moving to Isabella four months ago.

He was a graduate of Shallowater High School and Texas Technological College in Lubbock.

After the body arrives in the states, burial will be made in a Military Cemetery in San Antonio.

SIMS DEEP TEST

WHAT BROUGHT YOU TO POST?

Some People Came For Their Health And Others Liked The Looks Of Crops Here

Although the cotton mill and the C. W. Post colony brought a number of Garza County's pioneers to this area, there were numerous other reasons why enough people came to Garza County to swell the population to its present proportions. The Post Dispatch reporters have been attempting to find out why this county grew and developed. Here are some of the answers:

N. J. Lanotte was postmaster and operator of a general store at Irving, before moving to Garza County in 1911. He and his wife feared for the health of their small children, because of the prevalence of tuberculosis in that area at the time. They decided to "go west" for the protection of the children. After looking into the possibilities "out west" they decided to open a country store, the Vernon Mercantile Company, at Justiceburg. After five years, they decided to move to Post.

Unable to buy out any of the local merchants, Lanotte put in a grocery store in the building about where Haws store is now located.

Opened Snyder Road
Before Lanotte moved to Post he was unanimously elected county commissioner from the Justiceburg precinct, although he did not seek the office. In this capacity and working with the late Judge J. M. Boren he was instrumental in getting the first road opened up between Post and Snyder. This was in 1914.

Lanotte and Judge Boren promoted Garza County's first oil well, about 1915 or 1916, on Judge Boren's place near Justiceburg. There had been a well drilled previously on the Pete Scroggin place, between Justiceburg and Clairemont, but the driller apparently didn't go deep enough. The operation was not successful.

The well on the Boren place made a definite show of oil, "but the driller dropped everything but the derrick in the hole and ruined it," Lanotte told the Post Dispatch. "We always figured he was bought off," he explained.

Lanotte said probably this could have been prevented had he and Boren been oil men. As it was, they didn't accomplish a lot, except to prove that there was oil in the county and serve as pioneers in the oil development here.

Liked 1914 Crops
A. C. Howell, possessed with a desire to "go west" sold his farm in Erath County about 1914 and made a trip to Oklahoma, looking for a place to buy. He didn't like Oklahoma, so he came down to West Texas.

"Garza County had a wonderful crop that year, and it looked like the best bet in the entire country to me. The crops were as good as I ever saw." He bought a place a mile and a half south of Ragtown and has been living there ever since.

The crops have been as good several times as they were in 1914, and he still thinks Garza County is the best place there is to live.

Mrs. Carl Clark's mother, the late Mrs. Mollie Williams, was a widow with six children and living in Hamilton County when her brother, Dick Smithers, a Kent County rancher, persuaded her to move to this area. She bought the ranch in Garza County which Mrs. John Faulkner now owns, in 1893. One of the six children met Carl Clark, who was working on the O. S. Ranch, and was married to him. Carl's family lived in Scurry County.

Picnics Too Cold
The late John Faulkner and his wife became dissatisfied with their ranch near Floydada because the winters were cold and hard on the cattle.

They decided to move to the breaks, and they selected the Williams site which, by then, was for sale. This was in 1900, and the area was a part of Borden County. The elections were held at the Faulkner home during the seven years before Garza County was organized.

Mr. Faulkner and the late John H. Babb became acquainted when Babb also had a ranch near Floydada. Somewhat before 1900, Babb sold his Floyd County ranch and moved his family to Old Emma, near Falls. In 1901, he decided to follow Faulkner's example and get a ranch in the breaks. He visited Faulkner and learned that a neighboring ranch was for sale. Faulkner accompanied him to Gail to transact the business. Babb had been a Texan since 1857, when he came with his parents from his native Wisconsin to Wise County. He was ranching near Peccas when he met his wife, the former Lillie Tanner of Callahan County. They were married in 1888.

Attracted By Boom
The late John Coleman and family moved here from Tennessee about 1910. He was a building contractor who was attracted here by the building boom. He helped build many of the Double U. houses and the sanitarium, which is now the Colonial Apartments.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Day and family came to Post in January, 1944. They had been living on a farm near Brownfield and after a two years absence from the teaching profession, Mr. Day wanted to get back in the business. The principalship at Post High School was open and he accepted and later became superintendent, the position he now holds.

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Herring came to Post in 1938 because they wanted a business in West Texas and this was the only good opening available at the time. They bought the store they now operate which formerly belonged to Henry Loyd.

Visited Grandmother
In 1937, Jerry Queen started coming to Post from Lipan, to visit his grandmother, Mrs. Nan Perry. He liked Post and, after receiving his honorable discharge from the Army in December, 1945, he decided to make his home here.

Mrs. Cecil Osborne's health was the chief reason, she, her husband and two children moved here in November, 1933. The Osbornes lived on a farm in Wood County, when Mr. Osborne decided to come out here and work. The family moved here on Monday before Thanksgiving that year. The man they had been working for in East Texas assured them when they left to make their home in West Texas, that "anytime they wanted to come back home and didn't have the money, he would send it to them at their request." So far, the Osbornes have made the trip back at least three or four times a year and have never had to call on their East Texas friend for funds. He still asks them each trip if they are moving back to good country.

Came From Lorenzo
Orbie Landman, who is now Mrs. Tom Miller, moved here with her mother and brother in 1923 from Lorenzo. She and Tom were married two years later.

R. H. Collier, being a traveling salesman, made a trip to West Texas from Ennis. He was quitting the traveling business and looking for a location. He liked Post and went into the drug business here in 1908.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Giles moved to Tahoka from a farm in Oklahoma. They chose West Texas because they had friends living in Tahoka who sent them a wire telling them how pleased they were with this country and that they could get a place for the Giles family. In 1936, Mr. Giles, who was associated with the Burleson Grain Company, was sent to Post with that company. The family moved here and the next year they quit the grain business to open the boarding house they now operate.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill DeWalt moved here last summer from Houston. They came because they could buy the local flower shop and because they had never even been in West Texas and just wanted to try it. They like it "very much."

One Hundred Thirty-Seven Boys Work In Two Hundred Twenty-Five Club Projects

This is the last of a series of articles based on County Agricultural Agent Robert Gibson's 1948 report to the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service. This article is a summary of boys' 4-H Club activities.

The 137 4-H Club boys in Garza County participated in 225 projects and 200 of these boys completed their projects. These projects were carried out with eight acres of corn, 382 acres of cotton, 11 acres of gardens, 371 acres of other crops (mostly grain sorghums), 900 birds, 27 dairy animals, 28 beef animals, 87 hogs, 18 horses and four hives of bees.

The county agent spent 118 days in club work in 1948 with these 137 boys enrolled in seven clubs. Definite instructions were given to 38 boys in judging, 21 in giving demonstrations, 12 in recreational leadership, five in wildlife conservation, all in fire and accident prevention, all in keeping personal records and 37 in soil and water conservation.

Interest Four Hundred
There were two countywide 4-H rallies, with a total attendance of more than 400. The meetings were held to get acquainted and give additional training to 4-H Club leaders.

Twenty-seven boys attended the 4-H Encampment for District 2. Carter G. White was elected district 4-H president and was also high point man in the rifle contest. At this camp, the senior rifle team composed of White, Alvin Davis, Donald Ford and Barry Ford was the high point team.

Six boys entered their beef calves in the South Plains Junior Livestock Show. Carter G. placed 15th with a heavy calf and Billy Taylor was 13th with a light calf.

On September 17-18, the annual 4-H Fair was held in Post, with 57 boys participating in the following divisions: Beef calves, dairy cattle, swine, poultry, garden crops, field crops and horses. E. P. Wicker, Jr., Carter G. White and Alvin Davis exhibited some fine dairy animals which were also shown in the Panhandle-South Plains Fair. E. P. exhibited the Grand Champion female in the Junior Division and both Alvin and Carter were in the top three places with their entries.

In the Sears Foundation pig show, Jack Schmidt was 12th with his gilt and H. C. Gribble was seventh with his boar.

C. O. C. Gives Money
The Post Chamber of Commerce donated over $300 in cash and merchandise for prizes for the boys and girls' clubs at the Annual County Fair. It also donated $105 for the County Fat Stock Show in February.

Alvin Davis, who is a very outstanding 4-H Club boy, won the state and national leadership awards in 1948. This is the second time that the national award has been won by a Texas boy. These awards were a gold wrist watch, a trip to the National 4-H Congress, a $200 scholarship at any college in the U. S. and the possession of the silver trophy for 1949. Alvin also attended the Danforth Foundation Camp in Michigan and was elected vice president of the first year group. He promoted the Southwestern Junior Championship Rodeo, acting as president and using other 4-H boys and girls as other officers.

E. P. Wicker, Jr., won one of the Santa Fe awards and attended the National 4-H Congress in Chicago.

In the county, Barry Ford won the Gold Star Award, Carter White won the meat animal award, Alvin Davis won the leadership award and Cletus Graves won the field crops award.

Each of the seven 4-H clubs met each month during the school year and a subject in which all were concerned was discussed. Wonderful cooperation was given by all of the schools. The 4-H Clubs in Garza County are actively supported by all business firms and all rural communities.

White's Gilt Is Mammy To Litter Of All-Male Pigs

Something almost unprecedented in hoglore has happened to Carter Gene White's 4-H Club gilt, a registered Poland China.

It was learned here this week that the gilt farrowed nine pigs about January 15 and each one was a boar. Eight of the boars are still living, and Carter Gene is hoping to fatten them up and display them at the Dallas Fair in October.

Robert H. Gibson, county agent, told a Post Dispatch reporter who didn't understand such things that, while nine pigs in a litter is normal, it is most unusual that the pigs should all be of one sex. A 50-50 ratio is average.

Veterinarian May Test Cows Again

Dr. A. J. Lewis of Lubbock, veterinarian for the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, has notified the Garza County agricultural agent, Robert H. Gibson, that he will come here again this year to test cows for Bangs Disease and tuberculosis if and when he is informed there are enough requests to warrant the trip.

One dollar per test will be charged. Anyone wishing to have animals tested is asked to report to Gibson or his secretary, Mrs. June Peel, to Lewis Nance or Mrs. Jewell H. Strasner at the court house as soon as possible.

Roemer Hudler, student of Texas Christian University in Fort Worth and pastor of the First Christian Church, will present Prof. C. A. Burch, teacher in the T.C.U. Department of Religion and a Caravan of Students in two services at the local church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. There will be no evening service at the church, as the students and professors have to return to Fort Worth.

Burch, who is the University's director of Ministerial Field Service, sent word to the local church that the caravan will be composed of the following members:

Hudler, Betty Lou Plumbley, Reuben Batton, student from the Philippine Islands, Alarah Pierce of Post and Eugene Peters.

Burch will speak at the morning service on the topic, "And Some from the Land of Sennim." Batton will sing a solo at each service and, in the afternoon, he will discuss the Philippines and Peters will preach. Alarah and Burch will teach Sunday School classes that morning. The caravan expects to arrive here Saturday afternoon.

Professor Burch spent 34 years as a missionary in China, arriving there in 1906 in the late years of the Manchu Dynasty. He witnessed the transformation of China from a Medieval Empire to a modern republic.

The Burches lived through the hectic period of the first revolution, were driven from their home in Chuchow, near Nanking, where they were carrying on a Red Cross hospital, by the Communist inspired army of 1927. In 1937, they were operating a hospital in Hefei, China, when the Japanese invasion began. Their home was blown up in one of the Japanese air raids. Burch conducted a refugee camp in Hefei after the city was captured by the Japanese. They left China in the summer of 1940.

The T.C.U. Christian Caravan, of which Burch is sponsor, has a changing personnel which visits Christian churches, giving special programs of preaching, music and lectures.

All members of the First Christian Church are invited to a fellowship meeting, in honor of the visitors from T.C.U., at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Kirkpatrick.

Mrs. Stella Boothe of Paducah visited her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Newbury, and her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lusk, of the Graham Community.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Kennedy spent the weekend in Abilene.

Mrs. Lillie Collins and her sister, Mrs. Willie Jones, both of Lubbock, are spending this week with Mrs. Collins' daughter, J. C. Johnson.

Dating time from the birth of Jesus Christ was first computed in 527.

Scripture:

And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God: Praying always with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, and watching thereunto with all perseverance and supplication for all saints; And for me, that utterance may be given unto me, that I may open my mouth boldly, to make known the mystery of the gospel, for which I am an ambassador in bonds: that therein I may speak boldly, as I ought to speak.

Minute Prayer:

Our Father, may we always have the value of the soul above the place, the value of the soul above the body, character above circumstance, and with simple, loving worship, and by purifying ourselves, come closer to Thee, our certainty of life. Amen.

Mrs. Earl Hodges and Mrs. Jack Burrus were hostesses to the First Christian Women's Council Tuesday afternoon in the Hodges home.

The meeting was opened with a song, followed by a prayer by Mrs. C. F. Davis.

Letters were read from Mrs. O. P. Hankins, district secretary of the organization and from Mrs. M. E. Corbin, who moved away from Post approximately 20 years ago, but still sends a contribution to the local Christian Church each month.

Plans were made for entertaining the Christian Caravan group from T.C.U. which will be here this weekend.

The president appointed Mesdames Lee Davis and Jack Burrus to the visiting committee for the month.

Mrs. K. Stoker read the 6th chapter of Matthew, then the meeting was closed with a prayer by Mrs. F. I. Bailey.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Pontiac Chieftain Four-Door DeLuxe Sedan Displayed By Post Truck & Tractor

The new 1949 Pontiac Chieftain four-door sedan, is being displayed in the show rooms of Post Truck and Tractor Company this week. The new automobile was driven back from Dallas Saturday by Dowe Mayfield, manager of the local dealership.

Pontiac offers the public two "New Looks" for 1949. The Chieftain series is an entirely new concept of functional beauty distinguished by its ultra-styled rear pattern. The Streamliner series is an extremely advanced rendering of the flowering design factors popularized by Pontiac.

Both Chieftain and Streamliner series use a 120 inch wheel-base. The Torpedo line has been discontinued, Mayfield said.

Approach pattern of both Chieftain and Streamliner from gleaming Indian head hood ornament to massive, wrap-around bumper is a design triumph of suave yet rugged elegance accentuated by Pontiac's traditional Silver Streak, stylized for 1949 but still serving to make Pontiac the world's best identified motorcar. Grills of both series have a magnificent and unique simplicity: a single chrome bar, so heavy as to simulate a second bumper, spans the entire front above the ten modernistic louvers. Rectangular parking lamps, convertible to dual duty, as directional signals complete the concept.

Sleek surge has been gained by lowering the hood with an added safety factor compounded by reduced pillars and curved windshield whose gleaming sweep has been increased nearly six inches.

Body contour is in the modern manner and yet unmistakably Pontiac. Front fenders sweep opulently through the doors to the rear fenders which are integrated with the rear quarter panels.

Roof lines have been lowered 2.5 inches resulting in a breathtaking silhouette.

In rear end design Chieftain and Streamliner take different routes to the common goal of modern beauty.

The Chieftain embraces modernistic styling adapted to Pontiac individuality. This consists of two gracefully arched steps from roof crown to trunk deck, to lower edge.

The Streamliner rear will be pleasantly reminiscent to the many fanciers of this design type and has added appeal through its 1949 treatment. The Silver Streak accentuates both series.

Both lines have up to 38 per cent more glass area front and rear.

Seats are wider front and rear and also the doors. Floors are level with door sills.

Pontiac will make ten body types for 1949 and with two exceptions each may be had as standard or with certain refinements which Pontiac designates as its DeLuxe models. Exceptions are the convertible which is available with deluxe equipment and the sedan-delivery, a swank commercial vehicle new to the Pontiac line, standard equipped only.

Two station-wagons are available: in all steel construction and in wood-and-steel.

Seventy-five per cent of 1948 Pontiacs were ordered with Hydra-Matic drive—an indication of the public's enthusiasm for this automatic transmission. Pontiac in 1949 will continue to supply Hydra-Matic as optional equipment at extra cost. It is the lowest priced car to be thus equipped.

The Pontiac Chieftain Four Door DeLuxe Sedan, pictured here, is on display in the show room of Post Truck and Tractor Company this week. The new car was delivered here Saturday.

Mrs. Leroy McCrary and family of Amarillo, Mrs. Preston Mathis and family, L. J. Richardson, Jr. and family and Bill Richardson and family of Floydada visited their father, L. J. Richardson, Sunday in Lubbock Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Maggie Childress transacted business in Lubbock Monday.

Jesse Compton began work Tuesday in the Santa Fe office in Slaton; he was transferred from the local office.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Welborn of Ruidoso, N. M., who were en route to their home from an extended trip through Louisiana and other southern states, Indiana and Illinois, spent the night here Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gary have moved to a farm north of town and have rented their house in north Post to Mr. and Mrs. John Sargent who recently moved here from Levelland.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Jennings and daughter of Abernathy and B. T. Green of Acuff visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Young Sunday.

Mrs. Lora Roberts and Miss Seva Anderson, their mother, Mrs. C. R. Anderson, and Mrs. Crowe, all of Lubbock, visited here Sunday with Mrs. Gladys Stevens Hyde and Miss Nera Stevens.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Propst spent the weekend in Arlington visiting relatives.

R. D. Travis has been in Worth this week attending hardware convention.

Duke Gets His Tractor

Duke Thomas bought a farm with the money he'd saved in the Service, but he couldn't get a tractor. He needed it badly, but was tenth on the local dealer's list.

"Tell you what," old man Peters says. "If those nine fellows ahead of you agree, you'll get the next one I get in." "No, thanks," says Duke, "I'll just take my turn."

But old Peters mails out nine postcards. And the other day he tells Duke his tractor will be in next week. "I simply wrote the facts to the fellows ahead of you. They decided it."

From where I sit, it's that spirit of understanding that helps make our democracy so great. Understanding for the other fellow's problems and respect for the other fellow's rights—whether it's a right to earn a living, his right to cast his vote against your candidate, or even his right to enjoy a moderate, friendly glass of beer alone—if and when he chooses. Let's always keep it that way!

Chesly Manly Says United Nations Help
Keep Strife Rampant Throughout World

Chesly Manly, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Manly, recently described the United Nations as an arena for the exchange of global insults and a totally ineffectual guarantor of world peace which has actually been an instrument of promoting strife.

Having been the Chicago Tribune's correspondent at the United Nations conference in Paris, Manly addressed his remarks to the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, at a luncheon meeting.

He described the Dutch attack on the Indonesian Republic as the "most disgraceful" chapter in U.N. history. On Palestine, he declared, U.N. intervention had delayed peace there by at least six months, and warned that if Great Britain intervenes actively on behalf of the Arabs, Palestine could easily become another international battleground such as Spain was before World War II.

Describing the evidence of American subservience to British foreign policy, the Tribune quoted Manly as saying that State Secretary Marshall sought to bring Franco Spain into the Western Alliance, but quickly yielded under British pressure. In China, he said, America has no policy because the British, with no interests except Hong Kong, have followed no policy. Some excerpts from his address follow:

"Many observers believe the Communist sweep in China is potentially a greater threat to world peace than the Berlin dispute. The Communists achieved some of their greatest victories while the U.N. was in session. Certainly, there is no lessening of tension in the Balkans, where the Soviet satellites are aiding the Greek rebels in defiance of the U.N., or in divided Korea, where Russia itself is flouting the U.N.'s authority. If the Dutch in Indonesia were restrained by the General Assembly, they obviously had no respect for the Security Council, whose cease fire order they defied until they had achieved all their military objectives.

"Communist Russia's reasons for pretending to support the U.N. are obvious. First, it is an incomparable medium for dissemination of Soviet propaganda.

When Vishinsky makes a speech in the General Assembly, it is well reported in the newspapers throughout the world. The same speech would receive scant notice if delivered in Moscow before a Communist Party gathering.

"The Russians also want to continue the U.N. as a screen behind which they can carry on plans for world revolution while professing devotion to collaboration and peace.

"Stalin has written that war with the United States is inevitable and that 'when a revolutionary crisis has developed in America that will be the beginning of the end of all world capitalism.'

"Britain persuaded the United States to support the Dutch on the ground that a republican victory would produce Communism in Indonesia and threaten the British and French colonial empires in southeast Asia.

"When the republic suppressed a Communist insurrection and hanged the leader of the Reds, the British had to change their approach to the United States. They argued that it was necessary to support the Dutch in order to strengthen the anti-Communist front in Western Europe.

"The State Department accepted this view and disregarded the warnings of Asiatic countries that continued economic support of an imperialistic aggressor would aid the Communist cause throughout Asia. Thus to retain an ally in Western Europe that fought the Germans exactly four days and probably would last no longer against the Russians, the United States is spending hundreds of millions of dollars and at the same time it is losing the friendship of more than one billion people in Southeast Asia, from India to China."

The text of Manly's speech filled almost three pages of the Tribune.

Heretofore the principal sources of legume and grass seeds important to the soil and water conservation program have been foreign lands and other regions of the United States. The 1948 yield means that the Southwestern States are on their way toward independence from outside markets, Ottinger pointed out.

Major grass and legume seed harvests in the southwest that are applicable here include Big Bluestem, KR Bluestem (clean), Little Bluestem, Grass Mixture (Big and Little Bluestem, Switchgrass and Sideoats Grama), Sand Bluestem, Buffalo Grass, Blue Grama, Sideoats Grama, Sand Lovegrass, Weeping Lovegrass, Unclassified Vetch and Hairy Vetch.

Bob Collier started out as a child in the drug business trying to make a dollar and is still trying in the same business.

G. W. Norris made his first money hauling maize at the age of 13 at Talpa.

Paul Mayr distributed circulars all over Waco on foot at the age of 10 years. When he got all through, he was paid a dime. He was plenty disgusted with the American money situation. His first real job was delivery boy for a drug store, but he had a bicycle by then.

The Rev. D. A. Bryant was six years old when he pulled seven pounds of cotton at $3 per hundred, making 21 cents on a farm 35 miles south of Fort Worth.

Junior Ice Man

J. N. Power delivered ice for T. L. Jones at the age of 10 years. James Minor worked in a grocery store in Tahoka when he was about seven years old.

J. R. Durrett was about 14 years old when he earned his first money, hauling cotton seed in Fannin County. He used a wagon and team.

Homer McCrary earned his first dollar pulling bolls for his father in 1916.

Ted Hibbs made $6 pulling broom corn in Beaver County, Okla., and went directly to the county fair and spent it all. He was about 12 years old.

Jim Hays earned his first dollar when he was seven years old, chopping cotton for his granddad in Wise County.

Jim Hundley says that when he was about 16 years old, he and his brother Clyde, who now lives in Crosbyton, operated a transfer service in Bowie, using a team of mules which belonged to Clyde and a wagon that was about 8 feet long and 5 feet wide. They hauled "anything, anywhere." Jim did the hauling and his salary was all the cash he collected. As the equipment belonged to Clyde, he paid all the expenses and received the proceeds from all the charge accounts. This arrangement had to be altered after Jim figured out a method of getting the customers to pay cash.

How did you make your first dollar?

TO THE PEOPLE OF GARZA COUNTY

Dear Folks: Now that the vacancy in the office of sheriff, tax assessor-collector, brought about through my resignation, has been filled, I take this means to explain to you my reason for resigning, and again, I repeat, I was very happy over your loyal support that elected me to this office and it was in good faith with my chief aim to serve my people to the very best of my ability that I entered into the duties of the office on January 1, 1949.

But from the very first day, I realized that it was not the same as when I was sheriff years before. Many things had changed, as well as myself, in the years that had passed over me—changes that made it impossible for me to back my own judgment in many matters; nor was there sufficient funds to take care of the office work as it should be. So, with the lack of necessary help in the three combined offices of sheriff, tax assessor-collector and with so much responsibility that I could not back my own judgment, I felt that the worry and strain of it all was more than I could hold up under.

I decided that, in fairness to all, the thing to do was resign and give the people a chance to have a younger man more able to bear the responsibilities of the office, and I hope my resignation has not given you cause to regret electing me to this office. I am not sorry I made the race for, with so many insisting that I run, I would have felt that I failed you had I refused to make the race—and the confidence you placed in me, in electing me, will always be a bright spot in my life and I shall always hold a heart full of love and appreciation for the people of Garza County, where I have made my home for 50 years this coming September.

And I do appreciate the fact that, while many have begged me to stay on, I have not heard one word of criticism against my decision to resign. And now, along with my best wishes to our new sheriff and his deputies for a successful administration, I am asking the people of Garza County to stand by them—as you would me—and, in that way, I will not feel as though I have failed you.

I wish to state here that my wife has stood by me and you with her encouragement and made it possible for me to give practically all of my time to the duties of this office, and she, too, regrets that I could not stay...

And, most of all, I want you to know that to give up the office you had so loyally given me and my deputies—who were so faithful in their services to you and me—and, with your many kind words of encouragement, it was no easy decision to make; nor did I make it in a rash moment. During Boy Scout Week, Scouts, their parents and countless communities will honor the volunteer adult leaders of the nation's 70,000 Cub Packs, Scout Troops and Senior Units. South Plains Area Boy Scout Building Destroyed By Fire

The only dismal spot in the South Plains Area Boy Scout Council's observance of Boy Scout Week was the fire which badly gutted the area headquarters at 2109 Avenue K in Lubbock Saturday morning. Damage was estimated at approximately $5,000, about half the construction cost of the six-room building.

The fire, discovered about 6:50 a.m., had apparently been smoldering for some time and was concentrated in the vicinity of a floor furnace. Definite cause was not immediately determined.

The Boy Scout Headquarters had been moved into the new 40 by 60 foot building in December, although minor details of the construction had not been completed. W. R. Postma, area Scout executive, said that most of the records for past years were destroyed, as they were in a storeroom which received the brunt of the fire. Current records, those for 1949, were saved, he said.

New 66,000 Volt Electric Line Offers Three To Five Times More Power Here

The new 66,000 volt electric line now serving Post and Tahoka enables the Southwestern Public Service Company to transmit three to five times as much power into the Post area as was possible over the old 22,000 volt system.

This line, which was put into service in December, is a single-pole, suspension-type line constructed with a shield wire above the electrical circuits. This construction has a safety feature of withstanding some insular breakage without causing a line outage, and the suspension arrangement relieves certain strain from the pole under "gusty" wind conditions.

The shield wire is designed to prevent lightning which might strike the line from coming into contact with the electrical conductors.

The company announced this week that, in addition to the line proper, it has installed an Interchange Sub-Station here rated at 3,000 KVA, which will handle the load in the Post area for the next five years if the current rate of expansion is continued. The substation is complete with voltage control equipment designed to keep the voltage in the downtown area here at a constant level, regardless of load conditions.

The equipment also includes automatic circuit breakers which are relay controlled to open the line instantaneously in event of faults and automatic reclosers restore service if the fault is temporary.

A similar substation has been installed at Tahoka with a capacity to handle the load in that city and Slaton.

The new line can be fed out of Brownfield from the Denver City Power Plant or from the Tuco Power Plant with fully automatic equipment to isolate the lines in either direction if trouble develops. The line is approximately 50 miles long. Purchase orders were made in October, 1946, for materials to build the line. Ted Hibbs, local manager, said this week.

Hibbs also said that the company is installing two-way radios over the division and that one will be put here in the near future. The radio will be used in servicing the equipment, but it also will be available for public assistance in event of emergencies, Hibbs said. Had it been here, during the recent ice storm when communications were cut off, it would have helped a number of people, the manager believes.
