

Steel Settlement May Prove Taft-Hartley Law Unnecessary

New York City—I am in New York checking up with the large corporations regarding the settlement between the steel companies and Mr. Murray. They all seem to be disappointed. They feel that this is a real victory for labor, although the steel companies are a little better off than if they had accepted the Fact Finding Report as submitted by the President's Board. They also are disappointed that President Truman and the labor leaders "acquired" the Taft-Hartley Bill which really was designed for just such purposes. In the Congressional campaign next year this settlement will be used as an argument that the Taft-Hartley Bill is unnecessary.

An Important Precedent

Although these corporations of officials with whom I talked are disappointed, they admit that a precedent has been set which may force a great many other corporations to adopt a more or less similar pension system. They state that there are three reasons why the steel companies were handicapped in their negotiations. One reason is because so many of the top officers themselves have pensions. A second reason is because the public, although opposed, at the present time, to more wage raises, are sympathetic with the pension ideas. A third factor in the situation is that the Ford Motor Company has accepted a noncontributory pension system.

As Henry Ford was the first to guarantee $5 a day, they feel that the Ford Company is again beating the gun. On the other hand, it should be remembered that all of the common stock of the Ford Motor Company is now in a charitable trust, and hence, these Ford pensions do not cost the Ford family anything. If all of the steel companies unite in a similar program, the cost could be passed on to the users of steel and "may not cost the steel companies' stockholders anything." This, of course, is an insane method of accounting. It is a good deal like a man loaning money to his wife and accepting a note for it and thinking it does not cost him anything!

Should Help Texas

Whatever happens to stockholders of large corporations forced to grant liberal pension systems, this new program should be a great help to Florida, California, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas and other states with an attractive winter climate. Certainly, these retired people will not stick around home, shoveling snow, when they can be healthier, happier and live cheaper in a southern climate. They will get into their little car and beat it for the South at least for the winter months.

Many of these retired men and wives, whose families have grown up and moved away, will permanently change their residence to Florida, California or one of these other states. In the case of Florida, these people can buy a house for about $5,000 which is exempt from all local taxes provided they make Florida their home. There also are other advantages in moving to one of the above states. As a result, this new pension may postpone a decline in real estate prices in these southern states which have already had more or less of a real estate boom.

Real Estate Outlook

For some months real estate sales have been slowing up in most Northern cities. This especially applies to the higher priced and larger houses. Unemployment is forcing families to double up which is throwing houses on the market. The great increase in divorces is also a definite factor in the real estate situation. If the new pension craze is to be a boom for Southern communities, it should be bearish on Northern communities where these people are now located as they will want to sell their present Northern homes.

Due to the fact that the cream is off of the real estate business in many sections, the cost of new building has declined somewhat. It is certainly true that you can build a better house for the same money now than was the case a year or two ago when contractors were so independent and unreliable. My present advice on new building is as follows: If you have been waiting for a home, the time has come when you might seriously consider building for your own occupancy. The time, however, has not yet come to build a house or business property to rent to someone else. There are much better investments today than houses or stores.

Fertilizers can be successfully stored on the farm. Just store in a dry, well ventilated barn or shed.

Snyder Still Growing—Officials of the Lone Star Production Company, companion company of the Lone Star Gas Company, which serves Snyder and a large portion of Central West Texas with natural gas, this week announced from Dallas that plans are being developed to construct a gas processing plant west of Snyder—The Scurry County Times.

SPUR CONSIDERING STREET CLEANER—A prominent citizen expressed the opinion this week that the need of a street sweeper in Spur is growing more acute. He referred to many smaller, less prosperous towns that have modern, efficient street cleaning devices. For his information and for the information of other interested citizens, the city commission is now considering bids for such a machine and the purchase of one will be made as soon as it is advisable.—The Texas Spur.

EARLY BIRDS USE NEW PHONES—Morton has a new dial telephone system. However the "new" will soon be worn off if subscribers continue to use the telephones as much as they did early Tuesday morning. Telephones were cut in on the new system at six o'clock and by eight o'clock 600 local calls had been placed, according to G. D. Shelley, area manager of Southwestern Associated Telephone Company, Lubbock, who was watching the board during the early morning hours.—The Morton Tribune.

GETTING OUT
On the LIMB
by
EDDIE the EDITOR

Saw in the paper the other day where Mrs. Strasser, the rural club lady, recommended that a chair or two be placed in the front hall.

This seems like a mighty good idea to me, because of the custom here of doing one's visiting while standing by the front door to say goodbye.

While the women folks are thinking of last minute gossip to tell each other, we men can sit in the chairs and rest our feet.

I dunno how Emily Post would react to this plan, because she is a stickler for the men standing up as long as the women do.

Incidentally, I've got a bone to pick with Emily on another phase of this subject. Why is all the etiquette directed at us menfolks, when it's the women that are the rudest and most thoughtless of mankind?

Take this business of men having to stand up every time a woman enters the room. Any woman who has any respect at all for a man would quickly sit down, on entering a room full of men. But will she do it? No, she just stands there and talks and talks glibly unaware of the fact that the men are standing up just wishing she'd shut up long enough to take one of their chairs.

Another thing I can't understand is how the so-called weaker sex is able to stand up so long in those high-heeled shoes.

We menfolks have been taught from babyhood that the women are delicate and should be shielded from such strenuous tasks as opening and shutting doors for themselves, carrying their own books to school and lifting a bag of groceries from the car to the kitchen.

If the women are all this delicate, how is it that they can get around so lively on those stiletts and stand for hours at a time at the front door while telling each other goodbye after an evening of canasta.

And another thing. Have you ever watched a woman smoking a cigaret? If a full-grown man ate all that smoke from one cigaret after another in an endless chain he wouldn't live a year.

Emily's book tells the men to light the ladies' cigarets for them. All the women smokers I know have already finished one cigaret and have struck a match to another before I can get my lighter lighted. It is advisable for the man to use a lighter because it just isn't safe to carry around as many matches as it takes to keep his lady's cigarets lighted. The match-carrying custom still prevails, however, and it sheds some light on why they still make men's clothes with so many pockets.

THE WOMEN: God Love 'Em—I didn't want to hurt any of their feelings by writing against the proposed women's jury service amendment, but I'm sure glad we aren't going to have women on the juries. Some women just aren't as charitable as they ought to be toward each other, and there is nothing that some women love more than to see another woman in trouble. A woman defendant couldn't get justice from this type of juror. The more time a woman has to serve on a jury the more likely she is to be of the uncharitable type. The type of woman who loves human nature in general is too busy with her family or with her career to serve on a jury.

Lack of charitable attitude toward our fellowman isn't peculiar to women, however. Was reading this somewhere the other day:

"If a man runs after money,

Garza and the World

By EVELYN BOYD

"One of the great paradoxes of the twentieth century has been the fervor with which free men everywhere have fought to keep their franchise and to widen their suffrage, and then, having obtained these rights, abstained in large number from exercising them."

The New York Times Magazine writer who made the above statement was talking about the General Election of last November when less than half of the nation's eligible voters bothered to go to the polls.

This writer, Robert Cobb Myers, suggests a tax for those who don't vote. As it is, he says, "you pay a fine if you vote and nothing if you do not vote."

While I wouldn't go so far as to agree on the above point, I think he is right in taking a stand against compulsory voting, which is resorted to in some countries.

An estimated 300,000 Texans went to the polls last week to elect a state board of Education and to reject eight of 10 amendments to the Texas Constitution which represented the year's work of the legislators which a similar minority of the population put into office.

These 300,000 voters are making the decision for approximately 7,000,000 Texans; yet if a law were passed to let the voters in Texas to 300,000 people, there would be a revolution.

In Garza County, where there should be 1,200 to 1,300 eligible voters, a measly 240 turned out to vote on the amendments. This group found not one of the amendments acceptable—not even the one which was proposed to set up fire protection for the rural areas and keep down the insurance rate.

The people would have a right to stage a revolution if there were some law that allowed only one fifth of the adults to vote. But as it is, they have no kick coming. If only a fifth of the adult population takes it upon themselves to decide whether or not the rest of the people should have fire protection, etc.

Although I deplore the situation as it now exists, I'd be against anything that seriously threatens a person's freedom to vote or not, as he chooses. It was my observation in countries where voting is compulsory that he's money-mad; if he keeps it, he's a capitalist; if he spends it, he's a playboy; if he doesn't try to get it, he lacks ambition; if he gets it without working for it, he's a parasite; and if he accumulates it after a lifetime of hard work, people call him a fool who never got anything out of life.

People have been dogging me, since I started writing this column again for news about Gertrude, the porpoise. I haven't had time to check up on her and, frankly, I think Al Bird is avoiding me, because he hasn't been around in several weeks. Al used to tell me that whenever I wrote anything about Gertrude, he was flooded with visitors and letters from everywhere.

But I'll drive out to Al's place one of these pretty Sundays and see what I can find out about Gertrude, and let you know how she's acting.

Minute Editorial

If the nation's population is killing itself off at the rate the South Plains population is extinguishing itself by means of car wrecks, there will be no need for waging another war for a great number of years. Once the world depended upon inevitable periodic wars to eliminate the excess population. Now we have the automobile and as many types of bad drivers as we have people. Our greatest offenders, besides the unpredictable drunks, are the otherwise sane people who are hell-bent to get wherever they have started regardless of what vehicles happen to be in their path. One often wonders what the survivors do with the time they save while flying their automobiles so low. Are there no laws to protect the careful and thinking public from the ravages of these deadly drivers? Are there no law enforcement officers to see that traffic laws are obeyed? The Post Dispatch editor has heard these questions countless times since Nov. 6 when seven people died and 15 others were injured in car wrecks in the vicinity of Post. Only a week or two before that, the editor heard loud complaints from the merchants about the fines that people in Garza County were having to pay in increasing numbers for traffic violations. They said the fines were discouraging the cotton pickers and ruining business. Why is it that in a county where law enforcement allegedly is strict enough to "ruin" business that the death rate in automobiles is so high? There was not a single day in World War II in which 22 people from Garza County were either killed or injured. World War was as new as we knew it was safer than the peace that we know today. Why?

What Our Contemporaries Are Saying:

DIME COFFEE UN-AMERICAN—Paeons of praise for Brother Boe, genial proprietor of the Ralls Inn Cafe, who says coffee at his eatery will remain, as always, five cents a cup. "I don't care if coffee goes to $5 a pound," he cracked. "It stays a nickel a cup here." Then, as an afterthought, he added that 10 cent coffee would be as un-American as hotdogs without mustard. We agree with him. Ten-cent coffee will go a long way toward eliminating a typical American institution, the mid-morning and mid-afternoon coffee period which has become a highly respected social institution. And whenever it gets to the point where a cup costs no less than a good glass of milk, only a patron with a head full of gravel would take coffee. We harbor a suspicion that the best thing that could happen to the health of the nation would be for coffee to go to $5 a pound. That's the only thing that'll make us quit drinking the stuff that agitates our ulcers three or four times a day.—The Ralls Banner.

CHILL AND FEVER OVER PAYMENT—We had a high fever followed by a cold chill Thursday. The fever was caused by our sudden desire for a rather attractive new automobile. We liked the make, the body style, extra accessories and the color. The cold chill came after finding out how much and how long the monthly payments would run.—The Abernathy Review.

WALKING SAFER—MAYBE—About the time we decide it is safe to ride in a car, a terrible accident convinces us that the highways are death traps. And about the time we are convinced that the air travel is the only worthwhile mode of transportation, here comes an accident which takes the lives of half a hundred or more persons. In a car wreck most of the passengers are badly mangled in the accidents, but in plane accidents the story is over in the matter of seconds.—The Canyon News.

A REAL OLD TIMER—A local business man says he has lots of respect for the early settlers. He does not refer to the settlers who traveled in covered wagons, but rather those who get their bills paid by the tenth of the month.—The Lockney Beacon.

6183 YEARS of Public Service

6183 years of electric service "know-how." 6183 years spent at bringing you the best in electric service, community leadership, and good citizenship.

That's the record of 453 men and women, members of the 1700-strong Public Service Company families, who will be the guests of honor this week at service award dinners to be held throughout our service area.

The "old-timer" of this group has devoted 44 years to public service, while the "youngsters" to be honored have served you for at least five years.

As a company, we are proud of our record of 25 years of good citizenship and public service. As an employer, prouder still of the 453 men and women who, as a group, have spent 6183 years making that record possible.

It's Not So Much What To Cook As How To Cook For Holiday

Almost everybody knows how to bake a turkey but the stuffing is something that can make or break the Thanksgiving dinner. From the stock of recipes which the Post Dispatch culinary editor has been collecting during the past several weeks, the following may be welcome to the cooks who want to impress their guests on Nov. 24:

Turkey Stuffing
Seven cups cubed stale bread, two medium onions, finely chopped, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon poultry seasoning, 2 teaspoons powdered sage, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon celery salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 1 cup melted butter and 1-2 cup boiling water.

Fry onions slowly in 2 tablespoons butter until tender and clear but not browned. Combine poultry seasoning, sage, salt, celery salt and pepper. Toss lightly with bread. Add onions and mix lightly. Combine butter and water. Add gradually to bread, tossing lightly. Makes enough for 10-12 lb. turkey. If a more moist dressing is preferred, add another 1-2 cup of water.

Garnish For Turkey
Cut oranges in half and scoop out center. Notch edges. Fill shells with gingers cranberry sauce made by using 1 cup white and 1 cup brown sugar to 1 lb. cranberries and 1-2 cups water. Add 1-2 teaspoon ground ginger. Bring to boil, cover and cook slowly about 10 minutes or until skins are broken. Skim and cool. Serve frosty cold. Makes about 4 cups sauce.

Baked Spiced Ham
One ham butt, about 6 lb., whole cloves, 1-4 cup brown sugar, 1 cup applesauce, 1 teaspoon ground allspice.

Wipe ham with damp cloth. Place rind side up, in roasting pan. Bake uncovered in slow oven. Cut off rind and score fat into diamond or square shapes. Insert whole cloves into each square. Cover with applesauce, allspice and brown sugar mixed together. Continue baking several times with drippings. Serve with raisin sauce. Allow 1-3 to 1-2 pound per person.

Cranberry Sherbet
Three cups cranberry juice, two cups sugar, 1 cup thick cream, four cups milk.

Stir sugar into cranberry juice until dissolved. Slowly pour cranberry juice and sugar mixture into milk, stirring constantly. Then add cream and freeze.

Pumpkin Chiffon Pie
One 9-inch baked pie shell, 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin, 1-4 cup cold water, 4 egg yolks, 3-4 cup light brown sugar, 1-2 cup milk, 1-4 cups cooked or canned pumpkin, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon ginger, 1-2 teaspoon allspice, 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg, 4 egg whites, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 cup whipping cream, 2 tablespoons confectioners sugar and 1 tablespoon chopped nuts.

Sgt. Jack Hoover Takes ARC Course
S/Sgt. Jack D. Hoover of Rt. 3 Post, recently completed an intensive course in first aid accident prevention given under the supervision of the American Red Cross overseas, it was announced recently by ARC Safety Service officials in Europe.

Sergeant Hoover who has been serving with the 7533rd Sub. Sq. 7530th Sup. Gp. at Burtonwood, England, is on duty with the U. S. occupation forces in Europe. The safety course in which he was enrolled is part of a Command-wide program of the American Red Cross designed to train servicemen overseas in accident prevention and first aid techniques.

The course, set up in the form of a rotational school, provided the students with 20 hours of practical and classroom work in first aid and accident prevention. As part of the curriculum, Hoover and members of the class took part in a unique safety inspection of facilities on their military post. Hoover and his classmates toured the post and noted safety hazards which were brought to the attention of the commanding officer for correction.

The ARC safety course was given by GI instructors trained under the supervision of ARC Service representatives working in cooperation with the Armed Forces in Germany and Austria.

Sergeant and Mrs. Hoover and small son arrived in New York City Nov. 10 and are expected home on a visit "any time now."

Progressive Agricultural Methods Can Reduce Wind Erosion And Black Dusters

Although the "dust bowl" years of the early 1930's are faint recollections to many West Texans, a Texas Technological College scientist has warned that lean years might return to many Great Plains farms unless progressive agricultural methods are adopted at once.

Dr. A. W. Young, head of the plant industry department at Tech, said he has noted visible evidence of neglect in recent months which has led to wind erosion. Constant vigilance, it seems, is the price of good crops and better soil.

Not A Local Matter
 Solving the wind and water erosion problem is not a local matter, Dr. Young pointed out. It is a challenge facing agricultural areas from Texas through the Dakotas. But in West Texas as sweeping winds act as a constant reminder to scientists that every means available must be used to preserve the fertility of the soil.

One solution has appeared in the form of proper management of crop residues. Dr. Young said that every piece of crop residue left on the surface of the soil serves as a natural wind-break or dam.

"Each piece of stubble left on a field helps to stimulate water penetration of the soil, and organic matter which decomposes in the field acts as a binding agent which holds soil particles together in spite of strong winds," he said.

Loss Is Heavy
 Soil tests at Tech indicate that once native sods are broken for cultivation, as much as 50 per cent of the organic matter may disappear in two years. Removal or plowing under of crop residues furthers wind and water erosion and organic losses. As long as crop residues are left on the surface to disintegrate, conservation of soil and water are aided.

This brings up an important question. Can crop residue, if properly managed, eliminate the dust storm menace?

"No," Dr. Young admits, "it can't. Science accepts the theory that the Plains had dust storms long before man ever trenched the soil with a plow. But it isn't a hopeless case, and the proper use of crop residues can prevent those 'black dusters' which drew hundreds of tons of top soil off of our best farm land."

Leave Crop Residues
 One of the best ways to conserve moisture in the soil is to leave residues on the surface as a barricade against runoff water, thereby permitting more water to penetrate the soil. Moist soils will produce a vegetative cover which can prevent wind erosion. The crop residues are returned to the soil as organic matter in the cyclical process.

"Right now, it's simply a matter of convincing the farmer that he should leave crop residues on the surface and use a chisel-type plow with sweeps which will work the soil underneath the residue without turning it under," Dr. Young said. "The effect—in greater fertility and decreased erosion—will become apparent right away."

Late Rye And Vetch Planting Is Tried
 One of Sam Bevers' sons at Justiceburg recently asked his father why he didn't take the money that vetch and rye seed, fertilizer and inoculation cost and buy land. Bevers said, "Son I've got the land, but what I need is soil fertility."

This week, Bevers used the Duck Creek Soil Conservation District's fertilizer-grain drill to plant 24 acres of rye and vetch. He knows that the vetch should have been planted two months ago and that he is taking a chance planting it this late. However with good soil moisture soil technicians think rye can successfully be planted as late as Dec. 1.

Bevers gives two reasons for planting rye and vetch with fertilizer.

The first is to improve his soil's fertility and to protect the land from wind erosion. The second is to use this planting as a demonstration for his neighbors to see the benefits of using a winter cover crop.

1938 and was buried at Breckenridge.

Mr. McFall had been an active member and elder of both the Breckenridge and Abilene First Christian Churches and he was one of the early supporters of the First Christian Church in Post. Before the local church was dedicated, it is said that McFall and his Abilene church sent word that they were prepared to contribute whatever sum was needed to clear the building of debt. He made contributions to the Post church on several occasions and was present for the dedication service.

Survivors include two daughters, Miss Addie Nell McFall of Abilene and Mrs. Stoker; two sons, R. E. McFall and R. B. McFall of Abilene; five grandchildren; four great grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Anna Thompson of Breckenridge, and a brother, L. R. McFall of Breckenridge.

Bass said. There were some rumors of two suicide notes floating around last night. One of the notes was said to have been addressed to Mrs. Truelock's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fletcher of Plainview, and the other to her husband and two children. The notes were said to have been found on the sewing machine under a comic book, one of them written on a penny postcard and the other on a sheet from a tablet. Sheriff Bass said he could not verify these rumors as he had seen no evidence of such notes.

Mrs. Truelock, who was 41 years old, suffered from diabetes, for which she administered regular doses of insulin to herself. On several occasions, according to the Slaton ambulance driver who took her body away from the home she had been taken to the Slaton hospital for treatment after she had taken either too much or too little insulin. In the past several weeks, she had been taken to the hospital because of an overdose of insulin, according to Southland residents who were questioned by the investigators.

Husband Was Away
Mr. Truelock, who operates the Kwikway Garage, in the Masonic building, told authorities that he learned yesterday morning that he had to make a business trip to Lubbock and went to the apartment about 11:35 a. m. and asked his wife how soon she could have his lunch ready. She said "in about 10 minutes." He returned in about 15 minutes, ate lunch and departed at about 12:20 p. m. for Lubbock. He got the emergency call concerning the tragedy while he was transacting business at Barrett's Automotive Shop in Lubbock. He arrived home about 2:45 p. m. Mrs. Truelock's children, Calvin and Glenda, 15, both by former marriage, eat their lunch at school each day.

The Truelock's neighbors, the Harry Kings who live north of their apartment in the Masonic Building, were away from home.

Mrs. Truelock's first husband, Charles Oscar Grantham, is said to have died before Calvin was born.

Survivors, besides her parents, husband and children are three brothers, Fred Fletcher of Beaumont, Frank Fletcher of Houston and Robert Fletcher of Lubbock.

Twin Also Burned
Mrs. Truelock's twin bother, William Foster Fletcher, lost his life in an airplane crash 8 miles southwest of Amarillo May 14, 1947. His charred body was found two days later in the wreckage of the plane which was believed to have been forced down during a heavy wind and rain storm. He was an independent aerial photographer.

BITS OF NEWS

Lt. and Mrs. Max Minor and sons, Jerry and Mike, were Armistice Day guests in the home of Lieutenant Minor's brother, James Minor, and family. They went to Tahoka Saturday to spend the remainder of the weekend with relatives. Lieutenant Minor was still "quaking" over the close call he had in connection with the B-36 from Carswell Air Field where he is stationed which crashed into Lake Worth about a month ago. He was supposed to have been second pilot on the ship, but his orders were changed about 30 minutes before the ship took off without him. He is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Mrs. Maggie Childress spent Wednesday afternoon in Lubbock on business.

after having investigated the case at Southland, said they were told that the "suicide notes" indicated that Mrs. Truelock believed herself to have been responsible in some way for her twin's death.

Mrs. Truelock, a former school teacher, was a former Post Dispatch correspondent. Her daughter, Glenda, recently won third place in the fire prevention theme contest sponsored here.

The body was released to the family late yesterday and brought to Mason and Company who will have charge of the funeral. Arrangements had not been made by press time.

Thanksgiving Dinner May Cost Less This Year Than It Did In 1948, Survey Shows

Encouraging Thanksgiving prices came this week with a survey which showed that a cost of a Thanksgiving dinner for four, including a 10-pound turkey, will be about $1.50 cheaper than last year. Prices in 20 larger cities were checked against last year's prices in the survey.

Such a meal last year cost $7, the survey showed. The additional meal can be had this year for $8.16.

In the survey, prices were checked for this year against 1948 on ingredients for a menu consisting of a 10-pound turkey, 10 pounds of sweet potatoes, a pound of cranberries, two bunches celery, a can of asparagus, a pound of white bread, a pound of ported nuts, a pound of table grapes and a can of pumpkin for $8.16.

Prices Are Compared
The prices compared are for the following:

1949	1948
Key, grade A hen, lb.	63.3 75.1
Net potatoes, lb.	9.7 10.8
Cranberries, can	16.4 19.4
Celery, bunch	16.6 19.7
Asparagus, can	37.9 38.1
White bread, loaf	14.3 14.7
Ported nuts, lb.	35.7 45.8
Table grapes, lb.	12.6 13.7
Pumpkin, can	13.2 12.8

Lower Prices Likely
Most retail produce men, early in the week, had not been informed of the drop in price, but some of those contacted had received their Thanksgiving stock turkeys nor the price list on them. One local grocer said he had understood that there would be a decrease in price and another said he expected to receive information in this week as to the price of turkeys.

The big drop in the price of turkey was due to a 29 per cent increase.

The reverse was true of pumpkins. Farmers became disgusted with the low price they received last year. So this year they cut production and prices rose.

Cranberries were cheaper as a result of a bigger crop in the nation's bogs.

Disabled Veterans Reminded To Give Information To VA

A reminder was issued Monday by the Veterans Administration that all veterans who have 50 per cent or more service-connected disability should notify the Veterans Administration immediately of the type and number of dependents they have.

Those who do not submit this information by Dec. 1 will receive payment for dependents as of the date on which proof is received. Those who submit the information before Dec. 1 will receive payment as of then and will have until May 1 to get their proof in.

Extra compensation for dependents for a man with a wife is $10.50 a month; for wife and one child, $17.50; for wife and two children, $22.75; for wife and three or more children, $28; for man without wife but with one child, $7; two children, $12.25; three or more children, $17.50; for one dependent parent, $8.75; for two dependent parents, $17.50. Peacetime service-disabled men receive 80 per cent of the above amounts, according to Public Law 339.

Persons who need help in establishing proof of dependents should contact the service officer, Jackie Weathers, who is at the courthouse twice a week.

Dependency allowances to disabled veterans were formerly limited to men drawing 60 per cent or more disability compensation. The law was recently liberalized to include 50 per cent disabled veterans.

New Fords Aren't Radically Changed In Appearance, Improvements Are Many

Four models of the 1950 Ford line of passenger cars, with scores of improvements, will be on display to the public Friday and Saturday at Tom Power's.

The new features, Power says, embody improvements throughout the entire car—in the engine, body, seats, doors, frame, trunk, fabrics, instrument panel, brakes, floors and elsewhere.

Styling of the 1950 car, the dealer explains, has not been radically changed because of the wide public acceptance of the modern design of the present Ford, but it includes several distinctive features to enrich its appearance.

A colorful new crest, derived from an authentic coat of arms dating back to 17th Century England, appears on the front of the hood and center of the trunk lid. Other styling features include a new hood ornament, re-styled parking lights in new positions and a new ornamental deck lid handle.

Still Has Overdrive
The new model, of course, is available with the overdrive which gives a smoother ride and greater acceleration at a 15 per cent saving in gasoline.

New, heavier side frame rails add greater strength to the rugged Ford chassis. The front cross-member has been redesigned to add an extra half-inch of road clearance.

The V-8 engine has been improved by the addition of automatic pistons to allow a closer fit when the motor is cold. Also the distributor housing and

Even The Wrecking Man Yells Enough

When a man in the wrecking business starts kicking about a boom in his business, it's a sign that the highways around Post are really dangerous.

Charlie Baker, the local wrecking yard operator, says he hopes the wrecks will slow down for awhile. He doesn't have any more room in his yard for the wrecked cars.

DESERTER WANTED

A warrant was sworn out this week on a Post man who is sought for wife and child desertion, Sheriff E. M. Bass said.

car, improvements have been made to increase the position of the Ford as "The Best Buy in America for Those Who Want the Greatest Value," Power says.

1950 FORD

IT'S HERE FRIDAY AND 50 WAYS NEW!

WITH THE EXCLUSIVE NEW 100 H.P. FORD

ITS QUIET WHISPERS QUALITY

It's the quiet of new super-fitted pistons, new "hushed" timing gear, new fan designed for better cooling of slower quieter speeds. And what power! There's a full 100 horsepower wrapped up in this V-8 design that makes you master of any road. It delivers more power than any other car anywhere near Ford's low price and sells for less than most conventional "sixes." And Ford offers a Six, too—an advanced Six with 95 horsepower.

NEW SOUND CONDITIONING

New "sound conditioning" in floor, doors and body panels insulates Ford's "Lifeguard" Body against road noises. More extensive body insulation and sealing in 41 areas give additional interior quietness and protection.

NEW "HUSHED" RIDE

Ford's famous "Mid Ship" Ride is now so quiet you can talk in whispers while traveling at highway speeds. So smooth, with its great team of "Hydra-Coil" and "Para-Flex" Springs that it virtually erases every bump.

NEW QUALITY FEATURES

New quality is easy to find in this 50-way-new Ford. You find it in the new push-button door handles, in the new rotary door latch that needs only a feather touch to open, yet closes so securely. You find it in new sparkling upholstery colors.

NEW DRIVING COMFORT

Not only does the 1950 Ford offer you more hip and shoulder room than any other car in its field—it offers you the long-lived driving comfort of a new foam rubber front seat cushion over new non-sag seat springs. Airline relaxed after hours of riding.

But see it for yourself. Drive it so you can feel and hear the difference. And price it and see how much less it costs than any other really fine car.

Helpful Demonstrations On Water And Sewer Service Seen By Post Delegates

R. H. Tate, city water superintendent, and Don Poole, city water department employe, attended the annual five-district meeting of the Texas Water and Sewer Works Association, an affiliate of the American Waterworks Association, Tuesday in Plainview.

Rep. George Mahon of the 19th Congressional District highlighted the morning session by cautioning those present not to be too optimistic over the successful Senate passing of the proposed Canadian River Dam project. The bill has already passed the House and is now before a Senate committee.

"While I am elated over the progress made in the House in the last session," Mahon said, "I would not be too sure of the bill's clear sailing in regard to Senate action and Presidential approval."

More than 245 persons listened as the congressman described the bill as a "must" for this area.

Several Talks Made

Other speakers on the morning session included: Mayor Winfield Holbrook of Plainview, welcome address; E. L. Killingsworth of Big Spring, president of the Permian Basin Water and Sewer Works Association (to which the Post department belongs), response; E. J. Umbenhauer of El Paso, president of the Southwest Water Works and Sewer Association, "Objectives of the Texas Water and Sewer Works Association."

The meeting was presided over by A. Hanaman, Jr., of Austin, district sanitary engineer.

D. L. Young Is New Deputy Sheriff

D. L. Young of the Grassburr Community has been engaged as a deputy sheriff to assist Garza County Sheriff E. M. Bass and Assistant Deputy V. A. Lobban. He is replacing Walter Riggs of Mt. Carmel, Ill., who took the job for a temporary period.

The luncheon speaker was V. M. Ehlers of Austin, director of sanitary engineering for the State Health Department.

Demonstrations were presented during the afternoon session. One of the most helpful, according to Tate, was one on making a six-inch tap in an eight-inch line under pressure given by N. B. McCullough, superintendent of the Lubbock city water and street department, and a service crew. Using one of the few machines available for the purpose in Texas cities, the demonstrators showed how the installation could be performed without cutting the water off.

Technique Is Explained

Miss Oma Myree Johnson, technician of the Lubbock City Council Department of Health presented a demonstration on water bacteriological technique, with L. D. Fletcher, sanitarian from the department, giving the explanation.

Other demonstrations included: Pampa, laying of six inch sewer lines with asphalt joints and installation of four-inch saddle; Lamesa, installing six-inch valve in six-inch line under service conditions; Matador, plugging hole in two-inch pipe; Amarillo, installation of three-four inch tap on two-inch cast iron line, using various fittings and making meter settings with box; Friona, collecting water samples in orthotolidine test, and Plainview, demonstration on pipe locator.

The demonstrations were given by city technicians who learned them at the annual school at Texas A. and M. College, in which learned water and sewer technicians from all over the United States and abroad participate.

It was voted that the five-district meeting will be an annual affair.

A resolution was passed to the effect that Gov. Allan Shivers use his office to the end that Water Laws Revision Committee, now in operation, be invited to prepare equitable legislation in keeping with the economy and growth of the state for recreation, irrigation processing, industrial and drinking water.

Danny Altman underwent a tonsilectomy in the West Texas Hospital Tuesday. He was brought home yesterday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Altman.

School Child Finds Medicine Man Comparable To White Man

Several hundred pupils in the fifth, sixth and seventh grades here are thoroughly enjoying their social studies which correlate language, history, geography, arithmetic and spelling and, at the same time, emphasize citizenship, attitudes and the importance of working and playing together happily.

The course in social studies, according to one of the teachers, Miss Maxine Durrett, is "child-centered." It is designed to fill the needs of the child, and the children are not made to fit the course, as they are by more old fashioned methods of study.

An example of how social studies can be integrated with other subjects is seen in the study of Indians and their history which the three grades recently completed.

Color Film Shows
The Santa Fe Railway Company supplied a free color film on a sound track which was shown as the culminating feature of the course. It pertained to the Navajo Indian Sand Painters.

After seeing the movie, the children were asked to draw a Navajo sand-painting or to write the story of the 25-minute movie. Approximately 200 themes were written and judged by the school's English department.

Considered the best story was that written by Michael McFadin of Grade 7-2. Honorable mention went to David King,

Tommy Bird, Patty Lott and Mollie Edwards. Michael's story, entitled "Navajo Sand Painters", follows:

What Michael Observed
"Navajo Indians are very superstitious and religious. They are very good at arts and crafts, too.

"The Navajos live in tents or huts known as 'hogans'. Their hogans are rudely constructed compared to our homes. They are simply low, conical huts, made of bent poles covered with earth, grass and bark.

"The Navajos turn all their troubles and sorrows over to the medicine man. He takes them to the gods. The Indians do not do any act of importance without first seeking the advice of the medicine man. He is supposed to consult with the gods regularly. The medicine man is the one who asks the gods for rain and such. The Navajos trust the medicine man to the very last extent.

"When one of the tribe is sick, it is up to the medicine man to say what should be done. He may decide on a sand painting. This is supposed to drive away the evil spirit which is believed to make the person sick.

Dust Destroy Work
"The sand painters remove everything out of the hogan. It takes them sometimes all day to complete the painting. It has to be destroyed before sundown. All this work is done under supervision of the medicine man. After the picture is drawn, they may have a ceremony.

"The chanters chant, and the medicine man removes the evil spirit. The patient then goes out into the sunlight and breathes four times. All trace of the event is destroyed. The sick person goes back to his hogan and is believed cured.

"The witchery in which the medicine man performs is very amazing. His work is somewhat like two positions men now hold, the minister and the doctor. He is reverent and prayerful and he also tries to do what he thinks will aid his people. He takes money for his work if the family is able to pay. If not, he does it all free.

"Just like the white man, some medicine men are good and helpful and others just try to swindle all they can get from the people who trust them."

Football Traffic Gets Complicated
The football traffic after the Post-Slaton game last Friday afternoon seemed hopelessly snarled for awhile on the Tahoka highway in the block west of Broadway. The entanglement was expensive for several victims.

One of the victims was Russell Leon Degan of Slaton whose 1940 model car was hit by a car behind him and shoved into the car ahead. The impact burst the radiator on the Slaton man's car. A fourth automobile stopped and backed up to tow Degan's car to a garage. About this time Cecil Foster drove by and had to slam on his brakes when his car hit the wet spot caused by the burst radiator. This forced Foster's car sideways and into the two vehicles. A man standing between Degan's car and the automobile that had stopped to tow it jumped out of the way of Foster's car but received a skinned leg.
