Miller bought the 575-pound bale for the record price of three dollars a pound. Martinez received a total of $3,050 including bonuses.

FOR AUG. 14, 15, 16, 17, 18

Dates of Fourth Annual Junior Rodeo Are Reset

Dates for the fourth annual Southwestern Junior Championship rodeo have been reset here for Aug. 14-18, Alvin G. Davis, publicity director, announced yesterday.

This is one week later than originally planned. Since more than 250 youths entered last year, five shows have been set this year with three go-rounds. The first go-round will end on the third night and the third one will begin, Davis said.

Buster Cole of Midland is to judge the Quarter horse show to be held Aug. 14. This is the second year for this event. Judging will start at 9 o'clock in the morning and entries will be open to adults as well as juniors.

Entries for the rodeo will close at noon Aug. 13, and for the Quarter horse event at 8 o'clock Aug. 14. Leon Miller is rodeo secretary.

Charlie Shultz of Ponca City, Okla., will be the clown. He will have several specialty acts such as a mule that seesaws and a bucking Ford.

Events will include calf roping, bull riding, calf beeling, cutting horse contest, bareback bronc riding, flag race and barrel race. Local judges will be used in the regular rodeo events. None have been chosen. Riders will choose their own judges.

Goat Mayo of Petrolia is furnishing the stock. Quarter horse competition will include halter classes as well as performance classes. Entry blanks are available on request, Davis said.

RAIN IN POST AMOUNTS TO .75

Today is considered by some farmers the last day to plant cotton and have it make, and the only rain recorded by the Double U gauge in Post this month amounts to only three quarters of an inch.

Some .35 inch fell last Thursday and 4 fell Friday. Farmers on the plains are desperate for moisture. Some have already started irrigating.

Five Miles Set For Road From Post-to-Spur

Surveyors have been authorized to begin work immediately on a five mile stretch of farm-to-market road beginning at a point on the edge of town and running northeast, including a bridge across the river.

Construction is definitely to start on the road this year. Judge H. M. Snowden reveals that the state highway commission has approved expenditure of $123,000 on this road, a segment of the Post-to-Spur road. These funds were allocated to the project several months ago by the commissioners court.

The court is now securing the right-of-way. A group from Spur met here last week with the commissioners and members of the chamber of commerce committee on the road. A meeting is scheduled in Lubbock and one at Austin later. Sen. Kilmer Corbin of Lamesa is president of the Broadway to Big Bend highway, of which the Post to Spur road is the next logical segment.

The proposed route is to follow the Star mail route and the school bus route in a northeasterly direction. Last year the Crosby county commissioners court refused to appropriate any money for the stretch of road through Crosby county. Dickens commissioners have been working with the local court on the project.

George Shirley Dies Tuesday

Howard Goss, State Soil Conservation Board Member, Discusses New Bill Here

Howard H. Goss of Temple, state soil conservation board member, met with the Duck Creek board of supervisors in the county courtroom here Tuesday morning. He discussed the amended law providing a state appropriation for soil conservation districts. "Under the old bill," Goss said, "the remainder unspent at the end of the biennium reverted to the general fund. The new bill reappropriated it. The old bill forbade use of any of the $5 million appropriated for keeping records. The new bill provides for records."

"The old bill," he continued, "allowed no money for providing storage for equipment bought with the money. The new bill takes care of this."

Giles McCrary, Post area supervisor on the Duck Creek board, said that two large and two small checks had been received by this district with funds totaling some $34,000 or $35,000 made available.

Equipment bought with this money includes a whirlwind tractor, a land plane, a cattle and weed sprayer, a grass seed drill with a fertilizer attachment, and a grain drill with a fertilizer attachment. This equipment is available to all farmers in the county, not to cooperators alone. Among those present at the meeting were McCrary, Lewis Herron, C. P. Witt of Kaigary, J. A. Barrett of Brownfield and others.

Sunday Car Wreck Ends In DWI Charge in Post

One man was fined for drunkenness and a second was charged with drunk driving as a result of a wreck about 2:30 Sunday afternoon on the Lubbock highway.

Oil News Is Short in Post For this Week

Oil news is short in Garza county this week with one new townsite application, one field location and reports on two deep wells.

Simmons and Strief have filed application for a hearing on the drilling of a well in Unit 21 in the city of Post. Location is in the area behind the Clint Herring residence and behind the Halliburton offices. Murchison Brothers - Brown Brothers originally had a permit to drill in this unit.

In the Dorward field operations have been scheduled to begin at once on the Humble 4-E J. C. Dorward. Location is seven miles southeast of Justiceburg. It is to be a rotary operation to 2600 feet.

According to unofficial reports yesterday, the No. 1 Rex and Ralph Welch well, nine and one-half miles northeast of Post was below 7100 feet Tuesday. It is slated to the Ellenburger. Operators reportedly expected to pick up the Pennsylvania reef around 7200 feet.

The Humble No. 1 Jeff D. Justice, south offset to the discovery well of the Tobe-Strawn pool of southwest Garza was drilling below 3855 feet Tuesday.

HOT WEATHER REDUCES CRIME

Justice of the Peace J. D. King cannot agree with the authors of an article in a national magazine that hot weather breeds crime.

He has had only four cases this week. One was for highway violation with a fine of $25 assessed; a drunk was assessed $1 and two gamblers were fined $1 each. Costs were added to all.

Mill Vacation To Begin June 29

Annual vacation for Postex employees begins next Saturday morning at 7 o'clock, O. G. Murphy, mill manager, announced yesterday.

The vacation will continue until 7 o'clock in the morning July 9. Those who are eligible for a paid vacation will receive that pay June 29, he said.

George Tillman's crew will be busy as usual, overhauling the mill. During the vacation period, the spinning room will be repainted. Ceiling will be white with upper walls light blue and with lower walls or wainscoting darker blue.

"These colors were chosen because they are supposed to be cooler and more restful," Murphy said. "Light reflection was also considered."

Election Is Coming On 2 School Issues

An election will be held soon, Superintendent D. C. Arthur reports, by the Post and Verbena school districts for the resetting of the tax rate and the assumption of bonded indebtedness.

Under the Gilmer - Aiken law, any school district which is dormant for two years automatically becomes part of the district to which it sends its children. Some 15 come from Verbena to Post. Addition of the Verbena district to the Post Independent district increases the area by 128 sections. There are now 305 sections of land in the Post Independent school district.

A new chassis has been received for the Verbena route bus, Arthur says. The old body and chassis were taken to Lubbock Tuesday for the chassis to be installed.

Locally, the board of equalization for school taxes will meet Tuesday at the city hall here.

Three Softball Games Scheduled

Three home games are slated within a week for the Storie Motor company softball team, Monk Gibson, manager, reveals.

Friday night, Post will play a Snyder team in a non-league game. Monday night, a makeup game will be played with O'Donnell here. The game was first rained out. Tuesday night will be a regular game with Grassland.

Last Tuesday night, Southland Square Deal League leaders, belted the locals 10-4. Coach Bing Bingham on the mound and Hugh Ingram behind the plate made up the Storie battery.

Local Men Attend Barbecue at Ranch

Two local men, Alvin Davis and George Samson, attended a barbecue at Sam Arnett's V-8 ranch near Lubbock honoring Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado.

GO SOUTH TO COOL OFF

It has been hot enough to fry the proverbial egg in Post this week but the degree of heat depends on where you are here.

Connell Chevrolet's thermometer showed 101 degrees Monday. W. O. Thaxton's registered 104 degrees. M. E. Collins, who lives in north-east Post, read 112 degrees on his thermometer. All these were in the shade.

Plane Cracks Up On Fluit Property

Mesquite eradicators worked one hour and 45 minutes Monday and had their plane crash while landing on the Hinton Fluit property southeast of town.

Jack Ranger and Dale Young were the crew doing the eradicating. Neither was hurt. Another plane came in just about that time, to resume the work. The plane, belonging to the American Dusting company, was a Stirman.

Five Liquor Raids Are Made Monday Night by Sheriff and LCB Officers

Five liquor raids made in Garza county Monday night by the sheriff's department and the liquor control board netted a haul of 537 cans and bottles of beer, 24 quarts of whiskey, 28 fifths of wine and nine pints of gin.

Sheriff Carl Rains also reported finding eight cases of beer and wine at a vacant house. Two men were charged on possession counts as a result of the raids. They were O. M. Roberts, White-way apartments, charged with possession of beer and liquor, and Odie Fry, northwest Post, charged with possession of beer and liquor. Both charges included for purposes of sale.

Two of the raids proved dry runs, officers said.

Saturday Lynn county officers seized a large cache at a tenant house near Central church, Sam Moore, a 66-year-old Slaton Negro, was fined $500 and costs on a plea of guilty to charges resulting from the raid.

Deputy Sheriff Otis Curry of Lynn said that 106 cases of beer, 142 four-fifths quarts of wine, 119 pints and 96 halfpints of whiskey and three pints of gin were seized at the farmhouse.

Judge Says Hospital Permit Still Awaits

No word had been received by late yesterday on the granting of a federal permit for building the county hospital, Judge H. M. Snowden reveals.

As soon as the permit is received, construction will begin. Contracts were let June 11, amounting to a total of $337,063.

A six man governing board has been nominated by the commissioners court. Only three have accepted as yet, with the others to be contacted. Plans are to have a board member from each precinct and two from the city of Post.

If the six accept, they are to meet Monday at the courthouse to select a chairman and name a business manager.

A GOOD JOB...

Sheriff Carl Rains and his associates, deputies, county attorney and judge, have made a lot of progress in Post during the five and one-half months they have held office.

TIDELANDS ARGUMENTS...

The specious opinion given by Attorney General Howard McGrath on the Tidelands question—that since Texas seceded from the Union during the Civil War, she voided any contract made previously with the federal government merely expresses a moral trend of the times.

Texas in WASHINGTON

By TEX EASLEY, Associated Press Washington Service

WASHINGTON, P — The coastal states, in their fight for control of oil-rich submerged lands, lose possibly their No. 1 advocate in Congress with the resignation from the House of Rep. Ed Gossett of Wichita Falls.

Just who will take over when he leaves for Dallas July 31 to start work as the chief lawyer for the Southwestern Bell Telephone company hasn't been decided.

It probably will be Rep. Francis E. Walter, Pennsylvania Democrat.

Although Walter is now chairman of the House Judiciary subcommittee which handles tidelands legislation, and introduced the pending bill to give the states quit-claim title to the property; it has been Gossett who really has carried the burden of the fight.

Texas Attorney General Price Daniel was among those who wired Gossett when reports circulated that he had the telephone company job under consideration. Daniel pleaded that Gossett reject the proposition because of his value to Texas, Louisiana and California in their fight for ownership of the so-called tidelands.

In that regard, it is known that Gossett announced his acceptance of the new position only after much deliberation and after virtually all of his colleagues had advised him to make the move.

The determining factor, he said, was the fact that he has a wife and five small children.

In a few years he expects to have three of his children in college at the same time.

As a congressman he gets just half the amount he will receive after Aug. 1.

Dallas' Congressman Frank Wilson is on the Judiciary committee and will set up one notch on the seniority ladder when Gossett

ROGER W. BABSON WRITES THIS WEEK

World War III Will Be Delayed Until Winter, or Perhaps Even Indefinitely

NEW YORK CITY, — During the past few days I have talked with some important people here regarding the possibility of World War III — and when it may or may not be expected.

My financial friends insist we have nothing to fear during this summer or early fall. The chief assets of Russia and her satellite nations of Rumania, Czechoslovakia, Poland, etc., are their crops, especially their wheat. Hence, Russia will not start World War III until these crops are gathered, transported, distributed and safely stored.

My military friends go further and explain that Russia will not start World War III until the rivers of eastern Europe freeze over so her supply lines cannot be cut by our airplanes bombing bridges. You will remember that the Chinese invasion of Korea did not occur until the Yalu River froze over; but that now the invasion has pretty much stopped. Broken supply lines are apparently licking the Chinese.

The above means that we have nothing to fear from Russia before winter comes. This coming winter, however, will be a very critical time, especially as the Russians are more accustomed to living, moving and fighting in winter than are the U. S. forces or the Europeans. It is also said that atomic bomb operations can be more effective in winter weather. Russia may start World War III this winter.

The Russians further realize that the United States and the Allies are now arming at a more rapid rate than the Russians can possibly meet. Russia can raise more men than we an our Allies, but Russia cannot produce airplanes, tanks, guns and other war supplies as fast as we can. All of this leads me to believe that, if the Russians do not strike early in 1953, they have decided to forget World War III for some years to come and await further political developments.

Business and investing may remain on a dead center for the next six months or more. There should be no important price changes until the spring of 1952. If Russia has not started War III by that time, there may then be a letdown in business and prices. Certainly, taxes would not be increased further. But, if Russia should strike next winter, taxes are sure to be raised again.

As to general business during the remainder of this year, I look for a lag this summer during the "tooling up" period when industry is switching from peace to war work. This may be accompanied by some unemployment. By fall, however, business should again be good. This uplift should continue throughout the winter whatever Russia decides to do. All skilled workers will be in greater demand, even at higher wages.

Added to the above comments, do not forget that another national election comes next year. If Mr. Truman can go to the voters under the slogan "I kept you out of war," he may have a fair chance of re-election. Therefore, the entire Administration will try to delay World War III until after 1952, which may result in pushing it indefinitely away. Do not sell Mr. Truman "short" yet—especially if the fighting in Korea stops. This does not change the importance of the prediction that this coming winter will be a very critical period.

But, personally, I go further and say "anything can happen during the years ahead, from a devastating War III to world peace and a 'Golden Age.'" This means that the most important program is to so plan our family's education, business and investments that we will be able to get on "some way whatever happens." This is a goal very important to pray and work for this month of June as our young people are now graduating from schools and colleges.

Well, "Father of the Bride" and "Father's Little Dividend" have just about exhausted all the humorous possibilities surrounding weddings and now the Associated Press comes and makes me feel downright dolorous about them.

The first thing they feature on their wedding feature sheet is a "convertible bride." What on earth is a convertible bride? Can you press a button and turn her into a fiberglass fishing rod on a cloudy day? Or can she also be used as a Number 2 iron?

Or does this convertible business mean she has a cash resale value like a bond or something? Maybe in 10 years the government will give back four dollars for every initial three spent on her? Things like this should make a girl think. A man, too.

Note to all toolpushers and roughnecks: This model may be had at Bon Ray Dance Fricks, New York. I would like to hear from all those whose orders are filled.

The kind of bride the modern young man is looking for should come equipped with all extras, such as a car, a house, a refrigerator, stove and bed. It seems to me that the convertible value of such a one would be much higher.

Some brides wear dresses with skirts extending to the floor. Others have ballerina-length skirts which are too long to be short and too short to be long. Just the other Sunday I read where a bride wore a demitasse dress.

When I was young, demitasse referred to a small cup of coffee served after dinner by the elite. Now Eve in her fig leaf would be better than a girl with only an after-dinner coffee cup. Not to mention Lady Godiva. At least she had a horse.

There was not a picture of this demitasse outfit, as I recall. The idea still puzzles me. I can hardly see the bride appearing in a cup and saucer. It sounds more like a bachelor dinner to me.

Another thing is that penny in the shoe business. It seems to me it would take enough courage to stride down that aisle without the further hindrance of having a penny in your shoe, hurting your foot.

I saw a picture of a bride with gloves. Now the poor old nervous bridegroom has enough to do with getting the ring on her finger, not to mention struggling with tight gloves. Or maybe the bride hands her bouquet to the maid of honor, tugs her left glove off herself while the minister is exhorting her prospective husband and then sticks out her pinky for the fatal band.

I recently read a wedding story that was supposed to be cute about how the bride's dress was as expensive as her old man could afford and the bridegroom was dressed in a new navy blue suit bought for $5 down at the local emporium and so forth. Really, I decided I liked the sleeves extending in petal points over the hands and the fingertip illusion veil type better.

The altar is generally flanked with candelabra holding tall tapers and banked with gladioli. Sometimes it is improvised. I think an improvised altar would be especially suitable for a convertible bride. The bride's mother is always choosing a dress of lace, either rose or navy.

I suppose there is a rack of dresses out in the vestibule and she takes her choice, probably

Our Contemporaries Are Saying:

Floydada Organizes Posse: Thirty-five riders Monday night organized the Floyd county Sheriff's Posse, with Sheriff Leland A. Hart as their president. Hart estimates that many riders are likely to want to become members. Last week he estimated that the organization might boast a membership of 85 or more.

Speaking of Crying on Shoulders: The Canyon News publisher had the opportunity to make a classification talk the other day. Perhaps we did a lot of crying about conditions over which we had no control. The same situation exists in every line of business; in every trade; and every profession. We all have our troubles. Every one of us think, perhaps that our load of troubles are about the biggest of any in the universe. Perhaps a lot of us are too easily discouraged and think that we are getting trampled upon. At least, we offer this suggestion: When you get worn out and tired to a frazzle, just come around to the News office and cry on our shoulders. We can give plenty of reasons for suggesting that you reciprocate by allowing us to cry on your shoulder for a change.

To Discuss Hospital Changes: Architects, the board of commissioners, and the hospital board for the City of Spur hospital, will meet at 7:30 Tuesday night for the purpose of discussing marked down from $9.98 if the bride's dress is very flossy. The bridegroom's mother comes in for more notice than he does himself in the publicity and for all publishable purposes, he has been fatherless since childhood.

If the father of the bride thinks he is a forgotten man, pity the father of the bridegroom. The former does get to participate. The latter merely makes his son legitimate and perhaps shakes a few hands at the reception.

Men's clubs are always putting on womanless weddings as a sort of joke, but I think it is really a protest. Most weddings are manless affairs, in reality. The preacher could be referred to as only a catalytic agent and the poor whimpering bridegroom is just a necessary evil.

The wedding cake always sounds the same, in writeups. It is usually a three-tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. I just read in the paper where the cost averages from $6 to $75. One even cost $450.

In "Lil Abner" I think it is the two dollar wedding in which Marrylin Sam sets fire to himself and jumps off a cliff singing "Rule Britannia" or something similar. The dollar wedding is much quieter but I do like to see a good show.

I notice lately the Wolf Gal is trying to marry up wif a fat boy. She's proving to Mammy Yoakum she has a tender heart. It is probably "Lil Abner" that has brought weddings into such disrepute. He is always saved by the bell. Such characters as Sloberlips McJabb and Hairless Joe always get the girls, if one could call them that.

Well, turn on over to the society page. I bet the bride wore a traditional wedding gown of white slipper satin with a fingertip illusion veil and so forth. Just keep the type set up, boys.

ing and making changes on the planned construction. The group will meet in City Hall, where the plans will be on display. David S. Castle Company of Abilene is presenting the plans.

Can't Get Used to Tornadoes: Mrs. Ollie Jordan, formerly of Ralls, just can't get used to having her home destroyed by tornadoes. She lost one home in the storm that struck Higgins a couple of year ago. Last week her home at White Deer was almost wrecked in another tornado. Most of her furniture and clothing was saved, and she plans to repair the damaged home. Mrs. Jordan reached the storm cellar just before the tornado struck her home.

Farmers Plan For Future: The Terry County Farmers Association will meet in the District Court room at 8 o'clock tonight. They'll organize and plan getting the more than 1,000 Mexican National laborers up here from Mexico. All members should be on hand, according to County Judge Homer Winston.

Troop 108 Goes to Camp Post this week with 16 for Next

Troop 108 of Post is this week at Camp Post, which annually during the summer months plays host to boy scouts from the South Plains area. Troop 108 begins the sacred council fire in the morning, after boys, who come by train, have checked in at headquarters on Sunday evening, a ceremonial fire is held, after which they are taken to Camp Post for their first night in camp. Activities are open to all boys and girls, and one-half miles southwest of Post at the headquarters of the old Llano ranch. Campsite was presented to the South Plains council by the Post Estate in 1926. Development was slow for years until two wells were drilled on the caprock, providing ample water for future development.

A building program is now underway. The camp ranger's house was the first house completed. Also new this year is the trading post and storehouse. The Post Estate provided funds for building the camp ranger's home. Scouts who attended Jamboree at Valley Forge last year gave their refund and area Rotary clubs joined them to build the trading post-storehouse.

New Mess Hall Needed
Lubbock Jaycees are working on a project to get area Lions clubs to provide funds for a new mess hall which will be located west of the swimming pool. Doctors in the area are to build the camp hospital; a five room house with a doctor's office, two bedrooms, isolation ward and reception room. These two buildings are next on the program.

Historically Rich
Camp Post is rich in historical interest of the area. Scouts learn much local history when they are learning the history of Camp Post. On the trail from the swimming pool toward the mess hall is the grave of the first white child born in Garza county. Plans are to reple the rocks on the grave and put up a marker.

An original part of Camp Post was the old Llano ranchhouse, a two-story edifice built in 1884. It later burned.

An Indian trail leads from the ranchhouse site to the Indian council ring. The ring was constructed by scouts of rocks brought from a nearby canyon by hand. In the center is a rock altar, which holds the council fire. It is circular in shape.

The council ring is sacred and no scout walks on it during a hike or loiters there unnecessarily. It is used for the Sunday morning church service. The site was chosen because it is between two bluffs. On one, the scouts have built stone seats for their parents or other visitors to the council fires. On the other bluff, the Order of the Arrow appears with a flaming arrow and comes down to the council fire to choose new members.

Harvest Dance
Among the dances presented are the harvest dance; the snake dance, which is a prayer of thanksgiving to the Great Spirit for providing enough rattlesnakes for the Indians to poison their arrows and which resembles a snake coiling and rattling; the Cheyenne tomahawk dance, the Hopi rain dance (which, incidentally was given before last week's rains fell, and was stopped by a driving rain Friday night), which uses live snakes; the Apache devil dance and the Sioux war dance.

Log steps are made by scouts on difficult places on the trails. Many of the trails are said to be old Indian trails.

Camp Post is an ideal spot for the nature program requirements. Chief Runkles points out. Eleven different native trees can be found there. Nature study requirements are for first year boys and include identification of trees, shrubs and wildlife.

A leather string is worn by each camper with a different color bead for each year he attended camp. Beads are awarded Friday at lunch and nature requirements must be met to get the first one.

Boys are encouraged to wear their uniforms only at retreat when the flag is lowered. Their day begins at 7:15 o'clock in the morning with the first call and the flag ceremony.

Trading Post
The trading post is a concrete building, stuccoed on the outside. It is operated by Explorer scouts. Two work in the store and one in the warehouse. The store has the usual candy and soft drinks, as well as needs for handcraft work and costumes. In the store-room are staple groceries and one of the three refrigerator boxes, as well as surplus steel cots and mattresses.

The steel cots and mattresses will go in the winter lodges as permanent fixtures when the lodges are built. Food served the scouts is all nationally advertised brands, the best that can be bought. A drinking fountain is on the shady front porch of the trading post, which faces south.

Chief Runkles says that now some 50 per cent of the boys return to camp the second year. Charge to the individual boy is $11, the same charge that was made in 1938. The chief thinks that a private camp with comparable facilities would charge $45 to $50.

The first road up the cap is on the campsite. It is now washed out in spots. A bridge to the demonstration area is built by pioneer methods. Each week the bridge is torn up and the new group of scouts builds it over. It is an engineering feat.

Plait Ropes
Raymond Lupfer is in charge of this area. Boys here learn to plait ropes from baregrass or yucca to make fishing line or strong cord or whatever they might need. They learn to splice ropes together to repair broken ones or to put a head on a single rope to slip over a tent peg. In this area, boys learn outdoor cooking and camp sanitation. They come by troops. Dishes are washed in hot soapy water, placed in onion sacks and dipped in boiling water, then put in a cloth sack and hung up to dry.

They are not taken down until the next meal. Two holes are dug at the beginning of the camp. One is for cans, the other for water disposal.

The cans are first burned, so that no food is left in them. Then they are flattened and dropped in the hole. The hole is not filled in until camp ends. The dishwasher hole is first lined with rocks, then covered with sticks and grass. This filters out the grease and the water soaks into the ground, Lupfer says.

Cooking in dutch ovens is emphasized using three of the four methods of cooking, stewing, frying and baking. Pie, biscuits, cornbread and stew can be cooked in the dutch oven. Broiling can be done directly over the coals, Lupfer tells scouts.

Purify Water
He also teaches the scouts that no water is pure until it has been purified. A spring comes out near the demonstration area. Scouts are encouraged to use two halozone tablets to each quart canteen of water to purify it. The water sets a half-hour and then it is as pure as chlorinated city water. The creek running through this part of camp and the spring come from Pawnee canyon.

Another thing scout leaders urge all scouts to carry is a rubber rattlesnake kit. It contains a shap knife, a vial of liquid and a rubber suction cup for drawing out the poison. No scout has ever been bit by a rattler and the chief thinks it is because their cautioning program is so impressive.

The camp contains some 400 acres and usually 18 rattlers are killed each season before they all appear to be wiped out.

Dinner is served in the mess hall at 12 o'clock. Boys on the junior staff help serve. Each table appoints a different boy to do KP at each meal. He rakes off the sectional tin plates, dumps out the scraps, carries the plates to the dishwasher and cleans up the table.

The head chef of the Hilton hotel at Plainview each year takes his vacation and cooks for the scout camp. He is affectionately known as "Jabbo." An excellent cook, he is also a great-grandfather. Chief Runkles reveals. Four field telephones are in use at the camp. Two are in the mess hall and one is at the trading post and the fourth at headquarters.

Mess Call
Scott Couch of Levelland served as bugler Friday, sounding mess call for a typical meal. Menu included brown beans, spaghetti and meatballs, vegetable salad, cornbread, tea and jello. Scouts file in through two doors and are served.

After most have finished eating, there is mail call. At least one boy gets a letter every day. Awards are made and announcements are given. Curt Wilcox, son-in-law of E. E. Pierce of Post and marksmanship instructor, leads the entire group in singing. He is a ministerial student.

Camp sites are scattered throughout the area. Camp regulations require the use of cots and this is observed in the two-man and four-man tents, but the troops that bring pup tents must sleep on a ground cloth on the ground.

Troop 40 from Levelland has its own dynamo and strings up electric lights around its campsite. Most troops usually put up their tents, hang up camp gadgets and troop and American flags. Space is left to hang up wet bathing suits and other laundry. Nine troops were at Camp Post last week.

Hot Water Shower
This year, hot water showers have been installed, an innovation. Six hydrants are outside the shower house with troughs for the boys to wash up in. A butane heater is used for hot water. Another thing the camp needs, Chief Runkles says, is a 100,000 gallon camp reservoir. The present one holds 16,000 gallons. Connections to the swimming pool bypass the reservoir and it is filled directly from the wells.

If any boy is injured, he stops at headquarters for first aid. If the injury is serious, he is brought into town to the doctor. The outside telephone to town is at the headquarters building, as well as offices for camp officials and sleeping quarters for the junior staff.

Archery is also taught, as well as marksmanship. Hikes are popular during free time. Camp ends Friday night at the council fire, although scouts do not go home until Saturday afternoon. Cubs and dads take over the site on Saturday nights and Sundays. Troop 16 of Post goes next week.

John S. Boren Came Here from Central Texas 61 Years Ago

John S. Boren was reared in Texas on a farm near Bell county, coming about the time he was 61 years ago. Boren says, "I don't remember the time I was grown up, but I wanted to work on a farm and be a real cowboy instead of a farmer." Long lived at Sweetwater and had a ranch, then, and Mrs. Long was related to the Borens. So young John brought his saddle and came up on the train, asking for a job at the OS ranch. Long asked him if he could rustle horses and he said he thought so. Long told Boren they would begin work May 10 or 15. This was in the spring of 1890. "He told me to get me a pair of blankets and we would go out there; he said his bed was there and we could sleep together." Boren remembers.

Made Road Map
Long talked to the man and made a road map for him. When the two started on, he told Boren they surely had a hard bunch of horses. He said he did not see a horse that would carry him a half day. The little ponies were poor and had not shed off. Many had sores on their backs.

"We didn't come through Snyder," Boren recalls. "When we got near where Dermott is, we came to a house on Deep Creek where there are some trees. He said to me that we would stay there for the night. There was a man there that he seemed to know."

That night a big rain came and the next day when they got to the river, it was running lots of red water. "It looked sort of scary to me," Boren admits. Long told him to follow him and they went out something in the direction the road now runs. Long rode out on a point where Oscar Kelly's old house is and said that he saw the wagons camped at the Cedar pens where the OS ranchhouse now stands.

Frank Long had already come up and had the men ready to go to work. As Boren remembers, some of those were Doc Knox, Ed Scott, Hiram and Lock Nunn, and Dick Burks.

No Herd Pasture
"They didn't have any herd pasture at that time," Boren says. "We would herd cattle all day, then stand guard at night."

They gathered a herd of cows and young calves and drove them down to Colorado City where they were shipped to Oklahoma. "I guess I didn't make a very good horse rustler as he didn't ask me to go back with him," Boren says. "So I went over in Fisher county and stayed with an uncle, where I did odd jobs."

When he heard that the 18 outfit was going to work, Boren went over and asked the foreman, Bob White, for a job. "He gave me work," says Boren, "and when we got the yearlings gathered, he got me to drive the wagon over to Sweetwater where he loaded it with groceries for the trail. While we were in Sweetwater, he hired a Mexican to cook on the trail."

Andy Scott, Ed Scott's uncle, drove the herd. He was an old-time cowhand and a real worker, Boren says. Others on the drive were a boy by the name of Flowers, Oscar Kelly, a man named Colter and a Negro named Henderson, along with two or three others whose names the old-timer could not remember.

"When we got over here to go in the Spur pasture, there was a man at the gate who didn't want the herd to go through," Boren remembers. "So Mr. Scott talked with him and went out from the gate and tied the fence down. When he came back, he said for us to drive the herd over the fence. The Spur man rode right in front and tried to turn them back, but we went on in the pasture."

Bells on Horses
"Mr. Scott had me on last guard," Boren continues, "with him. When the herd was quiet, he would go around to the horses and turn them back toward the wagon. He had two or three little bells on them so he could find them."

He would wake the cook up early, Boren remembers, but he finally said, "I can't keep that Mexican any longer; he is too filthy. He doesn't wash his hands."

Sure enough, one morning he told the Mexican he was done, Boren states, and they loaded their beds on the wagon and appointed the Negro to drive the wagon and do the cooking.

"We left the poor old Mexican there, sitting on his bedroll," Boren says, "out in the middle of the Spur pasture. I have wondered what he ever did. At that time it was all-pasture land and not many houses."

Andy Long owned a ranch in Fisher county, Boren says, and would buy up some yearlings in the fall and winter them there, then drive up here to the OS ranch and put them in with the OS yearlings. Then the whole herd was driven to Amarillo to sell.

"I worked down there quite a bit," says Boren, "and came up here one spring to drive the wagon and do the cooking. When I crossed Grape creek, I turned the wagon over or up on one side and spilled out my sour dough making a mess of things. My biscuits weren't very fluffy that day."

No Water on Plains
"I was glad when we got to the OS ranch," Boren continues, "as they had a good cook. A man by the name of Latty from Colorado City drove the herd to Amarillo. When we got out on the plains, it was dry with no water in the lakes. We drove all day with no water for the herd."

"That night," he recalls, "they would not lie down but kept walking. So Mr. Latty said we had just as well be driving. He said he was going down in the JA pasture in the breaks where there was water. We got them on the water at about 12 o'clock at night."

The herd lay over there a day or two, Boren says. The cattle got full of water. A few poor ones that were crippled were left there.

"My brother and I had a leased pasture down in Fisher county and I tried batching there two or three years. I had a few cows and wild ponies. Later on when the school land was put on the market in Garza county, my two brothers and I came up here and filed on four sections each."

That fall Boren married a school teacher, Miss Kate Bunker, who died in 1931. The couple had no children.

Did Not Want Dugout
"I didn't want my wife to live in a dugout," Boren says, "so I sold one of my sections and built a small house. I hauled part of the lumber from Sweetwater on a wagon — it took four or five days to make the trip."

Boren has lived in that same location ever since.

"When the school land began to come on the market, Garza county commenced to settle up," Boren says, "and when C. W. Post bought the Llano ranchland and commenced to sell it out, and the railroad was building, and the county was organized, things changed pretty fast."

"I have seen some good rainy years," Boren concludes, "and more dry years than wet ones. I have been wondering what kind

We Still Have Many SPECIAL BUYS In Hats And Dresses

Buick's newest engine—the F-263 Fireball—gives this year's SPECIAL the highest power in SPECIAL history

Remember—only BUICK has a FIREBALL ENGINE

WE get a chuckle, sometimes, over all the fuss that's being made about "new engines."

You'll note that the key feature of their design in every case is the valve-in-head principle—whether these engines are already in production or still in the dream stage.

Fact is, it takes this design to get the most from "high compression"—and how high you can go depends upon the available fuel. Using this design, wartime aircraft engines operated on 100 octane gasoline.

It also takes this design to get the more-miles-per-gallon which folks like in an automobile.

So what gives us a chuckle is this: No other type of engine has ever been used in a Buick—which means that Buick owners, all along, have been getting a lot of things that others have just "discovered."

When you come to check the field you'll find that there's a sweet freedom from roughness to this engine's operation—tracing to the fact that the whole mechanism itself is engineered smooth, and the further fact that every Fireball Engine gets a Micropoise balancing after assembly.

But that's not all. They get something more—vastly more—because today's Fireball Engine has one standout feature found in no other automobile. That name "Fireball" isn't just a trick word. It describes what happens in this engine. Inrushing fuel rolls into a swirling ball of gasoline vapor compacted around the spark plug. And when the fat spark sets it off, a cyclone of power lets go.

Of course, a Fireball Engine, being a valve-in-head, keeps pace with high-test fuel, when it comes to "high compression."

But what's more important in the present state of the world is this: A Fireball Engine is designed to handle the not-so-high-test fuel we may be getting in the not-too-distant future.

So, if you want to sample all that's fine in motorcar engines, your Buick dealer is the man to see. Come in soon, and find out what the rest of the world has been missing.

Equipment, accessories, trim and model are subject to change without notice.

Sue Stephens Tells Of District 4-H Camp Last Week

Sue Stephens was one of eight Garza county girls attending the Dist. 2 4-H camp in Lubbock last week. She was a recreation leader.

Her story follows:

"On June 12 our HD agent, Mrs. Jewell Strasser and adult leader, Mrs. Theibert McBride and eight 4-H club girls from Garza county registered at the fairgrounds where more than 160 agents, adult leaders and club girls started the fourth annual district 4-H camp.

joyed it more this year as I was looking forward to the trip since I learned so much there last year.

"Miss Grindstaff was chairman of recreation. I was one of the recreation leaders who helped teach the other girls. We were taught five different activities: crafts, your personality, mind your manners, newswriting and recreation.

"We could go swimming two mornings. Mrs. O. P. Guthrie was our camp nurse. We had lots of good food. I helped serve meals two times and worked at the concessions stand several times.

"I want to say thanks to everyone who made my trip to camp possible."

 Ue-jacket in black gabardine (That for me!)

Grays appeared in light-to-dark range, too; the darkest appearing in a gunmetal poodle cloth bolero by Vogue, which stepped along the runway as proudly as its companion — a real French poodle.

Quality fabrics in wide variety distinguished the basically simple, consistently wearable styling of the Texas-made back to school fashions.

Here the stars were the pile fabrics, the supple and soft suede cloth, the wools and the synthetics which fool the eye and the touch with their wool-like characteristics.

Corduroy, perennial campus favorite, took on new sophistication in glossy black and smart styling in Nardis' dinner suit, its clean-cut, flattering lines the background for two giant fake diamond buttons. It approached amazingly the elegance of black velvet in Nardis' black beaded cocktail suit, shown under a pyramid coat, high buttoned to a little collar, in orange velvet.

Rayon looked like it came right off the sheep's back in a tweedy gold and brown mixture used in Shari's jacket which contrasted with a solid color skirt. Flannels really were all wool as were the jerseys shown.

As for the shape of things to come, Dallas fashion crystal ball showed both full and slim silhouettes. The full skirt was often controlled with knife pleating. Straight and narrow or soft and full, the silhouette carries femininity as its keynote and accents its charm in little touches.

The "little things" not only make fashions, but fashions are made for the little things. Designers have adapted many of the fashion trends to small fry apparel. The convertible theme got a hand when Prissy-Missy little red bird models showed how a tot can change from play to party mood by switching red and white checked gingham pinafores for dainty organdy ones over the same underdress.

Texas made clothes now rank along with those manufactured in California and New York. With Texas manufacturers, designers and business men working together you're getting top-draw products. Shop for Texas-made clothes up and down Main.

Another highlight of the convention for your roving reporter was meeting tiny Jean MacArthur. The sparkling brown-eyed Jean captured the hearts of all the femmes and fellows who met her at a press breakfast Saturday morning. She has personality-plus and was pretty as a picture in an orchid and black printed satin dress, black velvet

Three Girls, Two Boys, Agents, Leader Attend Annual 4-H Roundup Next Week

Mrs. Jewell Strasner, Mrs. Hardie Smith, Sybil Smith, Janice Lobban and La Vern Furr plan to leave this weekend for the annual 4-H roundup at College Station next week.

L. C. Herron, county agriculture agent, is accompanying Ned Myers and Charles Chandler, boys' delegates to the roundup.

District 2 is sending a chartered bus for delegates from this area. Mrs. Strasner will remain through the week to attend an agents' meeting.

She will meet Sunday with the Texas 4-H council, serving as counselor. At 8 o'clock Sunday night, evensong will be held in the grove.

Each day starts with breakfast at 6:30 o'clock in the morning. Monday the agent will meet again with the state council of delegates to the 4-H congress in Chicago for a planning session. The recreation center will be open for those who are not in this meeting.

Mrs. Strasner wants the girls to see the demonstrations on dairy food, shrub identification and vegetables in order to choose local demonstrations for next year.

That night there will be an around-the-world 4-H party, in keeping with the theme of world understanding. An open house for adult leaders will be held in the home of Chancellor and Mrs. Gibb Gilchrist.

Tuesday is the regular opening day of the roundup. Dr. M. T. Harrington, new Texas A&M president, will make the main address. Personnel of the college will be introduced. Award winners will be announced during the morning and afternoon sessions.

Sybil Smith is Garza county's entrant in the dress revue contest Tuesday night. Junior leadership groups of the 14 districts will be held to work with exchange students. George Foster, southern 4-H field leader, will speak on "Planning for World Understanding." A banquet for the adult leaders will be held at 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

Wednesday evening there will be a banquet for Epsilon Sigma Alpha members, those who have been in 4-H work for 10 years or more. Mrs. Strasner's group will give a program on "Understanding through 4-H Experiences," concerning national and international delegates. A leadership meeting will be held on "Sharing for World Understanding."

The agents' convention will begin Thursday, with the 4-H delegates and sponsors returning home that day. Dr. Ethel J. Alpenfels of New York university will speak on "From Adam to Atom." The home demonstration agents will have a joint banquet with country agricultural agents who are meeting at the same time, Thursday night.

Judge Otho Dent of Littlefield, president of the state County Judges association will speak Friday morning. Gilchrist will discuss "Foundations that Last." H. H. Williams, retired, of the Texas Extension service will discuss "Forty Years with the Extension Service."

H. C. Sanders will have the main concluding address. His subject is "Extension Facing the Fifties." He is director of extension service at Louisiana State university.

Carter Gene White Will Go On 4-H Talent Trip to Utah

CARTER GENE WHITE

Carter Gene White, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. White, is one of Garza county's two talent trip winners in 4-H work this year. Sybil Smith is the other winner.

The trip is sponsored by the extension service in cooperation with the Producers Grain corporation in Amarillo. Taylor Cook of Post is a director. White won the trip on his record. It begins Aug. 23 and will take the group of youngsters participating to Utah for a cooperative meeting.

White started his club work in 1940. His first project was a grade Jersey heifer and he has steadily built his dairy herd until he now owns five registered Jersey cows, one registered Jersey bull and three registered Jersey calves. L. C. Herron, Garza county agriculture agent, reports.

Part of this herd has been exhibited in the Garza county fair, Lamesa fair, Lynn county fair, Panhandle South Plains fair and the Fort Worth Fat Stock show. White was given the bull by the Diamond C. Jersey farms because of his interest in livestock and his 4-H record. It placed second in the Fort Worth show in 1950.

White received a gilt in the Sears Foundation program and won the county show with it. Since that time, he has carried registered swine as a 4-H project. Now he has two registered Duroc sows and is feeding 10 pigs for the commercial market.

Farming and livestock are White's main interests. He has carried on cotton, grain sorghum, sudan, poultry and beef cattle demonstrations in his clubwork. From a start of six acres of cotton, he has increased his plantings to 75 acres slated for the stormproof type.

In 1948, he won the Anderson-Clayton and company Cotton Scholarship contest. His grain sorghum acreage has increased from 10 acres of maize and 20 acres of higrira. This is used mainly for feed.

White started his club feeding with one calf. Since that time, he has fed and exhibited 29 calves. Learning the importance of good breeding in beef cattle through his feeding program, he now owns two registered Hereford cows, 10 registered Hereford heifers and a registered Hereford bull. To complete his livestock program, he owns three registered Quarterhorses.

White has a long list of other 4-H accomplishments. They include the junior district rifle champion, county showmanship winner, district 4-H rifle team member, high individual in rifle contest in 1948 and 1949, state roundup trip winner, Santa Fe award winner, first place district plant identification contest, gold star winner, county leadership winner, Wilson meat animal award winner, president and vice president of Dist. 2 4-H clubs, high school favorite and national 4-H camp winner.

White has also been a cotton insect reporter, a member of the 4-H grass judging, cattle control demonstration, food for victory and dairy cattle judging teams.

His ability as a leader and his interest in the younger 4-H club members has caused him to be elected president of the Garza county 4-H club council and general superintendent of the Garza county 4-H club fair and spring livestock shows," says Herron. "Carter Gene White would be a credit to any 4-H group representing his community, county, area or state.

Four Garza Women Participate in Test Concerning Altitude and Sponge Cake

Four Garza county women are working with home demonstration women throughout the district on a demonstration to determine the influence of altitude on three types of sponge cakes.

Included is a basic recipe suitable for an altitude of 3200 feet. Local women participating are Mrs. Sid Cross, Mrs. C. M. Voss, Mrs. J. W. Long and Mrs. J. C. Fumagalli. The demonstration is under the direction of Dr. Mina W. Lamb and Fay Hattox of the department of foods and nutrition, home economics division, Texas Technological college. Miss Frances Reasonover and Miss Kate Adele Hill of the extension service.

Mrs. Jewell Strasner, county HD agent, is directing the local experiment. She says, "Increased altitude influences leavened flour mixtures by reducing the atmospheric pressure upon the surface of the rising mixture so that a product of greater volume results than with an atmospheric pressure characteristic of sea level.

"The volume may increase to such an extent that the framework of the mixture breaks and the product collapses. The effect of the reduced atmospheric pressure can be compensated for by reducing the amount of the leavening agent or increasing the strength of the framework of the mixture."

She explains that the framework of the mixture can be strengthened by one or a combination of ways. First is increased manipulation to develop the protein in the flour to strengthen the framework. Second is increased egg content to supply more protein for the framework. Third is reduced sugar and/or fat (which weaken the protein strands in the framework of a mixture) and hence their reduction strengthens the mixture.

Mrs. Strasner points out that sponge cakes offer a special problem because they are leavened only by air incorporated by manipulations of egg-whites, yolks or whole eggs. The leavening, therefore, cannot be reduced.

The adjustment has to come, she says, in the proportions of ingredients and their manipulations. These proportions have to be carefully balanced not only among the various ingredients, but also in relation to the method and extent of manipulation.

Mrs. Strasner has some further suggestions for the success of proved in this demonstration. They include measuring eggs and using them by the amount, rather than the number; baking of flower mixtures at higher temperatures than recommended for sea level; and a method of manipulation that would best incorporate the ingredients without the loss of air.

"For baking in general, an increase of two to three degrees Fahrenheit for each 1000 feet rise in altitude," Mrs. Strasner suggests. "Sponge cakes were found best when baked in an oven at 375 degrees at an altitude of 3200 feet. This is in line with the recent trend to bake sponge cakes at sea level at 350 degrees Fahrenheit, rather than lower temperature."

Mrs. Strasner reveals that cakes tested were made with fresh eggs refrigerated from one to three days, from hens on a carefully balanced laying diet. All cakes were made with cake flour, fine granular sugar and uniform equipment.

Each type of cake was made with only one operator doing the manipulation. They were baked in regular kitchen ovens which had been checked for uniformity of temperature. Each cake baked was judged by three judges and carefully analyzed.

In another issue of the paper, Mrs. Strasner will give the conclusions reached concerning three types of sponge cakes, as well as tested recipes.
