

City mail delivery service finally approved for Post

By CHARLES DIDWAY
The third time has proved a charm in efforts to get city mail delivery service in Post.

Postmaster Harold Voss was officially informed Saturday that establishment of city mail delivery has been approved by the Post Office Department.

The long-awaited "good news" came in the form of a letter from L. Pearce of Dallas, postal installations manager.

Voss said today that the mail deliveries can be expected to start "from 60 to 90 days."

The approval came as the result of a survey conducted here during the latter part of March and all of April, in which 650 questionnaires on whether or not city mail delivery was wanted were filled in and returned to the post office.

Of these 650 questionnaires, only six were opposed to city delivery, the postmaster said.

The first efforts to secure city mail delivery were made about 10 years ago before the post office moved to its present location, Voss said.

Three years ago, another try was made, but failed when an insufficient number of patrons showed an interest in the proposal.

The Post Chamber of Commerce has lent its support to all three attempts to get city mail delivery established and has been especially active on the one begun last March.

Postmaster Voss said today that "it had just reached the point where we had to have city delivery to take care of the post office's increasing volume of business."

House numbers, street signs and mail receptacles are the three main requirements of the establishment of mail service after a town has qualified for it, Voss pointed out.

Most of the house numbers as the result of a Post Lions Club project a few years ago, and the City of Post erected street signs in 1955 following a re-mapping of the city and re-naming of the streets.

Patrons wanting mail delivered to their homes after the service is inaugurated here will be required to put up house numbers if they do not already have one and will also be required to put up mail receptacles.

Already, one Post store is advertising in today's Dispatch the sale of mail receptacles after receiving word of the city mail delivery approval.

The postmaster also asks that patrons wanting mail delivery come to the post office and leave their names and addresses.

"It is necessary that we know who wants their mail delivered and the address to which they want it delivered," Voss said.

The postmaster said the inauguration of the city delivery service will give the post office three additional employees.

"There actually will be four employees engaged in the delivery

The "big story" in today's Dispatch is of course the long awaited announcement of residential and business district mail delivery for Post. This is another big stride toward in community progress.

For residents who can now look forward to mail deliveries it calls for some real neighborhood cooperation with your postal staff. Postmaster Harold Voss and his helpers will need your help in getting the conversion made. It means getting those house numbers on those mail boxes up. Let's do our part to prepare for mail delivery and do it well in advance to avoid all the last minute difficulties which could plague the post-workers in shifting into a new method of mail distribution.

For those who haven't had the opportunity to visit the lush Rio Grande valley lately, this is to report that the development boom on down there with towns starting to run into each other just like they do in California. We returned Sunday from the 80th annual Texas Press Association convention in Brownsville and in three days of valley looking were marred at the bumper crops — from cotton to oranges to tourists.

McAllen has taken over from Brownsville as the valley's fastest growing city. It's sprouting brick genes by the block. Down there householder has no trouble growing a yard full of blanket grass — it exactly pretty but certainly not as thick. You can have an orange tree in your own backyard and all you have to do for watering is to get signed up by the irrigation district and mound up the edges of your yard for water flooding. They send the water down the alley every two or three months.

The "farm factories" of the valley are something to see. Scheduled around the clock, and around the year, they yield crop after crop — it's cotton time right now — the first bale already in — what's more they don't want to rain on their farm factories. They'd rather use irrigation water when they want it and not get into wet delays.

But what took our eye were the possibilities of fabulous Padre Island which runs some 110 miles up the coast all the way from below Brownsville to Corpus. With the building of the causeway to the island from Port Isabel in 1954, the development of that end of the island shifted into high gear. Today there are six modern motels at Padre Beach, a development at the other end of the sandy isle. (See POSTINGS on page 8)

Entry deadline extended

'Miss Post' to be selected Monday

Six entries from five different communities were announced today for the Post Beauty Pageant to be held Monday night on the Tower Theatre stage.

More entries were promised, with the deadline for contestants extended from Tuesday to Friday night.

Kim Pierce is the only Post entry to date in the contest to select a Miss Post for entry in the Miss Texas Beauty Pageant later in July at Beaumont.

Other announced entries are Jan Thomas of Route 1, Tahoka, Sue Evans and Kay Castleberry, both of Slaton, Carol Beaird of Lamesa, and Dana Scarborough of Snyder.

AREA ENTRANTS have been sought as the Post beauty pageant is the only one being held for the High Plains area this year with the exception of Lubbock, which confined its own pageant to contestants from Lubbock and Texas Tech.

Sponsoring Radio Station KUKO of Post also announced that Miss Seymour (Giva Howe) and Miss Lubbock (Jane Cone) both of whom already have won their way into the Texas Beauty Pageant have accepted invitations to attend the local pageant and will be introduced from the theater stage.

Bernie Howell, well known area organizer who has his own program over TV station KCBT will play on the pageant program.

The pageant is open to girls 18 and over who are unmarried and high school graduates.

The pageant Monday night is expected to start about 8:30 p. m. and will follow the regular showing of the Tower's movie feature, "The Young Philadelphians." It is expected to take about an hour with contestants appearing in both bathing suits and formal and then being interviewed by the master of ceremonies. The talent division of the contest is planned for 5 p. m. Monday to speed the pageant program at the theater.

Two pleas entered on liquor charges

One plea of guilty and one plea of not guilty were entered in county court Saturday on liquor law violations charges.

John H. Smith was fined $100 and costs by County Judge J. E. Parker after pleading guilty to unlawful possession of whisky, wine and beer for purpose of sale.

Nathaniel Wilson, hauled into court on an identical charge, pleaded not guilty. His bond was set at $750 by Judge Parker.

The complaints in both cases were signed by City Marshal Otis G. Shepherd Jr.

Smith and Wilson were arrested early Saturday by Shepherd and Deputy J. W. Floyd in an automobile at the southeast edge of Post. The car contained 73 lugs and six cases of beer, four lugs of wine and six lugs of whisky.

On 56-acre tract here

Housing project, motel plans told

A 56-acre tract north of Post on US-84 will be brought into the city, a large new housing project launched, and a 25-unit motel built — if the city will provide water for the area.

This was announced today by Sid Cross.

He explained that he is planning a 50-acre housing development and that the six-acre former drive-in theater site would serve as the site for a modern 25-unit motel with swimming pool.

Cross said Edsel Cross and E. R. (Buster) Moreland would be

Stage set for annual rodeo

With new dates and a new director, the annual Post Stampede Rodeo will open at 8 o'clock Wednesday night for a four-night run.

Preceding the rodeo's grand entry by two hours will be the traditional street parade, which will include area riding groups, floats and commercial vehicles and rodeo dignitaries.

The parade will begin forming about 5 o'clock on the farm-to-market road between the high school and junior high buildings. The procession will get under way at 6 o'clock, marching east on the Tahoka highway to Broadway, north on Broadway to Main, east on Main to near the railroad crossing and back up Main to the courthouse.

FIRST, SECOND and third place trophies will be awarded the winning riding groups, of which there is expected to be at least five. Cash prizes of $25, $15, and $10 will be paid for the first, second and third place floats, according to Harold Lucas, parade chairman.

The rodeo office will open Monday in the Chamber of Commerce building on Main Street, according to Harold Voss, secretary of Post Stampede, Inc. He said a telephone is being installed and that rodeo supplies are expected to be on hand when the office opens Monday.

This year's rodeo was scheduled for the July dates after having been held late in May for the last 10 years. It appeared this week, however, that the rodeo director's reason for changing the dates — more stable weather — might backfire.

THE RODEO'S new producer is L. D. Ward of Trinidad, Colo., whose contract also includes furnishing an announcer and a clown for the event. The Post rodeo will be Ward's first venture this far south. He has produced rodeos at Amarillo — he's there this week — and at other places in the Panhandle.

Ward was signed as producer following the retirement of veteran rodeo producer Goat Mayo of Petrolia, who had staged the rodeo here for more than 15 years.

Steer wrestling has been added as a new event at this year's show. Other contests will be in bareback bronc riding, calf roping, saddle bronc riding, ribbon roping, bull riding and cowgirls' barrel race.

A CUTTING HORSE contest will be held on Saturday, the final day of the rodeo, with Novis Rodgers (See STAMPEDE on page 8)

Plans under way here for thorough house numbering

The city has asked the Rev. Almon Martin to undertake a thorough house numbering of all the residential areas of Post in advance of inauguration of mail deliveries here.

Rev. Martin a few years ago spearheaded a Lions Club project to "house number" the town.

City Supt. Henry Tate said Rev. Martin had agreed to work out the project in his spare time as there is no big hurry although house numbers are required before mail delivery is inaugurated.

Tate pointed out that Rev. Martin is familiar with the problems of house numbering and that newly annexed areas will be numbered, including Mill Village.

A small charge will be made for putting up the numbers, Tate said.

The city superintendent said residents wanting to put up their own numbers could do so of course. He added that those who didn't know their house numbers could secure them by calling city hall with the information as to the lot and block numbers of their residences.

Community chest meeting tonight

The Garza County Community Chest will hold its annual meeting at 8 o'clock tonight in the air-conditioned Garza County courtroom.

During the sessions, directors, officers, and a drive chairman will be named for the 1959 fall campaign.

Those attending also will hear brief reports of the Chest's finances by Treasurer J. B. Potts and a report of the 1958 drive by Jim Cornish.

The public is invited to attend and all participating Chest organizations are urged to have representatives present. Chest directors are particularly urged to attend by Irbys G. Metcalf Jr., Chest president.

"We know it is difficult to get a good turnout at a summer meeting," Metcalf told The Dispatch, "but it's important for the success of the 1959 campaign that we get off to an early start with our new organization."

Funeral held for victim of crash

Funeral and burial services were conducted at Hale Center Monday for Arch J. Kemp, 60, who was fatally injured about 4:20 p. m. Sunday when his pickup truck struck the abutment of a small bridge just north of Justiceburg on U. S. Highway 84.

Kemp, who first moved to Hale Center about 40 years ago, was alone in the pickup, which was being driven northwestward toward Post. Investigating highway patrolmen said he apparently fell asleep or suffered a heart attack.

Kemp's body was found jammed under the dashboard of the badly wrecked truck. He apparently died instantly of neck and chest injuries.

The body was brought to Mason Funeral Home in Post.

He was born in Johnson County and after his marriage in 1920 lived in the Big Spring-Sweetwater area until 1942 when he returned to Hale Center to make his home. He was a member of the Baptist Church and Masonic Lodge and had been engaged as a gin erector for several years.

Kemp is survived by his wife, two daughters, two sons, three sisters and eight grandchildren.

The funeral services were held in the Hale Center Baptist Church, with the Rev. Charles R. Gates, pastor of the Hale Center Methodist Church, formerly of Post, officiating. Interment was in the Hale Center Cemetery with Masonic graveside rites.

MOVE TO FLORIDA
Mr. and Mrs. Odys Gatlin left Friday for Florida, where they will make their new home.

Rain damage in Garza not heavy

Downpouring rain continued to pelt the countryside this morning, but was doing relatively little extensive crop damage, according to County Agent Lewis C. Herron and other agricultural observers.

After one of the wettest Junes in several years—6.74 inches—rainfall here for the first 32 hours of July totaled 3.57 inches. That was the measurement showing at 8 o'clock this morning on the county agent's rain gauge, and included rainfall since midnight Tuesday.

Legionnaires to fly

49-star flag

In addition to holding their annual Independence Day supper Friday night, members of James C. Cole Post No. 270 of the American Legion will become the first local group to fly the new 49-star flag when they raise it to the top of the Legion Hall flagpole Saturday morning.

Nick Vukad, post commander, said the annual supper is for all Legionnaires, as well as for all war veterans. The supper will begin at 8 o'clock, with barbecued chicken on the menu.

The post commander said the local organization had received the new 49-star flag last March, but are waiting until July 4th to display it for the first time.

The county agent said the biggest damage from the rain is to cropland in natural lakes, where water is covering and washing-in young cotton and late-planted feed.

The biggest disadvantage, he said, is that the heavy rains will keep the farmers out of their fields, allowing weeds to grow and increasing the cost of crop cultivation.

The heaviest rains are occurring in the Grassland community, southwest of Post. Rainfall there up to noon Wednesday had measured up to five inches.

Prior to this morning's check, four inches had been measured at Fluvanna, three inches at Justiceburg and three inches at Verbena. Rain was heavy in all directions north of Post, but not as heavy as it was southwest of here.

J. B. Potts, executive vice president and agricultural advisor at the First National Bank, said in most areas the rain was falling "just right" to help the crops.

The county agent also said that in most instances the rains were slow enough not to do much washing of the crops.

The rains are said to be proving "very beneficial" to grassland and stock water.

Hinton Fluit, manager of the Spinning Ranch, southwest of Post, said Wednesday he had more water in his ponds than from any rain in several years, and that the precipitation of Tuesday night and Wednesday morning was one of the best "grass rains" he'd ever had (See RAIN on page 8)

Leo Acker installed as new Rotary president

Leo Acker, office manager and accountant for Brown Brothers, et al, was installed as the new president of the Post Rotary Club at that organization's weekly luncheon in city hall Tuesday.

He succeeds Dr. B. E. Young as head of the civic group. Dr. Young automatically becomes vice president as the immediate past president.

Other new officers and directors installed with Acker were J. B. Potts, treasurer; Jim Cornish, secretary, and Bryan J. Williams, director.

Dr. Young, given a rising vote of appreciation for his year in office by club members, in his final report announced that Ronnie Parker has been appointed to fill the unexpired year's term on the board of directors left by the resignation from the club of the Rev. Clinton Edwards.

Dr. Young presented Glenn Whittenberg, president before Young, with a Rotarian past president's pin. Treasurer Jess Michael also was presented with an award by Dr. Young for his year of service. Harold Voss, who will continue to serve as the club's sergeant-at-arms (See LEO ACKER on page 8)

We hope they've over-estimated

Twenty-six Texans may not live to tell their friends about their Fourth of July weekend. The Department of Public Safety predicts that 26 Texans will die on the state's highways during the holiday period — deemed the most deadly three-day driving period of the year.

In issuing the grim prediction, Col. Homer Garrison, DPS director, makes an urgent plea to motorists "to prove we have over-estimated." Garrison also said, in regard to the enforcement of traffic laws over the July 4th holiday, that careless and reckless drivers are going to be arrested by members of the Department of Public Safety.

"Every available man in my command," he said, "will spend extra hours patrolling, not to see how many arrests can be made, but to see if a few lives can be spared this Independence Day in order to make it a safer and more pleasant holiday for the safe, law-abiding driver."

"Operation Holiday" will be in effect starting at 12:01 a. m. Friday until midnight Sunday, July 5.

Safe driving is a pretty good practice any time of the year, not just on holidays. We should also remember that the July 4th safe driving appeal is not only directed to people making trips on the highways, but also to those driving about town in their cars and to pedestrians. In this connection, we hope the teen-ager who almost ran us down Thursday afternoon after making an illegal U-turn at Main and Avenue I changes his hare-brained driving practices not only for the Fourth of July, but for all time to come. He's going to kill somebody if he doesn't—or himself.—CD.

Can't deny those 'growing pains'

Additional proof that a town's "growing pains" just can't be ignored is seen in the summer street paving program here, which the city council wasn't "figuring on" a few short months ago.

It wasn't that the city council didn't want to go into another paving program this summer if enough property owners wanted one, it was just that they weren't counting on one. Instead of another paving program, the council had in mind the patching of existing paving badly in need of repairs.

But it didn't take long for the city dads to learn that a number of property owners, especially those in new residential sections, wanted a street paving program this summer. So, the council immediately set the necessary machinery in motion and now it appears that at least 20 blocks will be paved in the current street improvement program.

We're of the opinion that the same thing is going to happen in the establishment of an adequate city police force, dial telephones, a new city hall, and other projects. They won't come about as quickly as the paving project, because they're much bigger items. But they'll eventually come unless Post decides to stand stock still from now on.

Yes sir, a town's "growing pains" are just bound to catch up with it somewhere along the line.—CD.

It's rodeo time!—twice this month

Welcome once again, pardner. It's rodeo time! And then in about two and a half weeks, welcome once again... there'll be another rodeo going on!

There are some things some towns can't seem to get too much of, and Post's seems to be rodeos.

It sets some sort of a precedent, however, for both rodeos to be held the same month, but we're of the opinion that the honest-to-goodness rodeo fan isn't going to let a little thing like that bother him—he'll see the biggest part of both rodeos.

Both groups—Post Stampede, Inc., and Post

Junior Rodeo, Inc.—are working hard on plans for the rodeos. Since their four-day show is coming up next week, the senior rodeo group is working a little harder, of course, than the juniors. But after the final steer is ridden in the Post Stampede event, the seniors will be able to take it a little easier for a while, and the juniors will step up the tempo on plans for their annual four-day show—"The Original World's Championship Junior Rodeo."

We've heard predictions to the contrary, but chances are each rodeo will be as well attended as it was last year, despite the fact that they are coming so close together this year.—CD.

Again, no July 4th celebration

With the dates of the Post Stampede Rodeo changed from May to July, we'll come close this year to having something doing on the Fourth of July, but not close enough. The first day of the rodeo isn't until July 8—three days after Independence Day.

It's been a long time since Post has had any sort of community-wide Fourth of July celebration. In many places, that's considered the best day of the year for a celebration.

Let's look at it this way. If we were a nation of down-trodden people being ground under the heel of a dictator and should suddenly gain our freedom, we'd long remember the day which our liberation came and we'd look upon it as one of the most important days in our lives, one well worth celebrating. It wasn't that bad, of course, when the colonists struck their blows for freedom from England, but it was bad enough. Yet today—183 years later—many of us pay little attention to Independence Day.

The flags will be out here on July 4th, and most business places will be closed. That'll be something, even if the flags aren't the new 50-star ones. But as far as a community-wide celebration is concerned, that appears to have gone by the boards long ago.—CD.

Oil men take huge financial risks

Of especial interest in oil-active Garza County is a factual study on oil well drilling costs, which has just been issued by a group of industry associations. It gives dramatic testimony to the huge risks U. S. oil men are taking in their constant search for new sources and reserves of oil.

The study is based on 1955 and 1956 data—the most recent available. Some findings:

Oil men and oil companies invested close to $5.5 billion in drilling some 113,000 wells in those two years. Of this, more than $1.6 billion went down the drain in the form of dry and worthless holes in the ground.

The average cost per well went up from $46,

500 in 1955, to $50,200 in 1956.

Drilling costs skyrocketed as depths increased. For example, wells over 15,000 feet ran nearly 29 times more than those in relatively shallow areas of 2,500 to 3,750 feet.

Costs of offshore wells in the Gulf of Mexico averaged almost nine times more than those on dry land.

If anyone wonders why oil producers are given a 27½ per cent depletion allowance, to help compensate for the enormous risks involved in looking for new wells to replace those that wear out, here's their answer. The risk incentive that allowance provides is absolutely essential to oil exploration.

What our contemporaries are saying

We are hearing where in some parts of Texas the area on which the local cemetery is located is having to be expanded. The reason? Automobiles are taking the lives of so many killed in wrecks and pedestrians losing their lives by being run over, more room is needed to bury the unfortunate victims.

Whole families of five and six members are wiped out by automobile collisions.

The number of automobiles traveling on the streets of our town have increased to where few pedestrians are left to expose their lives to careless drivers. But that's the reason those of us remaining must exercise extreme precaution while crossing streets on traffic lights. The hazardous risk to which we subject our lives is the automobile cutting the corner when we attempt to cross the street.—The Stanton Reporter.

Most explosive issue of the day is not the international situation, the U. S. Supreme Court or integration. It is the problem of town dogs.

Persons who have never before written a letter to a newspaper will come unbuckled and lash out at their neighbors via the columns of a newspaper—all over a dog!

You may get by with offending your neighbor's child or even your neighbor—but a dispute over a dog will rupture the strongest friendship and cause neighbors never again to speak.—The Tullia Herald.

The Hesperian has been quite happy about the fact that the city's streets have been clean the past few months. We got a bang out of seeing the streets all spick and span—no soiled hot dog napkins, paper cups and the like, when Monday morning came after a considerable week of celebrating, with a carnival gayway right down the middle of Main. Whether the bill is running higher than the city can afford, we don't know. But we and all the neighbors like it if the council can find the money to keep it going. The city was organized in the first place, fifty years ago, in the hope of alleviating a bad sanitary condition and making the community a more sightly one.—The Floyd County Hesperian.

Maybe it should be printed on the graduation programs... the last thing on the program is not the recession, but overjoyed graduates letting loose with a Rebel yell when they reach the door in the recession.—The McCamey News.

THURSDAY to THURSDAY

By CHARLES DIDWAY

BEFORE ANOTHER Thursday to Thursday column appears in print, this year's Fourth of July will have come and gone, and the annual Post Stampede Rodeo will be well under way.

We're already a day or two into the month of July and it looks like a big one! Besides the holiday, there'll be two rodeos and a beauty pageant, close of the Little League and Pony League seasons, plus a number of unscheduled events, and goodness knows how much hot weather.

WHEN THE WEATHER gets good and warm for several days at a stretch, one day seems hotter than the one just before it, no matter what the thermometer reads. A balky air-conditioner at The Dispatch office made Saturday morning seem like one of the hottest half-days we've ever sweated through. Strangely enough, though, it was Saturday morning that we stepped into one of the most comfortably cooled places we have ever been in, and it wasn't but about 50 feet from The Dispatch front door. It was the big Army exhibit truck parked in the center of Main, and the truck's air-conditioning made it a pleasure to tour it.

We were lingering in the truck enjoying its coolness when Postmaster Harold Voss found us to tell us the good news about city mail delivery service being approved for Post. We were so enthused with the good news Harold brought, that we forgot how hot it was back at The Dispatch office and got him and Chamber of Commerce Manager Johnny Hopkins to go back over with us and have their picture taken reading the letter telling of the delivery service approval.

INCIDENTALLY, Post Office workers won't get a holiday on July 3 like most government workers. President Eisenhower authorized the holiday because the 4th falls on a Saturday. But Postmaster General Summerfield later announced that post offices will remain open Friday and there will be normal mail deliveries that day.

Our friend up the street, who is just back from his vacation, says the best way to keep your head above water is to stay out of expensive dives.

"GABBY" LONDON, old-time cowboy, past 80, of Jayton, who was going to ride a horse down the Old McKenzie Trail to Stamford for the annual Cowboy Reunion, has made a change in plans after his doctor advised against the ride.

Gabby said: "My doctor says 82 years and 85 miles of horse ride won't mix, so I can't ride down to the Cowboy Reunion. I will be in Stamford for all three days—July 2, 3 and 4—however, a doctor or no doctor, I intend to ride in the parade the afternoon of the second, and in the grand entry in the afternoon performance of the Fourth. This is sort of the last meeting place of old cowmen, and I sure wouldn't want to miss it."

That's telling 'em, Gabby.

ANOTHER OLD-TIME cowboy, Lee "Jodie" Byrd of Post, says he plans to make the Cowboy Reunion again this year. Being as we can't go down, we gave Jodie our two complimentary press tickets to the Stamford event. He's so well known there that he probably won't need them, in which case we told him just to pass them on to someone who does.

Among the many things we did not know was that the birthday of the U. S., the Fourth of July, did not become a legal public holiday until 1941. Also, that Independence Day was first celebrated in Philadelphia on July 8, 1776, the day when the public learned the actual words of the Declaration of Independence.

THE ABOVE information comes from Field Enterprises Educational Corp., distributors of World Book Encyclopedia. It also says that the Declaration of Independence was called a unanimous declaration when it was presented to the public on July 8, 1776. But the World Book Encyclopedia reveals that it wasn't unanimous until July 19, when the New York delegation to the Continental Congress announced that it favored the document.

Who put the fireworks in the Fourth of July?

Who put the fireworks in the Fourth of July?

Much of the credit goes to John Adams, according to The World Book Encyclopedia. The Founding Father declared that Independence Day "ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations, from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward for evermore."

So, from that time forward, the birthday of the U. S. has been marked by brilliant explosions of color and noise . . . and the deaths and accidents that invariably accompany them.

Americans, however, got the idea for fireworks from Europeans who got the idea from the Arabs, who merely copied the Chinese.

In 1232 A.D., when a Chinese city was besieged by Mongols, the defenders cooked up a batch of saltpeter, sulfur and charcoal and frightened their attackers with

"arrows of flying fire."

Arabs were quick to copy these weapons, which probably were rockets.

The Crusaders brought them back to Europe, where the Italians discovered that they made fancy exhibitions as well as formidable weapons.

By the time fireworks spread to England and France, figures and structures of wood and plaster had been added.

In 1520, when Henry VIII met Francis I on the Field of the Cloth of Gold in northern France, the historic moment was celebrated by the appearance of a huge dragon that thundered across the sky breathing fire.

By the 1600's, fireworks had developed into such an art that two schools of thought had arisen to argue over methods of display.

The Southern school, centered in Italy, concentrated on building elaborate structures such as castles and temples, from which the fireworks were exploded. The technique of setting off the fireworks was shrouded in mystery.

The Northern school, influenced by the Protestant movement in Germany, thought the Italian procedure smacked of popery. The Northerners exhibited their fireworks before the show, for all to admire, and then made them the important part of the display.

While the two schools fumed over their firecrackers, fireworks crossed the Atlantic and became an American institution.

State Capital NEWS

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN — Much more than just taxes is being written now at the State Capitol.

Political careers are being shaped — or broken. Climate is being determined for business development — or freeze. Cost of living for every Texan is involved.

That's what the edginess, temperament, fussing and name-calling is all about right now.

Seldom, if ever before, have lawmakers been so sensitive to criticism — from governor, from press, from public.

For the first time in years, the House met on a Saturday (June 20) to work on the long overdue tax bill. Knuckling down had come reluctantly — but surely — after governor and press had chided lawmakers for long Thursday-to-Monday recesses during the short 30-day special sessions. Lawmakers fussed back earlier in that week — but they stayed late.

For the most part, the fussing was all bark and little bite. House members who threatened to evict Capitol news reporters from their quarters and House floor press table in reprisal weren't taken seriously. Reporting of legislative affairs is fundamental to the democratic processes — and no one realizes it better than do lawmakers.

In brief: pressures mounted . . . a safety valve blew . . . and work was resumed in earnest.

A 2 PER CENT "luxury tax" on items costing more than $50 is the principal new feature of a House committee-approved revenue bill.

Tax committee voted 12-to-6 to send the bill by Rep. Frates See-ligson of San Antonio to the House floor.

Like several previous bills, it was an attempt to compromise the conflicts between the "sales taxers" and "business taxers." It would raise an estimated $170,000,000 for the biennium.

About $36,000,000 would come from the luxury sales tax. About $6,100,000 would come from a one per cent severance beneficiary tax on natural gas, and about $13,000,000 from increased franchise taxes on corporations.

Rest would come from increased levies on gross receipts of utilities and sales of automobiles, tobacco, wine and liquor.

In the showdown on taxes last session, the House refused to approve a bill heavy on sales taxes. Some committee members voted against this bill on grounds that a 2 per cent sales tax, even though it was only on $50 or more items, would be ruinously unpopular.

A majority of the Senate, however, has shown definite disapproval of loading too much of the new burden on business. They feel heavy business taxes would shut out industry and cut off the source of new prosperity.

BOTH HOUSES re-passed the appropriation bills that went through the first special session.

They went to same conference committee that worked before to adjust differences. House bill was some $20,000,000 higher.

Conference committee reportedly did most of the routine work on the bills and set them aside until a tax bill could be passed to make spending possibilities more definite.

ABANDONED PROPERTY bill, which provoked some of the most heated legislative debate this year, is having its third round.

Rep. James Bates of Edinburg, sponsor, told the House tax committee the bill wouldn't change the escheat laws that have been on the statute books for years. He declared it would make the old law more workable.

Bates' bill, as introduced this session, would require banks and other holding money or property unclaimed for seven years, to report it to the state within 60 days after passage of the bill.

It also would give state agencies authority to examine the books and records of businesses to see if they are holding such property.

Bankers labeled it a "free hunting license into all bank accounts" and "unconstitutional search and seizure."

Bill was sent to subcommittee.

MAKING PROGRESS in its second legislative round is a bill that would allow state colleges to require students to pay an activity fee.

Similar bill died in the first special session.

It would allow the colleges to make mandatory a student fee of $30 a semester. This would pay for such campus services as hospital and medical care, book rentals, student publications and tickets to athletic and cultural events.

College presidents are supporting the bill. Those from smaller schools, particularly, say they need the extra revenue to stay in the black on these activities.

Spokesmen for student groups opposed. They said poorer students would rather do without these services than pay the fees.

Senate Finance committee leaned toward the presidents' view, voted the bill out by a 2-to-1 majority.

SENATE HAS A simplified substitute for Rep. Robert Eckhardt's bill to protect public beaches.

New bill says that no one shall get in the way of the public's right to go to and from public beaches. It leaves to the courts

The job of defining where the line is between public and private ownership along the coast.

It would not, according to its Senate sponsors, cloud the title of privately owned land next to the beaches. Sponsors are Sens. J. P. Fuller of Port Arthur, Jimmy Phillips of Angleton, Culp Krueger of El Campo and Robert Baker of Houston.

At the House committee hearing on the Eckhardt bill, many came to testify for and against. Supporters of the bill said the only opposition was from "selfish land owners." Opponents called it an effort to "take land without just compensation."

Best Room!

JUST ONE OF 7 Big Bests Chevrolet offers you over any other car in its field!

Take a tip from the experts . . . in their own words . . . and from on-the-record facts and figures: More than ever, Chevrolet gives you more than any other of the leading low-priced three! More room to relax in, for instance. A sampling of official dimensions reported to A.M.A.* makes this clear. Chevy front seat hip room, for one thing, is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars. And Chevy even offers more front seat head room than all but one of the high-priced cars!

Best Brakes Not only bigger, but built with bonded linings for up to 66% longer life. Just to prove what's what, Chevy out-stopped both of the "other two" in a NASCAR-conducted test of repeated stops from highway speeds.

Best Style It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "a new high in daring styling."

Best Engine Every motor magazine has given Chevrolet's standard and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: ". . . surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

Best Ride MOTOR TREND magazine calls Chevy ". . . the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." You'll be able to tell this yourself instantly, once you take the wheel.

Best Economy No doubt about this: two Chevrolet 6's won their class in the famous Mobilgas Economy Run, got the best mileage of any full-size car, 22.38 miles per gallon—with Powerglide.

Best Trade-In Check in any N.A.D.A. Guide Book. Chevy used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

It's the Law in Texas ...

EVIDENCE
A trial aims to settle a dispute when the parties fail to do it themselves. For this the court needs facts.
Simple? Well, no. For if the parties could agree on the facts, a settlement out of court would be easy. But as a rule each side has its own story, and the trial judge or jurymen must hear witnesses and view physical evidence to decide what took place. In doing this the court applies the rules of evidence.
It took centuries for the court to work out rules by which a judge can say what is proper or improper evidence.
1. In "hearsay," for example, someone who did not see the event reports what someone told him about it. Courts seldom allow such evidence, except in rare cases such as where the dying words, say, of a murdered person may be vital.
FOR ONE THING, courts frown upon hearsay because no one in court can cross-examine the eyewitness to find out what actually took place, or to judge whether his story merits belief.
2. Irrelevant testimony will also be barred by the judge. It is testimony which has no bearing on the case, even though it may be true enough.
Suppose in a battery case the jury has to find out whether Jones knocked Smith down or not. The judge would have to rule out any evidence that Jones, say, was rich and Smith poor. Such a fact, even if true, has nothing to do with the "issue." Moreover, such irrelevant facts often confuse jurymen or arouse their prejudices.
3. Only an expert like a doctor, an appraiser, a chemist, a pharmacist, or an engineer can give opinions as evidence, and he must show his qualifications as an expert before the judge will let him express his views.
Lawyers keep inadmissible evidence out of court by making "objections." When the judge "sustains" an objection, the jury may not hear the evidence. Or if he does, the judge may "instruct" the jury to ignore it. Should the judge "overrule" the objection, the jury may hear the evidence.

Sanitation plan paying 'dividends,' city official says

The City of Post is well satisfied with the way its expanded sanitation program is going following the putting on of a new garbage truck. City Supt. Henry Tate said today.
As an example of the way in which the sanitation department employees are "covering" the town, Tate said they started trash pickups on the north side of town Monday morning and that by quitting time they had completed their pickups through the south side. That was in the section west of the railroad tracks.
Working at that speed, Tate said, the garbage trucks will have a day and a half a week to go into the Mill Village and the "flats," newly annexed areas of the city, for garbage pickups.

He said residents of the flats have been asked to clean up their alleys, after which city machinery will be used to blade the alleys preparatory to regular trash pickups.
The city superintendent also said that the public' response to the stepped-up garbage disposal program has been excellent.

About your health

Call them red bugs. Call them harvest mites. Call them chiggers. By whatever name, they mean sleepless nights and ceaseless spasms of itching misery. This is their season. It will last from now until cold weather cuts into their ranks. A few people have an apparent immunity to chigger attacks but the vast majority of us are oh-so-susceptible.

They — the chiggers — have a special affinity for low, damp places covered with vegetation. Bermuda grass harbors them well, but for some unexplainable reason they are not usually found in carpet grass.

Just for the record, it's the larvae which do the damage, attaching themselves with their mouthparts and sucking blood until they become engorged and fall off. The fiery itching is caused by an anticoagulant material they inject into their host.

Although adult chiggers — large, red and velvety — are probably harmless to humans, their wayward offspring can be serious as well as annoying. Not that they spread any specific disease — at least not in this country — but their bites demand scratching which frequently causes secondary infections in the form of sores and boils.

To learn where chiggers are harboring, stand a piece of black cardboard on end where you suspect their presence. If after a few moments you see tiny yellowish or pinkish mites accumulating on the upper edge, you know it's time to check your supply of insecticide.

Chiggers attack lizards, snakes, birds, and rodents with the same vigor and resourcefulness they display in attacking humans. No distinction is drawn between man and lesser animal species, which is hardly complimentary to us Homo sapiens.

Light applications of sulphur dust on lawns and low branches of shrubs have been used successfully for years to control chiggers. Nowadays, the new insecticides such as chlorodane and lindane give better results. Just follow the directions on the label.

A quick word of caution: Be sure to avoid unnecessary exposure to the insecticide. If you spill the concentrated material on your skin, wash it off immediately. And be sure to keep children and pets out of the yard until the spray dries. (A weekly feature from the Health Education Division, State Health Dept.)

"TODOS BIENVENIDOS"
(Church located on Northeast side of town on Spur highway)

Each day of our life we make hundreds, even thousands, of decisions that deeply affect ourselves and others about us. In this game between two friendly rivals; each is faced with constant decisions... shall he move here.. or perhaps there... every move requires sound judgment, skill, and often just pure daring.

In our daily lives we make our moves from past experience; by weighing the results and their effects and often by pure chance and daring. If we go through life without God; if we never make the decision to attend His house for worship, if we never make a move in His direction; then all the other decisions of our lives are worthless and without meaning or substance. Begin today to make your life as God ordained you should... attend the service in your church...make your move to God.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without government or society or way of life which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Laws and regulations control livestock movement in Texas

COLLEGE STATION — Though Texas has a law requiring that cattle, hogs, sheep and goats must be branded or marked and the brand or mark recorded, brand inspectors estimate that 25 per cent or fewer of the cattle and less of the other animals are branded.

However branding is still a common practice in some areas and the branding laws are still in force. Some of these brand laws are obsolete and the enforcement machinery is inadequate.

This information comes from a new publication released by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station titled, "Analysis of Texas Laws and Regulations Controlling the Movement and Sale of Livestock."

The publication brings together many of the more important laws and regulations so that producers, selling agents, buyers and consumers may know the legal requirements to be observed and the protection provided.

The responsibility for prevention and control of livestock diseases in Texas rests with the Livestock Sanitary Commission. The steps being taken by the Commission and the U.S. Department of Agriculture to control and eradicate livestock diseases are discussed.

Holiday to bring increased dangers of highway travel

AUSTIN — "Don't gamble on your holiday weekend — the cars may be stacked against you."

This play on words was made today by J. O. Musick, general manager of the Texas Safety Association, in an effort to focus the motoring public's attention on increased dangers of highway travel during the Fourth of July weekend.

Musick pointed out that since the Fourth falls on a Saturday, this year, many Texans will receive a holiday on Friday or Monday. This will give families a chance to take short vacation trips.

"Weekend travel is normally dangerous enough," he said, "but when you couple it with a holiday it literally becomes murderous."

For those who do plan to make a trip, Musick had these words of safety advice: "There is a common saying which states that 'Accident is just another word until one happens to YOU!' Any motorist will do well to remember this slogan before he gets behind the steering wheel. He should remember too, that the most tragic accident is not necessarily the one in which HE might be killed. If there is any doubt about this, ask the person who has been in an accident in which others were killed or one in which he lost his eyesight or was, perhaps, permanently crippled."

"There are many people who relive an accident every day of their life, through mental anguish and physical suffering."

The safety expert emphasized that travelers should not undertake journeys of a greater distance than can be driven at a leisurely pace, with allowance for heavy traffic and other delays.

"Courtesy and commonsense are still the best traffic accident preventatives," he said.

ing of livestock scales at public auction markets and stockyards are among the other topics of discussion.

Jubilee directors cancel contract

SPUR — The board of directors of the Spur Golden Jubilee has voted to cancel its contract with the John B. Rogers Company in staging Spur's 50th anniversary celebration scheduled for Sept. 21-26.

Spencer Campbell, president of the board, said "the board of directors felt that the majority of the people did not desire this type of celebration."

The board announced, however, that a suitable program will be arranged for the celebration.

Bill Glenn, acting chairman of the jubilee, said one factor in the directors' action was the fact that the surrounding towns of Post, Crosbyton and Floydada all staged similar celebrations and it was felt that some of the glamor might have worn off.

Mr. Tax-payer:

Which of these pipes will your city use?

Texas-made Lone Star cast iron pressure pipe will last over a hundred years!

The use of cheap substitutes, such as foreign-made cement-asbestos pipe, is wasteful and means probable replacement in a very few years. (This pipe was taken from a Texas city's water system. Photo is unretouched.)

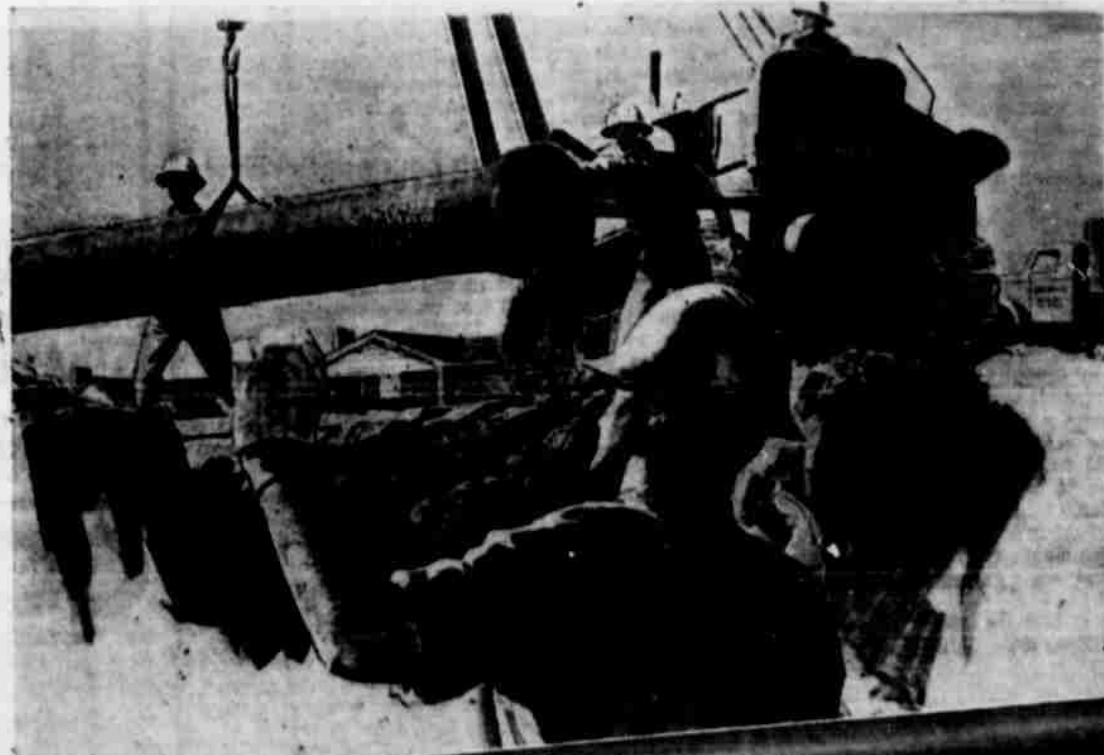

Officials of most Texas municipalities know that when they buy and install cast iron pipe they are helping to support the American economy and the high standard of living we all enjoy. They are buying products made in America for use by Americans. They are not fooled by the slightly lower initial cost of foreign goods because they realize that this "paper savings" will be more than offset by the cost of excessive maintenance.

Domestic cast iron pressure pipe is time-honored, centuries-proved, and is backed by strong, resourceful American companies that will be in business for years on end to guarantee their product.

Really, who backs foreign-made pipe? Who answers for it when it fails? To whom will the few ill-advised pipe-buyers look for the answers to these questions when trouble develops? Were they penny wise and pound foolish?

Take a look at some of these important factors back of the initial price tag, then pick up the telephone and call the first city official you think of and tell him you appreciate his good judgment in buying American-made cast iron pipe with your tax dollars. If he has been buying Lone Star pipe, tell him that we, too, appreciate the business!

Foreign products used in America deprive Americans of work

Council hears more on city planning

The Post city council heard more about the proposed master plan for future city development at a special meeting Monday night. Mayor Powell Shytle said the meeting was called "on short notice" after it was learned that F. J. Van Zuben Jr., of the State Department of Health was in the area and would be able to meet with the council. The Dispatch, not having been notified of the special meeting, did not have a representative present. Van Zuben, who is chief engineer of general sanitation services for the health department, went into detail on outlines which had already been presented to the city in regard to the master plan for future development. He said preliminary steps by engineers in case Post goes ahead with the plan will be surveys of present land usage in advance of recommendations for zoning, routing of thoroughfares, etc. At a special meeting on June 15, the city council created a planning and zoning commission authorized to draw up the master plan. Earlier, the council had been told that federal money is available to help pay for the carrying out of such a plan.

Rain halts street paving program

The rains of Tuesday night and Wednesday morning halted the city's street paving program just as county commissioners were getting ready to haul in caliche, City Supt. Henry Tate said today. Tate said the paving contractors have all the curbing and gutters run on the blocks being paved on 14th and 15th streets, on one block of Fourth Street, and are just about through with this phase of the work on 10th Street. "That means," Tate said, "that 10 blocks of the streets being paved are ready for the caliche."

Lions Install--

(Continued from page 1) made a talk on Lionism. During the installation ceremony, he outlined each officer's duties, then called on the other members to rise as a group and pledge their cooperation with the newly installed officers during the club year. Duncan, the outgoing president, presented a new gavel by Hudson and Moreman on behalf of the membership. Some 25 Lions and guests attended the meeting. The guests included Mrs. Cowan. Dr. Carter was program chairman. In a brief business session, the Lions discussed their rodeo automobile parking project coming up next week during the Post Stampede Rodeo.

Junior Rodeo flag and 4-H flag are missing

The Post Junior Rodeo flag and the 4-H Club flag are "out of pocket," according to junior rodeo officials. Anyone knowing the whereabouts of either or both these flags is asked to contact Clarky Cowdrey or Sue Stephens. The flags will be needed for the junior rodeo opening here July 29.

Two small building permits are issued

Two building permits for construction costing an estimated $550 have been issued at the City Hall here. One of the permits went to W. A. Gray for adding a half-bath to his residence at 123 South Avenue N. The estimated cost is $450. The other permit was issued to Mrs. L. W. Dalby for roof and wall repairs at her home at 716 West Main, with the work to cost an estimated $100. The two permits brought the construction total here since Jan. 1 to $518,817.

Offset staked in Arlene field east of Post

Anderson-Prichard Oil Corp., operating from Midland, has staked a one location east offset, the No. 1-G Connel, to Arlene (San Andres and Giorietta) production in eastern Garza County. The project is scheduled to 3,300 feet, 7.5 miles east of Post. It will be dug 2,310 feet from the south and 990 feet from east lines of Section 65, Block 5, GH&H Survey.

Santa Fe carloadings

Santa Fe carloadings for week ending June 27 were 30,514 compared with 28,364 for the same week a year ago. Cars received from connections totaled 12,366 compared with 10,998 for the same week a year ago. Total cars moved were 42,982 compared with 39,562 for the same week a year ago. Santa Fe handled a total of 45,295 cars in the preceding week this year.

(Continued from page 1) land. There also are a couple of fishing camps and a dozen or so privately owned beach homes. That's just the start.

Padre Beach Developer John L. Tompkins is hoping his little goldmine in the sand develops into another Miami Beach, and it might. Besides deluxe accommodations it offers mild temperatures the year round and real sandy beaches with plenty of good gulf fishing. Fish caught around the island include most of the Atlantic's salt-water game fish—such as red fish, red snappers, Spanish mackerel, king, speckled trout, the giant jewfish. There also are tarpon, sailfish, tuna and blue marlin, plus more than 200 other salt-water varieties. Six fishermen can rent a big fishing boat for $90 for a 12-hour day and everything is furnished for the fish-catching. That's only $15 apiece for a real day out in the gulf and for maybe 200 pounds of fish.

Tompkins began his promotion of Padre Beach before the causeway was built after learning that 50,000 people were going over to the island in boats each year. He began selling beachfront lots at about $1,500 each. Now they range from $6,500 to $7,000. George Beck, a former Harlingen business man, now has a 71-unit motel on the island after buying 16 acres just a few years back from Tompkins for $3,000. Just this land alone is worth $120,000 today.

Real estate development and tourism aren't the only gold to be found on Padre Island — at least as the stories go. The sand dunes along the island's southern tip are as ribbed and lonely as those on a deserted island. And on these Spanish explorers and pirates buried their treasures and out in the Gulf some of their ships sank. Even now, shrimpers once in a while while catch a rust-encrusted anchor in their nets and haul it ashore. Another of the stories is that early in the 16th century 20 Spanish ships bearing great treasures were said to have gone aground on the lower tip of Padre Island. Three hundred survivors reached shore safely only to fall prey to the cannibalistic Karankawa Indians. Another of the stories is that John Singer, brother of Isaac Singer of sewing machine fame, found $80,000 in gold and jewels in a buried treasure chest on Padre Island in 1847. When the Civil War came, he buried his wealth and fled, but was unable to find it again after the war.

They're talking on Padre of making at least a part of the sandy island into a national park to preserve the natural beauty of the seagrape-covered dunes and beaches. Padre Island is just "booming" today — but it's easy to see after a lazy day on the beach with the white caps rolling in that on some tomorrow it could become a fabulous national winter playground in rival Miami Beach.

Best news to come out of the Texas Press Association convention itself was the announcement by W. R. Beaumier, publisher of the Lubkin News and chairman of TPA's legislative committee, that a great deal of progress was made at the last regular session of the Texas Legislature on "right to know" legislation although none of the four bills introduced were passed. He predicted the next session will see passed and signed into law a state law requiring that meetings of all public bodies be open to the public and public records be open for public inspection.

Still no announcements from the companies concerned as to their uranium activities in Garza County, but we hear that some 200 tons of uranium ore is being shipped off Dennis Eubanks' place this week by truck to the government's buying station at Grants, N. M. The first loads were dispatched Sunday. As we hear it, at least two different companies are now interested or at work on Garza uranium leases.

Lots of things are going on in Post these days, so there is no news slackening this summer. Next week it will be Post Stampede time again and radio station KUKO sponsors a Post Beauty Pageant. The Stampede this year promises to be one of the best efforts with more work and planning going into 1959 preparations than in many a year. The Stampede was moved out of May to get a better weather date — but for the last several days it has looked like May weather has been waiting until July too. We hope the Stampede gets a good weather break and a good break from the fans who like their rodeoing.

Capsule history shows--

White River project makes giant strides in 3 years

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The White River dam project is a big and complex one. Newcomers to the area don't know the history of the project and others may have forgotten. To refresh the public's knowledge of the four-city water project, the following capsule history of the project has been prepared by the White River directors.)

A permanent water supply for the cities of Crosbyton, Post, Ralls, and Spur is becoming a reality in the form of the White River Municipal Water District. This water project conceived in the early part of 1956 with the first step taken on September 3, 1956 by employing a firm of consulting engineers and a financial advisor for the District. The same month on September 29, 1956, the Directors selected by the four member cities made the surety bonds to serve on the Board of Directors.

A few days later in September, 1956 the State Board of Water Engineers, Austin, Texas gave the whole White River Project approval thus recognizing the City of Crosbyton water permit and giving the District Board of Directors the green light to build the dam on White River north of Kalgary in Crosby County. Then on October 27, 1956 the voters of the member cities confirmed the District at the Confirmation Election by a 30 to 1 majority. The next step was the introduction of the special law in the Texas Legislature. The law was formally passed by both houses in May, 1957.

The project moved at a rapid rate of speed while the law was passing through the legislature and in July, 1957 a complete feasibility re-

The retiring president also thanked Lee Ward for serving as publisher and editor of The Branding Iron, the club's weekly bulletin. Dr. Young announced that the foreign exchange student who will be coming to Post for a four weeks visit this summer will be "a good looking blonde from Sweden."

Acker announced that James Minor will be the club's program chairman for the coming year and that Carl Cederholm will be the new song director.

Rain--

(Continued from page 1) on his place. The 6.74 total for June compares with a normal of 2.49 for the month. The normal rainfall for July is 1.98 inches, which already has been exceeded 1.59 inches, with less than two days of the month gone. The total for 1959 stands at 15.30 through June, whereas the normal through August is 11.40 inches.

Open house date set for Methodist annex

Open house at the First Methodist Church's new educational building will be held from 3 p. m. until 6 p. m. Sunday, July 12, the Rev. Eugene Matthews, pastor, has announced. Most of the work has been completed on the new building, which is already in use. Installation of a rose window and laying of carpet will complete the building. All members of the church and visitors are invited to attend the open house.

MOVE TO POST

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Clayton and children Tommy and Mark, moved to Post this week from Lubbock. Clayton is to be the new manager of the grocery department at OK Food Store.

port from the consulting was released to the Board of Directors. After careful consideration of this report on the costs, a bond election in the amount of $4,000,000 was called for August 17, 1957. This election carried by a 7 to 1 majority at the polls.

The next legal step was the voting of water contracts between each member city and the White River Water District. These elections were called in June, 1958. All of the water contracts were voted in each city by a majority vote.

After the voting of the water contracts, the financing of the project was the next big problem. The Directors contacted the Housing and Home Finance Agency, Fort Worth and Washington, D. C. and the State Board of Water Development, Austin, Texas.

These loans were approved in March, 1959, with approximately $3,000,000 going to the HHFA and the balance of $1,000,000 being underwritten by the State Agency.

Each Agency made the loan commitments on the same basis with which the Board of Directors have about three main requirements to meet. These three stipulations in brief are that the district will need one or more water flooding contracts with the oil companies to insure sufficient water sales; that the cities re-vote the water contracts with the water district which were originally approved in June, 1958; and lastly agree to levy an ad valorem tax on all taxable property within the district boundaries. The board of directors is meeting each month, as they have since 1956, to meet the loan requirements as set out in the commitments from the Federal and State Agencies. The only other major step after meeting the loan requirements is approving the plans and specifications from the consulting engineers. These plans should be ready within the next 60 to 90 days.

After considering all the work to be done to get water in the lake, the dirt should start moving at the dam site in the year 1960.

Rain washes out fly spraying

The soaking rain Tuesday night literally washed away the city's most recent spraying efforts against flies.

City Supt. Henry Tate told The Dispatch that garbage receptacles in almost all the alleys in town were sprayed Tuesday as well as the city dump grounds.

What's more the city was planning to "dust" the community Tuesday night for the second time this summer before the rains put an end to those plans.

Tate explained the rains washed away the protective residue from the Tuesday fly spraying and that as soon as the weather clears the city will spray again for flies and will "dust" for mosquitoes.

Post woman's hip is broken in fall

Mrs. O. V. McMahon of The Lavele Shop here broke the leg bone just below her left hip in a fall Tuesday morning in the Tech Student Union building at Lubbock.

Mrs. McMahon and her daughter, Mrs. William R. Bennett, had gone to the Student Union building to meet Mr. Bennett, who is attending summer school at Tech. The floor had been freshly waxed and Mrs. McMahon slipped and fell after getting up from a table so employees could move it.

She underwent surgery Tuesday night at Methodist Hospital and a pin was put in the break. Her daughter said today that doctors at the hospital said it more than likely would be from four to six months before Mrs. McMahon is able to walk again, but that she can be up in a wheel chair and on crutches before then.

City Mail--

(Continued from page 1) growth and the year-to-year increase in postal receipts. During the last seven or eight years, a new postal receipts record has been set every year at the post office. The 1958 receipts amounted to more than $38,000.

Following remodeling of the post office a little over a year ago, new boxes were added to bring the total to 1,090. The postmaster pointed out that all these boxes will not be needed after city delivery is inaugurated, and that there will not be that many boxes "if and when we move into other quarters."

Group to meet every Monday

Plans progressing for Junior Rodeo

The Post Junior Rodeo Association will meet every Monday night between now and the dates of the annual Southwestern Championship Junior Rodeo July 29-Aug. 1, directors have announced.

The junior rodeo meetings are held at the Garza County 4-H Building.

It was announced at last Monday night's meeting that the sad-

Each regular rodeo event carries $200 in cash prizes plus one-half the entrance fees.

Trophy buckles will go to winners in all events and a handmade roping saddle will be given for the best total average on four head of roping stock.

Official judges for this year's show are Robert Koonce of Jayton and Avery Moore Jr. of Post. Riding judges will be elected by the riders just prior to Wednesday night's opening performance.

There will be a dance each night at the rodeo grounds.

dies to be awarded the outstanding cowboy and cowgirl of the year's rodeo have arrived and are to go on display soon.

The tickets are ready to go on sale, and any girl interested in entering the rodeo queen contest is asked to contact Mrs. J. A. Myers or Miss Leslie Nichols, the Gulf wholesale office. The queen's race will be decided by the candidates. The winner receive a pair of boots as prize and will be presented each night's rodeo performance.

Butch Wilson and Fred Myers were chosen at Monday night meeting to carry the flags in the parade and to post the colors each night's grand entry.

Further plans were made in organization of a Post junior riding club. All juniors — those and under — interested in joining the club are asked to meet Friday night at the rodeo grounds and bring their horses. This is important, so that hats can be ordered and practice can begin, directly.

HOME FROM HOSPITAL

Wesley Stephens returned Monday from Veterans' Hospital, Dallas where he had been a patient for three weeks. He is up and around, but says he will have to go back to the hospital for further treatment and checkups within the next few weeks.

Valdez hurls one-hit win

Eddie Valdez lamed the Braves with a one-hit Saturday night as manager Pat Franklin's Indians picked up a 17-1 victory to remain atop the Pony League standings.

The only hit given up by the Indians was a lead-off single to Perez, Braves catcher, in the first inning. Perez struck out in the second, went to third on Morale's infield out, and got a free base when, with the bases loaded, Valdez walked Allen. Curb was thrown out trying to score for the third out.

After his shaky start, Valdez settled down to strike out 11 Braves in the remaining four innings of a game cut short by the rain.

White Sox stay running by leading leaders

The White Sox kept their pennant hopes alive Monday night by beating the league-leading Indians, 4-1, in an extra-inning Pony League game.

It was the seventh consecutive win for Manager Ben Howell's Sox, who are sponsored by Collier Drug. For Manager Pat Collier's Indians, sponsored by the Ranch Cafe, it was the second loss against eight victories.

The score was tied, 4-4, at the end of the regulation seven innings. The Sox came up with the winning run in the ninth when Henderson, who had walked to lead off the ninth, scored on David Lee's single double down the middle.

The White Sox' starting pitcher, was relieved by Henderson after seven innings. Henderson credited for the victory.

David Nichols pitched six innings for the Indians before being relieved by Eddie Valdez, who was charged with the loss.

LEAD THE CLASSIFIEDS

By VERN SANFORD

You took all the youngsters went fishing last Saturday stood them side by side, it would make a line ten times as long as the line ten times as long.

So if you strung out, end to end, all the fishing worms that the same youngsters used for fishing, it would make a line ten times as long as the line ten times as long.

Just points up the fact that you get the first call to duty in a boy goes fishing. Plenty of worms are used for fishing. Fact is, the matter is — the common variety of earthworm is the most widely used of all fish bait.

Worms will run a close second. Come crawfish, hellgramites, grasshoppers, crickets, and a variety of critters that usually can be found without much effort, either in your own back yard or around the creek.

There are some tricks about using, keeping, and using various baits.

LET'S talk about the earthworm. Although he likes his earth, the earthworm is not a best of water. Only time he gets in the drink, without aid, is to be washed there if it rains, or dropped there as a piece of the bank crumbles.

Water resident or not, nearly all fish recognizes the work of an earthworm as something to eat, and accordingly, rich, loamy, clay soil is the earthworm's favorite kind of habitat. This, because it contains a lot of organic matter which is food. Most gardens contain a lot of soil that's right for worms, and good gardens are well-watered.

Little garden digging normally produces enough worms for a lot of fishing. In fact, many youngsters, forced into hard labor by the cabbage patch, with a fishing hook on Saturday morning has consorted himself with the idea that his effort will yield a lot of worms for the afternoon diversion.

When the cabbages, he couldn't dig.

WORMS GO deep when the earth is dry. Water it, and the worms will be there next day. Or put some wide boards and pour water over them. If there are worms in the soil, they will migrate under the boards in a hurry, to eat the food in the soil.

Young worms for a short period of time requires no effort. Just put them into a container some of the soil in which 15-run lead rule.

The Indians collected a total of 16 hits, including three-baggers by Dodd, Nichols and Cornell, Curb was the losing pitcher.

Red Sox victors on four-hitter

With Nichols pitching a four-hitter, the Red Sox downed the Tigers, 10 to 1, in a Little League game Thursday night.

The winners collected only six hits off the combined offerings of Cornell and Vagras, but the pitchers' wildness and errors afield contributed to the Red Sox' one-sided win.

Nichols gave up two of the Tigers' four hits in the first inning when the Bengals got to him for their only run. Dickie Vardiman singled, advanced to second when Julian walked and scored on Owen's one-bagger.

Blacklock got two of the winners' six hits—a single and a double.

Rain halts Cub, Indian ball game

Tuesday night's rain halted the Pony League game between the Cubs and Braves after three innings, with the Cubs out in front, 14 to 9.

The game will be completed at a later date.

Manager Joe Wilson's Brave nine, which still hasn't won a game, was doing some good hitting against the Cubs until rain halted the contest.

"I feel like we might have finally won one if the game hadn't been called," Wilson said Wednesday morning.

In the Little League game, the Red Sox defeated the Yankees to keep pressing Manager Punk Peel's league-leading Dodgers.

SAFE-DRIVING AWARDS PRESENTED

Burlington drivers are given safe-driving pins

The first annual safety awards banquet for Burlington Industries Transportation Division drivers attached to the Post terminal was held Saturday night at Judy's Cafe.

Two Burlington drivers, James R. Lawson and Sam S. Newman, were presented awards for driving four years without a reportable accident. They were presented four-year safe-driving pins by Bob Jenkins, Post terminal manager.

Other drivers attending the banquet were Don Carper, James Gibson, Robert Taylor, Bascom Farmer, Robert Malone and Edward Martin.

Burlington Industries, Inc., parent company of Postex Cotton Mills and Post Terminal, is the world's largest manufacturer of textile products. Drivers for Burlington drove over 12,900,000 miles in 1958.

Catching tagged fish not illegal

AUSTIN — Contrary to what some fishermen believe, it is legal to catch tagged fish. In fact, according to Howard Lee, director of coastal fisheries, Texas Game and Fish Commission, fish are tagged for the purpose of being caught.

Several biologists at the Coastal Fisheries staff meeting recently held in Rockport reported that many fishermen catching tagged fish are not sending the tags to the Rockport office.

Biologists claim that most fishermen refuse to return tags because they believe catching tagged fish is illegal. This, of course, is not so. "Unless the fish are caught," said Lee, "the tags are of no value and our expense and efforts are wasted."

"Sport and commercial fishermen harvest the fish along the Texas coast," continued Lee. "We rely almost entirely on these people for the return of tags." In every case, an individual sending in a tag is rewarded with the history of his particular fish. The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service pays 50 cents for each marked shrimp that is returned to its offices in Galveston.

Most fish tags are made of plastic. They are usually clipped on the edge of the gills or fastened into the fleshy part of the backs. The marked shrimp will have green and blue heads. If one of these is among your catch, simply turn it over to your game warden or send it to the Marine Laboratory in Rockport.

Four home runs help sink losers

David Lee shuts out Cubs on two-hitter

David Lee spun a masterful two-hitter last Thursday night in the White Sox' 16-0 shutout of the Cubs in a Pony League game.

The only hits off Lee were singles, one by Dickie Price in the third inning and the other by Ray

Gonzales in the fifth.

Lee fanned 14 batters in the six-inning game, which was cut one inning short by the 15-run lead ruling.

Only in the first inning was there more than one man on base against the White Sox pitcher. After Odom reached first on an error, Lee struck out Price and Ray Gonzales, but another error advanced Odom to second and put Wayne Gambin on first. Lee fanned Sutter to get out of trouble.

Manager Ben Howell's White Sox shelled Price for 16 hits, with the Cub hurler going all the way.

Reed, Chance, Scott and Henderson connected for home runs off the Cub side-arms. Reed drove in three runs with his circuit smash, with Chance's homer accounting for two runs, and Scott and Henderson's four-bagger being solo smashes.

Rally by Dodgers sinks Yankees in extra frame tilt

The Dodgers came from 'way behind Saturday night to overtake the Yankees and stay in first place in Little League standings.

The game, tied 9-9 at the end of the sixth, went into an extra inning, with the Dodgers racking up 10 runs in the top of the seventh. The Yankees came back with one run, but it wasn't near enough to catch up.

Charles Landroop, the Yankees' starting pitcher, had little trouble with the Dodgers through the first three innings, while the Yanks were scoring five runs — two in the first and three in the third.

The Dodgers scored one in the top of the fourth, but the Yanks came back to plate three more runs and lead, 8-1, at the end of four innings.

The Dodgers picked up three in the fifth, then held the Yankees scoreless in the bottom half of the inning to trail 8-4 going into the sixth. That's when things started happening.

The roof fell in on the Yankees in the top of the seventh with the Dodgers scoring 10 runs, one of them a four-bagger by Centerfielder Smith.

When the Yankees came to bat, Welch tripled to lead things off, then scored on a fielder's choice. Hays, who had relieved Valdez on the mound for the Dodgers, threw a third strike past Tanner to end the game.

Game biologists are dedicated field scientists

AUSTIN — Wildlife biologists are a special kind of people, according to the director of wildlife restoration. They are dedicated to their jobs of working with the creatures of the field, studying them, their habits, and learning all their characteristics.

"The game biologist is a scientist, with professional training in the study of wild plants and animals and their environment," said the director. "Although he has had some training in fisheries, his specialty is animals, and their related problems."

"His primary job is to provide scientific facts about game animals, their status, population trends, food habits, and movements," he said. "This information becomes the basis for making proper game laws and establishing sound management practices."

The research work of a biologist keeps him in close contact with each local game warden; however, he is not a law enforcement officer. His field studies are aimed at making Texas' wildlife resources an increasing benefit to the general public.

As a citizen of the community in which he lives, the biologist always seeks to live a normal life, striving to do the most good for the most people. He usually has an enjoyable relationship with landowners and all people with whom he works.

WE'LL FIT THEM ALL... FROM TODDLERS TO GRANDPA

Do You Remember

When July 4th meant AN ALL DAY TRIP in a wagon or horseback to some Community Center where we watched the community baseball teams play or rode the "Flying Jenny" 6 times for a quarter or drank all the lemonade you could hold for a nickel right out of a big jar with ice cold lemonade in it or carried a blown up balloon all around the ground while you talked to the other folks or sat in the shade of a watermelon wagon and ate watermelon with the gang and AFTER THE DAY WAS SHORT we scrambled back in the wagon for the dusty, firesome trip back home—maybe 5 or 6 miles.

IT'S DIFFERENT NOW-A-DAYS

We pack up a COLD BOX along with the BOAT and MOTOR and run over each other getting to some lake and motor and water-ski or LOUNGE IN THE SHADE of some park, maybe 100 or more miles away, or spend several dollars around some amusement center, stay late and then TAKE OUR CHANCES on the road in a RUSH FOR HOME.

LET'S TAKE OUR TIME this 4th of July—so all of us will go home in good shape AND WHEN THE 4th is over DON'T FORGET—

"I Want You to Meet 'THE YOUNG PHILADELPHIANS' ..."

When I first saw this new motion picture I was impressed with its fast-moving and exciting story of a young man growing up in the social and business worlds of the city of Philadelphia. And then I suddenly realized something special was happening...

The young people on the screen—the law student, the debutante, the immigrant boy, the good-time girl, the Korean vet, the murder suspect, and all the rest—do not belong to any one town or city in America...

Young people like them are living right here—daily facing the same decisions about morals and marriage, fears and prejudices, jobs and ethics, parents and friends. You may recognize yourselves when you see this picture. That's why I think it rates special mention. That's why I think you'll all enjoy 'The Young Philadelphians'...

PRESERVATION OF QUALITY MAJOR PROBLEM

New bulletin offers tips on storing cotton planting seed

COLLEGE STATION — Preservation of quality is a major problem confronting organizations which produce and store cottonseed for planting purposes. To help solve this problem, studies were conducted by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station to determine the effectiveness of aeration in maintaining viability and preventing an increase in free fatty acid content of cottonseed stored in large quantities.

With permanently installed fans, an air flow rate as low as 5.4 cubic feet per minute (cfm) per ton of cottonseed was effective in preventing a loss in germination and an increase in free fatty acid content of cottonseed with a maximum moisture content of 12 per cent. The time required to move a cooling zone through an entire depth of seed ranged from 110 to 120 hours of fan operation with an air flow rate of 5.4 cfm per ton, as compared with 50 to 55 hours with an air flow rate of 12.5 per ton.

All the 160 ton capacity bins were equipped with air distribution systems for aerating the stored seed. Under the weather conditions encountered in these tests, an average of 50 days was required to reduce seed temperatures from 85 to 65 degrees Fahrenheit with permanently installed fans supplying air at a rate of 5.4 cfm per ton, as compared with 60 days with a portable fan supplying air at a rate of 12.5 cfm per ton.

A chart was developed from the tests to aid in determination of air, static pressure, and horse power requirements to aerate cottonseed with the recommended air flow rate of 5.4 cfm per ton. To use the chart an operator needs to know only the floor area of a bin and the depth of seed to be stored.

The results of the tests are discussed in a publication released by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station entitled "Storage of Cottonseed for Planting Purposes." Write the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, for a copy of the publication. Ask for MP-326.

Letters to the Editor...

ABOUT THE "PROBLEM"

Dear Editor: Your "problem", as presented in the June 25th column of "Postings" is a serious one. The trustees are certainly mistaken in assuming that the citizens of Post are not interested in the discussions preceding their decisions. A representative of the press should be present at ALL meetings. Any criticism of the trustees resulting from a fair, objective report in the Dispatch should be looked upon as a challenge to do better. That one has a "thankless job" is hardly the point.

If, as the trustees say, The Dispatch has, on occasion, misquoted them, or made any insinuations concerning the discussion at their meetings, then these particular instances have not been examples of "fair and objective" reporting. I suggest that The Dispatch avoid any such misrepresentation, and assure the trustees a space in the paper to clarify their positions in case there is future misunderstanding. Unless something is wrong, such a proposal by The Dispatch should overcome all reticence on the part of the trustees for full coverage of school sessions.

Very Sincerely,
MRS. W. E. CHAPMAN, JR.
(EDITOR'S NOTE — The Dispatch always tries to be "objective" with its reporting. When mistakes are made we are more than willing to correct them.)

Small Watershed Protection Loan Program begins

COLLEGE STATION — The U. S. Department of Agriculture announced in mid-June the first Government loan to enable a local public improvement organization to participate in a small watershed development project, said Jack Barton, extension soil and water conservation specialist.

The loan will be made by USDA's Farmers Home Administration to the Thorofare Creek Meadow Co., Salem County, N. J. The $35,000 loan will help finance the non-Federal share of the cost of rebuilding a 3,100-foot-dike and installation of three tide gates. Another 7,300-foot dike used for flood prevention purposes will be rebuilt with Federal funds, Barton said.

Under the Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act, local organizations and the Federal Government share the cost of a small watershed development. Participating organizations that need to borrow funds to pay their share of the cost, and cannot obtain the needed credit elsewhere under reasonable terms and conditions, may apply to the FHA for credit assistance, he said.

State Bookmobile due here Friday

The big red and white "library on wheels," the Texas State Library Bookmobile, will pay another visit to Post Friday of this week.

The bookmobile will be at its usual place here — just west of Tom Power Ford — and will be open from 9 until 11:30 a. m., and from 12:30 until 3 p. m.

Miss Mary Jo Vines, librarian, reminds that the West Texas Bookmobile Demonstration is being provided by the Texas State Library for a one-year "free sample" by requests of the commissioners' courts to serve the rural areas of Crosby, Dickens, Floyd, Garza, and Kent counties.

"Use it free for one year to see if you want rural library service later through local support," Miss Vines suggests.

Any resident may borrow books free for three weeks and renew them if not finished then. One member of the family may check out books for all members.

The bookmobile also visits the Garza County communities of Close City, Pleasant Valley, Southland, Graham and Justiceburg.

Miss Vines reports the following number of book checkouts at those places on the bookmobile's last stop:

Close City, 22; Pleasant Valley, 52; Southland, 42; Graham, 46; Justiceburg, 39.

TB Association awards 36 research grants

AUSTIN — Dr. William F. Miller of the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School in Dallas is one of 36 investigators who have been awarded a medical research grant by the National Tuberculosis Association and its medical section, the American Trudeau Society, for the year beginning July 1.

Dr. Miller will study lung function. Other research endeavors (aimed generally at better ways to control, prevent or cure tuberculosis), including immunity, treatment of childhood TB, drug action and blood testing for the disease, will be carried out by investigators to whom funds of the tuberculosis association have been made available.

The research program is supported from proceeds of the annual Christmas Seal campaign. In addition to the funds set aside by the National Tuberculosis Association and the Trudeau group, local and state tuberculosis associations have made special contributions to the national TB group for medical research. They are also supporting research projects independently of the NTA.

Prevention is best procedure for weed control in pastures

COLLEGE STATION — Weeds often cut improved pasture and hay yields by 50 per cent or more. This, says E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist, is the reason why weeds should be controlled in improved pastures.

Weeds cut yields by stealing moisture, plant nutrients and light from the pasture or hay plants, and some weeds prevent grazing and lower hay quality.

Prevention is the best means of weed control. Pastures that are properly grazed and fertilized usually do not have a severe weed problem, said Trew. Fencerows and roadsides should be kept clean and weed seed should not be brought in by combines and other machinery, in feed or in planting seed.

Mowing is an effective means of pasture weed control when properly timed. All weeds should be mowed before they produce seed. Some weeds, such as eastern bitterweed and yankeeweed will require at least two mowings in one season, he said.

One spraying of 2,4-D with ground equipment costs about the same as one mowing, but if the spraying is properly done it is often as effective as three mowings. One properly timed application of 2,4-D often gives control for the entire season.

Weeds should be sprayed when they are in the young, rapid growth stage. When crops susceptible to 2,4-D are nearby, pasture spraying may have to be done before these crops are planted, the specialist said. When pasture legumes such as clovers, are to be protected, spraying may be delayed until the legumes have formed enough hard seed to insure a volunteer stand the next fall.

For spraying improved pastures in areas of 30 inches annual rainfall, use 1 pound of 2,4-D amine to 10 to 25 gallons of water per acre. Add 1/2 to 1 cup of liquid household or laundry detergent per 100 gallons of spray mixture as a wetting agent.

For stands of such grasses as buffel and blue panic in areas of less than 30 inches of rainfall, use 1 pound of 2,4-D amine or low volatile ester, with a wetting agent, he said. For summer temporary pastures of Sudan and the like, use 1/2 to 3/4 pound of 2,4-D amine in 10 to 25 gallons of water per acre. Do not use a wetting agent on these grasses.

Boom-type sprayers give the most accurate placement of the spray but are more troublesome. Trew said boomless-type sprayers using a single nozzle or a cluster of nozzles are faster and less trouble, and they have a minimum of 15 gallons of mixture per acre for good coverage. Airplanes may be used effectively, with spray output at 5 gallons per acre.

Before spraying get a copy of the State Herbicidal regulations and study them to see how they apply to you, as they are for your protection, added Trew.

HOME AGENT SAYS

Pre-soaking can make laundry problem easier

By JESSIE PEARCE

Heavily soiled clothes that don't come clean with regular washing are problems to many homemakers.

A special pre-soaking, suited to both the soil and fabric, may be the answer to some of those laundry problems.

Greasy overalls and cotton work shirts may be soaked for 15 to 20 minutes in hot sudsy water containing a half cup of household ammonia. For convenience, soak in the tub of the washer, then spin or wring out the clothes and wash in the regular manner.

Oversoiled slip covers, curtains, and play clothes may be soaked for 10 to 20 minutes in warm water, or in warm water containing a detergent or non-precipitating water softener. Use one-half to one tablespoon of either substance for each gallon of water. After soaking, extract the water and wash as usual.

Soiled collars, neckbands and cuffs also will profit from some special attention before washing. Loosen the soil in these areas by working suds gently into the fabric with hands, soft brush or sponge. Use the same soap or other detergent that will be used in washing. A jar of soap jelly (water added to your washday detergent to make a thick, soft soap) stored by your washer will be handy for this purpose.

Part of your problems may be solved by using a water softener, both in the wash and rinse water. If you are now using a water softener in the wash water, try adding the same amount of softener to the deep rinse. This will prevent the formation of soap curd in the rinse water, and this curd, formed by the reaction of the soap and the minerals in the water, is what makes many clothes dingy.

Another washday help that you may have not tried, is the fabric softeners now available. For clothes or linens that have become hard from constant washing, try a fabric softener on the label. You will be surprised how much softer and fluffier bath towels will become.

For special stains problems, treat for the specific stain. I have bulletins in the office that give this information. If you wish one, just pick it up off the rack in my office.

Sesame growers name manager

MULESHOE — William F. Wimberly has been named general manager of Texas Sesame Growers, Inc. operations on the High Plains. Robert L. Parker, executive vice president of the farmer-owned organization, announced today.

Wimberly will live at Muleshoe where Texas Sesame Growers maintains its High Plains headquarters.

Parker said that Wimberly not only will work directly with farmers in the irrigated areas of the Panhandle where approximately 85 per cent of the nation's commercial sesame is produced, but that he will be in charge of the organization's complete modern seed processing plant, its grain elevator and grain storage warehouses.

A large portion of the High Plains sesame crop is processed through the new seed cleaning plant, and the grain elevator and mill storage facilities provide an additional service to the farmers of the area, Parker stated.

Wimberly, veteran of four years in the U. S. Air Force, is a native of Hillsboro. He has a degree in agricultural economics from Texas A&M College.

Vet's Forum

Q. I have a $10,000 World War II GI insurance policy. I am thinking of adding VA's total disability rider to the policy, which would pay me $100 a month if I became disabled for six months or more so I could not work. Would I have to go on paying the policy premiums to ensure my family would be protected?

A. No. As long as you qualify for the disability payments, your payment of premiums would be waived, and there would be no reduction of the protection your family now has under the policy.

Q. I have a nonservice-connected disability for which my doctor recommends hospitalization and treatment. Under what conditions may I be admitted to a VA hospital?

A. The law provides that veterans of any war with nonservice-connected disabilities for which hospitalization is necessary may be admitted only if they state under oath they are financially unable to pay hospital charges elsewhere, and if beds are available.

Most of gain in young beef stock

Cattle numbers in U.S. are at new record high

COLLEGE STATION — There were 96,851,000 head of cattle in the United States on Jan. 1, 1959, said John G. McHanev, extension economist. This is a new record and three and one-half million more than on Jan. 1, 1958.

Most of this increase in the cattle inventory was in young beef stock, McHanev said. For example, beef heifers rose 750,000 head, steer numbers rose 730,000 also, and calf numbers were 1,300,000 higher. The beef cow herd increased 1.3 million, however, the number of milk cows were off 600,000 head, leaving the total cow increase at 700,000.

A big expansion in beef production for the market in 1959 or 1960 is not expected because cow numbers are not large, he said. They are still two million below 1955 and this is favorable from a price standpoint, because the calf crop this year will not be large enough to bring about a great increase in slaughter in 1959. Many of the heifers and heifer calves will be retained as breeding stock. However, many young cattle will go to slaughter this year or next, after a period of feeding.

The outlook for fairly stable slaughter and prices in 1959 is based upon favorable range and pasture conditions. Prices during the rest of 1959 should remain good, said the economist. A severe drought however, would cause more cattle to move to market and you may want to be there first with the most. For this reason, he says, you

Better salaries in other states siphon teachers

Neighboring states will continue to siphon teachers from Texas schools because of better salaries, Texas' assistant commissioner of education told school business officials at Texas Tech.

The possibility of meeting this competition evidently will have to await the next regular Legislative session, Leon Graham of Austin told a School Business Services Workshop held Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

The current Legislature has done nothing to change the situation, Graham pointed out. He said legislation also is needed to make consolidation of school districts easier.

R. T. Smith, superintendent of the Post schools, was among the more than 50 school officials attending the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. John Guthrie and children, Bobbie, Mildred, Herman, Lucille and John Jr., left Saturday on a vacation trip to New Mexico, which will include a tour of the Carlsbad Caverns and a visit at Cloudcroft.

Vertical integration in the seed industry is undergoing study

COLLEGE STATION — Vertical integration has existed in some form for many years in the planting seed industry. It is estimated that less than 10 firms produce most of the seed for any one vegetable crop in the nation. The seed industry, in an effort to supply a quality product, has integrated many steps in the production process.

Virtually all integration has occurred through contractual arrangements. An indication that the trend of vertical integration will continue is evidenced by the fact that an estimated 90 per cent of the hybrid corn and grain sorghum seed produced in Texas is under contract.

The big difference between vertical integration in the seed business and in other agricultural commodities is that the production of most agricultural products generally begins with the farmer and ends in satisfying the buying needs of the housewife or commercial consumer. In the seed business, it begins and ends with the farmer, because seed usually are produced by farmers under contract with a seedsman and the ultimate buyer also is a farmer. Many types of seed are subject to inspection from producer to consumer. This procedure is not followed so rigorously with many other agricultural commodities. Government agencies such as the Soil Conservation Service, take an active interest in finding and distributing new varieties, and encouraging individuals to grow seed. Efforts of these agencies often result in some form of vertical integration.

"Vertical Integration in Texas Agriculture — Seed Production" is the title of a new leaflet released jointly by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

It discusses specific crops and extent of vertical integration in the U. S. and Texas, the obligations of seed growers and seedsmen, and the advantages, problems and future considerations of the seed industry.

Horse Show judge, ringmaster named

The judge and ringmaster have been named for the 11th annual Garza County Quarter Horse Show to be held Aug. 8 at the Post Stampedo Rodeo arena, according to George "Scotty" Samson, show official.

Doyle Saul of Plainview, widely known quarter horse owner and enthusiast, will judge the animals, beginning at 1 p. m. Novis Rodgers of Post and Snyder, one of the area's outstanding quarter horse and cutting horse judges, will serve as ringmaster.

This year's show, being held for the first time in its history, is expected to attract more than 100 entries. Approved by the American Quarter Horse Association, it will be conducted according to AQHA rules and regulations, Samson said.

An added feature of this year's show will be a barrel race, in which two trophy buckles are awarded.

Trophies, which have already been ordered, will be awarded to the place winners in the halter and cutting ribbons being given in each class.

The trophy buckles will go to the first place winners in the senior junior and reining divisions, with ribbons being awarded through sixth places.

The fact that the Post show is now affiliated with the Golden Spread Quarter Horse Association is expected to double the number of entries over last year's event, Samson said.

Miss Ruth Ann Long is secretary of the show.

Milk fights off summer fatigue

COLLEGE STATION — Rising temperatures call for lighter meals and more liquids.

So when you serve something cold to drink, make it milk. This is a good way to make sure that every adult member of the family gets that daily pint of milk so necessary to good health, and that youngsters get at least a quart.

Milk rates at the top of the list of thirst-quenchers, says the Texas Extension Service.

Milk furnishes plenty of high-quality proteins and energy to give you strength to resist summer fatigue.

How good milk tastes just as it is — fresh and cold! But if you want to dress it up, add chocolate or maple syrup to suit your taste.

For something special, try this flip made with buttermilk. You'll need 6 tablespoons of fresh lime juice, ¼ cup sugar, a dash of salt, green food coloring, 6 cups buttermilk and some fresh mint springs. Combine all ingredients except mint and mix well. Pour into cold glasses and top with mint.

To judge at Stamford

Novis Rodgers will be one of the cutting horse contest judges at the annual Cowboy Reunion in Stamford this weekend. He is chairman of the cutting horse contest for the Post Stampedo Rodeo opening July 8, and will be ringmaster for the annual Garza County Quarter Horse Show here Aug. 8.

The Timid Soul

IT'S A HIGH-VOLTAGE DRAMA

'The Young Philadelphians' to show at Tower Sunday, Monday, Tuesday

Presented by an all-star cast guided by gifted director Vincent Sherman, Warner Bros.' high-voltage drama, "The Young Philadelphians," will show Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Tower Theatre.

Based on Richard Powell's volatile best-selling novel, "The Philadelphian," the film tells a story of love, death and seduction, unfolded against the background of a young man's efforts to climb to the top of the legal profession.

Paul Newman, Barbara Rush, Alexis Smith, Brian Keith, Diane Brewster, Billie Burke and John Williams head the all-star cast of the film version of the novel that cracked upper-crust Philadelphia society wide open.

According to many critics who have already viewed the production, it will be one of the year's most controversial motion pictures, commenting as it does on the morals and mores of one of the tightest social groups in the world — the Main Line.

It is the story, also, of an alleged murder by a young man of his uncle over a million-dollar fortune and of Paul Newman, who has reached the pinnacle of success, throwing over his future to defend his lifelong friend.

Vincent Sherman himself says: "This picture has all the ingredients necessary for a fine piece of entertainment. In addition to the searing situations, we had some of the top talents in show business enacting the roles."

Added to those persons previously mentioned are outstanding performers like Paul Picerni, Robert Douglas, Otto Kruger, Frank Conroy and Richard Deacon.

There are touches of comedy, too, particularly in the role played by Billie Burke — that of Mrs. J. Arthur Allen, an eccentric, wealthy dowager who carries on constant conversations with her Mexican Chihuahua.

All in all, it is expected that "The Young Philadelphians" will be one of the most talked about motion pictures of 1959.

Soil Conservation postage stamp is to be put on sale

COLLEGE STATION — A 4-cent postage stamp saluting progress in soil conservation in the United States will be issued Aug. 26 by the Post Office Department, said Lynn Pittard, assistant extension soil and water conservation specialist.

The nation's first soil conservation stamp will be formally released at the annual meeting of the Soil Conservation Society of America at Rapid City, S. D., Aug. 26. It will go on sale the following day at post offices throughout the country.

The stamp, which was developed in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, portrays a modern farmland setting signifying that conservation farming brings beauty as well as bounty to rural living. Soil conservation practices portrayed include pasture improvement, tree planting, and a farm pond. In addition, the silhouette of a city in the background symbolizes that urban as well as rural people are highly dependent upon the care and wise use of land as a principal source of food, water, shelter and clothing. The stamp will be printed in three colors, yellow, green and blue.

Issuance of the stamp, Pittard said, is a tribute to farmers and ranchers, their local soil conservation districts and to the professional agricultural workers who have helped make the United States a world leader in soil conservation.

First day "covers" containing the stamp are available through the Postmaster at Rapid City, S. D. Upon request and receipt of addressed envelopes and a remittance to cover the cost of the stamps, the post office at Rapid

County nearing '59 bond goal
