

FIRST CUSTOMER IN NEW OFFICE

T. L. Jones, local ice and grain man who has been using electrical power here ever since 1914, was the first customer Monday to pay his bill in the new Southwestern Public Service office at 217 West Main street. Mrs. Ruth Young is shown preparing the receipt. The utility firm will have an open house for its new building Sunday from 2 to 5 p. m.

SWPS open house planned here for Sunday afternoon

The completion and occupation of a new office building for Southwestern Public Service Co., with open house set for Sunday afternoon, has been announced by Ted R. Hibbs, local manager.

The open house at the new building is to be held from 2 until 5 o'clock.

The new office located across the street from the new First National Bank building, at 217 West Main, has 1,770 square feet of floor space and is heated and cooled by an all-electric heat pump.

For customer convenience, the new building has a drive-up window and night depository with a Main Street entrance and exits on Ave K and L.

LATEST IN LIGHTING
Also featured in the new building is the latest in modern office lighting and a Reddy Room with a display of the newest electric appliances.

At Sunday's open house, organ music will be provided by Bernie Howell of Lubbock, and there will be refreshments and favors for the children.

Building contractor for the new building was W. L. Breshears of Levelland, and the landowner is C. E. Basinger of Southland.

The offices were moved from their former location at 229 East Main.

"The new office," Hibbs said, "is designed for maximum customer convenience and is a tribute to the growth of Post and the area."

IN EXPANSION PROGRAM
Company officials pointed out that the new office building here is a part of the company's $117,000,000 construction and equipment program for the next five years. This figure equals the amount the company had invested just 10 years ago, and is 45 per cent of the investment that it currently has in its 45,000 square mile service area.

Company officials also said that, in the face of rising costs and continued investment, electric service has an outstanding record for economy. In 1960, the average residential customer of Southwestern Public Service Co. paid just under 3 cents for each kilowatt-hour of electricity—2.96 cents to be exact. And that's down 21 per cent from ten years ago.

Customers' electric service bills are higher, of course, than they were ten years ago, but that is because customers are using nearly 120 per cent more electric service than they were ten years ago, company officials explained. The customer is still spending, on the average, only 1.3 cents for electric service out of each dollar that

Contest deadline near

Time short

Entries are beginning to pour into The Dispatch office for its annual Easter Coloring Contest for youngsters up to and including 12 years of age.

Deadline for the contest is Saturday noon when The Dispatch closes for the weekend. Entries received by mail up to Monday morning will be eligible for the judging, however.

Six prizes, three in each of the two age divisions, are on display in The Dispatch window. Every youngster entering the contest, whether or not he or she wins one of the prizes, will receive a free pass to the Tower Theater, courtesy of Theater Manager Johnny Hopkins.

Winners will be announced in next week's Dispatch and entries can then start picking up their prizes at The Dispatch office.

The contest page appeared in last week's Dispatch.

Boys and girls, if you haven't finished your entries, get to work coloring and get them entries in before the deadline.

Officers looking for trio who looted and burned liquor store

Employee and customers locked in auto trunks

An investigation was continuing today in an effort to track down three armed thieves who looted the White Top Liquor Store, 18 miles northwest of Post on FM-651 near the Crosby County line, Tuesday night, locked the store attendant and two customers in car trunks, burned the store to the ground, and disappeared with a pickup truckload of liquor and a car stolen at the scene.

Jack Jones of Crosbyton, owner of the store, said yesterday he had no estimate of the loss in liquor or cash. Since business was bad, only a small stock of liquor was on hand, he said.

Sheriff Fay Claborn said the operator of the store, W. T. Scott, told him that a short, stubby Mexican wearing a white handkerchief over his face with a black and red cap on his head held him up about 10 minutes of 10 p. m. Tuesday night with what looked like a .22 pistol.

He marched Scott to the rear of the isolated liquor store, just off the highway to the east, and locked him in a trunk of a car parked behind the store.

While the three thieves were "loading up" liquor into their red Ford pickup truck, two Crosbyton customers drove up to the liquor store. They also were held up by the gunman and locked in the trunk of another car.

One of the customers saw two men in the store and after being locked in the trunk thought they heard a third man talking.

The back seat of Scott's car was torn out to provide more room in which to load the liquor.

A passerby on the highway noticed the liquor store afire and gave the alarm.

The local sheriff's office received notification of the fire about 11:45 p. m. in a round-about telephone call. When Sheriff Fay Claborn, Deputies Elton Corley and Oscar Gay, Constable J. A. Johnson, and City Marshal Otis G. Shepherd Jr. arrived from Post, with the Post volunteer fire department close behind, they found the Spur fire department already there and the building burned to the ground.

Crosbyton man fatally injured in auto wreck

Garza County's second traffic fatality of the year occurred Saturday night when Abe Johnson, 53, of Crosbyton was fatally injured when his car went out of control and overturned about eight miles northeast of Post on FM Road 651.

Riding with Johnson, but uninjured in the accident were O. J. Price, 50, of DeQueen, Ark., a brother-in-law of the victim, and Louis Dixon, about 45, of Crosbyton.

Johnson died about 9 a. m. Sunday in a Crosbyton hospital where he had been taken after examination at his home by a physician.

A passing motorist picked up the three men following the wreck and took them to Crosbyton. Johnson was taken to his home and a physician was later called. He was transferred to a Crosbyton hospital.

Sheriff L. E. (Fay) Claborn and Deputy Sheriff Elton Corley, who investigated the accident, said the victim was believed to have died of a punctured lung. The officers' investigation showed

Discuss arena improvements

Members of Post Stampede, Inc., elected officers and directors, discussed improvements to the rodeo arena, and approved the Post Junior Rodeo Association's use of the arena for this year's Southwestern Championship Junior Rodeo at a stockholder's meeting Tuesday night.

Newly elected directors again named J. E. Birdwell as president; W. S. Duckworth, vice president; Phil S. Bouchier, manager, and Ira (Dad) Greenfield, secretary-treasurer.

Elected to the board of directors were the above-named officers and Harold Voss, S. E. Camp, Ed Kelly Sims, Powell Shytles, Pearl Nance, Novis Rodgers, Hinton Pruitt and Jack Burruss.

Discussion of plans for extensive remodeling of the Stampede Rodeo grounds led to appointment of a committee to make a survey to see what needs to be done at the arena here and to visit new or remodeled rodeo arenas in the area for ideas on the remodeling here.

the ground.

Shortly after 11 p. m., T. G. Herring of Crosbyton, another employe of the store, and another Crosbyton man drove up to the burning store and heard the three imprisoned men shouting from the car trunks and freed them.

The Ford pickup truck used by the trio of thieves was believed to have been either a 1953 or 1956 model.

The stolen car, a black and white Buick belonging to Scott, was abandoned by Crosbyton officers about 6 p. m. Wednesday 8 miles south of Ralls and 3½ miles west of the Ralls highway on FM-40.

This is the second major liquor store burglary and burning since legal liquor came to Precinct 3 last April.

The first was a burglary of Big John's Cut Rate Liquor Store No. 5, located less than 200 yards from the White Top package store, which burned Tuesday night on FM-651. It was burglarized May 12 of liquor estimated worth $4,000 to $6,000 and then burned to the ground one night a week later after the store had been closed because of the burglary. Both the burglary and the cause of that fire have remained unsolved.

First money to come soon on $4 million White River loan

Directors of the White River Municipal Water District, meeting here last Thursday with city councilmen and other city officials from the four member towns, were told by Engineer Jim Nichols of Fort Worth that the first advance on the $4,000,000 loan can be expected within the next few weeks.

Nichols, of the engineering firm of Freese, Nichols & Endress, told the directors that plans and specifications for the dam, filtration plant and pipe lines to the four towns are now being reviewed by the State Board of Water Engineers.

The first advance, Nichols said, will be used for purchase of land, and right-of-way for the project.

APPROVE SCHEDULE

Earlier, the directors had approved the amortization, or payment schedule on the $4,000,000 bond issue and a 15-year option on paying off or refunding of the bonds.

The amortization schedule, which had already been presented to the Texas Water Development Board, was explained to the directors and guests by Ransom Galloway, representing the water district's fiscal agents.

The directors also appointed a district tax equalization board, composed of one member from each of the four cities, and discussed at length the setting up of the district's tax assessing and collecting program for the first year.

Named to the equalization board were Walter Duckworth of Post, Bill McKee of Ralls, Norton Barrett of Crosbyton and D. L. Knight of Spur.

Developers elect banker president

Irby G. Metcalf Jr. was elected president of Post Developments, Inc., Tuesday night in an organizational meeting of the new industry-hunting non-profit corporation in the Community Room of the First National Bank.

S. E. Camp was named vice president and Pat N. Walker secretary.

Elected to the board of directors, besides Metcalf and Camp, were J. E. Birdwell, Giles McCrary, Ronnie Bouchier, Bryan J. Williams, and Jim Cornish.

IRBY G. METCALF, JR.

Stockholders in other major actions at the 90 minute session launched a membership drive for the organization and decided to invite James R. Bradley, head of the Industrial Economic Research staff of Texas A&M College, to come to Post and discuss with Post Developments a proposed complete industrial survey and evaluation of this community's industrial potential.

Stockholders hope to arrange a joint meeting of the Post Rotary and Lions club to which other interested business men could be invited to see as special guests to hear Bradley explain such an industrial survey for Post.

Expenses of Bradley's visit here will be paid by Post Developments.

Bradley then would meet with stockholders after such a luncheon to discuss other aspects of such a survey.

The Industrial Economic Research organization, Bradley recently wrote Post Developments, in answer to a query, has been given the job of aiding Texas communities in such research by the Texas Industrial Development Commission, which does not have funds for its own operations.

To date the organization has conducted such surveys for some the rodeo arena for the summer show.

It was reported the Post Stampede arena, which intends no 1961 rodeo grounds of its own, may spend up to $3,000 on the chutes, pens, and bleachers.

LEASE COST RISES

The Junior Rodeo originally paid only $1 a year lease on the grounds, it was pointed out at Friday night's session in the district courtroom, but the lease cost has risen to $500 annually which has been the figure in recent years.

Heart attack is fatal to pioneer Garza resident

Chester Tatum, 61-year-old Negro farm laborer, was shot and killed last Monday afternoon after he had critically wounded his employer, J. O. Roberts, for no apparent reason and then engaged some 20 peace officers in an 85-minute gun battle on a farm in the Pleasant Valley community.

Roberts, who was shot in the stomach by Tatum, is reported to be "holding his own" in West Texas Hospital in Lubbock after undergoing emergency surgery.

Tatum refused to answer the pleas of Garza County Sheriff Fay Claborn and Slaton Police Chief Gene Martin to come out of his house on the Roberts farm, a mile west and one and one-fourth miles south of Pleasant Valley in northern Garza County.

FIRES POINT BLANK

Instead he fired point blank through the door of his home at Chief Martin with the slug grazing Martin's chin.

After the gun fight was over, two of Tatum's pistol bullets were dug out of the Garza sheriff's car behind which Sheriff Claborn had placed himself.

In all, officers fired some 200 rounds of ammunition and six tear gas bombs into the house with Tatum shooting back with a pistol through door and window.

The battle ended when Garza Deputy Sheriff Elton Corley ran to the door of the house, shot the latch off the door, and Texas Ranger Captain Raymond Walters kicked it in.

They found Tatum dead on the floor with a bullet wound in his chest.

Officers who answered the call, besides those mentioned, included three other Slaton policemen, Sgt. Jim Pauk, Highway Patrol Captain E. L. Posey and Sgt. E. L. Stroud and about a dozen highway patrolmen from Lubbock.

GAS BOMBS FAIL

The three-room block building which was Tatum's home was riddled with bullets from rifles, shotguns, and pistols. Officers three times failed in efforts to shoot tear gas bombs through a window into the house.

Farm hand dies in gun battle

Editor Charlie Didway and this writer have agreed many times that Post turns up the most news for a town its size anywhere. This week was an exception, however. It turned up so much sensational news that it made headlines for three days running in the neighboring daily, the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. We're sorry to add that none of the news was good that made those headlines.

We had the opportunity to appear at a TV press conference via channel 11 television in Lubbock Monday night to pop questions at Attorney General Will Wilson, one in the big field of candidates seeking Texas' vacant senate seat April 4 in the special election. Wilson saw none of the questions before they were asked and told the newsmen prior to the show's going on the air that if we didn't like the answers to press again and the sharper the questions the better. He fielded them all without dropping the ball once.

'Reddy Kilowatt' invites you

'Reddy Kilowatt proudly invites you to attend the formal opening of his new home Sunday, March 26, at 217 West Main, from 2 until 3 p. m.'

That's the way the formal invitations being sent by Southwestern Public Service Company to out-of-town business associates read, and all Post area residents are being invited through The Post Dispatch. The utility company is anxious for everyone to attend Sunday's open house in their new building on West Main.

Open houses held by business institutions are always unmistakable signs of progress, just as are open houses held by schools, churches, etc. Construction and occupation of new quarters always reflect the confidence of a business firm or a public group in the future of the community they serve.

That little fellow, "Reddy Kilowatt," who invites you to Sunday's formal opening of the utility company's new building, is pretty much in the public eye these days. In fact, it is being argued right now that in coming years we may be faced with a "kilowatt gap"—that is, that Russia's intensive efforts to develop her electric power complex will ultimately result in Soviet superiority in this vital field, to the grave detriment of our position as an economic power and to our defensive strength. That argument has been extended to include a demand that the government embark on a crash program of socialized power development, as the only way of dealing with the pending crisis.

Well, an argument is one thing and a fact is another. And here is a case where facts can be summoned from official sources. To begin with, in a recent year, says the Federal Power Commission, the average American home consumed 3,336 kilowatts of electricity as against 400 in Russia—which works out to be an 8-to-1 "gap" in our favor.

At the end of another recent year, says the same source, Russia had 59 million kilowatts of capacity compared with 176 million here—a 3-to-1 "gap."

Top experts say, without equivocation, that there is no possibility of Russia overtaking the U. S. in power production in the foreseeable future. It would be a great thing if the "missile gap" were as easily understood and solved as the non-existent "kilowatt gap."

No wonder "Reddy Kilowatt," who is inviting you to Sunday's formal opening is such a bright, cheerful and confident little fellow.—CD.

THURSDAY to THURSDAY

WE'VE JUST RECEIVED a table from the Texas Municipal League that shows Post's rank, population-wise, among the state's 840 cities.

Post, with a 1960 population of 4,663, ranks 192nd—just under Alpine with a population of 4,740 and just above McGregor with a population of 4,642.

IN 1950, WHEN Post's population was 3,141, it ranked 212th in population. So, in the space of ten years, we have increased our standing by 20 places.

The table also contains figures on Southland, whose 1960 population was 153—a decrease of 57 from its 1950 population of 210. Southland now ranks 822nd, whereas ten years ago it ranked 698th.

IN OUR EFFORTS to put out a high grade newspaper here in Post—regardless of what anyone else thinks about it—we bump up against all sorts of criticisms. Which, we suppose, is to be expected, because 3,000 years ago things were pretty much the same—as shown by this fable, first written by Aesop:

Once upon a time, there was a poor tenant farmer whose sole property was a manny gray female ass with a shrill bray. One day this farmer set out to market astride the ass, with his little son following, when they passed a neighbor leaning on his fence.

"You brute!" said the neighbor, "letting that little child trudge in the dust—get off and let him ride." So the old farmer, who set considerable store by public opinion, got off, put the little boy in the saddle, and started leading the ass down the road, until they came to another neighbor who stopped his plowing to remark:

"This is a revolting spectacle! Shame on that straining boy who rides, while his old gray-haired father has to walk." So again they stopped, and the old man ordered the boy to get up behind him, and they went another half mile until they came to an old lady who was hoeing turnips, but who stopped to say:

"I'm going to telephone the S. P. C. A.—this is the most brutal thing I have ever seen. Imagine!—two strong people riding one frail little ass! They are much better able to carry her, than she them."

So the old man, who believed you should at all costs bow to public opinion, put his little son on the ground, got off himself, and together they managed to pick up the ass, which weighed 300 pounds and was kicking and struggling, being unused to being carried. Again they started off down the road, managing pretty well until they came to a bridge where the ass managed to break loose and fell off into the river where she was swept away and drowned.

Now, 3,000 years ago, Aesop said that the moral of his tale was, "If thou triest to please everybody, thou wilt end up by losing thine ass." And we believe that this broad principle also holds true running a newspaper in Post.

AS SOMEONE ELSE put it, the man who tries to please everybody shows little respect for his own way of thinking.

Junior Rodeo plant big need

Action by the Post Junior Rodeo Association Friday night virtually assures this community of another entertaining rodeo promotion this summer.

The association voted to pay $700 rental for use of the Post Stampede rodeo grounds on a one-year basis. Those were the terms of the offer made the previous week.

Post is the home of junior rodeoing the nation over and it would be a shame for the community to lose its rodeo. It came closer this year than usual with the Lynn County Rodeo Association making the junior rodeo association a ten-year offer to move the show to Tahoka on a two-county basis with directors from both counties.

It is time that public spirited citizens, who realize the value of some plans for the future—this, start making some plans for the future—to assure the organization of a rodeo grounds down through the years.

Undoubtedly the best solution to the rodeo grounds problem would be for the city-county park board to secure sufficient land near to its present park site and take under its management a rodeo grounds and the two baseball parks for the youngsters, which are now on leased ground.

That, of course, is not an easy thing to do. Efforts have been made, we understand, to secure land immediately adjacent to the city-county park before a solution to the city's summer youth baseball program, but the land wasn't for sale.

But the public should keep a long-range goal in view. Expansion of the park to include a rodeo ground and the baseball parks, all operated under the city-county park board, remains the ideal solution.

And it is a solution to be sought through continued efforts on this community's part.

Post wants to keep its Junior Rodeo, and that can only be assured by providing it with a permanent home grounds.—JC.

Interest up in city elections

Texas city residents will choose Tuesday, April 4, between approximately 4,000 candidates for more than 3,700 offices in the local municipal elections.

The Texas Municipal League said this week that, while no exact figures are available, it is estimated that at least this many men and women are seeking elective offices in the state's 881 incorporated cities, most of which will have elections in April. The contested offices are principally for positions on local city councils or commissions.

Post will be contributing to the total by voting from among three candidates for mayor and seven candidates for two council posts.

Steve Matthews, executive director for the Texas Municipal League, says reports from local officials indicate that more Texans will participate this year than ever before in history. In part, this is attributed to the larger poll tax payments this year because of the interest in the special election for U. S. Senator. However, public interest in municipal government has been increasing steadily and the local elections will, in their own right, draw heavy voting from citizens vitally interested in and well-informed about issues in municipal affairs.

We believe that to be the case in Post.

It will also be the case in most other Texas cities on April 4. There seems to be a universal increase in citizen concern over the fiscal problems facing the cities. The municipal tax problem, for instance, is a matter of broad-based concern since all our Texas cities must rely so heavily on the property tax, which affects not only business and industry, but also each home-owning family.—CD.

A step in the right direction

We sincerely hope something comes from the Post schools' new program of encouraging parents of Spanish-American children to see to it that their children obtain a better education.

Post has a proportionately large Spanish-American population, but one couldn't tell it by checking the number of students of Spanish-American descent attending high school here. The large population is reflected by the number of these children in the lower grades, but the problem develops as they grow older and drop out of school before completing their high school education.

School officials are taking the problem to the right place by calling in the Spanish-American parents to help them solve the problem. After all, the school offers the education, but it is up to the parents and to the students themselves to see that advantage is taken of it.

A school press release on the first such meeting with parents, held March 14, indicates that some progress was made and that even more progress is anticipated.

It is to the advantage of the community, as well as to the children and their parents, that these students obtain a high school education. Considering the number of Spanish-American children annually enrolled in the lower grades, there have been far too few of them who have graduated from high school.—CD.

Science Fair proves something

The Science Fair held recently at Post High School points up the over-all progress that has been made in the school curriculum during the last few years. If there was any department of the high school sadly behind the times three or four years ago, it was the science department.

The Science Fair showed, through its many exhibits, that a well-rounded program is under way and is being efficiently taught in all the grades. Most of the patrons viewing the exhibits were amazed at the intricacy of some of them —of such things as an electret, demonstration on separation of rare earths, oscilloscope, hydrolysis of ethyl acetate, exhibit on space geometrics, etc.

If as much headway in the teaching of science is being made in other schools throughout the nation as has been made here, then the suddenly-aroused fears of a few years ago that we never would catch the Russians in the field of science, may be going down the drain.

Congratulations to the sponsoring Science Club, all the other students and the teachers for such an outstanding display.—CD.

What our contemporaries are saying

Down at Austin, a bill has been introduced in the Texas Legislature that would permit electric cooperatives to serve residents of towns and cities which overflow into rural areas, and incidentally prevents private power companies from serving such areas. That is just another step toward stifling private industry and of using public tax monies for purposes for which they are not intended.—Frank Hill in The Lynn County News.

I can honestly say I learned something when I attended school Tuesday. The third grade class sang, "Texas, Our Texas." When I was in school we sang, "largest and grandest" . . . noticed they have now changed the wording to "longest and grandest." Haven't checked the measurements, but I gather that Texas is longer than Alaska . . . though not larger—Wendell Tooley in Lamb County Leader.

Plant disease prevention, control important to livestock production

COLLEGE STATION — The prevention and control of plant diseases are important in livestock production because profits depend on maximum yields from pastures and crops.

In many instances, says Harlan Smith, extension plant pathologist, the weather, soil or planting method get the blame for low production when plant diseases cause losses. Too, he adds, poor quality feed or forage often results from damages caused by plant diseases. Such feed does not contain the high proteins and other essential nutrients necessary for good animal health, says the pathologist.

The fungi, bacteria and other organisms which cause plant diseases cannot be seen with the naked eye, and plant diseases are difficult or impossible to control once they have infected a crop. However, says Smith, many can be prevented. For example, the treating of planting seed with a good fungicide will aid in controlling some feed and forage crop diseases.

The pathologist suggests that good carefully selected seed which is dry, sound and free from combine injured seed coats be planted. Also that the seed be planted in a warm, mellow soil. Cold and wet soil favors seedling diseases.

He recommends that rotation be followed with annual feed and forage crops because growing the same crop on the same land year after year tends to increase plant disease problems. If an adapted, resistant crop variety or hybrid is available, Smith strongly urges its use. For as he puts it, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure in preventing plant

I Give You Texas . .

The death of a white buck of Byron Utecht, dean of the Capitol press corps, calls to mind a little incident of many years ago when I was editor of the Ranger Times.

A campaign for governor was in progress and Byron was traveling with one of the candidates who was a good friend of his. The day before they were scheduled to be in Ranger, a state Senator made a speech on behalf of one of the others in the race. He was an able speaker and he gave all of his man's opponents a good working-over.

In a spirit of mischief—I was young then—I wrote in full what he said about Byron's friend and referred in a brief paragraph to the fact that the speaker had criticized the others.

I knew Byron well and, soon after his arrival, called on him at the Gholson Hotel and handed him a copy of that afternoon's Times. When he read the article, he became excited and at once called it to his friend's attention—as I figured he would. The candidate was furious and devoted almost all of his speech to the Senator and the Senator's candidate—which gave me a good story for the next day's paper.

Only thing was, the situation nearly got out of hand. The more Byron's friend thought about it, the madder he got and Byron had all he could do to persuade him not to drive over to Mineral Wells (where the Senator was, on his speaking tour) and give him a licking.

When I used to see James E. Ferguson, in the twilight of his career, going through the lobby of the Driskill Hotel, speaking to a friend or stopping to talk a minute with a group, the thought came: "There goes a legendary figure. Some day, people will say—as people did about Sam Houston, Henry Clay and James G. Blaine after they had vanished from the stage—'So you saw Jim Ferguson? What did he look like?'"

He was close to six feet, rather large of build. His eyes were blue, his hair (once dark) was now gray. His complexion was ruddy. He usually wore a dark suit—although, as I remember, sometimes in summer he wore a linen suit and a Panama hat. Usually however his hat was black felt, broad-brimmed and he wore a black string tie and a white shirt. It was the traditional raiment of a statesman of the period when he was in his heyday, and earlier.

His voice, in conversation, was pleasant and he smiled easily.

Usually those whom I saw greet him in the hotel lobby were of about his age. Doubtless, they had supported him in his numerous campaigns and "Governor Jim" would always be their idol.

TOM HARMON

Tom Harmon candidate for city councilman

I am 45 years old and have lived in Post for eight years, so I am neither a newcomer nor an oldtimer. I can't say that I am running for or with anyone, any group, or any clique.

I am running only because I believe in doing a civic duty of which I believe I am capable. I do not believe in agreeing with anyone just because that someone is influential. I am not a "yes" man. I am not highly educated, but I do believe that I have more common sense than some "college degree" men that I know. I am not complaining, but I think it is a duty and privilege to stand up for what I think is right and just.

I am not agreeing or disagreeing with anyone or any group. I am for the people of Post, and what is best for the City of Post.

I believe we need a different form of law enforcement, along with a city court to handle "our own affairs."

We need to get water and sewer to the entire population of the City. One taxpayer is due as much as another.

Thank you,
TOM HARMON

Hopkins in race for Council re-election

John N. Hopkins, Tower Theatre manager and manager of the Post Chamber of Commerce, is a candidate for re-election to the City Council.

Hopkins, a resident of Post for 15 years, makes the following statement to the voters:

If re-elected to serve you for a third term as one of your five city councilmen, my only promise is to continue serving you as I have in the past—with the progress of Post always at heart.

I am also a candidate for the U. S. Senate in the April 4 special election, but investigated thoroughly the legality of my name appearing on both ballots before filing for re-election as your councilman.

Between now and the election, feel free to ask me any questions on any subject of interest to you as a citizen of Post. My aim is, and will continue to be, to serve your interests first.

Two cases held for grand jury action

Charges have been filed in Justice of the Peace D. C. Roberts' court against two men for grand jury action.

One is against Jim Spence for theft of over $50 in connection with the alleged theft of a saddle and spurs from Floy Richardson's place, northwest of Post, last November.

The other is against Leonard Perkins for felony by worthless check.

BEGINS SCHOOL A-3e Charles O'Neal wrote his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar O'Neal, this week that he has begun technical schooling in electronics at Keepler Air Force Base, Miss. He will receive training in radio and radar maintenance, and has been assigned to the 33 8th Squadron.

WEEKEND IN JAYTON Mrs. Francis McAfee and Sherry and Mrs. Mattie Ratliff visited relatives in Jayton during the weekend.

GUEST SPEAKER Rev. E. R. Stiles of Fort Worth brought the morning and evening messages at the Calvary Baptist Church Sunday.

A large crowd was on hand last Thursday night at the grade school auditorium to see George Booher presented a trophy as "Spicy Queen" of the Post Parent-Teacher Association's "Spicy Spectaculars." The style show was narrated by Mrs. Maxine Edwards, and featured an A to Z theme. Over $250 was netted from the presentation and will be used to further P-TA projects.

Six Post homes are included in the Woman's Culture Club's spring Tour of Homes set for April 6. Preceding the tour, a tea hour will begin at 2:30 p. m. at the Community Room of the First National Bank. Homes in the tour are those of Glenn Whittenberg, 310 Osage; Thurman Francis, 815 West 10th; Bill Edwards, 1003 West 10th; Dr. A. C. Surman, 607 West 11th; Charles Luttrell, 1005 Sunset Drive; and Jake Webb, 315 N. Broadway. Tickets may be obtained from club members.

Several Post clubwomen are making their plans to attend the TFWC Caprock District convention in Lamesa Monday through Wednesday. Theme for the first annual convention of the newly formed include a breakfast honoring past presidents and life members, at which district will be "A Concerned Womanhood." Tuesday's activities will Mrs. Tilman L. Jones, member of the Post Woman's Culture Club, and a life member will be given recognition.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Moore and their daughter, Jacquelyn, were in Slaton Sunday evening to attend the marriage of his sister, Miss Neva Louise Moore, to William A. Becker Jr. of Southland. They were married at the Grace Lutheran Church.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry A. Tubbs were hosts Saturday at a smorgasbord supper at their home, 415 North Avenue M. Among the guests was Don Webster of Sydney, Australia, who is here studying operations at Postex Mills. Others were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Steizer, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Didway, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Cates, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hundley, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Kuykendall and Mr. and Mrs. Andy Steizer.

Double ring service unites Rheba Hays, Charles Propst

Miss Rheba Joann Hays and Charles Jimmy Propst were united in marriage Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hays, 509 South Avenue H. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Propst, Route 3.

The Rev. Shelby Bishop of Lubbock performed the double ring ceremony at 8 o'clock before an arrangement of white gladioli and stock. Rev. Bishop is a former pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a street-length dress of brocaded cotton satin, fashioned with a scoop neckline, three-quarter length sleeves, and a full skirt. She carried a white orchid on her Bible. The bride carried out the wedding tradition of wearing something old, new, borrowed and blue.

Mrs. Tommy Markham, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Her princess-style dress of brown had a scoop neckline and three-quarter length sleeves, and she wore a corsage of white carnations and pearls.

Tommy Markham attended his brother-in-law as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Hays were hosts for a reception following the ceremony. The refreshment table was laid in white lace over yellow. A tiered wedding cake and punch were served.

For a wedding trip to South Texas, Mrs. Propst wore a black and white two-piece suit, with patent accessories.

They will be at home in Post.

Cheri Moore wins Vogue contest

Miss Cheri Moore, Post High School student, was awarded first place for her two-piece suit entry in the Woman's Culture Club's recent Vogue Sewing Contest, under the direction of Mrs. D. H. Koeninger.

Second place in the student division went to Marianne Jones for a pink brocade party dress. Other entries in the contest were Norma Julian, Reba Shepherd and Margaret Ritchie, all of whom modeled their ensembles at last Wednesday's club luncheon at Levi's. Meses. Vernard Alexander, Bob Smith and Phil Boucher were judges. Entries were judged for workmanship and appearance.

Mrs. R. T. Smith was the single entry from the club in the adult division.

Mrs. Sue Cornell, recently selected Teacher of the Year by the study group, was presented at the luncheon. Other guests were Mrs. A. E. Boyd of Plainview, who is president of the Caprock District of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Hood of Plainview, and Mrs. Bob Collier, president of the Amity Study Club.

WEEKEND GUEST
Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Paddy had as their weekend guest Rev. E. R. Stiles of Fort Worth.

First Baptist Church scene of Cash, Scarbrough wedding

Rev. C. B. Hogue, pastor, officiated for the marriage of Mrs. Gene Cash and Irvin Scarbrough Friday evening at the First Baptist Church.

Rev. Hogue performed the double ring ceremony at 7 o'clock before an altar decorated with white stock and white carnations. The bride chose for her marriage

Lena Glasscock, Eddie Nelson wed

The Slaton Church of Christ was setting for the double ring ceremony that united Miss Lena Glasscock and Eddie Nelson in marriage Friday afternoon. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Glasscock of Slaton, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Nelson of Route 2, Post.

Rev. Dean Verner read the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white tulle and silk organza, trimmed with a scoop neckline and in scrolls of pearls and iridescent sequins. Appliques of lace were used in the full, floor-length train. Her bouquet was an orchid and white Bible.

Mrs. Pam Henry, maid of honor, wore a yellow silk dress and carried a nosegay of white carnations.

Robert Nelson of Southland attended his brother as best man. The couple are at home at 310 1/2 N. Slaton. Mrs. Nelson is employed in the Slaton High School. Her husband works for Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. in Lubbock.

March 31 wedding date set by Wilma Allen, Willard Yarbro

Mr. and Mrs. Will F. Allen announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Wilma, to Willard Yarbro, son of Mrs. Jeff Yarbro.

The couple will be married Friday, March 31, at the Calvary Baptist Church.

Wilma Allen is a 1960 graduate of Post High School and is employed at Postex Mills. Her fiance is also employed at Postex Mills and attended Post schools.

Mrs. Lee Davis guest speaker at Xi Delta Rho

Mrs. Lee Davis told of her recent trip to Europe and the Holy Lands when she spoke at Xi Delta Rho's Monday night meeting, held at the Community Room at the First National Bank.

During the business session following Mrs. Davis' address, the sorority members were reminded that one week remained in their Easter Ensemble project, of which proceeds go to a scholarship fund. The drawing will be held Saturday at Mason & Co., at 5 p. m. A ticket booth will be set up all day at Collier Drug.

The chapter, in other business, selected their "Girl of the Year," to be announced the latter part of April.

Guests Monday night were Mrs. Loyd Mock and Mrs. Powell Shydes. Members attending were Meses. Jean Hopkins, Jean Birmingham, Sue Cornell, Johnnie Francis, Marian Lee Minor, Skeeter Justice, Louise Simpson, and Maxine Durrett.

Movies on the art of France will be shown when the sorority meets next, at the home of Mrs. Ed Sims.

Family party set by Mystic Club

Plans were made for a "42" party and family supper when the Mystic Sewing Club met last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lester Nichols.

Mrs. Will Wright was a visitor, and 11 members attended. The club will meet again April 1 at the home of Mrs. E. E. Pierce, 708 West 10th.

E. R. MORELAND

Moreland is seeking re-election to Board

I was born in Woodboro, Tex., on July 6, 1911. I attended school at Clegg in Live Oak County and Bonnie View in Refugio County. My education is limited to high school plus extra study and training in public service and oil development and production. I came to Post on Nov. 9, 1945, as an employee of Brown Brothers, et al., who was known at that time as Comanche Corporation. I have been interested and engaged in civic affairs since 1936.

In seeking reelection to the Board of Trustees of Post Independent School District, I wish to make the following statement:

I have served four years on the Board and I feel that during this time I have had a part in accomplishing goals which have been a benefit to our schools. I realize that due to hasty decisions on some matters where all facts were not made clear, mistakes have been made which drew sharp criticism of which I feel I should absorb more than an average share.

I feel that our Post Schools have a well rounded curriculum, or course of study, and I am proud of the fact that our schools met the approval of the Accreditation Committee of the Texas Education Agency upon their visit and inspection of our schools on Nov. 17, 1960.

I am aware that we have had conflicts in our school system which possibly could have been avoided. If I am elected to serve another term on the Board, my desires are: to maintain and possibly improve the present course of study; to improve upon the extra-curricular activities, develop a greater spirit of friendliness between faculty and students, therefore erasing a state of fear and resentment which seems to exist in some departments.

I would also like to show courtesy to the press by inviting them to be present at all meetings and be properly informed of the actions of the Board, so that unbiased information concerning our school program may reach the interested public. I do feel that information involving personalities which could be injurious and embarrassing should be kept at a very minimum.

This we should remember, we as older adults are prone to forget that we were once young and had the desire to plan, build, organize and think for ourselves. If this desire in our young people is squelched today, we must expect an entirely different attitude in our nation when these boys and girls become our civic and government leaders of tomorrow. This only means that nothing is impossible when we show the proper spirit of friendliness, cooperation, love and consideration, one for another.

If we have the desire to do so, a word of kindness and the mere curve of a smile can set a lot of things straight.

LIGHT AMONG THE SHADOWS

There is a deep gloom that sometimes enshrouds the human soul. It comes silently, and usually without warning. Like an evening fog it seems to rise out of the marshes and imprison us in its chill tentacles.

Men call it by many names. To one it is UNCERTAINTY. To another, WORRY. To the most harassed, FEAR.

But always it hides the brightness in life... and makes us feel the surrounding shadows.

There is a gleam of faith that is capable of penetrating the gloom. It seems to leap time and space to unite the soul with God. Men call it PRAYER.

And whether in the quiet of meditation, or in the thrilling unison of a congregation at worship, it pierces life's shadows. It lights our next step!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

JAMES R. MATTHEWS

Dr. James Matthews in race for Council

James R. Matthews, M. D., has issued the following statement in regard to his candidacy for the Post City Council:

I am a duly registered voter in Garza County, and my residence has been in Post for the past 23 months. I am a graduate of the public school system of Kaufman, Tex. I have attended several Texas schools and hold degrees from North Texas State College, and Southwestern Medical School. I am a reasonably active member of the First Baptist Church of Post.

Concerning local issues, I feel it is summarily unnecessary to spell out a word-by-word stand—but I would gladly invite any questions or discussion on any civically pertinent question.

I will place my integrity at stake, promise my grave concern for good city government, and expect to have suggestions and help from the individual voters—this is, after all, the essence of democratic government.

JAMES R. MATTHEWS, M. D.

Member writes of FFA sales

By WAYNE McFADIN

An active Future Farmer not only performs his required duties, such as raising his project or completing his classwork, but he also assists in helping his community and his FFA chapter in any way he can.

A chapter which intends to grow must have special ways to obtain the things they need. Among these are different sales in which an active member must participate.

This particular year we have sold Christmas cards, assorted nuts, and now we are planning to sell candy. I might add here that if you are asked to purchase anything sold by the FFA boys, just remember that you will be helping the most active and helpful boys organization in the United States today.

Vet's Forum

Q—What are "day centers?" I've heard that the VA is operating some of them now.

A—The centers are one of the newer developments in psychiatric care. Patients, often those who have been long hospitalized for schizophrenia, spend their time in various therapeutic activities at the centers and return home at night. The centers are located at VA outpatient clinics, and volunteers from the community play an important part in helping with the activities.

Q—What are the eligibility requirements for education or training under the Korean GI Bill?

A—At least 90 days of active service, some of what must have been between June 27, 1950, and Jan. 31, 1955; and discharge or separation from service under conditions other than dishonorable.

Q—I am a Korean veteran and have found an error in my service record. Can the VA straighten this out for me?

A—No. The veteran should make written application directly to the service concerned—Army, Navy, Air Force or Coast Guard.

Q—By authorization of Public Laws 382 and/or 724 the Federal government adds $6 a month to my civil service retirement check. In a year's time this $72 takes me over the $2700 limit to be eligible for a VA pension. Do I have to count that particular $6 a month as income?

A—No. The VA does not count as income that part of a pensioner's civil service retirement check which is a federal contribution for health and medical insurance.

WEEKEND IN BROWNWOOD

Mr. and Mrs. Odean Cummings and family spent the weekend in Brownwood with relatives where they celebrated the birthdays of Mrs. Cummings' mother, Mrs. H. M. Small housing boom is on at Crosbyton CROSBYTON—A small housing boom is in progress here with the return of spring weather. Several houses are in various stages of construction while plans for others are coming off the drafting boards.

Housing has been a critical problem in Crosbyton for the past several years. The Chamber of Commerce instigated Urban Renewal and Federal Housing programs in an effort to help solve the dilemma.

Post couple building new motel at Tahoka

Earl W. Wrestler, former owner of the Gateway and Rocket motels here, is building a new motel at the north outskirts of Tahoka on U. S. Highway 87.

At this time, ten units are to be constructed, plus living quarters for the Wrestlers. The structure will be of brick veneer and designed for other units to be added later.

After operating the Gateway Motel here, the Wrestlers built the Rocket Motel, selling it last October to L. W. Wilson, the present owner.

Welcome, Neighbor!

Our congratulations to the Southwestern Public Service Co. for its move into its new leased office building at 217 West Main Street.

The new utility office, built by C. E. Basinger, offers a convenient drive-in window for customer payments just as we offer drive-in banking facilities for our bank customers.

The new Southwestern Public Service Company office with all its modern conveniences to the public is a good example of the progressive efforts of our electrical utility firm to offer the best possible service and to keep abreast of Post's steady growth.

Attend the open house, Sunday afternoon between 2 and 5 p. m. and inspect this modern new office building for yourself.

Williams sparks ETS varsity to 7-6 win

COMMERCE—The East Texas varsity, held at bay for nearly 60 minutes, unleashed a last ditch touchdown Saturday night to whip the oldtimers 7-6 in the annual exes game.

In the end, it was all-Texas quarterback James Williams of East who fired a 9-yard scoring pass to end Lloyd Pate. Halfback George Boynton calmly kicked the extra point to give the varsity their narrow win.

It was an Alfred Hitchcock finish for the varsity, who had failed to reach the exes '30 in prior attempts. Until the winning TD drive though, experienced exes line had held the Lions to only 35 yards of gain for the evening.

It was that varsity TD drive of 70 yards, Williams was the sparkplug. He hit Boynton for a 17-yard pass, and passed to end Leon Pate for 14 more. Williams added up 21 steps on three running plays on the drive.

From the 6, Williams first hit Pate, but the big end was off the driving field. After one running

Hatchery quail to be ready soon for landowners

AUSTIN—Quail distribution from Tyler hatchery will begin the first part of April, according to W. Cubirth, Jr., assistant executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

These quail will be distributed to landowners on a low cost basis of 20 cents per bird for stocking purposes. Landowners desiring quail for restocking purposes are asked to send in applications to the Austin office. Their property maps will be checked by field wardens before quail will be delivered to landowner, it must be established there is suitable cover and feed available for the birds. Last year approximately 50,000 quail were planted on various areas of the state through this program.

The landowner should write to the Austin office, Mr. Cubirth, "We then will authorize initiation of the property by a warrent biologist. Then an order will be sent to the hatchery for the quail. The landowner will be notified when he will receive the birds in the proper care of them."

Antelopes going to Hale Center

The Post Antelope track team, after last weekend when the Cross-country Relays were postponed because of bad weather, will compete Saturday in the annual Hale Center Relays.

Coach Harold Teal said yesterday that the Antelope list of entrants would be about the same as announced last week for the relay meet.

So far because of the Cross-country postponement were two District AAA track teams, Slaton and Slaton. The other two District teams, Denver City and Denver, took part in Denver City first annual meet.

Thinclads to Abilene Invitational

TECH'S TRACK TEAM ONLY RAIDER GROUP competing this weekend

LUBBOCK—Texas Tech's track team, in the Abilene Invitational there Saturday, will be the only Red Raider team competing this weekend.

Baseballers make up for last time next week, however, playing six games here—with West Texas State Monday and Thursday, University of New Mexico and University of Colorado Friday and Saturday. Friday, the Raiders meet New Mexico at 9:30 a. m. and Colorado at 2:30 p. m. The times are reversed for Saturday.

Texas Tech's Cinderella-like basketballers have finally completed their season, capturing third place in the Midwest regionals. The Southwest Conference champions, one of 16 teams qualifying for NCAA playoff competition, bowed to champions Cincinnati, 78-55, and bounced back to edge University of Houston 69-67.

Harold Hudgens, the Raiders' 6-9 center from Ballinger, gained all-tournament honors. He was the meet's leading scorer with 50 points in two games, and his 20 rebounds against Houston were a one-game high, just four off the all-time record for the playoffs.

241 rural communities in Texas are in '61 improvement program

COLLEGE STATION—Two hundred forty-one rural communities are participating in this year's Texas Community Improvement Program, reports Reagan Brown, extension sociologist. The program is sponsored jointly by the electric utilities companies operating in Texas and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. A total of more than 9,000 families, representing all sections of Texas, are participating, says Brown.

Brown says the object of the program is better homes on better farms in better communities. Competing communities will be vying for a share of the awards to be distributed on a district and state basis.

Communities entered in the program are making progress in increasing and managing family income, improving health conditions, and services, improving the farm and the home, and encouraging social participation. Each community, however, chooses its own goals based on its individual needs.

All competing communities will be judged on the progress they have made in the twelve month period ending March 31, 1961. During April and May, district and state judging will be conducted and all interested persons are invited to participate in the community tours that will be conducted in various localities.

Brown says that as you drive up and down Texas highways, you will be able to recognize many of the communities participating in this program by the signs placed at their boundaries.

Anyone interested in obtaining further information on the Texas Community Improvement Program should contact the local county agricultural or home demonstration agent, Brown concludes.

POST BOWLING CENTER
ON TAHOKA HIGHWAY
DIAL 2202 FOR ALLEY RESERVATIONS

By VERN SANFORD

Warsaw is a city in Poland. Warsaw also is the name of a fish—a huge deep-sea fish that moves in, around the offshore banks, during January, February and March.

A member of the giant sea bass family, this fish will range from "babies" of 30 to 40 pounds, to "grumps" of 200 to 300 pounds.

These fish are the "extra added attractions" to the Texas Gull coast's red snapper fishing during the cold weather months.

Actually warsaw can be caught the year around, but getting to them in the summer means a long, long boat ride. The fish move to the banks near shore only in the winter.

Close banks are those 20 to 40 miles offshore. During the summer months the fish are caught in much deeper water at the banks 70 to 150 miles out.

The warsaw doesn't have game-fish qualities. No leaping or surface cavorting like a tarpon or sailfin; no reel-sing runs of a kingfish.

CHOICE EATING

But the warsaw appeals to thousands of fishermen—sports and professionals alike. It's a fish that will stock your freezer with choice eating for months to come.

Commercial fishermen go after the big warsaw with nylon handlines testing 200 pounds. They're in the business of selling fish and aren't concerned with fighting the fish. They're in a hurry to deck the brute and then try for a second, third and so forth.

Some commercial fishermen have regular warsaw reels which they slip into sockets on the boat's rails. They call them "bi-cycle reels". That is exactly what they resemble, crank handles, sprocket, chain drive and all. Other fishermen use small deck winches to do the job.

Most sports fishermen, however, prefer to battle the warsaw with rod and reel. They may miss the leaps and long runs of game-fish, but they can count on a warsaw giving them a real tug-of-war.

WARSAW BAIT

Most popular warsaw bait is a big sand trout, or a small red snapper—a two or three pounder. The snapper usually weighs a pound. You need that much weight to reach bottom in 50 or 60 feet of water if there is any kind of current running.

Warsaws don't make sudden strikes, so you don't have to be prepared for a sudden jolt. Instead the fish sort of "inhales" the bait, and then starts to swim back toward its den or hole in the coral formations.

Your first job is to turn the fish, keep it from getting back into the hole. It means putting a tremendous strain on the rod. If the fish gets back in the hole, you'll probably lose it since the sharp coral will cut the line.

A warsaw is strictly a bottom fish. That's where he does all his fighting.

HOW TO LAND HIM

If you get the fish halfway up he's generally licked for the change in water pressure will cause his stomach to burst and render him helpless. He'll come up quick then. All that remains is to slip a rope through his mouth and gills and haul him aboard.

You need large hooks and a long wire lead as terminal tackle. Your rod and reel should be of the big-game variety. Some sportsmen beat the work of having to reel in the fish by using electric reels. Most charter boats running bank trips have electrical outlets for such reels.

Warsaw runs usually start in January, although if the weather is unusually cold they are often caught in December. Most consistent warsaw catches are made in February and March. The runs taper off after that.

Earlier I referred to the fish as an "extra added attraction" to winter snapper fishing. Actually not many sportsmen go out solely for warsaw. They go out for the big-saw red snappers. Then if they find warsaw around, they try for them.

Usually the fishermen put one line over the side of the boat for snapper and a second one for warsaw. That way they're sure of bringing home some kind of meat.

MEAT DELICIOUS

Speaking of meat, warsaw flesh is delicious. It's white and firm. It can be fried, baked or broiled in a chowder.

But dressing out a warsaw is no job for the amateur. The fish has to be skinned and you need a saw to cut off the head.

Most fish markets will dress out warsaw, cut the meat into steaks and package it for freezing, for prices ranging from seven to 10 cents a pound. It's worth it. An amateur would need a day to do the job properly.

If you take a 100-pound warsaw in for dressing don't expect to get back much more than 70 pounds of meat. There's a huge weight loss in the dressing process. You won't be far off if you figure the weight loss at 30 per cent.

Warsaw hide can be cured and tanned for making such items as briefcases, billfolds and purses. There are several such businesses in Florida.

If you're interested in catching a big warsaw, remember that the best time is three months of the year are the best.

WATCH YOUR STEP

AUSTIN—Snakes are on the move. This is the report sent in by game wardens. Rattlesnakes and moccasins have been enjoying the spring sunshine for quite a while. Now coral snakes and copperheads are beginning to come out of hibernation.

After-school trip fund raising set

By Danny Jones and Anne Morris

The Seniors are planning an after-school trip and have many activities planned as money raising projects. All the Seniors will surely appreciate any help that you can give in the success of these projects. Some of the projects are: Car wash, March 25; Jr. High Prom, Friday night April 7; Slave Day, April 8; Class Dues, April 10; May Queen Contest, May 5; High School and Jr. High Hayride, March 31.

Last Saturday, the Senior Class sponsored a cake sale at Piggly Wiggly and Collier's. The sale was very successful and about $60 was made. There will be more sales before the year is out, so everyone be sure to come out and buy a cake! Most of the cakes are home made and are very good. There will be an Easter bake sale on April 1. Most of the cakes will be decorated in an Easter fashion, so they will be appropriate for the Easter dinners the next day.

There will be a Costume Beatnik Dance and party at Teen Town tomorrow night, March 24. Everyone will be open to all ages including beatnik (Maynard) and prizes will be given for the best costume. It will be open to allages including Junior High and outsiders. We'll have a pantomime group named "The Punks." Included in this group are: Danny Jones; Donnie Hays; Gary Simpson; Mike Cornell; Jimmy Minor; Kenith Smith; and Gregory Magallanes. These cats will be dressed in bermuda shorts and long, long socks, sideburns and all the rest!!!!!! Everyone bring their poetry book and come on out. The dance starts at 8 o'clock and lasts until every poem is read, or until every candle has flickered its last glorious flame.

ATTEND CEREMONY

"Carbon Copy" is a story that most teen-agers will enjoy. It is about a teen-age girl, Janet and her best friend, Janie.

Janie was going away for the summer and Janet didn't know what she would do without her. They wore the same hair style and tried to do the same things together. Janet feels that she is completely lost.

Read the story in "Teen" and find out how she found herself and discovered why people called her the "carbon copy".

Student Council group attending state meet

Thursday, March 23, delegates for the State Student Council meeting will leave for Odessa.

Those delegates going are the out-going president, Jane Maxey, and vice president, Judy Clary. Judy was chosen by the student body for next year's president. Marianne Jones was chosen as the incoming vice president. Linda Taylor was chosen by the Student Council as the fourth delegate.

Each delegate will be accompanied by a responsible adult and they plan to arrive in Odessa between 1 and 6 p. m. and go directly to the Permian High School to register.

The Friday night entertainment will consist of a semi-formal dance or a swim in Odessa's heated pool.

Tickets for all events and meals will be given to them when they register.

There will be many features in the sessions highlighting the 25 years as a Student Council Association.

All four delegates will stay at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Walter, 1414 Rosewood.

This trip will be very worthwhile to those attending and we hope it will help to strengthen our student body.

Bandster tells of Idalou trip

By Beverly Avant

On the morning of March 11, the Post Junior High Band left to go to Idalou for a contest.

When we got there we went into the warm-up room. Then about 10 we went on stage to play. We played "Proudly We Play," "Little English Suite," and Little Irish Suite."

After that we went into the sight-reading room and played "Holiday in Spain."

The results from our playing were, first in contest, and first in sight-reading. We got a trophy which said "Sweepstakes" We were real proud of it.

One-act play contest scheduled in Slaton

The play cast for the play, "Senor Freedom," has been working very hard trying to get their play ready for Interscholastic League contest, March 28. The contest will be held at Slaton this year.

This play will be presented Monday night, March 27, for one of the women's societies in town. The play will again be presented April 5 and April 22.

High hopes held for slide rule entrants

The boys who are going to compete in the Interscholastic Slide Rule contest are still meeting every Monday and Thursday nights, and Tuesday and Fridays during school hours.

These boys are Jimmy Minor, Wendell Duncan, and Kenith Smith. Mr. Tittle has great hopes for these few boys who have gone out for this contest.

Pupils undecided on meaning of 'ricer'

By Marcia Newby

I asked some of the 6th grade students, "What is a ricer?" Here are their replies:

Jackie Wilson—A tool.
Judy Carr—An animal.
J. O. Smith—I don't have any idea.

Jaynie Josey—A record.
Sheri Perdue—A joke.
Cheryl Pannell—A dog.
Brenda Mason—A thing you pick up cars with after they've had a wreck.

Brenda Haley—You tell me and we'll both know.
Jan Miller—How should I know? (A ricier is an instrument for mashing potatoes.)

J. E. May named as 'Teacher of the Week'

Mr. J. E. May has been selected as "Teacher of the Week" in Post Junior High School.

He was born in Rule and lived there 18 years. He moved to Lubbock for three years and then to Post.

Mr. May teaches high school biology and 7th grade science.

Mr. and Mrs. May and their 8-year-old daughter, LaRue, live at 414 West 10th.

Some of Mr. May's favorites are: Food, steak; TV program, Red Skelton; color, blue; actor, Gary Cooper; actress, Elizabeth Taylor; sport, football.

Jack Lott candidate for school trustee

Jack Lott, a resident of Post for 18 years, is a candidate for the Board of Trustees of the Post Independent School District.

Lott is manager of the U Lazy S Ranch near Post. He is a graduate of New Mexico Military Institute and Texas Tech with a degree in agriculture economics. He is married and has two pre-school age children.

Lott makes the following statement of his candidacy:

I feel that never before have the American people been as concerned with education as today. Every informed citizen is aware of the tremendous part that education has assumed in national survival. A good public school education is no longer a luxury, but a necessity. Each community must take its integral place if our nation is to produce the necessary technicians, scientists and professional people. But we must have a fully rounded school curriculum in which not only the empirical sciences be taught, but also the arts and humanities, as well as physical education. Each must assume its correct proportion, one must complement the other.

As I view it, a school board trustee has a double obligation. First, to the community in which the school serves; to see that tax dollars be used as a public trust and to serve the best educational advantage. The school board member has a second obligation and this is to the school community itself, the teachers, principals and administrators. Well qualified teachers must be encouraged and made secure. Their position should not be endangered by the personal whim of any individual within or without the school system.

As a school board trustee, I would endeavor to see that each and every student receive the best and most well-rounded education that can be afforded them.

AUSTIN—Foes of a general retail sales tax are pushing to get it before the Legislature. Friends of the tax are trying to hold it back.

At a hearing before the House Revenue and Taxation Committee, representatives of regional Chambers of Commerce, generally favorable to a sales tax, asked that the matter be delayed. Committee members opposed to the tax insisted on going ahead.

Rep. George Hinson of Mineola, who is against a sales tax, charged backers with dragging their feet in hopes their plan would finally be accepted in last-minute desperation.

Hearing was on a general sales tax measure by Rep. Charles N. Wilson of Trinity. Wilson introduced the bill and asked for immediate hearing to out-manuever those who wanted to delay. After hearing, the bill was, by the usual procedure, sent to subcommittee.

Awaiting consideration is just about every type tax bill imaginable. Among them:

A temporary (1-year) 20 per cent increase in the omnibus tax (a collection of existing taxes on many items) by Representative Hinson. Estimated yield: $40,000,000.

A one per cent corporate income tax by Rep. Charles Ballman of Borger and a three per cent corporate income tax by Rep. Tony Korioth of Sherman.

A 10 per cent levy on petrochemicals by Rep. Lloyd Guffey of El Campo.

A six per cent tax on income from dividends and interest by Rep. Bob Eckhardt of Houston.

A two per cent Texas business invoice tax by Rep. Maco Stewart of Galveston.

A graduated production tax on oil, a corporate income tax to replace the franchise tax and an excise tax on utilities by Representative Stewart.

An increase in state college tuition from $50 to $100 per semester by Rep. Frank McGregor of Waco. A three per cent sales tax on furniture and household equipment by Rep. John C. Alaniz of San Antonio.

A five per cent tax on gross receipts of highway contractors by Rep. W. T. Dungan of McKinney.

A five per cent tax on gross receipts from marine products by Rep. Jake Johnson of San Antonio.

FIREMEN'S BILL LEGAL

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson has ruled that a proposed bill to set up machinery to arbitrate firemen's wage and hour problems would be constitutional.

Rep. Robert Hughes of Dallas is sponsor of the bill which would set up an arbitration board to work out disputes between firemen and city governments. Disputes not settled by the board could be taken to the people in an election once each year.

AUTO RATE BILL MOVES

A bill directing the State Board of Insurance to make drastic changes in the merit rating auto insurance plans has been approved by the Senate Insurance Committee.

Passage came after a lengthy hassle in committee. More heated debate and attempts to amend are expected when the bill is taken up by the entire Senate.

As approved by committee, the plan would still assess insurance premium penalties for speeding but not for running red lights or stop signs, making illegal turns, illegal passing or negligent collision. It would still assess penalties for accidents with damage of more than $25, and it would still be retroactive for three years.

House, meantime, killed by a decisive 125-to-21 vote a bill that would have provided a complete new approach for auto insurance in Texas.

Called "flexible" rating, it would allow each insurance company to set its own auto insurance rates.

Rep. C. W. Percy of Temple sponsored the bill which has been defeated by previous legislatures. He argued for it on the basis of free competition rather than state-controlled rates.

Opponents successfully argued that the plan allows large out-of-state concerns to take over the market and eventually set much higher rates.

MILK IS BOILING TOPIC

Milk continues to stir up arguments in this legislative session. Senate passed a bill placing restrictions on the importing of milk from other states, but the House postponed floor debate after tempers flared to the shouting point.

Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo sponsored the Senate bill, and Rep. Steve Burgess of Nacogdoches is the House sponsor. Their measure would bar out-of-state milk from Texas unless a health inspector could certify that he had "personal knowledge" that the milk had been produced under the same standards as Texas milk.

Dairymen - supporters contend that it is a health standards protection and will prevent "unfair competition" from out of state. It is opposed by milk processors who declare it will limit the supply unnecessarily and force up prices.

GARNISHEE BILL STUDIED

Proposals that would allow for the garnishment (taking over) of wages for payment of debts are being considered by the House Constitutional Amendments Committee.

Rep. Henry Fletcher of Luling is sponsor of a proposed constitutional amendment that would permit the Legislature to pass a broad garnishment act.

Rep. Ben Jarvis of Tyler is sponsor of another that would allow for attachment of wages only to make child support payments.

MINIMUM WAGE ARGUED

Proposal for a 75-cent-an-hour

minimum wage for Texas workers, including farm labor, was argued before the House State Affairs Committee.

Employers of fewer than four persons would be exempt.

A spokesman for the AFL-CIO testified in favor of the bill, declaring that migrant farm laborers are often paid only 30 cents an hour. A Texas Restaurant Association official said that restaurant workers average 81 cents an hour, but that many "marginal workers," such as the handicapped would lose out under a minimum wage.

Rep. Malcolm McGregor of El Paso is sponsor.

POWELL SHYTLES
Mayor Powell Shytles re-election candidate

As a candidate for the office of Mayor, I have been asked by the Post Dispatch to give any information which in my opinion would be of benefit to the citizens of Post. Also my remarks on any local issue which I thought to be important. I am happy to do so. I am a native Texan and have made my home in Garza and Scurry Counties most of the time since 1935, having moved to Snyder from Abilene. The exception being the war years when I spent some time in the Air Force.

My education was received in public schools, two denominational colleges and one state college. To me, one of the most important things which confronts the City of Post today is still an adequate water supply. The end to water shortage is in sight. I feel the great need of men on the City Council who are informed on this problem so as to give our White River directors all the aid and help necessary to complete this project.

I have been most aware of the hopes of the citizens of Post who have given their support to the lake project that the growth potential of this area could be realized when this project is complete.

Each member of the City Council has worked toward the growth of our City. We are ahead on several items to match the projected potential growth—such as an adequate city hall, water department and expanded fire station and equipment for increased fire protection, for the present area, plus any growth in the near future. All of these things have been done without increase in tax rates. This has been done over two budget years—each item being paid for with funds from their own department—in other words each department stands on its own. When the time comes that we have an adequate water supply, all of these things will be behind us—nothing to stand in the way of progress and growth.

Thank you for the opportunity to state what I think is one of the most important items confronting us today.

Would create Garza district

April 4 SCD election important to county

By VIRGIL SMITH
Supervisor, Duck Creek SCD
An election will be held Tuesday, April 4, on dissolving the Duck Creek Soil Conservation District and forming the Garza Soil Conservation District.

It is very important that each and every landowner vote for both issues. If the voters vote out the Duck Creek SCD and don't vote in the Garza SCD, the landowners of Garza County will lose their Soil Conservation District.

A new soil Conservation District will allow the people of Garza County to have their own district with five Garza County landowners on the board. At present there is only one landowner representing Garza County on the board of the Duck Creek SCD.

With the new Garza SCD, landowners of the county would have their five representatives to give better conservation service to the people of Garza County.

Remember and be sure to vote for the dissolving of the Duck Creek SCD and for the creation of the Garza SCD.

About your health

AUSTIN — Credit Bull Mooser Teddy Roosevelt for starting what still stands as one of the most vital single phases of personal health protection. As President in 1908 he ordered periodic health examinations for all army officers.

A "periodic check-up" is simply a careful medical study of a presumably healthy person, performed regularly by the family physician to detect disease or body malfunction in an early stage. Early treatment reduces suffering and prevents some diseases from becoming chronic, and perhaps incurable.

Besides detecting disease before it becomes too deep-rooted, the check-up serves as a basis for better health practices for the patient and his family. The physician can discuss such problems as diet, exercise, rest, work and play habits, and other activities which affect health.

How often and what type examination should be given varies with the patient's age, sex, occupation, heredity, past health, place of residence, and economic status. Says the American Academy of Pediatrics:

"The normally healthy infant should be checked about every six weeks during the first year, every three months during the second year, and once a year from the sixth to twelfth year."

Most medical authorities believe that from about 12 to age 40 or 45, annual health check-ups are adequate. After 45 some doctors advise examinations every nine months. These time schedules, keep in mind, are suggested for normal people without previous serious or chronic illness.

No single examination can be applied to all persons, but all check-ups include a medical history, the actual physical examination, and may include certain laboratory and x-ray procedures as determined to be necessary.

The medical history gives the physician clues as to what he should be especially alert for when he begins the examination. It will include such things as social and occupational habits, past illnesses, present symptoms. Armed with this advance knowledge the physician can frequently detect the possibility of disease long before abnormal physical signs become apparent to the patient.

Fertilizer nutrients, properly applied, will lower losses from cotton diseases

COLLEGE STATION—Fertilizer nutrients, if properly applied in the correct amounts, will lower the cotton disease losses, says Harlan E. Smith, extension plant pathologist. For example, slightly susceptible bacterial blight varieties become resistant with adequate nitrogen but more susceptible when nitrogen is deficient.

Adequate amounts of available potassium help prevent Fusarium wilt and Verticillium wilt. In contrast, excessive use of nitrogen should be avoided in Fusarium wilt and Verticillium wilt soils. It is known that Verticillium wilt can cause more losses if available soil nitrogen is on the excess side.

Unbalanced availability of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash causes plants to be more susceptible to attack by disease organisms. Therefore, for disease control avoid creating unbalanced conditions when applying fertilizers, Smith warns. Unbalanced fertility created by improper application of fertilizer can lead to disease losses which will nullify fertilizer benefits.

Boll rots may be more severe when excess nitrogen causes tall, rank cotton. In 1960, wet weather in several areas was blamed for some losses in cotton quality and yield when boll rot diseases were actually the cause of the trouble. It has been determined that cotton plants free of seedling diseases and nematodes make much more effective use of fertilizer nutrients. Smith continues. This relationship should be taken into account when seedling diseases or nematodes are controlled with fungicides or nematocides. In general high fertilizer rates should be lowered somewhat on seedling disease and nematodes are under control.

A sound fertilizer program must be based on many factors, including cotton diseases that are most likely to damage plants. You may have already fertilized for this year but you can plan improved use of fertilizer next year, Smith points out.

Check cotton fields for disease damage at regular intervals. You will find that certain diseases are damaging or killing your cotton plants. These same diseases will probably occur, more or less, next year. Remember says Smith, cotton diseases are prevented, not cured. Little can be done to control cotton diseases on the present crop after it is planted.

In order to plan the best preventive control program, it is necessary to know the diseases that are likely to cause losses. It is also helpful to know where certain diseases might occur in your fields. For example, root rot, root knot, and other nematodes, bacterial blight, ascochyta blight and seedling disease can be reduced somewhat the following year by deep plowing during hot, dry weather.

The proper use of all cotton disease reduction practices will tend to make a healthier plant, and a healthier plant can make better use of soil fertilizer nutrients. With this in mind, fertilize for yield, quality and disease control. By following these practices, greater profits will be realized from fertilizer, Smith concludes.

GILES C. McCRARY
McCrary candidate for City Council

Giles C. McCrary, candidate for election to the City Council, issues the following statement concerning his candidacy:

I came to Post in 1943 and I have lived in Post continuously for the last 15 years. I attended Kemper Military Academy and Washington & Lee University.

My position is not, nor has ever been, that of a politician. My primary objective in seeking this office is an effort to help create an efficient and constructive governing body capable of administering not only current needs, but projecting the community needs into the future.

Post must either go forward or backward. We cannot stand still. With our lake project to make unlimited water available soon, we should make ample plans and studies for new industry and consequent growth. This is not a matter to be taken lightly. Numerous towns have prepared statistical studies with groups prepared to make predetermined statements of intent to prospective industry.

Tax studies must be made, ample paving with necessary maintenance should be available and encouraged, zoning is a must, and long overdue, every source of Federal and State aid should be exhausted if local initiative and powers are not lost and every effort should be made to encourage the immediate use of available Federal Housing funds. In fact, the needs of any growing town are unlimited. Only in the towns of decreasing population do problems seem to decrease.

In closing, I feel that a qualified city manager with ample powers should institute a study of the present and future needs of Post. This, in order, that a complete and concise plan might be projected into the future growth of Post. With proper planning, any reasonable growth could be anticipated within a predetermined plan and with a minimum of alteration of the total plan.

JOHN E. CARTER

Dr. John E. Carter is candidate for Trustee

I am 33 years old, a veteran of World War II, married and have four children, three of whom will be in the public schools next year. I moved to Post in September 1958 and now own my home and business in Post.

I was educated in the public schools of Sherman, Tex., and received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Austin College and a doctorate of medicine from the University of Texas Medical Branch. I have actively engaged in the practice of medicine and surgery since coming to Post.

I am a member and officer in the First Methodist Church, Post, Lions Club and Boy Scouts of America. I maintain an active membership in the County, State and American Medical Associations and in the Academy of General Practice.

As to my views in regard to the public school system, I would like to state the following:

I strongly oppose any type of federal intervention, including monetary aid in the field of education.

I would work for equalization of educational opportunity and facilities for all students in this district, regardless of social or economic, religious or racial background.

I would work for a program to retain more students through the higher grades of our school.

I am opposed to interscholastic contact sports below the Junior High level and believe the present Junior High program is too intensive. I would work for a different type athletic program at these levels.

I would work for a program to procure the best possible teaching talent. I would work for a program to better integrate all departments and programs of our school, and, finally, I would try to approach every problem without bias, seeking to find the solution that would be the best for our schools and our students.

Post man attends technical course

Ray Warren of Hodges Tractor Co., Massey-Ferguson dealer in Post, returned Monday from Detroit, Mich., where he attended a one-week advance technical course at the M-F Service Training Center.

At the center, M-F offers dealer personnel one to four week courses designed to keep them informed on the latest service techniques in the farm machinery industry, and to instruct them in the maintenance of recent additions to the company's line of agricultural and industrial machines and equipment.

Massey-Ferguson, world's largest manufacturer of tractors and combines, has introduced more than 40 new products to the field in the last two years.

GEORGE D. BOOHER

Booher is candidate for City Councilman

I am 39 years of age and have lived in Post for the past two years. I was graduated from high school at Southland and completed two years of civil engineering at Texas Tech.

I was employed by the Texas Highway Department for 13 years before moving to Post, and during this time helped build the highway dispersal system in the City of Lubbock. I worked closely with city officials during this time, and therefore have become quite familiar with the problems that face a municipal government.

I believe that our water and sewer system should be extended to the populated areas that do not now have these facilities, and that every effort should be made to clear the blighted areas that now exist. Only until these things are done can those people live under the same sanitary conditions as the rest of the citizens of Post.

If elected your alderman, I will work for the progress and growth of this City and will study, without prejudice, each problem that may arise. I will not be pressured by any group or individual and my decisions will be for the best interests of the City of Post.

A horse and buggy will take a person where they wish to go, but is a slightly out-moded method of travel for this day and time. It's time to step out of the horse and buggy and move into the 1960's.

County agent has copies of guide

The 1961 revision of L-218, "Texas Guide for Controlling Cotton Insects," has been released by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and copies of the revised leaflet are available at County Agent Lewis C. Herron's office on the second floor of the courthouse. Several changes have been made in the 1961 guide and parts of the 1961 guide and parts of the 1961 guide should be studied by persons using the publication. One of the more important changes has to do with the early season control program, say the specialists. These changes may be found in the second paragraph of the section entitled "Other Insects."

Another change is the addition of a new section on Three-Way Insecticidal Mixtures. This section is included to clarify questions relating to mixtures of this type. In the table section of the leaflet, the recommendations for flea-beetle control have been separated from the thrips column. Changes have also been made in information concerning application dates controlling these insects.

There are some new restrictions concerning the use of insecticides on cotton that became available late to be included in the revised guide. The restrictions which apply to insecticides presently recommended for use on Texas cotton are: livestock should not graze in treated cotton fields or be fed gin waste which has come from treated cotton; BHC should not be applied to cotton in rotation with root crops; one day should elapse before hand harvest of cotton treated with methyl parathion and five days before hand harvest of cotton treated with aldrin, dieldrin, endrin, Guthion and parathion. These new restrictions are in addition to those listed in the leaflet.

The 1961 edition of L-508, "Guide for Controlling Cotton Insects in the High Plains and Trans-Pecos Areas of Texas" is available to producers in these areas. This publication is for use in boll weevil, free areas only. A few changes have been made in this leaflet also, report the specialists.

Local county agents will be glad to discuss the changes and supply copies of the leaflets.

LAW OF NATIONS

You will find strange words in the U. S. Constitution: "Congress has the power to define and punish piracy and felonies committed on the high seas, and offenses against the law of nations." No man owns the high seas, and no nation rules it. So that when a crime like piracy takes place, the law does not look upon it as against any one nation, but against the law of nations. For centuries, all maritime nations have had the right under international law to capture on the high seas persons guilty of piratical acts and to punish them.

Piracy is an international crime, but each country punishes it under its own laws. Any nation has the right and duty to police the high seas, and any pirate loses the protection of the flag he may be flying.

As one court put it, the pirate is "treated as an outlaw, as an enemy of all mankind."

How far this idea of the "enemy of mankind" may go, is now a question before world opinion.

The treaty of Versailles, for example, held that Germans who had broken the law and customs of war should go to trial before the courts of the victors.

World War I Germans did not face trial but those of World War II did and were convicted at Nuremberg. The right of victors to try war criminals has been warmly argued ever since. The forthcoming Eichmann trial in Israel has created additional debate in recent months.

Where did we get the idea that there is a law of nations?

It has come to us through centuries of international trade, commerce, war and treaty making. Chiefly it came down through Roman law, and found expression in the belief that God decreed a law of nature through man's reason which is binding on men and nations.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

BEACH ROMANCE
It's romance on the beach at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., for Dolores Hart and George Hamilton in MGM's love-and-laugh-filled comedy, "Where the Boys Are." The CinemaScope and color attraction is to open at the Tower Theatre Sunday and continue through Wednesday.

COLLEGE STATION — There is an estimated 10 to 12 million acres of abandoned cropland and an additional several million acres of denuded or barren rangeland in Texas. This land is producing little or no income for the owners, but reseeded with adapted grasses is one method which may be used to bring at least part of it back into profitable production.

G. O. Hoffman and B. J. Ragsdale, extension range specialists, say there are, however, several things to consider before reseeding any particular plot of land.

One of the first is take a survey of the vegetation currently growing on the land. If 15 per cent or more of native key grass species are found in the area, do not reseed. In this case, the specialists say, it will be cheaper and much better to use deferred grazing with stocking to rebuild the pasture.

If reseeding is decided on, however, the next thing to do is have a soil test made. Grasses, just like other crops, need the proper nutrients, and soil testing and fertilization is the way to make sure they have them. The soil should be prepared just as it would for a cash crop. This can be done by plowing, growing an annual legume and leaping it or turning it under to enrich the soil. Next should come a sorghum, planted late in the season so the seed will not mature.

Now the land is ready for reseeding with grass. Plant the grass seed in the stubble to reduce damage to the young seedlings by wind erosion, packing from rain, or from high soil temperatures. Hoffman and Ragsdale say that only seed of high quality and high germination should be planted.

The grass should be planted in rows so it can be cultivated for weed control. Cover the weed no more than seven times its diameter, usually one-fourth to one inch, depending on the kind used. It is desirable to pack the soil after planting with a cultipacker or roller, the specialists continue.

After the grass is established, control the weeds and use moderate grazing, and you're in the forage production business, Hoffman and Ragsdale conclude.

Railroad-traffic signs are often disregarded

Motorists were given a life-saving warning today by J. O. Musick, general manager of the Texas Safety Association.

"Trying to dispute the right of way with trains can get you killed," Musick said in urging increased public support of the National Safety Council's Signs of Life program.

He pointed out that "an appalling number of highway-rail accidents each year are caused by motorists' failure to heed railroad grade crossing warning signs and signals."

He said the severity of such accidents is so much greater than other types of traffic casualties that the public must be made to realize "how fatal it is to try to beat a train to a crossing."

"More than 1,200 persons are killed annually in railroad grade crossing accidents in the U. S.," he said. "Thousands of persons are injured. Four out of 10 of these accidents occur at crossings at which there are gates, lights, bells, watchmen or combinations of these methods of protection."

Musick urged motorists and pedestrians to join in the nationwide drive to cut down on traffic accidents by carefully observing all traffic signs and signals. He gave these railroad-traffic safety hints:

1. Be sure all tracks are clear. Even though a train may have passed, there may be another train coming.

2. If there are no lights or audible signals at the railroad crossing, listen for the train whistle and noise of its approach, looking both ways before beginning to cross.
3. If there are gates, signal bells and warning lights at a crossing, don't start to cross until they stop operating.

"The Signs of Life are for your protection. Obey them and live a long, happy life," he concluded.

RUSSELL WILKS, JR.

Russell Wilks seeks re-election to Board

I was born in Garza County, on Dec. 8, 1919, and have lived here all of my life. I graduated from Post High School in 1937. I am asking for re-election for a second term as school trustee.

I am in favor of a good, sound curriculum. I feel we have excellent teachers and an improving curriculum. I feel we need to follow thorough and complete what could be a well-balanced school program. I think that the school board and administration should perform their duties in such a way as not to stifle in any way, the initiative of the teachers and students. I feel we can have high student morale, properly balanced athletic program and still have a good school system.

Any school policy that may be interpreted in such a way as to infringe on the rights of the teachers, parents and students should be amended. I feel the authority a superintendent has should be used very carefully. When it is used properly, it will seldom be questioned.

I feel that it is a must for the teachers, the parents, and students to feel free and made welcome to discuss their problems with the administration.

I feel we have not utilized our money as we should, in the past. Consequently, economy is a must for our school system to function properly.

I have always felt the press had a definite place in our meetings. I feel the discussions leading up to the final decision of the board, should be left out of the paper. These discussions, in many cases, could not and probably would not be to the best interest of the person or persons involved. I feel that under this system, the subject will be more fully discussed.

These are some of the things we must work for, as I see them. If you see fit to re-elect me as trustee, I will follow these thoughts to the best of my ability, with common sense as my guide.

Sincerely,
RUSSELL WILKS JR.

Deadlines near for car owners

Garza County automobile owners are reminded of two approaching deadlines, April 1 and April 15.

April 1 is the day motorists should have their new 1961 license plates on their automobiles.

April 15 is the deadline for obtaining the 1961 motor vehicle inspection stickers, which must be displayed on the windshield.

Motorists buying license tags are reminded to have with them their car title and the receipt for last year's license plates.

Texas oil men drilled 18,520 wells in 1959, or 37 per cent of U. S. drilling.
