BURKES TAKES OVER AS MILL HEAD

Jennings to retire as mill president

R. J. (Rube) Jennings, president of Postex Cotton Mills, announced over last weekend that he plans to retire from that position with the mill at an early date.

Louie Burkes, who has been associated with Burlington Industries' operation at Calhoun Falls, S. C., arrived here Friday and immediately took over from Jennings as plant manager of the Postex Mill operations.

Jennings, a veteran textile executive with more than 40 years in the industry, said he will continue after retirement on a consulting assignment with B. I. Cotton Mills, a Burlington division which operates Postex here.

Jennings joined the Postex Cotton Mills organization in 1953 and moved to Post at that time. Previously, he was associated with West Point Manufacturing and Equinox Mill and Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co.

R. J. JENNINGS

He is a native of West Point, Ga., and a graduate of Georgia Institute of Technology.

During his eight years as a resident of Post, Jennings has been quite active in community affairs. He served as a director and is a past president of the Post Rotary Club.

He has been one of Post's three directors on the board of the White River Municipal Water district since the district was formed some five years ago and has given much time and effort to bringing the White River dam from dream almost to reality. His successor to that board is yet to be named by the city council.

Jennings also served for several years on the original city park board and contributed much toward bringing the park project into being.

Mr. and Mrs. Jennings left Tuesday morning to drive back to Georgia for a few weeks' visit before returning to Post for a final visit, after which they plan to move back to Georgia.

Burkes, an Alabamian by birth, has been in the textile business for the last 24 years and associated

Suspect is sought in shooting here

Deputy Sheriff Elton Corley said yesterday that an arrest was near in the shooting Saturday night of Joe Martinez, 30, of Post.

Martinez, shot through the neck at the Las Vegas Inn north of town, was transferred to a Lubbock hospital after receiving emergency treatment at Garza Memorial Hospital.

Corley said a bullet from a .38 pistol struck Martinez just below his Adam's apple and emerged at the back of his neck.

Corley said a 24-year-old suspect from Lubbock is being sought in connection with the shooting.

Spanish Fiesta to be in Post

The annual Pan American Fiesta, sponsored by the Llano Estacado chapter of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish, will be held in Post Saturday, April 22.

Students and teachers from some 25 high schools and junior high schools of the area will attend the fiesta, according to James W. Mallard Jr., Post High School Spanish teacher.

Mallard said Tuesday morning that 250 students had already registered for the fiesta and that many more will register before the deadline. The all-day program will include 15 contests, the selection of a Fiesta King and Queen and talks by outstanding speakers.

There will be a Mercado (market place) at which articles of imported Mexican handicraft will be sold.

A Mexican dinner will be served in the school cafeteria, beginning at 11:30 a. m. on the day of the fiesta. Tickets for the fiesta and dinner may be purchased from any student taking Spanish. The ticket-taker (See FIESTA, page 8)

Vote test looms on legal liquor

Yesterday—one year and 11 days after Precinct 3 went "wet"—a petition was issued from the office of County Clerk Carl Cederholm seeking a local option election in Garza County's only "wet spot".

The petition was issued by the county clerk upon application of 12—two more than the required 10—qualified voters of Precinct 3.

The petition issued yesterday is returnable to the county clerk's office within 30 days of issuance. To qualify, it must contain the signatures of 25 per cent of the qualified voters who cast votes in the Governor's race in last November's general election.

Based on the November vote in the Governor's race, the petition will require 39 signatures. A total of 137 votes were cast by Precinct 3 voters in the gubernatorial race—129 in the Two Draw box and 25 in the Verbena box.

If the petition now being circulated is signed by the required number of voters, it will be returned to the clerk's office for a check of the names of the signers and the voting precincts in which they reside. If the petition passes the county clerk's approval, it will be submitted to the Garza County commissioners' court, which will call the election.

The petition issued yesterday from the county clerk's office provides that the election ballots shall read:

"FOR the legal sale of all alcoholic beverages."

"AGAINST the sale of all alcoholic beverages."

Some observers are predicting that the petition may be returned in time to be submitted to the commissioners' court and the election called for May 27, which has been set as the date of the U. S. Senate runoff election.

The election, if called, will mark a turning point in Garza County's experiment with legalized (See LIQUOR VOTE, page 8)

Retail merchants adopt four-point promotion project

Some 50 Post merchants turned out Friday night at the call of the Post Chamber of Commerce retail committee and gave enthusiastic endorsement to a four-point promotional program.

This is the approved program:

- (1) Increased participation in Double Dollar Days on the Friday and Saturday before the first Monday of the month.
- (2) Launching of new monthly "Howdy Days" on the Friday and Saturday following Double Dollar Days by two weeks, beginning in May.
- (3) Establishment of a new merchant-participating Chamber project to welcome all newcomers to this community.

(4) A four-night course on public relations offered to merchants and their employees July 10, 11, 13 and 14 through the Post Retail Merchants Association at a cost of $2.50 per person.

Meeting in the banquet room of Levi's Restaurant, merchants also heard Mayor Powell Shytle report that his survey has shown that "we still do not have an acute downtown parking problem."

He said merchants are not interested in off-street parking for customers and said the push should be made to get merchants and their employees to park behind their stores where there is plenty of room thus leaving curb space for customers.

A project to gravel parking areas behind stores was brought up by Tom Power, chairman of the Chamber retail merchants' meeting.

Jim Cornish, chairman of the promotion sub-committee, reported his committee's recommendations for more participation in Double Dollar Days and the beginning of Howdy Days, as a promotion based on friendliness to which all merchants could tie in with special promotions in a variety of (See MERCHANTS, page 8)

Postings

By JIM CORNISH

Today's Dispatch is our Birthday Edition, honoring Post on its 54th civic birthday. You'll find plenty of features and pictures on various phases of Post's history in this big 24-page paper. Many local merchants have taken "history ads" themselves in today's edition to tell their story of individual progress. And back in the third section, some 60 Lubbock business firms have taken congratulatory ads to Post on its birthday.

A limited number of extra copies of our Birthday Edition have been printed and are available at The Dispatch office at the regular 10 cent price. If you want to have us mail them to friends or relatives a small mailing fee will be added.

Post this week lost a staunch friend and a real booster with the resignation of R. J. (Rube) Jennings from the top position out at Postex Mills. Mr. and Mrs. Jennings left Tuesday for a trip back to Georgia where they plan to relocate, but they'll be coming back to Post for a final visit before they move.

Rube told us Monday evening that although they had only resided in Post eight years, he felt like he had lived here all his life. He added he is going to miss his many local friends.

Rube is a "doer" and he did a whole lot for Post. During his time here, the relationship between the important milling industry and the town improved greatly. From the start of the White River project over five years ago, Rube has worked long and hard to see it become reality as a director of the White River municipal water district. He will be hard to replace on that board. He served on the original city park board and again contributed greatly to the community's welfare. He was very active in Post Rotary. He had a real interest too in Post's successful summer baseball program, although remaining in the background. Rube will be missed.

Mary Jo Vines, who was librarian for the five-county Texas State Library bookmobile for a year not too long ago, was a Post visitor this week and expressed her keen disappointment that Post and Garza County does not have a library. She said that the interest taken in the bookmobile in this county was real proof of the support a library would receive from the people of the county.

Mary Jo reports the state library aid program is still in operation and Garza probably still could secure book loan aid if it sought a library soon. The thousand or more new books purchased by the state (See POSTINGS, page 8)

Rates, procedure extended telephone service told here

General Telephone Co. officials told Mayor Powell Shytle and L. W. Duncan here Friday afternoon that General's share of the cost of offering "extended area service" to a large rural telephone exchange in the Post trade area to the south and east would have to be borne by whatever rate increases would be required for local subscribers.

J. L. (Dusty) Kemper, General Telephone's division manager at Brownfield, told the mayor and Duncan, who is secretary of the group of farmers and ranchers trying to organize a new rural exchange, how extended area service could be worked out.

Extended area service means that a subscriber to either the rural exchange or the Post exchange could dial any subscriber on the other exchange as a local call without paying a toll charge.

James Wright of the Caprock Telephone Co. of Spur told The Dispatch Tuesday that the engineering for the proposed rural exchange is nearing completion and that the REA already has had a preliminary look at the plans.

Wright said when the engineering for the project is completed plans would go into the REA for a loan. He added he "didn't think this would be a long drawn-out process. General Telephone officials indicated Friday that the project couldn't be completed too fast. Kemper said the new dial equipment he would need to hook the Post exchange into the new rural (See PHONE SERVICE, page 8)

At open house Sunday

General Telephone is to show off building

General Telephone Company of the Southwest will be host Sunday afternoon at open house at its new office building at 120 South Avenue L.

The new office has been in use ever since the changeover to the dial system was made late in 1960, but Sunday's open house will be the first opportunity for the public to take a leisurely look at the building's interior.

The open house is to be held from 1 p. m. until 5 p. m. It will include guided tours in charge of company employees from the home office, Brownfield and Lamesa.

Visitors will be able to see local calls being switched through the new equipment. There will also be a dial demonstration unit showing the mechanics of a telephone call, and parked outside the building will be the company's Showmobile, featuring the latest in modern telephone equipment for the home and business.

Refreshments will be served and there will be souvenir favors for all attending. District Manager Wayne King said today that everybody in the Post area is cordially invited to attend Sunday afternoon's open house.

Meeting is Friday on Farm Bureau

Organization of a Lynn-Garza County Farm Bureau will be discussed at 8 o'clock Friday night at a meeting in the bank's Community Room to which all interested Garza farmers, ranchers and business men are invited.

Charles Reid of Tahoka, service agent for the Lynn County Farm Bureau, told The Dispatch yesterday that H. L. King of Terry County, state Farm Bureau director, Jake Fulford of Terry County, ex-county Farm Bureau president, and Odell Frazier of Hockley County, a former Farm Bureau field representative, will attend the meeting here to answer all questions on organization and policies of the farm bureau.

The Lynn County Farm Bureau has some 750 dues-paying members with own building, office, and staff.

The proposed plan is for Garza County to join with Lynn County in a two-county operation until such time as Garza can finance its separate county organization.

Stampede directors will meet Tuesday

Not enough members were present Tuesday night for directors of Post Stampede, Inc., to hold a meeting, so another meeting has been called for Tuesday night.

On the agenda for discussion at the meeting is remodeling the rodeo arena, including new chutes and pens and rearrangement of the bleachers on the east side.

City officials are sworn in

Dr. James R. Matthews took the oath of office Tuesday afternoon as a member of the city council.

Also sworn in for new terms of office were Mayor Powell Shytle and Councilman Roy Baker, both re-elected in the April 4 election.

Mrs. Tommie Woods was sworn in as city secretary by Mayor Shytle. The mayor also administered the oaths of office to Dr. Matthews and Baker, and, in turn, was sworn in himself by Mrs. Woods.

Several cases dismissed

Pleas of guilty cut court term

Eleven pleas of guilty and a number of case dismissals shortened the docket at last week's term of county court before Judge J. E. Parker.

One defendant, L. C. Frazier, pleaded guilty on three cases of liquor law violations and had four other cases against her dismissed.

On each of the three guilty pleas, the Frazier woman was fined $100 and court costs.

James Robert Johnson, whose trial March 18, 1960, on a charge of driving while intoxicated resulted in a hung jury, pleaded guilty at this term of court. He was fined $50 and court costs, sentenced to three days in jail and had his driver's license suspended for six months.

Felipe Valdez entered guilty pleas on two charges of liquor law violations. He was fined $100 and costs on one and $150 and costs on the other.

Ruby Scott's plea of guilty on a liquor law violation charge brought a fine of $100 and costs.

Mary Flores pleaded guilty to a liquor law violation and was fined $100 and costs.

Fannie Daugherty on a plea of guilty to liquor law violation drew a fine of $100 and court costs.

Post passes its 54th milestone

Today's Dispatch is Post's 54th Birthday Edition. It also marks the 35th year of progress since oil was discovered in Garza County and the 75th year after C. W. Post, this community's founder, first came to Texas.

We think it is fitting for any community to have birthdays and look back into its past, just as you and I do. In this Birthday Edition, The Dispatch through stories and old pictures has tried to bring back some of those early day events.

Each year, we'll try to do some different features about Post's colorful history.

In the third section of today's edition, a large group of Lubbock business firms salute their neighbor Post on this birthday occasion.

But birthdays aren't just day in which to look back. They are also days to look ahead. It's good to see where we've been and then to look forward to where we are going.

On this birthday, Post can face its future with growing confidence. City planning is at last becoming reality. The White River Dam project is moving into its final stages. Local business leaders are preparing to begin the search for more industry, more growth, more progress.

If the community has a fault, it is the lack of togetherness—to use a rather trite, modern term. Maybe we haven't been "hurting" enough in recent years to mould that tightly knit cooperation which makes it so easy to get things done. We pull and tug too much. We need to get together and work together to progress at the rate we are capable of progressing.

Bob Collier came up with a nifty Friday night at the Chamber of Commerce meeting of merchants when he suggested that the town capitalize upon the Post cereal slogan, "Just a Little Bit Better," which is now well known from coast to coast, by using the slogan on road signs on our highway approaches—"Post, Just a Little Bit Better."

But we need to live up to that catchy slogan, too. We need to make Post a "little bit better." We can best do it by pulling together for progress.—JC

National Library Week standstill

National Library Week is being observed throughout the nation this week, marking the fourth annual appreciation of the vital role of the printed word in our national life, and encourage support and use of libraries of all kinds by every American.

One way of observing National Library Week here is by taking note of the fact that a move made several months ago for a Garza County library apparently has died on the vine.

On the other hand, the three counties that were in with Garza on bringing the Texas State Library bookmobile here for a year either are reaping the benefits of county-supported libraries or have movements well under way to do so. If the establishment of a county-supported library here costs no more than a library committee told the Garza County commissioners' court it would, this newspaper is of the opinion that we are "missing the boat" by not having one. The generosity of the Texas State Library in furnishing books to county-supported libraries at no cost should make a county library program seem sane and sound to anyone.

The argument of the commissioners' court when approached by the library committee was that they did not want to commit themselves on using county funds for such a purpose until they found out what the taxpayers thought about it. If any move has been made since that time to feel the taxpayers' pulse on the library issue, it has escaped our notice.—CD.

Garza boys score big victory

To our way of thinking, one of the most gratifying victories ever scored by Garza County youth came a few days ago when 4-H Club boys E. W. Payton and Jerry Ligon made a clean sweep of the two top prizes in the District Two 4-H Club Cotton Production Contest.

Competition was keen, as always, in this contest, with 4-H members entering from most of the district's 20 or more counties.

Cotton is the major agricultural crop of the South Plains and the interest shown by 4-H members in the irrigated and dryland yield divisions of that production contest foretells a continued bright future for the cotton industry in this area.

With a long "drouth" in district championships broken only in scattered spots by Post High School athletic teams during the last ten years, it should make us all feel better to know that two Garza County boys have brought home a mighty important district championship, albeit one far removed from what might be termed "spectator sports."

The Dispatch congratulates J. W. and Jerry on winning this district honor. We also congratulate—for we know they were a big help to the boys—their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Payton and Mr. and Mrs. Elvius Davis, and the boys' county agent, Lewis C. Herron Jr.—CD.

State finances in deeper bog

More than two-thirds of the maximum 140-day session has passed, and the Texas legislature has not yet begun action on a major tax bill. Instead, the Legislature has been mired deeper than ever in its financial bog through the tax debacle some two weeks ago in the house of Representatives.

The debacle came when Rep. John Allen withdrew his general sales tax bill in consideration, after a blast looked at it by Gov. Price Daniel. If that sounded the death knell of sales tax legislation, it was an ignominious end.

The state's requirements of new tax money, running to $300,000,000 or more for the next two fiscal years, have reached a volume which cannot rightly be supplied by piecemeal imposts on business and industry. Only a broad-based tax will adequately and equitably meet the need. Many other states have solved the same problem with a general sales tax, and recent Texas opinion polls have indicated a realization that this is the best and most equitable answer to Texas' tax dilemma.

The lawmakers should face up to the facts, and that soon. The governor himself has deplored the "costly delays and special session" which ended up in an 11th-hour makeshift tax bill in 1959—one which fell far short of meeting the need. The problem is greater than ever this year, and failure to solve it, or solve it adequately, could wreak fiscal chaos and injustice.—CD.

Let's beat 'em to the moon!

Time, as it has a habit of doing, may erase this nation's downheartedness at letting the Russians beat us getting a man into space. Time is a slow worker, however, and while we are waiting for it to dull the edge of our disappointment, the surprising Soviets may come up with something even bigger, something even more humiliating to us.

The thing for us to do is beat 'em to the punch, which would mean a complete reversal of form in the space race, since they have been beating us to the punch from the time of their first Sputnik. But, many a baseball team has rallied for a victory . . . many a boxer has gotten off the floor to deck his opponent.

Indications that we might rally for an overwhelming victory in this space race were seen in Saturday morning's headlines on acceleration by one year the timetable for landing the first man on the moon. If we can beat the Russians to the moon, we can make the world forget Russia's Yuri Gagarin—the space age Columbus.

But let's not deceive ourselves into thinking that the Soviets are going to let us land that first man on the moon if they can help it.—CD.

What our contemporaries are saying

From the repertoire of sounds which were a part of a boy's life a couple of score years ago, only a few have survived the speed and turmoil of today. One is the sound of a train and the music of steel trucks passing rail joints. It is the song of faraway places: the rickety back of a boy's exquisite dreams.—Douglas Meador in Matador Tribune.

Attorney General Will Wilson is credited with saying (as regards the senatorial race, in which he ran fourth) that the people of Texas felt he was doing such a good job in his present role they needed to keep him as attorney general. The fact is, or so it seems to us, the people of Texas felt like Mr. Wilson was jumping from one thing to another too fast in his quest for honors, and they thought it might be well to show him down. The attorney general has done a superior job, we think, and we wouldn't want to be classified along with those who are yapping at his heels. What we intend to infer by this statement is that his statement was in poor taste and was bad politics.—The Floyd County Hesperian.

See the Tregoff-Finch trial is finally at its end out in sunny California. The third jury found the couple guilty last week, then took three days this week to decide their fate. After much deliberation about whether to send them to the gas chamber or not, it was decided they should be sentenced to life imprisonment. There is only one catch to this. In California a sentence of this kind makes a prisoner eligible for parole or pardon in seven years. And in that length of time Miss Tregoff still will be a rather nice-looking young woman and Dr. Finch will still be young enough to appreciate it, so it seems the public can't win for losing.—Marvin Tomme in The Ralls Banner.

A PROPOSED RULE defining the word "newspaper" has been published in the Federal Register, but I like this one better. It was written by a six-year-old girl named Diana to a west coast newspaper and published in the paper's Letterbox. It went like this:

"Newspapers. We need them so we can know who reck and who drowns and who shoots somebody. And who wants a house or who dies or gets a baby. It tells if your dog is lost. They are good on shelves and to make bond fires. They also do good under a baby's plate and to keep dogs off things. You can wrap potato peellings in em. You can put one when you defrost. They tell about shows and how much things are."

To which the editor of the paper added: "P. S. Diana, they are also good to swat things with, like flies and public officials and things."

One of our readers has inquired if we can tell him anything about developments at the "gold mine" recently discovered in a river bed in Stoneval County, near Old Glory. He says he hasn't seen a thing in any of the papers about it since the first story appeared.

Well, I've checked our sources over that way and have learned that the owners of the gold mine are hoping that enough gold and silver ore can be found to pay for developing the find as a copper mine.

Two Abilene men, co-owners of the Cortez Mining Corp., confirmed the strike, but said the primary object is the mining of copper. It is not believed that the gold and silver content in ore at the mine is sufficiently concentrated to make mining a profitable venture for those metals. So, copper is the main object of the mining venture and the owners say they hope they can make the gold and silver pay for the cost of mining the copper.

THEY'VE CALLED the runoff election in the Senate race for May 27. Looking back on the dizzy, candidate-crowded race leading up to the April 4 election, I like the sportsmanship of Martha Tredway, one of the handful of women in the race, who said, "I guess that just shows that voters don't prefer blondes." She received about the same number of votes as my friend Johnny Hopkins. Johnny says the voters evidently didn't prefer brunettes, either.

I ordinarily don't go for editorial riddles. But Emaline Harris posed one in the Graham (Tex.) Leader that is worthy of notice.

It seems that two young women were leaving a cafeteria one day. As they passed the cashier's desk, one paid her bill, but the second one handed the cashier a slip of paper with the number 1004150 on it.

The cashier studied the number a moment, then smiled and let the young woman pass without paying. Can you figure out why she did not have to pay? For the first correct answer, I'll give as a prize a Post Dispatch Doodle Pad. If you're stumped, watch this column next week.

The four-year-old's mother was teaching him the Golden Rule. When finished, she asked him if he understood it. "Yes," he replied. "Do unto others and they will do unto you."

FRIDAY NIGHT'S Junior-Senior banquet was, as usual, an enjoyable affair. Thanks again for the invitation. One of the things that impressed me most about the banquet room was the intricacy of the decorations. It was evident at first glance that members of the class, their advisors and room mothers had put in a lot of work on them. Since this is the Civil War Centennial Year, the Old South banquet theme was well chosen.

SHORT AND SWEET — Remember when the headquarters of a boat generation was the woodshed? . . . a Washington, D. C., executive has this framed motto on his desk: "It's too late to agree with me. I've changed my mind."

From a reader: "The expression 'Let George Do It' originated almost 500 years ago with King Louis XII of France—he was passing the buck to his Prime Minister, George d'Ambrose." . . . Completion near on Tahoka jail

TAHOKA—Lynn County's new $125,000 jail building is almost complete, according to Sheriff Novell Redwine.

Construction began in September with W. B. Abbott & Co. of Lubbock as contractors. The building itself was constructed at a cost of $75,000, and the jail equipment contract with Southern Steel Co. of San Antonio was $50,000. Kitchen and office furnishings are still to be bought and installed. Provisions are made for 18 prisoners without crowding.

URGE PROGRAM STUDY

Corn and grain sorghum producers should carefully weigh the advantages and disadvantages of the new feed grain program and apply them to their own situation before making a decision on whether or not to participate. According to Texas Agricultural Extension service economists, there is only one best way to make the determination—take a pencil and paper and do some figuring.

State Capital NEWS

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN—In years past, a favorite topic among legislators about this time in the session was, "When are we going to sine die?"

A sine die (final adjournment) resolution gave everyone a comfortable sense of direction. Now there's no need.

Under the new law, the regular session automatically ends after 140 days. For this session the 140th day will be May 29. But with the time two-thirds gone, there's no assurance vital tasks can be completed by May 29.

Both House and Senate are now working on the tax problem, but other measures of major importance—loan regulation, school consolidation—claim their time and cause delays.

Some observers are freely predicting that the tax question this year, as in 1959, cannot be solved except in special sessions limited to that one subject.

LOAN BILL PASSED
House members passed and sent to the Senate a bill on one of the session's most difficult problems—small loan regulation.

Rep. Criss Cole's bill would allow interest rates up to 39.8 per cent on the smallest loans. An amendment was added to allow loan companies to make a service charge of $4 every three months in addition to the interest.

Two amendments were passed with the aim of trying to prevent the market's being taken over by large out-of-state chains. One would prevent the licensing of a loan company owned by a non-resident person or corporation. Another would prohibit any one loan firm's having more than 50 branch offices in Texas.

Another amendment would require the finance commissioner, who would be responsible for loan company licensing and regulation, to approve any charges for insurance in connection with loans.

LOAN INSURANCE RULING
Meanwhile, an attorney general's ruling gave additional direction to the effort to control total charges for small loans.

A loan company, said the opinion from Atty. Gen. Will Wilson's office, is not entitled to a commission for group insurance sold in connection with loans.

Many critics of the small loan industry have contended the loan companies have made extra and unjustified profits by serving as "agents" for the sale of credit insurance to borrowers.

Actually, according to the opinion the creditor (loan company) is the buyer of the insurance policy and, as such, is not entitled to an agent's commission on the sale.

This opinion, it was felt, will help to clear up the sticky problem of keeping a lid on charges for insurance required of borrowers as security for loans.

SCHOOL CONSOLIDATION
Senate ran into problems over a bill designed to encourage small school districts to economize.

Under present law, if several common school districts in a county consolidate, the first result is that state aid for the combined district is less than for the several separate districts. Government research specialists, however, have long advocated more consolidation in the interest of economy, efficiency and better school programs.

Sen. Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells is sponsoring a measure providing that common districts forming a consolidated district of 1,000 pupils or more shall, for 10 years, continue to receive as much state aid as before consolidation.

Sen. Culp Krueger objected that the requirements would penalize many of the low-population counties in his district. Besides, said Krueger, he didn't believe in "paying people to economize."

STUDY ANNEXATION
A House-passed bill setting up ground rules for city annexation is being worked on by a subcommittee of the Senate State Affairs Committee.

Rep. W. T. Dungan of McKinney is sponsor of the bill which would allow cities to ring themselves with "buffer zones" over which they could exercise control of building, health and sanitation standards. A portion of the zone could be annexed each year. Bill also provides that an annexed area not provided with municipal services in three years may "disannex" itself.

Spokesmen for the Texas Municipal League spoke in favor of the bill at committee hearing. A representative of the Texas Home Builders Association spoke against it and asked for more control over city extension of control.

70 MPH BILL PASSED
Senate passed and sent to the House a bill that would allow speed limits up to 70 miles per hour on some state highways.

Power to say which roads would have higher—or lower—speed limits would be in the hands of the State Highway Commissioner.

In support of the varying speed limits, Senator Wardlow Lane of Center said it was unreasonable to have the same 60-mile-an-hour limit on new divided highways and old, narrow, twisting roads.

Senator Preston Smith of Lubbock is sponsor. A controversial amendment by Senator Lane would make inadmissible in a court considering a speeding charge "evidence gained by entrapment" or gained by officers "lying in wait unobserved." Presumably this would, in effect, outlaw radar traps.

GOP ASKS CHANGES
Spokesmen for the Texas Republican Party appeared before a House Committee in behalf of four bills to change the election code.

Two of the bills set up qualifications for poll watchers and election supervisors. Another would allow voters to put a mark beside the name of the person they wish to vote for instead of scratching all others. Another would repeal the provision for disqualifying a ballot on which two or more names are left unscratched for the same office.

GOP officials said that 1,000,000 ballots were thrown out in the last general election, and that probably 1,000,000 were counted that should not have been. Clarifying the law, they declared, would protect every one's vote.

TEACHER RAISE
Answers to questionnaires sent to local school boards over Texas show that 99 per cent of the school trustees replying favor raises for teachers.

Boards are divided, however, on how much the raise should be. Biggest proportion, 64 per cent, favor the full $500 sought by the Hale-Aikin Committee and the Texas State Teachers Association. About 22 per cent favor a $600 a year increase, and 8 per cent a $400 increase. Remainder favor some other amount.

Other results: a substantial majority of boards favor adding driver education teachers to the list of authorized special personnel.

A committee of the Texas Association of School Administrators and Texas Association of School Boards conducted the poll.

Largest city on the Mexican border is El Paso, Tex.

POST, TEXAS

Our oil story ...

Brown Brothers, Et Al, has been a part of Post and Garza County's oil picture for the last 16 years—and we look upon Post as "our town" and try to do everything we can as a firm and as individuals to see it grow and prosper.

It is interesting to note that C. W. Post the town's founder, came within 300 feet of striking oil here 50 years ago, but quit drilling just 300 feet above present production.

Garza county got its first producer some 35 years ago, but the big drilling effort didn't come until 1945—and that is the year Brown Brothers, then another name, completed its first producer in Garza County.

The firm was known as the Comanche Corporation 16 years ago and had its headquarters in Dallas. That was when the first producer came in for us in May 1945.

After the first one, we kept right on drilling. Five years later the firm's name was changed to Murchison Brothers and Brown Brothers and headquarters were moved to Post.

In March, 1952, the firm assumed its present name, Brown Brothers, Et Al.

We are the largest single operator in the Garza field, the big San Andres production field which includes the city of Post. That field contains 491 wells of which Brown Brothers operates 189. The firm also operates 16 other wells, three in Lynn county and 13 in northern Garza county besides the 189 in the field.

The majority of Garza field wells were drilled between 1945 and 1951. Brown Brothers has done no drilling in the last three years.

In 1960, Brown Brothers produced 736,017 barrels of oil from its 189 wells in the Garza field. At an average of $2.80 per barrel, that made the company's Garza field production worth about $2,060,847.60.

The severe cutback of production days in Texas due to oversupply hasn't curtailed Brown Brothers' operations too greatly because many of our Garza wells produce under 20 barrels of oil daily and thus as marginal wells do not come under the production curbs placed on larger wells. They can be pumped 30 days a month.

Brown Brothers drilled out the original Post townsite with the first well being completed June 12, 1950. Most of the town wells were drilled in 1950-51 with the remainder finished by 1953.

Brown Brothers operates 27 out of the 34 wells on the original townsite. Of the original 34 city wells, 33 are still in operation, including all 27 of Brown Brothers'.

This oil firm has a payroll of 33 persons, all of whom live here in Post.

The oil future, we're convinced, is bright, although the present over-supply of oil does not make continued drilling at this time feasible.

Brown Brothers drilled one deep test in 1949, going clear to the Ellenberger. No oil shows were found in the Strawn or Mississippian, but we have high hopes that with today's oil know-how that the big Garza field may have another rich oil pool 400 to 500 feet below the San Andres in the Glorietta. This possibility is yet to be thoroughly explored.

As Post observes its 54th birthday, Brown Brothers wishes to salute its "hometown" and wish it another 54 years of continued growth and progress—all, we hope, with oil in the fore-front.

Why is the Ford Galaxie head and shoulders above all the imitators?

'61 Ford Galaxie, like all Fords, is available with the Thunderbird 291 V-8 engine that sets the low price V-8 class in this price range. Economy 24-mpg—averaging 21.3 miles per gallon.

Because it's beautifully built to take care of itself!

Frankly, we're tickled to see so many other cars trying to latch on to the styling trend started by Galaxie. But they can't copy that Thunderbird roofline—any more than they can match Galaxie's Thunderbird luxury and handling.

What's more, Galaxie is the fine car built to cut your operating costs—by being beautifully built to take care of itself! For example, you can go 30,000 miles without a lubrication. And when you compare price, you find that Galaxie costs several hundred dollars less than some cars that give you less. Challenging statement? We're here to prove it—today.

Here's how the '61 Ford takes care of itself:

- Lubrication itself—You go 30,000 miles between oil changes (lubrication system cost only about $4.50 and takes about 20 minutes).
- Shuts the top off—You go 4,000 miles between oil changes with Ford's Full-Flow oil filter (which filters better through itself).
- Adjusts its own brakes—New Truck Size Brake adjust themselves—automatically.
- Shuts its own engine—Ford mufflers are double-sprung and designed to last three times as long as ordinary mufflers.
- Protects its own body—All vital underbody parts are specially protected to resist rust and corrosion, even to galvanizing the body panels beneath the floor.
- Takes care of its own fluids—Just wash and clean Ford's new Engine Lubrication System and it will continue to clean the car. It never needs washing.

Carpets, rugs are made to enjoy

By MRS. LETA SMITH
 County HD Agent
 Carpets and rugs are made for enjoyment. Not only should you enjoy the beauty and comfort of the carpeting in your home, you should also plan to take full advantage of carpet's ease of care benefits. Carpets and rugs retain their handsome appearance for many years if a simple, regular plan is followed.

Day to day care, using a carpet sweeper or vacuum cleaner, occasional surface brightening, professional cleaning from time to time, and quick attention to spots—these are the attentions due a carpet or rug.

The home uses many decorative materials, but only carpet gets walked on. And you cannot deny the law of gravity. Much that is dropped hits the carpeting as well as dust and soot from the air. After a certain period of time, and even with the most conscientious use of the vacuum cleaner, the appearance of your carpet may be dulled by an accumulation of dirt which is not readily removed by sweeping or brushing. This effect will be more apparent in a dusty, dirty atmosphere and with delicate colors which may be masked or changed in hue by the accumulation of very fine dirt particles.

There are three types of cleaning the housewife can use on her carpet. They are: cleaning with detergent solution; cleaning with a solvent cleaning fluid, and the use of absorbent powder cleaners.

(1) Wet cleaning is suitable for all types of carpets. Several precautions must be taken, however, the most important of which is to avoid the use of soap, ammonia, soda or any other of the household agents.

(2) Sponging the pile with a cleaning fluid is suitable for carpetings of wool or man-made fiber. It is not recommended for cotton carpets.

(3) A number of absorbent powder cleaners made especially for carpet are available for cleaning larger areas. They are satisfactory for home use because they are fool-proof when the directions are followed. However, like the other home methods mentioned they are not a substitute for professional cleaning.

Post FHA girls to receive State Degrees at convention

Miss Jane Maxey and Miss Linda Kuykendoll, accompanied by Mrs. Wilma Hill, Post High School home economics instructor, will be in Dallas April 27, 28 and 29 to attend the State Future Homemakers of America convention. Jane and Linda, PHS seniors, will receive their State FHA degrees during the convention.

Mrs. Hill, Linda, Jane, and Sheila Morris were in Big Spring recently for the judging and passing of FHA State Degree scrapbooks, at which 20 other FHA chapters were represented. Five committees judged the 25 scrapbooks from this area. Linda and Jane's scrapbooks and records of FHA work were approved and they became eligible for the state degree.

The FHA State Degree is a very high honor and only one other member of the Post FHA chapter has ever received a state degree. She was Miss Dixie Davis, a 1957 graduate of PHS.

In order to receive their degree, a FHA member must complete the required credits in home economics, receive her FHA Junior and Chapter Degrees at least a year prior to her State Degree, have a scholastic record of an 85 average, be an outstanding student and citizen and have worked hard to promote the work and programs of her

Q—My house burned down last year and I collected from the fire insurance company. I am a World War One veteran, eligible for VA pension under the new law, and I want to know if I have to figure the fire insurance payments as part of my income.

A—No. Proceeds of fire insurance policies need not be counted as income in applying for VA pension.

Q—VA, at my request, has been holding my GI insurance dividends using them to pay my premiums in advance. I'd like to change that arrangement, and ask VA to hold my dividends on deposit with interest, subject to withdrawal on request. How do I go about it?

A—Write to the VA district office which services your GI insurance policy. Give them your insurance number, and explain how you wish to change your dividend plan.

Q—I hear people talking about the "equalization clause" in the new pension system. Just what does this mean? I am the widow of a Korea veteran and will soon be eligible for pension under this new law.

A—The phrase "equalization clause" refers to the fact that eligibility requirements based on war service of a veteran become alike or equal for widows and children of World Wars I and II and the Korean conflict on or after July 1, 1960. It will no longer be necessary for you to establish that your husband had a service-connected disability at the time of his death, as it was formerly.

Q—I get two VA benefits: my monthly training allowance, and compensation for a service-connected disability. Do I have to report either on my 1959 Federal income tax? report?

A—No. Veterans benefits are tax-free. Interest on GI insurance dividends left with VA on deposit, however, should be reported.

'Signs of Life' are meant for your protection

"Willful disregard of traffic signs and signals by motorists and pedestrians can spell disaster."

That statement was made today by J. O. Musick, general manager of The Texas Safety Association, in calling attention to Signs of Life.

Objective of this program is to call attention to the importance of knowing and obeying all traffic signs, signals and markings.

"While we can't be sure just how many of our traffic accidents are a result of disregard for traffic signs and signals," Musick said, "we do know there's a close relationship between traffic violations and traffic accidents."

Some of the more common violations that cause traffic accidents: Exceeding the posted speed limit, improper passing, failure to keep to the right of the center line, failure to yield right-of-way, and disregarding stop and warning signs.

"Traffic signs," he said, "are designed to protect you against accidents. But unless you heed them faithfully, they are of little value."

He said several studies of motorists' behavior at traffic signs shows an alarming laxity in consistently obeying traffic signs—particularly stop signs. He said the major purpose of the current Signs of Life program is to cut down on the number of traffic accidents by convincing motorists and pedestrians of the need for observing traffic signs and signals.

"Signs of Life," he said, "are meant for your protection. Heeding them can save your life, or prevent you from serious injuries."

MY WISH

Three is such a tender age. Sue isn't a baby any more, yet she's a long way from being a big girl.

When I watched her blowing out the candles on her cake, I felt a surge of that certain kind of love reserved for mothers. And, while she made her wish, I made mine.

I wished, first, that I might be given the gift of memory, so that I would never forget a child's point of view—the importance of even the littlest promises, the oldest dolls, the smallest nothings.

I wished that I might be given the wisdom to care for Sue's body, mind, and soul. And I was deeply grateful that I had the Church to help me teach her right from wrong, and to aid me in endowing her with a rich measure of faith, of love, and of tolerance toward her fellow man.

Thinking it over, I guess that my wish for Sue might be called a prayer. Each Sunday, in church, I find myself repeating it.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

PCG, Inc., sets up scholarship series

LUBBOCK—The Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. has established a series of four-year scholarships in textile engineering at Texas Tech. Each scholarship will have a total value of $1,000 and 23 counties served by the Plains Cotton Growers. Each grant will be in four installments of $250 annually. Two scholarships are being offered for 1961-62. A maximum of eight are scheduled to be offered eventually. Selection of recipients will be on the basis of the candidate's needs, scholastic record, evidence of leadership, character and sincerity of purpose. Continuation of the award for the sophomore, junior and senior years will be automatic, provided the student's record justifies it. Application blanks may be obtained from the dean of engineering and should be filed after the student has completed high school and before Sept. 1. Final selection will not be made until the receipt of mid-semester grades each fall after the applicants have entered Tch.

Bowling lanes at Ralls burglarized

RALLS—Everything from money to tools was stolen by thieves who broke into the Crosby County Bowling Lanes here.

Entering through a back door, the intruders broke into all the coin-operated machines, taking approximately $100.

They also stole 15 bowling shirts and five bowling bags from a display rack. The snack bar was also hit, with candy, cigars and meat kept in a deep-freeze unit taken.

On their way out, the burglars picked up and carried away tools used to work on automatic pin spotting machines.

Roy Osthus, owner of the bowling lanes, estimated the total loss at $300, not including the tools on which he placed no estimate. He said some of them were special tools and would have to be replaced by the company.

THE NATION'S FIRST GASOLINE TAX WAS IMPOSED BY THE STATE OF OREGON IN 1919... PURPOSE: TO PAY FOR HIGHWAYS.

LOYAL M. GRAHAM, OREGON LEGISLATOR WHO PROPOSED THAT TAX, RECENTLY SAID: I NEVER THOUGHT IT WOULD GET OUT OF OREGON... BUT IT DID!

TODAY EVERY STATE HAS A GASOLINE TAX. ON A NATION-WIDE AVERAGE THESE TAXES COME TO 10 CENTS A GALLON, INCLUDING A 4-CENT FEDERAL LEVY, AND THEY BRING IN MORE THAN 5 BILLION DOLLARS A YEAR.

L. M. GRAHAM OF FOREST GROVE, ORE., CELEBRATED HIS 100TH BIRTHDAY, NOV. 20, 1960.

ON JUNE 30 THE FEDERAL GASOLINE TAX IS SCHEDULED TO RETURN TO 3 CENTS A GALLON, AT THE SAME TIME SOME OTHER HIGHWAY-USER TAXES NOW SPENT FOR GENERAL PURPOSES WILL GO TO HIGHWAY FUNDS, RESULTING IN A NET GAIN OF OVER 200 MILLION DOLLARS PER YEAR FOR THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT'S HIGHWAY FUND.

Justiceburg got start same time as Post, Garza

Justiceburg got its start in 1907—the same year that Post was founded and Garza County was organized.

The community sprang up on land owned by the Justice family, from which it got its name. Jeff Justice built a lumber yard and store and his sons, Appleton and Little Jeff, ran these businesses.

The first postmaster was a Mr. Chaney, who ran a store there. In 1912, he sold out to Mrs. L. A. Pirtle, who ran a general store and post office from then until 1943.

The Justiceburg Baptist Church was organized in 1907. Church was held in the school building before the present church was built.

When the Justice family started their ranch, about 1898, they arranged for their mail, as well as that of some of their neighbors, to be brought from Fluvanna.

In 1928, when the highway came through, a new town was laid out on the Justice property. The post office and store buildings were moved to a site on the new highway.

The Justiceburg school is still operating and is a focal point for community activities.

The first oil activity in Garza County was around Justiceburg, the first drilling being done on the T. E. Payne property. The Justiceburg field continues to be one of the most continuously developed and productive in the county.

Post estate exceeded $20 million in 1914

The value of the C. W. Post estate, shortly after his death in 1914, was estimated at $20,552,380, by newspaper accounts of that day.

At the time of his death he owned about $4,500,000 worth of real estate in Texas and had personal property in the Lone Star state valued at $1,600,000.

Most of this of course was in the Post area.

Excessive speed and driving while drinking take big accident toll

The Texas Department of Public Safety today released an official analysis of traffic accidents for 1960 indicating that excessive speed and driving while drinking led the list of violations figuring in fatal accidents on the rural highways.

The booklet, prepared by DPS Statistical Services, lists speed too fast for conditions as a factor in 48 per cent of the rural fatal accidents, and driving while drinking as a factor in 39 per cent of these accidents.

Statistical Services Manager N. K. Woerner noted that the 2,254 motorcides in Texas during 1960 was the lowest toll since 1949 when 1,957 were killed. Other observations made from the analysis included these:

The 1960 death rate of 4.9 motorcides for each 100 million miles of travel was the lowest on record.

Traffic killed 199 fewer persons than in 1959.

Traffic deaths on rural roads and highways were reduced 11 per cent.

There were nine deathless days on Texas highways during the year the greatest number for any year since World War II.

An average of one person was injured every hour and 35 minutes for a total of 127,980—almost equal to the population of Lubbock. This would mean that 13 of every 1,000 Texans were injured in traffic accidents during the year.

On Feb. 25, 1933, the USS Ranger, first aircraft carrier wholly designed and built as such, was commissioned at Norfolk Va.

Is the welcome warm and friendly—as it is in the home you see pictured here? Or do your guests have to grope their way to the front door? The Postex Story ...

The POSTEX COTTON MILLS are almost as old as Post itself—being founded in 1912 by C. W. Post, who built the town. His main objective was to provide a local cotton market for West Texas farmers and to make the new community self supporting.

The mill has changed ownership several times since its 1912 origin. It was purchased in 1945 by the Ely and Walker Dry Goods Co. of St. Louis and more recently the Ely and Walker mills were merged with Burlington Industries, which makes Postex today a member of the largest textile organization in the world.

Several million dollars have been spent in recent years in expanding and modernizing the Postex operations. The modernization of the mills has enabled its sheets and pillowcases to successfully compete on the nation's markets. This mechanization has enabled Postex to hold its production costs down per unit, essential in an industry hard pressed to fight off foreign competition.

Employing approximately 500 persons, Postex uses approximately 100,000 pounds of cotton weekly, which is woven into approximately 165,000 yards of cloth. The mills also have unfinished cloth shipped to Postex from three other Burlington mills for conversion into sheets and pillow cases.

The mills here have in operation 17,748 spinning spindles and 369 looms which weave approximately 8,500,000 yards of cloth per year. On the average it requires about three yards of cloth to make one sheet, and one yard of cloth to make one pillow case.

The keen competition of the textile industry makes it necessary for Postex Mills to constantly improve machines and methods. This is a continuation of the management's program of modernizing buildings, equipment and work methods so that the plant can compete with any of the big sheet manufacturers of the country.

A big water user in its manufacturing processes, Postex is looking forward to the day when the long-sought White River dam becomes reality. That could mean additional expansion of its facilities with construction of a new dye plant. But that is only part of the future of these cotton mills which have been so closely tied to Post since the town's beginning.

In the fast-moving and ever changing world of textiles, the future's never safe—and never sure. But the Postex position today—as the town observes its 54th birthday—is probably the strongest in its 49 year history.

Registration set for summer classes

Registration for the summer program for non-English speaking children will be held at the Post primary school Friday, April 28.

All children who will become six years of age on or before Sept. 1, 1961, and who do not speak the English language will be eligible for enrollment.

The class will begin June 5 and there will be 50 instructional days thereafter, with class hours from 8:30 a. m. until 11:30 a. m.

The cost of the program will be borne by the state and there will not be an activity fee for the children.

Anyone who has a child eligible for the class is asked to go by the primary school office and make proper registration.

School officials explain that in order to have this summer program, there must be at least 15 children in the class, so each person's cooperation is needed.

Phone service-- exchange would require 18 months to receive delivery.

Kemper explained that the only way in which his utility firm could enter into a contract to offer extended area service to the new rural exchange would be on the basis of the Caprock Telephone Co. agreeing to pay 60 per cent of the cost of operating the extended area service with General paying 40 per cent.

Kemper said REA has generally set up the 60-40 cost ratio between a large exchange and a small one because most of the calls originate from the smaller exchange.

The division manager said the cost of operations for both General Telephone and Caprock Telephone would be totaled, including amortizing the cost of equipment required for such service, with Caprock paying 60 per cent and General 40 per cent.

Kemper said General Telephone will insist upon the 60-40 cost ratio.

Wright of Caprock Telephone told The Dispatch Tuesday during a visit to Post that his firm wants a 50-50 split of the cost of extended area service. He pointed out his exchange will be the same distance from the General Telephone area boundary as is the Post exchange and line and equipment costs should be about the same for each company.

Kemper told Mayor Shultes earlier equipment costs wouldn't be the same and that his firm would insist on the 60-40 cost ratio for which he said a precedent is well established.

Proposed location for the new rural dial phone exchange would be about 3 1/2 miles from the Post exchange boundary on FM-651.

General Telephone officials explained that they could not talk costs until full information is received from Caprock Telephone concerning the proposed rural exchange. Kemper promised a cost survey within 30 days after this information is received.

Duncan reported some 115 farmers and ranchers and oil operators have signed up for proposed new rural exchange if an REA loan can be secured to finance construction of the exchange.

General Telephone Co. officials offered to conduct a survey of Post phone subscribers for city officials, if the city so desired, to determine if the subscribers were interested in such extended area service and were willing to pay for the added service.

Kemper said he could estimate what the added monthly charge

Merchants--

Howdy Day placards and price cards and identification buttons for store personnel were promised.

The first Howdy Days would be May 12-13. Extensive promotion by merchants via newspaper and radio was urged to attract shoppers into Post from all over the trade area.

The impact of many bargains and special attractions at the same time will pull bigger crowds of shoppers, Cornish emphasized.

Charles Luttrell presented a very interesting new promotion for local newcomers which he reported worked very well for a California shopping center where he had a service station.

A coupon book would be printed with merchants offering a variety of gifts via their coupons to be redeemed when the newcomer called at the stores with the coupon book and turned in his coupon. This would enable the newcomer to get acquainted with all participating merchants.

The books would be kept at the Chamber office which would establish a list of sources from which to secure the names of all community newcomers and their addresses. Two or three merchants each week then would go together and call upon the newcomers and leave the coupon books.

The Chamber this week went to work to work up copy for the coupon books.

Luttrell also proposed using such coupon books in caravan visits by merchants to smaller communities in Post's trade area to attract shoppers into Post. This too was endorsed by the merchants at the meeting.

E. E. Pierce, amnager of the Post Retail Merchants Credit Bureau, spoke briefly on the work on the bureau and the employer and employe public relations course arranged for July with a speaker coming from the University of Texas.

Chamber President Wilf Scarborough spoke briefly at the close of the meeting asking for the full support of the merchants in the Chamber with both money and ideas.

Mary Jo said Crosby County now has three branch libraries in its three towns as a result of the bookmobile program and that Kent County now has a nice library at Jayton as a result of the same bookmobile demonstration. She suggested that local folks who still want a library in Garza County organize a Friends of Texas Libraries similar to the one which Crosby County had for several years prior to establishments of its three branch libraries.

Rev. Gene Matthews, pastor of the Post Methodist Church, will be leaving early in June for a new pastoral assignment after a busy three years here. Brother Gene, as his friends know him, has asked the presiding Methodist bishop of the area for reassignment to another church. Gene has labored hard in his Post vineyard for what he believes to be needed. The community and his church has benefited greatly by his three years of services here. But it isn't time yet to say or write our goodbyes.

Junior High band to UIL contest

The Post Junior High School band, composed of 57 sixth and seventh grade students, will be in Brownfield Saturday for the regional University Interscholastic League contests.

The Post band, directed by Bob Meisch, is scheduled to play its concert numbers at 10 a. m.

The Post band will be competing in Class C, along with junior high bands from Olton, Muleshoe, Lockney, Floydada, Abernathy, Morton, Brownfield and Littlefield.

Although the Post band is made up of sixth and seventh grade students only, it will be competing against a number of bands which also include eighth grade students and at least two bands which include ninth graders.

The Post High School band will compete Saturday, April 29, in the high school division of the UIL contests, Meisch said.

fearful of that city's future. The Tyler industrial development foundation now has $3,000,000 in assets and is doing an "outstanding job" in attracting new industry, so much so that almost all other Texas community development groups have been patterned after the Tyler organization.

Shelton stressed that such development groups (1) buy, develop and sell industrial sites, (2) buy, build and lease or sell industrial buildings, (3) provide loan money to finance industry, and (4) provide complete information services.

The "business climate" of any community has become increasingly important in landing industries, Shelton said. He defined "business climate" as the kind of schools, churches, municipal services, local government a community has.

"Unfortunately in Texas at the state level, we're not developing a good business climate for industry as are our neighboring states in the Southwest and South," Shelton said.

At the Tuesday night meeting of Post Development stockholders, which drew approximately 20 members and guests, Shelton said that "you can count on the fingers of your two hands the Texas towns that are actively engaged in industrial development." He said there are a great number of "ineffectual industrial promotion teams in Texas today."

In this presentation, Shelton and Hartan took up the 11 steps of good industrial promotion—forming an individual promotion organization, gathering all the facts, analyzing and evaluating industrial potential of community, preparing industrial sites, securing risk capital for industrial loans, securing loan cooperation and support, supporting a program of community and civic improvements, securing outside cooperation and support, selecting prospects, and contacting and negotiating with prospects.

Post Development directors will meet in the Community Room at 5 p. m. Wednesday to discuss financing of the survey. Shelton said the organization would not be billed until after completion of survey and would be charged only expenses of staff in making survey and industrial potential evaluation with a maximum figure set forth in the contract.

Optimum forage-concentrate ratio for dairy cows told by specialist

COLLEGE STATION—Just what is the optimum forage-concentrate ratio for dairy cows? Interest in this question has been stimulated by reports that research on feeding producing cows large quantities of concentrates with limited forage is being conducted in other states.

Within certain limits, says A. M. Meekma, extension dairy specialist, the levels of concentrates and roughages in the dairy ration should be determined by the cost of nutrients in each type of feed. If a good concentrate mixture, containing 70 per cent total digestible nutrients, can be obtained for less than $3 a hundred and good alfalfa hay is costing over $40 a ton, the concentrates may be the cheaper source of nutrients.

Under economic conditions favorable to high concentrate feeding, the quantity of hay or hay equivalent that is fed may be limited to one per cent of the liveweight daily, Meekma continues. When less than this amount of unground forage is fed to producing dairy cows the dairyman runs the risk of lowering the butterfat test.

Drastic changes in the ration should be made gradually, and increases in the amount of concentrates fed above 30 pounds daily should be made slowly. Recommended rates of increase are one-half pound or less per day. There is a real danger of causing the cow to go off feed, resulting in a serious loss in milk production. If the concentrates are increased too rapidly. When the cow is licking the feed trough clean it is safe to increase the amount of concentrates offered.

In addition to the factors mentioned, the upper limits of concentrate feeding will be determined by both the cow's ability to respond with higher milk production and the relative prices of feed and milk, Meekma concludes.

State Board to act on SCD elections

The State Soil Conservation Board will meet May 4 to canvass the returns of the April 4 election for dissolution of the Duck Creek Soil Conservation District and organization of a Garza County SCD.

Details for reorganization of the Duck Creek SCD and organization of the new Garza County SCD are to be worked out at a meeting of the present district board on May 13, according to Bobby Jack Gray, work unit conservationist here.

Postmaster urges correct addresses

Postmaster Harold Vols has urged that full and correct addresses be placed on all letters mailed to the post office here.

This is especially important, he said, since the start of city mail delivery service.

"There was a time," the postmaster said, "when some of us lived at the post office corner just like everybody and where they lived. But not anymore. It will speed the mail for you to have the correct box or street address on the letters you send."

He said this especially applies to local business firms making monthly statements to their local customers.

"The time is not far off," the postmaster said, "when proper addressing will be compulsory on no letter-senders may as well get in the habit of addressing their mail properly and correctly."

Archery Club is organized here

The Post Archery Club was organized Friday night at a meeting held in the home of Allan Hampton.

Here to assist in the organization were three members of the Canyon Reef Archery Club of Snyder—Oliver Guy, Gerald P. Hill and Wayne Finley. They made talks and showed movies of archery tournaments.

The newly organized club is to hold a meeting Monday night to discuss the location and setting up of a target range. Plans are also to be made for registering the club with the Texas Field Archery Association.

Adults interested in archery are invited to attend Monday night's meeting, which is to be held at 7 p. m. at 304 Avenue C, Mill Village.

have volunteered labor for a "work day" next week at which the lighting installation will be begun.

Bingham also announced plans for the leasing of the concession stands at the two ball parks for the entire 1961 season.

Bids are to be turned in to Jim Cornish at the Post Dispatch by 5 p. m. Thursday, May 4.

Bingham said the present concession stand will be repaired at the association's expense before the season's opener in late May.

No concession bid under $400 will be considered, Bingham explained, as the stand for both parks should net high enough under proper management to pay over $400 for concession rights. He said this includes all concession rights, including those to Sunday afternoon games.

A clean-up afternoon was scheduled today to start cleaning up the baseball properties.

Bingham said the dugouts will be torn out at the Little League Park and team benches will be placed behind protective wire for the two participating teams.

Antelopes elect 4 '61 captains

Four captains have been elected by the Post Antelope football squad for the 1961 season.

Bobby Hudman, offensive line-man and defensive linebacker, was elected as one of the captains on the first ballot. When Leslie Acker, Nuel Landreth and Tommy Boucher tied for the other co-captaincy, it was decided to have four team captains for the next season.

All four boys will be seniors. Acker, Landreth and Boucher lettered at backfield positions.

Girl 15 subject of library book

By Mary Barnes
"Fifteen," by Beverly Cleary, is about Jane Purdy and some of the events during her fifteenth year. She wasn't very popular until she met Stan Crandall. She then became one of the crowd. She then became one of the crowd. She then became one of the crowd.

She met Stan on one of her baby-sitting jobs when he was delivering dog meat for the Doggie Diner. He asked her for a date that night and that began their going together. They went to shows but the biggest event was going to dinner in the city. Stan and she went to a Chinese restaurant there with 2 other couples. Jane didn't know how to eat with chopsticks so the city wasn't as good as she expected.
The next big event was the fall dance. Stan didn't invite Jane to it so much that it disappointed her and also made her mad. Why didn't they ask her? Did this end their friendship? Read "Fifteen" found in the Post Junior High library to answer these questions.

Students and teachers sound off on banquet

The Junior-Senior banquet was a big success Friday night. We feel that everyone enjoyed it and we know the Juniors did. The Juniors worked very hard to make it a memorable occasion for the Seniors.

We asked some of the PHS students to express their opinions on it. Here are some of their remarks:
Mr. Pollard—the prom was the best we've ever had.
Martha Goode—I thought it was sad when Ruthell sang "Moments to Remember", the Senior's class song.

Gloria Peoples—I liked the property that Gary Simpson read.
Mrs. Fleming—I thought it was very nice. The decorations were beautiful.
Ruthell Martin—The Juniors enjoyed it and I hope all the Seniors did as much.
Elaine Mitchell—I enjoyed it. Decorations were attractive.

Robbie Nutt—Mr. Clark's speech was good.
Carla Nordman—I loved the Southern theme.
Jimmy Hodges—I thought the Negroes were cute.
Coach Souter—The band was tremendous. The food was good and the decorations were attractive.
Coach Clark—I think the teachers enjoyed it more than the students.
Mrs. Ryder—Every bite of the food was excellent. I have never seen the girls more beautiful. The program was original. The entertainment and decorations were appropriate. The theme was refreshing.

I Give You Texas . .

By BOYCE HOUSE

A national figure whose career included a Texas chapter was General (and, of course, later President) Zachary Taylor. He commanded the American forces that fought the first two battles of the War with Mexico and achieved success in greater battles after Palo Alto and Resaca de la Palma, which were fought in the Lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas.

Taylor is known in history as "Old Rough and Ready" and several stories illustrate his plain and simple way, such as one which happened before his Texas campaign.

It was his practice to wander about the town in civilian clothes, usually in jeans and a broad-brimmed palmetto hat, engaging in an unassuming way in conversation about crops, field hands and whether or not rain was needed, and it was not infrequent for a stranger to mistake him for a farmer.

It was related that while he was in command of a Southwestern post, two newly graduated lieutenants from West Point arrived in their faultless uniforms at Fort Smith and encountered a roughly dressed man, whom they engaged in conversation.

"How's crops?" one of them asked, and the man replied, "Purty good," and there ensued a conversation which the youthful officers enjoyed very much, their parting words being, "Give our love to the old woman and the gals."

Later in the day, in full dress, these two officers reported to the office of the Commandant and er." He gave no sign of recognition seated at the desk "farmington, and then presented his wife and daughter, Betty, an attractive miss in her late teens, and then in a casual tone, he remarked, "These are the old woman and the gal."

After the battles of Palo Alto and Resaca de la Palma, Taylor was to confer with Commander Conner, who had charge of the fleet at the mouth of the Rio Grande.

Knowing the liking of high naval officials for pomp and show, the general decided to honor the commander by putting on his full dress uniform, so he dug down to the bottom of his trunk, brought it out, had it pressed, donned it and proceeded to the conference.

Meanwhile, the commander, recalling Taylor's dislike for formalities, decided to show his respect by putting on civilian clothes. When they met, there was great embarrassment on the part of each, and much amusement on the part of the others present.

Taylor returned his uniform to the bottom of the trunk.

Still another instance came from Monterey and Buena Vista, when the general was returning to the United States. After proceeding down the Rio Grande by small steamer, he boarded the Monmouth at Brazos Island for New Orleans. There were several sick and wounded volunteers on the boat, so General Taylor ordered these men to be placed in his state room. It was a cold and rainy day, the wind was blowing high, and the firemen had raised a sail in front of the boilers for protection from the rain. At supper, the general was not to be found, and so a hunt over the the ship began. Finally someone went below and asked a fireman if he had seen the general. The fireman said, "No, but there's an old fellow asleep there by the fire." It was General Taylor.

FARM TERRACES ARE BEING BUILT

Several farmers are having terraces constructed on cooperators' farms in Garza County.

Ray Hodges has had terraces constructed on a farm north of Post on the Rails road.

Mc. Norman is planning on having terraces constructed on his farm north of Post, and H. V. Wheeler is having terraces put on the King farm, which he works.

Wagoner Johnson, G. T. Mason and Noel White are having terraces constructed on U Lary S farms southwest of Post.

The irrigation season is on us again and several cooperators have had irrigation pipelines installed on their farms in Garza County.

Concrete pipelines are by and large the most popular material for irrigation pipelines. The cost is lower than some other types of pipelines which could be installed.

Plastic pipe is also gaining popularity with farmers here in the county, mainly because it does not require as much upkeep as does concrete pipe.

Several farmers who have had irrigation pipelines installed on their farms are James Stone, Carter White, Roy Stolle and J. S. Sims.

One of the most difficult jobs of good irrigating is determining when to irrigate. The soil can only hold a certain amount of water. Any larger amount will only waste irrigation water.

Checking the moisture content could probably save farmers here in Garza County at least one irrigating, depending on the amount of rainfall we get through the year.

Assistance from government is available for CD

Local Civil Defense organizations planning to establish new civil defense programs or to strengthen existing ones may be in line to receive financial assistance from the federal government to help them realize their plans.

James H. Garner, state coordinator of civil defense and disaster relief, has announced that beginning July 1st the Office of Civil Defense Mobilization is again making funds available under Public Law 85-606 to local governments for civil defense personnel and administrative expenses.

Any local government which can meet certain eligibility requirements may participate in the program, he said. One of the most significant of these requirements is the adoption of merit system standards covering all civil defense employees other than the director.

The program provides local civil defense organizations with up to 50 per cent its personnel and administrative costs. This could include salary items for full time employees, office equipment and supplies, civil defense travel, rent, printing, and other administrative expenses.

Local civil defense directors wanting further information about the program are urged to contact the Division of Defense and Disaster Relief at Capitol Station, Austin. Deadline for completed applications is May 29.

PAWNEE HEADING SOUTH
The Steamship Texas at 5 o'clock this morning brings the following news: The United States steam sloop-of-war Pawnee left for the South this morning having on board 250 men.

Much alarm exists in political circles on account of military preparations of the government which preserves entire silence.—Galveston News.

TEXAS TO BE INVADIED

By mail we have the following additional intelligence to that published in our extra this morning: The employees of the United States Government were engaged all night last night putting stores and provisions on board the steamships Illinois and Atlantic, recently chartered as transports.

The excitement here on account of these movements continues unabated and their finale is awaited with painful interest.—Weekly Telegraph, Houston.

CRUSHED UNDER CARS

An Irishman named Patrick O'Brien in attempting to get on the cars just as train was leaving for Beaumont, slipped and fell upon to the track and was literally crushed to pieces by the cars. His body was terribly mangled, 3 or 4 cars passing entirely over it, cutting off one leg, one hand and his body in two before the train could be stopped.—Liberty Gazette.

HOW TO SETTLE ARGUMENTS

When two caravans meet in the interior of Africa, the two head men approach each other, then go back a reasonable distance, lower their heads and butt. The one that goes down has to yield the right of way to the caravan who "downs" him. Perhaps this would be as good as a way as any for President Lincoln and President Davis to settle the sectional difficulties.—LaGrange Issue.

DOUBTFUL SPRING CONVENTION

To such a pitch has the public mind been excited for the past three months that scarce a thought has been given to the Democratic State Convention, and the result, is that no delegates have been appointed. Under the circumstances, it would be exceedingly unwise to undertake to hold the convention this spring. Such a convention could not be held to represent the masses to any degree of certainty.

As to whether we have a democratic party now is a subject of grave doubt. If we have, it is unwieldy (sic) and subject to factions in its own ranks.—Weekly Telegraph Houston.

THE MIGHTY CATERPILLAR

A locomotive with a train of cars, when under full headway, looks like a thing of life and power not easily overcome. We have heard of caterpillars eating up a cotton crop, but the idea of stopping a train of cars was somewhat novel. The thing was accomplished however on Tuesday with the down train of the

FIFTY FOUR YEARS

THINK WHAT CAN TAKE PLACE IN 54 YEARS

In 1910 as a boy I wrote to POST CITY, TEXAS, for literature regarding a special deal I saw advertised in the paper and by return mail to Route 1, Cisco, Texas. I promptly received a supply of material showing farm homes being built, special prices on improved places at $35.00 per acre, $5.00 per acre down and balance over a long period. Also a picture of the Rock Building WE NOW OCCUPY with our hardware store and making mention of other buildings, the Railroad and other things being done. I thought it was REAL GOOD but my Dad said that's a good place to STARVE TO DEATH—too far West.

Not that I was any smarter than my Dad but he had been watching the covered wagons go by in both directions—coming West with new wagons and fat teams and some returning East with worn wagons and poor teams from Mitchell, Scurry, Fisher and other counties. He figured Callahan was as far West as a man should try to go.

NOW WE ARE SELLING HARDWARE in Post, coming here just 36 years after I got the information I wrote for. WE HAVEN'T STARVED yet BUT times have changed and SO HAVE WE.

Garza brands on file with cattlemen group

Among the approximately 230,000 brands on file at the headquarters of the Texas & Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association in Fort Worth are many brands from Garza County.

The brands on file at TSCRA headquarters were accumulated from the files of county clerks of Texas' 254 counties, and are cross-indexed by brand and owner's name. Brands owned by TSCRA members are made up into brand books carried by all field and market inspectors.

A third brand file is composed of information sent in by the inspectors, who check on all livestock sold at markets covered by the Association. The inspectors list the brand, no. 2 and address of the consignor, a description of the cattle, etc.

Brands in use in a particular county are registered with the county clerk, and if a cattleman's lands extend into two counties, his brand may be registered in each. Also some ranchers may use several different brands but each brand must be recorded before it is placed on any cattle.

TWO-FOLD PURPOSE
The purpose of branding, like every other phase of the cattle business, has changed during the years. To pioneer ranchers, a brand was a necessity since, in the great unfenced grasslands of the Southwest, a brand was the only possible proof of ownership.

Now, however, cattle are not branded for ownership alone. Many of them bear their breeding records as well. Frequently, cattlemen brand the herd number and a number to indicate the year of a calf's birth. A single number is adequate for this age designation, since, for instance, a "7" could indicate a yearling born in 1957 or an older animal born in 1947.

Many of the brands in the TSCRA files have been in use for several generations. In an effort to get inactive brands off the books, in 1943 the Legislature passed a law nullifying all brands, but giving the holders two years to re-record their brands. The 230,000 brands on record in the TSCRA office now indicate the current strength of the livestock industry in the state.

READING BRANDS
Brands are read from left to right, or from top to bottom in the case of stacked brands. A straight line is called a "bar" if it is horizontal, a "slash" if at an angle, and a "one" if vertical. Thus, a "J" with a line under or to the right of it is called "J-Bar", but if the line is above the letter, the brand is "Bar-J". Many brands are the owner's initials, and are read as seen, unless the monogram is so designed that two letters share a line, in which case the brand is read, for instance, "JE-connect-ed."

The "romantic days of the great round-ups have been gone for a generation or more. Fenced ranges eliminated the great community round-ups when ranchers sent hands 200 miles or more to brand calves and return cattle which had drifted off home ranges. Modern ranching methods have eliminated the big "ranch" round-ups. Most calves are branded in their own pastures, because modern cattle and modern cow hands are both too valuable for the old-fashioned time-wasting methods.

Branding is still a vital part of ranch operation but one brand has become obsolete. In the early days, cattlemen used a special "trail brand," because trailing cattle to Kansas was frequently a community effort, with cattle belonging to several owners gathered into one herd to make the long trip. A fresh brand was easier to read in the event the cattle stampeded or became mixed with another herd on the trail.

MUMPS LONG KNOWN

Mumps (Epidemic Parotitis) is a common contagious viral disease known to man since the fifth century B. C.

This disease as most commonly known occurs in young children. They have one or two days of fever with loss of appetite, headache, vomiting followed by the typical swelling of the salivary glands. The gland most commonly involved is the parotid which lies just in front and below the ear. This sometimes is confused with other neck glands which become swollen with throat infections.

Mumps are spread by direct contact and the incubation period is 17 to 21 days. The contact for mumps must be fairly close and for that reason the epidemics do not usually involve as many individuals as do measles and chicken pox. The infected individual is usually infectious to others for a few days before his glands swell and until all swelling has gone out of the glands. The patient should be quarantined during this period.

Infants obtain a high degree of immunity from their mothers and it is rare to see mumps under the age of six months. Many adults who give no history of ever having had mumps are immune. This is most likely due to a very mild case in which symptoms were not recognized.

The most common complication which occurs in the male is involvement of the testicle, not infrequently followed by permanent sterility. For this reason it is best in the case of young boys that they be exposed and have mumps before the age of puberty as this complication does not usually bother them at this age. Although similar organs in females may be involved, sterility does not occur afterwards. A more serious but less common complication is involvement of the central nervous system to produce an encephalitis. Occasionally the pancreas or "sweet bread" is involved and the individual may have a severe stomach ache.

Vaccine is available for immunization where it is deemed advisable.

Adequate treatment for the ordinary case of mumps is bed rest, hot or cold compresses to swollen areas and a liquid diet. When symptoms are severe or complications arise the individual's personal physician should be contacted for additional therapy.
