

Arranging Plans For "I Am An American" Program May 18th

Mer 'Grapevine' Program Is Planned

OKA, May 7 (Special) — In response to the Secretary of Agriculture's request that a human chain of communication be set up in the county whereby every farm in the nation could be reached in a few hours, the Lynn Land Use Planning Committee steps Tuesday to mobilize the people of the county. This was called upon by the Service to serve as an Agricultural Victory Council during the duration of the war responsible for passing information to each of the ten to twenty in their neighborhood. Agent Don Turner and demonstration Agent Maurine are contacting community this week and assisting them in setting down the community into blocks and selecting neighborhood leaders. A complete list of the names of community and neighborhood leaders for the county will be published at a later date.

Redwine School Closing

Exercises for the Draw Schools will begin Sunday, with the Senior Baccalaureate. The sermon will be given by Rev. J. E. Young at 9:30 at the Draw Methodist Church. School Commencement will be held May 14, at 9:30 p. m. at the High School Auditorium. Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Singleton and Mrs. Gilbert Lamb of Tahoka visited here in the Singleton home Sunday. Joe Eakers, Rt. 3, has our thanks for his recent "Press" subscription.

Moody And Allred In Senate Race

Two former governors of Texas, Dan Moody and James V. Allred, announced Wednesday that they would be candidates for the United States Senate, opposing the present incumbent, W. Lee O'Daniel, in the Democratic primaries this summer. This renders it certain that there will be a lively contest for this important position. Both of these gentlemen are dynamic campaigners and are men of recognized ability.

NAZARENE WFMS

The WFMS of the Nazarene Church met May 5 at the church building.

A song was sung, followed by prayer by Mrs. W. B. Phillips. The devotional was by Mrs. M. E. Herman.

The twenty-fourth chapter of the Book of Matthew was read.

Eleven members and one visitor were present and were dismissed in prayer by Mrs. Ford.

The next meeting will be held May 19 with Mrs. Cletus Cox.

EUZELIAN CLASS

Holding their meeting a week early, members of Euzelian Class of the First Baptist Church met with Mrs. Mary Peltz on Tuesday, May 12. Mrs. Peltz and Mrs. Stokes were co-hostesses.

Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Singleton and Mrs. Gilbert Lamb of Tahoka visited here in the Singleton home Sunday.

Joe Eakers, Rt. 3, has our thanks for his recent "Press" subscription.

Truett Angel Now First Class Private In Army Air Corps

Truett M. Angel of O'Donnell, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Angel, of Plainview, has just been promoted to Private First Class according to Col. Thomas L. Gilbert, Commandant of the Lubbock Army Flying School, Lubbock, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Bradley visited in Lamesa Sunday.

Over $75 Raised For Navy Relief

Over $75 was handed in to the county chairman last week end for the special Navy Relief drive, so announced Chas. Cabool, who worked locally with the Rev. H. H. Hollowell.

The entire county responded nobly and the drive here was considered a success by Chairman E. I. Hill, Tahoka, publisher of the Lynn County News.

W. S. of C. S. MEETS

W. S. of C. S. met Monday afternoon, May 4, at the church at 3:30.

After the opening song, Mrs. Hollowell led the devotional from Amos 2, ending with a prayer.

Those who took part on the program from "Our Times" were: Mmes. Coffee, Joe Garner, Veazey, Knight and Hollowell.

The meeting was dismissed in prayer by Mrs. Knight.

Others present were: Mmes. Ward, Cecil Pierce, Warren, Pickens, Stark, Bearden, Koeninger, Sherrill, Gates and Schooler.

The next meeting will be at the church on May 11.

TO NEW MEXICO

Mrs. Fred Henderson and her sisters, Mrs. G. B. Johnson and Mrs. Tom Goode, were called to Portales, New Mexico Monday to attend the funeral services of their brother-in-law, Cass Lyons.

Mrs. Roy D. Smith and daughters, Dorothy and Mrs. C. R. McCarter, were business visitors in Lamesa on Friday.

Total 1,934 Sugar Users Registered

A total of 1,934 sugar rationing cards were registered in O'Donnell, so the Tahoka office reported to the Press Thursday.

REECE-TREDWAY NUPTIALS

(From Lorenzo Tribune)

The marriage of Miss Geraldine Reece and Sergeant Lawrence Tredway of O'Donnell was read April 27 in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. E. N. Baker. The Rev. Roy Fouts of the Church of Christ performed the ceremony.

Traditional marital music was played for the occasion.

Miss Lometa Robinson, also of O'Donnell, was the bride's attendant.

Mrs. Tredway is a graduate of the Texas Tech and has been employed in Lubbock.

Sergeant Tredway is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Tredway of O'Donnell. He attended the Denver school of pharmacy and is entering the officer's candidate school in Virginia, where the couple will make their home for the present.

Church of Christ To Send Donations To Crowell Victims

"Bundles for Crowell" are now being collected here by various organizations, and all will be sent to the Foard County town which was almost swept away by a cyclone recently.

The Church of Christ minister, Alvis Bryan, says that members of his church are collecting donations to send to Crowell, and all persons wishing to contribute something may bring their offering to his home.

The Rotary Club sent a cash donation direct to Crowell this week.

Mrs. Dick Gollightly and daughter visited in Lubbock Monday.

Hon. Geo. Dupre of Lubbock Slated As Principal Speaker

The Hon. George Dupree, well-known Lubbock attorney, was secured Thursday as principal speaker for the "I Am An American Day" program which is to be staged at the High School auditorium Monday night, May 18, at 8:45 o'clock.

Other parts of the program for the evening are now being arranged by the special committee and will be released for publication next week.

O'Donnell's "I Am An American" program is an aftermath of the presidential proclamation calling for such patriotic meetings throughout the nation.

Co-operating in staging the program are the civic organizations of the city, the Rotary Club, the American Legion, the Defense Guard, the Boy Scouts, and various individuals.

That the patriotic rally should mean something to every person was the keynote of the meeting which various representatives of the above organizations decided Monday night, and the program, when completed, will prove of such merit.

Fate Of O'Donnell Boys In Island Fortress Unknown

The fate of two O'Donnell boys, Harvey McKee and R. L. Tyler, who have been in the Philippines, is unknown as the result of the fall of Corregidor fortress.

It is known that both boys were in that section, but no word has been heard since in December.

Harvey McKee is a cousin to Ike McKee, whose parents here were notified of his death several weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. James Applewhite were in Lubbock Sunday.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Establishment of Price Control Plan Emphasizes Need for All-Out Effort; War Office Spokesmen Propose Plan To Eliminate Class '3' Draft Group

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

CEILINGS: Cover Nation

The setting of price ceilings on practically every conceivable commodity in the country had been expected by the business world, hence it was received with little shock.

The impact on the public had been terrific, however, and it is certain that business men were surprised at the drastic rules to be adopted by Leon Henderson to put "teeth" into the price control plan.

Henderson had made it "life or death" for business by a very simple procedure. He proposed licensing all retailers and wholesalers, and if found violating a single one of the price ceilings, they would face an instant loss of their license to do business.

This was a form of control which was not familiar to anyone living in this country, in fact without parallel in history, and it fell on the business ear with a sickening thud, and the merchant could now say "I know what it is to be at war."

German and Italian commentators picked this up gleefully, and called it a terrific blow "to the American way of life" as indeed it was, and the President promptly and frankly had admitted it.

The American answer was, however, that the American way of life was but being placed in abeyance for the time being, pending the winning of the war, when it would be back again in full flower once more.

The sugar commercial users had turned out in force to register, and the nation was on the threshold of the rationing of this commodity.

Restaurants were planning to meet the shortage by changing their cookery and bills of fare; ice cream makers were going to have to shorten their output, the candy makers were in for a tough time.

But in general the spirit was excellent, and while there was some talk of a growing "black market" in tires, and the nation was going to have to cope with that sort of thing, Henderson's penalties were expected to be sufficient to meet the need, and the future was being faced with a good heart by the rank and file of the country, whether consumer or producer, whether buyer or seller.

WAGES: Hold Still

With the President giving the green light to the program to set ceilings on prices and incomes, setting $25,000 a year net as the latter, the question of ceilings on wages came in for much comment but no action.

The President had taken a strong public stand for the 40-hour week continuance, revealed that labor in war industry was constantly working at least 48 hours, and pointing out that as price ceilings were not retroactive, but were fixed at March's highest levels, he did not favor a program which would reduce the weekly paycheck.

While there had been much talk about the work-week, and some proposed legislation, nobody had so far had the temerity to come forward with a program to cut everybody's wages in war industry.

Labor itself had voluntarily foregone the double time for Sundays and holidays, while holding out for the time and a half for the sixth day of work, and the same for a seventh if necessary.

It was the attitude of the White House that with rents held to a ceiling, and with the cost of living stabilized through commodity price ceilings, there could be no excuse for increases in wages.

The average weekly wage in industrial plants now stood at $35 a week, a revolutionary increase, and it was seen that if the White House and the administration stood strongly for no wage increases, then labor trouble in industries should automatically vanish. Wages would automatically hold still, it was held by authorities.

ARMY: Dependency

An effort to get into uniform larger numbers of men with dependents, on the ground that men with somebody at home to fight for ought to make as good if not better fighters than any, was being made by the army with the suggestion that allowances ought to be made for men with dependents who are with the armed forces.

This was a revolutionary idea, but its proponents declared it was just as sound as the reverse procedure, which gave a man exemptions on his income tax for dependents.

Selective service leaders pointed out that Class 3 was the largest class in the entire draft, and this was the class they should eliminate.

Allowances for dependents, they said, would accomplish this.

The spokesmen for the war department had been Maj. William S. Richards, and Maj. Francis V. Keesling of the selective service system.

Keesling had said: "Sixty-five per cent of all registrants are in Class 3. In our planning for the future, we have contemplated the advisability of further distinguishing between men in this class."

"If congress should pass allowance and allotment provisions for these dependents, then Class 3 could be abolished altogether."

"Under such circumstances single and married men could be inducted in accordance with their numbers only."

TROOPS: Down Under

Heavy reinforcements of American troops in Australia had been acknowledged by Prime Minister Curtin, and there had been a redoubling of the air attacks by American and Aussie planes on Jap bases.

Most observers believed that the Japanese had abandoned any hope of ever setting foot on Australian soil, but the communiques from Melbourne and Canberra still stressed Japanese concentrations of air power to the north, and a studied effort was being made, apparently, to dispel any idea that the menace had been removed.

Whether this was just a program of "playing safe," or to give more point to the strides the American-Australian forces were making with their offensive, was hard to say.

The British seemed to feel that the Japs were making their biggest play on the Burmese front, but admittedly, if the Burmese campaign were to be won, then the danger of Australia being next would be greater.

But the dispatches seemed to show that whatever advantage of numbers or equipment there might be on the Australian front probably rested with the Allies—not with the Japanese.

The constant raids on Lae, Salamaua and New Britain seemed to be wreaking increased damage, and the supply lines from the United States to Australia still failed to report any sinkings of American vessels, hence had to be presumed to be open and successfully moving supplies and men.

The Australian front, on the whole, had so far been a comforting and successful section of the battle for our side.

Tojo had warned his people that in spite of successes so far, they must be prepared for a long war, that the victory had not yet been won, and that many sacrifices must yet be made.

This was addressed to a people which had for years been watching with disquiet the failure of their armies to quell or overcome the Chinese, and now, with the whole civilized world on their trail, to see still more shiploads of wounded coming home, and to get constant additional reports of heavy air and land losses.

Down to the Sea in a U. S. Submarine

These navy-approved photos may give you an idea of life aboard a U. S. submarine. If you were standing on the conning tower of a sub this is how your craft would look, forward (picture at left). And this (upper right) is the gadget-studded spot of the torpedo room. All those wheels, dials and gauges are as plain as capital letters a foot high to the boys that know how. Lower right: Submarine deck as a gun crew takes battle stations at the deck gun.

Filipinos Train to Recover Lost Homeland

Under command of Lieut. Col. R. H. Offley, an American officer of the regular army, the First Filipino infantry battalion at Camp San Luis Obispo, Calif., is now undergoing rigid training. The battalion will give Filipinos a chance to fight for the restoration of their homeland. At left First Sergt. R. Simmons, rear, instructs two Filipinos in machine-gun operation. Right: Pvt. Gregorio Mante is shown here practicing throwing a hand grenade.

'Happy Birthday' to Der Fuehrer

The people of New York celebrated Adolf's birthday in Duffy's Square by hanging an effigy of the leader of the Reich. The purpose of the rally was to urge the purchase of war savings bonds and stamps. Der Fuehrer was hung and burned and his bier rested in view of thousands who saw a fresh nail driven into his coffin for each bond or stamp purchased.

Gets Japs, Medal

Navy pilot Edward O'Hare, 28, who pitched into a formation of nine heavy Jap bombers and shot down five before they reached his aircraft carrier. O'Hare received promotion to lieutenant commander and the Congressional Medal of Honor—at the White House.

Generals Talk Bomber Production

Brig. Gen. Kenneth B. Wolf and Lieut. Gen. William S. Knudsen (right) talk production with Andrea Longstreet of North American Aviation's tubing department, in Inglewood, Calif. Andrea is working on tubing for North American Aviation's B-25 Mitchell bomber, which is similar to the type that carried out a recent raid on the Japs in the Philippines.

Assists MacArthur

Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, of Australia, who has been named by Gen. Douglas MacArthur as commander of the Allied land forces in the Southwest Pacific area.

Bombers 'Speak';

The American airmen finally delivered a message which Tokyo understands. Not from an inkwell, but from a bomb rack.

The American fliers reminded Japan that the open city of Manila was not a closed grave—but an open wound.

London, Warsaw, Shanghai and Nanking are avenged because the burning sea of Pearl Harbor is still burning in American hearts.

Japan is entitled to receive what she gave. Japn gave no warning at Hawaii and she gave no mercy at Bataan. These are cruel words, but these are cruel times. The blazing cities of the Axis nations are the only lighthouses to civilization. The way to bring peace to our cities is to bring war to theirs. The foundation for international justice must be dug with 2,000-pound bombs.

This is the lesson they have asked for and we must drive it home with bayonets: Where our planes can fly, our armies will march. And where our armies can march, their dictators will kneel.

Who are the legislators holding up passage of the bill that would raise the pay of soldiers and sailors? . . . Ha, Ha Dept: The Japs can now join the other saps who thought the oceans could protect them.

This Is New York:

The old-fashioned private houses on West 52nd Street between 5th and 6th Avenues—where the veteran New Yorkers pull down the blinds every eventide to shut out "Swing Street" . . . The J. P. Morgan mansion covering an entire block of Madison Avenue real estate. Boasting one of the most sordid facades this side of a "Dead End" movie . . . The emergency case interned at Bellevue Hospital, who reads detective stories between life-and-death assignments . . . Times Square—the "glamorous street"—where the corners are occupied by a drug store, a brauhaus, a cigar shop and a hot dog stand.

The pure-white Squibb Bldg. on Fifth Avenue, a well-manicured finger-tip pointing at a star . . . The Riverside Drive jitterwhacky set that dance on the grass to the rhythm from nearby Claremont . . . The hundreds of heads that pop out of as many windows in the Wall Street sector whenever no cars bump noisily . . . The no-day hoss players making their wagers—willing to put more across a nag's nose than on their wives' backs . . . The wailing of the no-tenants in the dead of night—a nuisance to the midtown (near the park) dwellers . . . E. Canter's $2.98 hat.

The Floy Apartments in mid-Harlem. Birthplace of the Flat-Fox Floggie (with the F-F) . . . Alf Lunt, the star, washing dishes at the Stage Door Canteen . . . The Woolworth edifice, which no longer has a 5-and-Dimery on the site . . . Hotel America, where most of the circus performers tepee . . . The famed showman supping with two midgets—several of whom helped him keep the wolf from the door with their talent . . . The two live penguins, that serve as ass't head-waiters at the Penguin on E. 51 St. . . . New Street, one of the oldest.

Park Avenue's sore spot at 59th Street, where the swanky sector suddenly goes Brooklyn—with a large garage, a pet shop, a butcher store and a cigar store . . . Mrs. Katzenberg, the affable first-nighter, who rarely misses a premiere. They'd hold the curtain if she were tardy . . . George S. Kaufman, one of the town's wittiest, who wears a melancholy look . . . The big bows on Moss Hart's neckties . . . Lucy Monroe, the Star-Spangled Soprano-table, who is also ready to sing the Chinese National Anthem or the Jewish anthem, Katikvah . . . Popular Danny Kay's giggle.

Scrambled Eggs: Vox poppers have to be good to get their letters printed. Too many professionals are crashing the dailies, discussing the country's welfare. The smallest reporting the first rob-in didn't have a look-in . . . The public has overruled the reviewers on "The Moon Is Down." It is busy ing it big . . . Wonder how harsh and tin-panny your voice has to be before you can get a job as a commentator in the newsreels. Some of the femmes could saw their way out of a jail with those pipes . . . It's a snide trick to quote part of a guy's remarks to make him look silly, take it from one who's done it.

Sounds in the Night: At Bill Bertolotti's: "He's on the road to success—just another of Broadway's clicking heels" . . . At Roseland: "Broadway is where celebrities meet each other—but never half way" . . . In the Century Room: "Can you keep a secret—because I can't!" . . . At the Bowman Room: "Did you read what our bombers did to Yokoha-ha-ha-ha!" . . . At Spivy's: "Some times he gets a little irksome with a japital J" . . . In the Hickory House: "Original?" The crook walks around with a bit of carbon paper in each ear!

Whole Grain Products
 What do grains have that you need? American people need more natural foods in their diets. About 55 per cent of the calories in American diets come from sugar and grain products. If this is in the form of refined grain products and sugar, the diet is usually very low in some of the essential vitamins and minerals. Therefore at least one serving of whole grain products should be used each day.

The germ and bran of whole cereals contribute vitamin B1 (thiamin), B2 (riboflavin), vitamin E and nicotinic acid. The lack of thiamin may cause digestive disturbances, nervousness and poor appetite. Riboflavin promotes growth and helps maintain a normal condition of the skin. Nicotinic acid is a pellagra preventive factor. Yellow corn is a good source of the vitamin A needed for protection of eye and mucous membranes.

The germ and other layers of grain supply minerals that we need, namely: phosphorus, iron, manganese, and some calcium.

Grains are abundant and economical. Texas produces four — wheat, rice, oats and corn — of the seven cereals most commonly used in the world.

This Isn't Just Hearsay
 It's a fact that whole wheat flour contains 6 times as much B1 (thiamin), 5 times as much iron, 4 times as much phosphorus, 2 times as much calcium, and several times as much riboflavin and vitamin E, as ordinary white flour that has not been enriched. Enriched flour has B1, nicotinic acid and iron added and is to be preferred to other white flour.

Try It And You'll Like It
 Use whole wheat flour instead of white in your favorite ginger bread recipe—in thickening gravy—ginger-snaps—in waffles—in griddle cakes and in the next applesauce cake you make.

ANNOUNCE SON'S BIRTH
 Mr. and Mrs. Hulon Bolch announce the birth of a seven pound son, Harry Don, born in a Lamesa hospital May 2nd.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Middleton, and the paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Bolch.

THANKS!
 Pvt. J. T. "Mutt" Barnes, who is stationed at Pearl Harbor, T. H., will receive the Press in the future. His mother gave the subscription last week.

Mrs. C. H. Cabool was in Borger the forepart of the week visiting her parents.

Cash on the Counter With Each Proposal

An elderly widower had been spending a week-end with an old friend, and found himself very charmed with the daughter of the house.

So much so, in fact, that he took the first opportunity when they were alone in the parlor to pop the question to her.

"Oh, Jessie, my dear," he sighed explosively, "I'd go through anything for you, darling! Anything, if you will but have me!"

The girl eyed the receding hair and the obvious "store" teeth. Then she replied, with an air of business:

"And, Mr. Macintyre, how much, may I ask you, have you got to go through?"

SHE LOVED A SPY

by SYLVIA TAYLOR

THE STORY SO FAR: In love with her employer, Karl Miller, night club singer, Joan Leland, secretary, is horrified and disillusioned when he shoots his partner, Eric Strom, and threatens to implicate her unless she remains silent and continues her work. He confesses he has a wife in Germany and is a member of a Nazi spy ring. Paul Sherman, his manager, reveals to Joan, he is really Paul O'Malley, FBI agent. Joan's sister, Patricia, is missing, and she agrees to help Paul secretly. Paul's sister, Patricia, is missing, and she agrees to help Paul secretly. Paul's sister, Patricia, is missing, and she agrees to help Paul secretly.

Paul was staring out at the other house. "I'd like to know what's going on over there," he said.

CHAPTER XVIII

"I can't bear having anything happen to Sybil," said Joan.

"How do you think I feel?" Paul answered. His face was grim.

"Oh, darling, don't blame yourself," Joan comforted, taking his hand. "We'll think of some way out."

"Karl's clever," Thomas reminded them. "He always wins in the end."

"But he can't go on like this," Joan insisted. "As Paul has told me, even Karl must make a mistake sooner or later."

"Why don't you do it Karl's way, O'Malley?" Thomas urged. "After all, what else can you do?"

For a moment Paul looked as though he would strike him and then, sinking into a chair, he explained. "There are some things you don't understand."

"I understand!" Joan cried. "You mustn't consider me, Paul. You must do what you feel is right. I became involved with Karl through my own volition. It was no fault of yours. And I don't want you to feel responsible."

"But I love you," Paul said quietly. "You do believe that, don't you?"

"Of course I do, darling."

Thomas retired to one of the bedrooms so that they were alone now. "I didn't expect Karl to arrive so soon," Paul said. "I've got to lay for more time. If I can do that without making Mulford suspicious, my plans may come out all right."

"All right? Oh, Paul, then you do have a plan?"

"Of course I have, honey. You mustn't think I'd walk into a trap like this without planning some way out of it, do you?"

"Then what are you worrying about?"

"It's the time element," Paul explained.

"By the way, how did Karl get away anyway?" Joan asked curiously.

"Probably landed up the coast and flew."

"I have a hunch everything's going to be all right," Joan comforted. "Paul, kissing her tenderly, considered at the supreme confidence of a woman in love. It was true he had made arrangements before he left the ship for a message to be sent through his superiors, but he knew nothing about that. The message would not be received until tomorrow, which meant that help could not come until the following day. How long could he stall Karl and Mulford? If they suspected anything, they would make him fly through Joan, his only vulnerable point.

"She's so brave," he thought, holding her close. But she didn't realize the horrors that might be in store for her. She had a childish faith in him that wrung his heart. That if he should fail her after all? That if the message didn't get through? If flying conditions were bad, that would mean another delay. And each moment she was in danger—she and Sybil. Even Thomas would pay if his plan went wrong. Three lives depended upon his judgment.

"What are you thinking about, darling?" Joan asked.

Holding her closer, as though she were something very precious, Paul replied, "I was thinking that I love you now—more than I ever have before."

The next day dawned bright and clear. Joan, Paul and Thomas waited in the living room. Paul was staring out at the other house.

"I'd like to know what's going on there," he said.

"Probably," he said, "they're waiting for Karl to come back."

"Probably just as well you don't know," Thomas told him as he read out a deck of soiled cards on the table.

Joan went to Paul's side, said, "Don't worry, darling. You said last night that you had a plan."

The cards fell from Thomas' hands. "A plan? Why didn't you tell me?"

Paul frowned and Joan knew that he had not intended to tell Thomas. "I'm sorry," she said.

"It doesn't matter. He may as well know," she said.

Thomas' face was lined with emotion. "Tell me!" he begged.

"Do you remember the radio operator on the ship?"

"Sure. He didn't speak a word of English."

Paul smiled. "He's played his part well. But, he is a government agent just as I am."

Joan was as surprised as Thomas. She remembered the night Paul went to the radio room, not heeding a warning from Thomas, but she had not thought about the incident since.

"From the papers I obtained on the ship," Paul continued, "I guessed where this hideout was. I told Jim—that's the radio man's name—to send a message for help stating our location here. I had to guess the time element—how long we would be in Mazatlan and when we would arrive here. So the message didn't go out until today."

"Then they'll send someone after us?" Thomas asked eagerly.

"Yes. But help can't possibly come before tomorrow."

"Why did you tell him not to send the message until today?" Joan inquired.

"There was no use of our arriving before we did. In that case Karl and Mulford would not have been here either."

"But we're safe," Thomas insisted. "If help is coming, there's nothing more to worry about."

"It isn't as simple as that," Paul said. "Karl may have been suspicious of Jim, in which case that message did not get through. Even if it did, we must stall until tomorrow. There is still time for Mulford and Karl to close up this place and escape, or worse than that, take us with them."

"So now we must wait again," Joan said.

"If things look too bad," Paul told them seriously, "I'll have to make Karl think I am accepting his proposition to turn traitor. That will hold him for awhile."

"But if help didn't come, how would you get out of it?"

"That's something I'd rather not think about! The important thing is to get through this day."

But the day passed peacefully enough. Lunch and dinner had been brought, and now fresh logs were heaped upon the fire as the long shadows of night fell.

"If this goes on until tomorrow, we'll be safe," Paul commented.

But Karl Miller had no intention of letting it go on until tomorrow. It was shortly after eight o'clock when he arrived for his answer.

"You have been thinking over my proposal?" he asked Paul.

"I've been thinking about it, yes," Karl rubbed his hands together.

"Good. Then I suppose you are willing to come in with us."

"I haven't decided yet."

Joan and Thomas watched him, knowing that upon this interview depended their safety.

Karl's attitude changed immediately. "I've had enough of this! Make up your mind right now. There are important things to be done. We will not waste any more time. Mr. O'Malley."

"Suppose I do join you?" Paul parried. "Will you assure me of Joan's safety?"

"Safety, yes. But if you want her sent back to San Francisco, you are asking the impossible—for obvious reasons. You are not buying Joan's release; you are merely saving her from . . ."

Paul silently clenched his hands. "Let us stop stalling," Karl said impatiently. "In a few simple words, this is the situation. If you do not give us your assistance and the information you have about your government's activities, Joan and Sybil, too, will be taken to the coast tonight and put aboard a ship for another country. Is my meaning clear?"

"All too clear," Paul said. "You leave me no choice but to accept."

Karl bowed slightly. "Congratulations! You have courage, Mr. O'Malley, and sense enough to know when you are beaten."

Paul's face was expressionless as he said, "One thing I must be sure of and that is Sybil's immediate release."

Karl laughed. "That is quite simple. She is waiting on the porch now. You see, I anticipated your decision."

"Sybil!" Joan cried as the door opened to admit her sister.

Laughing and crying, they were in each other's arms. Joan did not even see Karl and Paul leave.

Thomas was listening as intently as if it were his personal concern, and Joan felt sorry for him. He had nothing, nobody, to care about. So the three of them sat before the fire smoking and talking, explaining the chain of events that had taken place since the sisters were separated.

Thomas told how he had come from Germany and obtained a job, hoping to save enough to send for his wife. How Karl had put an end to his hopes by telling him that she would be put into a concentration camp. Thomas was sure now that his wife had died. As he talked, Joan was surprised to note that he was a man of more intelligence and education than she had thought. Before Karl Miller had broken his spirit, Thomas undoubtedly was a different person. He was an example of the havoc Karl had wrought in the human soul. Could he continue to dominate and destroy the lives of others? Tomorrow that question might be answered.

Joan and Sybil continued talking long after they had gone to bed. They could hear Thomas' shuffling about the living room, apparently too restless to sleep.

"He's really pathetic," Sybil said. "Karl has made him that way. Oh, Syb, when I think what a fool I made of myself over Karl Miller! How could I have been so dumb?"

"You were just inexperienced," Sybil said. "And now that you love Paul, you mustn't think about the past."

Joan wondered what Karl and Paul were doing. What was happening in that other house? "I wonder if he's all right now," she said unasily.

"He can tell Karl almost anything tonight. Karl won't have a chance to find out before help comes whether it's true or not. And tomorrow we should be out of here."

But Joan's uneasy feeling prevailed long after she heard Sybil's regular breathing at her side. Moving cautiously so as not to disturb her sister, she slipped into her coat and went into the living room.

"So you can't sleep either," Thomas said.

"No. I wish I knew what was going on. I'm so worried about Paul. Karl might do anything if his suspicions are aroused."

Suddenly there was a sound.

"What's that?" Joan cried, stepping back.

Thomas stood motionless, listening. The sound came again, followed by a soft clicking noise at the door. Joan extinguished the light. The door slowly opened and a figure entered.

"Paul!" Joan said in a tone whisper, reaching for the light switch.

"Don't turn on the lights!" Paul commanded. His flashlight broke through the shadowy night. "Well, they've come! Sooner than I expected, but I think we can make it."

"You mean help has come! But where?" Joan cried in amazement.

"A plane, several miles from here. Now listen to me very carefully. I want you to go out through the bedroom window and straight down the road to the gate. There's nothing to be afraid of. All the guards are out of the way. I'll meet you at the gate."

"You're not going back to that other house now?" Joan asked.

"I've got to, honey! There are some papers I want to get."

"But Karl and Mr. Mulford will hear you!"

"Karl and Mulford are out like a light," Paul said. "I put a couple of sleeping powders in their drinks. They won't come to for awhile!"

As Paul slipped noiselessly back to the other house, Joan went into the bedroom to rouse Sybil.

The small house was directly behind the larger one and no one could see the three figures as they went down the road. Paul was waiting. There were two other men with him.

"This way," he said, taking the girls by the arm and leading them to an automobile.

My Week

by Eleanor Roosevelt

'MOON IS DOWN'

One of the readers of my column in Michigan sends me a note to tell me that one of his Norwegian friends feels that Mr. Steinbeck did not bring out sufficiently strongly, in "The Moon Is Down," the cruel treatment which the Nazis have inflicted upon the people of Norway. It seems to me that, perhaps, John Steinbeck in painting the picture he did of the old time German officers in the new Nazi frame, brought home something which might not have been believed if it had not been done in just that way.

Many of us think of the young Storm Troopers as having been conditioned from childhood to cruelty. We do not realize how impossible it is for the older soldiers, in spite of what their feelings may be, to change to the Nazi theory of government and to prevent it from taking toll of the subject peoples. The picture Steinbeck painted lacked no horrors for me.

ARTISTS IN WARTIME

NEW YORK CITY.—Miss Luise Rainer came to luncheon with me one day. I had not seen her for some time and I was happy to talk with her again. She has such a keen desire to make her art of use in this period. All the other artists with whom I have talked feel the same way. They have a conception of the need which many of us, particularly the soldiers who are far from home, must feel at this time.

This need is for warmth in human contacts. We want to feel this warmth portrayed on the stage and on the screen, to hear it in music, and to read such things as will lift the spirit and leave one still conscious of the world of love which lies around us in the midst of a world of hate.

After lunch, I went over to the naval hospital for a visit with Franklin Junior. It is certainly a desperately difficult thing for these young people to be obliged by illness to be laid up for a while. They seem to think that fate is treating them very badly. Franklin Junior longs for the day when he can walk out of the hospital and back to his ship.

YOUTH ACTIVITIES

NASHVILLE, TENN.—One afternoon I caught a train for Trenton, N. J., and spoke at a banquet which closed the fourth annual session of the New Jersey Youth Legislature.

The YMCA has been carrying on this work with the Hi-Y clubs, which take in boys of high school age. They study phases of government during the year, go to Princeton and have a preliminary session and then end by actually going through all the motions of legislative procedure at Trenton. They look like a fine group of young people and those I had an opportunity to meet were very interesting.

Governor Edison made an excellent speech. I think I have rarely had an audience ask more pertinent questions. Afterwards, before catching my train, I stopped at the Y to look in at a dance given for the service men who come in from neighboring camps. The train was crowded—people stood in the aisles all the way to New York city. Most of them were service men on two-day furloughs. One of them gave me a seat, and so we talked together and I signed innumerable autographs until we reached New York city.

Next morning, after a short time of work with Miss Thompson, I took a plane for Nashville, Tenn., where the Southern Conference for Human Welfare is being held this year.

FLYING RESTRICTION

NEW YORK CITY.—I returned one morning from Nashville, Tenn., after waiting quite a time in the middle of the night for a delayed plane. This is the first trip I have taken where we have been made to draw our window curtains at each stop. Most of the time it seemed hardly worth while to open them in between, so the plane was like a darkened room.

One of the things I always enjoy most about flying is the feeling of being in the sky able to look at the clouds. But this enjoyment is evidently out for the duration of the war. Instead, we are just a group of people isolated in a machine which is flying through space. So far as we are concerned, we know nothing of the outer world or our direction. It is rather uncomfortable, perhaps too much like what is happening to most of us in the world today.

ENCOURAGEMENT

I have just been told of a plan which Walter Damrosch, president of the American Academy of Arts and Letters, has announced. They plan to give grants of $1,000 each per year to ten gifted non-members who are doing creative work in art, literature and music. Of course, this is the time above all others to encourage the arts in this country. People everywhere need this kind of outlet from the tragedy of war and the democracies are the only nations where free art can exist.

Household Hints

Never let eggs stand in a warm place. The lower shelf of the refrigerator where the temperature is about 40 degrees F., is the best place to place them.

If the liquid from canned vegetables is drained before serving, it should be placed in the refrigerator in a tightly covered container. The vitamins will be better preserved if the liquid is not exposed to air.

Try light brown sugar on any breakfast cereal. It takes less and adds greatly to the taste.

If cooking utensils are soaked immediately after the food has been removed, they may be easily cleansed. Cold water is best for eggs, milk or doughy substances. Hot water acts more quickly on greasy foods.

A dibber is a good tool for bulb planting. Learn the knack of giving it a swinging twist to make the bottom of the hole round so the bulbs will not be "hung" with air space under them.

Wooden salad bowls are likely to warp unless they are washed and stored carefully. Wash them quickly in warm water—never let them soak—and store them in a cool, dry place.

Scholastic Census Shows Increase In Lynn County

There were 2,986 scholastics in Lynn County in March this year, according to census returns compiled by Mrs. Lenore M. Tunnell, county school superintendent, as compared with 2,816 scholastics last year. This does not include 71 scholastics residing in Lynn County in March of last year but who were included in the Garza County enumeration nor approximately the same number of such pupils so enumerated this year. If the number is the same this year as last year, then there were in fact 3,057 scholastics residing in this county during the past March as against 2,887 in March of last year. These 71 scholastics are lost to Lynn County by reason of the fact that they reside in county line districts. The Joe Bailey district has been incorporated with the O'Donnell Independent district since the enumeration was made in March last year. Joe Bailey was therefore dropped from the list of common school districts this year and its pupils are included in the O'Donnell district. In the seven common school districts this year, there are 449 scholastics, as compared with 479 in the eight districts that existed in March of last year.

In the two rural high school districts, New Home and Draw-Redwine, there were found to be 615 scholastics this year as compared with 565 last year.

In the seven Independent school districts, Tahoka, O'Donnell, Wilson, Grassland, New Lynn, Wells, and Midway, there are 1922 scholastics this year as compared with 1772 last year.

By districts, the number of scholastics are given as follows:

| Independent Districts |              |              |
|-----------------------|--------------|--------------|
| Name                  | 1941         | 1942         |
| Tahoka                | 643          | 661          |
| O'Donnell             | 450          | 507          |
| Wilson                | 333          | 413          |
| Grassland             | 105          | 111          |

Sure, every acre's raising more....
Now what's upping the mileage from this oil?

How does prize wheat or corn at the county fair get that way?

Sure, man-made soil improvers—modern synthetics—were added to improve on nature.

AND MODERN SYNTHETICS in Conoco Nth motor oil make it yield mileage that outscored all other brands tested in the sensational Death Valley Certified Competition. Five big-name quality brands got every fair chance against Conoco Nth oil. All were run till engines failed and none came closer than 58% of the mileage totaled by Conoco Nth! . . . the oil you can have for your needed Spring oil change that's now overdue . . . the oil whose best known man-made extra substance—at no extra premium—gives your engine OIL-PLATING.

OIL-PLATING backs up the familiar fluid type of oil film with a surfacing of lubricant close-bonded to inner engine parts. Every cylinder wall, for instance, becomes a wall of OIL-PLATING that doesn't all drain dry during all the time you use Conoco Nth. Even after all-day parking, the OIL-PLATING is still up to the topmost piston rings, ready to lubricate before any oil can circulate. That's one plain way of foiling excess wear, and keeping up mileage with your engine OIL-PLATED.

But Conoco Nth oil also includes Thialkene inhibitor

. . . another synthetic . . . invented to inhibit or restrain the dangerous "jelling" of oil under excess strain. Engine heat and pressure can even gum up oil into something like fly-paper coating—only dirtier, and not much better for mileage. Against this threat, Thialkene inhibitor was created for Conoco Nth (U. S. Pat. 2,218,132). And Conoco Nth out-mileaged the others in the Death Valley Test—from 74% all the way up to 161%. You can get real optimistic about your own mileage. Conoco Nth will come through for you. Change at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Company

UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for May 10

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

MONDAY: THE DAY OF AUTHORITY

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 21:12-22.
GOLDEN TEXT—My house shall be called a house of prayer for all peoples.—Isaiah 56:7.

Modern presentations of Christ in picture and sermon often give the impression that He was an effeminate man who went about doing gentle little deeds of kindness. One almost feels that He spoke in a half whisper and that He fearfully avoided the difficulties and dangers of life.

Such a picture of Christ, whether in words or on canvas, was never obtained from the Bible. Yes, He was gentle and kind; He did go about doing good; He was altogether humble—but why give the false impression that gentleness means weakness, kindness means a sentimental softness, etc. These are the virtues of a strong man and such was our Christ. He was a manly man who so excited the admiration of the boys in the temple that they shouted a holy "Hurray" (Hosanna—in Hebrew).

On Monday as our Lord came into the city He saw and dealt with the fruitless fig tree and later in the day He cleansed the temple. This seems to be the order of the events (see Mark 11) and we will so consider them.

I. Jesus Stimulates Faith by an Act of Judgment (vv. 18-22).

In the morning as Jesus returned to Jerusalem, He was hungry. He had probably spent the night in prayer after His time of fellowship with the disciples (Mark 11:11). It was early spring, and normally not the time for figs to be ready to eat, but He saw a tree which already had foliage on it. Since the leaves form after the fruit, He properly looked for figs—green, perhaps, but even so useable for food—and there were none.

In a swift miracle of judgment, He condemned the tree, which soon withered. Some have assumed that He acted in anger, but that is evidently not so. His act was a sign to Israel and to us. The fig tree was a figure of Israel (see Hosea 9:10, Joel 1:7, Luke 13:6-9). They as a nation had the outward signs of fruit, that is, the "leaves" of temple worship, teaching of the law, etc., but there was no fruit of repentance and faith, of real love for God (see Rom. 2:17-23). Judgment was certain, and our Lord cursed a useless, fruitless tree to try to awaken the people to their need.

So our Lord comes to us—to look below the foliage of Christian profession, of our charities and benevolences, of our correct doctrinal views—to see if there is any fruit of real Christian living. How often He must turn away in sadness because there is none.

This miracle was not only a sign of judgment; it was used by our Lord to stimulate the disciples' faith. What they had seen was only an indication of what faith (and note it was their faith) could do. The promise of God to those who, abiding in Christ and with His Word abiding in their hearts, ask according to His will, in faith nothing doubting, is without limit.

II. Jesus Stimulates Praise by an Act of Authority (vv. 12-17).

For a second time He drove out from His Father's house those who had made it a place of merchandise, of commercialized thievery. This is a majestic picture. The Son of God and Son of Man steps into the center of this unholy traffic and with mighty, holy indignation (not anger) drives it out. The people who had suffered long because of this religious racket, which paid a nice "cut" to the priests themselves (probably as a "gift" even as such things are managed in our day), were jubilant.

The boys who were in the temple (for such is doubtless the meaning of "children" in v. 15) were so delighted at this magnificent exercise of His divine authority that they broke out into "Hosannas," which, as we have suggested, were really a holy "Hurray." Well, why not? Hurray for our Lord! He will not tolerate iniquity even though it hides under the cloak of religion. He is not afraid to speak out and to act against sin and corruption. Possibly the church would reach a good many more men and boys in our day if it would step out in faith to fight the wrong and support the right. Then maybe the young men would shout, "Hurray for the church," instead of some of the things they are saying.

The chief priests and scribes were "sore displeased" (v. 15) both by the acts of Jesus and the praise of the boys. They would be! And they have a host of descendants who hold places of authority today—yes, even in the church—who would be much displeased if such things were to happen now. But why fear them? Is it not high time that the people of God honored their Lord both by faith and good works, regardless of what men may say? Ought we not to please God rather than men (see Acts 5:29 and Ps 56:4)?

Perfect Close for a Meal—Apricot Jelly Roll
(See Recipes Below)

Mother-Daughter Luncheon

Once a year it is becoming for Daughter to don the cook's cap and uniform and come out with a whole meal cooked to please Mother. And the day Mother appreciates it most is on her day of the year—Mother's day! So today, I've planned a menu which even the youngest cooks can make into a glorified meal to which they can invite their mothers.

Now, young cooks, on your toes if you would gather laurels at Mother's day luncheon time! Bring out the measuring cups and ingredients, first. Then read the recipes over several times and visualize each step before you start. Ready? Good.

Your first course—served in small glass cups with a sprig of mint, if you can get it—will stimulate the appetites and brighten the table:

- *Fruit Cup. (Serves 8)
- 3 oranges, peeled
- 1 grapefruit, peeled
- 1 pint strawberries, hulled
- 2 bananas

Section the oranges and grapefruit. Peel the bananas and dice. Mix with fruit sections. Sprinkle lemon juice over the fruit, sweeten to taste. Let stand and chill. When ready to serve, place in fruit cups.

Eggs are plentiful now because the government asked farmers to have their hens work overtime to increase egg production that they might be sent abroad and have enough for home use.

So, bring out the eggs and their surplus of nutrition to menus by choosing one of these two recipes for your main luncheon dish. Eggs are noted for the facility with which they can be cooked, and there is but one major rule to follow in cooking them: use as little heat as possible to get a tender product.

- *Eggs a la King. (Serves 6-8)
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups hot milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Pepper
- 1/2 tablespoon chopped onion
- 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper

This Week's Menu

- Mother-Daughter Banquet
- *Fruit Cup
- *Eggs a la King
- Asparagus
- *Orange Frosted Berry Salad
- Biscuits and Honey
- *Jelly Roll
- Tea or Coffee
- *Recipe Given

- 1/2 tablespoon chopped pimiento
- 6 hard cooked eggs
- 1/2 cup sliced, cooked mushrooms

Melt the butter, add the flour and stir until smooth. Combine with hot milk. Let cook eight minutes over hot water (in a double boiler). Stir with egg beater. Add onion, green pepper, pimiento, sliced eggs and mushrooms. Let cook five minutes. Serve hot on buttered toast.

- Eggs a la Rockefeller. (Makes 1 serving)
- 1 slice bread
- 1 thick slice tomato
- 1 soft cooked egg
- 2 tablespoons cheese sauce
- Parsley

Toast the bread slightly and spread thinly with butter. Place the slice of tomato on the bread, then on the tomato, put the soft boiled egg. Over this pour the cheese sauce and garnish with parsley.

- *Orange Frosted Berry Salad. (Serves 6)
- 1 tablespoon gelatin
- 2 tablespoons cold water
- 1/2 cup orange juice, heated
- 1/2 cup orange juice, unheated
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 cup orange pieces
- 1/4 cup berries or seedless grapes
- 1/2 cup sliced peaches
- Orange sections
- Frosted berries

Soften the gelatin in the water 5 minutes. Dissolve in the heated orange juice. Cool and add the unheated orange juice. When slightly thickened add the orange pieces, grapes, and sliced peaches. Pour into individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with orange sections and clusters of frosted berries. (To frost berries, dip in slightly beaten egg white and roll in granulated sugar. Spread on paper to dry.) Serve salad with lemon flavored mayonnaise.

As you go into your sugar-rationing period, are you keeping your eyes peeled for recipes that take it easy on the sugar without sacrificing any of their appetite appeal? For that very reason you'll like this one of jelly roll because it uses naturally sweetened apricots for the filling and eliminates the powdered sugar sprinkled over the top.

- *Jelly Roll. (Makes 10-12 slices)
- 3 eggs
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup sifted cake flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 5 tablespoons flour
- 2 tablespoons butter

Add salt and vanilla to eggs, beat until light and fluffy. Add sugar in 2-tablespoon portions, beating after each addition. Add sifted flour and baking powder. Fold in carefully and quickly. Stir in water and butter, heated together until butter is melted. Pour into a jelly roll pan, about 16 by 11 by 1 inch that has been greased and lined with paper, then greased again. Bake in a moderately hot (375-degree) oven about 18 minutes or until nicely risen and delicately brown over the surface. Loosen edges and turn onto a piece of waxed paper or a towel sprinkled with powdered sugar. Remove pan and peel off waxed paper. Spread with dried fruit—cook your favorite dried fruit (apricot, prunes or peaches are good) in a minimum of water, then put through a sieve, cool and spread. Roll lengthwise, cool on a cake rack.

If you would like expert advice on your cooking and household problems, write to Lynn Chambers, Western Newspaper Union, 210 South Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill. Please enclose a stamp, self-addressed envelope for your reply. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Spreading News in Tibet

In Tibet news is read aloud by the priests to the populace. There are two reasons for this: Few Tibetans can read, and only 50 copies of their one newspaper are printed.

Walter Asboe, a European, does the job on a hand press. Then he sends the 50 papers to the lamas or priests, who summon the people of the neighboring villages to listen to the news.

The papers are then forwarded to another group of lamas. By the time they have traveled to the far frontiers of Tibet, the news may be from six months to two years old!

3 simple ways

TO GET THE MOST LIGHT FROM YOUR LAMPS
 ...and help your eyesight, too!

Here are three simple and economical ways to get more light from your electric table and floor lamps. Follow these suggestions, and you'll help your eyesight, too.

1. Keep lamps clean . . . dustfree

Reflector bowls and lamp bulbs gather more dust than you think. The dust collected on them in from one to three months can deprive you of much of the light your eyes need. Cleaning them with a damp rag, or washing will give you from 25 to 30% more light. Remove bulbs and reflector bowls before washing or cleaning with damp rag.

2. Replace dark shades

If your lamps have dark shades or shades now turned yellow inside, you are losing light that your eyes need for easier seeing, less eyestrain. You may be losing as much as 50%. Clean them regularly; or if they're too bad, replace them with fresh shades and you'll get a lot more light. (Even light-colored silk shades will give you more light if brushed weekly.)

3. Place lamps to make light more useful

Put them where they give eyes most help. Often, two or more of the family can use the same lamp when furniture is properly arranged. (One suggestion is shown above.) And don't get too far away from the lamp; a difference of twelve inches can cut your light as much as 50%.

Save Metal by having Appliances Repaired

Lamps and other electric appliances should be made to last for the duration of the war, if possible, so that vital metals can be conserved. Make your electric appliances as good as new. Take them to an Electric Shop today for repairs.
