Revival Making Good Progress

The revival at the Methodist church is making good progress. Large and responsive crowds are attending both day and night services. The young peoples group are showing great interest. Dr. Frank L. Turner, evangelist of Ft. Worth, is preaching and directing the young people in their work. He is bringing great messages on vital themes. The people of the town and community are cordially invited to these services, which will continue through next week, at 10 a. m. and 8:30 p. m., with all group meeting at 8 each evening.

T. W. Brown Appointed

T. W. Brown was appointed Justice of the Peace last Monday by the board of county commissioners, has qualified, and is now our magistrate. He succeeds the late Judge Geo D. Foster. The appointment of Mr. Brown will meet universal approval. A long time resident and a former officer, he will render efficient service.

Sub Deb Club

The Sub Deb Club met Friday, April 7, with Ann Ratliff. Members present for the meeting were Etta Reed, Jeanie Daniel, Dorothy Barnes, Johnnie Etter, Mary Moore, Mozelle Wilson, Trudy Melton and the hostess, Jerry Scholer, a visitor, was also present. Following the meeting, Friday afternoon, Ann also entertained Friday night with a slumber party. Eight members attended.—Reporter.

Presented With Flowers

Last week we carried a want ad asking that the oldest mothers in O'Donnell register at the Corner Drug Store. My friend and your friend, Bill Sauls, who goes out of his way to sprinkle sunshine along life's trail, was responsible for the want ad. He bought a big, gorgeous Easter bouquet, which went to the oldest mother registering Saturday. When the registration books closed and tabulations were made, the Easter flowers went to Grandma Phillips. She is 85 years young.

Funeral Of Judge Geo. D. Foster

The funeral of George D. Foster, 69, who passed away in a Tahoka clinic, April 5, was conducted at the First Methodist church Sunday, 4 p. m., with Pastor H. H. Hollowell, of Spur, and Pastor E. H. Crandall of this city, officiating. Interment was made in O'Donnell cemetery. Born in Greenville, Mr. Foster was reared at Canyon, and during his early manhood rode the range in the Panhandle. In 1906, while a painting and paper hanging contractor at O'Brien, he was married to Miss Nora L. Teaff, of that city. They resided in Haskell county for 18 years, and for several years deceased was a rural letter carrier. At one time he was state president of the letter carriers' association. In 1924 he moved to this city and engaged in the service station business several years. Active in civic and business circles, he served as alderman, as well as in other civic capacities. For six years he served as justice of the peace in this city. Highly esteemed, he was a good mar., a good neighbor, and his passing is mourned by a host of friends and acquaintances who appreciated him for his sterling worth.

Surviving are his wife, and six children, Mrs. A. O. Thomas, Longview; Mrs. Harry Phillips, Longview; Mrs. L. K. Eckols, Chicago; Cecil B. Foster, McCamey; Pvt. J. Rundell Foster, Ft. McClellan, Ala., and Capt. Vanus Foster with the U. S. army overseas, and one brother, Bob Foster, of Canyon. Bill McMillan, with the Seabees in Alaska for the past 14 months, arrived Tuesday for a visit with homefolks. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Preston returned Wednesday from Ontario, Calif., where they have resided for the past seventeen months. Mrs. W. A. Eaker returned from a Lubbock hospital Wednesday, greatly improved. Norman Barber of Los Angeles, Calif. and Mrs. Allen Brey of Hobbs, N. M., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hamp Thompson last Sunday.

Wedded In San Marcos April 8

Miss Dorothy Louise Bynum, of Brownfield, and Aviation Student L. E. Robinson, Jr., of San Marcos Navigation School, were married in a double ring ceremony at the Post Chapel at 4:15 April 8, by Chaplain Hoffman. His assistant was at the piano. Lt. Andy T. Wilson, of San Marcos Army Air Field, was best man. Miss Lome a Robinson, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. A. E. Evans, of Yoakum, cousin of the bridegroom, gave the bride away.

The altar was a background of fern with candelabra, calla lilies and white gladiolas. The bride wore a blue crepe dress and white lace hat with black accessories. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet, centered with an orchid. Miss Robinson wore a gold and green dress, a green hat with brown accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

The bridegroom's mother wore a black crepe dress and a corsage of orchids. Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Robinson, of O'Donnell, Lt. and Mrs. Andy T. Wilson, of Lockhart, and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Evans, of Yoakum. The wedding dinner was at the Carter Hotel in Lockhart. The couple went to Austin to spend their honeymoon. They are now at home at 517 Frio St., Lockhart, Texas.

For Representative

Geo. W. Neill, pioneer attorney and former County Judge of Terry county, announces as candidate for State Representative of this the 19th District in the coming primaries. He has been active in civic development of his county, grew up with the South Plains, has an intimate knowledge of its conditions, and of state government, and joins with many others in the belief, that present conditions, and the uncertain problems that may arise out of this war era, require men of experience and stability in our governing body. He has no pet hobby, but offers a conservative, clean, honest representation to all. He expressed the hope that as Terry county had never had any district or state officer, though it had given its just share to the development of the South Plains, he would be favored with this slight distinction. He will gladly discuss other problems, as they arise.

W. F. Cathey Passes Away

W. F. Cathey, 86, who moved to Lynn county about the turn of the century and who was one of the organizers of Lynn county, died at his Dora, N. M., residence last Saturday morning, six months after he had suffered a paralytic stroke. He had moved with his family 10 years ago to New Mexico, after long years of ranching and farming. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon in the Dora Church of Christ, with interment in the Dora cemetery.

Mr. Cathey is survived by his widow; two daughters, Miss Neva Cathey and Mrs. Luther Young N. M.; a son, Hugh Cathey, of McNary, Ariz.; two brothers, N. B. Cathey, Dora, N. M., and M. L. Cathey, O'Donnell and two sisters, Mrs. Mae Arnold, of O'Donnell and Mrs. C. B. Martin, of Springville, Ariz. All members of the immediate family were in Dora when death came except for the son.

Birthday Party

Wanda Joy McLaurin celebrated her 9th birthday April 5th with a pretty party. Her guests were: Jettie Lee Proctor, Bobbie Jo Sumrall, Wendell Edwards, Carol Lambert, Sallie Lannelle Gray, Wynell Summers Odell Howard, Billy Joe Vulmore, Kenneth Simpson and Melvin Sumrall. It was a happy occasion for all. Joy received many nice gifts. Cake and soda water refreshments were served.

FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL

State Senator Jesse E. Martin, former District Attorney of Fort Worth, has stated definitely that he will be a candidate for Attorney General in the coming July Primary. He expects to conduct a vigorous and active campaign.

Gardenhire-Tyler Nuptials April 5

In a ring ceremony, Wednesday evening, April 5, at the home of E. H. Crandall, pastor of the Methodist church, Miss LaVerne Tyler, became the bride of Hervey Gardenhire.

Miss Tyler the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Tyler, is a graduate of Shallowater High School and Arlenes Beauty School, in Lubbock, where she specialized in Electrolyses. She has been a resident of this and neighboring communities for several years.

Mr. Gardenhire, a charter member of the O'Donnell Rotary Club, a graduate of Gustine High School and American School of Aviation, is a veteran of World War II, having served in the Radio Intelligence Division of the Signal Corps. He has been manager of the Rex Theatre for 10 years, and has been active in U. S. O. work, Red Cross and sales of war bonds.

Attendants were Mrs. Robert Bacon of this city, and Darrell M. Davis, of Lubbock. Mr. and Mrs. Gardenhire plan to make their home in O'Donnell.

Community Singing

The Community Singing will be held at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon from 3 until 5 o'clock. You are cordially invited to attend.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to extend our sincere appreciation to our friends for the many kind acts during the illness and death of our loved one, George D. Foster. Also for words of sympathy and floral offerings. The Family.

To Hold Clinic

A pressure cooker clinic will be held at the Wells school lunch room Saturday April 22, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. The county home demonstration agent will assist with the meeting. Each person owning a pressure cooker is invited to bring her cooker and a covered dish and attend the meeting. Miss Dixon will assist her in checking her cooker gauge and a list of parts needed will be itemized. Come and put your cooker in order.

Gaines Votes Dry

It is an old saying that the governor of North Carolina after a conference with the governor of South Carolina, the latter said to the chief executive of the tar heel state: "It's a long time between drinks." Within the next thirty days that expression, to some, will be a stern reality over in Gaines county. Last Saturday in a prohibition election, voters in an election voted against the sale of intoxicants to the tune of 979 dry and 769 wet. Henceforth thirsty denizens will have to journey to Big Spring, Tatum or Hobbs.

A huge crowd from this area attended the dedication of the Roll of Honor at Tahoka yesterday afternoon.

Ginners Of County Sponsor Livestock Awards To Lynn County 4H Clubs

Co operating with County Agent R. L. Stone, 29 gins of Lynn county are sponsoring a county 4-H program of livestock awards. Contributing $25 each a fund of $725 has been established, and will be used to buy livestock this fall at the close of the gardening season, when awards will be made for the best Victory Garden demonstrations.

Not less than 17 registered gilts will be awarded, one to a member of each 4H club in the county, insuring countywide awarding. Four or more gilts will be awarded in each precinct of the county and the boy having the most outstanding garden of the group winning gilts in his precinct will get an additional precinct award of either a registered Hereford steer or a Hereford feeder steer. Precinct winners will then be in competition to determine which boy has the championship garden of the county. This boy will receive an additional award of a registered dairy heifer.

The total possible winnings will be at least 13 boys winning a gilt only, four boys, one in each precinct winning a gilt and either a Hereford heifer or steer, and the grand champion boy of the county winning each of these two awards plus a registered dairy heifer, making a total of 22 head of livestock to be awarded to Lynn county 4H club boys.

Gilts will be awarded to a winner in the following clubs: Wells, New Moore, T-Bar, Midway, Draw, Grassland, Petty, New Home, New Lynn, Wilson Junior and Senior Clubs, O'Donnell Junior and Senior clubs, and Tahoka Junior and Senior clubs. This program of gin awards will be self-perpetuating. Each winner will agree to let the county agent select the top gilt out of his first litter. These will be awarded the following year to other club boys. Winners will be determined by a committee of not less than three nor more than five impartial members.

The ginners are asked to recommend five public spirited persons in the community where a gilt is to be awarded. These committees are to visit the Victory Gardens of each club boy carrying on a Victory Garden demonstration at least once a month, scoring the garden. The committees, approximately 20 in the county, will judge the gardens on a basis of score cards. Garden contest rules will be discussed for the club boys at their regular April meetings.

County Agent Stone and the following ginners of the county are to be congratulated on sponsoring and financing this fine 4H club program: L. E. Robinson Gin, J. P. Bowlin Gin, O'Donnell Gin Co.,

For State Senator

Sterling Parrish of Lubbock, candidate for state senator, was a visitor here Wednesday. His statement to the voters will appear in our next issue.

Mrs. H.L. Wood returned Tuesday from Knox City where she visited her brother, Elton Robertson in the hospital, who is recovering from burns sustained in an explosion three weeks ago.

Yank Lonely on Leave in London

He'd Like to Meet Really Nice English Girl, but Doesn't Know How.

LONDON.—The G.I. on leave in London is a real lonesome boy. He'd give a week's pay for a glass of ice-cold American beer and an evening with the gang in the bowling alley back home. He'd like to meet a "really nice English girl," but mostly doesn't know how. And, most of all, he hopes to bump into someone from his own home town. Corp. Howard Steahly, a six-footer from Portsmouth, Ohio, is typical. "I'm having a grand leave," he told me, delicately balancing a dinner tray over the heads of crowds in a Red Cross cafeteria. "That's because I arranged before coming here to meet up with six other Portsmouth guys."

Too Bashful to Talk. The G.I. in London disapproves the id adage that Americans abroad are blustering folk, who know their way around. He's so shy, he usually spends his first leave here wandering aimlessly around the streets, too bashful even to ask directions. It is only on his third or fourth leave that he begins to feel at home. This is because he has worked out a routine of doing exactly what he does at home—going to American movies and lounging in the pub. Pubs are the British social equivalents of the corner drugstore.

"Most of us are small-town fellows who don't dance and don't like shows," Sergt. Robert Whitford, Green Springs, W. Va., told me over coffee and doughnuts at Rainbow Corner, most popular Red Cross club in London. "So we go to the pubs. It's kinda cozy sitting around over a beer and chatting with the barman."

Shy From Homes. American soldiers are rather shy of British homes, too. Invitations from friendly British folk are far more numerous than acceptances. When the G.I. does drop around for dinner, he usually takes along a pal for moral support. He also takes some food for stringently rationed British dinners. English families are daily nonplussed by large gifts of chewing gum.

Gwen Wingham, Cape Girardeau, Mo., Red Cross worker, who answers thousands of queries daily at Rainbow Corner, says that most of the requests for hot spots come from the boys from big northern cities. "Southerners prefer sightseeing," she told the United Press. "They get along best in London because they're used to early curfews on drinking hours, such as prevail here. Middle Westerners like roller-skating rinks. There must be more of them in their part of the country."

Another German 'Secret Weapon'; It Spreads Fire

STOCKHOLM.—Another German "secret weapon"—a rocket shell covering the target with a blanket of heavy gas ignited by an incendiary bomb—was described in a Zurich dispatch to the Dagens Nyheter.

The dispatch, quoting a technical expert in Germany, said the shell could be fired from a rocket gun at great distance and the gas, inflammable but not poisonous, would be touched off by a fire bomb dropped by plane. The story said the weapon had been used on a limited scale against the Russians at Sevastopol. The same expert described a compressed-air rocket gun supposedly capable of firing 1,000-pound shells containing booster charges exploding at certain altitudes to give the projectile additional range. He said the Nazis intended to use them to bombard London and other English towns.

German Radio Tank Is Called 'Toy' by British

LONDON.—The radio-controlled tank, the Germans' latest secret weapon, was described by the British radio as "little more than a toy." The broadcast, recorded by the Columbia Broadcasting system, said first reports that it carried 1,000 pounds of explosive were "a lot of nonsense." Actually, the broadcast said, it is about three feet high, with an over-all weight of between 700 and 800 pounds, and carries only 110 pounds of explosive.

"If it hits an obstruction," the broadcast added, "it goes round in circles. It is very vulnerable and can be put out of action by an antitank gun at very considerable range."

Army's 'Wasp Wagon' Has a Wonderful Sting

CLEVELAND.—Already a veteran of three major campaigns, the army's "wasp wagon" had its first public bow. The newest mobile aircraft weapon, known as the M-16, is a swift half-track vehicle carrying a cluster of four .50-caliber Browning machine guns geared together for a fire power of up to 2,000 shots a minute. Its four-pronged turret can be operated in all directions.

Bizerte Still Is Buried in Rubble

Worst-Bombed African City Holds 150 Civilians.

BIZERTE, TUNISIA.—Bizerte, the worst-bombed place in North Africa, today remains a dead city. Although Americans occupied Bizerte nine months ago—on May 7—it still is unable to support civilian life. In that way it augurs what Germany may suffer if her cities are flattened by bomb and shell before the Nazis surrender.

American army repair crews have been working on the city ever since its occupation, but still have only 10 per cent of the buildings back in use. The other 90 per cent still lie ripped and torn wrecks.

Sizable forces of American, British and French forces garrison Bizerte, but civilian life just doesn't exist. In normal times this picturesque port and resort city had a population of some 60,000, but a just-completed army census lists only 150 civilians here now.

Most of the civilians in Bizerte now are service employees for the troops and had to obtain special military permission before moving back to the city.

"There's no place for them to live and we have to prevent conditions that would threaten health," explained the assistant town mayor, First Lieut. Robert Ranftle of New York city.

He pointed out that the Americans have not been able even to remove the debris that still clog the sidewalks and litter the floors of bomb-cracked homes.

Walking through the streets of Bizerte, you see splintered walls leaning crazily, loose wires flapping in the breeze, camera snapshots blowing about on the floor of a photographic shop, cracked wine glasses still lying on bars—all typical of a city that was bombed yesterday or perhaps last week, not nine months ago.

But few cities have been bombed like Bizerte. One of the dozen Frenchmen who stayed here throughout the fighting says he counted 140 Allied air raids on the city—the second largest in Tunisia. Then came artillery shelling of the city, and street fighting, and then German bombing raids after the American occupation.

Yank Sergeant Relates How Gum Saved Bomber

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—A pack of chewing gum saved the day on a B-26 medium bomber in the Mediterranean theater, Tech. Sergt. Wayne E. Armstrong, 20, of Mahomet, Ill., recalled.

Sergeant Armstrong, now at the army air forces redistribution station No. 1, being tested for a new assignment, told this story: "We had struck a road junction above Salerno when flak punctured a hydraulic line controlling the lowering of the landing gear. We had to belly-land that day. Fortunately no one was hurt.

"The next time the hydraulic line was struck by flak, I collected chewing gum from the crew and stuck it on a piece of gauze. I stuck the pad on the hole, and tightened a tourniquet over it. Holding the tourniquet with one hand, I held pliers over the puncture with the other.

"The puncture broke loose after we had landed at our African base, but we were on the ground then, so we didn't have to worry."

Malformed Teeth Linked To Allergies by Dentist

CHICAGO.—Allergies may be responsible for malformations of human teeth and jaws, Dr. Walter J. Straub, San Francisco, Calif., said in the Journal of the American Dental Association.

"In considering the large number of orthodontic patients suffering from allergy in a group of 104 patients," he wrote, "it is evident that one of the most effective ways of reducing the incidence of dental anomalies (irregularities) may be the early detection of chronic nasal or respiratory allergy with subsequent treatment to eliminate it."

90,000 Planes British Output for War Period

LONDON.—Britain produced 90,000 planes and 83,000 tanks, armored cars and carriers from the beginning of the war through the end of 1943, Production Minister Lyttelton told the house of commons. Disclosing hitherto secret production figures, Lyttelton reported that British factories have built 76 per cent of the total structure weight of new aircraft delivered to the Royal Air force, while the rest of the British commonwealth contributed 6 per cent and the United States 18 per cent.

New Antilouse Powder Used to Fight Typhus

ALGIERS, ALGERIA.—The army's antilouse powder "DDT," applied for the first time on a mass scale to combat an epidemic, has arrested the spread of typhus in Naples, Brig. Gen. Leon Fox, Birmingham, Ala., field director of the United States typhus commission, told the Allied medical conference here.

Checks Register High Style Throughout the Spring Mode

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IT'S the bolero suit that is made of an ultra modern black and white check fabric as per the model (right) that soars to the top of the mode this spring. This important little bolero suit is made of an all wool weave in hound's tooth check. The fact that it is smartly accented with a satin binding adds to its style prestige. The slimming skirt features a kick pleat, back and front. A bolero twosome like this tempts its wearer to indulge in any number of frilly white or high color blouses to team up with it this spring.

Practically every woman likes the flattery and the practicability of the lumber-jacket blouse such as styles the two-piece dress shown to the left. Here again we see checks given smart recognition, in that the material used is a neat navy and white checked crepe. The skirt is one of the very new draw-string types. A dramatic use is made of large mother-of-pearl discs as buttons.

If you are about to invest in a new spring coat you'll be interested in the smart short toppers that are being shown tailored of stylish wool check weave. Black and white check is always good style and these stunning new toppers show off at their best made of black with white checks. However, if your fancy runs to the new browns or tangerine shades or the navies, checks in these tones are easily available.

Let no one think that the present mania for checks is restricted to dresses and suits and coats. In fact, there is no limitation to the use of checks this spring. Some of the smartest blouses brought out this season are of the long-torso type worn over the skirt, these being fashioned of taffeta patterned in bold checks in various color combinations with emphasis on black and white. The soft bow-tie blouse is also tres chic in checks.

Perhaps it is in the accessory realm and in the millinery field of design that checks are demonstrating that something new has been added in way of hat, bag and glove sets, made of either checked surah or taffeta or gingham, which is accepted as topnotch fashion this spring. During the coming months we will see fetching hats both small of brim (especially tiny sailors) made of checked gingham, displayed side by side with gingham hats enormous of brim, such as the stunning high-crown model shown to the left in the margin below. This smart summer chapeau is done in brown and white checked gingham. The other two hats are also cunningly contrived of plaid-with-check cottons. A popular use of taffeta checks is also shown in bows and ruffles that animate many of the new basic black or navy gowns for spring wear.

Soldier's Bride Wears Pastel Suit This Year

Hers is a furlough wedding in a posy-veiled hat, most likely a pastel suit and a frou-frou dicker in the new pastels to match her hat and gloves or maybe she chooses traditional white. Time was when hope chests gathered linens and lingerie, but the 1944 bride, who has been busy up to the last minute before her wedding, has an "accessory trousseau." One good suit or suit dress, two or three pretty hats (that's the way the men like 'em), a few pair of gloves, white and colored, which can be tubbed and kept immaculate, and an assortment of dickeys and suit collars. The latter pretty much on the lingerie side, confections of sheer and lace, rippling ruffles and new pastel shades or white, of course.

Headbands, Half-Hats

Are cunningly crocheted. We are just beginning to discover the charming things that can be done with hand-crochet. For a joyous pastime and a profitable one feast your eyes on the lovely novelties in way of headbands, snoods and other head dress novelties which women adept with the crochet hook are turning out. Just get a crochet instruction book and follow the directions and you can acquire a wardrobe of pretty accessories for yourself. It's a revelation what can be achieved in way of sensationally beautiful items. It adds to the lure of the new crochet headbands to crochet a matching drawing bag.

Weskits Play Star Role

A gay weskit worn with your suit will bring a definitely "new" look to your costume. These waistcoats, styled after the types men wore in the long ago, look smart made of gingham, handsome brocade or gleaming white satin with rhinestone buttons.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's Pills have been winning new friends for over 40 years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Cotton Is A War Crop

Says War Food Administrator Marvin Jones

More American farmers depend on cotton than on any other crop. Nearly one-third of all our farming people live on cotton farms.

But cotton is important not to the South alone. It is the nation's largest export crop. It is the basis of the largest textile industry in the world. Cottonseed is the basic feed for our livestock and its oils a vital part of our national food supply. It is not only King Cotton in the South, but it is a high price throughout the nation.

Today cotton clothes more billions of the world's people than any other fabric—and other products of the versatile cotton plant are similarly important in the world today.

World War I pointed out some of those problems and warned how carefully the nation must plan and act today. Most of us remember that cotton prices rose—but we all remember when they fell. In April, 1920, the cotton price was 38.5 cents. By the very next April it had dropped to 9.5 cents. I do not need to dwell on that. You remember the years that followed—years as long and dreary as the rows of 5 and 8 cent cotton in the fields. Once more, following another war, there was the rebuilding of a wreckage such as had challenged my father 50 years before.

Now another war is upon us. Another post-war problem must be faced again. True, that is in the future—but the future begins now. For one thing, the Congress has wisely protected producers of certain basic commodities, including cotton, against such disastrous price declines by authorizing and directing Commodity Credit Corporation to make loans at 90 per cent of parity for the 2-year period following the end of the war. Such forward thinking and planning can help to solve some of the other problems if we are willing to face them.

It must be remembered that for every 500 pound bale of cotton lint there are produced 900 pounds of cotton seed. Not a pound of this seed is wasted, not even the hulls. This 900 pounds of cotton seed yields 140 pounds of vegetable oil for food, 400 pounds of meal and cake for livestock feed, about 240 pounds of hulls for feed and chemical uses, and finally, 80 pounds of linters for smokeless powder, plastics and other things. The linters alone, which are just the fuzz on the cotton seed, are the best natural form of alpha-cellulose, for making smokeless powder. Out of these same hulls they make the transparent nose section of bombing planes and the finest synthetic yarns and fabrics.

About two-thirds of the billions of yards of cotton cloth go to war. They use cotton in self-sealing airplane gasoline tanks. They use it for electric heated flying suits, for parachute cords and harness, for jungle hammocks, for canteen covers, for rot proof shoes, for jungle wear for tarpaulins, for camouflage netting, for surgical supplies—the list is almost endless. Every soldier requires 250 pounds of cotton or 10 times what the average civilian uses.

Cotton is our largest single source of vegetable oil, about half of the total supply. Of all fats and oils, both animal and vegetable, cotton seed is second only to lard as a cooking fat and second only to butter as a source of table fat.

Because cotton is a war crop there are now no restrictions on production.

West Texas had another sand storm Monday. The weather was lovely Easter Sunday, but Monday's breeze moved tons of real estate. Some folks holler about a little dust storm, but I druther have them than to have to put up with fogs, skeeters, boggy mud, chiggers and two or three other things.

Carpenters are making fine progress with the remodeling of the W. E. Holcomb residence on the highway. When finished it will be one of the most attractive residences in that portion of town.

C. O. Brock was a visitor in Gail last Sunday.

These are fightin' times when a man must use the weapons he's handiest with, to win. . . . That's why I'm growing more cotton. Here in the Cotton Belt we have the land, climate, the tools and the "know how" to grow the crop that contributes most to the war effort. That crop is COTTON! Cotton provides edible oils for food, necessities that are scarce and rationed. Cotton provides meal, cake and hulls for feed to produce more meat and milk products.

THE OVER-ALL FOOD GOALS WILL NOT BE SUFFICIENT UNLESS ENOUGH COTTON, THE FOOD AND FEED CROP, IS PRODUCED.

One thing a soldier is afraid of is a display of emotion. That's why his slang so often sounds derogatory. For example, he refers to the silver eagles on his colonel's shoulder straps as "buzzards." But when he speaks of his favorite cigarette, he says: "Camels." They're first with men in the Army as well as with Sailors, Marines, and Coast Guardsmen. (According to actual sales records in service men's stores.) And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S., and to men in the Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard wherever they are.—Adv.

Salads Make Menus Sparkle!

(See Recipes Below)

Salad Ensembles

The warmer the weather, the more popular the salad becomes as a luncheon mainstay. Salads can be made from fruit or fish, fowl or vegetables—or from combinations of any of these classes as long as the foods go together.

If you want to give your salads a more than average nutritional boost plus distinction serve them with a cream cheese dressing. Then, if company drops in, you will not have to make apologies for what you're serving. For vegetables, use chive cream cheese blended with mayonnaise—a 6-ounce wedge with 4 tablespoons of mayonnaise is a good proportion.

Fruit salads are good with the pimiento cream cheese dressing blended with mayonnaise. Fish salads are best with the relish cream cheese. Use 6 ounces blended with 4 tablespoons of mayonnaise.

Save Used Fats!
Salads can be light or hearty, depending on their ingredients.

Savory Salad. (Serves 6 to 8)
1½ cups macaroni
½ cup leftover ham or sausage
½ cup chopped sweet pickle
¾ cup finely diced celery
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
2 cups chopped apple
3 tablespoons minced pimiento
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons grated onion
¼ cup thinly sliced carrots
1 cup salted peanuts
½ cup mayonnaise

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Cool. Combine with remaining ingredients. Add mayonnaise and mix well. Chill. Serve in lettuce cups garnished with radish slices.

Save Used Fats!
As fresh as spring and just as enchanting is this lighter salad:

Garden Salad. (Serves 6)
1 head lettuce or Chinese cabbage
1 onion, grated
1 bunch chicory
1 bunch radishes
3 tomatoes, sliced
3 carrots, grated
1 cucumber, chopped
2 hard-cooked eggs

Combine ingredients. When ready to serve, toss with French dressing.

Jellied Chicken Salad. (Serves 6)
3 cups cooked, diced chicken
1½ cups chicken broth
1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon onion salt
½ cup peas
Mayonnaise

Heat well-seasoned chicken broth. Add gelatin, soaked in water, chicken, lemon juice, onion salt and peas.

Lynn Says
Pretty, Pretty: All foods no matter how simple can be made more appetizing by attractive garnishes. And remember to eat the garnishes, for in most cases they're as nutritious as they are beautiful. This is especially true in the case of eggs.

Sieve hard-cooked yolks over top of creamed soups. Cut hard-cooked egg whites into attractive shapes for bouillabaisse or consommé.

Baked custard can be cut into attractive shapes for clear soups. Make the custard using meat stock or bouillon cubes.

Daisy garnishes for vegetables are very effective. Cut whites of eggs lengthwise into five or more petals using a sharp knife, cutting from larger end to within ¼ inch of the smaller end. Open petals, remove yolks and fill center of petals with sieved egg yolk.

Mold in cups rubbed slightly with olive oil and allow to chill until firm. Serve with mayonnaise on crisp lettuce leaves. Clusters of grapes make an attractive garnish.

Contrast in color becomes important when putting together salads. Since we are said "to eat with our eyes first" it's important to keep the salad appetizing. Carrots, green pepper and celery are a good combination. Cooked beets, green beans and cauliflower look well together. Leave the skin on apples so they can add the bright touch of red to the salad. Nuts offer contrast in color as well as texture to fruit, vegetable or chicken salad.

Egg Salad Mold. (Serves 6)
2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
4 hard-cooked eggs, shredded
½ cup diced celery
2 tablespoons diced green pepper
2 tablespoons pickle relish
1 tablespoon diced pimiento
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt

Soften gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes. Heat over boiling water until gelatin is dissolved. Cool. When thickened, add remaining ingredients. Pour into individual molds or one large mold and chill. Serve with additional mayonnaise and garnish with endive and carrot curls.

Save Used Fats!
Rhubarb Salad Ring. (Serves 6)
1 package raspberry or lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup hot rhubarb sauce
1 cup cold water
1 cup chopped apples
1 cup chopped nuts

Dissolve gelatin in hot sauce. Add water, cool and pour into a ring mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce. Serve Waldorf salad in center of ring. Or, make salad ring with strained cranberry sauce and serve chicken salad in center of ring.

If the salad is as good as its dressing, you will be able to use these suggestions:

Salad Bowl Dressing: Combine 2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon paprika, a dash of pepper, 1 to 2 drops liquid garlic and a dash of sugar. Mix until blended and then pour in 1 cup salad oil and ½ teaspoon gum arabic or gum tragacanth (obtainable at a druggist's, usually). Shake or beat well and chill before using.

Peanut Butter French Dressing: Combine the following: ¼ cup peanut oil, ½ cup salad oil, ½ cup pure cider vinegar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, and ½ teaspoon paprika. Beat thoroughly until blended. This is good for simple green salads.

Sour Cream Dressing: Mix together 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons flour, 2 teaspoons sugar and a dash of cayenne. Blend together 1 egg yolk beaten, 1 tablespoon oil and ½ cup vinegar and stir gradually into dry ingredients. Cook in top of double boiler until thick, remove from heat, then cool. Before serving, fold in ½ cup sour cream.

Paiche, 500-Pound Edible Fish, Being Raised in Peru

One of the largest fresh-water fishes in the world, the paiche, or pirarucu, 12 to 15 feet long and weighing up to 500 pounds, is now being raised commercially on a fish farm in Peru.

Dried and prepared in long strips, the flesh from the monster fish was the poor man's "beef" in the Amazon region for years.

Once it was so plentiful that fishermen from one small village could count a two-week catch by the thousand. Unrestricted fishing almost depleted the waters, so Peru has established a hatchery to replenish them.

British Tar Tells Of 70 Days Spent In Open Lifeboat

Two Survivors Drift 3,000 Miles After Germans Sank Their Ship.

NEW YORK.—A young British seaman, who complained about the cold weather here, told of drifting 70 days in a 16-foot lifeboat in a 3,000-mile voyage between the Azores and the Bahama islands.

Wilbert Roy Widdicombe, 24, is one of the two survivors of the 5,596-ton British freighter Anglo-Saxon, which was sunk on August 21, 500 miles southwest of the Azores by a German raider, the S. S. Weser. On October 30 Widdicombe, who is on his way to England, where he hopes to be commissioned in the Royal Air Force, and Robert Tapscott, 19 years old, drifted up on a beach on the north side of Eleuthera island, in the Bahamas. They crawled up the beach to the shade of a tree and fainted. Both were burned black from exposure.

They had been 28 days without food, except for a flying fish and a gar fish that had washed into their boat. They drank rain water, but for long periods during the 10 weeks at sea no rain fell. Widdicombe lost 80 pounds and Tapscott 60. They were the last of seven men who had climbed into the boat when the freighter sank; four committed suicide by jumping into the sea and one died of bullet wounds from a machine gun on the raider.

Sailor Wants Revenge

For three months the sailors have been recuperating in Nassau. Tapscott, who is not completely well, is still on the island. Widdicombe, whose rugged features and browned skin belie his ordeal on the sea, talked calmly of his adventures. He seemed bored at times, but when he had completed his tale and remembered the days he had suffered on the small boat, he admitted that he was not ashamed to speak of revenge. He wants to even the score with the Nazis.

Widdicombe was at the wheel of the freighter at 8:20 p. m. when the raider struck. He saw it loom in the dark and at the same moment four shells hit the ship. One destroyed the only gun. The raider was only a hundred yards away when it spattered the deck with machine-gun bullets. According to Widdicombe, it waited until the men were in the lifeboats in the water and then mechanically peppered each boat as the oars were lifted.

"The sinking freighter was between our boat and the raider," Widdicombe explained. "Their lights didn't reach us, and we escaped. We wanted to head toward the Azores, but a northeast trade wind and the Gulf Stream made it impossible."

Always They Prayed.

Chief Officer C. B. Denny took charge of the boat and divided the rations. The men found the usual stores, biscuit, four gallons of water and some boiled mutton. But the men's throats became parched without water and the meat stuck to their tongues. They told jokes and talked of early school days and their love affairs—and always they prayed.

Three of the men had been wounded, and after 10 days the first man died. "We lifted him over into the sea and some one said a prayer," Widdicombe said as he rapidly told

AMERICAN HEROES

BY LEFF

When war broke out, Marine Sgt. Maier J. Rothschild of New York City was studying journalism at night, selling stocks in Wall Street daytimes. On December 31, 1941, 24 days after Pearl Harbor, he enlisted. He's been awarded the Purple Heart for wounds received in hand to hand bayonet combat, and the Navy Cross for fighting off and killing 95 out of 150 of the enemy storming a machine-gun emplacement. He's not giving up until we win. And you? Are you still buying that extra War Bond?

U. S. Treasury Department

now the rest had lost their minds and jumped into the sea. Two of them hugged each other and plunged from the stern of the boat. On the fifteenth day the water ran out and that evening the fifth man dived into the sea.

As the days went on, the existence of the two youths took on the unrealities of a horrible nightmare. "Sometimes we looked at each other and would stare with a sort of hate." At times they would go day after day without talking, without thinking. This was the best way to keep sane, Widdicombe pointed out. "But I always thought of being rescued. I never gave up," he said.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, Flying Fortress pilot, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck the Philippines. Eight of his men are killed, the Flying Fortress, is demolished and he can get off the ground. They escape to Australia, spend Christmas day there, and shortly after General Breerton orders them to take the bombers to Java. From there they start on flight for Davao, in the Philippines. They see a great concentration of ships below them—a Pearl Harbor set-up, but fighters come up and they get away when I saw, just in time, that old Jim, who had dropped the bombs before I did, had already started his turn to get off the target a few seconds before me.

CHAPTER IX

It poured on every ounce of power we had, and was about to turn for the getaway when I saw, just in time, that old Jim, who had dropped the bombs before I did, had already started his turn to get off the target a few seconds before me. The next thing I did was to call down to the bombardier and the navigator to come on up and tell me what we'd done to the Japs.

They said it had been a sight to watch. A few of the Jap cruisers and destroyers had managed to get under way, and their wakes laced the water in great spirals and swirls as they tried to dodge the bombs. Some of these few, they said, had caught the Japs absolutely flat-footed. If there had been enough of us, we could have blown a chunk out of their fleet they would never have recovered from.

As it was, they had watched four direct hits on a Jap battleship, seen pieces of debris flying in every direction and smoke starting to billow up. In addition to this, our squadron had sunk three smaller ships—two cruisers and a transport. They said our bomb pattern had riddled the whole area white with clouds of foam, and what few ships had their power up were running around like crazy. They said thousands of skilled personnel had been killed or drowned, and also that they had torn hell out of the dock buildings and docks at Davao Harbor.

Only I don't have time to gloat. For something approaching us from ahead catches my eye through the windshield. It's practically flying on our course and our altitude, except that it's off to the left. But am I seeing a ghost? It can't be what I think it is, a Messerschmitt 110, the one that Ernst Udet told me all about in Berlin when I visited there in 1934. There can't be a Messerschmitt 110 in this hemisphere, but what else could it be with that tail?

He doesn't alter his course and doesn't alter mine; and after he's passed the point where I could set a collision course with him, I begin to come to my senses, to realize that I'm the pilot of a Flying Fortress and my job is to get home safely with these boys and this plane, which was never designed to engage in dogfights with Messerschmitts.

We got back to Malang feeling very pleased with ourselves," said Kurtz, "and I personally felt I had made headway settling my old Philippine score. But in Java we had these troubles ahead, and the least of these was that our very was accusing us of bombing their ships. They didn't say any of them had been hit, just that they'd tried to beat off an attack, and it occurred to me that this might explain all those fireworks which came popping up under our chins through the overcast that night over the Sulu Sea. But we were never told.

with an altitude of about 9,500 feet. But about eight o'clock we hit a tropical front which was a nightmare—fog so dense you could hardly see to light the tip of your cigarette.

"When we saw it coming ahead, each V spread out a little, so we wouldn't collide. Only we didn't dream how dense and how long it was going to be.

"It was like trying to fly inside a giant bale of cotton—so dense that when you looked out at the side you could barely see your own wing tips. And looking straight ahead, that bale of cotton seemed tightly packed against your windshield, only it was a dull flat gray-white, like the cotton I imagine they'd spin winding sheets out of. And you'd stare into the windshield, trying to see how close you were to your wing man, but there would only be that flat white, squeezed tight against your windshield, muffling everything. Then all of a sudden, the wing of the plane ahead would come surging into view out of that winding sheet, so terribly big and close that you would frantically jerk back all four throttles to cut your power, and begin fishtailing your rudder to slow the big brute down a little, praying that by this you'd miss crashing into the plane ahead at least by a few yards.

"We'd been fighting through it on instruments, because inside that cotton bale you couldn't see stars or ocean, and it took so much hard flying that I was having my co-pilot handle the power for me. If I thought I was dropping behind the rest, maybe I would get lost and have to go over the target alone, which by now we knew was a dangerous business, I'd say to him, 'All right, give me a little more mercury now—about four inches.' Then when I'd catch a glimpse of the plane ahead I'd say: 'Okay, now you can bring it back to thirty inches. We're sitting okay—I can see him fine.' And I could for a minute or so.

"Without warning I break into the clear. I haven't climbed over that cloud, but instead have flown out of one of the walls of an enormous cloud canyon and am now flying around in the clear air between the precipices.

"Ahead of me looms the other canyon wall. Maybe it's thirty miles away, maybe fifty—you can't ever judge the distance of a cloud, because they don't come in standard sizes. But cloud canyons like this one are one magnificent sight that you never see any place except in the high skies.

"Because, you see, the morning sun was slanting down from behind me, over the top of the canyon wall out of which I had just come, to hit the top half of the cloud-canyon wall ahead. That top half might have been built out of burnished silver feather beds piled one on top of the other, and yet you looked again and it seemed to be so firm it could be carved of glistening ice or marble.

"I am wondering if old Jim is also looking at all this when suddenly his voice comes out of nowhere into my earphones.

"'Connally to Kurtz,' he is calling.

"'Kurtz answering Connally,' I say.

"'Have you broken into the clear yet?'" he asks.

"'Into the clear, Jim, at 14,500. Now I'm turning onto 270 degrees.' That means I'm turning west to fly down that canyon to see if I can't catch sight of Jim, whose voice is so loud in my ears. Suddenly I see a single Fortress ahead there in the canyon. I pick him up when the reflecting sun hits his uptilted wing. He is circling.

"'I think I see you, Jim,' I call. 'Continue to circle.' I head toward the plane and fall in on its wing, continuing the long slow circle inside the canyon in the hope we'll pick up some of the others, and won't have to go in on the target alone.

Meanwhile the radio operators of the two planes have started talking to each other by winking their Aldis lamps back and forth. We're so near the target I don't want to use the radio any more than necessary. And just then I spot a third plane—about 500 feet below us and farther west down the canyon. Just as I'm wondering which one it is, my radio operator reports that the plane we're circling isn't Jim at all, it's Bill Bohnaker. So we drop on down the canyon and sure enough, that third plane turns out to be old Jim. I can read his number plain now on his tail. Now there are three of us in the circle, wondering what in hell has become of the other six.

We haven't got the gas to stay in this golden dream castle much longer. But just then my radio operator comes in with a message from Combs, the leader. God knows where he is, but he's telling us, 'Continuing to target,' and he's sending it out by key, where he can use code, because he doesn't use voice so close to the target as he must by now be, because most of these damn Zero pilots seemed to have graduated from Los Angeles High School and understand English as well as you do.

"All right, continue it is, so now we plunged back into that damned front—the opposite canyon wall—and the gray mist packed down around my windshield again. We continued to climb in that deathly whiteness—first one wing and then the other surging into my view. I flew it for forty-five minutes and decided it was just too much to risk crashing into each other when we were so close to the target. So without any message to Jim or Bill I decided I'd spread out. I flew 45 degrees for thirty seconds, then back thirty more seconds, and then continued on the old course—flying on instruments, of course. But now that we were staggered both in altitude and in interval, it wasn't so bad.

"Finally we broke out into the clear at 27,000 feet at a quarter after ten and discovered we had lost interval only by a very little. But I was groggy—we'd been on oxygen for four and a half hours already.

"But the weather was still playing tricks. Now the mist was coming in great tufts, thicker than cotton wadding, while below us was a thin layer of overcast.

"We were getting close to the target now. Should we climb higher? There wasn't much point, because if we did, that overcast layer might thicken so that we couldn't see the target, and we'd have to come down below it to unload.

"But where's Bill Bohnaker? I look back and see that he's very slowly peeling off. I wonder why. Probably supercharger trouble. Then I think to myself, 'There he goes, and I'd hoped maybe at least three of us could go in together.' Because in my mind is that rain-check idea—the score isn't settled yet, and if that target is open at all, I've made up my mind I'm going in. And I think to myself, 'Here we go again, Jim, just you and me.'

"About this time I hear a gunner on Combs' ship—they've broken radio silence, which means they're on the target—saying, 'Lots of enemy fighters sighted!'

"But they're still far ahead, out of sight. Here we are again, in a staggered attack—the stragglers to bear the brunt of what the first fights stir up. We ought to know better, but still I'm going on in.

"The weather gets crazier and crazier—these enormous tufts stratified at all, but floating around at almost any altitude. And my co-pilot seems to be fascinated by a big black one that isn't shaped quite like a thunderhead. It might be one of those Dakota tornado funnels, only it doesn't revolve.

"Then suddenly he says, staring at it: 'Hell, Frank, that isn't a cloud at all—look! I follow his finger, and down at the base of that cloud, on the ground, is a crackling, flaming oil field! The gallant Dutch are scorching the earth for fair—burning up their Borneo oil fields right in the face of the advancing Japs, millions of dollars' worth of it. Imagine all of East Texas crackling and pouring black smoke into the sky.

"We can't stop to watch a billion dollars go up in black smoke. The Dutch are doing their job and we have ours, which just now is scanning for fighters. I realize that in this weather and so close to the target they might be anywhere, only for some reason I never think of them when my No. 1 starboard engine starts jumping around in its mount, rattling the whole plane.

"I only curse my luck and ask, 'If we were going to have engine trouble, why in hell couldn't it have been on the way home instead of now, when we're about to begin our run over the target?'

"I watch the oil pressure drop sickeningly, and still it doesn't dawn on me what hit that motor. I'm just sore at it for letting me down. And also, what will I do—nurse it along by feathering it, or see if I can't give it maybe 1,000 RPM's, (revolutions per minute) while I push. The other three up to 2,600?

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

SAUL'S EARLY PREACHING

LESSON TEXT: Acts 9:19-30; 11:25, 26. GOLDEN TEXT: I am not ashamed of the gospel; for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth.—Romans 1:16.

"A changed man"—that oft-used expression assumes real meaning as it is applied to one who has experienced the redeeming grace of God in Christ. In a special way this was true of Paul, whose transformed life amazed those who knew him before he had met Christ on the Damascus road.

In our lesson we find him in three different cities, serving his new-found Master and Lord.

I. At Damascus—Confounding the Jews (9:19-25).

"Straightway." What a good word to apply to the servant of the Lord. Paul did not hesitate to declare his faith in Christ, to proclaim that the One who had redeemed him was able also to save others.

It is the normal and proper expression of Christian faith to give testimony to others. That should be true of every believer. With Paul there was the added element of his call to preach, for God had ordained that he should be His chosen vessel for that purpose (Acts 9:15).

One is impressed by the prompt and unquestioning obedience of so many of Christ's followers of whom we read in the New Testament. No doubt that explains their power and wide usefulness. We could learn of them.

Paul's message was Christ. He proved to the Jews that Jesus was the Christ (v. 22), the One of whom their Old Testament Scriptures spoke and for whom they professed to be looking. He declared Him to be the Son of God (v. 20).

They were unwilling to accept the message. They were "amazed" at Paul and "confounded" by the truth he proclaimed, but they rejected both it and him, and he had to escape for his life. But another city must hear his witness, so we find him—

II. At Jerusalem—Disputing With the Grecians (9:26-30).

Knowing his violent persecution of the church, the disciples in Jerusalem were suspicious. Perhaps there was a measure of justification for such an attitude, but one is glad that there was present the generous, open-hearted Barnabas, ready to believe in his new brother in Christ and to sponsor him in the church. A word of admonition to the church of our day is necessary, regarding the making of a new convert or a stranger at home in the fellowship of the saints. There is no need of putting such a one quickly into office or a place of honor, but let him know that he is accepted and believed in, and thus give him an opportunity to grow.

Paul remained in Jerusalem this time for two weeks (Gal. 1:18), going in and out, that is, in friendly fellowship. That is just what the young Christian needs, and should seek.

He also had something to make right. He had joined the Grecian Jews when they disputed with Stephen (6:9) and stoned him. Paul had agreed with and joined them on that occasion. Now by the miracle of regeneration he is a new creature and is on the exactly opposite side. Now he disputes with the Grecians, declaring that Jesus is the Christ. What a blessed change!

They refused to tolerate that word, and prepared to kill him. But the servant of the Lord was kept by Him, and delivered through the good offices of Christian brethren. How often it is true that the minister must look to the brethren for that kindness which delivers him from distress and danger.

III. At Antioch—Teaching the Christians (11:25, 26).

Persecution spread the believers abroad (Acts 11:19), and like the scattered brands of a beaten fire they carried the flame of Christianity far and wide. Thus the gospel came to Antioch, the third greatest city in the world of that day. A revival broke out, and Barnabas was sent from Jerusalem to be of help.

Good and spiritual man that he was (Acts 19:23, 24), Barnabas did nothing to hinder this work of God, but admonished the people to "cleave unto the Lord," that is, to follow Him closely. Would that all spiritual advisers had such a spirit and such sound judgment.

He was also wise in sensing his need of help. So he went after Paul, the very man to teach these young Christians, and to lead them out into a radiant and abundant life for the Lord.

Here it was that the beautiful name of "Christian" was first applied to believers. It is believed to have originally been a term of ridicule, but even then it was a testimony, for it declared that these believers were devoted to Christ and concerned only with pleasing and serving Him.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Planes fly in supplies and bring out crude rubber from Central American plantations. Weeds are saved by this method of transportation.

In building a battleship it takes 150,000 pounds of rubber. This is equivalent to the rubber used in the manufacture of more than 12,000 small passenger-car tires.

The first city omnibus lines, the forerunner of modern motor bus transportation, started operations over the streets of Paris in 1662.

Seventy-three per cent of the employees in 94 war plants depend upon their cars for transportation. Rubber is essential to their work.

If the radiator fins on your car or tractor get bent, try straightening them with a common table fork, the prongs of which have been cut down to about one-fourth inch length.

Children's bean bags for play may be made from scraps of closely woven material such as denim, cut and stitched to a 4 by 6-inch size and then filled with one cup of beans.

Old horseshoes, filed to wedge shaped points on one end and drilled and bolted to your ladder, make sturdy hooks for use on the roof ridge.
