Move pullets into the laying house before they are in ten per cent pro-cuction, and move them carefully, to that they will not be frightened. Inspect all birds going into the house for culls and examine them closely for external parasites. If parasites ave found, treat birds before placing them in the laying house. Keep a well-balanced ration before the birds all the time. Stirring the feed occosionally and feeding pellets on top of the mash two or three times daily will help get more feed into birds.

Question Are all pastures equally valuable for dairy cattle? Answer

Definitely not In early spring, pasture is very lush and appetizing and higher in food value. As the summer advances and pasture grasses mature, the food value is reduced. Furthermore, as pastures dry up, the grass is not as palatable as early spring grass, so dairy cows will eat less of it.

Herd Numbers Decrease. But Milk Supply Grows

In the past two decades, milk production on United States farms has increased by 20 billion pounds, or one-fifth while the number of milking herds has declined. In some of the individual dairy states, changes have been even more spec-tacular. In New York, for instance, one-half more milk is marketed by 15 per cent fewer farmers than in 1929

Milk is produced on about 4% million of the six million farms in the United States. On about two million of these, the milk is produced solely for home use. Most of these farms have only one or two cows, but their milk provides an important part of the food of some nine mil-lion farm people. On the other 2½ million farms that have milk cows, some milk, cream, or farm-churned butter is sold. These sales range from a few pounds of farm-churned butter per year up to thousands of pounds of milk per day.

Through blizzard after blizzard my car performed better!"

"I was one of those selected to test new Conoco Super Motor Oil in my own car before it was put on the market. Through blizzard after blizzard, I travelled in Northern Colorado and Wyoming.

"BUT THOSE WERE THE TWO BEST WINTERS I EVER HAD ON THE ROAD! New Conoco Super improved the operation of my car. And at the end of the test, with proper drains and regular care, gasoline mileage was virtually as good as at the beginning."

After a total of 386,422 miles, logged by Mr. Hubbard and other winter test drivers, Conoco engineers found no wear of any consequence ! Analysis of crankcase drains showed that this great new oil actually stopped the dangerous accumula-tion of free water and acids, chief causes of winter wear. This test proved that new Conoco Super Motor Oil, with OIL-PLATING, fights off rust, corrosion and sludge. So, change to winter-grade Conoco Super Motor Oil.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS-

A State of National Emergency Is Proclaimed by President Truman; Russia Threatens Western Europe

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Chinese Communists in the mountains of central North Korea prepared for another big sweep down the middle of Korea (broken arrow). Meanwhile, 60,000 United Nations troops were evacuated from the Hamhung-Hungnam beachhead after withdrawing from the Yalu river.

EMERGENCY:

Near-War Footing

With a series of proclamations and executive orders, President Truman put the nation on a nearwar footing. In a world-wide radio address the President proclaimed a national emergency and told the American people they must pay higher taxes, work longer hours, and give up many civilian goods to speed up the defense program. "Our home, our nation, all the things we believe in, are in great danger," the President said in his address. "The future of civilization de pends on what we do-on what we do now and in the months ahead.' He announced the administration would impose some wage-price controls and bring 3,500,000 men under arms "as soon as possible." Then he outlined the bucklingdown program:

1. Compulsory price ceilings "at once" on some items essential to defense production and the cost of living.

2. Voluntary ceilings over rest of the economy of publishing "fair standards of prices and wages."

3. To provide the necessary ma-

Nutrition Expert Reports Dieting Can Be Done Safely, Economically

You can reduce safely and eco-nomically on a diet that includes en-riched white bread at every meal. Dr. Ruth M. Leverton, professor of nutrition research at the University of Nebraska, proved in a research project recently.

"Omitting bread in a reducing diet is unnecessary and leads to increased cost of the diet," Dr. Leverton said. "No aspect of food and nutrition is subject to more abuse, fad, and misinformation than the low calorie diet necessary for weight loss.

Dr. Leverton explained that no single food is fattening, but that it is the total number of calories eaten that determines whether a person gains or loses weight.

The baking industry, led by the American Bakers Association, is planning a nationwide observance, in 1951, of the tenth anniversary of bread enrichment, focusing attention on the resulting improvement in the nation's health. Bread "enrichment" means the addition to the bread of certain essential vitamins and minerals appetizing, low-calorie This dinner featuring a pork chop, browned apple rings, enriched white bread and butter, and fresh strawberries, was one of the meals served to dieters in a scientific study. Twelve girls lost a total of 227 pounds in 8 weeks of the diet.

In the scientific study at the University of Nebraska, 12 overweight young women followed a daily 1200calorie diet, which included enriched white bread and butter at each meal. The 12 girls who took part in the study were between 18 and 25 years of age, and were from 20 to 83 pounds overweight. At the end of the eight weeks, the girls lost a total of 227 pounds, or the equivalent of two whole girls. Average loss was 2½ pounds per girl per week. The girls remained in excellent health.

Enriched white bread was selected for each meal because it is nutritious, appetizing, low in cost, and readily available, according to the report. Cost of the diet averaged 68 cents a day. It regularly included meat, milk, fruits and vegetables, as well as bread. An important share of the B-vitamins, iron, and protein was provided daily by enriched white bread.

IN SELECTING the diet, meals or three days were planned, and this three-day pattern was repeated throughout the study. Foods were chosen that were liked by the girls and would be popular over an 8-week period. In general, thick gravies and sauces, concentrated sweets and calorie-packed desserts were omitted.

The girls lived in one of the University's residence halls during the study so that their meals could be prepared, weighed, and served by trained nutritionists.

Because the only way to take off weight is to reduce food intake, foods included in a reducing diet must supply all of the essential nutrients needed by the body. The diet planned in the study supplied the food values recommended by the national research council, with the exception of calories.

Here are the menus for one of the days of the planned low-cost diet: BREAKFAST: 1/2 cup of grape-

WAIT YOUR TURN

By Ona Freeman Lathrop

BESS WILKINS wondered if she was going to be able to stand another twenty or thirty years of Henry's stub bornness and • Minute impatience!

"I declare your father is getting so cranky in his old age, I wonder if I'm going to be able to live out my life with him," she told her married daughter, Alice. "Why, Mother, how you talk!" Alice looked shocked.

"Well, he actually embarrasses me in restaurants and public places if we aren't the first to be waited on. And today he wouldn't even bank his money from that last real estate deal just because there was line ahead of him.'

"Just don't pay any attention to him," Alice advised. "You probably aggravate him more when you argue with him. Maybe he isn't well?"

"Now Henry, don't be so impatient," she said meekly. "Well, for the love of Mike! When a man wants service, he wants it quick." He gave the horn another fierce blast. "But Henry, you know that horn sticks sometimes. You'll have it sticking if you blow it like that.' "Then they can fix it." And he cooted it again. No one came out. "By the Lord Harry, I'm going in there and tell them what I think of them," he shouted, getting out. "I can see some one in there moving around. BESS WATCHED. Yes, she could D see a form moving in the dim interior. Funny the lights hadn't been turned on yet. She saw Henry step inside and close the door behind him. Then she saw something that made her heart skip a beat. His hand went up high above his head. A stick-up! There ought to be some way! After all, she couldn't have anything happen to Henry. She leaned over and pushed the horn-clear down. It stuck as she had hoped it. going to all that trouble she wanted would. The station door flew open. "I don't know how to drive, and besides, my husband has the keys in his pocket." She could see heads sticking out of doors and people stopping to turn and grin at the corner. "Come on, Eddie, we'd got to scram out of here," the first one croaked, and they came out on the run to a parked car. By that time a police car was rounding the corner. Henry and the gas-station attendant came out sheepishly to disconnect the horn and fix it.

6. Federal spending for nondefense purposes slashed "to the minimum' in the fiscal 1952 budget.

Within hours after the declaration of a national emergency, the President created the Office of Defense Mobilization by executive order. The new office was given unprecedented power with full authority over civilian agencies already at work building United States war strength. Truman named Charles E. Wilson to head the agency. Wilson was president of General Electric.

Also within hours after the President's proclamation, the Economic Stabilization Agency froze the price of new automobiles at the level of December 1, 1950. The action rolled back price increases averaging five per cent announced by Ford, Chrysler, General Motors, and Nash, on the 1951 models.

The automobile industry protested the price roll-back and stopped the sale of some makes. Observers did not believe the protest would carry much weight in Washington.

Most observers believed the President had set the stage for further drastic curbs. There is no doubt but that a speed-up in rearmament-to suit the quickening tempo of the Kremlin time-tablewill cause economic injuries. Some people are going to lose jobs. Some business men are going to lose money. And all Americans are going to find life a lot tougher.

Some observers believed it may be necessary to cut back civilian production as much as 30 to 50 per cent before war production can go into high gear.

The Kremlin sent notes to Britain and France which asserted:

MARSHALL:

Opposes Full Mobilization

Defense Secretary Marshall is reported opposed to full mobilization now because there is still "a hope" that World War III may be averted.

Marshall's careful appraisal of the powder-keg world situation was given to a house appropriations subcommittee at a secret hearing. However, Marshall said he also believes that the United States must build up its armed forces to just-short-of-war footing as swiftly as possible because "a single word" from the Kremlin could start the holocaust at any time.

The defense secretary did not say exactly how far he believed U. S. mobilization should go. But he said the present goal of 2,771,000 men under arms by next July 1 must be increased substantially.

WOMAN'S WORLD Modern Dining Rooms Should Be Colorful and Pleasing

By Ertta Haley

THE OLD - FASHIONED dining room was very much like the parlor of past years. You put in a table with chairs and a buffet and possibly a glassed chest. It was the room in which you had your meals. This may be one of the reasons the dining room has passed out of favor in some circles. Another is that, for approximately the two or three hours a day it was used, it was an expense and a space consumer

Today's dining room is as colorful and pleasing as the most tastefully decorated living, recreation or bedroom. It may be part of the living room, separated only by a different decor. It may be many other things, too, like a sewing room, music corner or library.

Table, chairs and buffet may match, or they may not. Either way worked out intelligently and tastefully can give you a room which you're proud to have in your home, and on display.

If you're building or remodeling, you may want to take advantage of built-in features for the dining room. This is especially true if the room is small, or if it's a combination living-dining room. One wall can be used for a built-in cabinet which will house all manner of dining accessories like glassware, silver, linen and dishes.

Combination living and dining areas can also be separated by flexible screens to give you privacy during dining, and then, too, to separate the clearance of the dining area while the family or guests relax in the living room.

Basic decorating principles apply to dining areas, no matter to what other uses the room is put. This gives rise to some problems, but they're easily solved with forethought.

Treat Combination Room As Separate Unit

When dining and living room area is combined into a single room, it's usually built so that the end nearest the kitchen is reserved for dining. This may or may not be separated by flexible screens, or a Dutch door type of arrangement.

If painted or papered, the whole room should be done the same. The floor covering is to be the same in

A large dining room can take the 'busier' wallpapers like wide striped ones, bold prints and wealth of pattern. If the room is high ceilinged it's very effective to paper ceiling and come down a foot or two on the walls. Have the remainder plain. Select Wearable

Floor Coverings

Much used dining rooms. need floor coverings built to withstand wear. If yours is a home with smaller children and a lot of their friends, consider linoleum, rubber tile or polished cork. Busy dining rooms require floor coverings which will look neat, even after a meal. When dining and living rooms are small in scale, they may be carpeted in the same rig material. This gives a feeling of spaciousness, and ties the rooms together effectively.

Those who want to give distinct separation to the rooms can do just the opposite. In contrast to the thick carpeting in living room, let the dining room floor gleam with wax or polish, a separate rug or an entirely different covering.

Size of Room Determines Furniture

Large dining rooms can cope with massive pieces of furniture, while smaller rooms must have their furnishings in harmonious scale Tables for the smaller rooms are made compact, but they have good extension when it's needed. Then, too, the table can carry a flower, too, for a feeling of space, keep the fruit or plant arrangement.

room and can't afford them, it's wise to buy at least two chairs, to be used by host and hostess that can serve in dining or living rooms. Dining rooms which are to serve as music or sewing rooms should h a v e their furniture carefully chosen so the appearance isn't hodge-podge. Radios or television sets in the dining room, to one end should be finished in harmonious woods, and the chairs or loveseats near them can have the same slipcovering as the dining room chairs.

Built-in cabinets are excellent for the sewing equipment. Shelves in the cabinet can take care of sewing accessories. A large shelf can hold a portable sewing machine, while a folding table will fit against the wall of the unit.

Accessories Should Balance Dining Rooms

Proper accessories add a homelike atmosphere to the room, but they should be used with discrimination. Choose what you like but limit the number used to the size of the room and whatever is in it. A small room, naturally, should have few accessories. A large mir-ror above the linen chests or buffet will give the illusion of more room than there actually is. Three items on the buffet should be sufficient, and one is better, since these would be reflected in the mirror. Larger rooms can take plates or prints on the wall. In this case,

Jesus' New Year

Lesson for January 7, 1951

SCRIPTURE: Mark 1:1-20 DEVOTIONAL READING: Isaiah 42:

THERE is no room in this one thin column for a commentary on the whole Sunday school lesson each week. If the reader is interested, as it is hoped he will be, he will first study the Bible passages themselves, with whatever aids his own denomination furnishes him, The Sunday school teacher or Bible student who wishes to do really thorough work will need a Dr. Foreman Bible Dictionary and at least a one volume commentary on the entire Bible, (Dummelow's [Macmillan Co.1 and the Abingdon Commentary [Abingdon Press] are among the best of these.) As a background for the studies of the next three months, the student should read one or more good "Lives" of Christ. Write to your own church bookstore for suggestions.

When Is New Year's Day?

EVERY day is a New Year's Day for somebody. The legal holiday that goes by that name seldom comes at a real turning-point in any one's life.

The real occasion is when some momentous change oc curs, so that after that day life never flows in its old channels. In this sense, a very important New Year's Day for Jesus was the day when he was baptized in the Jordan river.

Before that day he lived as a carpenter in one village: after that day, as a public man, indeed THE public Man of all times. The pattern of his life completely changed.

Decisions

NEW YEAR'S is a good time to review three things: your decisions, your life's work, and your friendships.

Have you put off a decision for a long time? Now is the time to face it. Have you been mak-ing "unfortunate" decisions, choices you regret? Now is a good time to look into these and see why you have been taking the wrong road too often. Have you any bed-rock principle on which you base all your decisions? - Jesus' New Year was marked by certain decisions made once and for all.

To begin with, there was his baptism. One thing it surely meant: sus that day decided de berately

The Handbook Is Quicker'n the Eye -By H. I. PHILLIPS-

THE ROUNDUP of "persons with no visible means of support" has a lot of New Yorkers pretty scared. People with no visible means of support have become accustomed to positions of eminence. In fact a visible means of support has often meant a handicap in enjoying life and moving in the best circles. Up to now a man could lose face in New York for having visible means of support. It could keep him out of regal banquets, smart nighteries, top political or-ganizations and best boxes at the races and ball parks.

Shudda Haddim, the well-known horse player, is registering forthright indignation at the police crusade as upsetting all standards of life in a big city. "If they lock up all guys with no visible means of support at race tracks, can racing survive?" he demanded today. "What is more important, can survive? Who will I get tips from?

"You mean to say I gotta have visible means of support to be safe playin' the ponies!" he went on. "Nobody would trust me if I carried things that far. It is the invisibility of my support, and that of my friends, that makes life at a track comfortable. What chance would I have of enjoyin' the company of top political leaders, ex-judges and some of the most glorified characters in the community if I come right out and looked like I had a job and was workin'? . . .

"For years top hoodlums and racketeers have hobnobbed with biggies at all race tracks all over the country, swapping tips in their boxes and callin' each other by their first names. On account of I have no standin' as a hoodlum I have trouble contactin' these prominent people and the only way I can get admitted to their circle is to be beyond all doubt a guy without visible support. It is sometimes hard for me to look like I was a bum in good standing when the races begin. But by half past two I am a bum all over, even to a casual eye.

"The same thing goes for baseball and football parks, night clubs, Times Square corners and testimonial dinners. The joints crawl with people with no visible support and they get choice seats at the speakers table. The minute I show signs of having visible support I can get dropped from all them places. Some of my best friends are men with invisible support. They are men of pride. Do ya think they are gonna get jobs and work for an honest livin'? AND BE BARRED EVERY PLACE?"

There were also the further decisions in the wild country where he went through his temptations. Each temptation faced Jesus with a choice; each time his choice wa; on God's side.

Life's Work

THERE is a great thrill in setting out on the work one is going to do for the rest of one's natural life. Out of the harbor traffic on to the open sea! Jesus now becomes a preacher, and this was his work for the rest of his life. His carpentry has long since mouldered to dust; his preaching and teaching are immortal.

But suppose Jesus had been a slipshod, inefficient, careless carpenter? Would he have ever become a great teacher and preacher? It is quite true, the products of his shop have vanished, but there was something taking shape in that shop which did not vanish: his character.

Your choice about your future and final life's work may still be in the future; your best work may not yet have been begun. But the way you do what you have to do, today, will help set the pattern for every choice and every work in your life.

Friendships and unimaginative. The new actors

NEXT after Jesus' life-work came his choice of friends. No doubt he had known Simon and the others before, and Mark simply records in his abrupt way the climax of a long story, in telling how Jesus "called" them.

We cannot imagine Jesus without his disciples. It is not exaggeration to say that even the on of God would have been a failure, as a man, had he won no friends. There would have been no Christian religion if Jesus had had no friends. Around New Year's time it is well
