Many Selectees Leave For Army, Others To Go Soon

TAHOKA, July 9 — (Special) — The Board cannot give the exact number, but two chartered buses are required to transfer Lynn county selectees Tuesday morning to Lubbock for checking and thence to Army camps for induction into the Armed Forces. This was by far the largest number Lynn county has furnished on any one call from selective service officials. Even at that, however, Lynn county quota was not filled, due to the decision not to take married men. Three more calls have been made by Lynn county men for the near future, however the number will be small, comparatively, in each call. These calls are on July 27 and August 21 for white registrants and a call has been made for colored registrants on July 28. It is not likely that married men will be taken on either of these calls. Clerks in the Lynn county selective service office are busy preparing occupational questionnaires for mail this week and to April registrants, the 45-65 age group. There are 1011 in this group.

Red Cross Drive Postponed

Tom Garrard, the chairman of the Lynn County Chapter, announced today upon advice from H. Davis, national chairman, that he has been advised by Mr. Davis, Chairman Garrard states, that the decision means the American Red Cross will not conduct a membership Roll Call this November. Instead will hold a combined appeal for memberships and funds for wartime needs next March.

Visitors were present from Lubbock, Tahoka and Lamesa.

Smith, aided and abetted by R. P. Weathers, reported on his visit to Toronto to the international convention. Weather's part preceded Smith talk, and turned out that he (pretending to be Smith), dolled out in new teeth which extended out about two inches, hair askew and a hat resembling something a newspaperman wears regularly, spoke of a trip that was rich in many things such as club dues, "Canadian Club" version. The skit was enjoyed.

Miss Florence Gary, talented O'Donnell singer, sang two solo numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Alice Hughes, club sweetheart, at the piano.

A revival of only ten days is being planned, and every effort will be made to make every service count for good, so the Rev. Mr. McDonald also said. A full membership attendance, combined with the attendance brought about by those members, is expected.

"During these trying times no one should fall in the greatest of all work, winning the lost to Christ, and we extend a cordial welcome and an urgent request to all to attend the revival," the pastor pointed out.

O'Donnell Man Has Wrist Burned In Accident Friday

Suffering a severe burn on his right wrist, and minor burns about his legs, W. E. Tredway narrowly escaped more serious injuries last Friday in an accident at Perryton. He has returned here to recuperate.

Tredway, who was helping with the wheat harvest, started to refill the gas tank on a tractor, the engine of which had just been killed. Some of the gas spilled on the hot engine and ignited. Tredway's gloves and clothing caught fire, and he started to run, but quickly stopped and started to beat out the flames. Other workers rushed to help him, while still others went to work to put out the fire on the tractor and combine.

Some of the wheat caught fire, but Tredway put that fire out after having divested himself of most of his clothing. Medical attention was secured in town, and Tredway went back to work Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, but the pain became more intense and he found sleep in strange surroundings impossible, hence his return here for further medical attention and proper care.

Hail Damage Two Weeks Ago $15,000

An estimated $15,000 damage from approximately 175 different claims resulted from the hail storm which fell in the O'Donnell area two weeks ago, according to insurance agents.

Considerable of the damage sustained was by farmers to crops.

TO THE VOTERS OF O'DONNELL AND OTHER COMMUNITIES:

Circumstances over which we have no control, but nevertheless finds us ready to co-operate in every way to conserve on rubber and help in our nation's war effort, prevent me making a house-to-house call for votes in my race for re-election as your sheriff, and if I should not meet you before election, please do not think you have been slighted — I have appreciated your vote and co-operation in the past and will again.

If I should not meet you personally, please consider this a sincere solicitation for your vote and influence on July 25.

You are aware of my ability as a sheriff — and my only statement to you in seeking the office again is that I'll do my best for you and all other citizens, just as I have done in the past.

THANK YOU!

New Scrap Drives, Rallies Planned Soon Over Nation

A call to extend throughout the nation for follow-up rallies and drives for scrap metal, rubber and tin is to be sounded within a short time by national, state and local government agencies, so notices to newspapers claim.

Despite the fact that scrap metals and rubber have already been collected in all localities, the Federal government heads believe much still remains to be secured, and that the need is urgent no one denies.

O'Donnell has done well in drives for both scrap metals and rubber, but, according to Bud Pugh, local buyer, still a large amount remains to be brought in. Pugh is buying regularly, and is ready to handle any amount brought to him.

Haphazard handling of these rallies and drives is not wanted by the government, which urges a "planned" co-operation which shall extend to all communities. O'Donnell is urged to call into meeting prominent citizens of the communities of Wells, Harmony, Joe Bailey, Midway, T-Bar, OK, and Hancock.

Absentee Ballots May Be Voted

Absentee ballots for the July 25 Democratic primary election are being mailed out this week by County Clerk Walter M. Mathis.

Anyone wishing to vote an absentee ballot may call at the clerk's office anytime before July 21 and vote. Written requests must be made before ballots can be mailed to voters who are out of the county.

Only four absentee ballots had been mailed Tuesday.

Joe Carroll, who is employed in San Antonio, spent the 4th here visiting his parents.

Miss Yvonne Westmoreland visited friends in Lubbock the fore part of the week.

To The Voters of Dawson County

Please allow me this opportunity to express my sincere thanks and appreciation for the happiness the citizens of this county afforded me during this term of office.

As you already know, I am asking the support of the voters in the election to the office of county superintendent subject to the Democratic Primary on July 25th. The duties here and the emergency will limit the number of persons I will be able to see but the voters will understand, for all candidates face the same handicap. The excellent foresight of the elective school boards of the various districts of the county during the last few years has brought about some desirable changes in the operation of the schools. Practically all schools are now on a bus basis. Bus transportation has been extended to include families. More schools have been accredited. The circulatory system has now been installed and is being improved every year. Many other forward steps have been taken, each for the purpose of providing more efficient educational opportunities for the boys and girls of our county. It is my intention to devote my entire energy so long as I am your elective to giving our children everything which is for their educational betterment and within our financial ability to pay for.

Again may I thank you for the many kindnesses of the past and earnestly solicit your support for the office of County Superintendent in the July Primary.

Sincerely,
J. H. Norris

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Egypt Defenders Turn on Axis Armies In Struggle for Middle East Control; Nazi Spy Ring Smashed in Canal Zone; Allies' Wheat Pool Aids Famine Areas

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

EGYPT: Defenders Hit Hard

Even as parliament by a 475 to 25 majority voted its confidence in Prime Minister Winston Churchill after a prolonged debate over the Libyan defeat, reports from Egypt revealed that British imperials, heavily reinforced from the Middle East, had struck fiercely at the flank and rear of Marshal Rommel's Axis army to counter its assault on the main British positions.

At the same time it was disclosed that United States army air force and Royal air force planes had unleashed a terrific air offensive throughout the eastern Mediterranean area. In one assault on Marshal Rommel's supply port of Bengasi, hundreds of bombers rained destruction down on ammunition dumps and equipment concentrations.

Reinforcements of both men and material had strengthened the British Egyptian position in the battles on which rested the fate of Allied power in the Mediterranean and Middle East. Crucial battle area was the 40-mile wide strip of desert lying between the impassable Quaternary salt marshes and the Mediterranean shore.

Few observers had doubted that Prime Minister Churchill's position would be sustained. Facing his critics in the most critical period since the fall of France, Churchill had admitted that Marshal Rommel's victorious drive from Libya into Egypt had placed Britain in "mortal peril."

Meanwhile on the Russian front, the Nazis had opened a new drive north of Kharkov, while hand to hand fighting in the ruins of Sevastopol, Russia's last stronghold in the Crimea, had highlighted what the Reds termed "an extremely grave situation."

SHIPBUILDING: Yanks Break Records

Hope that American shipyards would soon equal and then exceed the total sunk by Axis submarines was seen in a report issued by Vice Chairman Howard L. Vickery of the maritime commission which disclosed that 66 vessels totaling 731,900 tons deadweight had been delivered in June and that production was speeding ahead toward a level of 900,000 deadweight tons a month.

Admiral Vickery reported that 288 ships of approximately 2,544,000 deadweight tons had been delivered by American shipyards in the first six months of 1942.

SECRET SPENDING: F. D. R. Accounts

How President Roosevelt spent $239,500,000 in secret emergency funds since the war crisis became acute in June, 1940, was revealed in an accounting which the Chief Executive presented to congress.

Eighty-seven per cent of the total was allocated to the army, the navy, maritime commission and Federal Loan agency, the President said.

Large sums were spent to suppress subversive radio activities in connection with the German submarine campaign.

Important among expenditures was $52,000,000 for secret naval bases in the Western hemisphere, $12,000,000 for purchase of Australian wool for uniforms $8,000,000 for development of air, rail and highway transportation in Latin America and $36,500,000 for construction of merchant ships.

NEW NAVAL BASE: Mystery Explained

Why hundreds of American workers embarked for Northern Ireland last summer to toil on a mysterious construction project long before the United States entry into the world war, was explained when the navy department announced formal completion of a giant operating base at Londonderry, guarding the western approaches of Britain. Capt. William J. Larson, was placed in command of the strategic new post.

NAZI SPIES: Rival Fiction

In a series of dramatic moves matching the thrills of a mystery best-seller, the United States Caribbean defense command arrested 20 alleged Axis agents and broke up what was believed to be a Nazi spy ring refueling submarines and supplying them with vital information on United States shipping.

Nineteen of the enemy agents were rounded up in a trap in Belize, British Honduras. The twentieth—a trusted employee of a labor recruiting office for the Panama canal—had been seized a few days earlier in the Canal Zone. The army disclosed that the leader of the ring was George Gough, a British citizen who was a shipping executive in Belize.

Details of the seizure of the spies were disclosed by Lieut. Gen. Frank M. Andrews, chief of the Caribbean defense command.

WHEAT POOL: To Balk Famine

With famine stalking many nations and wheat surpluses taxing the storage capacities of others, an agreement of historic importance to the future of the world's bread supply became effective when five nations signed a pact creating a vast international wheat pool.

Signers of the agreement were the United States, Great Britain, Canada, Australia and Argentina. The agreement, initiated at a Washington meeting last April, created a wheat pool of not less than 100,000,000 bushels for the relief of famine in war-stricken areas. It forecast international action toward control of prices, production and export of bread grains after the war.

The United States is to provide 50,000,000 bushels of wheat or flour to the relief pool and Canada and the United Kingdom 25,000,000. These nations, with Argentina would furnish additional supplies as needed on a basis to be worked out by their respective governments.

Agriculture department officials pointed out that benefits to American wheat farmers would be of a long-term rather than immediate nature. The agreement will have no effect on the 1943 farm program calling for a planted area of not more than 55,000,000 acres of wheat and assuring farmers of parity returns.

PRICE CEILINGS: First Hole

First hole in the universal price ceiling instituted by the OPA was made when Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced that he was "compelled to take measures that will raise retail prices of the 1942 pack of canned and dried fruits by as much as 15 per cent and possibly more."

Henderson indicated that congress would be blamed for this, because of special price concessions it granted to farm products and its failure to vote government subsidies to maintain price ceilings.

Throwing down the battle gage to congress, the fiery price official issued a statement in which he said that the $75,000,000 appropriation contemplated for the OPA in a bill passed by the house, or any amount below the $161,000,000 he originally requested, would cripple his agency and mean "in short that price, rent and rationing controls are all placed in jeopardy."

Mr. Henderson termed the canned fruit price situation "inflationary" and said it constituted "a serious threat in the battle being fought to maintain stability in the cost of living."

"This is not a satisfactory solution," his statement continued: "It is inflationary. It translates into retail price increases a burden that the government might properly assume as a charge connected with the war. This burden will fall heaviest on large families, especially in the low income groups who can least afford the added expense."

U. S. Troops Survey New Post in Cairo

U. S. soldiers look over the Cairo rooftops from their new billet in the Middle East. Since this picture was taken the battle of Egypt has been raging furiously, with Field Marshal Erwin Rommel directing the Axis thrust toward Alexandria and Suez, while huge U. S. Liberator bombers struck heavily at the enemy in and behind the battle area.

They Want to Be Americans

Many of them wearing the costumes of the lands they left, these candidates for American citizenship are studying a new language at a New York evening school. Most of them have felt the iron heel of oppression and when they repeat the words, "I Am An American" they put into them a wealth of meaning and gratitude.

After Navy Planes Blasted Jap Cruiser

This is one of the first pictures of the battle of Midway island, and shows a Jap cruiser of the Magami class listing badly after being hit by bombs dropped from U. S. carrier-based navy planes. Billows of black smoke fill the air, and the deck is a mass of wreckage. Many Jap seamen lost their lives in the water when they dived overboard.

Notes of an Innocent Bystander:

The Wireless: Elmer Davis will be missed on the networks. His dry tones had a debunking magic that ruined Nazi lies with merely an inflection. . . . Radio Rome needs an editor and a rehearsal. H. Denny, the Times man, has been back writing pieces about the Italian situation for over six weeks, but the Rome short-wavers announced the other day that he is a prisoner of Italy. . . . It is comforting to notice that the fright note gets more and more apparent in the Berlin broadcasts. They had three versions of American fliers over Rumania, which is the sort of stuttering that tips off a worried mind. . . . Bing Crosby's appeal for 10 per cent of your salary for bonds was a corker. To wit: "It's not much to ask, a mere dime on a buck isn't giving till it hurts—because you can't give enough money to hurt. I mean hurt the way some guys are getting hurt. Pay your way. Pick up your share of the check. Funny thing. Freedom ain't free. But whatever you pay for it, it's worth it."

The Front Pages: The Times editorial, "Lidice The Immortal," on the murder of a Bohemian village, will live among the masterpieces inspired by the war. . . . A Christian Science Monitor columnist pointed out this oddity in the news. That the king of Greece cooled his heels in Washington while the gov't welcomed a peasant—Molotov. . . . Robert Lasch described the war policy of "The World's Greatest Waste-paper" (in Chicago): "It has endeavored to lodge the responsibility for the war with ourselves, rather than with our enemies." . . . Two local editorialists are engaged in a feud. The first reported that the Atlantic Charter was never ratified by the Senate. The other pointed out that the Senate never ratified the Declaration of Independence. . . . From the L. A. Evening Herald-Express: On the Noble sedition trial: "Noble's attorney asked the witness whether W. Winchell was mentioned at the meeting. 'It is likely,' said Ellis Jones. 'Winchell was attacking us week after week' . . . With his gents' room journalism, huh? . . . Ralph Ingersoll asked the New York Post for a message on his paper's anniversary. The Post, which is over a century old, replied: 'The first hundred years (see the N. Y. Post masthead) are the hardest.'"

Typewriter Ribbons: John Anderson: It caused such a lifting of eyebrows that some have not yet come down. . . . The N. Y. Mirror: If you can't go over—come across! . . . Jake Falstaff: Great buffalo clouds, roaming the blue sky prairie. . . . Louise R. Peattie: A man's method of packing is to strangle his clothes and bury them. . . . E. Buckler: It is good to lie in bed and let sleep's drowsy wind blow out the candles of thought. . . . R. L. Stevenson: You don't really love freedom if you're not willing to protect it against those who hate it. . . . N. F. (in a Letter to the Editor column): How come Hitler doesn't blame the Jews for Heydrich's assassination? Is it possible he doesn't want to give the Jews credit for a good deed? . . . Anon: Scared as an isolationist congressman when you mention his voting record. . . . C. E. Heller: Lucky as a mosquito on Marlene Dietrich's legs. . . . John Harrower: As primitively brutal as a sissy biting his own lip.

New Yorkers You Won't See from a Sight-Seeing Bus: Shoestring Annie—as well-known as the mayor to the Lindy Restaurant set. Always wears one shoe sans a lace and asks for a nickel to buy some. . . . Razor Phil—soft-spoken, well-dressed, who sells tickets for testimonial affairs (to himself)—a well-groomed Commodore Dutch. Carries a barber's razor in the rear of his collar for protection. . . . Ted Lewis' original Shadow—now has a bar and grill on W. 44th Street which features a juke box with only Ted Lewis recordings. Still wears a broken down high hat, a la Ted. . . . Jerusalem Jake—a Negro who wears artist's attire. Always needs coin "to get back to Jerusalem." Speaks French, English, Spanish and Yiddish fluently. . . . Morris the Dancer—which he isn't. A bookie. . . . The Owl—a giant Negro. Gets the name because he arises every 3 ayem. clocks the horses at the tracks until 8 and peddles his figures to handicappers. . . . Swifty Morgan—a necktie peddler (to celebrities only, if you please) who rides in a chauffeured limousine.

Manhattan Murals: The winding garden path that leads to a sleepy little country chapel on West 69th Street. . . . The pairs swapping good-night kisses in dimmed-out Times Square—just as though it were a front porch. . . . The topsy-turvy backstage set-up at "This Is the Army!" rehearsals. All the chorines are boys and all the stage-door Johnnies are girls. . . . The doorman at the Waldorf with his pince-nez, white mustache and uniform—more regal than all the monarchs who dwell there.

My Week by Eleanor Roosevelt

PROPER SPIRIT

This seems to me the opportune time to publish a letter which has just come, and which breathes the spirit which must be ours. It is signed by Margaret Rollo, and comes from Lanarkshire, England: "Dear Madame: "I have been given the very great honour of writing you on behalf of the Women's Rural Institute of this village to thank the women of America through you, for their most kind and thoughtful gift of vegetable seeds. I can assure you that this gift, one of so many, has touched the hearts of all the women of Britain. These seeds have been put into the ground with many kind thoughts of American women and of good wishes for all Americans who are standing shoulder to shoulder with us in this gigantic struggle. "Not many days ago, one of our loveliest old cities in the South was badly "blitzed" two nights in succession. Many people lost everything. A member of my family wrote and told me that she had been working in a rest center for 16 hours a day, helping to feed and clothe the homeless. She said: "The garments we gave out all came from America and you have no idea of the comfort and cheer they gave!" "I have seen many of those garments, for the house of one of my friends in this village is the receiving center for the upper ward of Lanarkshire. What struck me about the garments was their cheery colors and their look of warmth and comfort. Do tell the women of the United States how truly grateful we are for their help and wonderful generosity. "In this prayer we are learning what is of real and lasting value, and I pray God we may never forget. You would be amazed at the courage and cheerfulness of people who have undergone the most terrible experiences. We have one dear little woman living in Robertson, who, in March, 1941, lost everything except what is most precious—her husband and two small children. She comes down here to help us occasionally and she is like a tonic. Her parting word is always "cheerio." It is a privilege to help people with courage. We are confident of victory however long and hard the struggle may be."

FREEDOM IN EDUCATION There was a very interesting editorial in one of the metropolitan papers recently. It brought up the much-discussed question of public schools in England. These schools, which correspond to our most exclusive boarding schools, are giving consideration to changes for the future. Some of our educators, who are concerned about real freedom of opportunity in education, are also thinking about what we should do. There are colleges in this country in several of the bigger cities where tuition is free to the citizens of that city. There are state universities where tuition is free to the young people of the state. Board and lodging is still a considerable expense, however, so we have many young people who give up obtaining a college education because financially it is too much of a burden. That is why some of us have been so much interested in the National Youth administration grants to college students as well as to graduate students. I agree with the writer of the editorial that: "A democracy needs leaders, influential by talent and by character. The wider the basis of choice, the more successful the democracy will be and the more capable of resisting the vulgar 'fuehrerprinzip' which now afflicts so great a part of the world."

TRAVELING THROUGH U. S. One afternoon about 35 Hi-Y students from the Northwest came in to see what rooms are now open in the White House. I talked to them for a few minutes. These young boys are between 15 and 18 and their trip is sponsored by the Young Men's Christian association. A great many of them had earned all or part of the money which they had used for this trip. I imagine, as the war goes on, that fewer and fewer trips will be possible. Yet, I am always glad to feel that even a few young people can take back to their communities the impressions gained by seeing their country and their country's capital. It may be possible for them in the future to see a great deal more of the world, but perhaps nothing will ever be as vivid as the first impression which comes from a trip across the whole United States. There is a variety of scenery, such a variety of occupation, that I think it is impossible for any young person not to get a sense of the greatness and power of his nation. That sense is a good thing to have at the present time. It awakens a confidence both in the present and in the future.

SADDLE and RIDE By ERNEST HAYCOX W-N-U Release

THE STORY SO FAR: Clay Morgan has decided to play a lone hand against Ben Herendeen, a rancher bent on running the cattle country his own way. The two men have been enemies for years, having first fought over Clay's wife, Lila, who died hating him and believing she should have married Herendeen. Morgan is a solitary figure, devoted to his nine-year-old daughter, Janet. Although two women, Catherine Grant and Ann McGarragh, are in love with him, they know he cannot forget Lila. Of his former friends, only Hack Breathitt has not gone over to Herendeen's side. Gurd Grant, Catherine's brother, hesitated about joining Herendeen, but became Morgan's sworn enemy when he discovered that Catherine had been to his ranch. Hack Breathitt, seen camping with Pete Borders, a rustler, is being watched by Herendeen's men. Clay has learned that Government Valley, a piece of land he and Herendeen both want, is to be auctioned at Sage City, 199 miles away. Hack meanwhile fights with some of Herendeen's men. He gets away, but he is a fugitive now and knows it. Clay gets to Sage City just in time to hear Charley Hillhouse, Herendeen's foreman, bid "Eight thousand."

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER VIII

Hillhouse said again, in a steady, stubborn voice: "Eight thousand." The other three men were speculators. It was a smell. It was written on their good clothes, their white faces and their soft hands. One of these said reluctantly, "Eighty-two." "Eighty-three," said Hillhouse. Morgan said: "Ninety-three." Now the speculators looked around and moved together and one of them whispered something and shook his head. The land-office agent looked hopeful. He said: "Ninety-three's the bid." "Ninety-four," said Charley Hillhouse. Morgan said: "I didn't ride a hundred and ninety miles to play around with a piker, Charley. Eleven thousand." "Eleven is the bid," said the land-office agent. "Another bid, gentlemen?" The speculators said nothing. One of them shook his head. The land-office agent turned to Hillhouse. He said: "Another bid?" Hillhouse put his hands in his pockets, and slowly brought them out. "No," he answered, "that's all. I've got to stick to a limit, and we're past it now." "Sold at eleven thousand." Morgan stepped toward the table. "My check all right?" The land office showed an instant discouragement. "Of course not." One of the speculators laughed and Hillhouse made a half-turn. "Then my bid of ninety-three is good." Morgan reached into his pocket. "No," he said, dryly, "I just want to know. I've got the cash." Hillhouse turned from the room without further talk; the speculators slowly followed. Morgan counted out the money, in bills. He stood over the desk, propping both hands on its edge to hold himself up while the land agent took his name and address and wrote out a receipt. "You'll get a deed in the next few months." Morgan said: "When did you mail out notice of that sale?" The land agent stared at him. "About six weeks ago." Morgan folded the receipt between his fingers, creasing and re-creasing it, his head bent down. He murmured, "thanks," and left the room. He passed the speculators in the hall. Charley Hillhouse waited for him on the porch. Charley had a cigarette lit. He removed the cigarette, choosing his words very carefully; he had his eyes half closed, and stared ahead of him into the dust-yellow, sun-brightened street. "I want to tell you this, Clay. When I work for an outfit, I stick by that outfit. I'm foreman of Three Pines and long as I am Three Pines comes first." Returning from Sage City three days later Clay Morgan came through a low gap of the Burnt Hills and found somebody occupying the deserted homestead house on Salt Meadows. It was twenty-five miles from this point northwestward to his own ranch, and though the shanty was an old one he had not known of nesters being in it. Riding into the yard, Morgan gave his name. "You must be new here. Nobody's tried to make a living on this spot since Yardsley left, four years ago." The man was around thirty, long and on the lean side, with the freckled skin and dry creased lips and the gray-green eyes of a Southerner. He looked like a worker rather than one of that shiftless rattletrap breed Morgan had so often seen camping on the edge of the range. He said, "I'm Fox Willing. Been here four months." He was pretty brief with his talk, a reserved man with the mark of a short temper on him, but there was in his eyes at the moment something Morgan had often noticed in other nesters' eyes when they faced cattlemen: a half-concealed hatred, a veiled fear. A woman came to the door, young and still pretty, with pure black hair. She shaded her eyes at Morgan; he saw fear definitely on her face. It was time to eat; in fact Morgan smelled food in the air. But Willing didn't know much about range etiquette. He simply stood his ground, waiting for Morgan to speak or ride on. Morgan said: "Maybe you could put me up to dinner." Willing's answer was reluctant. "Sure, Mr. Morgan. Step down." Morgan helped himself to the boiled potatoes and canned tomatoes—and to the meat. It was fried steak and when he saw it he realized it came from one of his own cows. Willing ate with his eyes down-cast; a taciturnity close to sullenness covered him. The woman didn't touch her food. She sat with her arms in her lap, a growing strain on her face. She was about his own age and he could tell she had been through a lot of misery. Morgan appreciated the meal, but he was glad when, hat in hand, he returned to the yard. He walked toward his horse, both the Willings behind him. The shed was only a dozen paces beyond and he had the definite inclination to go over there, open the door, and have a look at the beef for himself. He knew it was there and he didn't want Willing to think Long Seven was run by a fool too blind to see the signs. He rolled up a cigarette, trying to figure out some way of telling Willing this without hurting the woman's feelings. There was a lot in her and she was pretty badly troubled at this minute. Willing was like most nesters. Cattlemen had pushed them around until they figured it wasn't any crime to steal beef when they could. He lighted his cigarette and stepped into the saddle. There was immediate relief on the nester's face and the woman's shoulders relaxed; they had braced themselves for the worst. Morgan removed his hat, smiling at the woman. "I wish both of you good luck. You'll need it." Then, with the reins half-lifted, he added: "It occurs to me that you may get pinched for grub this winter. If you do, I'll be glad to see that you get a quarter of beef occasionally. When you see any stray cattle of mine up here this winter in the snowdrifts, just drive them back. We'll consider it a fair exchange for the meat. But"—and now he looked at the blank, gray-green eyes of the man—"come to me when you want it. I do not like to think of beef being butchered and wasted on the desert."

The tension left Willing's shoulders. The woman's lips softened and her eyes grew warm. After that he crossed the yard and came down at last to the lower edge of Government Valley. Far up the flats he saw the remnant barracks of the old fort, and for a moment he paused to have a look at this land which now belonged to him. He slanted across the valley and rode up the narrow length of his older range, reaching home-quarters in the middle of the afternoon. As soon as he left the saddle old Mose gave him the latest news: Hack Breathitt had been pulled into a fight at War Pass, killing Liard Connor. Now Hack was hiding in the hills with Sheriff Nickum on his trail. "I'm going to town," decided Morgan at once, "and ought to be back around eight." Old Mose said: "The way things are now, I wouldn't skylark on the trail after dark." Morgan caught up a fresh horse and headed for War Pass, reaching there slightly before six. His first errand was to go into the post office and pay his respects to Fred Rich. "Fred," he said, "that notice of sale was posted a little late." "I took it out myself, the same day it came." "They mailed it from Sage City last month," stated Morgan. Fred Rich's face showed a whiteness suddenly around the base of his nose. "I guess it got held up somewhere," he murmured. But he met Morgan's glance only for a moment, soon looking down. He had been caught in a lie and knew it. "I guess it did," said Morgan dryly, and left the post office. He heard Rich call out, "Clay, I want no trouble with you," but he didn't turn, hating to see any man's face show that dead, cheap guilt. The bank was closed and so he climbed the hill to leave the unused part of his money with Harley Stewart and

ADAM AND EVE: TEMPTATION AND SIN

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 3:1-13, 23, 24. GOLDEN TEXT—The soul that sinneth, it shall die.—Ezekiel 18:4.

The finished creation of God was "very good," but before long it was marred by sin. Dr. Hart-Davies in his book on Genesis speaks of a brick from the walls of ancient Babylon, now in the British museum. It "bears the imprint of one of Babylon's mighty kings. Right over the center of the royal seal is deeply impressed the footprint of a 'pariah' dog which apparently trod upon it when it was soft and plastic. Human nature is like that brick. Man originally was made in the image of God, but over the divine likeness there has been superimposed the dirty disfigurement of the devil's imprint." We see first in our lesson the appearance of the serpent who is the subtle emissary of—

I. Satan (vv. 1-5).

Man, because he was made in God's image, was not a mere automaton, having no moral choice. He was a free being who had to choose between good and evil. Obedience to God is the underlying moral principle of the universe. Man was given an opportunity to obey the prohibition of one tree in the Garden of Eden. The principle of prohibition in the midst of a world of privilege thus has divine sanction. Satan provided the occasion for man's fall into sin. He came, not as the cloven-hoofed monstrosity of modern cartoonists, but as a creature more subtle than all other creation. His approach in our day is just as smooth and cultured (II Cor. 11:14).

1. Sin (v. 6).

Let us be clear that sin is not a necessity, not a natural weakness of man, not a falling upward in the progress of the race, but a deliberate choice to transgress the law of God. At once it showed its true nature by reaching out and leading another into transgression. The one who listens to a slander against God can easily begin to doubt His Word, and then it is not difficult to look at what God has forbidden. Then the desire of the flesh takes hold and disobedience follows (cf. I John 2:16).

III. Shame (vv. 7-13).

The breaking of a right relationship with God broke the perfection of man's fellowship with man. Innocence was swallowed up in a sense of shame. But the shame is far deeper than a sense of nakedness. It speaks of a heart marked with sin which makes man hide from God. Satan had promised Adam and Eve that they should know more about good and evil (v. 5), but all the good they learned about was what they had now lost, and the evil they learned was the sin which now blackened their souls and darkened their lives. And with them fell the whole human race, for Paul tells us in Romans 5:12 that "by one man sin entered the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned."

IV. Sorrow (vv. 23, 24).

Man and his help meet, who had begun with such glorious promise in the garden, now had the great sorrow of being driven out by God. No longer to be trusted, man was kept out by the cherubim, mysterious angelic beings with the awful flaming sword. Labor, which in the garden had been but a pleasant diversion, became a struggle against a thorn-infested ground. Sorrow was linked with motherhood, and man began to bear the heavy responsibilities of life (see Gen. 3:14-19).

But we must not close our lesson without pointing out that in the midst of judgment God provided mercy. The promise of man's redemption is written first in God's Book in Genesis 3:15, and from there the scarlet thread of redemptive truth runs right through the Bible to its last chapter. Even in judging the first Adam for his sin, God thus promised the coming of the second Adam who was to redeem the race. We became members of the first Adam's family by natural birth—without the privilege of choice. We become members of the family of the second Adam by a new birth—a spiritual, supernatural rebirth. But the latter is by our own choice! (I Cor. 15:21, 22, 45).

Wayside Ministering

Jesus was never bound down to the size of his audience. He was neither elated by a big crowd nor discouraged by an audience of one. In fact, some of his most wonderful teachings were given to individuals whom he met by the wayside, the woman of Samaria, Zacchaeus, Mary and Martha, the Syrophenician woman, Nicodemus, the woman taken in adultery, the blind man in the temple, are only a few of those to whom Jesus gave of his best as he passed them on the way.

NEW IDEAS For Home-makers By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

A SMARTLY flounced blanket chest with contrasting cushion is a useful addition to any bedroom. It serves as a convenient seat; and extra covers are right at hand on chilly nights. A pair of these, covered to match spreads, would go well with twin beds.

Plan the size of your chest to fill your needs and space. It may be made of one-inch pine and should be about 15 inches high without the cushion. Make the flounce with double fullness—that is, twice as long as the space it is to fill after it is gathered. The cushion may be filled with cotton padding, feathers or down.

NOTE: Book No. 8 of the series of booklets offered with these articles gives directions for floured blanket protectors and a bedside bag for books and magazines. Also many other things to make for almost nothing from odds and ends to be found in almost every home. To get a copy of Book No. 8 send your order to:

Fly Is Worst Disease Spreader

AUSTIN, July 9 — Thousands of children and adults die every year from diseases carried by the fly. Typhoid fever, tuberculosis, summer complaint, cholera, intestinal diseases, and frequently death follow closely in the trail of the common house fly.

"The control of the fly comes at the top of the list of necessary public health measures which should be applied by every city and community in the state," urged Doctor Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"The most effective measure for control is to prevent breeding," Dr. Cox said. "Flies breed in filth, and about eight days are required to complete a life cycle. During her life time of several months, one house fly lays from 600 to 1000 eggs. Thus it can easily be seen that in a season which usually begins in the spring of the year, the descendants from one fly number countless thousands.

"To eliminate flies, the breeding places must be destroyed. Manure piles, garbage, and other organic filth furnish the requirements of warmth, moisture, and food necessary for the propagation of the fly. Flies should be kept from contact with food or drink or utensils in which such food and drink are prepared and served. Likewise, they should be kept from access to privy vaults where they pick up the infections, which they later spread to humans by contact with the food and drink, and by unwashed hands and utensils.

"See that your windows, doors, and porches are screened so that the stray fly from some careless neighbor will not molest your family. See that your grocer keeps meat, vegetables and fruit screened from flies.

"Organize health measures to destroy the breeding places, control the flies' access to your home and food, and establish standards of cleanliness in your community that will eliminate the fly."

Mrs. Louis B. Reed of Lamesa was a business visitor here Monday in the interest of her husband, Judge Reed, who is a candidate for District Judge.

Miss Mary Jo Ryan of Lubbock visited in the Palmer home Sunday.

CUE TO BARBECUE

Max O. Cullen, nationally-famous barbecue expert, shows Muriel Barr, young M-G-M. starlet, how simple it is to barbecue meat. Pete Smith, producer of short subjects bearing his name, looks on as Cullen illustrates the correct method for turning a steak during the filming of "Barbee-Cues."

Backyard Barbecue Solves War's Entertainment Problem

With the entire nation seeking simpler means of entertainment because of war time requirements, the old-fashioned barbecue is rapidly growing in popularity. Backyard barbecues are becoming quite the style from California to Maine.

Old timers at this business have developed it into a fine culinary art, and in this connection Max O. Cullen, nationally known barbecue and carving expert, has brought out some new wrinkles for the handling of those old stand-bys, hamburgers and frankfurters.

Why does a frankfurter curl? Well, that's a problem that has bothered many a host, but if you're having a barbecue party and you want your franks to lie slim and straight as they nicely brown, try Cullen's little trick, as taken from the M-G-M. Pete Smith specialty, "Barbee-Cues."

First, slice the frank lengthwise down one side without cutting entirely through the casing, turn it over and slice parallel to the first slice. Then it opens up like an accordion and will not curl and fall through your grill.

Anybody can barbecue meat, Cullen points out, if they will only remember these pointers: live coals, not a flame, should be used as a source of heat—charcoal briquettes are good. Steaks and chops should run an inch or more in thickness, and need be turned only once in cooking. Surplus fat should be trimmed away so it will not drip into the coals and flame up.

If you'd like a hamburger barbecue, take another hint from Cullen's repertoire and satisfy everybody's taste. Make your hamburger into a ball and barbecue it slowly until the outside is well-done. Then, slice it into three parts and you have two well-done pieces for those who like it that way, and one rare piece—the center—for those who like their meat rare. Cullen personally guarantees that barbecue fans will go for hamburgers prepared this way.

Soil Fertility Important Now

Maintaining soil fertility while producing food and feed a record speed is a wartime duty of every Lynn County farmer, R. R. Adams, chairman, County AAA Committee, said today.

With special emphasis placed upon conservation, this year's AAA aims at approximately three times more conservation work than in any other conservation, this year's AAA program aims at approximately 3 times more $64,045 to invest in soils compared to $177,400 in 1942.

"This year our nation's farmers will produce enough meat to pave 7 four-lane superhighways from New York to San Francisco . . . one inch thick, and if we expect to exceed those figures and other goals for 1943 we must invest all the time and money we possibly can in our soils this year," the chairman said.

Under 10 years of the AAA program, Lynn County farmers have increased yields and restored soil fertility through conservation practices and the entire allowance for the county is expected to be earned this year. Stored up soil fertility also will pay off in food and feed in this year's war program.

"Conservation work carried out for the past 10 years, is just like so many war bonds bought before Pearl Harbor," the chairman said. He ex-

Body Issues Daniel Challenge

O'DONNELL, July 9—Former Governor Moody, candidate for the U. S. Senate, today challenged his opponent, Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel to fill out a "questionnaire."

"You can call this an 'occupation-questionnaire,'" Moody said, "because if the junior senator fails to answer these questions on his official record his occupation will be revealed from a U. S. Senator back floor salesman."

Moody, a veteran prosecuting attorney who is an old hand at digging up potent questions, asked:

Why did O'Daniel vote to disband trained army just four months after Pearl Harbor? Is he an isolationist like the Wheelers and Nyes? Is he a would-be obstructionist to President Roosevelt's war program? Why did he claim he alone averted strikes in defense industries with threats against labor when the Congressional Record reveals that he failed to get more than four votes on any proposal?

"Why did he vote against the waiving of special gasoline rationing privileges for Senators? Does he think congressmen are better people than anyone else? Does he think elected officials are a privileged class in this country?"

"Why was he absent from his post of duty when the 'pensions for congressmen' bill was voted upon? Did he favor pensions for himself and other congressmen but lack the courage to cast his vote?"

"What is his attitude on the war? What are his plans to help win the war and restore world peace?"

"Does he think that our national attitude should become one of isolationism after the war is won? What part does he think this nation should take in making certain that our little children — yours and mine — will not have to fight another war 25 years from now or forever?"

"A few months ago he said there would not be any war. Now he says he is sure it is almost ended. Is this another cunning effort on his part to avoid a fact-finding dissection of his official record as an obstructionist of our war effort?"

"Does he think a man should hold one office and run for another? He once said it should be a felony for an office holder to seek another elective job without resigning, yet he declined

DAN MOODY

UNDEFEATED — Dan Moody has set his sights on winning the U. S. Senate seat and his supporters point out that the red-headed, hard-campaigning attorney has yet to lose a race.

As governor, Moody gave outstanding aid to the State's public schools. The textbook law was amended and the expense of free textbooks was materially reduced. Rural schools qualifying for rural aid were for the first time given full six-month terms, and money was appropriated for vocational training of under-privileged children.

In 1935 at the personal request of President Roosevelt, Moody went to New Orleans and successfully prosecuted a member of the Louisiana political ring for income tax evasion.

Born in Taylor, Moody was educated in the public schools of that county and the University of Texas. He enlisted in the Army during the first World War and was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry.

"If elected to the U. S. Senate," Moody declares, "I will support all measures which will contribute to our winning the war. I will oppose any influence which will imperil our chances of winning the war or delay victory."

Moody declined to resign as governor when he first ran for the senate.

O'Daniel says he authored the anti-violence law in Texas, yet the Texas Senate Journal and other records show that his bill was rejected as unconstitutional and that Sen. John Lee Smith's bill was adopted.

Why does O'Daniel claim credit for the measure really written and sponsored by Sen. Smith? Is this a dishonest attempt to deceive the people and gain credit for another man's achievement?

Does Sen. O'Daniel contend that the only reason Texas labor is cooperating in the war effort is because it is forced to do so by his anti-violence bill?

Does he deny the patriotism of Texas laboring men?

"He says he is opposed to strikes and tells you the State of Mississippi has adopted an anti-strike law. Is Senator O'Daniel representing that state, Texas, Kansas, Louisiana, or just W. Lee O'Daniel?"

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Use a whisk broom, kept for the purpose, and hot water to sprinkle the clothes. They will be more evenly dampened than when sprinkled by hand.

When ironing no matter what the article, the important thing is to iron it until absolutely dry.

Apply several coats of boiled linseed oil to the soles of your shoes and let dry thoroughly to conserve them.

Equal amounts of coffee and heated milk, sweetened to taste, make an appetizing drink.

Old army and National Guard cloth-covered canteens, which may be purchased at army and navy stores, may be used in place of rubber hot-water bottles.

If you perspire too freely, throw a handful of salt into your bath water.

Tiny pearl onions make tempting garnishes for vegetable salads or canapés.

A most welcome gift to any pipe-smoker or roll-your-own fan now in our armed forces is a pound of his favorite tobacco. Numerous surveys have shown that tobacco is the No. 1 gift on the service man's list. A favorite with many of our soldiers, sailors, marines, and Coast Guardsmen is Prince Albert, the largest-selling smoking tobacco in the world. If you have a friend or relative in the Army, Navy, Marines, or Coast Guard who smokes a pipe or roll-his-own, send a pound can of Prince Albert. Your local dealer is featuring the National Joy Smoke as an ideal gift for service men.—Adv.

DOAN'S PILLS

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's helps the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Cool, Ice-Tinkling Drinks Ward Off Summer Fatigue (See Recipes Below.)

Sugar-Saving Drinks

When the thermometer's perched on the highest rung of the temperature ladder, do you feel your spirits sagging, your energy running low? Yes, the warm weather begins to take its toll just about the time you feel you need push and drive most. But, make a comeback, quickly and easily with a healthful, fruit-juicy drink served in a tall, colorful frosty glass.

An attractively served drink will perk up your spirits more quickly than you can say "Jack Spratt!" Plan to freeze some of those fragrant mint leaves and those few odd berries left over from the shortcake, with water in the ice cube trays for their make a pretty drink. Or, if you like colored ice cubes that prevent your summer beverage from taking on a watery taste, freeze fruit juices diluted with water into ice cubes. You'll like this.

There's a lot more to be said for cool drinks other than their general nice appearance. Besides providing your system with the vitamin C, in excellent quantity, and A and B in good quantity, the citrus fruits, oranges and lemons, act as alkalisers for the system. This acts as insurance against fatigue, which is a big thing in warmer weather.

Milk and ice cream are perfect ingredients with fruit juices for cooling drinks. Not only do they contain most of the requisites for a well-balanced diet, but they are easy to take and lend themselves in pleasant combination with other foods.

Your biggest problem with summer drinks will come in trying to save sugar. But don't let this stump you, for you can use fruit juices that have natural sugars, honey as a sweetener, and milk and ice cream, which need very little or no other sweetening at all.

Try fruit powders, too, using 1 level tablespoon of the fruit powder with 3 teaspoons of honey to 1 glass of water or milk. Fill the glass with shimmering ice chips and you have an excellent thirst quencher in a wink.

Fruit juices used with ice cream and honey are kind to the sugar ration:

- *Orange Cooler. (Makes 1½ quarts)
2 cups orange juice
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup maraschino cherry juice
1 cup ginger ale
2 tablespoons honey

Lynn Says:

The Score Card: Definite news has reached me on the spice situation, so now you home-makers can see exactly what is available in this line.

There's enough to go around freely of: cayenne, red pepper, mustard, chili powder, dill seeds, oregano, paprika, curry, cake spice, mixed pickling spice, celery seed, onion and garlic salt and powder, bay leaves, marjoram, cardamon, anise and black pepper.

Careful use is indicated for these spices: cinnamon, mace, allspice, white pepper, cloves, nutmeg and ginger.

Canning rubbers, lids, jars, etc. are available in sufficient quantity for this season's produce. An extra ration of sugar for canners will be allowed, amounting to five pounds per person for the year.

There's a possibility that coffee, tea, and cocoa may come in for rationing. Homemakers are also advised to save and conserve—all fats, grease and oil. If you cannot use the fat at home, keep it well preserved in a cool place to prevent its becoming rancid, then bring to your butcher.

SUMMER REFRESHMENTS

- I.
*Chocolate Crunch
*Orange Cooler
- II.
*Honey Chocolate Nut Cookies
*Root Beer Flip
*Recipes Given

- 1 pint vanilla ice cream
2 tablespoons sliced maraschino cherries

Mix fruit juices and ginger ale; add honey; mix well. Chill thoroughly. Add ice cream and stir until blended. Serve in chilled glasses topped with cherry slices.

Orange Ginger Ale Punch. (Serves 12 to 15)

- 1 quart orange ice
2 quarts ginger ale
Orange slices
Maraschino cherries with stems
Sprigs of mint leaves

Place orange ice in punch bowl and pour in ginger ale. Garnish with orange slices attractively cut and floated in punch. Add cherries and mint sprigs.

Milk drinks make cool, tempting refreshments, and are just the thing for afternoon or evening snacks:

Orange Quench. (Serves 1)

- ¾ cup milk
¼ cup orange juice
1 teaspoon sugar

Combine ingredients and beat until thoroughly blended. Serve chilled.

*Root Beer Flip. (Serves 1)

- ½ cup root beer
½ cup milk
1 serving vanilla ice cream

Pour root beer and milk into a tall glass. Add ice cream and serve immediately.

Maple Cooler. (Serves 1)

- 2 tablespoons maple syrup
¼ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup milk
Few grains salt

Combine ingredients and beat one minute. Top with whipped cream, if desired.

You will be driving around less these summer evenings for your breath of fresh air, but you will probably spend more time on your back porch, having the neighbors drop in and serving them simple drinks and a few sugar-saving cookies for the in-between-meal snack. You'll enjoy both of these recipes:

- *Honey Chocolate Nut Cookies.
½ cup butter
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
2 eggs, well beaten
½ cup honey
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup sifted flour
½ cup chopped nuts

Melt butter and chocolate over hot water and stir until blended. Combine eggs, sugar, honey and salt in bowl. Add flour which has been sifted once before measuring. Mix thoroughly, add chocolate mixture and beat until smooth. Add nuts. Drop from spoonfuls on greased baking sheet, and bake in a slow (300-degree) oven 15 minutes. Remove from sheet immediately. The cookies taste better when mellowed, so pack in a tight container between layers of waxed paper.

*Chocolate Crunch.

- ½ pound semi-sweet or sweet milk chocolate
1 cup oven-popped rice cereal
- Melt chocolate over hot water. Add cereal and stir until blended. Pack into a pan lined with waxed paper. Allow to set until chocolate hardens, then cut into squares.

It Took a Woman to Solve This Intricate Code

A piece of paper covered with mystic figures and signs had been discovered on the floor of the aircraft factory.

It had been seen to fall from the handbag of a girl worker who had received it from a strange woman at the works entrance. Experts had been called in to decipher the apparent code, but all failed.

Finally the manager took it home to study it further. There his wife chanced to see it, and she quickly supplied the solution.

"Why, John," she exclaimed in animation, "wherever did you get this from? It's a knitting system for a perfectly lovely sweater!"

Waiting His Time

"You love your girl, don't you?"
"Of course I do."
"Yet you mean to say you caught this fellow making love to her and you stand for it?"
"Well—er—yes. You see—"
"Why didn't you give him the hiding of his life?"
"I'm just waiting. Waiting, that's all."
"Waiting? What for?"
"Till I catch her with a smaller fellow."

And That Fast

"My dad takes things apart to see why they don't go."
"So what?"
"You'd better go."

How to Make Your Iron Last Longer *

Electric irons, like many other household appliances are out of production due to the war. You'll want to take good care of the one you have so that it will last for the duration.

Keep the iron cord plugged in tightly, for a loose plug makes the contact points corrode and lessens the efficiency of your iron. If your iron is the non-automatic type, be careful not to let it get too hot and be sure to disconnect it if left unused more than a few minutes.

 If your electric iron doesn't work properly, take it to an electric shop for repairs. You may be able to save money and you'll also be cooperating in the program to conserve metal.

GOVERNOR STEVENSON HOPES FOR NEW FREEDOM

AUSTIN, July 9—To the list of freedoms for which this nation is fighting a cruel war, Coke Stevenson, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, expressed the hope that another freedom would be added—that of the right of public officials and candidates for public office to be free from personal abuse, vilification and slander during political campaigns.

"The Atlantic Charter of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill gave new emphasis to the desire in the hearts of men everywhere for spiritual, intellectual, political and economic freedom," Governor Stevenson commented. "We are now engaged in a grueling contest to where for spiritual, intellectual, political can be attained.

"Some day in the enlightenment of human conscience another objective will be added to freedom's list, the right of public officials and candidates to be free from personal abuse, vilification and slander."

Asserting that the character of a determine whether these objectives man is his most precious asset, Governor Stevenson stated that "slander is the foulest whelp of sin. The man in whom this spirit enters is undone."

"It is apparent that the weapon of slander has been used by men who had no merit of their own in an attempt to destroy those who do have character and ability," Stevenson stated. "The tongue of slander has frequently been a convenient implement with which to spread the cancerous slime of falsehood and stain the reputation of an honest man. It is unfortunate that such sentiments exist in the human breast."

In one of his few political addresses of the current campaign, Stevenson pointed out that George Washington was slanderously assaulted by ambitious persons who wanted to displace him as commander-in-chief. They succeeded and placed Gates in command and forced Washington to take orders from him. However, when Gates took the field he was overwhelmingly defeated in battle and history records he was found 80 miles away and still retreating.
