TIDBITS By H. V. O

SAM, SAM, oh Sam, what would you do today? Our Namesake Sam Houston was removed from the governor's office 144 years ago when he refused to declare loyalty to the Confederacy. The Texas secession convention in March, 1861, removed him. You may remember that he was the strongest advocate for joining the Union after Texas won its independence. Just before the Ordinance of Secession was passed, Gov. Sam said in a speech in Galveston:

"Let me tell you what is coming. You may after the sacrifice of countless millions of treasures and hundreds of thousands of precious lives, win Southern independence, but I doubt it. The North is determined to preserve this Union. They are not a fiery impulsive people as you are, for they live in colder climates. But when they begin to move in a given direction, they move with the steady momentum and perseverance of a mighty avalanche." Could he also, perhaps without knowing it, be foretelling the conditions of this era?

Nationally, the big turmoil of today is Social Security, and therein could lie a dispute of catastrophic dimensions. Barbara Boxer, the California Democrat, says the Right Wing of the Republican Party is "determined after 61 years to dismantle and eliminate the Social Security system," and therein could lie a dispute of catastrophic dimensions. What devastation that might bring.

Considering that the Democratic Party is generally considered more social supportive, and protective of those in need and less fortunate, we probably can expect a tussle to the bitter end of this matter. The Liberals hold that the privatization proposals will only benefit the "already wealthy individuals and corporations" and wreck havoc on those who need and deserve help more.

The Social Security system was implemented by a Democratic administration and like it or not, it kept a lot of families' heads above water during lean times. Many argue that it wasn't intended as a guaranteed retirement plan, but a stop-gap assistance effort. Whatever.

A man we know is convinced that Republicans today think the way they do because their father or grandfather had a job during the big depression.

And that's just one of the traumas that face the nation today.

MEANWHILE in Austin, the Legislature is in session: BEWARE! It's anybody's guess as to how funding for education and taxation to support it will finally shake out. The eternal optimists just hope for the best—and even that, may not be none to good. It seems ordained that local property tax will be cut from $1.50 a hundred, to $1.00; that crimps the local school districts. To make up the difference, supposedly, the state will probably raise the sales tax, initial the first "income tax in Texas history" and heaven only knows what other schemes to send money to Austin. AND, THEN, according to theory, the additional state collected money will be routed down to the school districts to make up their short-fall. (Does this sound somewhat like a thing that the Democrats sprung a few years ago nationally called "Revenue Sharing.") Some good could come out of this meringue: the State franchise tax (an "income tax" in fact, based on earnings, assets, etc., which has been imposed on many companies for years) could be eliminated; but be offset by even more ominous manifestations.

Why is it that so often now days, our leaders give the general impression: "My way or the highway?"

We're depending on our State Rep. Jim Keffer, Rep. Harvey Hilderbran, and State Senator Troy Fraser to lead the way to make sure that ALL votes of consequence (public interpretations) be recorded for a change. After that, we'd like to see them join in leading the effort to maintain and increase funding in Texas to the MH/MR and other mental health programs. To do so, would make them heroes in the eyes of the world. Texas could lead the nation.

If this tirade hasn't ruined your day and sent you to the medicine cabinet for headache and stomach relief potions, we'll drop in some good news:

According to his daughter Mary, well-known countian Gordon Clark is recovering satisfactorily from recent serious injuries in an automobile accident and will enter into an active rehabilitation program in Dallas soon. He has been in a Fort Worth hospital for several weeks where he has undergone extensive surgery and treatment. Mr. Clark is best known for his salty and pithy letters to the editor in this and other publications on many, many subjects including his opinions of the Texas penal system. (We hesitate to mention this, but he was always proud to let it be known that in his wallet he had cards certifying that he was legally blind, as well as a driver's license and a permit issued by the FBI that he could legally carry a weapon.) He is a friend to many, and one of the most interesting individuals. We wish him to every.

14th Annual Spring Swing Is May 14th

West Texas Catclaw Chapter of the American Business Women's Association (ABWA) proudly announces the 14th Annual Spring Swing women's golf tournament sponsored in part by Lawrence Hall Abilene. The tournament is a four-woman scramble to be held on May 12, 2005 at the Maxwell Municipal Golf Course, Abilene, Texas. All proceeds raised are awarded in scholarships to local young women to help them fulfill their educational goals.

The "Spring Swing" has grown from 44 entrants in the first year increasing to 136 with women coming from San Antonio, Waco, Dallas, Fort Worth, San Angelo, Midland and Odessa. The tournament has become the largest ladies golf tournament in Texas west of Fort Worth and people keep coming back because they have so much fun.

Our Chapter can be described in three words: friendship, leadership, and scholarship. ABWA offers an opportunity to discover and extend friendship to a diverse group of women. Leadership positions offer the opportunity to practice skills and develop self-confidence. Leadership and teamwork are the backbone of an ABWA chapter and of putting together a successful golf tournament.

ABWA is a national network of women dedicated to helping each other reach new heights in their careers. ABWA is all about support, about reaching out to each other, giving a hand, learn.

CAPITOL COMMENT

U.S. SENATOR
KAY BAILEY HUTCHISON

America's Social Security system is headed for trouble, two trains rumbling toward a collision. One train rumbles on tracks laid down by financial promises made when this New Deal-era program was established. The second travels on a path set by long-term demographic trends. To avoid the wreck, we need to change the courses of the trains, and the time to do it is long before the conductors on these trains can see each other.

Without significant changes, the question is not whether this accident will happen, but when. The demographic trends pushing us toward disaster are simple: birthrates are going down while people are living longer. This was not a problem in 1935 when President Franklin D. Roosevelt founded the Social Security program. With an average life expectancy of 64, only 54 percent of workers were expected to live long enough to collect their checks. Today, the U.S. Census reports the average life expectancy is 77.2 years and increasing. The Department of Health and Human Services reports that by 2050, American men will live an average of 79.7 years and women will live even longer.

These trends will be amplified when 76 million Baby Boomers hit retirement age. Born between 1946 and 1964, they will begin retiring in 2008, and threaten to swamp the Social Security system.

For many years, there was no problem with Social Security, because the abundance of workers paid far more into the program than it provided to retirees. The excess money was placed in something called the "Social Security Trust Fund."

Unfortunately, by law, the Trust Fund is required to save the excess payments in U.S. Treasury bonds which are, for lack of a better word, "IOUs" from taxpayers. The money itself has been spent. This means the minute the Social Security system takes less in from workers than it pays to retirees, it will have to draw on those bonds, which will have to be made good by taxpayers. This shortfall is predicted to begin as early as 2018.

Inaction is out of the question. According to the Heritage Foundation, if Congress does nothing to reform the system, Social Security will need general fund infusions to make up the difference in tax revenues and benefit payments amounting to $72 billion in 2020, $275 billion in 2030, $429 billion in 2050 and $719 billion in 2070. The long-term projections of Social Security's financial health will continue to worsen because, with each passing year, a surplus year passes and a deficit year is added in the calculation.

Compounding this problem was the fact that changes in Social Security also weakened the financial health of the system. Originally, initial benefits at the time of retirement were linked to inflation, but in the 1970s they were pegged to the rise in wages, which tend to go up faster than prices. Coupled with demography and the impending retirement of the Baby Boomers, the Social Security system is headed for a disaster.

Numerous proposals to save Social Security are on the table, and I look forward to talking with my fellow Texans and working with my colleagues to craft policy changes which will honor present commitments, while providing a permanent solution.

While we may not agree on what the best options are at this point, it is unacceptable to pretend there is no problem. The financial future of Social Security is determined not only by demographic trends; it is affected by the promises made when the program was established. We have a window of opportunity to remake the program so the promises made today will be fulfilled tomorrow without mortgaging the future of our children and grandchildren.

Disney's 'Heffalump' To Show At Majestic

It has been some time since a Walt Disney animated picture has showed at the Majestic Theater in Eastland. But here is a new one - a delightful picture called "Heffalump."

Pooh's Heffalump Movie also introduces a new character to the world of Pooh and friends - Lumpy the Heffalump, a sweet, innocent, roly-poly creature with a playful spirit.

The Heffalump movie will open at the Majestic on Friday, March 11, and show nightly at 7:30 through Monday, March 14. Admission will be $4 at the box office, with balcony seats available to adults for $5.50.

The picture is rated G for general admission.

This movie introduces the voice talent of Kyle Stanger as Lumpy. Jim Cummings voices Winnie the Pooh and Tigger, with John Fiedler as Piglet, Nikita Hopkins as Roo, Kath Soucie as Kanga, Ken Sansom as Rabbit, and Brenda Blethyn introduced as Mama Heffalump.

The Hundred Acre Wood Crew is together again in this movie. This is the third original Pooh feature ever created for the big screen, and follows "The Tigger Movie" in 2001 and 2003's "Piglet's Big Movie." In this new adventure, something mysterious is haunting Hundred Acre Wood. Winnie the Pooh, Tigger, Piglet and Rabbit think their beloved home is being invaded. They think some terrifying creatures they have never seen, called Heffalumps, are creeping in from this place called Heffalump Hollow that joins the Hundred Acre Woods.

So followed by little Roo, the heroes invade Heffalump Hollow to try to take away the Heffalumps.

Little Roo yearns to go along, but the adults won't let him because he's too young. So to prove himself, Roo decides he is going to go off on his own and capture a Heffalump.

On their mission, however, the gang discovers, thanks to Roo, that the intruder was a quite likable young Heffalump named Lumpy. And in the process they learn how to accept others' differences, and also the value of true friendship.

As in other Disney pictures, the music is an important part of this film. Original music is featured, composed by Carly Simon - and sometimes performed by her. Other musicians have also contributed.

One number features young music students from Brooklyn, New York, and also students from Santa Monica, California.

Children - and also adults - will want to see this new picture while it is showing at the Majestic.

Unforgettable Characters That I Have Known

By J.B. Johnston
Carbon, TX.

Having been raised in a small East Texas town we had our share of town characters. Most were older than me and now have gone on to their just reward. Jim was one of the most outgoing of the bunch. The story was that he had gone to school the first day of first grade and didn't like it so never went back. I do not know that he could not read or write but that he was not intelligent. In fact he was a good heavy equipment operator when sober. You see, Jim had an alcoholic father and as they say, the chips didn't fall far from the stump.

On summer weekends us kids would gather at the football field to play touch football and Jim would often join us. Some of these kids were in their 20's but Jim was always the most athletic of the bunch. Due to his size, strength and speed I feel certain that he could have made it in the pros if given the chance. He could throw or kick a football further than anyone that I ever knew and was stronger and faster than anyone in town.

Texas Power and Light Co. had a power plant where he lived and since the town was unincorporated they furnished us with a fire truck. This was a 30's something Ford truck that when loaded with water could probably run 30 or 40 miles per hour down hill. Jim lived on the corner where the truck turned out from the TP&L property and when the siren would blow, signaling a fire, he would be waiting for it. As the truck sped down the road toward the fire Jim would run alongside encouraging the driver to speed up. When the truck reached the hill by the school Jim would already be at the top waving for it to come on.

If happiness is success then Jim was the most successful person that I have ever known. As far as I know he never held a steady job but worked on various construction jobs from time to time. Most of his money was spent on cigarettes and whiskey and as the saying goes the rest he wasted. No matter whether drunk or sober Jim was happy. He probably had more friends than the most influential people in town. Jim gave his life to the Lord once down at the First Baptist Church. As far as I could see it didn't change him much. But I'll be the Lord understands.

'Giants', 'Visions' On Exhibit At Breck Arts Center

The Breckenridge Fine Arts Center is currently exhibiting "Texas Giants" in the Main Gallery at 207 N. Breckenridge Ave. through March 31st. This exhibition features the enormous metal sculpture by Marc Rankin of Strawn. Marc's love for welding mixed with an endless supply of junkyard "finds" produced this show of gigantic proportions. Marc is quoted in his Artist Statement saying, "I guess because everything is BIG in Texas, I thought my sculptures should be big." What resulted, were the creations of Texas road runners and armadillos as big as school buses, grasshoppers as big as pick-ups, and daddy long-leg spiders the size of a small oak tree. This exhibit also features a 12-foot tall dragon never before seen by his following of loyal fans and collectors. Marc has displayed at Six Flags Over Texas and holds Guinness® Records for sizes of his creations.

Also showing at the East Gallery, is a photography exhibit from photographers Michael Fiore and Mark Moody of Wichita Falls and Tommy Edwards of Graham. This exhibit entitled "Captured Visions", will be on display through April 30.

In a diverse selection of photos, this show provides the viewer with 3 different views of life, structures, and events in Texas and the surrounding areas. Black & White Photographer, Michael Fiore's work includes photos of architecture and scenery sometimes using infrared technology, sometimes a Sepiatoned technique, but always offering a creative peak into these missions and landmarks. Mark Moody offers to the show his perspective of beautiful mountains, creeks, and old Southwestern scenery with his color photographs. Rich, vibrant colors flow out of his shots of what he experienced while backpacking through many locations from Tennessee to Arizona. Tommy Edwards also captures his emotions in color with his submissions to the show. Since his retirement from the electricity business, he has had many opportunities to photograph everything from flowers and plantlife, to portraits, to sunsets, to events that relive life in Texas.

Hours at the Breckenridge Arts Center are Tuesday-Friday, 10 a.m.-5 p.m. and Saturday, 10 a.m.-3 p.m. For more information please call us at 254-559-6602 or e-mail: info@breckenridgefineart.org, or visit us on the web: www.breckenridgefineart.org.

MONEY SAVING IDEAS
Get Serious About Saving Money
 (NAPS)—Does the thought of trying to save money set your teeth on edge? Does your mind immediately launch in to defensive chatter? Americans for Financial Security, an association dedicated to helping its members aspire, focus and succeed in a competitive economy, offers these tips to help you get started:
 • Become a cheapskate. Talk to friends and relatives who actually seem to be able to save money.
 • Seek information and inspiration. Do Internet searches using the terms "living cheaply" or "frugal living."
 • Use direct deposit. If you don't have it in your hands, you're less likely to spend it.
 • Make up games. Every time you get a $5 bill back in change, keep it instead of spending it.
 • Whenever you get unexpected or "extra" money (your tax return for instance), stash it.
 • Look for deals but don't buy unnecessary items.
 • Throw out the catalogs: they only entice you to buy.
 Use the free online calculators at www.afswebsite.org to help you with your savings plan.
