Primitive Baptists Plan All-Day Meet Here Next Sunday

Primitive Baptists will hold their regular monthly meeting on Sunday, May 19, at 11 a. m., so Tyne W. Smith, pastor, has announced.

Dinner will be served where the services are being held and services resumed at 2:30 p. m.

All persons are invited to attend and to see whether the services are held on Bible principals, so the Rev. Mr. Smith says.

Meetings are being held in the American Legion building.

Victory Gardens Are Being Planted

An increase in the number of gardens to be planted within the O'Donnell area is to be noted this year, and much of the increase is due to the Victory Garden drive wherein national leaders have urged that more food be grown and tinned food saved for others.

VERNON D. ADCOCK, COUNTY JUDGE OF DAWSON, TO ENTER ARMY TUESDAY

Vernon D. Adcock, county judge of Dawson County, has been ordered by the Army to report in Fort Bliss Tuesday for his induction into the officers' training corps, so he said Thursday while in O'Donnell on a business trip.

Adcock is serving his first term as county judge, and had announced for a second term. In his announcement, he informed the voters he intended entering the armed services and suggested, that if again elected, the commissioners court could appoint a capable citizen to discharge the duties of the office while he was in the service of Uncle Sam.

Revival services will begin at the Church of the Nazarene on April 23 with the Rev. Mrs. Pearl Keaton, former pastor here for six years, in charge of the preaching.

Services will be held twice daily, at 11 a. m. and 8:30 p. m. and will continue through May 3.

The public is invited to attend and take part, so the pastor, the Rev. B. W. Taylor, announces.

HELEN JEAN HOFFMAN HONOREE FOR PARTY

Mrs. Charles N. Hoffman entertained a group of children this week at a party for her young daughter, Helen Jean, whose fourth birthday anniversary was April 14th.

Out-of-door games were enjoyed and moving pictures were made of the group.

After the birthday gifts were opened, the young guests sang "Happy Birthday."

The guests were served ice cream and cake at one large table. The centerpiece was the beautifully decorated cake with four candles. Candy suckers were favors.

The guests present were Jamie Gay Hunt, Cynthia Rae Forgy, Barbara Ruth Oates, Nancy Gayle Everett, Barbara Harris, James Newell Hughes, and Eddie and J. Mack Noble III.

MOVED

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Bursleson Jr. are now living in the Line home north of the High School building.

Miss Aline Line has gone to California to live with her brothers.

SEW AND CHATTER CLUB

Mrs. Roy Miles was hostess to members of the sewing club at her home north of the city last Thursday.

Guests who enjoyed the afternoon of sewing were Mesdames Line, Liddell, Fritz, Tredway, Frazier, and Minton.

Mrs. Line will be hostess April 23.

Judge J. Ross Bell Announces For Chief Justice, Civil Appeals

Announcement of his candidacy for chief justice of the Court of Civil Appeals, 7th supreme judicial district, was made through the Press today by Judge J. Ross Bell of Childress, who was in O'Donnell Thursday meeting with the voters in a short visit.

The 7th district comprises 46 counties, and for those seeking the justiceship, a hardship will be entailed in trying to meet all voters.

Judge Bell has been a practicing attorney for years. He served his district attorneyship duties "back in Knox County" under the judgeship of the late Jo A. P. Dickson, the "grand old man of Seymour." This service of district attorney was for the old 50th judicial district comprising Baylor, Knox, Cottle, King, Dickens and Motley Counties.

Judge Bell expects to make a return visit to O'Donnell and speak to the voters. Until that time, he asks the voters to consider his candidacy and to pass as to his fitness and ability to preside over such an important public office.

ONLY A SMALL WANT-AD. BUT POWERFUL ENOUGH TO SELL LARGE WINDMILL

"Kill that want-ad about the windmill... I've had at least 40 persons asking about it," said B. M. Haymes, who also serves you with insurance.

Others get results with Press want ads. The cost is small.

If you have something you don't want, and think someone else might want it, try a want-ad.

ACE-HI CLUB

Mrs. Billy Perkins entertained Ace-Hi Bridge Club members in the home of Mrs. D. M. Conger Wednesday.

High score prize was won by Mrs. Marcus Neeley, low by Mrs. T. T. Garrard and bingo by Mrs. James Applewhite, all were given defense stamps.

A refreshment course was served to Mesdames Oates, Howard, and Koeninger and the above mentioned.

Next week the club will observe their fourth anniversary with a luncheon at the Lubbock Hotel with former members present.

GRAVE-SIDE RITES HELD FOR INFANT

Funeral rites were held at the graveside in the city cemetery Friday April 20th for Barbara Gwen, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Hill.

Death of the infant occurred on the day of its birth, April 9th, in a Lamesa hospital.

The funeral service was conducted by Alvis Bryan, of the Church of Christ.

Pall bearers were Stansell Jones, J. G. Bennett and Roy Gibson. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Hill of this city and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Arend of Littlefield.

JOLLY DOZEN CLUB

Mrs. F. G. Wheeler entertained members of the Jolly Dozen Sewing Club at her lovely country home recently.

For the diversion of the afternoon, guests enjoyed sewing and conversation.

At the tea hour, a delectable refreshment plate was served.

Present were Mesdames Blocker, Middleton, Yandell, Burns, Carroll, Howard, Earles, Koeninger, and the hostess.

On April 21, Mrs. John Earles will be hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Street have returned from Austin where they visited their daughter, Mrs. Johnnie Billingsley, Mr. Billingsley and sons.

"I'm An American" Day Middle of May O'Donnell To Stage

Tentative plans for the sponsoring of an "I'm An American" Day have been discussed here in conjunction with the nation-wide observance for which President Roosevelt issued a proclamation a few days ago.

Views expressed suggest that the American Legion, Defense Guard, Rotary Club, Women's Study Club, Parent-Teachers Association and schools and city administration join efforts to bring about a worthwhile demonstration.

Other suggestions which have been made involve the securing of a ble speaker, formation of a musical program to include solos, duos, and quartettes and patriotic readings. All soldiers who might be in O'Donnell at that time would be honored and honor paid to those who have already met the nation's foes in battle.

The President's proclamation was issued for Sunday, May 18, but some here believe it would be better to hold the program on Monday, May 18th.

H. L. CATHEY ASSUMES CHARGE OF LAUNDRY

Management of the Herman Laundry was assumed during the last week by H. L. Cathey, and his intention is to give first class service to every one.

No introduction of Cathey to the people of this section is necessary, but to those who do not know him, it can be said he'll do his best to serve, and he invites your patronage.

Keep 'Em Reading.

Long Expected Defeat on Bataan Cited as Heaviest Single Reverse; Labor Leaders Present Solid Front To Keep Production at High Peak

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Chiefs of the A.F.L. and C.I.O., appearing together on a public platform for the first time since the split in labor's ranks in 1936. William Green, left, president of the A.F.L., and Philip Murray, president of the C.I.O., are shown shaking hands, symbolizing the national labor unity which they hope to create. Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, looks on.

BATAAN:

The Curtain Falls

When the gallant stand of American and Filipino forces came to an end on Bataan, the nation recorded the heaviest reversal ever suffered by an American force in a single engagement with a foreign foe.

News of the fall of Bataan was made blacker still when Secretary of War Stimson disclosed that 36,563 valiant defenders, exhausted by short rations, disease and lack of relief, were overwhelmed by a numerically superior enemy. The closing chapter of the Bataan battle found the defenders lacking in air power, and completely battered by ever-increasing waves of fresh, well-equipped enemy troops and planes.

Stimson declined to estimate the number of Jap troops employed in the final drive against Lieut. Gen. Wainwright's men. It had been estimated that approximately 220,000 Japs were used in the Philippine campaign.

The story of the last-ditch stand on Luzon island is one of the most heroic in history.

On December 7, Jap bombers first struck at Luzon. Air assaults were followed in the first few weeks by Jap troop landings at five locations in the Islands. Pushing on Manila from north and south, they drove the greatly outnumbered defenders back, bombing Manila after it had been declared an open city. The Japs entered Cavite naval base and Manila on January 2. American and Filipino troops withdrew toward Bataan, beginning their history-making stand. Ten days later the Japanese launched a heavy frontal attack on the Bataan defenders, but were repulsed. For weeks the battle surged back and forth.

Early in March Lieut. Gen. Masaharu Homma, the Japanese commander, committed suicide as a result of his failure to crush MacArthur. He was succeeded by Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita. A few days later MacArthur was ordered to Australia and was replaced by Wainwright.

March was comparatively quiet, and attacks on March 28 and April 2 were repulsed. On April 4 the Japs began the all-out drive.

Although it was a stunning defeat, one military correspondent declared that the defense of Bataan has meant "prodigious butchery in Japanese lives," severe air and naval losses to the Japs. It also retarded the advance to Australia until that commonwealth was able to better equip itself for war.

BURMA:

No Side-Issue

More and more observers were inclined to believe the Burmese campaign of the Japanese to be a major one, and not just a side-issue with Australia the main target.

Whether it was resistance of American airmen and navy men, or whether it was the heavy rainfall, things had been much quieter off Australia, while picking up speed in the more western Pacific areas.

The British had been forced to back-pedal again in Burma, drawing ever closer to their Chinese allies under American General Stilwell in the north. That they were leaving important territory was revealed by the prospect that they had destroyed oil and cement properties before withdrawing.

The British troops were described as being outnumbered 3 to 1 on the ground and 10 to 1 in the air.

The evacuation of Rangoon, followed by the British withdrawal up the Irawaddy river were believed to have cleared the way for a drive by the Japs toward Akyab and Calcutta, along the eastern shore of the Bay of Bengal.

Few believed the Japanese had the manpower to attempt a real invasion of India, but certain it was that they were heading that way more powerfully than they were moving into Australia.

LABOR:

United Front

The A.F.L. and C.I.O. leaders, for the first time since 1936, had gotten together on the same platform at Pittsburgh, had pledged themselves to an unselfish and complete war effort, and to produce all the things America needed for victory.

This united front was presented at the time when labor was on the spot because of the effort in the congress to force the administration to abandon the 40 hour week.

President Roosevelt had considerably clarified the issue when he came out with a new plan, which let the hat sit on its proper spot. To prevent the proposed 48 hour week from being used as a wage-cutting plan, he asked labor to consider a freezing of wages at present levels on the basis of a 48 hour week (which would give workers their overtime for the duration) but to withdraw their demands for double time for Sundays and holidays.

One of the C.I.O. groups, the United Automobile Workers, at the same moment had foregone the extra pay except when these days constitute a sixth or seventh working day, which was a partial meeting of the President's idea.

The congress, it was thought, might be willing to go along with this plan, and certainly labor would have no objection, particularly if it carried what Mr. Roosevelt hinted it would, a formal recognition of the 40-hour principal.

The President's plan was to have labor recognize the need of 48 hours of work, to have all workers carry on for 40 hours at regular pay, permit labor to work one more day at a time and a half, but not to permit the seventh day under any circumstances.

William Green, labor leader of the A.F.L., said labor was in accord with this plan.

RUSSIANS:

Air Victories

Claiming more than 400 German planes shot down on the east front in the period of a little more than a week, the Russians had given figures indicating that the Nazi spring drive in the air was well under way, but that the British and American planes, added to the Russians' own, were taking a terrific toll.

The British R.A.F. had been co-operating on the other side of the front by bombing German supply industries, and at the same time had estimated that their bombing attacks, carried out by from 300 to 400 big planes at a time, had destroyed the supplies for five divisions.

The Russians, despite the setting in of the spring thaw, which had immobilized both sides to a greater or less degree, were still on the offensive, with Berlin admitting now and then that the Russians had broken through at several points.

The Red air force's biggest bag of planes had run to more than 100 on a single day—in fact on two days they had claimed 221.

Some of the heaviest aerial activity had been over the port of Murmansk, on one day 200 planes of the Russians and the Germans having engaged in dogfights over the harbor, while below them American and British supplies were being unloaded.

NEW DEAL:

The New Deal, despite some opposition here and there, notably in the fields of taxation, profits and labor, was winning victories.

Particularly sweet to the White House was the result of the fight over a senate effort to set a schedule for profits on war contracts.

Many holders of contracts were returning some excess profits, and arrangements had been made to tax them out of most of such money, whether paid to employees as bonuses or not.

Uncle Sam's Singers Guard Panama Canal

These are the first pictures to show the maneuvers of the patrol-torpedo (PT) fleet that is guarding the Panama canal with the co-operation of the army and air forces. In picture at left Charles Kiefer keeps a light rein on a .50 caliber anti-aircraft gun aboard the command boat of the mosquito fleet. Upper right: A gunner vigilantly scans sea and sky for the approach of enemy forces. Below: The fast traveling 77-footers of the navy skim through the sea looking for trouble.

Horse Finds Place in U. S. War Effort

The horse is not yet "through," as far as war is concerned, his value having been demonstrated this winter on the Russian front. These pictures show two phases of cavalry action in a day's training of the cavalry soldiers stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas. Above, the horse artillery is awaiting the command to move forward to their gun positions. Below, men are demonstrating the speed at which they ride their horses.

All Ready to Dynamite Bridge and Japs

This photograph was taken somewhere in the embattled Philippine Islands. It shows Filipino soldiers who are determined to see that the bridge is completely destroyed, if necessary. The soldier in the foreground is distributing sticks of dynamite to be placed all over the bridge to play havoc with Jap troops, if and when they come.

'Landing Field'

At one of the tire company plants a huge hydraulic device has been installed which simulates the actual speed and pressure of a landing airplane. Here a pair of airplane "boots" is being tested.

Danny's Great-Great-Grandparents

My Week by Eleanor Roosevelt

GIFT FROM CHINA I am tremendously interested in the modern embroidery brought to me by Mr. and Mrs. Owen Lattimore. They have now sent me the letter which accompanied this embroidery, which is a gift from Madame Chiang Kai-shek. The letter is so full of confidence and hope for the future that I want to share it with you and, therefore, quote it here.

Headquarters of the Generalissimo of China Chungking, Szechuan 12 January, 1942

Dear Mrs. Roosevelt: These eight immortals gladly stepped out of their frame on a Chungking wall to fly to you. I hope you will bid them welcome and find a place for them in your home. They wish to assure you, as they have assured me many times during these years of bloodshed and suffering, that the world of war and war is but a passing thing, however necessary it may be, for over the edge of the horizon lies a path leading to universal harmony and world brotherhood.

With all good wishes, Yours sincerely, Mayling Soong Chiang (Madame Chiang Kai-shek)

NEWS ANALYSIS

I wonder whether PM is becoming to you as interesting a paper as I find it. There is barely a day when some article in it is not worth reading from beginning to end. Long ago Mr. Louis Howe told me that a good newspaper man put into the first paragraph of his story all the essential news because so few people ever read more than the first paragraph. Since the great majority of people never read anything but the headlines, I have always thought of what a terrible responsibility the headline writers carry.

I always read at least the first and last paragraphs of anything which seems to me a really important story. But it is only now and then that one finds something which holds one's attention from first to last—not only because it is well written, but because it is on a subject of vital interest at the present time.

VISIT AT WELLESLEY

I enjoyed my short time at Wellesley very much. It has a beautiful campus and Miss McAfee's home there is charming inside. The view is what impresses one most. Miss McAfee is one of the people with whom one would like to spend more time than a brief visit permits.

I caught the night train back to New York city very easily and ran into a group of sailors in the station who kept me signing autographs, while I waited at the ticket window to collect my accommodations.

Back in New York city I spent the morning visiting the Naval hospital and two friends who have been ill. After an early lunch, Miss Thompson and I came up to Hyde Park. There are few signs of spring as yet, but it was good to take a walk through the woods in the late afternoon and to have a quiet afternoon before the fire. Today is a beautiful day and we shall not have to start back to New York city until after lunch.

DAY IN THE COUNTRY

One morning, in Hyde Park, the day dawned gloriously; a blue sky and cold, crisp weather. I went out to discuss the best place for a garden with the man who does the outside work. We are going to plant extra things for ourselves and for preserving purposes and winter use, as well as some things which we can contribute, if necessary, to the school lunch program, should their supplies from surplus commodities be reduced this coming year.

I found considerable concern about how we are going to manage on the place with only one station wagon, which I have told them to use only once a week for going to town. I suggested mildly that I thought it was time we made the rounds of our neighbors and start some kind of a co-operative arrangement for buying supplies and, since I was not at Hyde Park often enough, I would leave it to them to get together.

It seems to me that this is really an essential first step in realizing that we are fighting a war.

Somehow or other, when I walked through the woods and as I sat in front of my fire, I realized for the first time how easy it would be to forget what is happening in the outside world, if one were not tied to it by strings of affection, or just left the radio turned off.

MEETING A 'STRANGER'

I have read Mr. Raymond Clapper's article in Liberty about "Mrs. Roosevelt." It is so interesting to get to know a stranger. There are a few slight errors in fact, but psychologically, I am sure he is right—I made him dance because of my childhood repressions. I hope when he returns from India he will come and tell us of his impressions. There will be no newspaper dance this year, for like all other entertainments which are purely for pleasure, it will be given up.

HERE'S HOW CERESAN BOOSTS COTTON PROFIT!

Hiding on cottonseed are many crop enemies—disease organisms that impair stands, reduce yields and quality, cut cotton income! But easy, economical seed treatment with CERESAN kills many of these organisms! Temple, Texas, reports tests in which "germination was doubled... seedling diseases greatly reduced." CERESAN treatment generally reduces seed rotting, sore-shin and certain other seed-borne diseases; commonly gives stronger, more uniform stands at a saving in seed; usually increases yields, often as much as 10 to 25%. Inexpensive; easy to use. Get it now and treat your own seed, or buy seed marked with the Ceresan Certificate Tag.

SHE LOVED A SPY

by SYLVIA TAYLOR

THE STORY SO FAR: Joan Leland is trapped, when her employer, Karl Miller, with whom she is in love, shoots his business partner, Eric Strom. He asks her to pick up the gun, then threatens to accuse her of the murder unless she continues her work and remains silent. She is horrified when he confesses to her that he is a German spy and has a wife in Germany. Warned against Karl by her sister, Sybil, and Karl's manager, Paul Sherman, Joan had blindly defended the man she felt in love with. Paul reveals that he is really Paul O'Malley, an FBI agent trying to trap the Nazi spy ring. Sybil is missing and Paul believes Karl is holding her as a hostage. Karl dines with a beautiful young girl hired as a singer, in reality Paul's young run-away sister, Patricia, who innocently betrays Paul's identity. Joan and Paul discover a secret foreign radio transmitter belonging to Karl, with bomber plans, but are captured by Karl, who imprisons them on a boat. They announce their love to each other and meet Thomas, another victim of Karl's. Paul succeeds in altering the bomber plans, then decides to try and get a radio message through the ship's set.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER XV

It was less than half an hour later when Thomas returned saying, "Come on deck. It's here!" They followed him to the rail. The misty rain and gray sky and sea made it difficult to focus their vision but Joan suddenly saw the periscope of a submarine rising slowly from the water.

"There it is! I see it!"
"Yes. That is it," Paul said quietly.
Karl appeared from the captain's quarters. They could see him descending the narrow flight of stairs. He was dressed in uniform and called sharp commands to three sailors who stood at the rail preparing to lower a small boat.

"Is Karl going to the submarine?" Joan asked.
"Probably they will come to the ship," Paul said speculatively.
"Yes, that's right," Thomas put in, nodding his head. "I've seen them do it before. Karl gives them the papers and they're gone again."
"You don't think Karl has found out that you changed those plans?" Joan said nervously.

"He doesn't seem to."
Men appeared from the hold of the ship. All stood at attention as the hatch of the submarine opened and two officers appeared. As Thomas had predicted, the boat carried them to the ship and they all went to the pilot house.

"What will they do now?" Joan asked.
"Get the papers and go back."
"And all those plans will be safe?"
"Yes. Not only plans for bombing planes, but formulas for explosives and poison gas. This spy ring has connections in every part of our country. It's a powerful organization and the leader's the one we want. Getting Karl alone wouldn't do any good. If he were in jail the rest of his life, it wouldn't stop the rest of them."

"How terrible!" Joan shuddered. "That isn't the worst of it," Paul went on. "They intimidate people to have relatives in Germany, threatening to harm them unless money and aid is given. Many people are drawn into it this way."
"Yes!" Thomas cried. "That's what happened to me. Karl told me my wife would be put into a concentration camp if I didn't give him five thousand dollars. She was ill in Germany, you see, so I tried to raise the money but I couldn't. Karl offered to put it up for me. I would come on this ship. But I never heard from my wife since."
"We may as well go inside," Paul said. "Apparently this conference is going to take some time."
"I don't like the look of it," Thomas insisted. "Usually they're here only a few minutes."
"Do you really think anything is going to happen?" Joan asked anxiously as she and Paul went into the lounge.

"It doesn't look too good," Paul admitted. "Be ready for anything, you want your purse, you'd better get it now. We may be off before another hour passes." Automatically Joan went into her cabin and gathered up her things. She seemed fantastic that they could escape from a boat in mid-ocean. "All set?" Paul said as she stood patiently before him.
"Ready for anything!" Joan said wearily.

But almost an hour passed and nothing happened. The ship rested peacefully by the side of the submarine. The rain continued. Thomas watched from the deck. Paul smoked endless cigarettes as he paced the length of the cabin. "I like this delay," he admitted. "Things aren't going as I had planned."
Thomas came into the cabin where Joan and Paul waited, with tea and a glass. "There must be something wrong," he whispered. "Karl must have found out about those plans." Paul frowned but said, "Not necessarily."
But if he has, what then? How can we ever escape?" Joan put in. "Thomas poured the tea and his hand trembled. "He'll know I helped him, remembering Eric Strom, he filled with a vague terror. Her hand instinctively touched the gun in her coat pocket.

She had scarcely uttered the words when Karl Miller's powerful figure loomed in the doorway. He held a pistol.

"Karl won't kill anyone," Paul said, calmly lighting a cigarette.
Joan had already noticed that Paul had the faculty of inspiring trust. Thomas seemed to be relieved by his assurance, vague and indefinite though it was. Joan, too, felt some inner faith, some conviction that Paul could master any situation.

It was a little after seven when Thomas motioned them to come outside. Karl and the officers were on the lower deck.

They watched as the officers descended the rope ladder and were rowed back to the submarine. In the darkness it was hard to distinguish them. It was like some evil mirage, as their vague shapes disappeared down the hatch, then slowly the submarine submerged.

"It's the most terrible thing I've ever seen," Joan said, moving closer to Paul. "It's symbolic of all the hidden terror in the world today."
"And it's my job to do all I can to stop it," said Paul.
"You'll never stop Karl and his kind. There are too many of them," Thomas said sadly. "It would take years."
"We'll stop them all right, no matter how long it takes, and every little bit helps. If we can get to the bottom of this unit, it will frighten the others. Every man in the FBI is working day and night tracking down these people. We'll catch up with every one of them eventually."

Joan's heart was full of pride in his words.
Paul caught her glance and smiled. She was clutching her purse and gloves, ready to depart, as he had said, "at a moment's notice."
"We're not going to get out of this as soon as I thought," he told her now as they went back into the lounge. "May as well sit down and relax."
"Not me," Thomas insisted. "I'm going to stay on deck. If Karl does come, I don't want to make things look any worse than they already are."

"Odd that Karl trusts you here with us," Paul meditated.
"He trusts me," Thomas declared, "because he knows I'm afraid of him."
But though neither Joan nor Paul would admit it, both thought that Karl was too clever to overlook the possibility that Thomas might aid Karl's prisoners. Had he deliberately planned it this way?

"Drink your tea, dear," Paul advised. "This may be the last food we'll have for quite a while."
They smiled, sending each other a message of courage.
The ship lay quietly. They had not moved since the arrival of the submarine.

Thomas stood patiently outside. The rain on his slicker glistened in the darkness.
"I think he's more worried than we are," Paul commented.
Thomas' shuffling footsteps came suddenly to their ears; also a hard tread ascending the stairs.
"It's Karl!" Joan whispered.

She had scarcely uttered the words when Karl Miller's powerful figure loomed in the doorway. He held a pistol.
Paul and Joan faced him silently. Behind his back Joan saw the terrified eyes of Thomas.

"You amaze me, Mr. O'Malley," Karl said coolly. "A man in the government service should be more clever than you have been."
"Meaning what?" Paul inquired with assumed indifference.
"Do you really think me so stupid?" Karl smiled. "Do you think I would hand over important papers without checking them first?"
"Sorry to disrupt your little plan. You could see for yourself that they are quite worthless now."
"Quite," Karl said coolly. "But I feel that your government would have preferred to lose the plans and have you alive."
"No!" Joan screamed, sensing his meaning.

"Shut up! I will deal with you later. Perhaps you will learn that death is preferable to some things."
"If you imagine that I am afraid to die, you are wrong," Paul said calmly. "To die for a purpose like this could almost be called a pleasure."

Joan wondered how he could talk like that at a time like this, but Karl had a faint glimmer of approval in his cold eyes. "I admire your courage, Mr. O'Malley. Too bad that you fight on the wrong side. If you had joined with me, we might have gone far together." His hand raised the pistol, his finger was pressed against the trigger.

Joan saw Thomas motion to her and she knew instantly what she must do. She snatched the gun from her pocket and fired it directly at Karl Miller. With an expression of complete incredulity, he crumpled to the floor.

The gun fell from Joan's hand as she stared with unseeing eyes before her. "I've killed him," she whispered.
Paul's arm was about her. "Don't think about it. We're getting out of here."
Thomas took a timid step forward. "It served him right," he declared with satisfaction.
"Where did she get that gun?" Paul demanded.
"I gave it to her."
"I've killed him," Joan repeated.

Paul motioned to Thomas and together they helped her from the cabin. Outside—complete darkness, a slight wind and the misty rain.
"Do you think you can get those papers from the safe?" Paul asked Thomas. "I'll wait here with Joan."
Thomas looked fearfully over his shoulder.
"There's nothing to be afraid of now," Paul said. "Go quickly before the others find out what has happened."

Paul and Joan waited under the narrow ledge of canvas. Large drops of rain splattered down on the deck. Joan clung to Paul's arm unable to speak. "It won't be long now, honey," he said. "Try to bear up just a little while longer."
Thomas returned almost instantly with the papers and handed them to Paul. "I didn't see anyone," he reported. "This all seems too easy."
"Never mind that," Paul said. "Do you think we can lower a boat?"
"Sure. But we'll have to go down to the boat deck and one of them will see us. They all know what's what. They'd shoot us down like Karl would have. We haven't a chance of getting off this boat."
"There's no time to argue," Paul insisted. "I know what I'm doing. Now let's go."

As they descended the stairs there was no one in sight. The boat used to take the officers back to the submarine was still in the water.
"What luck!" Thomas said.
"Not luck," Paul replied. "It's there for a purpose. You go down first and I'll help Joan."
Thomas disappeared over the side.

"Do you think you can make it, honey?" Paul asked Joan, looking anxiously into her white face. "I'll go first and you follow me."
Tremulously Joan obeyed. The ladder swayed with her weight and the rope scraped her hands as she grasped it fiercely. Step by step she went down until at last she felt Paul's arms lifting her to safety.
Thomas loosened the rope that held them to the ship. "This won't work, Mr. O'Malley. They'll shoot us like dogs. We haven't a chance."
But he was wrong. They rowed away unmolested. The ship was like a ghost; not one of the crew was in sight. Later fatigue held her prisoner and with her head buried in her arms she fell into a deep sleep.

When she awoke it was to brilliant sunshine streaming from a blue cloudless sky. Her muscles were stiff and cramped.
Paul watched her, smiling. "Feel better?"
She sat up and stretched her aching back. "I don't know how I could have slept like that."
"If you want the truth," Paul grinned, "I put a sleeping powder in your tea late yesterday afternoon. I figured on something like this."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

BY HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for April 19

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

GROWING TENSION WITH FALSE LEADERS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 11:37-48. 52-54.
GOLDEN TEXT—He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth.—Luke 11:23.

Opposition to Christ and to Christian teaching has come down through the centuries practically unchanged. Hence, we find in Christ's dealings with the enemies of His day helpful indication of what may be done in our time.

It is sad to note that the chief opposition came from those who professed to be religious leaders. It is expected that the world, the flesh, and the devil should fight God's truth, but one might expect better of those who profess His name. The difficulty is that there is only profession, with no real life.

I. Hypocrisy Unmasked (vv. 37-44)

The Pharisees professed great interest in the observance of religious laws, but their concern was for the outward appearance, while God judges the heart. First we note a false profession of cleanliness. Christ came to the Pharisees' table with clean hands, but He had not observed all their ceremonial washings. When rebuked He struck home with terrific force at the heart of the whole matter (v. 39); namely, that inward filthiness of heart which often makes folk meticulous about outward cleansing. This leads to a substitution of technical observance of the letter of the law that ignores love and judgment (v. 42), which are so precious to God. There can be a dead, dry, and technical orthodoxy which entirely misses the point.

But worst of all is the covering up of spiritual death (v. 44). Sometimes we speak of those who are "dead and don't know it," and that may actually be true spiritually. There may be death within and yet a brave and sometimes self-deluding outward show of life.

II. Theological Deadness Condemned (vv. 45-52)

The lawyers of that day were those learned in the Mosaic law, hence were really the teachers of theology and ethics. They came under the rebuke of Christ as He pronounced three "woes" upon them.

First, they were guilty of heaping upon others burdensome requirements which they did not themselves keep, and which they did not help the people to keep. There are such teachers today who set up standards they do not themselves observe, a sort of signpost pointing the right way, while they are not themselves going that way. Then there are those who present high ethical standards without the spiritual dynamic needed to live up to them. To tell a man to be good without telling him of the Saviour who can make him good is mockery.

Then, those of Christ's day were condemned for hating God's witnesses. They were willing to build sepulchers for the dead prophets (killed by their fathers), but were not willing to hear the living prophets. The very ones who hate and hinder those who are preaching God's Word, speak and sing smoothly of the faith of our fathers, and claim as their own the witnesses of a past day.

Christ also pointed out that while professing to interpret the law they obscured its meaning. They threw away the key to knowledge so that neither they nor their people could learn—and yet they continued to teach. Have not the false teachers of our day done likewise? They deny the integrity and authority of the only infallible Word—the Bible; they reject the deity of our Saviour, Christ, and yet they talk about being Christians and preachers of the truth. Wee be unto them in the day of God's judgment and wrath!

III. Enmity Intensified (vv. 53, 54)

The scribes and Pharisees had two approaches: they sought vehemently to provoke Him to overspeak, and they craftily laid in wait for Him. The writer of these notes has seen both methods at work in our day. Liberals, or modernists as they are called, profess for the most part to be a suave courtesy which makes them speak smoothly and gently about the conservative and orthodox believer or teacher; but if one only has eyes to see, there is often the strong and cruel hand of iron hidden under the velvet glove.

Whatever may be the approach, be assured of this—every effort to reveal false teaching in its true light, or to deal with hypocrisy in spiritual things will bring intensified opposition. Christ took it—we too can take it in His name and for His sake.

Praise the Lord
I will greatly praise the Lord with my mouth; yea, I will praise Him among the multitude. For he shall stand at the right hand of the poor, to save him from those who condemn his soul.—Psalms 109:30-31.

Cool and Decorative—Salad-Muffin Luncheon
(See Recipes Below)

Spring Luncheons

As spring spreads its fragrance and gaiety once more across the days, do your moods turn to thoughts of exquisite, gracious luncheons? Yes, to be sure, they do. You get lovely visions of picture-plate luncheons, crispy green salads, tiny, moist sandwiches, the tinkle of china on cool, crisply laundered cloths, centerpieces of delicate flowers.

But this year's luncheons are different from last year's. The plates are pictures to behold, true, but the menus are kind to purse strings and food shortages.

A bowl of colorful greens, curly endive, crisp lettuce, tossed together with grapefruit and orange sections with red slivers of strawberries are perfect with these muffins and all you would want for luncheon:

*Molasses Nut Muffins.
(Makes 24 small or 18 large)
3 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg
1 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup chopped Brazil nuts
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup pure, dark molasses

*Chicken Salad.
(Serves 8)
2 cups diced, cooked chicken
1 cup finely chopped celery
1 cup halved, seeded grapes
1/2 cup toasted pecans
1/2 cup mayonnaise

*Fruit Salad.
(Serves 8)
4 thick slices grapefruit
4 thick slices oranges
4 slices pineapple
8 whole apricots
1 small package cream cheese

Pare oranges and grapefruit. Cut into slices. Cut pineapple, oranges and grapefruit slices into halves. Arrange in a fan shape on curly endive or lettuce. Stuff apricots with cream cheese and place at lower edge of the fan.

This Week's Menu

Guest Luncheon
Assorted Salad Plate:
*Chicken Salad
*Fruit Salad
*Egg Salad in Tomato Cups
*Molasses-Nut Muffins or *Cheese Rings
Coffee or Tea
*Recipes Given.

*Egg Salad in Tomato Cups.
(Serves 4)
4 medium sized tomatoes
1 package cream cheese
1 tablespoon finely chopped green onion
2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
1/2 medium sized cucumber, chopped
3 hard cooked eggs, chopped
1/4 cup mayonnaise

Wash tomatoes, peel. Slice off top, and scoop out the center. Toss the other ingredients lightly together and fill the tomato cups. Chill well and serve on lettuce.

All three of the salads given can be served on one individual platter. Arrange them attractively, a scoop of the chicken salad, a fan of fruit salad, and then the tomato cups. Your platter is complete for a luncheon and a very pretty sight to behold! A hot muffin to accompany and a fragrant cup of tea or coffee completes the luncheon.

On the other hand, if you prefer salad bowls which the guests will serve themselves, here are ideas:

Greens: chunks of lettuce, watercress, sliced green onions, radishes.

Oranges: Use sections on a bed of curly endive or curly garden lettuce, with raspberries or strawberries for color.

Vegetables: Cooked green beans in lengthwise slices, carrots, raw or cooked, in slivers, cooked limas, chopped ham.

Fruits: Beds of lettuce, lengthwise slices of bananas, berries in season, cheese balls dipped in chopped nuts.

Dressing makes an important addition to salad, and many times this is left to your own preference.

Piquant French Dressing.
1/2 cup salad
1/4 cup vinegar
1/4 cup chili sauce
1/4 cup pure, dark molasses
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon onion, grated

Mix all ingredients together and beat thoroughly.

When you invite your friends over for salad and rolls for these luncheons, this may seem like so little, but it's guaranteed to make a hit if you do the little details right. Have the salads crisp and cool and well blended. If having rolls, these should be piping hot for contrast. If you don't feel inspired to make rolls, then do other things like getting ready-made rolls and pretty them up:

Toasted Long Rolls: Split, butter and sprinkle with grated cheese. Pop into the oven until cheese melts. Serve hot.

Cheese Rings: Use day-old bread and cut rings with a doughnut cutter. Brush with butter or salad oil, dip in cheese, and bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven until golden brown.

Orange Biscuits: Add grated rind of orange to a baking powder biscuit recipe. Roll and cut. Dip a cube of sugar in orange juice and press into top of each biscuit. Bake in a hot oven 12 to 15 minutes.

Lynn Chambers will be happy to give you advice on your luncheon or salad problems. Write to her at Western Newspaper Union, 210 South Desplains Street, Chicago, Illinois. Please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for the kindness and helpfulness with which they so generously favored us upon the death of our darling baby daughter, Barbara Gwen. —Mr. and Mrs. Addie Hill.

THE AMERICAN WAY

By Lloyd McDaniel

We Americans believe in the American way.

We love our right to do according to the dictates of our own mind; To live our lives from day to day in the realms of our own ability; knowing the full meaning of the blind leading the blind.

In our belief, we stand impregnable and firm

Against the impetuous imposters who would dare to involve us in their evil code.

Time nor cost matters now, and no terms

Short of immortal peace, should be our aim to lift the load.

Miss Jennie V. DeBusk visited in Lamesa this week with Miss Mima Eggers.

Mrs. Roy D. Smith and Mrs. C. R. McCarter visited in San Angelo Sunday and accompanied Dorothy Smith home.

Mr. and Mrs. Major Rodgers and Charles of Levelland and Mrs. Morris Sanderson and three children visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Doak Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Palmer returned Monday from Albuquerque where they had visited the William Rossiters.

Mrs. Fred Henderson and Billy Bob and Mrs. Guy Bradley were in Lamesa Saturday.

Mrs. Buryley Brewer visited Mrs. E. T. Wells in a Lubbock hospital Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Middleton Jr. and young daughter have moved to their new home west of the city.

Mrs. Lois Coston of Gall visited her sister, Mrs. Carl Reavis, and other relatives here Saturday.

Miss Claire Ruth Nichols and Miss Toylee McClinton of Lamesa visited in Lubbock Sunday.

Miss Corene Proctor, who attends a Beautician School in Fort Worth, spent the week end visiting relatives and friends here.
