Forecast for 1942: From Jay Franklin's column in Richmond, Va. "Walter Winchell will cease to write about Cafe Society because it won't exist."

There are many examples of clever headline-writing. We think this is one of the best: When John Masfield arrived here from England where he was poet laureate, he refused to grant newspaper men an interview.

Impending Menace of Allied Invasion Postpones German Spring Offensive; Army Adds New Draft Classification; Hero of Philippines Stages Repeat Role

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

JITTERS:

Hit Japs, Nazis

Both Japan and Nazi Germany were reported to be suffering bad attacks of the jitters, the former because of air raid expectations in a country badly equipped to withstand them.

Reports had reached Norwegian circles in London that several divisions of new troops had been rushed to Norway.

As to the Japs, they were said to be having air raid alarms constantly, even when no enemy planes were in sight.

Believing the American ships which raided the Jap mainland had come from Eastern China, Japanese planes had lashed out at various towns there which might have harbored American bombers.

Unquestionably the raids upon Nipponese cities were a serious blow to Japanese morale.

The worriment believed to be suffered by Hitler over possible invasion thrusts was such, London had said, to have caused a practical abandonment of any offensive in Libya or the Mediterranean front.

It was possible, they had declared, that the German spring offensive might be forced to be a spring defensive, and that the offensive might be postponed until summer if put on at all.

Many believed that if Hitler was to win the war at all, it must be in 1942, and that the practical abandonment of a grand-scale offensive on all fronts at once was really a confession of defeat.

GOP:

Comity, Co-operation

Following their Chicago convention, the Republicans had gone back to their homes somewhat surprised to find themselves with a platform of internationalism, to find that they had abandoned isolationism and that this program was written and put over by Willkie, an ex-Democrat.

However, they went back resolved to try their utmost to win a few elections this year, and some of the leaders were frank in saying they hoped for new life for the party from the change of heart.

The national committee chairman Joseph W. Martin Jr. said: "The Republican party may well be proud of its accomplishment. It was a great day for the party when the Willkie resolution was adopted."

Some observers had felt during the battle against it that Mr. Martin wasn't so pleased as he expressed himself afterward. But in the main the GOP was confident and lively about it all.

The big paragraph in the platform was number three, which read: "We realize that after this war the responsibility of the nation will not be circumscribed within the territorial limits of the United States, that our nation has an obligation to assist in the bringing about of an understanding, comity and co-operation among the nations of the world in order that our own liberty may be preserved and that the blighting and destructive processes of war may not again be forced upon us and upon the free and peace-loving peoples of the earth."

Outside of this, the party pledged itself chiefly to an attempt to hold down non-war expenditures.

MARTIN AND WILKIE "A great day for the party."

Neutral sources had reported in Sweden the effect of the Royal Air force's non-stop blitz in the form of day and night bombings on one important German port, the city of Luebeck on the Baltic.

Swedes returning to Sweden from this port described it as blown to atoms. They said the people of Luebeck had told of "torpedo bombs" landing in the city, and literally flattening whole blocks of buildings.

Scarcely one stone was left on another, they had reported. One big shipping firm had written to a Swedish correspondent on a plain piece of paper, saying their company's building and docks had been totally destroyed. Not even a letterhead remained intact.

Seamen returning to Stockholm reported to newsmen that very little, if any of the port installations were left, and that the destruction in the town itself was "beyond description."

DRAFT:

Has New Class

Instead of classifying men as either physically fit or unfit for military service along certain rigid standards, the army had worked out a new class, men who, if certain defects were corrected, would be marked fit for duty.

This was a new designation under the Class I-A group. It will be called "Suspended I-A."

In it will go men who have been declared unfit for dental reasons because of nasal obstructions, hernias which can be repaired, or stomach troubles correctible by dieting.

The new draft rules also called for men to be sent to hospitals for three-day periods if there was real doubt about their physical ability. There more detailed study could be made, and perhaps some minor repair work done.

Once these men have been corrected physically, they will be subject to re-examination by the army medical staffs, and if marked O.K. would be taken out of the suspended list and put in full Class I-A.

BULKELEY:

Hero Repeats

Not often is it in the cards for a hero to stage a return engagement on the field of valor, but this has happened for Lieut. John D. Bulkeley and his squadron of motor torpedo boats operating in the waters of the Philippines.

In January Bulkeley's men had daringly entered Subic bay and had sunk a 5,000-ton enemy warship. They returned the following day and did it again.

This time Bulkeley's squadron had darted by night in between a flotilla of destroyers and discharged their lethal torpedoes at a Japanese light cruiser, which had been reported badly damaged and probably sunk.

In this later foray he had had the misfortune to lose two of his boats, the PT 34 and the PT 35. The former was forced ashore on the island of Cebu and the crew presumably made prisoner. The other was destroyed when trapped in the harbor of Cebu to prevent its falling into enemy hands.

Bulkeley, already holder of the Navy Cross, was in line for more honors. At the very time the report came through, from his home in New York came word that he was the father of a baby son, a brother for the Bulkeley's 18-month-old daughter Joan.

LUEBECK:

Blown to Atoms

Neutral sources had reported in Sweden the effect of the Royal Air force's non-stop blitz in the form of day and night bombings on one important German port, the city of Luebeck on the Baltic.

Swedes returning to Sweden from this port described it as blown to atoms. They said the people of Luebeck had told of "torpedo bombs" landing in the city, and literally flattening whole blocks of buildings.

Scarcely one stone was left on another, they had reported. One big shipping firm had written to a Swedish correspondent on a plain piece of paper, saying their company's building and docks had been totally destroyed. Not even a letterhead remained intact.

Seamen returning to Stockholm reported to newsmen that very little, if any of the port installations were left, and that the destruction in the town itself was "beyond description."

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

New York: The first of the so-called Cinderella Fleet had been commissioned, and went out on the Atlantic looking for U-boats. The boat, 110 feet long, has a wooden hull and with twin high-speed Diesel engines. The first was officially called the PC 505, but to navy men she was a Cinderella boat. They are being fabricated in large numbers all over the nation at small boatyards.

Cleveland: The scrap metal shortage allegedly had caused a drop of 150,000 tons of Republic steel during the past five months, it was reported. Government steps to move the scrap were gradually relieving the situation, it was said.

London: Sir Stafford Cripps had returned safely from India to England, but his mission generally had been considered to have failed.

My Week by Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW STYLE TAX

One night I read an interesting suggestion, which was sent to me by Mr. Joseph E. Goodbar. The plan will go to the treasury department, but the idea is simple enough for all of us to understand.

Mr. Goodbar calls this tax "a pay with added production tax." He looks realistically at all of us who are taxpayers and says: "We will be required to create an incentive that affects every gainfully employed person and every person who receives an income, otherwise some would respond and others would not."

So he suggests that "all of us be taxed 25 per cent on all income from whatever source derived," but that, "every tax payer able to do so, be allowed to increase his productive effort 25 per cent; and this tax would be paid out of extra emergency war production and not by an increase in his normal income."

Just how we are to succeed in getting the opportunity to become more productive has been worked out by him. I shall be very much interested to see what the experts think of his idea.

INDIA'S PROBLEM

I think the failure to evolve some plan by which India could be given a greater sense of independence and security in the future, has been a great disappointment to many people. One can not help hoping that some new way will be worked out whereby the people of India may feel that the future belongs more surely to them in their own land.

CHINA RELIEF

United China Relief is trying to raise $7,000,000 for the work of their participating agencies. China is one of our allies, more than that; China has been a center of interest for many people in this country for many years. I think that some of our citizens watch with sympathy the fight which China is putting up today against an aggressive enemy.

All we can do is to send them whatever supplies they need, and I am sure that we shall do so even if it means sacrifice on our part.

MOVING DAY

One can not leave two houses with which one has had long years of association, without some reminiscent moments. I have spent many years away from these houses since my mother-in-law built them, but we lived here a number of years consecutively when our children were small. We lived here during the first years of my husband's illness and have been here on and off since my husband returned to public life in 1928.

Many human emotions have been recorded by many people within the walls of these rooms, and if walls could talk, an interesting book might be written. Perhaps the most stirring chapter would deal with the months and years after my husband came back here from the hospital and slowly took up new activities, adjusting meanwhile to a physical handicap which a very active and still young man certainly never could have envisioned.

As I took my maid into the new apartment she remarked on how light and bright it was, and said she hoped the happiness within would always keep pace with the light.

AIR TRAVELING

For those of us who travel by air the government's need for planes was sad news in the paper. It has been hard for the airlines to meet the demands of passengers up to now, but with one-fourth of the air liners taken over by the army, it will mean, I imagine, increased difficulty for civilians who wish to travel by air.

Gradually, we shall have to take more time to get about when we are not doing something which has to do with the war. If we civilians must travel, it will be in a more leisurely fashion. This will be a hard lesson for me to learn, but I feel quite sure that, like many others, I can.

VISIT LANGLEY FIELD

The Rosenwald fund meeting at Hampton, Va., was extremely interesting and constructive. We worked from ten until one o'clock and then some of us lunched with President and Mrs. MacLean. After lunch we met again for an hour and then went to Langley Field.

The commanding officer was kind enough to drive around with us and show the various types of airplanes being used for practice and patrol work. I had an opportunity to see some of the day rooms.

TO GUARD COTTON PROFIT —plant CERESAN-TREATED seed!

This season, don't waste money, time and labor on cottonseed that won't produce a good stand and paying yield. Go on the defensive against seed-borne diseases right now by planting only CERESAN-treated seed! Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, reporting on tests, says, "Machine delinting plus treatment with . . . Ceresan gave highest increases in germination and yield." CERESAN generally reduces seed rotting, soreshin, surface seed-borne anthracnose and angular leaf spot; helps protect early-planted seed in unfavorable weather; usually improves stands to save replanting; commonly increases yields, often 10 to 25%. Treat your own seed, or buy seed marked with the Ceresan Certificate Tag.

organization for the campaign to raise $1,110,000 as its share of the $32,000,000 national fund to provide off-duty comforts for the men in the armed services.

Harry C. Wiess of Houston, state chairman, announced that Region 3, the far East Texas area, was the first in the state to complete its organization, but other regions were nearly ready for the drive kick-off on May 11.

Mr. Wiess announced that the number of USO units contemplated for 1942 and 1943 has been increased to 940, following the spread of the armed services to all parts of the world. Many of these, as well as many of the 585 now in operation, will be in Texas, the training ground of America.

The President's letter endorsing USO read as follows:

"Not by machines alone will we win this war.

"Unitedly, unstintingly and without interruption or delay, we have solemnly promised to give our men a mounting tide of guns, tanks, planes and ships.

"We shall keep that promise, and one promise more — that we shall preserve for them, wherever they

Uncle Sam asks us to Hoard Coal Now

Coal is one thing the Government definitely wants us to hoard this spring and summer

● We are asked to buy coal now, if we are coal users, (1) to protect ourselves against a possible coal shortage next winter, and (2) to help make more freight cars available then for moving vital war material. Spreading coal shipments over a longer period than usual will do just that.

● Most folks wait until the last minute to order their winter's coal supply. Many millions of tons of coal must then be moved by rail in a very short time. Next winter's war needs and the tire shortage will put the greatest load on the railroads in their history. War freight must move first, and those who wait too long to order their coal may not be able to get prompt delivery when they need it.

● So we repeat Uncle Sam's friendly warning to us all. If you use coal, get in your winter coal supply now, in the off season, when transportation is available. You'll help yourself and also help win this war.

may be, and without regard to race, creed or color, the moral and spiritual values of the democratic ideals and freedoms for which they now are fighting. "Because the USO is unitedly dedicated to that high purpose, and because that high purpose is a vital part of the job of winning this war, the USO should be supported by everybody — cheerfully, and now."
