For the Best Interests of O'Donnell and Lynn County

City Rotary Meet Here Is Successful

With approximately 60 present, O'Donnell Rotarians entertained a chicken barbecue Tuesday at the Legion Hall.

Clubs from other cities represented were Tahoka, Post, Lubbock and . . .

N. Randel, Lubbock attorney and past-president of that city was principal speaker of a program, and spoke for 20 minutes on matters concerning all Rotary clubs, and used the effect to be gained "Following Through." Randel refers to himself as a "country boy" and his remarks were enthusiastically received.

Members of visiting clubs introduced on the program were Frank of Tahoka, Roy Furr of Lubbock, and Clint Herring of Post.

pleasing feature of the program which drew applause was given by Jack Norman and Ferrell of Slaton. Norman sang semi-classical pieces, accompanied by Mrs. Ferrell at the piano, then they whistled a duet.

Florence Gary, talented singer of this city, accompanied by Newell Hughes at the piano, "A Beautiful Lady in Blue" and "Let's Dream This One Out."

Gary, whose pleasing personal and friendliness captivated her audience, was especially congratulated for her renditions.

J. W. Sinclair and Ray Weather of Tahoka "Sang" as a duet, in special number, but few could remember afterward exactly what specialists were singing about.

were urged to do more, but they admitted "we don't know any more."

Applewhite and Namon, two courageous O'Donnell Rotarians, were given the honor of singing the program, by an unexpected call for a song. They rendered, after much coaxing and gained applause, with "Home On the Range." Both sang in what called tenor voices, and where many was lacking, determination to the rescue. No encore was asked for by the visitors.

praise was showered on the O'Donnell club members in the manner in which the barbecue was served, and expressions "never attended a better one" were many times from the Tahoka, Lubbock and Post visitors. Namon and Chris Hafer and Charles were given special praise because they managed the feeding feature.

Fay Westmoreland was in last week end to accompany Mrs. W. L. Palmer home after visit there.

Edward Cook Is Killed By Truck

TAHOKA, Sept. 18 (Special) — Great throngs of friends from many communities of Lynn and other counties crowded into and about the Harris Funeral Home here Sunday afternoon to pay their tribute of respect to the memory of one of the most prominent citizens of the county, Edward Cook of Wells, who was struck and killed by a truck as he was crossing the highway near Azle, 20 miles northwest of Fort Worth at about 1:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

Funeral services were conducted by Elder Virgil Lowrance of Slaton, pastor of the Primitive Baptist Church, assisted by Elder Tyne W. Smith of Draw, and the body was laid to rest in the Tahoka cemetery.

Pall bearers were nephews of the deceased: Floyd Carpenter of Loop, Ed and Dan Carpenter of Tahoka, Clarence and George Carpenter of Post, Richard Cook of Walnut Springs, Ernest Cook of Corsicana, and Delmos Davis of Lorenzo.

Honorary pall bearers were: W. B. Slaton, W. E. Smith, Waldo McLaurin, R. P. Weathers, Fred Bucy, Fred McGinty, Oscar McGinty of Spur, Jeff Lambert, Claude Tyler, and P. E. Askew of O'Donnell.

Definite information as to the circumstances of the tragedy are lacking, but from known facts highway officers and members of the family have been able to fairly accurately reconstruct them, it is believed.

Mr. Cook had been down to Hubbard City in Hill county to bring back to his farm in the Wells community a negro couple who had worked for him the past three years, but it appears that for some reason he was coming back without them.

Upon reaching a filling station between Azle and Springtown, he drove his truck upon the outer driveway and stopped. It is believed that his lights had been giving him trouble, for when his truck was started up later, the lights were found to be flickering. Unable, doubtless, to arouse any one at the station, he started to walk across the highway in the direction of a residence on the opposite side. When he went upon the highway, a truck being driven by another man struck him. Instead of being knocked down he was thrown upward by the terrific impact, through the windshield and into the cab of the truck.

Whether for some reason Mr. Cook failed to see the truck or whether it was coming at a greater rate of speed than he estimated or whether he became confused or blinded by the bright lights and thus failed to get out of its path, friends here do not know.

Born at Athens, Texas, on March 15, 1878, Mr. Cook was 63 years of age. He was married to Miss Ida Robertson at Athens on July 15, 1899. He removed with his family from Kerens, Navarro county, to the Wells community in this county in October, 1924. Acquiring quite a large body of land in the community and establishing a store there, Mr. Cook greatly prospered through the years. In addition to his farming and mercantile operations, he made a practice of raising cattle which he fed on the feed produced on his farms and often hauled them to market at Fort Worth. He took a keen interest in public affairs and was an outstanding citizen.

AAA Speeds Up Work For Defense

Speeding up AAA work in the county to meet the demands of the defense campaign for greater food production, the AAA office promises that all farmers in the county will receive their 1942 allotments by November 1.

During the month of November, the farm plan, incorporating a survey of food production in 1941 and pledges on food production in 1942, will be presented for consideration of every farmer in the county in a farm-to-farm canvass, Vernon C. Willhoit, chairman of the county USDA Defense Board and the county AAA committee, said.

Definite plans for the food production sign-up have not been made, Willhoit announced, but, according to Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard's recent announcement of food production goals, the campaign will be completed by December 1, and every farmer in the nation will be asked to do his part in meeting the food needs of this nation and the nations fighting aggression.

Allotment notices for cotton, wheat, and peanuts will be in the hands of producers before November 1 so that they can make definite plans as to how best they can do their part in the food drive. No allotments will be issued this year on vegetables or general crops.

Rain Totalling .30 Fell Wednesday

Rainfall total thirty hundreds of an inch fell here Wednesday, and many farmers are still finding that it can rain too much for certain periods in West Texas.

The rainy, cloudy weather has seriously halted the opening of cotton, and allowed worms to multiply faster. Feed crops, on many farms, are spoiling in the fields.

South Plains Fair Plans Big Show

Lubbock, Sept. 15—With the 28th annual Panhandle South Plains Fair now only a short time away, final arrangements and details are steadily picking up momentum, as officials prepare to handle a record attendance which it is anticipated will perhaps well exceed 150,000.

Crews are busy daily clearing up the grounds and buildings, and generally touching up the appearance of the park, the grandstand and rodeo grounds where performances by big-time riders and animals will be a nightly feature.

Among free attractions before the grandstand each afternoon will be high-type vaudeville and circus acts, while the 30-acre, mile-long midway of the Beckmann and Gerety Shows will be operating full tilt, day and night with the largest and most varied carnival entertainment ever offered a West Texas audience.

The catalogue and premium list is expected to be received from the printer and ready for distribution in a few days and inquiries concerning this indicate wide interest in the exposition.

It is expected that the agricultural department will be particularly interesting this year due to an unusually good season and anticipated bumper crops of all kinds. This is expected also to be reflected in the livestock department.

Football Season To Be Blasted Open Here Tonight

Almost an entirely new team of O'Donnell Eagles will scamper onto Johnson Field tonight to do battle with the Fluvanna squad in the first game of the season.

Coach Ray DeBusk, who knows his squad faces a hard schedule as well as the next fellow, has his charges working earnestly, and the lads seem to have the will to give their best.

Whether you think the boys can win a great number of their games, you should attend and yell your loudest. They're O'Donnell's and probably just as good football players as the rest of us are boosters.

THANKS!

Pete Beale handed us his subscription for the PRESS for a year. Thanks, Pete.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Sherrill and two children have returned from a short trip to New Mexico and Colorado.

Attacks on U. S. Ships in West Atlantic Termed Acts of Piracy by the President; Orders Navy to Shoot Any Axis Raiders In Waters Held to Be Out of War Zone

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

When news was flashed that the U. S. freighter Steel Seafarer had been sunk in the Red Sea, the war came home to more than one family in the U. S. Here you see Mrs. Rose McCade in Jersey City and members of her family eagerly listening to bulletins which finally told them that her husband, Alexander McCade, and the rest of the crew of 35 had been rescued by passing ships.

INCIDENTS: Piling Up

Incident was piling on incident when President Roosevelt in a radio broadcast heard all over the world declared German attacks on American ships, twice on U. S. warships, as acts of piracy and ordered the U. S. navy to shoot first when sighting any of the Axis submarines or surface raiders in the western Atlantic. The President in vigorous fashion declared for the freedom of the seas and announced ships of any flag would be given protection when plying their peaceful trade in waters which the President maintained were not in the war zone. The incidents, the President stated, were plainly calculated by Hitler as part of his plan to control the seas as well as land areas by a series of aggressions. The President vigorously assailed obstructionists who would lull the nation with any false thought that with the British navy gone we could possibly be a match against the Axis navies.

To the Greer affair was added the sinking of the Sessa, a former Danish ship, and the Steel Seafarer, an American vessel, the latter carrying lease-lend aid to the British Middle East command.

All but three of the crew aboard the Sessa were drowned, and the vessel, it was said, carried no war materials whatever, solely food and other supplies for the Danish government of Iceland. The sinking took place prior to the Greer affair, and was only announced following the picking up of the survivors.

The Steel Seafarer was sunk in the Red sea, and all hands were saved, but only by their own brisk action in difficult straits. The vessel, according to survivors, was sunk by a heavy-caliber aerial bomb, perhaps an aerial torpedo.

The explosion, which would be heard for 10 miles, tore open the starboard plates of the ship amidships, and sent her to the bottom so swiftly that the captain's boat only left the side two minutes before the doomed ship took her final plunge.

Members of the crew said it was impossible that the boat could have been mistaken for British, for the American flag was flying in the vessel's floodlights, and she was not in convoy, traveling alone.

The import of the loss was considered trifling, being less than 2 per cent of the lease-lend aid sent to the Middle East so far. That would roughly place the amount of this aid at 50 shiploads. It was a typical general lend-lease cargo.

Two Americans were lost on the Sessa, but in the President's recapitulation of the events for which he intends to hold Nazi Germany strictly accountable he cited five American-owned ships sunk presumably by German action, and at least 65 American citizens who suffered loss of life in the sinking of the American and other vessels.

Many felt that the recent three incidents, coming so close together, might have been the result of an order from Hitler for an "all-out effort" against the American lend-lease campaign, as Hitler might be fearing the effect of an all-winter war with Russia.

In this event, it was felt, he might be afraid that the U. S. would strengthen Britain's hand so much in the interim that a successful military move against the British would be impossible for all time, thus making victory for Germany well-nigh hopeless.

GERMANY: A Warning

After first stating positively that the Greer was the aggressor in the battle with a German submarine in the waters off Iceland, Germany issued finally a flat warning that all ships, of whatever nationality in her war zones were subject to attack without warning.

This was similar to the warning issued in the last war which brought about the sinking of the Lusitania and a definite American demand for entry into the war.

The state department in Washington at the same time lifted its restrictions and said it would permit American citizens journeying from Britain and the United States to travel on "belligerent ships."

The Nazis said that there was no use talking about a general order to attack American ships. They said the only general order was to attack all shipping.

They added that they considered President Roosevelt's dictum that the Red Sea constituted neutral waters, and that American-neutral ships could navigate there was "provocative" and constituted a "provocation" to the Germans and Italians to attack such ships.

SPY: Thrills in Trials

The expected thrills in the spy trials in New York, in which 16 persons are accused with having taken part in espionage on behalf of Germany against the United States, panned out early in the case.

FBI witnesses revealed that the German spy system had been tricked for months. The G-men built a radio station on Long Island, arrangements having been made through an informer, entirely at the request of the Germans for a quick method of getting information.

For months the station operated, "kidding" the Nazis with false information about the army, navy and air force. However, all the victories of wits were not on the American side. For one witness testified that, thinking to make his German masters happy, he offered to steal plans of the secret American bomb-sight and send them over. His "higher-up" told him: "You needn't worry yourself. It's already in our hands."

STRIKE: Halted by F. D. R.

The railroad strike, which had seemed imminent, and which would have thrown the entire defense production structure into a turmoil, was at least temporarily halted by President Roosevelt, who personally set up a five-man mediation board.

Fourteen non-operating unions had voted to walk out September 11, and four days later the big five brotherhoods had decided to quit work.

Legally this put the strike in mothballs for 60 days. The Railway Labor act stipulates that the President's board has 30 days in which to examine the evidence, and another 30 days in which to make its report.

During this 60-day period the workers are under obligation not to leave their jobs.

Victims of Axis Raiders

Orders Navy to Free Western Sea of Raiders

President Roosevelt as he delivered his momentous message to the world, following recent attacks on American shipping by Axis submarines. The President warned Axis powers that he had issued orders to the navy to shoot first if Axis war craft are sighted within American defense zones. He pledged protection of all shipping.

Mexico Pledges Co-operation

He stressed the attitude of the Mexican government as favoring democracy, and pointed out the Mexican intention of co-operating in the defense of America. Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, mother of the President, who died in her home on the Hudson river, at Hyde Park, N. Y., at the age of 86. She was buried beside her husband, James, who died in 1900.

My Week by Eleanor Roosevelt

THE 'MINUTE MAN' I wonder how many people know that the statue of the "Minute Man" which is used on our defense bonds posters, was done by the sculptor, Mr. Daniel Chester French, who did the great marble Lincoln statue in the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D. C. Perhaps it would interest you to know a little about the making of this statue, since the story is told to me by the sculptor's daughter, Mrs. William Penn Cresson: "The young sculptor borrowed from the art museum a large plaster cast of the 'Apollo Belvedere,' which he set up on one side of his studio, and on the other side he placed a long full-length mirror, in which he surveyed his own not unattractive form. And there he made his 'Minute Man.' " The dedication of the statue on the nineteenth of April, 1875, was a very great occasion in the little town of Concord, Mass. It was one of those bitterly cold days that we have so often in the New England spring. More people were said to have died from the effects of that cold, than had died on the day of the battle they were celebrating. President Grant and all his cabinet came from Washington for the unveiling. Longfellow and Lowell marched in the procession. George William Curtis was the orator of the day, and orated for more than two hours in the cold. Emerson read his poem written for the occasion, the lines of which were cut on the pedestal of the statue.

WOMEN IN DEFENSE I am shocked to find through some of the clippings which have come to me, that my answer to a press conference question last week, as to whether I was satisfied with the volunteer participation in civilian defense, seems to have caused a complete misunderstanding of my attitude. I answered truthfully, that I was not satisfied with the civilian defense participation. But that was no criticism, as it was apparently taken to be, of Mayor LaGuardia, because I am sure he is not satisfied either! How could any of us be content when the organization is just beginning and will never be complete until every man, woman and child in every community throughout the nation, feels that in one way or another, they are contributing to national defense? Secondly, I find that certain groups of women think that I do not believe in the participation of women in national defense. I can hardly understand how this misconception took place, because I have wanted women to take their place in national defense long before the government machinery was set up. I felt strongly that, while it was well to take up any training available, it was better not to set up programs which could not later be easily incorporated with whatever arrangements were made through government channels. I believe that there is work to be done by every man, woman and child in the country. Some of us can take training which will make us useful in ways that are closely related to military work. Others, many more probably, can devote themselves to improving the life in their own communities.

This is a very important part of national defense, for it is this life in our own communities which makes national defense worth while. If it is a good life and meets our needs, and we know our neighbors are co-operating to achieve better conditions, then any sacrifices we make to preserve what we have and to attain what we hope for, are cheerfully made, and are part of the duty which we recognize as citizens in a free democracy.

'THE FORGOTTEN VILLAGE' Last night we saw a very beautiful movie, a documentary film, "The Forgotten Village," written by John Steinbeck, with music by Hans Eisler. It is the story of a boy in a small village in Mexico and shows the life of the village, the superstitions which still exist, and the bad sanitation. It portrays the gathering of the family round the fire in the evening, the birth of a new baby, the selling of the corn which is the basis of life, a festival and a death in the family.

Finally, the young Mexican leaves his village, because the local schoolmaster has brought knowledge and inspiration to such of the youth of the community who are open to new ideas. The boy will return trained to lead his people to a better life. I was tremendously interested in the medical trucks which go over almost impassable roads to serve the people of these remote villages.

A HOUSING DEVELOPMENT I want to mention a housing development for colored people in Pensacola, Fla., which pleased me very much. I was not able to go out and look at it very carefully, but it seemed to be well planned, and considerable, attractive landscaping had been done. One of the ministers had written to me about it, and told me that the people living there were making every effort to provide opportunities for civic education and recreation.

BRIEFS

Paris: The new cigarette ration has been cut from 180 to 120 cigarettes a month. Many American cigarette smokers use from 20 to 40 per day. Another restriction limited the number of Jewish doctors and lawyers in the city to 2 per cent.

When You Repair an Appliance
IT'S LIKE FINDING MONEY
in Last Winter's Vest

It's a wonderful experience to poke your hand into an old pocket and pull out a piece of money. You're just that much richer than you knew!

And it's also wonderful to find that you can put your electric percolator, electric iron, or other electrical appliances back into service for a small repair charge.

Some of your electric servants may be made as good as new just by getting a new cord, putting in a new fuse or by making some other minor repair that will take only a few minutes.

Why not gather up that valuable electric percolator, that table lamp that won't burn, and take them to an electric shop? When they are fixed, you'll agree that it was like finding money you didn't know you had!

The best way to find out what to send soldiers in camp is to ask the soldiers themselves. Surveys among the men with the colors show cigarettes and smoking tobacco head the list. Actual sales records from service stores in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard show the largest-selling cigarette is Camel. Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco is well-known as the "National Joy Smoke." A carton of Camels or a pound tin of Prince Albert is always welcome, doubly welcome around the end of the month. Local tobacco dealers are featuring these brands as ideal gifts for men in the service.—Adv.

INSTALLMENT THREE

THE STORY SO FAR: Larry Cutter fell in love with Jacqueline Anthony, public stenographer at the Hotel Raynear, by watching her from the lobby. In an effort to meet Jack—as Jacqueline was called—he dictated an imaginary letter to a noted archeologist. When she told him about her great longing for travel, he casually replied that she could realize her dreams by marrying him. Another man entered the office before she could answer. Larry returned when he left to find Jacqueline greatly depressed. He offered a marriage contract permitting her to retain her mode of living and to cancel the marriage after six months. "I'll do it," she agreed. Now continue with the story.

Jacqueline was positive that she had declined Larry's dinner invitation. But she did recall admitting that she frequently dined down in the Raynear cafeteria and might do so tonight. Mr. Clutter had accepted that as a promise and taken himself off with a smiling, "I'll see you this evening. Thanks."

Just like that. Jacqueline Anthony had been entirely truthful when she told Larry Cutter that she didn't know why she had listened to him in the first place. As she recalled it, she had been more amused than angry at his startling proposal. She was intensely interested in his remarks about travel. She had been attracted by him as well. There was something in his direct, assertive manner that appealed to her, especially his forthright assurance that she would some day realize her greatest ambition. Of course he interested her.

His casual solution for a trip to the Orient stunned her for the moment. Left her almost speechless. Then he had gone away without giving her a chance to reply. When, and if, he returned, she would put a stop to any further conversation on that topic.

But the call from Mr. Dennison had changed everything. Everything in the world. How could he have picked that very moment to come in? To put the finishing touch to an unbelievable situation? Why?

There was no answer . . . unless it was fate. Mr. Cutter said it was fate.

Grant Dennison was a partner in the brokerage firm of Falk and Dennison. Jacqueline had made two modest investments with them and her contacts always had been with the junior partner.

He was a sharp-visaged little man who managed in some way to give an impression that anyone who played the market was more or less a fool. But if the fool was determined to part with his money, Messrs. Falk and Dennison might as well have the commissions.

This morning, Dennison had come directly to the point of his errand in the Raynear.

"I found a memorandum on my desk yesterday, Miss Anthony, that you had called."

Jacqueline nodded apprehensively.

"I don't know where you got your tip to buy that stock in the first place. But you have plenty of company. When it started going up the way it did, we were a little suspicious of inside manipulation. We couldn't see any logical reason. It looks now as though we might have been correct."

"You mean . . . ?"

"I'm afraid so. If you remember, I suggested that you clear your original investment before buying that second lot. I don't blame you for not doing it . . . the way it was moving up. But you may have held on too long. Of course you've been following it."

"Oh, yes."

"Your loss would be heavy at the last quotation. It might be wiser to hold it for a time . . . But whatever you say. Let us know at any time. Was there anything else?"

"Oh, no. Thank you very much, Mr. Dennison for your trouble."

"No trouble at all, Miss Anthony."

And Mr. Dennison had hurried out with his hands thrust deep into the pockets of his flapping raincoat.

With him went all of Jacqueline Anthony's dreams of the future. All security. And in a state somewhere between inertia and panic, she had listened to a renewal of Larry Cutter's amazing proposal. In a moment of sheer and unreasoning desperation, she had said she would marry him. She was sure by this time she had promised.

Her decision was a gamble, nothing more or less. It was the sort of thing her father would have done, Jacqueline reflected. Promise first, think afterwards.

Perhaps she was more like her father than she suspected.

Vincent Anthony, loving and irresponsible failure that he was, had been his daughter's outstanding trial during her more mature years. She accepted him as her particular charge when she was seventeen, the year that frail little Madge Anthony had laid down the same burden. Jacqueline was the pair's only child.

Vincent always was in quest of and about to overtake "big money." Steady work and systematic saving held no appeal for him. Let others plod if they cared to. Anthony knew he would strike it rich some day and had a ready excuse for each succeeding failure. With the fading of one dream, he was off in fresh pursuit.

It was the mother who was forced to provide most of the necessary income for herself and Jacqueline, and for Vincent when he chose to favor the small home with his presence.

"Vince"—that was the name Jacqueline bestowed upon her parent almost as soon as she was able to talk—was quite the most charming companion a child could know.

At the time the wife and mother passed unobtrusively from the family picture, Jacqueline had managed to complete a business course and was happy in her first position. Vince, harboring an idea that the motherless girl needed his care and protection, took time out to give the world some needed inventions. He always had intended to do that when he got around it. The Anthony's living room promptly became a workshop, housing an amazing miscellany of gadgets financed from Jacqueline's meager salary.

Several years passed in this unusual situation. Jacqueline prospered, and finances became less of a problem.

The girl lived two separate lives. One was in the world of business where she exhibited unusual proficiency, appreciated by employers.

The other life was almost entirely between the four walls of that living room where she listened with patient enthusiasm to Vince as he puttered with his contraptions.

One of his favorite pursuits was to outline a world trip they would take as a first celebration. Vince would produce an old atlas and, with Jacqueline's shining head close to his, map out routes and ports of call. This was one recreation in which the girl always was ready to join.

Vince assumed a politely injured air.

Outsiders almost never intruded in this life. The Anthony home had no room for guests. Nobody else would understand Vince. And so, all her acquaintances were made in the workaday world and remained there.

With the building of the twenty-story Raynear had come a change in the life of Jacqueline Anthony. A former employer arranged an opportunity for her to become the new hotel's public stenographer. She was highly delighted; it meant being in business for herself at last.

At that time, the serious little stenographer with the shining cinnamon-brown hair had reached the age of twenty-two. And looked eighteen.

Days in the busy and fashionable Raynear opened an entirely new vista to Jacqueline Anthony's blue eyes. Here was a small world in itself, the inhabitants of which she came to know in a quietly friendly fashion.

It was much like that round-the-world trip.

Yet it all exerted a strange and steadily growing influence; it planted seeds of revolt. Jacqueline Anthony began to appreciate more and more what her mother had endured for so many years. Growing fears assailed her. She was following the same path. Already she had missed the life enjoyed by most girls her age. A home, intimate friends, social contacts. Men had no part in her existence, save as she encountered them in business.

It was all wrong.

Then one day Vince announced blithely that one of his pet schemes had been adopted previously by a fellow inventor. He was dropping it for another project that offered infinitely greater returns and . . .

"It won't be long now," he assured his daughter airily. "In six months, we'll be sailing."

"Vince . . . I've got to tell you something," And Jacqueline found herself hurriedly reciting her Declaration of Independence.

Vincent Anthony had been on trial in his own house for a quarter century. Hereafter, he might find bed and board there, but not one cent for dry batteries. The family must and would have a growing savings account. Jacqueline managed to keep her voice steady.

There was no answering outburst. Vince assumed a politely injured air. If Jacqueline wished to throw aside the leisure and riches he was about to give her . . . After all, it was about what a father might expect these days. It wasn't the first time that a genius' family had proved a stumbling block.

It was a hard task for the girl to steel her heart against this martyr complex, but she knew instinctively that she was doing the right thing. For the two of them. It was doubly hard to witness his hurt air, going about like a small boy waiting for solacing negotiations.

Three days of the new order, then Vince was missing when Jacqueline came home to prepare dinner. She was almost ready to "give in," had her father known.

On the table was a note, a note the girl deciphered through blinding tears. Vince was very sorry, but he must conduct his work in a more congenial atmosphere.

Following her first season of depression and anxiety, Jacqueline was rather ashamed to find a certain feeling of relief taking possession of her. She found a modern one-room apartment in a much more attractive part of the city and established herself there.

She planned to start life over. To really live.

A great mental uplift came from that Courtland street home. Very different from Jones street.

And business at the hotel was satisfactory, for the most part. Miss Anthony, public stenographer, gained the reputation for rapid and accurate work. Slowly but surely, she built up a local trade in addition to the hotel's transients.

Dreams seemed to be coming true at last. Even the great dream of them all was slowly taking shape. Jacqueline was saving her money with calculating intent. First, there must be something against a rainy day. And Vince. When that was attended to . . .

The crossing!

It might be the one and only trip of her life. She might spend the rest of her days paying for it. But it would be glorious and daring.

There was but one trouble. If only there were some way to speed that cash reserve in the savings bank. It was a chance remark from old Martin Jacobs that showed her the way.

Jacqueline knew very little about Mr. Jacobs, save that his occasional dictations revealed the fact that he lived somewhere out of the city. He must be wealthy.

"How would you like to make some money?" had been his unexpected question to the stenographer. "You could use it, I dare say?"

"Of course," was Jacqueline's cautious reply.

"Do you ever invest in stocks, my dear?"

"No, sir."

"I'm amazed! You're probably the only girl in the city who doesn't." Mr. Jacobs lowered his voice. "Let me give you an inside tip. Watch an industrial called Southern Furnace. Something nice is going to happen to it. Buy some shares and hold them. You'll thank me, my dear girl."

Jacqueline pondered the information; she ventured some discreet questions to Archibald Potter the first time she had an opportunity.

"So the fever has caught you, Miss Anthony?" Mr. Potter was tolerantly amused. Yes, he recalled hearing Southern Furnace mentioned favorably. It might be good for a flier. Why didn't Miss Anthony talk to Falk and Dennison. She might tell Grant Dennison that Potter sent her.

Miss Anthony did. In a spirit of grand recklessness, Jacqueline invested a goodly share of her bank account in Southern Furnace.

Mr. Jacobs was right. Southern Furnace forged slowly but surely up in price.

She purchased another modest block against Grant Dennison's lukewarm advice. It was evident that Mr. Dennison wasn't much of a gambler.

Then something happened. The whole list grew erratic. Some stocks fell sharply and Southern Furnace showed an ambition to lead the retreat.

Almost in desperation she decided to have a talk with Dennison and learn the worst. He was not in when she called.

Today, he called upon her!

The great dream suddenly had vanished into oblivion. Reduced to ash in the devouring maw of Southern Furnace.

And now, Jacqueline Anthony had gambled her future. On a wild and unheard-of theory. For what? A snatched-at security? Paying for it with herself.

Things of that sort never happened in real life. When she saw Mr. Cutter again she would find that it all had been a hoax. If only she never had to see him. She couldn't run away, though. She needed the Raynear worse than ever. She would tell Mr. Cutter . . .

What?

In some fashion, the day dragged to an end.

The Private Papers Of a Cub Reporter

Eddie Dowling, the star of "Time of Your Life" and other plays, is an intimate of the President. Not long ago Eddie brought some Broadway entertainers to amuse White House guests. Among the stars was Giovanni, the delightful pickpocket . . . Giovanni, as almost any Broadwayfarer can assure you, is so good at his business—he can remove your vest without your suspecting it . . . At any rate, the President was vastly amused. He suggested that Giovanni get the gun from a White House guard's holster . . .

But every time Giovanni approached the Secret Service man—the latter backed away, saying: "N-h-n. Not me, please" . . . When FDR later asked Dowling: "Did he get that guard's gun yet?" Eddie explained how the guard was hep to matters and wouldn't be sociable . . . "If you engaged him in conversation, Mr. President," suggested Eddie, "Giovanni would have his gun in four seconds!" . . . "Do you know," whispered Mr. Roosevelt, "that even the President of the United States hasn't the authority to get that rascal away from that door?"

Secret service men have only one boss—congress.

Why Historians Go Wrong Dep't!: After the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting at sea, one of the weekly news digests reported that FDR and Winston met for five days and not three days as reported almost everywhere.

A Washington columnist told us that "five days" is wrong—"they met for three days" . . . "How do you know?" we asked the columnist. "You weren't there!" . . . "That's right," he said, "but I got that fact from a feller who happened to be on the trip—Averill Harriman!" . . . Back in New York we confronted the magazine man . . . "Why did you report it was five days," we asked, "when Averill Harriman who was there ought to know?" . . . "I don't know anything about Mr. Harriman's accuracy," was the reply, "but we got our info from one who was also on the trip—FDR's doctor!"

John Gunther's new book (due shortly) has been named "Inside Latin America," but M. Schuster, the publisher, suggested: "The Almanac de Gunther" . . . "I want to come," she cables, "but my heart won't let me."

Sallies in Our Alley: Pancho, the Riviera's maestro, tells about the draftee who won deferment after he convinced the medico that everything he looked at seemed blurred. Two hours later, coming out of a movie, he bumped into the medico, who glared and glared. "I begya pardon," said the poker-faced draftee, "but can you please tell me if this is the right bus to New York?"

Broadway Smalltalk: Ben Bernie got his new CBS program when he met Mr. Wrigley, who said: "What are you doing these days?" . . . "Nothing," said Ben gloomily . . . "Well, how about working for me?" said the choonung man, and now he's on five nights weekly . . . Paul Ash has a good idea: Turn old license plates over to the gov't for scrap metal. There were over 31,000,000 cars registered last year. Each pair of plates averages two lbs. If all car owners did their duty—that'd be 62,000,000 lbs.

PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE

LONG straight lines from shoulder to hem give this simple frock slenderizing lines. Furthermore, you nip in the waistline by means of side sashes which tie in back. It's a cool frock too, cut with short kimono sleeves. A neat, convenient pair of pockets fit nicely into the entire design.

Household Hints

To skin tomatoes easily, place them in a basin, pour boiling water over them and let them stand a minute. You will find that the skin can be removed without any trouble.

When fitting pastry into a pie never stretch it. Lay it in place and allow at least half an inch on the edges when trimming. Pastry shrinks when baked.

For a quick salad, cut tomatoes in thin slices, spread each with a mixture of salad dressing, sardines, chopped pickles and olives and serve on shredded lettuce.

When creaming shortening and butter for a cake, save time by mashing them together with a potato masher. This will not harm your mixture and is certainly a timesaver.

A quick method of making french dressing is to put all ingredients into a small jar, screw cover tightly and shake until dressing is thoroughly mixed.

We call it the perfect frock for household wear. And a frock for maternity wear too, because of the expandable waistline.

Pattern No. 8991 is in sizes 14 to 20; 40 and 46. Size 16 takes 4 1/2 yards 35-inch material. Four yards fit rac. Full directions for sewing are included in a sew chart which comes with the pattern. For this attractive pattern send your order to:

Camp Cavalcade

SHADOWY figures in a cavalcade of American history—such are the men behind the names of the great army cantonments scattered all over the United States, where young Americans are learning to be soldiers in order to defend their country when the need arises.

Camp Perry, near Port Clinton, Ohio, is one of the few, if not the only, army camp which is named for a naval hero. It perpetuates the name of Oliver Hazard Perry (1785-1819), a native of Rhode Island, who entered the navy as a midshipman at the age of 14 and saw his first service against the Tripolitan pirates. During the War of 1812, he built a fleet of ships from green lumber and launched them on Lake Erie to fight the British fleet there. The result was the Battle of Put-in-Bay on September 10, 1813, after which Perry wrote his historic message to Gen. William Henry Harrison, commander of the American army in the Old Northwest: "We have met the enemy and they are ours."

Camp Dodge, near Des Moines, Iowa, is named for Henry Dodge (1782-1867), a native of Indiana who emigrated to Missouri, rose to the rank of major-general of volunteers in the War of 1812 and became the greatest Indian fighter of his day. Then he moved to Wisconsin, commanded the mounted forces in the Winnebago war of 1827, was made colonel of the Michigan volunteers during the decisive Battle of the Bad Axe river on June 25, 1832. Commissioned a major of the United States Rangers, then colonel of the First U. S. Dragoons, he led two successful expeditions against the Indians on the western frontier for which congress voted him a sword and the thanks of the nation. Later Dodge distinguished himself as governor of the Territory of Wisconsin twice, delegate to congress and United States senator after which he retired to private life in Burlington, Iowa, where he died.

Among the Illinois volunteers who "joined up" to help subdue Chief Black Hawk and his Sacs and Foxes in 1832 was a tall, lanky young man from New Salem. He didn't distinguish himself as a soldier but Fame was reserving a greater role for him. After many disappointments in politics, he would be elected President of the United States and as commander-in-chief of the United States army, lead his nation to victory after four years of the greatest civil war in history. Camp Lincoln, near Springfield, Ill., his "home town," bears his name.

Camp Bowie, near Brownwood, Texas, perpetuates the fame of a man whose name has become a common word in our language—the bowie knife. He was Colonel James Bowie (1795-1836), a native of Tennessee, who became a sugar planter in Louisiana and a smuggler of slaves which he bought from the pirate, Jean Lafitte. A vigorous, muscular six-footer, he roped and rode giant alligators for fun and won a fearsome reputation as a duellist and a fighter with the long-bladed knife which bears his name. There was a Bowie knife in his hand when he perished gloriously in the defense of the Alamo during the Texan War of Independence.

The word company comes from the French word for bread (pain) and the Latin "con" (together). Men of a company eat bread together. The regiment is the unit under the "regime" of an officer. A brigade is a crew of many together. A corps means a body (Latin "corpus") of men. A division was originally a "part" of an army, now of an army corps. A platoon is a "ball of men," a squad, a "square of men"; and a battalion "a body of troops in battle formation."

Origin of Army Unit Names

Speaking of nice touches, put a leaf of deep rich red, brown, or yellow, or a bit of bittersweet to the side of a placecard. This will be just fine to carry out the autumn theme of the centerpiece.

LET'S MAKE A DATE FOR LUNCH (See Recipes Below)

FALL LUNCHEON

As the leaves begin to crackle and fall's favorite flower, the chrysanthemum, stirs in the sweet smelling earth, and fruit hangs heavy and ripe on the trees—do your thoughts turn to luncheons and bridge?

If they do, prepare to have one now, using as your theme the leaves, fruits or flowers that fall has to offer as a welcome change from summer luncheons you may have had. If you are having a pre-luncheon bridge, try carrying out the fall theme on the bridge tables with small vases of fall flowers, in candies, and decorations. Favors can be had using the autumn theme and prizes may be wrapped in the burnished fall shades or tied with ribbons of that color.

Whatever you do, have your tables and especially the centerpiece stunning enough to stimulate interest and conversation. It'll make luncheon and bridge afterwards a real success, and star you as a smart hostess.

Play up the oranges and yellow in food for luncheon, picking it up here and there in this dish and that with a touch of green to heighten interest. Do something unusual in the main dish by having a frozen or cooked fish fillet lightly creamed and well garnished. Simple to fix, a dream to behold, yet delicate to taste, here's your main dish:

*Creamed Fillet of Flounder With Mushrooms.

2 packages quick frozen fillet of flounder, cooked or
2 1/2 cups cooked fish
2 1/2 cups fish liquor or light cream
2 1/2 cups sliced mushrooms
6 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
Salt and pepper
Watercress

If using frozen flounder, cook in a saucepan, adding 1 cup boiling water and 1/2 teaspoon salt, and cook until tender. If using cooked fish, be sure it is well drained. Flake fish. Cook mushrooms in butter, until well browned, add flour. Add fish liquor and cream, gradually stirring constantly and cook until thick. Add fish and seasoning. Serve on hot buttered toast or in patty shells. Sprinkle with paprika. Garnish with watercress.

When serving the vegetables, pretty the platter by serving both the green beans, cut in long, lengthwise strips, and the carrots cut lengthwise, side by side. Or have a mound of carrots or beans in the center, and then have alternating mounds of green bean and carrot strips coming out toward the rim of the plate.

If you were to take a poll among your luncheon guests, you would probably be surprised how many women confess to an extraordinary interest in rolls, bread and muffins. Here's a bread which highlights a luncheon perfectly and whose orange flavor gives just the right touch of piquancy to the meal:

*Orange Honey Bread. (Makes 1 loaf)

3 tablespoons shortening
1 cup honey
1 egg, well beaten
1 1/2 tablespoons grated orange rind
2 1/2 cups flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
3/4 cup orange juice
3/4 cup chopped walnuts.

Cream the shortening until light, then add honey gradually, and continue beating until well blended. Stir in the egg and the grated orange rind. Sift the dry ingredients together several times, then add them alternately with the orange juice. Stir in the walnuts. Pour the batter into a well-greased loaf pan and let stand 20 minutes before putting into oven. Bake in a slow (325-degree) oven for 1 hour or until well done when a toothpick comes out clean. If desired, 3/4 cup of candied orange peel may be added to the batter to give additional flavor, or may be substituted for the nuts.

I shall pass lightly over the subject of salads. Ours today follow nearly the same pattern as recipes printed in old cookbooks. But I would like to give you a recipe for a dressing. Used on a salad of hard-cooked eggs, lettuce, chopped onions and sliced radishes it's tops.

Rub the yolks of two hard-cooked eggs together with 1 tablespoon of cold water until smooth. To this add 2 tablespoons of salad oil and 1 teaspoon each of salt, powdered sugar and prepared mustard, and blend well. Finally, add 2 tablespoons each of plain and tarragon vinegar.

And last, but not least, here's a recipe for ice cream. Serve this with sliced fresh peaches topped with whipped cream.

Uncooked Custard Ice Cream.

1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups top milk
2 tablespoons sugar
Pinch of salt
1/2 pint whipping cream
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Dissolve the 1/2 cup of sugar and the salt in the cold milk. Beat the egg white until stiff, add 2 tablespoons sugar and then beat in the egg yolks, one at a time. Combine with the milk and fold in the whipped cream and vanilla. Pour into freezing trays and stir every 15 or 20 minutes until firm. This may also be made in a crank freezer, but the amount should be doubled for the ordinary size of freezer.

If you desire to vary this recipe, here are suggestions:

Maple Ice Cream—Add maple flavoring to taste in place of the vanilla; about 6 drops will be needed.

Butterscotch—Substitute brown sugar for the 1/2 cup of white sugar.

Chocolate—Melt two squares cake chocolate and add to custard mixture. Four additional tablespoons sugar must be added as well.

Peppermint—Peppermint flavoring, oil of peppermint and enough pink coloring to give the desired color are added.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for September 21

OVERCOMING THE ADVERSARY

LESSON TEXT—Revelation 12:7-12; 15:2-4. GOLDEN TEXT—And they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb, and by the word of their testimony; and they loved not their lives unto the death.—Revelation 12:11.

War! What a familiar word! Men are saying we should put an end to war. We wish it were possible, but as long as sin rules in the hearts of men, there will be wars; in fact, our lesson tells us of a greater war which is to take place in the heavens. The devil is busy not only on earth, but in the heavenly places, and wherever he is there is war. Only when Christ, the Prince of Peace, comes to reign will peace come to all the earth.

Our lesson presents three scenes: Conflict in heaven, rejoicing over victory there, and a victory on earth which brought joy to heaven.

I. War in Heaven (12:7-9).

A clear, succinct, and helpful word on these verses is quoted from Dr. John R. Bradbury: "The dispensational interpretation of this passage is that during the period of tribulation, which follows the rapture of the saints, as described in I Thessalonians 4:15-18; I Corinthians 15:51, 52, and other passages, there will be a war in heaven between Michael and his angels and the devil and his. Satan is not in hell now. It is wrong to teach that he is there. He is the prince of the power of the air. He rules the darkness of this world. He inspires wickedness in his domain and on earth. Against these conditions the Christian is solemnly warned to prepare (Eph. 6:10-18). When we say that Satan is in heaven, we do not mean the heaven of the immediate presence of God. The Bible speaks of different heavens and there is even a 'heaven of heavens' (I Kings 8:27)."

"From whence come all the cross-currents of wickedness now sweeping over the world—many of them contrary to the wishes of the vast majority of the people? That there is a malevolent genius directing sinister operations to hinder and baffle God and to destroy mankind is easy to understand. Many people ask, 'Why does not God destroy him?' The answer to that is in this lesson. His hour is coming. He will be expelled from his domain by Michael and his angels. Then, because the people of this world have co-operated with Satan so willingly, he will be allowed to take refuge in the earth. He will come down (v. 12) in great wrath, 'because he knoweth that he hath but a short time.'"

II. Rejoicing in Heaven (12:10-12).

If we accept what seems to be the correct view; namely, that the woman of Revelation 12:1-5 is Israel, the nation in which the child (v. 5), who is Christ, was born, then it would appear that those who here rejoice in the victory over the dragon (Satan) would be the Jewish believers who will have come through great tribulation. At the same time it is quite appropriate to apply the truth of the passage to us who now find ourselves in conflict with Satan's powers.

The accuser does not hesitate to appear even in the presence of God to bring charges against us (see Job 1:6-12). But we need not fear him, for he is already judged (I John 1:10) and will (as we see in our lesson) one day be cast down to earth, and (as other Scripture reveals) will ultimately be cast into the lake of fire (Rev. 20:10).

But he is here now, a supernatural (but not divine) being, plaguing us, tempting us, accusing us. What shall we do about it? As to his accusation, we know we have a just and loving God and also have an Advocate to plead our causes before Him (I John 2:2). For his present attacks, our lesson gives the secret of spiritual victory in verse 11.

III. Victory on Earth (Rev. 15:2-4).

The scene of victorious rejoicing which we see here is evidently in heaven, but it is because of victory on earth. Here are those that have come through the horrible conditions described in Revelation 13, and have been victorious over the beast, in spite of his great powers.

They sing; that is the token of real victory, of a heart victory. Whatever loss they may have suffered, and whatever trials they may have gone through, they have "gotten the victory" (v. 2). They sing the song of Moses and the Lamb (cf. Exod. 15:1-21 and Rev. 5:9-14).

It is right that the redeemed of the Lord should sing, glorifying the name of God (v. 4) and magnifying His great and marvelous works (v. 3). Let us remind ourselves again that if we are Christians, we are on the victorious side. The glimpse into the heavens which we find in our lesson should give us the right perspective with which to view the troublesome experiences of life. God has a plan, and He will bring it to complete and victorious fruition in His own time and His own way.

YOU BUY INOCULATION ON FAITH

Field tests have shown a big difference in the quality of inoculator brands on the market. You cannot see the legume bacteria you purchase. Immediate demonstration is impossible. What is the reputation and experience behind the inoculation you buy?

• NITRAGIN is the ORIGINAL LEGUME INOCULATOR, having served the farmers for over forty years. It won a GOLD MEDAL at the World's Fair, St. Louis, 1904.

• NITRAGIN is made in the most complete and modern laboratory of its kind in the world.

• NITRAGIN is the leader in its field by a big margin. NITRAGIN demand in the South has rapidly increased year after year. During the fall of 1940 the Southern shipments of NITRAGIN were for more than 45 million pounds of VETCH and WINTER PEAS. This large demand is due to many field tests carried on year after year. We prove by these tests that NITRAGIN is a good product.

Send for our booklet "Plant Legumes to Prosper," showing aures of field tests and how NITRAGIN is made. The booklet also gives you valuable information regarding the inoculation of legumes.

If your dealer does not have NITRAGIN in stock, have him get it for you. Insist on NITRAGIN inoculation.

your next quart

New oil lasted 5,683 miles longer than the runner-up in Death Valley Death-Test ...CERTIFIED

5 BIG-NAME OILS bought retail by Referee. One 5-quart fill per car. Not another drop throughout the hot desert Death-Test.

Your own engine gauge-stick can tell you best about Conoco Nth motor oil. Next-best is to buttonhole the most frugal car owners you know around town. Some have never yet added a quart since changing to Conoco Nth. And you can see why right here—by the mileage figures from the Certified Death-Test of Conoco Nth oil vs. five other big brands.

The whole big success of Conoco Nth started down in Death Valley—so hot you can't sweat. Here 6 new stock cars, strictly alike, each got one 5-quart fill of some one oil being tested. Then the Official Referee clamped on the locks; never a drop of oil could be added.

Eyed by impartial officials every instant, the cars all reeled off their 57 miles hourly. Here and there on the desert a carcass lay bleaching—and desert death awaited these car engines, too. For none could finish till its oil hit bottom—finishing the engine beyond repair.

CONOCO Nth gave nearly Twice the miles averaged by the others tested!

The 5-quart fill of Conoco Nth lasted 13,398 miles . . . Certified. Conoco Nth outlasted one big brand by 8,268 miles. Even the best of the five was outlasted 5,683 miles by Conoco Nth oil. Such a real difference must have a real source. And two real life-givers created by man . . . two modern synthetics . . . are in Conoco Nth motor oil.

You know of modern vitamin synthetics, making up for Nature's life-givers lost in some modern food processing. Similarly, the extreme refining needed by oils for current cars has been destroying Nature's best life-givers! But in their place today Conoco Nth brings your engine the two patented Conoco synthetics.

One of these—man-made under the famed Germ Processed oil patent—will keep your engine OIL-PLATED with lubricant that can't all quickly drain off of inner surfaces. So OIL-PLATING is on guard against wear in advance!

And the latest Conoco synthetic—man-made under U.S. Pat. 2,218,132—will check "festering" of oil that's encouraged by foul leftovers from every engine's normal firing. This common oil trouble is now checked or inhibited by the new man-made Conoco life-giver—Thialkene inhibitor.

You'll never Death-Test your Conoco Nth oil in sinister Death Valley, any more than you repeat other proving-ground tortures. You'll still drain and refill at recommended intervals. But how you'll expect to stretch the distance before adding a quart, judging by this big fact: 5 heavily advertised oils in the Certified Death Valley Test were outmileaged 74% to 161% by Conoco Nth oil. Economy like that counts up into dollars! Change to Nth oil today at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Company—Pioneers in Bettering America's oil with Synthetics

CERTIFIED I hereby certify that the Death Valley Test and related work were thoroughly and fairly conducted. Engine Destruction occurred in each case at the mileage stated.
