

Truman Asks 45 Millions to Spread U.S. 'Know-How' Throughout World; A-Bomb Urged as Defense Weapon

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

U.S. KNOW-HOW:

Share for World

Back in January, President Harry Truman delivered in his message to congress, a multiple-point program. In that program was mentioned "point four" — one of the proposals he made and one which raised some eyebrows and set off no end of speculation on "when and how."

"POINT FOUR" was a proposal to share United States "know-how" in varied fields with other friendly nations of the world. In that proposal, the President asked congress to go along with a plan to let such nations in on how the U.S. does things economically, mechanically, industrially.

After speculation died down there was nothing more said about "point four" until recently. Then, President Truman told congress exactly what he wanted. First, he asked for 45 million dollars to help the backward countries of the world through U.S. aid.

CALLING that a first step, he listed some other factors also as "preliminaries." These included: Technical assistance to be provided through the United Nations or directly by the United States.

Private investment to turn undeveloped areas into producing for the world economy.

Authority delegated by the congress to the President to give him power to administer the program and authority to delegate it to the secretary of state and to other government officers as he deems appropriate.

"We are here embarking on a venture that extends far into the future," he told congress. He added that "grinding poverty and the lack of opportunity for many millions of people in certain regions . . . constitute the greatest challenge of the world today."

A-BOMB USE:

Limits Asked

How would idealism fare against expediency in the matter of atomic bomb use in a war crisis?

That was a question with which congress was being asked to deal. Senator Flanders (R., Vt.) asked congress to declare the atomic bomb as a weapon of defense only for the free nations—not to be used unless an aggressor hurls it first.

TO RISK a masterpiece of understatement, that could be a most dangerous policy as even a child could see. Give an aggressor first shot at us with the bomb before we retaliate? Some critics of such a plan might reasonably demand: How silly can you get?

An enemy equipped with enough bombs, and this nation, or any nation, in such a fix that there'd be no use and no opportunity to retaliate with the bomb.

From here it looks as though Senator Flanders may have nothing but his trouble for his work.

FLANDERS explained his plan as one which he believed might speed the United Nations' efforts to write an agreement on world-wide control of atomic energy.

Asked whether his plan might not arouse criticism that this country is denying itself its foremost weapon, the senator replied, "I don't think we should sell our immortal souls to the devil."

But in the American concept, stemming from 1776, to sell one's freedom to an enemy through non-use of the bomb might be tantamount to the situation which the senator finds distasteful.

ECONOMY:

Warning Sounded

President Truman's administration was coming in for some criticism as a result of the current bipartisan economy drive in congress. Senator Aiken (R., Vt.) warned that if the drive succeeds, it will put a powerful political weapon in President Truman's hands—and in an election year, at that.

Aiken argued that it would be tantamount to handing the President a two billion dollar campaign fund for the congressional elections next year.

FIFTY-SIX senators — 21 Democrats and 35 Republicans — have signed a petition to take up a resolution which would force Truman to balance the budget by cutting federal operating appropriations from five to 10 per cent in the fiscal year.

TRADE PACT:

Britons Jump Gun

In matters affecting its own welfare, Great Britain never has taken any but the realistic view, hence the signing of a five-year trade pact with Argentina — a pact to which the United States has vigorously objected.

THE PACT, calling for exchanges totaling 500 million dollars the first year, and looking to at least an equal volume the other years, commits the two nations to virtual barter.

The U.S. objected to the pact on the grounds that it violates the spirit of free competitive international trade.

Argentine President Juan Peron rapped outside criticism in a speech at ceremonies marking the end of negotiations which lasted more than five months.

"It is not possible," he said, "to hide the evil intentions and evil designs behind this criticism. This type of economic warfare is a sign of incapacity."

OPEN criticism of British action came from Senator Wherry (R., Neb.) who accused Britain of "selfishly promoting her own economic interests at the expense of the U.S. and European countries." He contended that the pact "defeats the very purpose of recovery and free exchange of goods in the world."

Paul G. Hoffman, U.S. economic cooperation administrator, also was concerned. He said he was strongly opposed to this type of "bilateral agreement" and that he would use every influence to discourage such two-way pacts.

LANDLORDS:

'Freeze' Is Out

Landlords would breathe with some relief as they read the latest announcement by federal housing expediter Tighe Woods.

Woods said "the freeze principle of rent control is now a thing of the past."

FOUR new rules easing rent controls would indicate that was the situation, but a closer look might raise some doubts.

First, owners putting more value into their property would be in line to collect increased rents. Then, local rent officials would have more leeway in adjusting rent ceilings in harmony with local real estate principles. Third would be the elimination of the "freeze" principle, and, fourth, making an "opinion" as to probable rent hike limits available to landlords or improve their property.

BUT—and there were three of these—the tenants still have protection. The proposed repairs or improvements can only be made with the tenant's permission, however, with these conditions the tenant may be overruled:

1. If the improvement is needed to maintain the property.
2. Where the improvements are consistent with local "practices and customs" or property management.
3. If the change is such as would increase the rental value in a normal market where free bargaining prevailed.

The rules were dispatched to all rent offices, Woods said.

Diet, Care Needed in Skin Health

By Ertta Haley

SKIN should be at its best during warm months, well colored, smooth and satiny. Summertime, however, for many girls is the time when they encounter most of their difficulties.

Sun and wind can do unpleasant things to the skin unless you're careful. Both of them can be drying to the extreme unless the skin has adequate protection.

Too much sun when the skin cannot "take it" will result in a severe and uncomfortable burn, to say nothing of the fact that it may be ruinous to the appearance. Sun bathing will do wonders for the skin, because of the ultra violet rays of the sun providing vitamin D, but you should not overdo it. Start with a short exposure time and build this up at the rate of five or ten minutes a day.

If the skin is extremely delicate and sensitive, use any of the many lotions which permit tanning without the discomfort of burning. Even though you give skin the protection of a lotion, it's still wise not to sun without building the time of exposure by degrees.

Good Skin Care Starts Within

No cosmetic preparations can cure a bad skin. Skin health begins internally with adequate diet, rest and cleansing. If the skin is roughened, spotty or has a tendency to break out, look first to your diet for the cause.

Drink plenty of water for a thorough cleansing of the system.

Take sun in small doses . . .

Cut down on heavy or fried foods, pastries and other rich foods and substitute with fruits, vegetables, salads, light desserts and at least a pint of milk daily.

Though it may sound far-fetched, rest and exercise are essential to a smooth, satiny skin. Here's why: circles under the eyes cannot be removed except by adequate rest. A sallow complexion can be helped only by stirring a brisk circulation that will flood the skin with a tinge of pink color that's desirable.

Coordinated Casual

Teen-agers are living in coordinated casual separates like the one illustrated above. A cruiser blue blouse is teamed with a Buffalo Nickel print in Indianhead cotton for smooth and durable wear. The classic style blouse with a bow at the neckline and the gracefully falling skirt may be turned out on your sewing machine with ease after a few lessons at the local sewing center even if you're a novice.

After you've checked the above pointers, then start on external care. Delicate skins with fine grain and a tendency to dryness may have to depend on creams and lotions for their cleansing. Average skins do well to combine soap and water cleansings with those of cream. Coarse, oily skin is best treated with consistent applications of soap and water.

How to Solve Special Skin Defects

Blackheads and whiteheads are common evidences of pore irregularities. They are both the result of oily accumulations. When the pores are open and the oily deposit collects grime, a blackhead results. When the oily deposit is under the skin, it is called a whitehead.

Cleansing is the answer to treating blackheads. The skin may be creamed or washed with soap and water, or both of these operations may be combined for best effect.

Hot applications may also be used on the face to open the pores and remove the grime. Another good idea is to use warmed oil and dab this on the skin with a clean pad or swab of cotton. When the skin is thoroughly warm and relaxed, with pores open, cover the finger tips with tissue and press out the blackheads.

If there is danger of bruising the skin and scarring it, it's best to continue applications until the blackheads yield, rather than treat the skin roughly to remove them at one time.

Soothe Skin After Treatment

The skin will be quite red after the treatment, particularly in the areas on which you have concentrated most. Pat on cream and let the redness die down.

After the creaming and a lapse of time, remove cream carefully and apply wads which have been dipped in ice water to the skin. These should be patted in an upward direction, with particular care being used around the eyes.

This application of ice pads should be repeated several times as it shrinks the pores and helps circulation, the astringent action of the cold drawing blood to the surface of the skin. The better the circulation, the easier it is for the blood to carry away impurities from the skin.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

'Point of No Return' in Politics

RECENTLY I was a delegate to a big New York convention in the interests of better citizenship. Hundreds of earnest, experienced men and women were there to make reports and speeches: the attorney general of the United States spoke; the mayor of the greatest city spoke.

The finest talk I heard, and it was in line with many others, was made by a white-headed, eloquent woman who asked us all to get into politics.

Oh, she didn't mean that you were to leave the children's lunches and the washing-machine and the vacation outing and "run" for something. What she asked was that you and I and everyone of us go to the little insignificant local political meetings, study the candidates for mayor and school board and state offices right in our own towns, hear men discuss measures and candidates—even if it is only for the job of deputy sheriff in a crossroads village of fifty souls.

Fatal Indifference It is because of you and me, and our indifference to what is going on politically, right in our midst, that the great international issues go wrong. It is because of you and me that our representatives—who haven't the faintest idea what we want or what we think, because we've never told them—lead us into measures utterly unnecessary, extravagant, dangerous.

We women know that we could stop wars. We've always known it. But we can't stop them by passing resolutions and wiring our congressmen and senators. Too many of them care only for votes, and know full well that before the next election comes around we'll have forgotten all about it.

One senator from an eastern state answered a reproachful telegram from some 300 of his women constituents with a bland "Rejoice that I was unable to be in the house when the bill was killed."

Another told me seriously that if he had kept a certain pre-election promise he would have been practically a dead-letter in Washington and given no opportunity at all. So naturally he hadn't kept it.

Unenviable Membership

No, we can't improve or serve our country by passionate appeals to men already in office. But we can reach them by nominating them to a new society recently invented by myself. This unenviable membership in the Y.D.G.B.T.O. will reach them—it will scare them, we will have no trouble with them once we get it going.

Those letters stand for "You-Don't-Go-Back-To-Office." In the case of local offices, change the last letter to your state or town. Know something about the men you have elected before the next election comes about, no matter how humble the job, and then get a few women together and decide which ones are eligible for the Y.D.G.B.T.O.

To do that intelligently you must watch your paper, and go to a few meetings. I say "a few," because, before you know it, you will become so absorbed in this new obligation that wild horses won't keep you away. Encourage your husband to go. Encourage the children, from 10 years up, to take an interest in

A congresswoman, smart busy and well paid and true in the excitement of Washington talked to me of this last year. She has three sons, now 7, 10, 19. She is a grandmother.

"Our town has less than inhabitants," she confided to "Phil and I got the habit of little political meetings a years ago.

"We began to make important little speeches here there. I was sent as a delegate to the state capital, lunched with governor, heard all sorts of and came home thrilled. Months later some women some men, too, called on me and asked me to run for state I won.

"There was a lot of housecleaning to do and I piled into it. Two or three big mad abuses went down like pack cards. It sounds terribly able: it wasn't. It was just unscrupulous men taking a stage of the political apathy the rest of us.

"Then to my amazement running for congress, and see picture on all the fences. All started with our giving two evenings a month to interesting, constructive talk."

Graphite Held Top Lubricant

New Process Seen Big Industry Aid

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—You could buy a car that would twice as long between overhauls with more speed and horse power while using less gas and saving much extra would you expect to pay? Chances are that within a few years you will be able to buy such an automobile for less than you pay for today's cars.

What would a nation pay peacetime "mothballing" planes that would leave planes, tanks and guns ready to get action on a second's notice most any price, probably, but actual cost would be little more than that of coating them with plastic film, as was done at World War II.

Important as they are, the applications are but two in process with a new graphite coating developed by two Los Angeles scientists, Ralph and Edwin Hall. They said that this coating lubricates extremes of heat and cold would render oil useless. It provides resistance to rust, corrosion which more than makes the toughest military demands.

The navy already is experimenting with the coating. They say the coating has proved resistant to salt water that yet tested. Being only ten-thousandths of an inch thick it would not have to be struck off before the weapon to which had been applied could be action.

The brothers spent more than years developing their process of applying graphite to virtually any metal, plastic or synthetic rubber surface. January they put it on the market. Since then, General Motors Corp. has been swamped with inquiries by the armed forces.

"Much of the work we are doing is secret," Droege said. "But it is the only lubricating method can be used effectively in extreme temperatures."

THE READER'S COURTROOM

Upstairs Tenant, Downstairs Drip

By Will Bernard, LL.B.

Is an Upstairs Tenant Liable for Letting Water Drip on the Floor?

A pair of newlyweds moved into a flat over a stationery store. One evening, the wife absent-mindedly left the faucet running in the wash basin—with the plug in! During the night, water leaked steadily through the floor and dripped onto some merchandise in the store below.

The merchant later filed suit for the damages he had sustained. At the trial, the young couple protested that the mishap had been "absolutely unintentional," but the court decided they were liable anyway. The judge said that each tenant in a building must use "reasonable care" not to damage the property of fellow-tenants.

A 10-year-old girl, riding on one of the "flying horses" on a merry-go-round, decided upon an experiment. Paying no heed to warnings posted on the wall, she dismounted, looked around a bit and then tried to climb back on. But as she did so, the heel of the descending horse struck and injured her ankle. She later brought suit against the owner for damages, but the court ruled against her. The judge said that, by disobeying the posted rules, she had "brought her injury upon herself."

A chorus girl was signed up for an acting role in a musical show, at twice her former salary. However, the show ran into various difficulties and never opened. Unable to find another job acting and unwilling to go back to the "line," the girl finally filed suit against the show's producer for breach of contract. He was willing to pay half of the girl's salary, but insisted that she should have made up the other half by resuming her work in the chorus. But the court made him pay the salary in full.

Do Courts Recognize The Law of Gravity?

A telephone repairman was aloft one day, fixing a wire, when the cross-arm on which he was leaning suddenly broke off. Injured in the fall, the repairman sued the company for damages. In his petition, he told everything that had happened—except that he forgot to mention dropping to the ground! The company promptly seized upon this technicality to insist that the claim was no good. The company argued that, in presenting a legal claim, nothing may be "left to the imagination." However, the judge brushed aside that objection and allowed the repairman to collect. He said the court took it for granted that, when the cross-arm broke, the law of gravity took over the situation!

Pity Never
Akin to Love
By Lawrence Gould

Is pity really sometimes "akin to love?"

Answer: Far from it. We get the idea that it is from the fact that when we are little, our mothers appear to give us more affection when we are sick or unhappy, but to try to win someone's love after you have grown up by making him sorry for you is a serious mistake. If he feels you're blaming him, he'll hate you for it, and if he does not, you'll ultimately bore him. The English psychiatrist, Dr. Laura Hutton, truly says that "In the long run most of us are attracted by happiness in others, not by unhappiness"—or "hard luck."

staying single than a cripple should be blamed because he "won't walk." There is no worse marriage than the sort in which a girl has forced herself to take a husband she does not love "so as not to be an old maid." Single life is infinitely better.

Can dull parents have bright children?

Answer: As a rule they have quite normal children, and what level of intelligence these children attain depends upon the conditions under which they are brought up. In the Journal of Genetic Psychology, Dr. Harold M. Skeels and Miss Irene Harms report the continuing success of the "Iowa Experiment," in which children with "inferior social histories" were given for adoption to superior foster parents. Though in many cases one or both of the children's parents were rated as "morons," the children have average intelligence or better.

Is being an "old maid" a disgrace?

Answer: Certainly not, though the notion seems to "die hard." It's each person's business to adjust to life on a basis that accepts his or her limitations, and a girl who has been so conditioned that she is afraid of marriage or cannot accept the role of wife and mother should no more be blamed for

UN CHAPEL WILL HAVE NO ALTAR . . .

'Divers Are the Ways to Approach God'

By H. I. PHILLIPS

"The chapel of prayer in the new United Nations headquarters will have no altar or windows. A shaft of sunlight will come through the roof. A huge marble slab, memorializing the war dead, will be the only object in the simple, cylindrical structure."—News Item.

No altar. . . .
No stained-glass windows. . . .
No man of Sorrows with his example of love, sacrifice, sorrow and ultimate victory that has stirred millions through the centuries. . . .
Just a shaft of sunlight beating in from above to symbolize hope, truth and an omnipotent power. . . .

Yet here can be the Universal Temple, the Cathedral of the Earth, the Prayer Room of All Races, Creeds and Sects, all communing with a Supreme Being in the realization that without it they are as video puppets!

A shaft of sunlight! Nothing more! Yet in it the Christian, Jew, Confucianist, Buddhist, Mohammedist and Zoroastrianist may know the mysteries of faith, see the holy of holies and seek the inspiration and guidance desired by all men.

In it, the Christian will see the manger at Bethlehem, hear "Holy Night," perceive the shepherds watching their flocks by night. . . . know the cleansing beauty of the Sermon on the Mount. . . . feel the horror of Golgotha. . . . thrill to the Resurrection morn!

Here may the Jew commune with Moses and his ancient prophets, the Turk turn to Mohammed and the Indian seek guidance from his separate gods. In this simple chamber may all hear the timeless voice!

May this be a "room at the inn," a manger, a temple and a mosque, breathing the true essence of divinity.

Here may troubled men, charged with a great duty in an hour of frightful peril, subscribe to the words of Sri Ramakrishna:

"As one can ascend to the top of a house by means of a ladder, a bamboo, a staircase or a rope, so divers are the ways to approach God, and every religion in the world shows these ways. Different are the ways that lead to the Temple of Kalighat; similarly varied are those that lead to the House of the Lord."

"There will be no windows. . . . Yet on these walls and in these shadows may men of all faiths find truth, charity, brotherly love and respect for the eternal verities.

Here, denied all symbols, may they hear the flutter of wings, stir to distant trumpets, and mark, "Thou shalt not kill" in a dozen tongues.

"A marble slab will be the only object in the room. . . ."

In it may the envoys see the devotion of the gallant dead, the sufferings of the widow and orphan.

May its rugged simplicity picture the kid in the sandlots suddenly defending a bloody barricade and echo the schoolgirl's laughter suddenly changed to words of comfort in a field hospital.

This is the indispensable structure, the all-important chamber. This is the simple, unadorned place without which all the elaborated council chambers will be as a field without sun or rain.

This is the cornerstone!

BETTY CLARK, star of the Sunday ABC "Betty Clark Sings," is one of those rare people who should be a lesson to all of us. It wasn't too surprising to learn that 12-year-old Betty recently was graduated from elementary school with an average of more than 90 per cent. She looks very intelligent. I was slightly surprised to learn that she skips rope and goes roller skating once a week. And of

The Fiction Corner

IT WAS ETHAN PRYOR's laughter that first attracted Abigail to him. When Ethan laughed every one else laughed. The sound had that mirthful, appealing quality that was infectious. It was good to hear. It gave you a feeling of well-being.

This all happened in 1929, when Ethan's retail antique business was netting him $15,000 a year. It was easy to laugh then. They were a jolly couple.

In 1931 Ethan's retail antique business dropped off from one-third its top amount to one-third, then to one-quarter.

That year passed and the next. The Pryors didn't find it so easy to laugh. They gave up their seven-room apartment and moved into a less expensive one.

In January of 1934 they moved to a single room in an unfashionable part of the city. Ethan was barely making enough to keep them from starving.

Abigail hunted for a week and eventually won for herself a job. It wasn't much of a job. She sat behind a glass window all afternoon and evening selling tickets for a stock company performance. The stock company wasn't doing so well. It looked as though it might fold up any day. But it paid $15 a week and would have to do until she could get something better.

Inspired, a little ashamed, Ethan went job hunting himself. He hunted a week, two weeks, without success. He began to brood. Abigail did her best to cheer him up, to get him into a happy frame of mind.

"Let's hear the old laugh ring out, darling. A pleasant frame of mind is half the battle." She sat on the arm of his chair. "Tell me what. Let's celebrate. Let's take $5 and go down to Tony's. We can have a gay time for a change."

THEY WENT to Tony's. They drank wine and ate a big dinner. They danced. They sat and watched the floor show. It wasn't a bad floor show. Among other things there was a comedian. The comedian was sad. He wasn't funny. But Abigail laughed. She laughed as though she thought he was tremendously funny.

Ethan looked at her. A fond light came into his eyes. She was trying to be gay. She was doing all she could to bolster up his spirits. He could at least help.

Ethan laughed. It was the old time, mirthful, appealing laughter. It rolled out and filled the room. Others heard it. Others laughed. They couldn't help it. They laughed with Ethan. The comedian was inspired.

After the show a man came up and sat down at Ethan's and Abigail's table. Abigail introduced him as the owner of the stock company show where she sold tickets. His name was Jones.

"Listen," said Mr. Jones. "We'll pay you $5 a night to come and laugh at our show. It's supposed to be a funny show. You can put it across."

Ethan scratched his chin. He looked at Abigail. He said: "Well, I dunno. For $40 a week I might consider it."

"Sold!" said Mr. Jones. Ethan looked at his wife when he got home. "You planned it!" he accused.

"Sure," said Abigail. "When you have something it should be cashed in on. You can laugh your way to riches, my dear."

Times were getting better. People were buying antiques. By the beginning of 1936 he was doing quite well. That summer he enlarged his shop.

"Well," said Abigail, happily, "I guess we laughed our way through that depression all right."

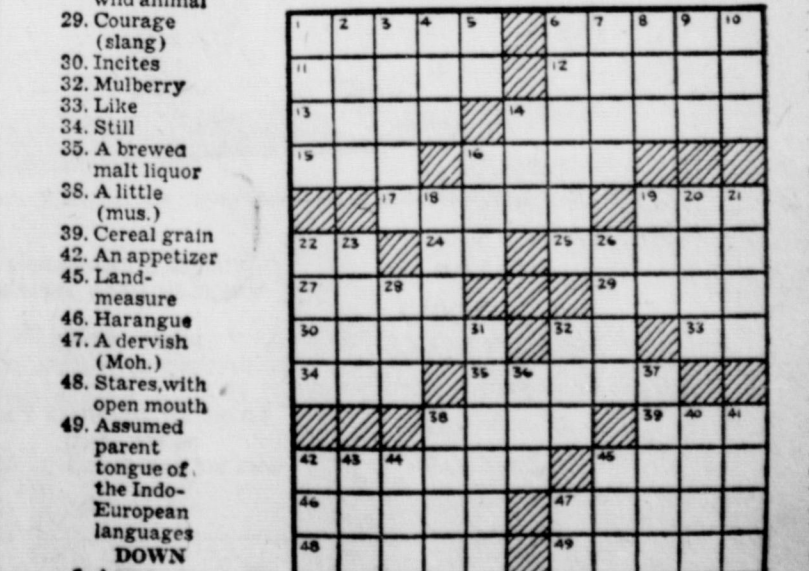

Ethan kissed her. Then he threw back his head and began to laugh. He laughed loud and long. "There!" he said. "That laugh isn't going to cost any one a cent. From now on I laugh because I want to and free of charge. Honey, I love you."

"Ditto," said Abigail.

KEEPING HEALTHY

Preventing Deaths from Appendicitis

By Dr. James W. Barton

SOME YEARS AGO the physicians and surgeons of Philadelphia made a determined effort to cut down the death rate in appendicitis. Within one year they reduced it to less than half of what it had been.

How was the death rate reduced by more than one-half in this short time?

These physicians had learned from their own experiences three definite truths. First, that the sooner the operation was performed the better; second, that no food should be given; and third, that no pain-killing drug should be used until the cause of the pain was found not to be appendicitis, as this drug masked or hid the symptoms.

When a pain occurs in the abdomen, even as high up as the stomach, many think that a dose of castor oil or of Epsom salts is the best treatment, as it clears away poisons or wastes. This would be good treatment in most cases but for the fact that appendicitis is such a common cause of pain in the abdomen.

A sluggish liver and gall bladder cause gas, and gas pressure causes pain. Constipation is another common cause of pain in the abdomen. The reason a cathartic, like castor oil or Epsom salts, is dangerous, should appendicitis be causing the pain, is because a cathartic stimulates so much movement in the intestine and this extra amount of movement may cause the appendix to rupture. A ruptured appendix causes peritonitis, usually fatal.

When a pain occurs in the lower right side of the abdomen (which may have started higher up in the stomach a few hours before) and remains in the appendix region for an hour without shifting elsewhere, call a physician at once.

In previous days it was not unusual for patients to be transported to a large city for an operation, which meant delay and a greater chance of rupturing the appendix. Today, the "nearest" hospital has surgeons capable of removing the appendix in minutes.

HEALTH NOTES

When the ankle or any other joint is sprained (not just strained), the injured part should be placed in hot water and kept hot for an hour at a time until swelling disappears. The joint then should be bandaged and placed on a chair if the patient is sitting or on a pillow if lying down. After a few days' rest, the joint is gently moved (without weight on it), and massaged toward the heart.

Some years ago I tried to count up the number of cases of headache. When it ran over 100, I stopped. Some researchers report over 200 causes.

Myalgia in the back of the neck and in the chest muscles (sometimes mistaken for pleurisy) can be caused by an infection in the nose and throat, with a resultant rise in temperature and pulse rate.

Produce Magic Mud With Multiple Uses

Ever since Belle Fourche, S. D., was a rip-snorting cattle town at the end of the old Chisholm trail its residents have been damning the "soap holes" that plagued the area.

Fast-riding cowboys often took a nasty tumble in this super-slippery mud and cattle were forever getting bogged down in them.

But now, like a man discovering his hives are really a blessing, Belle Fourche has found its soap holes are one of its biggest assets. Every one of them is filled with a magic mud called bentonite. It's an odorless, tasteless, soapy mud with a thousand uses and scientists are thinking up new ones every day.

Most of us already are using it a half dozen times a day, but almost nobody has heard of it. Men use it in shoe polish and hand cleaners. Women use it in face powder, lotions, beauty cream. Bentonite also is found in many types of paint, plaster and cleaning agents. It's handy for filling holes in giant dams and for casting moulds for molten metal. Forced down thousands of feet into the earth this magic mud lubricates the drills in oil wells and sends the debris up to the drillers.

Bentonite is the most absorbent material found in nature. When moistened it swells to several times its normal size. This quality makes it useful in waterproofing housing foundations and many other industrial uses.

Its new uses and increasing popularity for its older uses all add up to a boom such as Belle Fourche hasn't seen since the gold rush.

In the past 10 years the population has practically doubled and bentonite now pours $600,000 a year into the town in the form of additional purchasing power.

Fifteen years ago Belle Fourche shipped out three carloads of bentonite. Last year its production was 6,187 carloads and this year they expect carloading to go considerably higher.

Scientists say that bentonite, a strange mixture made up mostly of dust from prehistoric volcanoes, is found almost nowhere in the world except in the Black Hills of Wyoming and South Dakota.

It is the most absorbent material nature ever has devised, they say, and a half dozen teaspoonful will soak up a glass of water.

Soil Check May Answer Slow Tile Drain Puzzle
 If tile-drained land is slow in drying, check the organic matter content of your soils before blaming the tile system. Many tile lines that worked well when originally laid are now hampered because the water can't get through the soil to the tile. You open your soil and improve drainage when you grow well-fertilized deep-rooted legumes in the rotation and put back straw, cornstalks and manure.

MAINTENANCE CREW WADES MUD

To Maintain Good Gas Service
 PIPE line maintenance crews are but one of many divisions behind your natural gas service. A crew's job is to keep transmission pipe lines, carrying natural gas to your home, in good repair and to work during such emergencies that might occur.
 The picture, shown above, was made of a maintenance crew carrying repair equipment to the scene of a line break. Maintenance crews are trained to meet such emergencies, and due to their training the customers of the town this line serves continued to have good gas service although the natural gas flow was cut while the repair was being made.
 Yes... maintenance of pipe lines is very important to good gas service.
 Maintenance of pipe lines is only one of many functions performed by employees of West Texas Gas Company... all of which are designed to furnish you good natural gas service, high in quality, low in price... the best bargain in your family budget.

The Picture
 Members of one of West Texas Gas Company's maintenance crew are carrying a section of pipe to the scene of a pipe line break. Mud was so deep repair equipment could not be transported on trucks to the break, indicated by arrow, which is over one quarter of a mile from the men.

Teacher—"So you want to be older so that you can do many things that your brothers and sisters do, eh?"
 Small boy—"Yes, ma'am."
 Teacher—"Well, who is the oldest in your family?"
 Small boy—"Daddy is, but he got a head start."

"You should be ashamed of yourself," reprimanded the father as he gave his son a dressing down for not having advanced beyond the errand-boy stage at his place of business. "Why, when George Washington was your age he was hard at work as a surveyor, earning good money."
 "Sure," replied the youth in a swift counter-attack, "and when he was your age he was President of the United States."

"I don't agree with your theory of prenatal influence," said the young lady as she sipped her tea.
 "Take my case for example," she said. "My mother was accidentally hit with a phonograph record just before I was born, but it has not done me any harm, any harm, any harm."

Hubbie—"You look tired, dear. Why don't you go to the mountains for a nice rest?"
 Wifie—"Oh, I don't know. I don't think the mountain air would agree with me."
 Hubbie—"Well, it would be the first thing that didn't."

Freeze Foods for Future Use (See Recipes Below)

Freeze your Foods

ROAST TURKEY in mid-summer, broiled chicken in January and strawberry shortcake in December, these are some of the items which are a real possibility on menus if you have facilities for freezing your food. This may be a freezer right in your own home, or it might be space rented at one of the large lockers that are now available in so many localities.

Foods know no season when it's possible to freeze them, and, this, of course, is one of the best ways to avoid meal monotony. You simply freeze the food when it's at the peak of the season, then eat it when you want it.

Freezing food is one of the simplest of preserving methods since foods require only a minimum of preparation, and they retain their freshness until thawed and prepared.

How to Prepare Meat For Freezer

IT'S a simple job to freeze meat for future meals and you need follow only a few simple rules to do it successfully.

When choosing animals for freezing, select those healthy ones of size and weight which will produce the quality of cuts preferred by the family. Excessive fat is unnecessary, but an ample covering of fat protects the lean from drying out during the frozen storage. This latter does not apply to veal since that meat has little fat.

These rules apply whether you purchase meats from a market or produce house. Ask for quality cuts from prime cattle, and mention that you intend freezing them and the butcher may be more careful in his selection.

Once the carcass is prepared, chill the meat immediately as bacteria grow rapidly at the high temperatures. Molds, bacteria and yeast may ruin the flavor of the meat unless it is chilled at once.

Meat cutting is no job for a novice and should be done by the butcher or an expert meat cutter at a locker plant. You, however, should specify cuts you want, if you've purchased a carcass or part of one. It's a good idea to have the meat cut in family size portions to eliminate waste, since the meat cannot, or should not be frozen once it has been thawed.

It's popular, too, to have meat boned since it requires less freezing space, and since the bones cannot puncture wrapping paper once they're eliminated.

Proper Wrapping Saves Quality

IT'S UNWISE to economize on wrapping paper for frozen foods since the meat may dry out and "freezer burns" often result. Regular butcher paper, ordinary waxed paper or grocery store type paper are not used. Moisture and vapor-proof paper bags or cartons made especially for this purpose are best. They should be easy to fold, wrap or handle, tough enough to resist tearing, and capable of receiving an ink or china pencil mark for labeling.

LYNN SAYS: Use These Freezing Tips to Help You

Varieties are of great importance in the successful freezing of fruits. Apples for sauce, for example, should be Baldwins, Greenings, Northern Spy or Yellow Transparent types.

Study the freezing space which will be available to you, and plan how much of each fruit, vegetable, meat or poultry you will have. Don't overstock one item so that you can't freeze something you want.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

- Chicken Shortcake with Gravy
- Buttered Lima Beans
- Carrot Sticks Beverage Cookies
- Peach Salad in Cherry Gelatin
- Peppermint Ice Cream

Each bundle of meat in the freezer should contain enough meat for your family for a meal. Wax or waterproofed paper may be used between each hamburger, steak or chop since this makes them easy to separate and hastens thawing once they come out for use. Or, in this case, you may readily remove two or three chops without thawing the whole package.

Pull the proper wrapping tightly around the meat to smooth out all possible air and eliminate air pockets. The package should be smooth and firmly packed to conserve storage space.

Seal the paper with a "drugstore fold" which means bringing one edge over the other and folding it over the shorter sheet. Now twist or fold the ends and seal with acetate (scotch) tape. This tape is not affected by moisture or cold.

Label all packages so you can easily identify them when you want them. The label should contain the type of meat enclosed, the number of servings or the weight in pounds, and the date on which it was wrapped for freezing.

As soon as the meat is wrapped and labeled, place in the freezer. If you do not have a freezer at home, store the packages in the refrigerator until you can take them to the locker, but this should not be more than a few hours.

Frozen Poultry Keeps Well

Frozen poultry is one food which keeps well in its frozen state, and requires even less attention than freezing meat since you yourself can prepare it for freezing with no special tools. Clean the bird and disjoint it, and in place of cooking it, wrap it for freezing to be cooked several months later.

Birds are killed, bled, plucked, chilled and dressed before they can be packaged. If you desire, it's a great convenience to stuff the poultry and freeze it in that state, so the poultry is ready to pop in the oven for Christmas or Thanksgiving dinner. Do not use sage in the dressing if you expect to keep the bird more than three months since the flavor permeates the meat.

Here's a guide for chicken to be frozen: broilers should not weigh over two and a half pounds dressed, or be over 12 weeks old; frying chickens should weigh from three to three and a half pounds and be 20 weeks old.

Fowl for fricassee may weigh from four to six pounds and can be from one to two years old. A roasting chicken should weigh four to five pounds, but is best if not more than a year old. Capons should weigh from 7 to 10 pounds but should not be over 8 to 10 months old.

Fruit juices for breakfast or beverages are easily frozen. Select good juices from well-matured fruits and chill thoroughly. Extract the juice and pour into paraffin coated tubs or cylinders. Freeze immediately.

Water used for washing fruit, berries and vegetables should have ice in it unless the temperature is lower than 65°.

Speed the harvest to the freezer just as you speed food to the can for canning to prevent food value loss and deterioration.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Union Sunday School Lessons
By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Psalms 24: 84; 95: 1-7b.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 96: 1-9.

Why Church Music?

WHY church music? Hymn books are expensive, learning new hymns is a bother, choirs are a lot of trouble. Most preachers need more time for their sermons; why not cut out the music and let them have fifteen minutes extra? No sir; it won't do. Say what you please, the average church-goer knows better than that. He may never have thought it out and he might not have heard of the word "hymnology," but Mr. Average Churchman likes music in the church, even if he never opens his mouth himself.

Dr. Foreman

Lesson for July 17, 1949

Liturgy
SINGING in church was not invented yesterday. In the Psalms, as in our own hymnals, some of the poems were originally written and intended for use in public worship. The word "liturgy" simply means the order of manner of service, and all churches have liturgies whether they give them that name or not.

Our familiar "Holy, Holy, Holy," was written for use in an early morning service; "Bread of the world" was written as a Communion hymn; "Break Thou the Bread of Life" while often used at Communion was not so intended, as you can tell by reading it carefully; it was meant for use just before the reading of the Scripture.

"Day is Dying in the West" is best used in an out-door service, "Ivory Palaces" was written one Sunday afternoon in North Carolina for use in an evangelistic meeting that night. It might interest you to leaf through your own hymnal and see how many hymns were written purposely for church use.

Songs of the Temple

THREE liturgical Psalms are our lesson selection. Use your imagination when you read them. As you read Psalm 24, think of a great procession marching through the streets of Jerusalem on a holy day and approaching the tall temple shining on the city's highest hill. Singing as they climb, perhaps one part of the congregation sings the question: "Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? Who shall stand in his holy place?" Perhaps another group of voices takes up the answer: "He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart..." As the great gates swing open, the chant rises: "Lift up your heads, O ye gates!" for the King of Kings, the Lord of Lords, is marching.

The little kings (in Israel and over the world) have come and gone; only the Lord of Hosts is the King of Glory. Singing the story of God brings it before the mind far better than reading about it in a book!

Then the 84th Psalm is taken from what they called the "Chief Musician's Collection," evidently a part of what we now would call the choir library. It is the song of a man who loves the church and loves the people whom he finds there. Psalm 95: 1-7b is also obviously a song for public worship, and still is sung every morning in churches around the world.

The Best is Not Too Good

IF in ancient times when God's people were learning to sing, the noblest poems of inspired men were set to the best music available and used for the honor of God and the help of man, then surely Christians ought to do no less.

If you had a friend coming to see you, one whom you respect and wish to honor, you certainly would not set the table with all the chipped-up old kitchen china and you wouldn't put wilted flowers on the table and you certainly wouldn't keep the radio tuned to the tin-pianest trash you could find on the dial.

No, if you have anything for him you want it to be of the very best. Why not so with God? The house of God is no place for cheap, bad music, jingly meaningless rhymes instead of noble hymns and psalms, tiresome grind-organ tunes or jazzy swing stuff instead of music that has real power and beauty. If nonsense is bad in a sermon, it is worse in a prayer and worst of all in a hymn. If mere noise is bad in a sermon, it is worse in a prayer and unbearably bad in a hymn.

Vibration In Washing Machine

One of our readers, noting an item about a vibrating washing machine solved a similar problem to her satisfaction, and wrote as follows: "If she (the other reader) will be sure to pack the clothes in very firmly and tightly, and keep turning the grease cup as per instructions, she will find the vibrating has almost ceased except, of course, in the case of heavy articles such as overalls, rugs, etc. If she can keep the washing part full of water and sort of lean on it, it is barely noticeable even with these heavy articles." I am glad to pass this along for the benefit of other readers who have had the same difficulty.
