TEXAS FARMERS should produce the third largest wheat crop in the state's history this year, according to the Crop reporting Board of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. If the yield is realized it will come from the largest acreage yet seeded in Texas.

C. O. ELIOTT, blind war veteran of Plainview, will have a home for his family, thanks to Plainview citizens. A $2,000 fund goal sponsored by the city's Lions Club was passed last week.

THE FIRST post war homecoming for West Texas State College of Canyon will be held Oct. 25th.

MORTON farmers are installing irrigation systems to nullify a short age of rain.

A LOWER WATER rate has been approved by the city council of Haskell creating a saving to persons cultivating summer gardens.

WELL DIGGERS of Haskell dug 29 feet to outdo Eastland County's Old Rip --- the horned frog who presumably spent the greater part of his life confined in a corner of a stone. Two horned frogs were discovered by the workmen at the 29 foot level. Greenish in color, the frogs were probably set their natural hue after basking in sunshine, according to witnesses.

SOFT BALL POPULAR

Softball has taken the spotlight for entertainment and relaxation in O'Donnell with all three of the local clubs sharing the spotlight. The Gingers won two games last week with Tahoka and Lamesa. The Builders lost a good game to the fast Manhattan Club from Big Springs. The school team showed a lot of improvement by easily taking Tahoka.

SIDELIGHTS FROM WASHINGTON

By George Mahon

Our Subcommittee on Appropriations for Government owned Corporations is now in the third week of hearings. It will be late in May before our bill will be ready for submission to the House for action.

We have concluded hearings on the seven corporations which operate in the interest of agriculture. The Commodity Credit Corporation is perhaps the most powerful Government Corporation which deals with agriculture. The CCC operates the price support and loan programs for cotton and grain and numerous other agricultural crops. Congress has guaranteed a support price, or loan, of 92 1-2 per cent of parity on cotton for a two year period following the year in which the official end of the war is declared. A support price of 90 per cent is similarly provided for other basic crops.

Loans and purchases thru the years by the CCC on cotton, wheat, corn, peanuts, eggs and other farm products run into the billions of dollars, but the CCC has sustained relative few losses on crop loans and purchases. On cotton the CCC has made a net profit of $147,000,000. Cotton farmers will rejoice the fact that practically all Government owned cotton will have been disposed of prior to August 1st. This is particularly gratifying when it is recalled that at one time the CCC had on hand over 11 million bales of surplus cotton.

Governor I. W. Duggan of the Farm Credit Administration has appeared in support of the four Government Corporations under his supervision, all having a direct bearing on the year to year operations of millions of American farmers. Governor Duggan expressed alarm over the sky-rocketing of farm land prices. However, in contrasting the rise in farm real estate during World War 1 and World War 2, he pointed out the encouraging fact that while the mortgage debt of the farmers rose sharply during World War 1, the mortgage debt of farmers went down during World War 2. The mortgage debt of farmers is now 5 1-4 billion dollars, the lowest since 1916.

The remarkable war record of the farmers of America was made in spite of manpower and machinery shortages and often in the face of inadequate prices.

According to Governor Duggan, the total assets -- real estate and otherwise -- of farmers have increased from 53 billion dollars in 1940 to 56 billion dollars in 1946. He said that American farmers are now indebted for all purposes only to the extent of 10 per cent of their assets. It is estimated that in cash, Government bonds and bank deposits, the farmers of the nation have a total of 15 billion dollars.

Of course, what we need in West Texas right now is not agricultural statistics but a good rain. Quite often these days members of Congress from agricultural areas can be seen standing in front of a weather map which hangs just outside the House of Representatives and which records weather conditions throughout the Nation as of 1:30 a. m. each morning, Washington time. The red arrow, indicating fair weather and no rain, is too often apparent over West Texas.

Mrs. Russell Curd, who is attending a nursing school at Lubbock, arrived home last week and for a vacation with her parents, Mr and Mrs. Max Curd and her grandmother, Mrs. C. R. Burleson.

CHURCH PROGRAM IS ENJOYED LAST SUNDAY

Last Sunday at the Calvary Baptist church the Jacksonville Baptist College quartet gave an hour of musical entertainment with an address by Gerald Keller, president of the College. A large audience enjoyed the program. The college recently started a drive to raise $35,000 to build a boys dorm and over half of this amount has been raised to date. The local church contributed $47.26 to the building.

RAIN ORDERED

V. B. Hahn and Cap Boales had better be correct about this rain deal. Mr. Hahn said a rain by May 19th (Friday) and Cap said a rain by Monday. Many of this area are worried because so many signs of last year's dry weather are reappearing this year. Monday night's rain over the area north of Tahoka was spotty with Grassland getting a good rain.

SCHOOL BONDS CARRY

Last Saturday 152 voters went to the polls to decide the $75,000 bond issue for school improvements favorably by a vote of 132 to 20.

Supt. S. F. Johnson said that the grade school would receive attention first with the building being completely modernized with a hot lunch program being effected. Construction on the gym can not be started until a building priority is secured. The present O. K. school building, not being used, will probably be scrapped to furnish a portion of the building materials for the gym.

There are approximately 600 school students in the Consolidated district, and with continued school improvements the local school will probably grow as a receiving high school for neighboring rural schools.

Tom Vandell, City and School Secretary, said that approximately 94 per cent of the 1945 school taxes were collected and 92 per cent of the City taxes. This is an unusual high collection record.

To School Board Meeting At San Antonio Monday the State Board of Education will meet and Supt. Johnson and many, if not all, of the local trustees are expected to attend. The local board hopes to secure favorable financial assistance from the State Board.

BAPTIST PASTOR TO GO TO CONVENTION

Last Sunday the First Baptist Church selected Rev. J. M. Hale to represent the local church at the national Baptist convention soon to be held at Miami, Fla. Bro. Hale is serving his church here well and the trip is a token of the local church's esteem for his service.

EUROPE'S LITTLE PEOPLE 1946

'Alles Kaput,' Germans Complain As They View Destroyed Cities

By PAULINE FREDERICK
WNU Foreign Correspondent

HAMBURG (ENGLISH ZONE), GERMANY.—It was obvious that Frau Hohlman was not satisfied with her lot. She said it was cold—and it was, with little heat from the tiny stove. But I could have led her to shacks and underground hovels where there was even less heat and no substantial walls to keep out the weather such as surrounded her.

She also said there was not enough food—black bread, marmalade and coffee for breakfast, soup and potatoes for lunch, and so on. She poured on the table a few pieces of cracked grain to show me what they were eating; then carefully picked up every piece of it and put it back in the box as though it were a precious stone.

But Frau Hohlman was more fortunate than a lot of her country women. She had chickens in her back yard. And when I accidentally got a peep into her pantry, I saw two long loaves of bread, two and a half rolls of what was probably margarine, and a can that undoubtedly contained food. Not all German larders are like that.

Frau Hohlman is fortunate enough to live in a prefabricated house. She was wearing a blue-checked apron and blue sweater. She did not know I was coming, but she admitted me, although a little suspiciously, to the combination kitchen-living room and bedroom where there was a bed in one corner with the red feather pillows turned back to air.

Fuel and Food Scarce.
The furniture consisted of a cupboard, a table, chairs, a radio and a small wood stove with some sticks drying in the oven. A large double window framed in muslin curtains opened to the garden. The other room of the cottage had two beds in it, and a dresser. It, too, had a large window. The place was light and airy, although small.

I visited another prefabricated house where a cheerful, emaciated young man in his 20's lived with his wife and year-old baby. I saw their pantry, too, and I saw nothing but a small piece of bread and a half-eaten dish of macaroni. But the father said "everything was fine," and when I gave him two cigarettes RUINS . . . But "a roof over one's head" is most desired, for walls can be built of stones.

'No One Wants to Shoot Children'

As the train from Copenhagen slowed down for Hamburg, I saw six cars of coal standing on a siding. Little boys, women and old men were swarming over them, furtively filling sacks. I asked a military official why this was permitted when only that week a 25 per cent cut in the coal supply had meant a week's shut-down in industry that had begun so that there would be no interruption to electricity.

"You can't get anyone to shoot

he was profuse in his thanks. He pointed with pride to the little pile of brush and the stump in the yard which furnished fuel. The pretty, runny-nosed baby smiled, too.

"Alles kaput," said Frau Hohlman, using the current German expression in describing what had happened to their old home when a bomb hit it.

But here she lives today with her husband who works in a margarine factory, and with her married daughter whose husband is still missing in Russia. With electricity, the house costs them 24 marks a month. The husband earns about 40 marks a week, and more if he works at night. The Hohlman yard was furrowed for spring gardening.

As I talked with Frau Hohlman, the food ration was being met, although there was a great shortage in potatoes and the only vegetables available were a certain amount of turnips and cabbage. But what I could not tell them was the dire picture of the food situation in the British zone unless a miracle happens. It was revealed to me at British military government headquarters at Minden by F. Hollins, director of food and agriculture.

Famine in British Zone.
Mr. Hollins told me that at the rate the bread grain stocks were going down and not being replenished, pockets of starvation could soon be expected in the British zone. The food permitted the Germans by the British is designed to provide 1,543 calories per day for the average person, with 2,250 for heavy workers, 2,800 for pregnant and nursing mothers. Bread and the cereal products make up 60 per cent of the caloric diet. The city of Hamburg alone uses between 350 and 400 tons of grain a day.

Bread is especially vital here because of the heavy workers in the Ruhr and the Rhineland. In order to keep from cutting the ration before the spring months when vegetables would make it more bearable, the British zone needs at least 200,000 tons of wheat a month until the end of June. Only half that amount arrived in February and at a late date none had been programmed at all for March.

When the British took over this zone they found 21 million people, or a million and a half more than lived here in 1939. In bombed-out areas, homes had to be provided as well as food. Of the 5½ million dwelling units available in 1939, about half of them have been destroyed by bombing. Anything that can be used to provide a roof is sought by the Germans, but their biggest demand is for food.

"We are living on the edge of a precipice," Mr. Hollins told me, "and it would take very little to topple the thing over and make the situation very serious indeed." Once more I am hearing the cry of "bread" as I have heard it in many countries in the last year. And I have been wondering what the answer will be.

children," was the answer. As I had crossed the border from Denmark, one sight of all others made me realize I was back in Germany. It was the stumps of freshly-cut trees.

As I waited in front of the station for transportation, a scabby-faced boy in his teens begged me for cigarettes, and a child asked for chewing gum. On the way to the hotel, I saw an old man rummaging through a trash can.

Montanan Urges Farmers to Sell Wheat and Save World

By WALTER A. SHEAD
WNU Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Farmers should deliver their wheat to the government and do it now, if we are to save the lives of millions of persons who are wasting away from starvation in many countries of the world.

This is the belief of Thomas D. Campbell, the nation's biggest farmer, tall, lanky, sun-browned, white-thatched, enthusiastic, purposeful westerner of Hardin, Mont.

Colonel Campbell, for he is a full colonel in the U. S. army, is delivering 500,000 bushels of his own wheat to the government under terms of the offer of the department of agriculture as fast as he can secure trucks and cars to get it to the railroads, in an effort to get together 200,000,000 bushels of wheat for shipment.

Gives Reasons.

The dynamic westerner declares that farmers, large and small, should deliver their wheat to the government, immediately, for the following reasons:

1. The announced plan of the D. of A. to buy wheat at the market relieves the farmer of any uncertainty of price. Any farmer, under terms of the offer can deliver his wheat, receive a certificate from the government, and hold that certificate for as long as April 30, 1947, and elect at any time within that period to sell. This gives him the advantage of a higher price when it comes.

2. The government has ordered No. 1 priority for cars for shipment, although there remains the problem of trucks to get the wheat to the county elevators.

3. The farmers who figure their income tax on a cash basis will have the advantage of increased prices and reduced rate on their taxable income, as the government carries him without cost or interest on the loan while he holds his certificate for the higher prices.

4. Delivery of wheat now will empty storage and provide room for the coming crop. Owing to housing demands, it will be impossible to build increased storage facilities.

5. Perhaps the most important reason why the farmers should release their wheat now is the humanitarian reason, for it will mean early shipping, to save lives and to build renewed hope in the breasts of millions of people who today are without hope.

FOOD . . . Col. Thomas D. Campbell, Montana wheat rancher, urges sending of wheat to Europe to feed the starving. At one time he farmed 56,000 acres.

"Off We Go" AVIATION NOTES

FLYING BATHTUBS

Drs. C. F. Code, E. H. Wood and E. J. Baldes of the Mayo aero medical unit told physiologists at the first session of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology that if the pilot of a fighter plane could sit in a bathtub full of water while he was doing fast turns, loops and other evasive maneuvers he would be much less likely to "blackout." Men were spun around on a centrifuge to test the effects of immersion in water as protection against blackout. With water up to just below the breastbone, the men were protected against the effects of acceleration to an amount expressed as 0.9 g. When the water level was raised to the level of the third rib, the protection was 1.7 g., which is comparable with the protection given by the special anti-blackout suits.

GRANGE AND AIR

The National Grange, speaking for 750,000 families, has said: "Transportation by air in the postwar period will assume an economic importance to agriculture and to the nation as a whole far beyond that which existed prior to World War II."

Today's Q. and A.

Q.—What is "seat of the pants" flying?

A.—It was flying in the old days before there were instruments. When the plane went up or down or tipped, inertia of the flyer's body changed his position in his seat enough for him to feel the difference and he could sense the position of the plane accordingly. In the air-lanes nowadays a pilot can tell where he is and the altitude of his plane at every moment entirely by instruments even in the thickest weather or darkness.

Early Women Pilots

Back in 1929 when any kind of airplane pilot was regarded with awe, Miss Manila Davis of Flatwoods soloed a small English Moth aircraft at East Boston, Mass., and in 1930 earned her private pilot's license to be credited with becoming the first licensed West Virginia woman pilot. She is now the wife of B. B. Talley, Huntington, W. Va.

Designers of tomorrow's planes are planning to use helium gas to inflate the tires to make them lighter than air.

SPRAYS TREES . . . To control hemlock looper in northwestern Oregon, this special dusting plane is used. For some tests, lead arsenate suspensions were sprayed; for others, DDT.

PLANES PLANT

A 20-day job of seeding 300 acres of wheat with sweet clover was cut to 12 hours by A. T. Sumner and Sons farm near Milford, Ill., when an airplane was used. Without having to wait for ideal soil conditions, 360 pounds of seed was "sprayed" with what was found to be from 36 to 112 seeds per square foot. Those who did the seeding were Glenn Schuetz, Carl Shelton and Bob Gunn, who operate a crop dusting service. All are pilots and own farms.

A. When a veteran of any war, discharged or released from active service under conditions other than dishonorable, a veteran of any war in receipt of compensation or pension, or a veteran of other than wartime service discharged for disability incurred in line of duty or in receipt of pension for service connected disability dies after discharge, the Veterans Administration may pay for burial and funeral expenses and transportation of the body to place of burial, a sum not exceeding $100.00.

Q. What veterans are entitled to special privileges under the homestead laws of the United States?

A. Any veteran who served not

Further information may be secured from the General Land Office, Department of Interior, Washington, 25, D. C.

Q. May a veteran who has no service-connected disability be entitled to a pension?

A. Americans who have recently returned from Spain inform us that the Spanish undergrounders have launched a campaign of ridicule similar to the one that flourished in Germany when Hitler was in power. Frixample: Night after night the walls in an industrial section of Madrid are daubed with anti-fascist inscriptions. In vain the Spanish soldiers hunted for the authors of this outrage. One day, a tired and enraged soldier wrote under one of the slogans on the wall: "Why don't you do it in broad daylight, you cowards!"

The next day there was an answer: "Sorry, but in the daytime we are too busy parading with you fellows!"

Heywood Brown was an optimist who believed that men of good will would some day build a world of peace and prosperity. But there were times when tragic news left him glum.

A friend who was with Brown when he was depressed heard him mutter: "This world started from chaos and it will end in chaos. What happens in between does not seem to matter very much."

When an interviewer asked H. L. Mencken what he thought of love at first sight, Menck snapped: "It's a labor-saving device!"

A foreign newsboy tells us that the black market has dominated Europe's economy so long. Europeans now have a standard joke about it. "Countries should concentrate," they say, "on building jails and lunatic asylums. The former are for the people who buy in the black market—the latter are for those who don't."

Food Is World's Big Problem Today

30 Million European Children Face Famine; Act to Increase Production of Cheap Clothing

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

FOOD: Children's Need

Having always maintained that first care must go to children if a race is to survive, Herbert Hoover and his advisers studying the world food situation for President Truman urged extra feeding of Europe's undernourished youngsters to avert starvation or abnormal development.

From 200 to 300 million dollars will be needed for supplementary feeding of 30 million seriously underfed European children, Hoover's advisers said. This contrasts with the 80 million dollars spent after World War I to provide extra food for 10 million youngsters. In Poland, where the height, weight and age ratio is said to be the worst in Europe, 340,000 children must be cared for in institutions and an additional 2,400,000 require extra food and clothing.

While all fresh milk supplies are earmarked for children in Germany, infant mortality for February was 14.6 per 1,000. Next to Poland, the Reich's needs perhaps are greatest, with the people's organizing ability helping to somewhat relieve the situation.

In Austria, most of Vienna's 90,000 children get a bowl of watery soup and a one ounce roll daily, with Swedish, Swiss, Danish and U. S. charitable organizations providing relief for only about 10 to 20 per cent of needs.

Of Yugoslavia's 1 million children in need of supplementary feeding, 120,000 are orphans and 450,000 have only one parent. Infant mortality is 21 per 1,000.

Meanwhile, U. S. millers and food manufacturers held production of flour and wheat preparations to 75 per cent of the amount used in the corresponding period of 1945 as part of the government program to conserve grain for relief shipment overseas.

At the same time, farmers were being urged to sell wheat to the government for a 30 cent a bushel bonus to permit accumulation of sufficient stocks to meet the pressing overseas need. To assure adequate feed to help replace wheat, the government also offered farmers a premium of 30 cents a bushel on corn.

TEXTILES: Restore Controls

Intensifying its efforts to spur the production of inexpensive clothing, the government restored wartime control over textile manufacturers and granted additional price increases to increase the output of cheaper material.

To assure supplies of certain cheaper material, the Civilian Production administration ordered mills to employ the same number of spindles for specified cotton yarns as they did on December 31, 1945. As a result, production for shirts, shorts, work clothes, men's suits, hosiery, sewing thread, toweling and cotton duck is expected to increase to 235 million pounds for each remaining quarter of this year.

At the same time, the OPA ordered manufacturers to set aside from 30 to 85 per cent of certain types of cotton yarn to meet the needs for knit hosiery and underwear; woolen and worsted fabrics and agricultural and industrial goods.

Together with earlier increases for cotton fabric, a 5 per cent boost in price ceilings for combed and carded yarns is designed to help achieve a 50 per cent rise in output of such essential items as work clothes, wearing apparel and agricultural and industrial goods.

DIVORCES:

Throughout the English-speaking world the astronomical increase in divorce brought on as an aftermath of World War II gave rise to general alarms and revolutionary outlooks upon marriage and the family. Prof. Ernest R. Groves has stated in an article prepared for the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Whereas in 1914 there had been 600 divorces in all England, in 1945 in London alone there were 4,000 divorce cases waiting to be heard.

Professor Groves lists the causes of the great boom in divorce mills as imprudent, hasty marriages, marriages made for such ulterior motives as receiving government allowances allotted to wives of servicemen, "passion marriages" and marriages that had no proper start because of the hectic circumstances before the husbands went overseas.

Another factor contributing its part to marital breakups was unfaithfulness of wives, either real or imagined by servicemen returning from overseas.

POLITICS: Party Line

Addressing the National Citizens' Political Action committee in San Francisco, Calif., Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace raised the age-old American political question of party loyalty, declaring that congressmen who renounce their party program should be disciplined.

Stating that even Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover had subscribed to the principle of party loyalty, Wallace said that once the party had agreed upon an issue, each congressional member should go along.

No Mistaking 'Jerk' Now

Though it is supposed that present-day Americans know what a "jerk" is—especially if they themselves happen to be annoyed by a bothersome person—they will be able to find the meaning of the expression in the new 150,000 word abridged Funk and Wagnalls dictionary to appear this fall.

Mercifully defining a "jerk" as "an unpopular person," the word is just one of several flippant but widely used expressions to be listed in the dictionary. Thumbing the pages, a reader also will find:

Jive—The jargon of swing music; also swing music.

Corn—Trite, banal, especially jazz rendered in a sweet or sentimental manner.

Cheesecake—A photograph featuring a girl's legs.

Snafu—Situation normal, all fouled up.

While on food study tour of Europe, Herbert Hoover visited fish market in Copenhagen, Denmark, where supplies are plentiful. Because of lack of transportation, surplus fish have to be dumped in sea.

WASHINGTON DIGEST

Food Shipments Will Help Write the Peace in Europe

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

Since Good Friday, when you heard a President and an ex-President speaking on the same radio program, one in the White House, the other across the Atlantic in Egypt, you have read and heard many other appeals in preparation for a drive which will start shortly to get food to five hundred million starving men, women and children in Europe and Asia.

The voluntary effort to cut down food consumption simply hasn't worked.

It isn't that the people are unwilling. It's that there was no immediate way to cut down on our eating which seemed practical. And so a practical means of getting food in cans is to be tried, and its success will depend on the local volunteer organization in your community. The foods needed are milk (condensed, evaporated or dried), meat, fish, peanut butter, baby foods, baked beans, juices, stews, soups, honey, vegetables.

I know that you have heard this before in detail. I hope you will hear it again, with further details, but perhaps you don't realize what you and the United States can get in return for the food we send out, and what we may lose if starvation becomes widespread.

The whole question is pointed up in a not-too-prominently displayed dispatch from Moscow to which an official called my attention last week. It was a statement made by a correspondent of the Soviet paper Izvestia, who had been touring the American zone in Germany.

"The food stuff difficulties which forced lowering of rations (in the American zone)," the correspondent wrote, "are explained, in my view, not so much by the absence of productive districts as by a lack of order and distribution of agricultural products." Then he went on to explain that the big estates had not been broken up, as they were in the Russian zone.

Hunger Used as Political Weapon

This criticism, which I think investigation will prove to be exceedingly biased and unfair, reveals how food, or the lack of it, is serving and can serve as a weapon to stir up discontent and to bring the western countries into disrepute and disfavor.

Revolution follows hunger just as surely as hunger follows war.

As a matter of fact, one of the most efficient organizations in the American military zone of Germany is the agency which distributes food. Working closely with it is another highly efficient American agency which the British have used as a model in their zone—the health and sanitation division.

However, there is a food shortage in Germany, just as there is in the rest of Europe. The effects are the same everywhere, and Germany serves as an excellent example of the political effects of a food shortage. There, the American authorities can accurately check on what is going on since the military government is so closely tied in to every phase of the daily lives of the people.

Recently a military government official in Germany wrote to me: "No slogan was ever truer than 'Food will win the war and write the peace.'"

We are about to sit down at the peace table with Italy. Russia probably will not be present. But the food that Italy does not have may affect the validity of that peace treaty.

A revealing comment on how this works was appended to a report made shortly after the British were forced to drop to a 1,500-calorie scale and coal production dropped approximately 20 per cent. This was the comment:

"Heavy workers are dropping at their work and food riots have already taken place. If this ration is not raised soon, there will be no coal; without coal there will be no transportation; without coal and transportation, there will be no processing of food from indigenous resources. . . .

"The fact that we now have to go back on our pledged word to the German people will seriously impair our prestige and the confidence of the German people in the pledged word of our officials. This will give to those who oppose our economic system the best weapon they have ever received. As fast as possible, we are losing all the advantages gained by the success of arms. We are losing the peace much faster than at the close of World War I. The first great blow has been the food muddle. Others will pile up like a snowball. . . .

"It appears that we will have to reduce the already inadequate ration for Berlin. This, of course, will give the Russians a strong talking point against the western powers when we cannot afford to sustain the 1,550-calorie ration for the normal consumer."

And so the path of our friend, the reporter from Izvestia, crosses that of the American official. Clearly we see the different segments of the picture which opponents of western democracy have sketched in no faint strokes across the troubled world.

Yes, indeed, food will write the peace!

With typical American ingenuity, the Sands of Chicago, Ill., solved housing shortage by buying old street car for $200 and converting it into dwelling. This is one of several hundred old trolley cars which were sold by a street railway company to veterans rather than burn them as is usually done.

IT'S NIP AND TUCK

OPA Fight Continues in Senate

WASHINGTON.—An all-out battle is on, with manufacturers and wholesalers on one side and the CIO and various consumer groups on the other, over the crippled OPA extension bill which was passed by the house and is now being considered by the senate.

Never in history has the consideration of a bill before the senate brought such an avalanche of mail from John Q. Citizen and his missus. They want to be heard, and they are demanding extension of full price control to four to one. Most representatives and senators say their mail is so heavy that it cannot be answered.

Chester Bowles, director of economic stabilization, has appealed to the nation's business men to join with their customers in support of effective price control legislation that would "keep inflation from overwhelming our economy."

Bowles, in effect, urged individual manufacturers and merchants to repudiate the view of the National Association of Manufacturers and other organized business groups reflected in the house-approved price control extension bill which would cripple the Office of Price Administration.

Appeal Made on Radio. His appeal was made in a nationwide broadcast a few hours after the Chamber of Commerce of the United States had asked the senate banking and currency committee to end all price controls, with the exception of rent, on October 31, and for the elimination of rent control on March 31, 1947.

Bowles expressed doubt that the "various minority groups"—the N.A.M., the chamber of commerce and other organizations—accurately represented the viewpoint of a majority of industrialists and other business men.

Word from Sarasota, Fla., where rent ceilings were abolished on January 1, indicates that rents have jumped from 30 to 100 per cent. Roger G. Flory, who was active in ousting rent control in Sarasota, declares such advances have been exceptions, but many returning servicemen disagree with him.

At Kansas City, the OPA has charged that the big packers have gone on a buying strike and are "just refusing to buy" cattle for slaughter. In Chicago, W. S. Clithero, vice president of Armour and company, immediately wired Chester Bowles that the charges were unfounded.
