SELF EMPLOYED S. S. IS EXPLAINED

Old age and survivors insurance is not optional for self employed persons. John G. Hutton, manager of the Lubbock Social Security office, pointed out this week. Mr Hutton said there had been some misunderstanding regarding persons working for themselves in their own trade or business or as partners in such enterprises.

"If you are self employed and derive as much as $400 in net profit from your business in any taxable year after Dec. 31, 1950 your Social Security coverage is compulsory by law," Mr Hutton said. He also pointed out that the only exceptions are income derived from practice as a physician, lawyer, dentist, osteopath, chiropractor, optometrist, naturopath, veterinarian, architect, CPA, lic, insured, registered or full time practicing accountant, Christian Science practitioner, professional engineer or funeral director.

Self employed persons do not report themselves with the employees. This income must be reported annually on income tax form 1040 Schedule C especially revised for this purpose. The first such report is due March 15, 1952 covering self employment income for the taxable year 1951.

Payable along with the report is self employment Social Security tax. This tax is 2 1/4 per cent of the first $3,600 net business profit. For business partner's, the tax is levied on the first $3,600 of the distributive share of the partnership net profits whether or not the profits are distributed.

JUST WHAT IS INFLATION? When there's a greater supply of money than of goods—that's inflation. It happens when goods get scarce, and you and your neighbors compete unfairly for these few goods. Double Raspberry Milk Shake (Serves 4)

- 3/4 cup finely sieved fresh red raspberries
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 pint vanilla ice cream
- 1 1/2 cups milk

Combine berries and sugar. Add mixture to one-half ice cream; beat smooth. Add milk all at once and blend. Serve in chilled glasses. Top each with a scoop of ice cream.

*Coffee Ribbon Cake (Serves 8)

- 1 envelope (1 tablespoon) gelatin
- 1/4 cup cold water
- 1 1/2 tablespoons instant caffeine-free coffee
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/4 cups heavy cream
- Piece of sponge or white cake, 8x4x2-inches
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 cup shredded coconut, toasted

Combine gelatin and cold water, mix well. Dissolve instant coffee, 1/4 cup sugar, and the salt in hot water; add to softened gelatin and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Chill until slightly thickened. Whip 3/4 cup of the cream and fold into gelatin mixture. Chill until almost firm.

Meanwhile, trim cake as needed to fit 8x4x2-inch loaf pan and split into three layers. Line pan with waxed paper. Place first layer of cake in bottom of pan; spread with half the thickened gelatin mixture. Add second layer of cake; spread with remaining gelatin mixture. Top with third layer of cake. Chill 3 hours.

Unmold loaf on platter. Whip remaining 1/2 cup of the cream with 2 tablespoons sugar. Spread over top and sides of loaf. Sprinkle with coconut. Chill 1 hour before serving.

Pineapple Refrigerator Cake (Serves 6-8)

- 1 tablespoon (1 envelope) unflavored gelatin
- 1/4 cup cold water
- 3 beaten egg yolks
- 1 cup crushed pineapple
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup dry cottage cheese
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3 stiff-beaten egg whites

Soften gelatine in cold water. Combine egg yolks, pineapple, lemon juice and peel, 1/4 cup sugar, and salt. Cook over hot water until thick, stirring constantly. Add softened gelatine and stir until dissolved. Remove from heat and add cottage cheese. Chill until partially set. Gradually beat 1/2 cup sugar into stiff-beaten egg whites. Fold into gelatine mixture. Pour into Corn Flake Crust; Combine 1 cup crushed corn flakes, 1/4 cup sugar, and 1/2 cup melted butter; press firmly in greased 6x10-inch pan.

Here's a quick fruit slaw recipe: toss 4 cups of shredded cabbage with 1 cup orange sections. Mix in 2 tablespoons salad dressing blended with 1 tablespoon cream.

Place a spoonful of firm vanilla ice cream across the center of small individual pancakes, then roll. Serve with fresh fruit sauce or butterscotch sauce.

Use the large meat basters when you're making mayonnaise. This helps you to add the oil slowly to the egg yolks to start the emulsion properly.

Chocolate Now Goes To War For Taste and Tonic

Washington, D.C. — Chocolate is once again at the battlefront as a diet "super-charger" for the American soldier fighting in winter-bound North Korea.

The popular energy food is considered so important to the G.I. that it is now included in every operational ration issued by the Department of Defense.

Food Packet Survival Arctic, for example, provides no less than four chocolate bars—two with almonds—per man per day. Soldiers going to the front lines for eight to ten hours are issued two one-ounce bars in their Food Packet Individual Assault Ration C—the basic canned operational ration—offers both chocolate and cocoa disks.

Three-fourths of the candy component in the 5-in-1 Ration, designed for group use, contains chocolate, while the Ration Supplement Sundry Pack, for 100 men, includes 200 two-ounce chocolate and 48 two-ounce chocolate-covered bars.

The fighting man in Korea is not only getting a dose of energy with his chocolate but something tasty as well. This was not entirely true during World War II, despite the fact that millions of chocolate bars were consumed across the globe in the form of Emergency Ration D. This ration—containing four ounces of chocolate and some 600 calories—was designed especially to taste "no better than an unsalted baked potato" in order to keep the G.I. from eating it as candy.

Today, the army's new chocolate policy is to give the men the nourishing food in the form of sweets they have eaten and enjoyed since they were kids. In encouraging the use of chocolate the military may well be remembering the words of the Spanish explorer, Cortez, who wrote in the 16th century, "A single cup of this rich drink gives a man sufficient strength to march all day."

Although Cortez was quick to recognize the energy value of chocolate—a product of the native American cacao tree—he did not appreciate its taste as prepared by the Aztec Indians. When he introduced the food into Spain in 1528 it was used primarily as a medicine and was far too expensive for anyone except the rich.

An unknown genius added sugar to give chocolate its first wide taste appeal, but it was not until the 19th century that the price fell low enough to make it a popular beverage with all classes. In the United States alone, raw cacao imports leaped from 500,000 pounds in 1780 to more than 600 million pounds by 1946.

A room that is inclined to be dark and rather gloomy can be given a sunny aspect by painting the walls a pale tint of yellow. A ceiling painted white will reflect the maximum light that falls upon it. In one such room, the wood-trim was coated in a grayed-lavender tone and draperies were a silvery gray. The upholstery combined blue-green and gray and tangerine toned accessories added gaiety and life to the room's decoration.

"Hush-A-Bye Baby" is the theme song in the home of an Oriental silk farmer when his silkworms begin to spin their cocoons. The family talks in whispers and walks on tiptoe, for silkworms will cease the spinning process when frightened. Many silk raisers share their homes with the productive little moth larvae.

Last year 120,000 school-age children were injured or killed in traffic accidents. Many of these accidents could have been prevented if the drivers had learned to regard all youngsters as human caution signs.

Remember this whenever you drive near a school or playground. Slow down so you can stop in an instant. You never know when a child may decide to dash out from between parked cars.

Be careful—the child you save may be your own!

New Jersey Farm Prices Behind National Average

New Jersey farmers have gained less from increasing prices than have the nation's farmers, according to Rutgers University agricultural economists. Farm prices in the state have increased 13 per cent since the start of the Korean war compared to 25 per cent for the nation as a whole. Most important New Jersey commodities are milk, eggs, fruits and vegetables.

"I got the story on 50,000 Miles-No Wear. and changed to New Conoco Super Motor Oil"

says W. R. Abel Traveling Salesman El Paso, Texas

"I travel 40,000 miles a year," says Mr. Abel. "Since I've changed to new Conoco Super I never have to add a quart between drains, and I've had no engine trouble."

SHOP FOREMAN

"I have 80,000 miles on my Chevrolet, using Conoco Super," says Nick Motzner, Shop Foreman, Twin Falls, Idaho. "The motor has never been torn down, oil consumption is at a minimum, and gasoline mileage averaged 23 miles to the gallon."

TAXI OPERATOR

"I've had a decided decrease in maintenance costs and gasoline consumption since changing to Conoco Super," reports Goddard Langhain, Taxi Fleet Operator, Lafayette, La. "I only wish all my cabs had been broken in with Conoco Super."

"50,000 Miles-No Wear!" Proved Here:

After a punishing 50,000-mile road test, with proper drains and regular care, engines lubricated with low Conoco Super Motor Oil showed no wear of any consequence: in fact, an average of less than one one-thousandth inch on cylinders and crankshafts. AND gasoline mileage for the last 5,000 miles was actually 99.77% as good as for the first 5,000!

For his trip through life, you can create for your child (or grandchild) an immediate estate which will increase in value with the passing years. Southwestern Life makes it possible with an insurance plan known as the Child's Estate Builder.

CONSIDER THESE IMPORTANT ADVANTAGES:

- 1. Life insurance protection multiplies. At age 25, original protection is automatically increased five times; that is, $1,000 becomes $5,000; $2,000 becomes $10,000; $5,000 becomes $25,000.
- 2. Extremely low cost. On a child three years old, $1,000 of original protection costs only $3.16 a month. At age 25 and throughout life, the cost remains at $3.16 a month but the value of the insurance increases to $5,000.
- 3. Education or emergency fund builds up. The accumulated value may be used for attendance at college or to meet any unforeseen emergency.
- 4. For old-age security. At retirement time, the accumulated cash value may be used to purchase a guaranteed income for life.

Your Southwestern Life representative will be glad to discuss the details of this and other plans of insurance with you.

Most American homes—and farm homes in particular—were erected more than a quarter of a century ago. Nearly 23,000,000 of the estimated 42,000,000 homes in the nation are at least 30 years old. Millions of these older homes are in need of modernization and repair. The expected cutback in new home construction as a result of Remodeling of this previously unused barn provided much-needed space for livestock and hay storage and at the same time improved the over-all appearance of the farm property and increased its value. The completed barn (bottom) with new asphalt shingle roof, new siding and other alterations, contrasts sharply with the dilapidated structure (above) as it appeared before start of the work. Here's proof that remodeling pays when the structure of an old building is basically sound.

Johnston Urges Strong Price Laws; Price War Confined to Large Cities

BUSINESS AS USUAL—For some time the home town has been uneasy over the nation's economical outlook. Headlines in the last few days haven't helped his uneasiness any.

Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston's charge that the nation is sitting on an "economic time bomb" that may explode into runaway inflation next fall, unless congress keeps a strong program on the law books, caused considerable comment and worry. On top this the beef industry—all the way from farmer to grocer—was in an uproar over his charge that the beef industry is trying to ride roughshod over the American housewife with a cry of "damn the consumer and full pockets ahead."

Economic Stabilizer Johnston
"damn the consumer and full pockets ahead."

Noted for speaking his mind, Johnston said that "business as usual" has an ominous ring to me at a time when men are dying in battle in Korea for a free way of life. He added that the consumer, the housewife, is not going to be the forgotten American if I can help it.

Shortly before making these statements Johnston proposed a new wage formula pegging pay ceiling to living costs and permitting for millions of workers an immediate boost ranging up to 12 1/2 per cent above the levels of January, 1950.

The belief is becoming more universal that the government must take a firmer stand and congress must enact stricter laws governing prices and wages. The threat to the nation today is as great from the inside as from the outside.

SWEET MUSIC—And while home towners tried to understand statements from Washington on the economic situation, the average small town resident read of reports from New York, Oklahoma City, and Atlanta of red-hot price cutting wars following the supreme court fair trade decision with a feeling of awe and incredulity. To many it was like sweet music of yesterday.

Tens of thousands of gleeful shoppers—men and women—rushed wildly through New York bargain basements in search for nationally advertised goods that had been marked down, some of it as much as 40 per cent. Small electrical appliances, summer-weight suits, cosmetic items, best-selling novels, sheets, pillow cases, nylon hose and girdles were marked down again and again. It was a consumer's paradise.

Home towners then took a quick look at their local newspapers in the hope that Main Street merchants had some new bargains. Most of them, however, were disappointed. The big city price-war had not yet reached the home town level. And economists reported it was not likely to.

Most retail organizations predicted the New York price-war would level off quickly, with prices from 8 to 15 per cent below the former fixed-price levels.

Trade sources, also, pointed out that the price-war was not likely to spread because most home town merchants signed fair trade contracts. On top of this, consumer goods may become tighter as the summer progresses and defense needs begin to eat into present backlogs.

HOW CLOSE TO WAR?—The man on Main Street, who never knows all the facts, received a shock that sent a shiver of fear down his back as the MacArthur hearing continued in Washington. The shock was delivered by Adm. Forrest Sherman who told senators that the U.S. government so feared a world war last December that its field commanders were ordered by the high command to "increase their readiness" and the Mediterranean fleet went to sea.

Sherman said the orders were issued after MacArthur told the joint chiefs of staff that the U.N. should accept an armistice in Korea "on the best terms available" and the army would have to quit Korea unless the war could be carried against Red China.

Sherman's testimony before the armed services and foreign relations committees again impressed the average American with the fact this nation barely escaped World War III in recent months. Many are wondering how close to war we are today?

RURAL BANK DEPOSITS UP—Rural banks, largely farmer-owned and reflecting farmer finances, have shown amazing increases in deposits during the past 10 years, a recent survey of seven states revealed.

One bank, in an Illinois town of less than 400 population, increased its bank deposits from $168,000 in 1940 to $3,480,000, more than 20 times as much. In the same 10 years, its population dropped from 500 to 350. Country banks, generally, in the seven-state midwest survey area, showed deposits rose from three to 20 times, many of them 10 times, in the 10-year period.

The survey was conducted in Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Missouri. All of the towns had less than 600 population.

PEACE RUMORS CONTINUE—Rumors of peace in Korea continued to circulate in many world capitals although they were denied by high government officials. The move, if any is made, apparently will come from the United Nations side.

Some reports indicate the United States might be willing to halt the fighting at the 38th parallel provided it was a "real" settlement with assurances of no further Red aggression.

Observers in the far east, however, were skeptical that any peace feelers will come from Peiping. They might come from Moscow. Communist China might be thoroughly licked, but they could simply call its "volunteers" back behind the Yalu river boundary and sit and lose little face.

SAME AS REFUSAL—The Russians now say they are willing to hold a foreign minister's meeting if the ministers would discuss the North Atlantic pact and U.S. bases in Europe. The Soviet note with the big "if" was sent to the U. S. after 3 weeks of meetings in Paris by deputy foreign ministers of U. S., France, Britain and Russia.

According to western diplomats the Russian note amounts to the same thing as refusal to attend a foreign ministers' meeting. The U.S. has told the Russians many times they would not discuss the North Atlantic pact. The new Soviet line is that U.S. bases in Europe are "the essential cause of the worsening of relations between the U.S.S.R. and the three powers."

Price-War Shoppers
It's not likely to happen in the home towns. (See story above.)

BIGGEST CATALOG EVER

Sears, Roebuck Mails Largest Catalog

Home towners and rural families who have for years received the Sears, Roebuck catalog will soon get the new edition. It is the biggest sale catalog the firm has ever published, containing 404 pages. A year ago, the corresponding sales book contained 294 pages.

Hundreds of items, ranging from wading pools to wire records are offered at knock-down prices.

Notable by their absence from the current catalog are certain appliances that were featured a year ago. The sales book at that time contained refrigerators and washing machines at special prices. This year they aren't listed. Automobile tires are also missing from this year's catalog; a year ago they were offered less than the regular prices.

Penmanship Isn't Such a Lost Art, Survey of Teachers Shows

Apparently the quality of American school children's handwriting has not fallen victim to the "rush of our times" and outside interests and distractions, after all.

A survey among 5,000 grade and high school principals across the nation turned up a vote of nearly two to one that today's youngsters write as well as or better than those of a generation ago. The Sheaffer pen company, that made the survey, said the actual balloting was 64.4 per cent to 35.6. Most of the principals credited improved teaching methods and more widespread use of good writing equipment for the fact that penmanship has "survived" as well as it has despite crowded curriculums and less time for instruction.

It looks like printing, but it is really a new style "manuscript writing". A recent survey of the country's school principals found that 95.5 of the nation's schools now teach this method in at least first three grades.

The widely held notion that basic arts like reading, writing and spelling have been shamefully neglected in this mechanized age is well refuted—so far as penmanship is concerned—by results of the poll. However, the minority of principals who feel handwriting has declined is so sizable and in many cases so emphatic as to leave no doubt that there's still lots of room for improvement.

BEARING OUT this observation was the high school principals verdict that only about two-thirds of their students have a "satisfactory" handwriting by the time they graduate.

Grade school principals voted about two to one that children "learn to write more easily" nowadays. Use of the "manuscript" form of writing—taught in about 95 per cent of the schools in the first two or three grades—was given much of the credit for this, along with more general use of good equipment.

The survey showed that quality of handwriting has an influence upon the marks children get in school. Among grade school principals, 89.9 per cent said "good handwriting helps produce good marks," and among high school heads the count was almost the same, 89.6 per cent.

The most commonly indicated reasons among those who think today's handwriting is better were: improvement of teaching methods; more widespread use of good writing equipment; and the respondents' own disinclination to glorify "the good old days."

However, there is a sizeable minority of principals—35.6 per cent—who feel that the handwriting of their present pupils is worse than that of their forebears.

The manuscript form of writing (like lower-case printing) is now taught almost universally in the early grades. A change is usually made to cursive (conventional writing) at the third or fourth grade.

By INEZ GERHARD

BEN GRAUER, in nearly 21 years of radio, has built up a terrific list of famous friends who have always wanted to do something for him. They got their chance when Ben started his new daytime show, "Ben Grauer's Footlights and Klieg-lights"—practically every star in show business clamored for a chance to appear for nothing.

BEN GRAUER

Among the first were Ed Wynn, Oscar winner Jose Ferrer, Ralph Bellamy, Edward Everett Horton, Victor Moore, Robert Sterling, Susan Douglas, Arthur Treacher, Barbara Bel Geddes and William Wythe. Thousands of dollars would have been paid out for guest shots if they'd worked for money.

Jackie Kerk, squeak-voiced Homer of "The Aldrich Family," is in a dither these days getting his Poundridge, New York, farm in readiness for a Paramount camera crew. Scenes will be made there for "Burning Orchard."

Jack Benny will return to the screen after seven years absence in "Somebody Loves Me." He will play himself, as he was in the days when he was a vaudeville star, often sharing star billing with Blossom Seeley, whose life story this is.

Robert Young, who has won innumerable awards for his "Father Knows Best" radio program, took his youngest daughter Kathleen to Warner Brothers as a fifth birthday celebration to watch him working with Joan Crawford in "Goodbye My Fancy." She had a lovely day, just loved playing with Miss Crawford's poodle. She paid very little attention to her father, or Miss Crawford, thought the dog was almost as nice as her pets at home.

MacArthur Testimony Advises Stalin of Our Fear

By Wright A. Patterson

EVERY ONE—of both officers and enlisted personnel of the armed services of the United States—owe to the nation first allegiance over anything they may owe to any other superior or to themselves.

That is a part of the rigid training they undergo and it continues throughout their career in the armed services. In the final analysis, the United States is congress. It is not the President.

That was the basic argument of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, a general of the army, in his insistence in placing his views in opposition to those in higher authority.

He was exercising his training he had received as an officer in the army. He recognized, not the President, but only congress as the top authority. That was as he had been taught.

It was that final decision, as to what was best for the interests of the United States in the far east, that Gen. MacArthur forced his convictions to the point where they would receive the attention of congress, and congress only should make the decision.

The investigation by a senate committee was for the purpose of providing the facts that congress, including the senate, might have the information needed in making such a decision. Gen. Bradley, in refusing to answer any question the committee might ask him, violated his allegiance to the nation, and placed himself in contempt of congress, a situation from which he was relieved by a ruling of the chairman and later by a vote of the members of the committee.

Had the question been asked of the President, the only legal reason he could have given for not answering would be that to do so truthfully might incriminate himself.

The committee was attempting to ascertain the reasons for, and the methods used, in firing MacArthur. There are innumerable rumors in Washington of the existence of a feud in the high command that dates back to when MacArthur was chief of staff of the army, and stopped, for a time, the advancement of Marshall, with some like incident in the case of Bradley.

The committee was trying to find out if these incidents had any connection with the firing of MacArthur and opposition to the MacArthur views of the far eastern situation. As to his reason for the firing of MacArthur, the President in a statement, not under oath, said the Martin had nothing whatever to do with it. Marshall had testified earlier that it had. Which is right?

MacArthur's action was for the purpose of best serving the national interests, but what was started in that spirit has degenerated into a partisan political quarrel, both parties attempting to make political capital out of the investigation.

The only purpose it has served is to advise Stalin of our fears, and

THE FICTION CORNER

MY MISTAKE

By Richard H. Wilkinson

MRS. Luther was very smug. "Of course, darling, I know how happy and thrilled you are at being married. Phil is a nice boy. Dear me, I remember when Alvin and I were first married. I was just the same." Mrs. Luther sighed. "The illusions of youth. Dear me."

Beth Franklin tried hard to maintain a role of gracious hostess. "Were your illusions shattered, Mrs. Luther?"

"Shattered?" Mrs. Luther laughed and suddenly looked wise. "Well, yes, I suppose they were. For I did have illusions about my husband, darling, just as you have about your Phil. And then—" Mrs. Luther's lips tightened—"he strayed."

"How dreadful!" "Not dreadful, darling—fortunate. Oh, my yes. You see, Dave, my husband, is not naturally a woman chaser. He was frightfully upset and ashamed. He promised to do anything if I'd only not leave him. To this day Dave is repentant. He'll do anything I ask. He is humble and grateful, and I declare I think I have the best husband in the world."

"I suppose it was fortunate, wasn't it?" Mrs. Luther leaned toward her young hostess. "So fortunate, my dear, that I wish others could benefit by the same experience. Your Phil is very handsome, and Gretchen Carter is very beautiful." She smiled. "Well, darling, I simply must be going."

Beth sat down at a window, cupped her chin in her hand and stared out at the rain. "Gretchen Carter is very beautiful." What had Mrs. Luther meant? Mrs. Luther was bitter and disillusioned. Poor Dave Luther. How dreadful it must be to be constantly under suspicion.

TWO weeks later the Hampton Country Club held its annual spring opening ball. Phil and Beth went with the Craigs. En route, Dorothy Craig said mischievously: "Keep your eye on that handsome husband of yours tonight, Beth. They tell me Gretchen Carter has bought the most seductive gown..."

Beth laughed. She strove for and maintained an attitude of indifference. Even later when she saw Gretchen Carter, blonde and gorgeous in a white, filmy gown that was truly seductive, she would not admit that what Mrs. Luther or Dorothy had said was affecting her peace of mind.

She danced the first dance with Phil and then, conscious of Mrs. Luther watching her from across the room, conscious of Dorothy Craig's mischievous glance, she deliberately ignored her husband.

It was quite by accident that toward the middle of the evening she saw Phil slip through the French doors out to the terrace. Or was it accident? Certainly it wasn't accident that sent her eyes sweeping around the room till they found Gretchen Carter.

And then her heart stood still. Gretchen was moving toward the same French doors.

The orchestra swung into a fox-trot. Beside her, Tom Craig said: "My dance, Beth?"

"No," she said. "No, Tom. I've got a headache. . . . Excuse me, please." And she moved away, swiftly, blindly. Without consciously establishing a destination, she made her way out on to the terrace, stood there in the dim light.

Abruptly she saw them—two figures silhouetted against the sky at the far end of the terrace standing close together.

Reason left her. Logic fled. Seized by an uncontrollable fury, conscious only of one desire—the desire to wreak vengeance on this woman who had robbed her of her faith, she sped along the terrace, crept out in sudden anguish and thrust herself toward the filmy white dress and startled face of Gretchen.

As from a great distance she heard a masculine exclamation, saw a face in the dim light—and suddenly it was as if an icy cloak had engulfed her and was holding her close. For the face of the man who had been standing with his arm about Gretchen Carter was that of Dave Luther.

Some Small Business Groups Favor 'Price Rollback Week'

Main Street businessmen in many sections of the nation have expressed concern over the inflationary trend of present day-to-day activities in their communities. One group of businessmen in the east recently suggested that a "National Price Roll Back Week" be designated by the President.

Although no action was taken on the suggestion, the idea has possibilities for home town small businesses who are organized on a local and state level.

The original suggestion was made by 2,000 members of the Smaller Business Men's Association of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut through its president and spokesman, Henry Modell.

Modell expressed the opinion that such a week would restore consumer confidence in America's price structure through the rolling back of prices to pre-Korean levels. In a telegram to President Truman, Modell said: "The week of May 28 has been designated as National Price Roll-Back Week by the more than 2,000 members of the Smaller Business Men's Association of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. A price roll-back campaign, in which prices were rolled back to pre-Korean levels, was consumer tested in the New York chain of Modell stores. So extraordinarily successful did it prove and so genuine was the public response that the association swiftly adopted it as an overall blue print for business throughout the nation. May we respectfully request that you proclaim the week..."

Local communities, and areas including several states and many business associations, might sponsor such a week in their trade areas as a public service and stimulant to business.

Modell believes that if such a week was observed over the United States and prices voluntarily turned back to pre-Korean levels it would definitely bolster the small merchant and keep them liquid.

He pointed out it would get the present stagnant inventories moving in a steady stream. And most important it would restore needed consumer confidence in the local price structure. He believes, also, it would hearten production in factories and be a tremendous employment stimulant.

Such a campaign on the local level, perhaps substituted for the annual summer sales, and in cooperation with local newspapers, would undoubtedly produce a healthy trend on home town economy.

Such a sale could be especially effective since the supreme court ruling concerning price mark-ups under state fair trade price laws. Local merchants have no desire to start a "price war" as has taken place in a number of larger cities.

However, the way is now open for merchant organizations to coordinate their sales promotions on hundreds of items and give the home town a chance for bargains not offered in many years.

A Local Price Rollback Week certainly seems a good substitute for the annual July sale.

National Cotton Council Promotes Sport Shirts

A national merchandising campaign to promote the sale of cotton sport shirts is being sponsored by the National Cotton Council during the months of June and July.

The campaign is coordinated in a nationwide advertising program in the transit systems of more than 500 cities and towns with retailers' window and point-of-sale displays.

The program is designed to stimulate sales during the peak sports shirt sales period and offers the Main Street merchant an opportunity to tie in his local advertising and promotion with the national campaign.

The alert home town who watches for local promotions during the next month or so may find bargains that will prove well worth while.

Swim for Health Week Observed June 25-30

Swim for Health Week will be observed from June 25 to 30. It marks the opening of the swimming season in the United States other than in the deep south.

One of the best exercises for the body has been told so often it is familiar to all Americans. But what most people will have forgotten is the painful lesson learned last year—blistered noses, peeling shoulders, and horrid discomfort of over exposure to the sizzling sun. Forgotten will be the ruined vacations, the blighted weekend, the costly doctor's bill; time and money lost because this elementary truth was ignored—"without proper protection, the sun sears the human hide."

Fresh air and sunlight are good for the body, but over-exposure to sun can be harmful and even dangerous.

The corner drug store in every home town has a supply of recommended and tested skin lotions that will protect the skin and still allow the bather to get an even, benefiting tan.

It's just good common sense to protect yourself from sunburn. It will insure a happy Swim Week and vacation time.

Church Under Fire
Lesson for June 24, 1951

ABOUT two thousand Christian missionaries have been forced to leave China during 1950 and 1951. In more than one country "freedom of religion" has meant, in practice, freedom to ridicule and hinder religion.

In Spain, Protestants are forbidden to use the name "church," to meet in any building on a main thoroughfare, or to worship in buildings that in any way resemble a church. In Colombia, churches have been burned by mobs without the slightest interference from the police. All this is bad; but it is nothing new.

When Christian Meant Criminal At the time the Christian religion began, it came under fire from the authorities of Jerusalem. It was to be expected that the same men who had condemned, cast out and crucified Jesus would try to stamp out his followers as well.

But one of the leading men of Jerusalem said, in effect: "If this new cause is God's cause there is no use in our fighting it." It was God's cause, and so the opposition at Jerusalem not only did not stop or destroy the church but actually only succeeded in spreading it.

As the new Christian religion then moved out into all parts of the Roman Empire, at first the imperial and local authorities paid it no attention; and in fact for some years it enjoyed the protection of the government.

So long as it was supposed that Christianity was simply a sect of Judaism, the Roman government let it go.

But when it came out that Christianity was a new religion, and especially when it became clear that the Christians acknowledged only one Lord, and would not worship the Emperor, the Roman government began a long series of persecutions, which lasted for close to three hundred years.

Inspiration Behind Bars FIVE letters of Paul, including II Timothy, were written from Roman jails, and reliable tradition tells us that Paul was finally beheaded just because he was a Christian.

If you will look on a map of the Roman Empire for the places mentioned at the beginning of I Peter, you can see how widespread was the "fiery trial" which the readers of that letter were then suffering. As for the book of Revelation, its writer was, he says, "on the Isle of Patmos for the word of God and the testimony of Jesus Christ."

Patmos Island was no rest-haven for tired missionaries; it was not a missionary field either. It was a barren island, a convict camp, where many Christian missionaries, on being arrested, were sent after their trial and sentence, to work at forced labor in the mines there.

If the scenes of that book often flow with blood and blaze with fire, it is not because the writer had a too vivid imagination. He might have seen with his own eyes Christians, men, women and even children, with their heads chopped off by the public executioner, or dying amid the flames at the stake. Those were terrible times, and it took courage to be a Christian at all.

The Victory THE message of the New Testament is never optimism, but always hope. That is to say, no one in the New Testament, from Jesus in Galilee to John on Patmos, holds out any promise or picture of smooth and easy going for the Christian church.

It will have trouble, and the more faithful it is to Christ the more trouble it is likely to meet. But in the long run, Christ's true church (which means simply all those who are true to Christ) will conquer all her enemies, for the reason that it is Christ's church and not ours alone.

It has recently been reported that the Russian government has thought up a smart idea. They find that the more religion is persecuted, the more stubbornly vigorous it grows. So the government has given up persecuting religion, and proposes to let it "die on the vine."

That may work; if Christians have too easy a time, the church will attract only the lazy and the comfort-loving—which will kill off the church. But the vine will not die, if only every branch is close-joined to Christ, the ever-living Vine of God.

INSPIRATION Look To The End

CHRISTIAN PHILOSOPHY teaches that all thought and conduct should be controlled by the realization that every man must one day make a reckoning for the way in which he has spent his life. It is, therefore, the highest spiritual wisdom to mold one's life according to standards of justice, morality and charity incorporated in both the laws of nature and of God.

Worthwhile success is won only through a conscious dedication to ends which are truly good.

The student in school works hard and willingly accepts a disciplined way of life because he knows this is expected of him. But what most inspires him is the knowledge that diligence and restraint are the only ways to attain the end he has in mind—a happy, useful and rewarding career in the world.

The above editorial and other material appearing in this column were prepared by Religious News Service.

Unitarians Uphold Clergy Exemptions

BOSTON—A resolution urging congress to do away with exemptions from military service for ministers and theological students was defeated at the 126th annual meeting of the American Unitarian Association here.

In another action, the delegates censured Oscar R. Ewing, federal security administrator, and Dr. Elmer L. Henderson, president of the American Medical Association. The resolution accused them of suppressing a Federal Security Agency book because the AMA head regarded it as socialist.

It charged that Mr. Ewing, on the complaint of Dr. Henderson, had ordered the government printing office to destroy 3,500 copies of "Common Human Needs," written in 1945 by Charlotte Towle, on the ground that it contained an "un-American" advocacy of state socialism.

The resolution called for the book's re-publication, stipulating that if the government did not accede, the Unitarian Association should undertake the project.

It was reported that the book was withdrawn after five years' circulation when the medical leader took exception to a statement that "social security and public assistance programs are a basic essential for attainment of the socialized State envisaged in democratic ideology."

Professionalism In Church Scored

PHILADELPHIA—Dr. Franklin Clark Fry of New York, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, in an address here scored clergymen who "are suffering from professionalism."

"Ministers go out today and speak for everything under the sun except religion," he told the annual meeting of the United Lutheran Synod of Central Pennsylvania.

Asserting that he had no faith in pastors who give speeches "endorsing anything, no matter how good, except the Gospel," he admonished clergymen to "purvey religion and Christianity and know the fundamentals of their religion."

Young Sneed pondered earnestly and replied with conviction: "I have an idea, sir, that I should limp, too."

Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Yes, here is why FEEN-A-MINT's action is so wonderfully different!

Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon - irritate the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy. You feel weak, worn out.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that typical weak, tired, worn-out feeling. Use FEEN-A-MINT and feel your "peppy" energetic self! Get FEEN-A-MINT. No increase in price—still 25¢, 50¢ or only 10¢.

Farm Families Know Type
Of Home They Will Build

Farm families know the type of house they want to have if, and when, they build. But building is more a question of "when" than "if", according to a recent survey of 12 north-central states.

Approximately nine hundred families took part in the survey. They were selected to give a cross-section of the wants and desires of 2,270,000 farm families living in Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

A one-story house with six or seven rooms, a sloping roof and central heating was first choice. The house must have one or more porches, a spare bedroom, a basement or cellar, coat closet on the first floor, a separate dining room, first floor workroom, and a drive so planned in relation to the house that callers will come to the front door.

Most families wanted to have a dining area in the kitchen, but many of them wanted an additional dining room which could accommodate six or more persons.
