Miss Pearce Weds Mr. Fannon

Miss Carolyn Pearce and Kenneth Fannon, both of here, were wed here at 7 p. m. Tuesday, Dec. 21st at the First Methodist church. The bride is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. Cecil H. Pearce and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Fannon, both of here.

Officiating in the double ring ceremony was Rev. E. H. Crandell, associate pastor of First Methodist church of Lubbock.

Mrs. Ed Robertson played the traditional wedding music at the organ and accompanied Mrs. Wynne Clayton who sang "BECAUSE and the LORD'S PRAYER." Miss Frances Vandivere was maid of honor and Homer Fannon, brother of the groom, was best man.

Serving as ushers were Benny Clark of Lubbock and Travis Pearce, brother of the bride, of here. Candles were lighted by Fran McLaurin, cousin of the bride. Gladiolus and foliage were used to form a background for the wedding scene which was lighted with cathedral tapers in branched andabra.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a blue silk suit with pink and brown accessories and carried a white Bible topped with white roses and gladiolus. For something old, she wore a brooch that belonged to her great grandmother, for something borrowed, a necklace and earrings, belonging to Mrs. Beatrice McLaurin, something blue, a garter and a penny in her shoe.

Miss Vandivere was dressed in a pink suit with black accessories and carried pink carnations. Little Miss McLaurin was dressed in a blue and white check taffeta dress and her head-dress was of white carnations. After a trip to Ruidoso, they are at home at 2319 9th st. in Lubbock. Both are graduates of O'Donnell High Schools.

The Index joins their many friends in extending hearty congratulations.

White Gold

O'Donnell awoke Tuesday to a beautiful coat of snow and at about 9 a. m. it began to snow again quite heavily and continued until about 4 p. m. Northwest winds of 25 to 30 miles per hour made "Snow-smoke" and there was some drifting. Fall was estimated at 5 inches or about 1-2 in. of moisture as the snow was moderately wet. Farmers were dreaming of a white winter holding hopes that we may have a wet winter as was case in 1949.

Snow moisture is considered very effective as the moisture soaks into the soil. The snow has a beneficial treatment to the soil making the texture more open for future moisture. The temperature remained below freezing all day Tuesday. Children four years old say that this is the first big snow they have seen.

DINNER AND WATCH SERVICE SET FOR NAZARENE

At 8 p. m. Friday, Dec. 31st members and friends of the Nazarene church are welcome to come to the parsonage for a covered dish dinner. At ten p. m. the watch night service begins at the church. A special service has been planned. You are welcomed.

BOND ISSUE DEFEATED IN BORDEN COUNTY

Shower Honors Bride

A bridal shower honoring Mr and Mrs. Jim Mac Burkett was given recently at the Plains School. The color scheme of pastel green and yellow were used in the decorations and refreshments. Mrs. Cleve Barrington presided at the Bride's book with Mrs. Leonard Isaacs and Miss Betty Burkett assisting with the gifts. The receiving line consisted of Mrs. Bill Stephens, Mrs. John R. Burkett, the honorees and Mrs. John Stephens.

Mrs. Isaacs Ledbetter and Mrs. Jake Burkett served punch and angel food squares. A most attractive table was arranged with a flower arrangement of mums as the centerpiece adorned by lighted candles on either side.

For the evening a most enjoyable program was presented. The numbers were given by Buddy Tel h k, Joe Burkett, Kenneth Smith and Howard Wright. Approximately 65 guests registered with others sending gifts. Hostesses were Madams: Joe Bradshaw, Isaac Ledbetter, Leonard Isaacs, Jake Burkett, John Burkett, Bill Stephens, Blanton Street, Adolph Telchik, Eddie Smith, Homer Davis, Roy Miles, Garland Doyle, Oscar Telchik and John Stephens.

AMISH CAPITAL
This Town Has More Buggies Than Autos

ARTHUR, Ill.—On the streets you'll find more horses and buggies than automobiles. The hitch-rack is used every day in the week except Sunday.

For this is the home of one of the larger sects of Amish people in the country. Approximately 1,500 Amish live on the farms nearby. They are prosperous, friendly. They've never gotten in trouble, and mind their own business.

But strangers stare at them because the men are whiskered, wear homemade clothing and flat black hats. The women dress just as severely, and keep their heads covered. They dislike the automobile, and use the horse exclusively.

Hitch Rack Rules
 Arthur has entire streets where the hitch-rack reigns. Signs are posted, prohibiting autos to park in these areas. The highways near Arthur are filled with the black-topped buggies of the Amish farmers.

Strangely the Amish have preserved many Old World traits, and yet form a harmonious segment in the area surrounding them. For although Arthur is known as "Capital of Amishland," there has never been any friction between these people and their non-Amish neighbors. They are extreme pacifists.

Make Own Clothes
 Mention of the word Amish generally brings to mind a vague mental picture of queer, Quaker-looking people who ride in horse-drawn vehicles and wear plain clothes of their own making.

For nearly a century the Amish lived happily in Pennsylvania, then land shortage drove some of them farther west. Following the Civil war new settlements were made in Canada, Ohio, Indiana, Iowa and Illinois. Since then, many of the sects have modernized and accepted present-day living standards.

But the Amish in the Arthur community are strictly "old order." Although Lancaster county in Pennsylvania still is considered the mother community of the Amish sect, the followers at Arthur are perhaps the purest Amish in existence, and stubbornly resist the inroads of modernization. Only adults are permitted to join the Amish church, for they believe that each person should be convinced in his own mind that he desires to accept the principles of faith, such a decision not being considered childish.

Cairo's Hello Is More Like Benediction

CAIRO—Near the heart of Cairo in Egypt, close to the Abdin Palace from which King Farouk has fled, millions of words of blessing will pour through the nation's largest telephone exchange, newly installed near Bab el-Luk.

"Good health be with you, my brother," and "To you good health and the blessings of Allah"—thus Moslems preface their telephone conversations.

The Bab el-Luk area might be called the Square of the Gate. That isn't there, for a small part has replaced the old gate, or "Bab." The park occupies a key position in the teeming Egyptian capital.

Near King Tut's Mask
 The area also is well known for its railway station serving a short line to the fashionable suburb of Maadi. To the west there is considerable building activity where the old Kasr el-Nil barracks are giving way to modern buildings. Within sight is the Egyptian Museum which houses, among other things, the heavy gold funerary mask of King Tut-Ankh-Amun.

To the north are the hotels, movie palaces, banks, and office buildings of a modern city of more than two million people. Perhaps the sharpest contrast, ancient to modern, is observed when pretty Egyptian girls in shorts play basketball at the coeducational American University. They play on a court near the ancient Bab el-Luk, and within a stone's throw of the modern telephone exchange.

Cairo is filled with such contrasts. When it was a walled city, each "bab" or gate took its name from or lent its name to an area. One of these gates, the Bab ez-Zuweileh, still stands and is a prime attraction for tourist photographers.

Many of the Faithful call it the Gate of the Mutawalli, holiest of these who "stand near God," and to its iron bars shreds of clothing are tied as votive offerings.

But none of the ancient gate sites can compete with Bab el-Luk in contrasts. Thus, in the midst of Cairo's political changes and disorders, a stranger listening in at the new Bab el-Luk telephone exchange might well be confused by the expressions of good will which precede the prosaic and contentious business of the day. Samsams weave back and forth over a network of wires.

Hold Reunion of 2,000 Member Family
 GRACEVILLE, Fla. — As you would have suspected, Florida's highest public officials and most ambitious politicians were present when the state's largest family held its 49th annual re-union in this small town recently.

The Williams family got together at Old Galliee church and made plans for a bigger and better celebration for the 50th annual re-union next year. The politicians had a field day, for the Williams family numbers approximately 2,000 members, many of whom are voters in the state of Florida.

Attendance at the re-union was larger numerically than the population of Graceville, the site of the re-union.

The Williams family members are descendants of Andrew Elton Williams, who settled near here more than a century ago and started the family off with 22 children.

The youngest and only surviving child of the patriarch is Uncle Wiley Williams, 83, Pollard, Ala. He attended the re-union as the guest of honor.

TRADE WHERE MA SAVES MONEY FOR PA

We Reserve The Right to Limit. Nothing Sold to Merchants to be re-sold

Vitamin A deficiency in farm animals is caused by the lack of green feed. Present range and pasture condition over much of Texas favor the development of this deficiency and livestockmen are advised to head off its effects by supplementing their livestock with green leafy alfalfa hay.

Store grain only in bins which have been thoroughly cleaned. Old grain, trash, feed sacks and other objects furnish living quarters for insects which destroy thousands of bushels of farm stored grain yearly.

Broiler Chickens Give Farmers New Product

GEORGETOWN, Ohio—A boom in the broiler chicken business the last five years has given farmers near this Ohio town a new farm product that can be produced profitably—eggs for hatchery purposes. A good example of a farmer who has gone into this business in a big way is Wayne Bach, R. F. D. 2.

Since most of his eggs go for the broiler trade, Mr. Bach raises New Hampshire Reds, a fast maturing, meat type bird, preferred by many broiler raisers and the market.

His breeding flock consists of 1,000 hens and one rooster for each 10 or 12 birds. His egg production runs about 50 to 55 per cent now and is increasing.

As many farmers have done, Mr. Bach converted a barn into a laying house. The former dairy barn measures 35 by 60 feet and 550 birds are housed on the mow floor and another 450 on a floor constructed above the mow floor.

A chain conveyor system carries feed from a hopper on the first floor to feeding troughs on the upper floors. It's a great labor saving device, but Mr. Bach still has to carry feed sacks about 12 feet from his truck bed to near the hopper.

A motor on the conveyor system automatically starts every hour and a half and runs for 15 minutes. That's the length of time it takes to carry adequate feed to the laying flock.

Pastor Tempers Justice With Mercy

LIBERTY, Ky.—In a big city when a theft is committed, the crime is reported to the police and the cold, indifferent process of the law works to catch the thief and punish him.

In a small town, the law against theft is sometimes tempered by the community heart, or spirit of neighborliness.

Someone stole two lengths of garden hose and a sprinkler from the lawn of the First Christian Church. The pastor, who believes that justice is always to be tempered with mercy, placed an ad in the Casey County News, the home town newspaper, that directed the thief as follows:

Flies Make Scientists Give Up in Despair

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—Scientists have split the atom. They've designed a plane that can fly twice as fast as sound. But when summer comes, and with it the fly, they throw up their hands in despair.

"We thought we had it beat when DDT was discovered," says Fred W. Knipe, a public health engineer who's been studying flies for the past year at the Pennsylvania state college.

"It was only a temporary victory, though. Researchers have now bred flies that can spend their entire life cycle right on a film of DDT. And they thrive on it!"

Flies, it seems, can adapt themselves to practically any conditions to which man subjects them. Whenever man invades new territories, the fly comes right in after him.

Although it seems certain that the fly is going to be with us for a while, there are a couple of bright spots in the picture. "Base sprays like pyrethrum and allethrin which are at least temporarily effective may soon be produced commercially," Knipe says. "And the fly population doesn't seem to be increasing. Americans, in particular, can consider themselves lucky. Here we have only one variety of housefly. In Egypt, where they really have flies, ten varieties have been identified so far."

Prospects are dim for any substantial price recovery in the livestock industry until the winter marketing season is past. Beef production is running at record levels.

Drouth last year prompted the greatest expansion in Texas irrigation history. More than 5 million acres were irrigated in 212 counties.
