Local Man Publishes Book On Missionary

Pictured is the author receiving the old Geronimo bow and quivers in the Globe-News office in Amarillo from the Rev. Butterfield.

Conversation among farmers indicate that almost everyone either has wheat now up or are planting at once. This will greatly alleviate the foot shortages heretofore about as the good season now in the ground spells early grazing.

The index this week has the unique pleasure of announcing the publication of a book by a local citizen, Len Moore, whose folks came to Texas fifty years before the Indians were forced into what was Oklahoma and Indian territory, has written a book which shows the Indian viewpoint. In his book, "Butterfield -- Seven Years With The Wild Indians", one of the greatest missionaries ever to tread the American soil is depicted in a most interesting and creditable manner. Rev. Butterfield, the hero of the book, has visited in O'Donnell a number of times and, for some reason, repeatedly expressed belief that Mr. Moore could best set forth his experiences, although a number of writers asked for the privilege. Geronimo, Quannah Parker (four generations) and a host of other noted Indians are prominently mentioned. Wilkinson's of Dallas did the printing.

J. W. Singleton is leaving Wednesday for the west coast and expects to be sent over with Uncle Sam's occupation forces.

BUILDING CHURCH AT MESQUITE

Members of the church of Christ, who have been meeting in the Mesquite school to worship for a number of years, are building a new meeting house. The new building will be of tile and plastered on the inside and stucco on the outside. The church will be located across the road south of the school. When this building is completed it will be one of the nicest church buildings in the rural section. The members in the community are few in number but are very zealous in their work. A fine commendation of this church is that they are building their building without having to call on any other congregations or individuals for financial assistance.

Capt. Boyd To Come Home

(Ed. note: Capt. Boyd is the son of Mr. Boyd, who formerly owned the laundry here, and is the nephew of J. E. Nance of Mesquite).

Capt. William K. Boyd, 29 year old son of Mr and Mrs. M. M. Boyd of Tahoka, has landed in the States after long months as a prisoner of war since the fall of Corregidor. He will stay at Ft. Lewis Washington for about a week and then be sent to San Antonio. After that he expects to be home in Lynn County for awhile.

Capt. Boyd fared better in detention than many thousands of other Americans but he saw plenty of the seamy side of Jap arrogance, cruelty, starvation, work and lack of sanitation.

In a length, hand-printed letter in characters no larger than the type in which this is printed, Capt. Boyd wrote from Rokuroshi, Japan Aug. 26th. In the letter he outlined conditions he and other prisoners of various nationalities underwent.

Carl Page Writes of Jap People

(Ed. note: Following is a portion of a letter from Carl Page to his folks here. Carl is stationed at Nagasaki, Japan, where he is assigned to a hospital section doing lab work.

I have never seen such filth in all my life. They sleep on little mats on the floor with all the filth that might collect. (I am speaking of the hospital, by the way). They have running bed sores that drain on their bed covers and there it stays. They don't bathe or wash their bed covers. Just lay in it with all the flies swarming about them bloating their open sores. They are all stenching. The Jap doctors say it is from the atomic bomb but we have just found out that there is no effect caused by that atomic bomb explosion. So far the bomb has done nothing to cause ill health. The people are very polite and eager to help you in any way. I got to talking to one "Gook" and he brought me 2 cushioned chairs to use in the lab plus two tables and one desk.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

---Romans 16:16 reads: "Salute one another with a holy kiss. The churches of Christ salute you. Please note: In this last statement of this verse, St. Paul uses the word "churches", the plural of the singular. Therefore, he was not thinking or writing of any certain or particular sect or group; but of ALL the churches of Christ. That lets in the Methodist, Baptist, Christian or Disciples, Lutherans, Congregationalists, Nazarinces, Assembly of God, etc. Each one of these is as definitely the Church of Christ as any other. The Bible meaning of the Church is that it is the "Body of Christ", made up of all righteous men, women, and children who are "justified (forgiven of their sins) by faith" and "Regenerated (born from above) by the Holy Ghost". (Not by water baptism) and "Made new creatures (or a new creation) in Christ Jesus." That is the New Testament Church. The motto of all Churches of this day, in the midst of a world lost in sin, should be: "Unity in essentials, liberality in non-essentials, and in all things, charity." We need to rediscover Jesus Christ, our Lord, and teach and practice the essentials He taught, which are: "Repentance toward God and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ." Then join the church of your choice and live a true Christian life.

County Agent Says:

Do you want 100 pounds more lint cotton per acre next year than average?

Most farmers do, says the Cotton Production Committee of Texas, and experience has proved that yields can be increased by this amount by planting hairy vetch or Austrian winter peas on land that has been in small grains or corn, and turning these legumes under in the spring.

To secure good growth and provide maximum protection from soil erosion, Austrian winter pea and hairy vetch seed should be inoculated and planted by November 1st.

"Drilling is the recommended method of planting a noiling land, while planting in rows on top of beds usually gives better results on more level fields," the Committee says.

When drilled, hairy vetch should be planted at the rate of 20 pounds per acre, and Austrian winter peas at 35 pounds per acre. When planted in rows with regular row crop equipment, only half the amount of seed used in drilling will be required for good stands.

Flowing under green stalks in cotton fields before frost also is recommended by the Committee as one of the best ways of improving the condition and fertility of the soil, reducing insect damage next season, and increasing the yield of cotton. Green stalks open up the soil, increase its water holding capacity, make plant food more available, furnish food for next year's crop. Turning under stalks before insects have migrated from the field is the best known method of reducing infestation.

The Church of Christ

ROM 16:16
Salutes You

In studying the teachings of Jesus we notice that he uses the word "except" a number of times. The word "except" means unless, or cannot without this. Now may we study the word as it is used in connection with the doctrine of Jesus.

1 Jno. 6:44-45 "No man can come to me, except (unless) the Father that sent me draw him: and I will raise him up in the last day. It is written in the prophets, And they shall all be taught of God. Everyone that hath heard from the Father and hath learned, cometh into me." EXCEPT the Father draws people they cannot come to Jesus. How does the Father draw people? They are taught; they hear; they learn; and they come. EXCEPT they are taught they cannot hear, learn or come.

you, that ye shall die in your sins; 2 Jno. 8:24 "I said therefore unto you for except (unless) ye believe that I am he, ye shall die in your sins". Jesus said EXCEPT ye believe ye shall die in your sins. People may be taught that they might be able to believe. Faith cometh by hearing. Did Jesus say there was nothing else required? Continue to study.

3 Lk. 13:3 "I tell you, Nay; but, except (unless) ye repent, ye shall all in like manner perish". Acts 17:30 "..... he (God) commandeth men that they should all, everywhere repent". Can a person be saved without repenting? Jesus said, Except ye repent ye will perish. Is this all that we are to do? Continue to study.

4. Jno. 3:5 "Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except (unless) one be born of water and the Spirit, he can not enter into the kingdom of God". Jesus plainly says, unless there is a birth there cannot be an entrance. He says that the birth is to be of water and the Spirit. Where there is a birth there is new life. Paul says we are raised to walk in new.

Luxury Ahead For Travelers

Railroads Planning Radical Changes; Speed, Comfort And Safety Sought.

CHICAGO. — Happier days lie ahead for today's weary rail traveler, according to a recent survey of 20 leading American railroads. Here's what one top railway man predicts:

Faster passenger and freight service; lower fares in some classes of travel; increased safety; smoother riding qualities; courteous and friendly employees.

It seems certain you'll ride in luxury in tomorrow's coach trains. All new passenger cars in regular use will be air-conditioned, probably at about 74 degrees. In addition, you may be riding in a pendulum-type chair car, spring-suspended, that banks on curves instead of leaning outward. Greatly increased use of roller bearings on wheel axles will provide greater riding smoothness and speed.

Ever ride in a "blister?" Not yet, of course, but you will. "Blister" is the railroaders' term for the new glass- and plastic dome many coaches will have. It's a glorified observation section, from which you can comfortably view the sky and the horizon on all sides.

There'll be no hundred-yard dashes for seats in tomorrow's trains. Many roads will reserve coach seats in advance at no extra price, and chances are ticket sales will be limited to actual seating capacity.

Most roads will install newly-designed washrooms and lounges and individual reclining seats with leg rests. Perhaps there'll be a spotlight for each seat. If you're a passenger on one of the lines planning this innovation, you'll control the spotlight yourself — and it won't annoy your neighbor.

Radio, Eats 'n Everything.
For a slight charge, some roads will furnish you an individual frequency modulation radio, audible to your fellow passengers. Public address systems, to brighten your trip by acquainting you with points of interest along the way, are also being considered.

If you've ever been dissatisfied with present dining car facilities, consider these changes: low cost tray service at coach seats, individual box lunches, less expensive menus. Another pleasant possibility is the "smorgasbord" car, in which you may serve yourself hot or cold ready-made dishes from a buffet-type counter.

The new sleeping car you will use has three-high berths, running across the car. From 42 to 45 persons can be accommodated in each car. Because of this increased capacity, you will pay less for a sleeper than ever before. Private rooms and duplex roomettes, because of improved designs, will cost you little more than the present lower berth.

Tomorrow's train will get you where you're going — but faster. Extended use of diesel engines and new geared-turbine steam locomotives will be partly responsible, as well as right-of-way improvements and better operating methods.

There'll be fewer snail's pace, winding turns, picturesque but speed-cutting. Many roads, especially those west of the Mississippi, are now straightening tortuous track, laid in the days when primitive dirt-moving equipment did not permit more direct routes.

Newer methods of freight handling plus careful scheduling of lubrication, maintenance, and coal and water servicing have already proved invaluable time-savers.

Centralized traffic control — CTC — gives dispatchers fingertip control over many miles of track and eliminates costly, annoying delays in switching and in transmitting written orders to moving trains. It is said to make single-track roads 75 per cent as efficient as double-track.

CTC means fewer accident hazards, too. With it, dispatchers can instantly locate all trains in their areas, and can notify train crews of any untoward events.

Greater Safety Assured.
Your travel safety — and the railroad's operating efficiency and speed — will be further increased by radio-train communication. Induction radio, in which the rails carry the messages, has proved practicable and is already in use.

Comfort is being built into the railroad cars of the future. Those lurches and bumps so familiar to today's traveler will be only memories when the new equipment is placed in operation. Virtually all locomotives and passenger cars will be equipped with roller bearings, for smoother and easier starting and stopping.

Japanese Soldiers Break Puppet's Toys

LONDON. — The Moscow radio said recently that Japanese soldiers had looted the palace of Henry Pu Yi, emperor of the Japanese puppet state of Manchukuo (Manchuria) and had smashed the emperor's collection of dolls, with which he was reported to have played enthusiastically in his leisure moments.

U. S. Spending Is Cut 18½ Billions

Budget Director Announces Post-Victory Slash.

WASHINGTON. — Harold D. Smith, budget director, announced a post-victory slash of 18½ billion dollars in estimated government spending for the current fiscal year, ending next June 30.

He disclosed that 19½ billion dollars had been lopped from August 1 estimates of war cost, but that this saving was offset in part by a billion dollar increase in estimated nonwar spending.

The revised estimates, he said, were made possible by Japan's surrender and reflect "the liquidation of our war effort."

He listed total expenditures of 68.4 billion dollars including 5½ billion dollars for war purposes and 15.9 billion dollars for nonwar spending.

The figures compare with August 1 estimates of 83 billion dollars in total spending, 70 billion dollars for war expenditures and 14.9 billion dollars in nonwar costs.

The total spending figure represents an overall saving of 33.7 billion dollars from the 100.1 billion actually spent during the 1945 fiscal year.

The new war spending figure is 40 billion dollars below the 1945 outlay, but nonwar costs are expected to be 6.3 billion dollars higher this year.

Smith said that 1946 receipts are expected to drop from 46.5 billion dollars to a flat 36 billion dollars, but that this year's deficit will be only 30.4 billion dollars, as compared to 50 billion dollars in fiscal 1945.

As a result, he said, the public debt will climb to around 272.9 billion dollars on June 30, 1946, instead of the 278.2 billion dollar figure previously expected.

Milady Is Promised 11 Pairs of Nylons a Year

WILMINGTON, DEL. — E. I. Du Pont de Nemours company, swinging into large scale peacetime production, promises nylon-starved American women 11 pairs of hose a year.

It won't be long, Du Pont said, until we have what amounts to a nylon world. Through years of experience in putting the strong yarn to military uses, the textile industry has learned many new ways of handling the yarn.

Sheer nettings, which proved an invaluable aid against mosquitoes in the tropics, soon will appear in window curtains.

Curtains, dresses, veils and even underwear made of nylon will hold their shape and smoothness through countless launderings, the company added.

In announcing recently that plants at Seaford, Del., and Martinsville, Va., have opened capacity production of nylon yarn for civilian use, Du Pont said it can produce enough yarn to make 360,000,000 pairs of hosiery a year.

Present capacity, company officials explained, is substantially above the prewar level.

Plan Centers to Fight Tropical Skin Disease

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Eight centers specializing in the treatment of tropical skin disease will be established in this country, Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, army surgeon general, announced recently.

The centers will be at Wakeman General hospital, Camp Atterbury, Ind.; Brooke General hospital, Fort Sam Houston, Texas; Madigan General hospital, Fort Lewis, Wash.; Moore General hospital, Swannanoa, N. C.; Harmon General hospital, Longview, Texas, and in United States army general hospitals at Camp Edwards, Mass.; Camp Butler, N. C., and Camp Carson, Colo.

Maj. Clarence S. Livingood, Philadelphia, Kirk's consultant in dermatology, said there was no reason to fear spread of tropical skin infections in this country because few of the diseases were contagious and no transmittable cases would be discharged until they are non-infectious.

'Tokyo Trim' Is Latest Style for Men on Guam

GUAM. — Army and navy barber shops on Guam have been deluged during recent weeks with demands for a new type haircut—the "Tokyo Trim."

Hundreds of American officers and men, anticipating the likelihood that they soon will be in Japan, have been ordering hair clipped close all around.

They figure that Tokyo's barbers are probably out of business—that a close trim is cool and makes the hair easy to keep clean.

Soviet Scientists Find Rich Relics of Ice Age

LONDON. — A Russian scientific expedition to the Ural mountains has reported "important discoveries" of ice age relics, the Moscow radio said.

The expedition found four deposits some 43 feet below the earth indicating bone coal had been used as fuel, the broadcast said.

The scientists also unearthed the remains of mammoths, wild horses and other animals.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Mind Your Own Business

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

"She is running around with one of the town boys, and whatever she feels, he is deeply in love."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

THESE are good days in which to mind your own business. For one reason, because everyone's business is going to be complicated and hard under postwar conditions. And for another, because interfering in other persons' affairs is a harmful, wasteful and often useless employment.

Here is a letter from a woman who feels that she very decidedly ought to be minding other persons' business, even while she gives me a distinct impression that her own isn't being too well managed.

"My position is a very painful one," writes Carolyn Miller, from a Texas town. "I live with my husband's mother, who is a dear. She is only 52, active and capable, and we manage the house easily between us. I have a baby six months old.

"The trouble is my twin sisters-in-law, whom I will call Joan and Jean. They are 29, Joan married to a captain of marines, and Jean engaged to his brother, who is in the air corps. This marriage and this engagement took place before I moved in here. My husband, Bert, has been away for almost a year.

"Not His Baby."
"Joan, the married one, had a baby 10 months after her husband's departure for the south seas. She did not notify him of this baby's arrival until it was five weeks old, then a joyous cable was sent, 'fine little girl, both well.' His answer to this was so pathetically eager and happy that it made me sick, for in the family we all know that it is not his baby. Joan admits herself to a time of indiscretion, immediately after his departure, with one of his friends, since killed in the Pacific.

"The whole family expects me to be a party to this outrageous deception, of which I never would have heard, if I had not unexpectedly arrived here at the old home. My own instinct is to try to persuade Joan to write the truth to Art, and if she will not and her mother will not, to write him myself.

"Jean's case is, of course, less serious, but she is running around with one of the town boys, and whatever she feels, he is deeply in love. This seems to me terribly unfair to her absent fiancé, but her mother will do nothing but look worried and say that time will settle all these problems. Personally I don't believe in leaving such matters to time; human beings have responsibilities, and our duties to our absent soldiers are surely the most sacred among them.

"My husband is now returning, honorably discharged, and we will move back to our own home, in a town some miles away. Naturally I have kept these troubles strictly to myself, for the honor of the family, but I really am in need of advice as to my correct course, having been brought up myself in the belief that honesty is always wisest in the end, however painful. Please help me."

Let Joan Tell Husband.

My dear Carolyn, my advice heads this article. Mind your own business. Button up your lip about Joan's affairs and Jean's affairs, and concentrate upon managing your home—fortunately in another town, and keeping your husband and baby happy.

You don't know—and you have no

She will tell him when he returns.

SILENCE IS BEST

It is often difficult to keep quiet when you happen to know some scandalous information. Many people persuade themselves that it is their duty to tell, because somebody is being deceived. They seldom stop to think that they may be making a bad situation worse.

The case discussed in today's article concerns two young wives whose husbands are still in service and out of the country. The girls are twins, young and pretty. Joan has given birth to a daughter—obviously out of wedlock. The other girl, Jean, is going around with one of the local men who is plainly in love with her. Carolyn, their sister-in-law, sees all this and feels she ought to write to the husbands and reveal the ugly facts.

Miss Norris admonishes Carolyn to keep out of these people's affairs. There is no good purpose to be served, she says, by telling the soldier-husbands now. Perhaps they will never need to know. In any case, it is the wives who should do the telling, and under more favorable circumstances than now exist.

business to know — what the relationship is between Joan and Art. Perhaps she has written him the full truth already. Perhaps she is waiting until he is home again, and at work normally again, and in love with the little girl baby, to say to him; "Art, I don't know what weakness or craziness came over me—I never loved Tom as I did you. I was lonesome, and he was going away—to his death, as it happened—and we were carried away. Can you forgive me, and love her for Tom's sake, too, because he gave everything that he had, gave life itself, to keep her world safe for her?"

Perhaps, if something like that happens, Art never need be disillusioned, Art's heart need never be broken; perhaps there will be other children, and the little oldest girl not the least dear.

But whatever happens, your putting your stiff, moralizing, clumsy hand into this affair can only ruin everything, and do you no good. Leave Joan alone and leave Jean alone — Jean isn't the only pretty young flirt who's amusing herself in the absence of her heart's true love. Jean will probably meet her sweetheart with innocent eyes and a royal welcome, and to all the world Joan's mistake will remain hidden, and Joan's daughter will have her honor and her place in the world untouched. In a word, Carolyn, mind your own business.

Vitamin Intake Sufficient

You homemakers are concerned with the proper amounts of calcium and of riboflavin, known now as vitamin B-2. Calcium builds bones and teeth. Riboflavin promotes growth and is necessary to normal nutrition at all ages. B-2 vitamins are found in milk and milk products, among other foods. For folks have been drinking 25 per cent more milk since 1934, and increased their consumption of the B-2 vitamins about one-fifth.

Vitamin B-1 and niacin have been added. Iron is an important nutrient and it is usually fairly well supplied in average mixed diets and even more. The average quantity of vitamin B-1 that you and your family had last year was 33 per cent higher than in prewar years 1935-1939. Nine per cent of this B-1 increase was due to the enrichment of grain products. You homemakers have learned that if your family does not have enough B-1 it is apt to result in a poor physical condition, poor appetite and nervous disorders.

EISENHOWER AND RUSSIANS
Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, a real diplomat, has been making progress toward friendship with the Russians, but got a setback the other day.

U. S. officials entering Eisenhower's office found him despondent. He was holding a copy of Time magazine.

"Look at that," he said, "six weeks' work gone."

Eisenhower pointed to a picture of a female entertainer in a Berlin night club standing on her head, legs apart, holding a picture of Stalin between them. Time had reproduced the picture.

"And just as I was making some progress with Marshal Zhukov," Eisenhower mourned. "First he would scarcely see me. But recently we have become pretty good friends. When I go into his office he says, 'Here's to Ike.'"

Eisenhower went on to tell how Zhukov was blazing mad over the Time magazine picture. He had just come from seeing the Russian commander who had demanded:

"What are you going to do about this?"

"Nothing," replied Eisenhower.

"What! You let the American press make mockery of the marshal?" exclaimed Zhukov.

"That's what we fought the war for—the right to criticize, the right for people to say what they please," said Eisenhower.

Eisenhower went on to explain to the Russian that because one newspaper or magazine published a picture of Stalin, it did not reflect the sentiment of either the American government or the American people, and that the American government scrupulously refrained from censoring the press on matters of this kind.

However, the Russians continue to be sensitive. It is hard for them to understand the difference between a regulated press as in the Soviet and a free press as in the U. S. A.

NEW SUPREME COURT JUSTICE

President Truman really let his hair down with Senator Burton when he called him in last week to tell him he was being nominated to the Supreme court.

Catching Burton just before the Ohio senator was about to leave for Cincinnati, Truman told him that he had actually promised the Supreme court job to another man, Robert Patterson, now secretary of war, but changed his mind.

"Harold," said Truman at the start of the interview, "I've made up my mind to appoint you to the Supreme court."

"You were always my first choice," Truman continued, "but I had some vacillations. I considered appointing Phillips of Denver, Parker of North Carolina and Patterson. 'Finally I decided to appoint Patterson and told him I was going to appoint him.'"

Truman then explained that it was better to leave Patterson in the war department to replace Stimson as secretary of war.

"One of the things that disturbed me about your appointment," Truman continued, "was the probable claim that I might be playing politics in order to get a Democratic senator from Ohio." (Truman had in mind the fact that Governor Lausche of Ohio, a Democrat, now can appoint a Democratic senator to replace Burton, a Republican.)

"So I talked it over with Alben Barkley," Truman explained, "and he advised that if I was convinced you were the right man, I should appoint you and let political consequences go hang."

Note—Truman had picked up Senator Barkley at Paducah, Ky., the evening before and flown him back to Washington in his special plane, at which time they had conferred regarding the Burton appointment. Truman, incidentally, seems to be leaning more and more on sage, experienced Barkley for advice.

CAPITAL CHAFF

President Truman still keeps up his rapid-fire early-morning appointment pace, sees as many as 15 visitors before lunch. Greek Publisher Basil Viavianos visited Truman the other day, caught him sneaking a yawn and long stretch between callers.

Sidelights From Washington

By George Mahon
The military cemeteries here and there around the world little white crosses mark the graves of the men who made the supreme sacrifice in the war. The names are inscribed in black on the crosses of white marble. Some time ago when I was on

Tarawa in the Pacific, I heard the Commanding Officer say as he pointed first to the beaches and then to the cemetery: "There is where our boys stormed the beaches and that is what it cost us."
I think the loved ones of these men who sleep beneath the White Crosses would like to know that the graves are being well kept. I saw many of these cemeteries and all that I saw are well kept and attractively laid out. The one on Tarawa was especially well kept and the chapel of native construction was very beautiful. The principal cemetery on Guadalcanal was similar in appearance and had an equally beautiful chapel. There is a little office adjacent to the cemetery where a soldier keeps the register of the men buried there. Some fresh graves were being dug in the Guadalcanal cemetery. It was explained that during the thick of fighting a few of our men were buried at isolated places on the island and that their remains were being brought to the main cemetery. It was explained that the remains of a number of the men had been buried in the New Hebrides Islands were being brought to Guadalcanal for re-interment.

Our plane did not stop at Iwo Jima but circled the tiny island at low altitude a couple of times. The island was rimmed with war installations, but the cemetery with its many white crosses was about as obvious from the air as Mt. Suribachi where the flag was raised and the memorable photograph taken.

I saw three of the seven cemeteries on Okinawa. In the center of one of them was the grave of Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, who led our forces there, and all about him were graves of heroes of the Okinawa campaign. There were no chapels at the Okinawa cemeteries, but they were well kept. At one of them I observed a little shelter which protected a register of the names of those buried there.

The largest cemetery in the Pacific area is at Finschhafen, New Guinea, where about seven thousand of our men are interred. The remains of our men in many of the smaller cemeteries throughout the Pacific are being removed to the larger cemeteries where they can be better cared for, about fifty cemeteries thereby being abandoned.

In the European theatre, the remains of our men who lost their lives on German soil are now being removed to semi-permanent cemeteries in France, Belgium and Holland. Our cemetery at Henri-Chappelle, Belgium, not far from Aachen and Liege, is the resting place of 17,323 American dead. This is our largest cemetery in Europe.

About two hundred thousand of our brave fighting men of World War II, who gave their lives for this country, rest beneath white crosses overseas. One fourth of them are in the Pacific area and most of the others are in Europe. Congress plans to provide at a later date for the return to the United States of the remains of these men for re-interment in national or local cemeteries, in accordance with the wishes of the next of kin.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for October 14

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE HOME FOSTERING CHRISTIAN IDEALS

LESSON TEXT—Deuteronomy 6:4-9; Luke 2:51, 52; Ephesians 5:22, 25; 6:1-4.

GOLDEN TEXT—Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.—Ephesians 4:32.

"Juvenile delinquency" is an expression often heard in our day. It speaks of the awful way in which our boys and girls have gone astray spiritually and morally in recent years. Fortunately, we are beginning to realize that most of the blame falls on the parents. It is parental delinquency in the matter of proper rearing of the children which needs our earnest attention. The home is the right place for the fostering of Christian principles of living, but all too often even Christian people have put that whole load on the Sunday school and church. They can help, but they cannot do the job which should be done in the home.

Home should be a place where:

I. God's Word is Accepted (Deut. 6:4-9).

The Bible teaches us the truth about God and that is information of the highest value and usefulness in the home. He is our God, and He is one God. There is no other God, and at the same time this infinite and eternal One is very close to us—our God. How precious!

The acceptance of the truth concerning God draws forth our love toward Him. He is not like the heathen gods who cause only cringing fear. He loves us and we love Him, with all our might (v. 5).

This Word of God and the truth concerning Him should be the normal and natural subject of conversation in the home.

Any time, night or day, and anywhere, in the house or on the street, it should be as easy for a boy to talk to his father about God as to discuss his school work, or sports, or any other thing.

Let's make it a natural, normal, accepted thing that God and His Word are talked about in the home.

II. Growth is Expected (Luke 2:51, 52).

In the well-ordered home the child finds his place as Jesus did, as an obedient, well-mannered, co-operative member.

There, too, is the natural place for normal, well-balanced development. There must first be growth in wisdom. The mind and will must be in control, lest the physical get out of hand. They must develop, even as the body grows. Thus the growth of the body becomes not just an animal development, but one amenable to proper restraints, cultivated and poised for full usefulness.

But the home fails if it does not at the same time give the child a chance to grow "in favor with God and man." The boy Jesus continued to grow in gracious personality, with both God and man as the interested recipients of the fruits of His spiritual development.

Every home should be a Christian home and every Christian home should be a center of normal growth for children. This should give us cultured Christian men and women for the next generation.

III. Love is Expressed (Eph. 5:22, 25).

Love is not just a warm and tender feeling hidden away in the heart. It shows in the homely details of daily life in the home.

A Christian wife expresses her affection for her husband by giving him his God-appointed place as head of the house. There is a graceful and voluntary submission to God's plan for the home which makes for order and unity. Happy is the woman who seeks that place and lives in it! Her life will be blessed!

A Christian husband will learn to control that natural masculine tendency to dominate. He will study the gentle art of courtesy and kindly affection. He will love his wife as Christ loved the Church, and that means a willingness to both live and die for her.

Christianity really should show forth at its very best in the home but, alas, so often just the contrary is true! Let us get that thing straightened out and keep it right!

IV. Rights are Respected (Eph. 6:1-4).

Mutual devotion between husband and wife, and mutual trust between parents and children—there we have the basis of a real God-honoring home.

Good to Bake—That's Devil's Food Cake (See Recipe Below)

Cake Tempters

Family hungry for cake? As a general rule, families take it easy on cakes during the spring and summer because there's a wealth of fruits and berries to solve the dessert problem.

But, comes the first whiff of fall in the air, when the kitchen will stay cool enough even for baking, and there's the family on mother's heels begging for a cake.

Then, too, husbands and sons will soon be returning, and they will want a big taste of mother's good homemade cake. Be ready for the call when it comes, homemakers, with a brand new line-up of recipes that are bound to win the family.

We're still aware of the strategic situation in regard to sugar, so the following recipes don't go all-out for sugar. They're taste-tempting and delicious in spite of it all, and there's a grand variety from which to choose. Take your pick:

*Bran Devil's Food Cake. (Makes 16 cupcakes)

- 1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup cocoa
- 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup whole bran
- 1 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 eggs

Sift flour once, measure then sift again with sugar, cocoa, baking powder, soda and salt into mixing bowl. Add shortening and whole bran. Add about 1/2 of the milk, then vanilla; beat until perfectly smooth, about 100 strokes. Scrape bowl and spoon and mix well. Add remaining milk and beat until well blended. Add the well-beaten eggs. Fill greased muffin tins 2/3 full. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven about 25 or 30 minutes.

Do you like a cake served warm, in squares, with the tangy flavor of a citrus marmalade? This, then, is made-to-order:

Marmalade Tea Cake.

- 2 tablespoons melted butter or substitute
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1 1/2 cups corn flakes
- 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 4 tablespoons shortening
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup marmalade

Blend together butter, brown sugar and 1/2 cup corn flakes. Set this aside for the topping. Sift together flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Cut in shortening. Beat egg and add milk. Add to dry ingredients, stirring only until combined. Add remaining 1 cup of cornflakes. Turn into greased 8-inch square pan. Dot with marmalade, spooned on top of batter; sprinkle with mixture set aside for topping. Bake in a hot (400-degree) oven for 25 minutes. Serve warm, cut in squares.

Sour Cream Spice Cake.

- 1/4 cup shortening
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup thick sour cream
- 1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves

Cream sugar and shortening, add egg and beat well. Add sour cream. Sift flour with baking soda, baking powder, salt, cloves and cinnamon. Add two tablespoons of the dry ingredients to the creamed mixture. Beat thoroughly. Add remaining dry ingredients to the first mixture, beating well. Pour into a well-greased and well-floured pan and bake in a pre-heated 350-degree oven for 30 minutes.

An unusual variation in cakes is to use gingerbread as an upside-down cake with an apple or orange topping. This saves both sugar and fussing as it is not necessary to make an icing for this type of cake:

Gingerbread Upside-Down Cake.

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup molasses
- 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger
- 1/2 cup sour milk

Bottom of pan: 2 tablespoons butter or substitute 1/2 cup light corn syrup 1/2 cup nuts 2 sliced apples or oranges

with marmalade, spooned on top of batter; sprinkle with mixture set aside for topping. Bake in a hot (400-degree) oven for 25 minutes. Serve warm, cut in squares.

Sour Cream Spice Cake.

- 1/4 cup shortening
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup thick sour cream
- 1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves

Cream sugar and shortening, add egg and beat well. Add sour cream. Sift flour with baking soda, baking powder, salt, cloves and cinnamon. Add two tablespoons of the dry ingredients to the creamed mixture. Beat thoroughly. Add remaining dry ingredients to the first mixture, beating well. Pour into a well-greased and well-floured pan and bake in a pre-heated 350-degree oven for 30 minutes.

An unusual variation in cakes is to use gingerbread as an upside-down cake with an apple or orange topping. This saves both sugar and fussing as it is not necessary to make an icing for this type of cake:

Gingerbread Upside-Down Cake.

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup molasses
- 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger
- 1/2 cup sour milk

Bottom of pan: 2 tablespoons butter or substitute 1/2 cup light corn syrup 1/2 cup nuts 2 sliced apples or oranges

Cream sugar and shortening. Add egg, beat well. Add molasses, blend. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with the milk to the creamed mixture. To prepare pan, melt butter and add corn syrup. Arrange fruit and nuts. Pour batter over fruit and bake for 35 minutes in a 375-degree oven. Turn cake out of pan immediately after removing from oven.

For those of you who like your whipped cream and can't get it, here is an excellent way of making it:

Whipped Cream.

- 1 1/2 teaspoons plain, unflavored gelatin
- 1/4 cup cold milk or water
- 1 cup well-chilled light cream

Soften gelatin in cold liquid. Set over hot water and stir until thoroughly dissolved. Pour cream into fairly deep, narrow bowl, making sure it is deep enough so cream covers at least 3/4 of the beaters. Stir in softened gelatin gradually. Set bowl in a pan of ice and let stand 5 minutes, stirring around edges several times. Leaving bowl in ice and water, beat with rotary beater 5 minutes. Cream will be light and fluffy but will not stand stiff enough to peak. Let stand 1 or 2 minutes more in ice water, stirring gently. Cream will thicken and become stiff enough to peak. This may be sweetened and flavored to taste. It may be served immediately or kept in refrigerator or cold place until ready to serve. Texture improves on standing in refrigerator for 1/2 hour. Stir until smooth and serve.

Make sure you have plenty of good absorbent dish towels handy. Use paper toweling for hands to save cloth towels.

Ripe pears should be used in the mince-meat. If they are hard and green, they may be wrapped in news paper and stored in a cool, dark place to mellow. A cool place is especially important; otherwise the pears may spoil quickly. Ventilated cellars or pantries would be excellent storage places.

Here is the recipe:
1-2 lbs. pears (peeled and cored)
1 lemon, 1 apple (peel and all)
1 cup of grape juice or other fruit juice (not too sweet)
1 tablespoon each ground cinnamon, cloves, and all spice.
1 lb. seedless raisins
6 cups sugar or 3 cups honey and 1 cup sugar or 6 cups corn syrup.
1 cup of vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
Grind pears, lemon and apple. Mix with all other ingredients and boil for two hours. Pack into hot jars. Seal while hot.

Protein Feed Is Expected To Short

According to O. C. McBride, local Purina feed representative, an acute shortage of feedstuff for livestock and poultry, particularly high protein ingredients, has developed as a result of the large animal and poultry populations. The possible effects of the situation are so serious that Purina Mills, one of the major producers of poultry and livestock feeds, has prepared special bulletins to emphasize its importance.

Rubber received its name in 1779 when the English chemist, Priestley discovered that it would erase pencil marks.

The United States Department of Agriculture has made certain recommendations to help conserve and make the most efficient use of available supplies, particularly during the next 60 to 90 days. After that, the new crop of vegetable proteins will be available, and, if a reasonable adjustment in numbers of poultry and livestock is made, the critical situation should be alleviated. Purina Mills is endorsing these recommendations in so far as it is practical for farmers and feeders to follow them:

- Poultrymen:
1. Market as broilers and fryers all chicks hatched since June.
2. Cull laying flocks closely.
3. Do not expand present broiler operations.
4. Make sure of feed supplies before buying chicks during the next 60 to 90 days.
5. Turkeys in grain-growing areas should feed heavily on grains.
Dairymen:
1. Make maximum use of fall pastures, hay and silage.
2. Limit the protein feeding as much as possible while pastures are good.
Hogmen:
Feed protein supplements to the brood sows and fall litters first. While proteins are in limited supply, limit the amount fed to the heavier market hogs. Market hogs which weigh over 200 pounds can get along better without any protein supplements than a brood sow or a baby pig can on a limited amount. Hogmen should take advantage of the good pastures available in most areas.

OCT. 21st IS NAVY SUNDAY

New Orleans, La. — Oct. 21 has been designated as Navy Sunday and will be a special day of tribute to the men in all the services who lost their lives at sea in the defense of the United States. The Navy League is asking the American people everywhere to send one flower to one of the designated ports nearest their own community in time to arrive before midnight on Oct. 20. The league suggests that wherever possible the flower sent be either home grown or wild and in no case should the expenditure exceed a modest sum.

In mailing not more than one flower to this port they should be addressed care of Senior Chaplain, Naval Air Training Center, Corpus Christi, Texas.

All flowers received by these chaplains will be placed on Naval vessels, and following appropriate all-faith ceremonies at the respective docksides, a ship will proceed to sea from each port and when the vessel reaches a point beyond the sight of land the flowers will be scattered on the waters.

Coffee Table That Has End Shelves

When you set a tray on a coffee table, what should be done with the clutter on top? Here is the answer. Just use the shelves at the ends.

There is a special thrill in this table for it represents the joint handwork of its maker. The base is painted and then glassed.

An interesting map of a series of pictures could have been used under the practical glass top, but instead a touch of sentiment was added with morning glories cut out of bright fabric and sewn to cream-colored material.

NOTE—Pattern 254 gives complete directions for this table. The Morning Glory applique is made with hot iron transfer No. 202. Patterns are 15 cents each postpaid. Send order with name and address to:

MRS. J. T. GREEN HAS BETTER SUCCESS WITH LESS EFFORT

BARRINGTON, DELAWARE.—Mrs. James T. Green is a Texan who moved to Delaware. While in the East she used some other brands of laundry starch, and then wrote this letter:

"When I was in Texas I became acquainted with Faultless Starch and liked it very much. I never used any starch like it. I have used many other brands, but I can have better success with less effort with Faultless Starch. I have my son's little suits to wash often and it is a great help to know that I can just dip them in cold starch and they will iron so nice and smooth."

Faultless Starch has been especially made for women who want to do beautiful starching and ironing—with as little work as possible. That's why Faultless Starch satisfies women like Mrs. James T. Green. It is truly a special kind of starch, made a special way.

PERFECT HOT OR COLD
Whether you want hot starch or cold starch, you can make perfect starch—WITHOUT COOKING. For cold starch you simply add cold water to the starch while you stir. For hot starch you simply cream the starch with a little cool water and add boiling water while stirring. Either hot or cold, it takes barely a minute to make perfect starch.

MAKES IRONING EASY
Another special feature about Faultless Starch is this—Faultless Starch contains ironing-aids that keep the iron from sticking. Your iron just slides along. No more fighting a "sticky" iron. You'll enjoy ironing over Faultless Starch, for beautiful ironing becomes a joy—not a job.

You might just as well enjoy Faultless Starch—just like so many thousands of other women do. Just ask your grocer for Faultless Starch today. Use it the very next time you wash. Save the work of making starch. Save the work of fighting a "sticky" iron. Do beautiful starching and ironing. Simply change to Faultless Starch.—Adv.

Thunderhead

MARY O'HARA
W.N.U. FEATURES

THE STORY THUS FAR: Thunderhead, the only white horse ever foaled on Goose Bar ranch in Wyoming. He is a throwback to his great grand sire, the Albino, a wild stallion. His 15-year-old owner, Ken McLaughlin, hopes he will become a famous racer. He is entered in a race meet in Idaho. Rob McLaughlin, Ken's father, sells off most of his horses and turns to sheep raising. Ken and his brother Howard take Thunderhead and Flicka and ride into the mountains. Here Thunderhead finds the wild herd led by the Albino. In a furious battle, Thunderhead kills the older stallion, and takes control of the herd. Rob is as disappointed as Ken when he hears that their "race horse" is lost.

CHAPTER XXIV

Rob dropped a hand on his shoulder and shook it. "Now go on and get a good hot bath. Put all this out of your mind. Supper'll be ready in an hour and I want to see you eat! And I've got a surprise for you—something you'll like. I'm going to talk it over with your mother first."

Ken lay in his hot bath, luxuriating. All the sore knotted muscles eased and relaxed, and the feverish pain was drawn out of the scratches and abrasions.

He got the iodine bottle from the medicine chest and attended painstakingly to his wounds. He was dotted and smeared all over when he finally sat down with slicked hair and startlingly clean fingernails to the supper of fried chicken and mashed potatoes whipped with hot cream such as only his mother could make.

And again he told and retold the story of his adventure, even to the bit about the black mare who made the dash for freedom. "She was a beauty, dad. She reminded me of Gypsy, only she was bigger."

And at last Rob told his boy of the important thing. That none of his plans need be changed. He could still go to Saginaw Falls with Charley Sargent. He could still send a race horse of his own in Charley Sargent's express car. There would still be a Goose Bar entry in the races. The only change would be that it would be the two-year-old filly, Touch And Go, instead of the three-year-old stallion, Thunderhead.

And so when the big black Buick rolled down the mountain passes of the Wyoming-Idaho highway on October eleventh there were two racehorse-owners sitting in the front seat, Charley Sargent, quite formal looking in a black overcoat and derby hat, and Ken, feeling at least ten years older than ever before.

Thunderhead lifted his nose high and searched the wind. It was a bare craggy peak overlooking the southern end of the valley that he had chosen for his lookout. From here he could see below him where his mares were grazing. He could turn and look at the tiers of mountains behind away up to the Thunderer in his eyrie in the sky. He could see the clouds rolling around them, he could hear the deep rumble of the giants that lived underneath, the fall of every avalanche, the crack of every frozen tree; and not a bird nor animal could move without his eyes and ears taking note of it.

It was an uneven pinnacle of rock on which he stood, with barely room for foothold. His hind legs were braced down and apart. His body was twisted. His head, with its floating white mane and spear-pointed ears, was lifted high, his dark, white-ringed eyes filled with the wildness of the mountains and the clouds. Dangling from his black halter was a bit of rope, frayed and worn at the end.

A little below him, balked by the steepness of the last sheer ascent, a small white colt stood looking up at him. Now and then Thunderhead's glance rested on him for a second, then brushed past and up again.

A new message was on the wind this early morning. There was a heavy storm coming. The temperature was twenty below already and still falling.

The mares and colts were protected by a long thick growth of hair which they had started growing in September in preparation for this early storm. But Thunderhead was warned only by the inner heat of the stallion. His coat was, as always, silky and shining, scarred only by patches of rough, long hair under his throat, and on his shoulders where he had been wounded.

Around the mountain peaks many storms were tossing, rolling down the slopes, colliding with each other, carried on opposing currents of air. A boiling mass of wind-cloud swept north over the valley with an eagle sailing before it. Now and then the storms united and came down in a deep white blanket, then were broken up again and, roaring, separated and moved in every direction. Gradually the smother thickened and snow fell, driving first one way, then the other.

Thunderhead reared his crest high into the storm. His mane streamed to the west. The eastern wind was strongest and would prevail. An easterner.

Memory tingled through him and his pawing hoof rang on the rock. When the cold burns too deep, when there is death in the wind, take the way down the mountain. Gates are open. Mangers are full of hay. There is shelter and food and kindness for all. And the screaming whiteness cannot follow you in.

He made several abrupt movements of his head, then turned and picked his way down the crag, his tail sweeping over the white colt, who carefully followed him.

Thunderhead rounded up his mares and headed them north down the valley. When he had them running he took the lead, with the black mare and her white colt close behind him. His pace was carefully chosen so that the smallest colt could keep up.

What snow there was boiled like seafoam around their feet and there was that sound in the steady eastern wind—that unvarying roar—that would turn into a whine as the velocity increased.

They strung out single file going through the keyhole and down the river gorge. Now and then Thunderhead circled to see that there were no stragglers, giving a few nips to keep the tail-enders aware that they were on a drive and expected to keep up.

Below, on the plains, they spread out, kicking and biting, wild with the heat of their blood, and the excitement of the run, and the fierce beating of the wind and snow. They neared the ranch in the late afternoon, Thunderhead swinging along at a canter, finding his way through the white smother with the ease of infallible instinct. He was on his own ground now, and had known every square foot of it since birth. Reaching the crest of the Saddle Back, he halted to survey his domain and his mares crowded up around him. Nothing could be seen through the snow, but to his inner eye, every building, every fence post was visible, and as he plunged down the slope he indulged in some coltish bucks of pure joy. With those thirty handsome mares and colts behind him he could be forgiven for feeling the pride of a young heir when he brings home his bride and displays her to the family.

Down the Saddle Back they poured at a full gallop, up the county road—the gate was open! Thunderhead made the sharp turn, the mares following close, cantered down through the stable pasture to the corral—again the gates were open! They poured in—

It was already full of mares and colts. All the familiar old smells! Every brood mare as comfortable to him as mother's milk! Oats and hay. The corral and stables. Banner—

Thunderhead nickered and squealed in an ecstasy of homecoming. He plunged through the mares to the feed racks and tore out a great mouthful of hay—Castle Rock Meadow hay that he had been brought up on. His mares pushed in behind him, mixing with the other mares, starting little fights and scuffles.

Banner met him in the center of the corral. The two stallions stood nose to nose, quivering and squealing, half rearing. They were filled with the excitement that goes with the meeting of old friends—and something else, too, because of those mares and colts. They turned away from each other and began to investigate. Thunderhead's approach to the Goose Bar mares was the greeting of old friends, but it was different with Banner. These strange mares were new and exciting! There were so many of them—and his own quota was incomplete. With a mere ten brood mares any self-respecting stallion is looking for more.

The mares and colts milled around, crowding the walls of the stable and the feed racks.

Banner pursued three of Thunderhead's mares that were in a little group together. His head snaked along the ground. He drove them over to a group of his own. Thunderhead tossed his head high over the crush where he was feeding at the rack and his flaring eyes caught sight of this maneuver. He dropped his muzzle to feed again. Banner continued to move Thunderhead's mares from where they were feeding over into a corner of the corral and to freeze them there.

Thunderhead wormed himself out of the jam. He pursued Banner and neighed challengingly. As the red stallion turned and faced him, they both reared and nipped, then dropped to earth and stood quivering.

In Thunderhead was all the old love for Banner, but there was another feeling too, and it was getting stronger every instant. Anger. Combativeness. A furious uprising and outpouring of energy that lifted and stiffened his tail and burst from him in squealing grunts of protest and sent him rearing and pawing into the air. It would presently find outlet in more dangerous action than that.

The two stallions plunged past each other again and this time each aimed an ugly nip in passing.

"Boss! Boss! Thunderhead is here mid a big bunch of mares und colts!"

Thunderhead knew that voice. It went with the oats and the shelter and the kindness.

"Coom quick, Boss! Dere all mixed up wid our mares—de stallions is fightin'—"

He knew the other voice too that answered from the gorge, the deep, commanding voice with the anger in it. And he knew the two faces as they appeared through the driving flakes—the round pink face with the gray curls framing it—and the long dark face with the white teeth showing in a wind-beaten snarl—He knew the smell of them, but not this other smell of consternation—this smell of shocked horror. Nor the panic of that voice when it shouted, "Get the whips, Gus! Bring a couple of pitchforks!" Didn't know the arms that flailed him and beat him back with frenzied shouts, "Turn Banner's mares into the other corral—he'll follow them!" Even while he plunged past the man and reared again and Banner reared to face him and each aimed a smashing blow over the other's neck that landed like a dull thunder-clap, he had to take care to avoid this man who lashed his head and face with a whip, who hung, yelling, on his halter, who interfered in every possible way with his fixation, who flung his whole weight and heft against him, turning him, while the other man turned Banner. . . .

There was confusion flooding his brain . . . snow-wind blinding his eyes . . . obedience conflicting with libido . . .

The barn. His own stall and a manger full of hay and oats. How had this happened? How had he got shut in here? He loved this stall. He dipped his head in the manger. Lifting it, he listened and pricked his ears and reached his sensitive nostrils into the air and fluttered them . . . He could smell each one of his mares and colts. They were all there, around the stable, feeding at the racks . . . everything all right . . . all safe and cared for while the blizzard whined and the wind seized the barn and rattled it like a dried pod. . . .

"Can you beat it? Thunderhead came back in the storm and brought his new harem! Habit was too strong for him!"

Rob made a practice these days of hiding his temper from Nell, announcing even serious news in a careless manner.

So for a moment Nell was deceived and turned from the table where she was placing the silver for supper and looked at him with wonderment and joy.

"Thunderhead back again! Oh, Rob!"

Rob stamped across the kitchen floor to wash his hands at the sink, and it seemed to Nell that the grin he flung over his shoulder at her was more of a toothy snarl than a smile.

"Where is he now?" she asked. "I've got him shut into the stable."

"I'd like to see him. I'll go up after supper."

"You will not!"

As he turned toward her, snatching the towel from the rack and drying his hands violently, she saw the wildness in his eyes. She said nothing more but set the supper on the table, and as Rob went to his place, he leaned over and kissed her and said contritely, "I can't let my darling be doing such reckless things as that at this late stage of the game."

Why is that reckless, thought Nell, then suddenly asked, "Where's Banner?"

The frenzied look Rob flung at her opened up to her understanding the whole scope of this predicament. "I've got him in the east corral with his mares—and Thunderhead locked into the stable."

A corporal in New Guinea proved that his bite was worse than his bark when he put his teeth into his dealings with natives.

When the natives refused to take their work for the army quartermaster corps seriously, the corporal released an angry tirade—with such vigor that his false teeth fell to the ground.

"The incident," the army graveyards reports, "caused great concern among the natives. The corporal was looked upon with respect and awe, and his orders were obeyed."

EAGLE EYE VIEWS

Now was Wayne Vandiver with Wanda Huffhines Sunday nite ??? If so, what happened to her and Joe?

Who did we see Betty Edgerton with Saturday nite??? Couldn't have been Dub Taylor??

Patsy seems a bit down hearted. We suppose it is because Face is leaving.

Hasn't Mona Lee and Dan Turner been seeing a great deal of each other?? Speaking of them reminds us that Minnie is finally going with "Toke" Farmer.

We bet Bobbiye Jean is crazy about fifth period study hall because she sits right in front of Tom Schooler.

Why were Wayne and Kelly so interested in the Tahoka girls Friday nite ???

Betty Joyce went with Dub Taylor to Lamesa Thursday nite. We thought she was supposed to be faithfully waiting for Edward.

A bug bit Peggy Beach. Was it a love bug?????????

ness of life when we are baptized. New Testament baptism is a burial in W A T E R, by the direction of the Holy Spirit. Study Mk. 16:15-16 and Acts 2:38 also.

5 Jno. 15:1-10 Vs. 4 "Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except (unless) it abide in the vine; so neither can ye, except (unless) ye abide in me". To abide in Christ (after we have been baptized into him, Rom. 6:3) his words must abide in us, verse seven, and we must keep his commandments. Vs. 10. Jesus said there cannot be life unless we abide in his teaching.

6. II Tim. 2:5 "And if also a man contend in the games, he is not crowned, except (unless) he have contended lawfully". Paul is teaching Timothy that UNLESS we follow the teaching of our Lord and the apostles we will not be crowned.

7. Matt. 5: 20 "For I say unto you, that except (unless) your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, shall in no wise enter into the kingdom of heaven." Turn and study following passages. Matt. 15: Matt. 6:1-5; Matt. 23:1-23:23. Pharisees taught the doctrine men and made void the commandment of God. They honored with their lips but their heart far from him; they said and did and left undone the weightier terms of law, justice, mercy and faith. Jesus said EXCEPT our righteousness exceeds this we shall in no wise enter into the kingdom heaven.

Friends, get your New Testament and study these things. "Whoso soeth onward and abideth on the teaching of Christ, hath not he that abideth in the teaching, same hath both the Father and Son." We invite you to attend worship services next Lord's Day. Garnie Atkinson, minister

Lightning Strike Thrice ?

YES  NO

Even if it scores a knockout first crack, lightning can still jolt the same spot some more! It often does. Another accurate weather fact is that you'll step up your aging car's chances this Winter by OIL-PLATING the engine's insides. You want Conoco Nth motor oil for this protective OIL-PLATING.

Conoco Nth oil's great wear-fighting method is this: it employs the magnet-like action of its added ingredient to make metal and lubricant join up! This creates OIL-PLATED surfaces--no longer all bare to frictional wear and corrosion. Hence there's less cause for carbon-sludge-breakdown. And surfaces kept OIL-PLATED even at a standstill are ready for quick safe Winter starts. Your engine and battery both say, "Conoco Nth for Winter--today!"
