ON THE WESTERN FRONT.-The soldier had a white bandage around the calf of his left leg. He had loosely laced his legging back over the bandage.

He said the wound "didn't amount to a damn" and he wished they hadn't sent him back from the lines. He said he had gone through Africa and Sicily without getting wounded, and now he'd got nicked. He was disgusted.

You could sense that this guy was a fine soldier. He looked old, but probably wasn't. I took him to be a farmer. He talked like a hillbilly, and beneath his whiskers you could tell he had a big, droll face. He had found some long and crooked, raggedy

and he kept lighting these funnylooking things and putting them about three inches into his mouth. He wasn't nervous in the least.

Capt. Lucien Strawn, the battalion surgeon, started to put him in a jeep to go back to the aid station, but the soldier said:

"Now wait. I know where there's two more men wounded pretty bad. One of them is a lieutenant who just got back from the hospital this morning from his other wound."

The soldier said they were right up where the bullets were flying, but that if the aidmen would go he could walk well enough to guide them up there. So the doctor named off half a dozen men to go with

The doctor also told the unwounded German to go along and help carry. But one of the aidmen said: We better not have him with us.

Our own men are liable to start shooting at us."

"That's right," the doctor said, "leave him here." And he named off one other American to go. After they had left the doctor said, "That's the truth, and I never even thought

The doctor and I sat a while on for shells had started hitting just outside again. But in a little bit the doctor got up and said he was going with him. He said o. k.

yelling?" So we listened again, and this time we could hear it plainly. It seemed to come from a far corner of the field, so we picked our way over in that direction.

Finally we saw him, a soldier lying on his back near a hedgerow, yelling "Help!" as we ap-The aidmen who had started ahead of us had got down in a bomb crater when the shelling started, so the doctor now waved them to come on.

The wounded soldier was making an awful fuss. He was twisting and squirming, and moaning, "Oh, my God! Oh, my God!" He had a bandage on his right hand and there was blood on his left leg.

The doctor took his scissors and cut the legging off, then cut the laces on the shoe, and then peeled off a bloody sock and cut the pants leg up so he could see the wound. The soldier kept his eyes shut and kept squirming and moaning.

When the doctor would try to talk to him he would just groan and say, "Oh, my God!" Finally the doctor got out of him that he had had a small wound in his hand, and his sergeant had bandaged it and told him to start to the rear. Then, coming across the field, a shell fragment had got him in the leg.

The doctor looked him over thoroughly. There were two small holes just above the ankle. The doctor lived in Murph's house.

said they hadn't touched the bone. I think the doctor was disgusted. He said: "He's making a hell of a fuss over nothing." Then to one of the aidmen he said, "Better give him a shot of morphine to quiet

Whereupon the soldier squirmed and moaned, "Oh, no, no, no! Oh, my God!" But the doctor said go ahead, and the aidman cut his sleeve up to the shoulder, stuck the needle in and squeezed the vial.

The aidman, trying to be sympa-thetic, said to the soldier, "It's the same old needle, ain't it?" But the soldier just groaned again and said,

"Oh, my God!"
Our hillbilly soldier lit another skinny cigar, as though he were at a national convention instead of a battlefield. Then one set of the litterbearers started back with our new man, and the rest of us went on with the soldier to hunt for other wounded.

The commander of the particular regiment of the Fourth Infantry divion that we have been with is one of my favorites.

That's partly because he flatters me by calling me "General," partly because just looking at him makes me chuckle to myself, and partly because I think he's a very fine soldier.

Security forbids my giving his name. He is a regular army colonel and he was overseas in the last war. His division commander says the only trouble with him is that he's too bold, and if he isn't careful he's liable to get clipped one of these days.

He is rather unusual looking. There is something almost Mongolian about his face. When cleaned up he could be a Cossack. When the stairway inside the farmhouse, | tired and dirty he could be a movie gangster. But either way, his eyes always twinkle. He has a facility for direct thought to see how the stretcher party was | that is unusual. He is impatient of getting along. I said I'd like to go the thinking that gets off onto by-He has a little habit of good-talion commander what his position was. The battalion commander started going into details of why his troops hadn't got as far as he had hoped. The colonel cocked his head over, squinted up at the battalion commander, and said:

"I didn't ask you that, I asked you where you were."

The colonel goes constantly from one battalion to another during battle, from early light till darkness. wears a new-type field jacket that fits him like a sack, and he carries a long stick that Teddy Roosevelt gave him. He keeps constantly prodding his commanders to push hard, not to let up, to keep driving and driving.

He is impatient with commanders who lose the main point of the war by getting involved in details-the main point, of course, being to kill.

Another of my favorites is a sergeant who runs the colonel's regimental mess. He cooks some himself, but mostly he bosses the cook-

His name is Charles J. Murphy and his home is at Trenton, N. J. Murph is redheaded, but has had his head nearly shaved like practically all the Western Front soldiers-officers as well as men. Murph is funny, but he seldom smiles.

When I asked him what he did in civilian life, he thought a moment and then said: "Well, I was a shyster. Guess you'd call me a kind of promoter. I always had the kind of job where you made $50 a week salary and $1,500 on the side."

How's that for an honest man? Murph and I got to talking about newspaper men one day. Murph said his grandfather was a newspaper man. He retired in old age and ing newspapers," Murph said. was a phobia with him. Every day he'd buy $1.50 worth of 3-cent newspapers and then read them all night.

'He wouldn't read the ads. He would just read the stories, looking for something to criticize. He'd get fuming mad.

"Lots of times when I was a kid Murph never smoked cigarettes he'd get me out of bed at two or until he landed in France on D-day.

"My grandfather went nuts read- | three in the morning and point to some story in the paper and rave about reporters who didn't have sense enough to put a period at the end of a sentence."

Murph and I agreed that it was fortunate his grandfather passed on before he got to reading my stuff, or he would doubtless have run amuck.

Washington, D. C.

JOE MARTIN BUSY Republicans aren't saying much about it, but it is extremely noticeable that Joseph W. Martin, house minority leader, is not playing a prominent role in the national campaign. Inside fact is that he is too busy trying to get reelected in his own district, where he is opposed by Edmund P. Talbot, former mayor of Fall River and a former sheriff of the county. Talbot is of French-Canadian extraction, a Catholic and a Spanish War veteran. In the 1942 election, the largest city in this congressional district, Fall River, voted as follows: Joe Martin received 11,765 votes, while the Democratic nominee, Lomax, received 17,334 votes. Therefore, while the whole district went Republican by 17,000, Fall River went Democratic by almost 6,000. Already there is a 41,000 registration in a city which cast only about 30,000 votes in 1942.

Outside of Fall River, if Martin can be kept down to a 12,000 lead, Democrats figure he can be licked. Martin led outside Fall River in 1942 by 22,000. But in many of the small towns there are powerful groups of Yankee liberal intellectuals who are close to the Willkie line. Talbot has made contact with the United Nations groups in this area and they are working enthusiastically for

BIGGER AND BETTER BOMB

Army officials haven't revealed whether they plan to use it yet, but they've already perfected and tested a new flying robomb, bigger and faster than anything the Nazis have ever seen.

Fact is, the new robomb was tested in the Middlewest last month, and whizzed through the air at more than 160 miles an hour during performance checks. The bomb has been developed with the aid of the Ford Motor company. Whether it is in production or not is a military

Actually, during the last war, Ford produced a heavy robot bomb of his own, but couldn't find out how it would perform under front line conditions. It has never been revealed, but, in the American part of World War I, one robomb was partially inspired by Gen. "Hap" Arnold, now commander of the U. S. army air

Arnold brought his idea to the Ford company, asked Ford to work out a motor to go with it. Ford rolled up his sleeves, soon produced two-cylinder engine that worked well. Probably if World War I had lasted another six months, the robomb would have made its appearance 24 years earlier.

NOTE-The original American robomb is still preserved in the Ford laboratories in Michigan.

TEXAS THINKS TWICE

Before Roosevelt delivered his campaign speech at the teamster's dinner, he had a private session with Teamster Pres. Dan Tobin, in which they discussed the political situation, especially in Texas, the state that had been trying to make up its mind whether to have Roosevelt electors or non-Roosevelt electors on the ballot.

"Did you hear Bob Hannegan's story about Texas, Mr. President?" asked Tobin, "With those electors coming and going he says it's 'On again, off again, gone again, Han-negan."

Roosevelt observed that he had done everything he could about Texas, but didn't know what was the matter with the folks down there.

"There's a fellow down there named Garner who doesn't love you much," replied Tobin, "but I don't think he's going to vote against the ticket. And if Texas does defeat you, they'll lose all the juiciest jobs in congress, for the best committee chairmanships from the speaker down are chiefly held by Texans. I don't think they'll cut off their noses to spite their faces."

Next day the Texas Supreme court voted to put the pro-Roosevels electors on the ticket.

JAP WAR MAJOR JOB

Administration leaders aren't talkmg about it but they are privately concerned about America's reaction to V-E day. They not only fear a possible slowdown of production and fighting spirit, but also an unrestrained celebration on Armistice

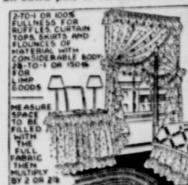

Noisy street celebrations, widespread drinking and any feeling that the war is over will be most unpleasant for the millions of families who have sons in the Pacific still faced with the big job of defeating stubborn Japs.

There was strong sentiment within OWI to suggest announcements that unrestrained irresponsible celebration would be out of place, but Elmer Davis finally decided against it. No agency has the right to dictate to the people how they should receive the news, Davis feels. At the same time, OWI will propose that radio and press carry potent reminders that the war is not over and that we are still faced with a major conflict in the Pacific. OWI will point out that war effort must replace V-E celebrations.

What You Should Know About Frills

So MANY women have learned to run intricate machines in the last few years that it is doubtful that ruffler or hemmer will ever seem awesome again. If you have a power machine and have learned to use the attachments there is quite a saving in making your own frilled curtains, dressing table skirts and bed valances.

If you do not have a power machine or the use of one, by all means buy your frills. Sometimes an extra pair of curtains makes a skirt for a dressing table with very little waste. Curtains that are ruffled all the way around may often be split for bed valances. Also, it is possible to buy ruffled material by the yard. Avoid skimpy fullness. Follow the guide given in the sketch and, whether you buy your frills and flounces or make them, take measurements first.

NOTE: Here is news for homemakers This sketch is from a new booklet by Mrs. Spears called MAKE YOUR OWN CURTAINS. This 22-page book is full of smart new curtain and drapery ideas with illustrated step-by-step directions for measuring, cutting, making and hanging all types from the simpliest sash curtain to the most complicated lined over-drapery er stiffened valance. Whatever your tain problem-here is the answer. Order book by name and enclose 15 cents. Ad

Sponges Were Used as Cups by Early Romans

It has not been established when sponges were first used, but they were certainly common among the Romans, not to wash with, but for carrying liquid refreshment. When Jesus asked for something to drink while on the Cross it was passed up to Him on a sponge.

Sponge-diving is a very fascinating study, but it is also dangerous. Mostly the divers work naked, as diving suits have frequently caused fatal accidents.

The divers risk death in many ways, especially from attacks by sharks and octopuses. Accidents are frequent, and sudden cramp has caused many deaths. Before the war hospital ships cruised round the sponge beds in the Mediterranean, and where the beds were near the shore there was generally a first-aid post or small hospital within easy reach.

The $64 Question

Washington, Oct. 17.. Who gets at of the Army when Germany quits? There is no simple answer. an individual basis and not by com-Discharges will be given osldiers on panies or regiments or units of any

And each man released will have meet certain standards. Those standards, which are really credit ratings, give him a priority for enosideration when troops are being discharged. Here are credits:

1. Service credits- based upon the total number of months of Army service since September 16, 1940.

Overseas Service Is Factor 2. Overseas credit- based upon the number of months served over-

3. Parenthood credit- which gives credit for each dependent child under 18 years up to a limit of three child-

The Army says this credit system is the result of opinoins expressed by the soldiers themselves because:

Thousand of them were niterviewed here and abroad to learn how they thought discharges should be grant-

Point Values Not Announced But the point values will not be anounced until after the European war ends.

But even if a man had all four redits- and the highest possible number of points for each credit it is no guarantee he would be discharged after the war with Germany. The Army will first consider whether that individual soldier is still seed for the continuing war against Japan because of some special ability or for some other reason. If so, he would be kept in the Army. Some To Stay In Europe

Here is what will happen Germany goes down: Some troops will be kept in Europe as an occupon army; some- from Europe and the United States- will be sent to the Pacific for the war against Jap-

All of this will involve shifting oops and supplies, reorganization ome units, and a reduction in the total size of the Army. In that proress some troops will be considered surplus on the basis of the credit system outlined above.

Those considered surplus will be est to surplus pools in this country. Two things should be remembered 1 A tremendous amount of shipp-ing will be used in transporting troops rom the European theatre to the Pacific theatre. So this will somewhat delay getting troops back from the war in Europe.

2. Troops in the Pacific area will

Pacific area troops will not be sent home, no matter what their discharge credit rating, until replacements have been sent in to take their places. S their discharge may be delayed.

And this should be remembered: Troops in this country, who have never served abroad at all, will figure in the discharge system.

From the various pools of surplus men these soldiers about to be discharged will be sent to what the Army calls "separation centers."

It is from these centers, always closest to their homes, that the men will be sent home.

Santa Fe, as the ma, we shows, is an important lap on the "Route to Tokyo." That's why, during the past several months, travelers have seen armies of "Men at Work" all along our lines. Capacity of our yards has been increased.

Curves have been ironed out so trains may get around them faster.

New Diesel "head ends" are pulling bigger loads up mountain grades.

Ingenious Centralized Traffic Control Systems have been installed at important points so the same rails can carry 50 per cent more traffic.

A new Santa Fe bridge is now being built across the Colorado River.

We have enlarged our capacity to meet the increasing loads of war. There will be no slackening of our job until the war is completely won.

Find Plastics In Human Blood

One Is Synthetic Membrane Or Skin Now Being Used In Treating Burns.

BOSTON .- Two new plastics have been made from the plasma cf Red Cross blood donors by Harvard medical school's department of physical chemistry.

One is synthetic membrane or skin, a thin, elastic film which shows encouraging results in treating human burns. The other is a dark brown solid, nearly as hard when prepared as a human rib, which slowly softens when implanted in the body, with possibilities in medical use just beginning to be ex-plored, says the New York Times.

Both are described in current medical reports which for the first time tell some of the story of one of the most remarkable chemical accomplishments of the war, the fractionation of human blood plasma into some of its mysterious parts.

Previously announced were the albumin which the navy is using in the same way as whole plasma for the wounded, the measles serum used by all the military forces and now going into civilian medical practice, the fractions which stop bleeding of small vessels almost instantly, plastic films used in surgery to substitute for the hard lining of the brain called the dura, and substances the navy uses in blood typing.

Film Dries After Healing.

The plastic membrane or skin being used experimentally as a covering for burns allows healing as rapidly as by any other known method. This human plastic can be removed without pain or tearing of the burned surface. When healing is complete the plastic film becomes dry and

In this synthetic skin it is possible to incorporate the sulfas, penicillin, or other substances of local value n the healing of burns.

Already 20 of the parts of plasma, each having a different job in health, have been separated and concen-trated. In addition the further divisions of some of these fractions inlude four hormones, two enzymes and antibodies against 14 different

When Dr. Edwin J. Cohn, head of the department of physical chemistry, described the possibilities of human plasma fractionation to the American Red Cross and to the bureau of medicine of the mavy in 1940, the scientific exploration was essentially complete.

The development which has resulted in the building of seven unique plasma fractionation industrial plants in several parts of the United States has been carried out in collaboration with the navy under contract between the office of scientific research and development, and

It's a Big Task.

The staggering task of separating uman blood plasma can be visualized if one imagines a human red blood corpuscle to be the size of the Harvard stadium. Remove the red and white corpuscles from the blood, and one has left the plasma, made of water and protein particles. The very biggest of these protein particles would be only the length of a man's walking stick in Harvard stadium. This would be a particle of fibringen, the protein which causes blood to clot and which is used in the new remedies for bleed-

Yet these protein molecules comprise most of the varied parts of the ocean of life which is man's blood. They are, or they carry, his hormones, enzymes, and disease antibodies, and are responsible for electrical forces, osmotic pressures and hundreds of other properties which make up the riddle of living

This is the job which the Harvard laboratory undertook because of war. Since Dr. Cohn had studied the proteins of plasma for many years he was asked by scientific authorities to see what might be done with animal blood for human trans-

Dutch Islanders Seize

Radios Taken by Germans

LONDON.-Proving the "while-the-cat's-away" adage, residents of the island of Schouwen-Duiveland in the Rhine-Meuse-Scheldt estuary, in occupied Holland, recently took advantage of a police get-together to re-cover hundreds of radio sets which had been confiscated from them nearly a year ago by German occupation authorities.

A Dutch underground paper reported the islanders seized the confiscated receiving sets, which had been stored in a schoolhouse, at a police social, attendance at which the Nazis had made compulsory for all island policemen.

Bell Syndicate.-WNU Features.

Thousands of American women are living gallantly in these changed conditions, thanking God only that the terms of their lives don't compate in hardship to those of women everywhere else.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

ARNA WILKINS thinks she needs a more con-I V I siderate husband, more money, more domestic help, less nerve strain, less housework to do, fewer children, a kinder mother, more sympathetic friends.

What she really needs is a finer character.

Marna, like almost every other woman in the world today, his gotten herself into a sort of jam-what with the war, and high prices and short supplies, shortage of help and nerve strain. When she and Mart married everything was different; they had a baby immediately and thought it would be nice to have another baby, to play with the first baby. But the second baby turned out to be boy twins, and they were born just as America went to war. Not yet three years old, they are a con-stant care, and Marylyn, the older child, is barely of school Marna struggled for some months to handle the situation, getting a helper now and then, never quite caught up; then she collapsed and was sick. Her mother, who is running a boarding house, took little Marylyn for awhile, her sister-inlaw, who is a nurse, put the twins somewhere, and everybody was wretched. Marna, almost in spite of herself, recovered slowly from a case of flu that was very close to pneumonia, gathered the children together, staggered on.

Resents Husband's Happiness.

But she hates her life and she doesn't care who knows it. She resents her husband's health and independence as he whistles in his shower every morning, comes down to her disorderly kitchen shaved and fresh, goes off to the office in the family car. He has to have the car, for he is a salesman.

She loves her children, grudging-But she hates the trouble they make, the spilled things and broken things, the whining, the constant cleaning and consoling. They bore her. No intelligent woman, she says, should be condemned to the company of three babies.

She hates to read about movie stars and their triumphs, or fur coats and welled clips. And most of the time she really hates Mart. He isn't at all different from the man she once loved so much, but circumstances are different, and he seems now to be having all the fun and she all the drudgery.

A large part of Marna's trouble, and the trouble of thousands of women who are in the same fix, is that they think-they console themselves by believing that there is a quick, dramatic way out. Marna broods over her wrongs and wonders if there isn't an escape; there simply must be a way of getting more mon-ey, more freedom, more glamour and dignity into her life.

She would be happier if she ac-cepted once and for all the fact that the way out is through. She can't dodge around these conditions, or

A WAY OUT

It's so easy for a woman to feel sorry for herself these days. The difficulties that the war has raised are wearying, and the future doesn't look much brighter. No matter what the burdens, however, any woman can make her lot bearable, if not positively happy, by going at her problems with determination, instead of trying to go around, or away from them.

A young wife and mother is the subject of this article. She has three babies. Her husband is a salesman. He is active and healthy, while she is often sick. Sometimes she gets so tired of caring for the three little ones that she wishes she could get out of it all—some way. She is envious of women with careers, with plenty of money and servants, of women without children. She wants freedom, excitement, dignity. What she is looking for is a quick way to escape from drudgery and boredom.

abandon these people who depend on her; she has to work out her problem on these terms, and take the family with her when she starts toward her goal. Once realizing that, her whole attitude will change. She will begin to plan along quite dif-ferent lines. She will dramatize the housework, find new ways to make it easier and more fun. She will dramatize the situation of having a small daughter and two baby sons, simplifying their clothing, their meals, inventing short cuts and adaptations. She will see herself in a new light; a woman with a hard A woman who has to make that job a sort of daily game, doing everything she can for her children and husband and household, not wor-rying about what she can't have and One Woman's Success.

Thousands of American women are living gallantly in these changed conditions, thanking God only that the terms of their lives don't compare in hardship to those of women everywhere else. Scores of them have already proved that the way out is the way through, not around their troubles.

A sunburned, simple, pretty young mother of four small children has a three-acre farm some miles down the highway from where I am writing. On Saturdays and Sundays she and the boys sell tomatoes and peaches, potatoes and corn right at their own gate. The husband and father is away, in the south seas. When he comes back a substantial bank account will be ready for him. "He's always wanted to be a veterinary." the wife told me, "but we married young and the babies came fast and he never had a chance. Now we have this little place, and he can take his training and we'll all help with the animals.

This wife was raised in a city orphanage, never saw a growing vegetable until she bought the farm two years ago for $1,400. I wish Marna could meet her.

Applesauce Easily Made

Apples will retain their best flavor when they are peeled, cored and cooked the shortest possible time in a tightly covered pan with no more water than necessary to prevent scorching. Applesauce can be made by using only a small amount of sugar or a sugar substitute.

One-third cup sugar to 11/2 pounds of cut and cored apples yields about one quart of tart sauce to accompany meat. A dessert sauce will need more sweetening, part of more sweetening, part of which may be honey or syrup.

CHAPTER XIII

Mr. Lanning's throaty voice said: "I have already anticipated this problem. My suggestion is that you and Pierre go to the listening post and secure JY-419. Once you have it. Pierre will tell you where and to whem it is to be delivered. Not that I don't trust you, Steve, but the present situation is too critical for taking chances."

"I understand," Steve said. "I hope this person you have in mind is prepared to get it off the island instantly. That will be no small job in itself. Under a navy ruling, all small boats have been ordered to remain in port. The logical, simple way would be for a rowboat to take it out and turn it over to the commander of a Jap submarine-if the Japs are to be allowed in this. A rowbeat could slip out without being noticed and it could make contact with a Jap submarine previous-ly notified by a short-wave station."

"The problem of getting JY-419 of this island," Mr. Lanning said with a touch of irritation, "has al-ready been worked out. When do you and Pierre plan to leave here for the lookout?"

"As soon as possible after the guests leave." "You said eleven. Shall we agree

"Very well," said Mr. Lanning. "Leaving here at eleven, taking into consideration the inevitable contingencies, you should be able to de-liver it anywhere on this island within five hours. To be safe, say six hours. Therefore, plan to deliver the cabinet to the place that Pierre will designate at or before five

"The money?" Steve asked. "The man to whom you will deliv-er JY-419 will have the money for you in thousand-dollar bills."

"I'm not doing this entirely for the money," Steve said. "I want Germany to have JY-419. I want to to all I can to help. Are you quite sare this man to whom we will de-liver it will be able to get it off "You need have no fear on that tre," Lanning assured him. "What te have you now? "Exactly ten-three."

"Set your watch, Pierre," Laning said. "At precisely eleven, you will meet Steve at the garage. Is bat cerrect, Steve?"

Zerie had been trying to hold her reath. Then she tried breathing thout making any noise. She felt sperately ill.

Paul was tugging at her wrist. le pulled her away.

"I understand," Paul said, and he laughed softly. "You want to save him. You love the man. He's your hero. You adore him. But don't forget that I have a sentimental stake in this, too. Steve is my brother-my only brother! The big brother whom I've always envied and worshipped and feared! And he's a traitor to me and my family and my country. I've got to think of all those things. I'd like to save Steve, family and country, too."

The dinner guests were leaving. Zorie caught a querulous glance from the admiral, and she didn't

Mr. Stromberg was the last to save. He walked off, solidly and importantly, toward the path, light-ed by dim blue-shaded bulbs-a blackout precaution - that led through the garden to the garage and the parking space. Before the curtained lanai door closed, she was sure she saw someone join him. She wondered where Amber was.

Pierre Savoyard and Winthrop Lanning returned to the lanai, but Steve did not.

Zorie glanced at her watch. now said ten twenty-eight. She had decided that the safest plan-the only safe plan-was to warn Steve that she knew what his "dangerous game" was, to warn him that if he did not abandon it, Paul would notify the authorities.

She started to cross the lanai to tell Paul that she was going to find Steve. But Paul was speaking. He was already executing a plan of his

He said, "Admiral, aren't you getting a little fed up with this latest joke of Steve's-this terrific interest he's pretending in Nazism?"

Zorie, catching her breath, quickly glanced about the lanai. Only Mr. ning and Pierre Savoyard and Paul's grandfather were there. The three men were staring fixedly at Paul. The admiral's bushy white brows were bristling ferociously.

The flesh about his eyes was crinkled into diamond-shaped holes out of which his china-blue eyes glared.
"Paul . . ." she began.

"I saw the order," Paul went heedlessly on, "commanding Steve to re-port for duty at his post in Pearl Harbor laboratory as soon as he's finished up here. Everybody knows that court-martial of his was just a gag-that he's been away all this a brief venomous glance at her and walked swiftly out of the lanai. Without a word, Winthrop Lanning followed. He did not even glance at Zorie. Grim-faced, he walked to the curtained door as if at any instant he might break into a run. Once he was outside, Zorie was sure she heard him running.

For a moment she stood listening to Paul, watching the play of eagerness in his lean, pale face.

She knew as well as he did that nothing of what he had said was true-that he had chosen to say just that because it would instantly de-

It was Paul's way of handling a situation that he himself described as dynamite. He had done it deliberately, and she realized that he would claim, no matter what the consequences were, that his motives had been purely patriotic.

Zorie slipped out of the curtained door and found herself running before she was aware that she had commanded her legs to carry her as fast as they could. Steve had said he would meet Pierre at the garage at exactly eleven. There was time to spare, but she must reach him and tell him what had happened. What he chose to do about it did not concern her. Paul had deliberately jeopardized Steve's life by what he had said, and Zorie felt that it was her simple duty to warn him. It Savoyard and Lanning reelly believed that he had all this time been double-crossing them, they would certainly kill him without hesitation. Certainly, they had given a sufficient demonstration of their ruthlessness. She recalled the look Pierre had given her before he ran from the lanai, and she ran faster, holding up her sun-pleated star-sapphire dress so that she would not trip on it.

She ran past the tiny far-spaced blue lights that marked the path to the garage. The garage, when she reached it, was dark and empty. "Steve!" she called. "Steve!"

He did not answer her. She looked at her watch again. It said ten forty-five. Steve might not be here for fifteen minutes. He might be in his room at the house.

She started breathlessly along the path toward the house. And as she started, she heard, off to her right, in the jungle-like garden, a familiar, terrifying whisper. "Ah-nah!" it said. "Ah-nah!"

There were sounds in that direction, as if someone were struggling or floundering about in the dense growth. Then she heard a soft ump-a sound that might have been made by a body falling.

She flattened herself against a tree. The man passed within four feet of her, walking rapidly toward the garage.

The man was Pierre.

When he reached a turn in the path, Zorie left the tree and walked to the dark opening out of which he had come. Had he already found and killed Steve?

Zorie pushed her way through soft, damp growing things. It was so dark she could see nothing. But her feet had fo was the path on which she had been standing this morning when Steve and the admiral had passed on their way to the garage, when Steve had said, "I don't give a damn who comes, as long as you get Basil Stromberg."

She paused and called softly, "Steve! Steve!"

There was no answer. She took a step toward the house. Her toe touched something soft, yielding. She became aware of the sudden spicysweetness of ginger flowers. seemed to be all about her.

She bent down. Her groping fingers found, first, a pasteboard pack of matches lying on the ground. Ther she touched flowers and a woman's soft, abundant hair. The flowers were still moist, as if they had been freshly plucked.

Her exploring fingers next found a face, a chin, then the texture of silk and soft, warm flesh under it. She straightened up. She wanted to scream, but she could only whimper. It was Amber! Amber-with fresh ginger flowers in her hair!

Zorie knelt down in the path beside her. She placed her ear against Amber's breast. There was no sound of a heart beating. In Amber's body there was nothing but stillness. Pierre had killed her. Rising from her knees, trying to collect herself, Zorie realized that Amber might have been killed because of those white ginger flowers in her hair! Zorie could not recall that Amber ever wore flowers in her hair. She had come here tonight and picked these flowers and put them in her hair. Why? Because she admired their effect in Zorie's hair? Because

What she did know - what she could arrive at by the simplest and most logical of deductions—was that Pierre had killed Amber by mistake. He had intended to kill Zerie! She recalled his glance just before he left the lanai. He must have come upon Amber just as she had picked the white fragrant flowers and put them in her hair. He must have run to the garage to find Steve and. in back-tracking, had seen Amber striking matches to pick the flowers.

He hadn't seen her clearly enough. It now occurred to the terrified girl that Pierre was still hunting for Steve. She must find him first!

She did not hear footfalls in the path. She heard nothing until the beam of a flashlight, its lens covered with blue cellophane flashed in her face, then was lowered to the dead girl lying in the path, and Winthrop Lanning's amazed voice said, "Miss Corey! Why did you do

RELIGION IN EDUCATION

LESSON TEXT-Matthew 7:7-12; Luke 6: GOLDEN TEXT—Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.—John Education without religion will make America a pagan nation in a generation or two. Even worldlyminded educators are concerned about the neglect of and opposition to Christianity in many branches of our country's educational system.

Christians will want to be informed and to act as they have opportunity to bring Christian influence to bear on the education of children. They will want to give their hearty support to real Christian education.

I. Seek Wisdom from God (Matt. 7:7-11).

We have made great progress in the improvement of educational equipment, in the construction of fine school buildings, and in the provision of trained teachers. There have been earnest efforts to develop the most effective courses of study adapted to the needs of our

All this is commendable-except for one thing, and that is really a foundational error. We have given little, if any, attention to the development of character, without which the skills of hand and of head may be actually dangerous. Theodore Roosevelt is said to have observed that "to educate a man's mind without educating his conscience is to make him not a social asset, but a social liability" (Doug-

The teaching in our schools of the evolutionary theory as though it were fact when it has never been proved has provided a foundation for all manner of denial of God and of the truth of His Word.

What shall we do? Surrender? Not at all. Let us look to God for His wisdom and grace. The promise is that the one who asks, receives, when he asks in faith and for God's glory (cf. James 1:5-8 and 4:3). Prayer is vital in real education. II. Use Wisdom with Men (Matt.

Education has as one of its important goals the ability to get along with our fellow men. As the Lord enables us to grow in wisdom and knowledge, it should show in our treatment of those who look to us for guidance and help.

This so-called Golden Rule is a high standard of conduct which many profess, but which only the grace of God can accomplish in a man's life. To always be positively doing for and to others what we would have them do for us is far more than the negative thing which most people assume it to be. They reverse it and are trying to avoid doing things to others that they would not have done to themselves.

Note again that this is on the positive and the active side. We are to go about doing good, such as we would desire for ourselves.

III. Follow Wisdom in Humility (Luke 6:39-42).

If the teacher is spiritually blind he will lead his equally blind pupil into the ditch. That is exactly what is happening in many schools and colleges. No pupil will rise higher than his teacher (v. 40).

Real education makes a man humble. He is not ready to destroy his brother's eye because it has a speck in it, for he recognizes his own weakness and sin. He needs the grace of God in his own life first; then he is ready to give help to

There is something fine about the genuine sweet humility of a man who is really educated. He is not pompous and proud, parading his learning so that the populace may be impressed. He is humble and teachable. Real scholarship calls for genuine faith in God.

IV. Find Wisdom in Godliness (Luke 6:43-45).

Every tree brings forth its own kind of fruit. Christian character is a fruit which grows only on the tree of Christian doctrine. The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom (Prov. 9:10). That means that to be truly educated a man must be a Christian.

That which is good and noble and upright can be brought forth only from a mind and heart of which the same things are true (v. 45). An evil man will teach others evil, a good man will teach them that which is good. Hence, the folly of thinking that if a teacher only has a brilliant mind, and is versed in the technical learning of his profession, it makes no difference what his morals are nor how he lives.

That theory has brought ruin to thousands of young lives, and it is high time that all who have to do with educational work demanded godly character as the first requisite of the teacher and made it the leading subject in the curriculum. "The fear of the Lord is the begin-*Braised Short Ribs of Beef.

(Serves 6) 2 pounds short ribs of beef Flour, salt, pepper 5 potatoes, peeled carrots, scraped onions, peeled stalks celery eup green pepper, diced

Mix flour, salt and pepper. Rub into meat. Brown in shortening on all sides. Add 4 cup water and cover meat. Simmer for 2 hours or until tender. During last 45 minutes of cooking time, add vegetables. Remove meat and vegetables to platter, thicken gravy with flour and pour over meat and vegetables.

Braised Stuffed Breast. (Serves 6)

Lamb Breast 2 tablespoons lard Salt and pepper

3 tablespoons chopped celery 1½ tablespoons chopped onion 6 tablespoons butter 2 cups fine bread crumbs a cup mint leaves, fresh or dried

14 teaspoon salt 14 teaspoon pepper Have pocket cut into lamb breast from the large end. Sprinkle inside and out with salt and pepper.

To make stuffing, brown celery and onions in the melted butter. Add bread crumbs, mint leaves and seasonings. Stir until thoroughly mixed and place into pocket of roast, Fasten edges together with skewers. Brown breast on all sides in hot lard, add 1/2 cup hot water, cover tightly and cook slowly until done, from 1/2 to 2 hours.

Stuffed Veal Steak. The same stuffing as used in the lamb breast may be used for veal steak, if mint leaves are omitted.
Have two pounds of veal steak cut is inch thick. Spread the stuffing over the meat and roll. Fasten with skewers, and braise as directed for lamb breast.

Most braised meats are hearty and should have light accompaniments. Try a green vegetable or crisp salad and very light dessert such as chiffon pudding, custard or stewed fruit and berries with cookies. As garnishes for the main dish use parsley, watercress, sliced raw onions, carrot tops or spiced fruit.
