Sgt. Blocker Tells Of "Battle" Of Rats

Korea, Jan. 29th
Dearest Mother and Dad,
Today has been beautiful, the sun came out for a change and the temperature came up to an unbelievable degree. It was like spring; we sunned ourselves all day.

The news still sounds reasonably good. I hope that peace treaty is signed while we are in reserve and then we won't have to come back up here. Wouldn't that be great.

I got a note from Bob last nite and he had just returned from R. and R. in Tokio. He says he really had a time while he was there (5 days) He says he is to be rotated next month. As soon as we get into reserve I'm getting a Jeep and driving over to see him. They are only about 50 miles to our right.

I should be able to spend the day with him.

I shot a pack rat last nite in my hole that I bet weighed three pounds. He had been carrying everything I had away... cigarettes, candy, chewing gum and shaving cream. I wasn't especially disturbed over his presence until I awoke one morning and missed my weapon and two smoke grenades and then the situation became unruly. It is bad enough having to dodge the Chink bullets but when the rats get so big that they take up arms like rebels, then steps should be taken to eliminate this foul situation. Seriously, they are nearly that bad.

Night before last was the Chinese New Years. Our artillery gave them something to think about. The only resolution they made for '52 was probably to keep their heads down. All nite long the heavens were filled with blinding flashes, far and near and the roar was practically deafening. Under such conditions I can't keep from feeling sorry for the poor devils.

I've got to go for, now... I love you and most of all I want to be with you. DAN

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Barton spent Sunday in Lamesa.

LIFE SAVING

Improved Artificial Respiration Method Is Adopted by Red Cross

An improved method of artificial respiration, known as the back-pressure arm-lift has been adopted by the American National Red Cross, the armed services, several industrial firms, and other agencies and organizations.

Used in Norway, Denmark, and other European countries for many years, the method permits greater exchanges of air and can be administered without undue fatigue to the operator.

Research leading to the change in method predates World War II, when investigators first doubled the superiority of the prone pressure method. Since that time the Red Cross has conducted extensive studies in the fields of respiration and asphyxia. The armed forces became intensely interested in artificial respiration in connection with the possibility of poison gas or nerve gas warfare. About two years ago the

To start the cycle the operator places his hands on the victim's back so that the thumbs just touch and the heels of the hands are just below a line running between the armpits as illustrated above.

Army Chemical Corps assigned four research teams to study comparative values of various methods.

The results of the research showed that the prone pressure method was less effective in the amount of air exchanged. It compresses the chest but does not actively expand it. However, in the two-phase methods—such as the back-pressure arm-lift, the hip-lift, and the Silvester—the chest is actively expanded and compressed by the rescuer.

Research also showed that the hip-lift back-pressure method and the hip-roll back-pressure method are difficult to perform and cannot be done at all by frail rescuers on heavy victims. The Silvester method, for which the victim is placed on his back, was considered unsatisfactory for use by the general public since it is difficult to keep the air passages open.

The back-pressure arm-lift method was recommended because it does not tire the rescuer unduly, can be performed by a small person on a heavy victim, and is relatively easy to teach.

The Red Cross will include the new method in first aid and life saving courses as soon as possible. Three million supplements on the new system are being printed for inclusion in its first aid and water safety textbooks. The supplement will be available through Red Cross chapters at no charge.

The Red Cross pointed out that because of the widespread teaching program the changeover cannot be accomplished immediately. Millions of persons already trained in the prone pressure method, which has saved many lives, should continue to use it until they have received training in the new method.

THE VICTIM is placed face down in a prone position with arms overhead and bent at the elbows, one hand upon the other, and the head turned to one side so that the cheek rests on the hands. The rescuer, on one or both knees at the victim's head, places his hands on the victim's back, with thumbs just touching and the heels of the hands just below a line running between the victim's armpits. The rescuer rocks forward slowly, elbows straight, until his arms are almost vertical—exerting steady pressure upon the back. Next, the rescuer rocks backward slowly and slides his hands to the victim's arms, just above the elbows, which are raised until resistance is felt at the victim's shoulders—then, the arms are dropped. This completes a full cycle, which is repeated 12 times a minute.

GRASSROOTS

Present Administration Certainly Has the Brass

By Wright A. Patterson

AT THE CLOSE of World War II we had in the uniform of our armed forces close to 12 million men, of which a little more than 300 were generals or admirals, in other words "top brass."

Now with armed forces totaling only about one and a half million men we have over 3,000 generals or admirals. In the matter of "top brass" we are attempting to emulate the Mexican army, or the number of colonels on the staff of the governor of Kentucky.

An investigating committee of the senate is attempting to find the "why" of such an increase of high ranking officers, and what they are doing. That committee has demanded of the defense department a statement showing their jobs.

There are more than 3,000 generals and admirals, and it is the belief of members of that committee that they are but muddying the waters of the preparedness effort and adding materially to the cost of that preparedness.

This large number of "top brass" has not only filled the mammoth Pentagon building, but has forced the government to rent outside offices to accommodate the generals and admirals, and the several thousands of civilian secretaries and clerks, the bureaucratic army over which they preside and command.

The general public, and especially the Republican party, may not be able to evaluate the good these generals and admirals do for the nation, or what they do to keep themselves busy, but they do know the why of the army of secretaries and clerks, the civilian bureaucrats. The close to 200,000 of these have important jobs. At the coming election they will vote for those who provide them with jobs—jobs that pay them better salaries than they could earn elsewhere, and also keep them from the necessity of donning uniforms as privates in the armed forces.

Not only will these bureaucrats vote, but so will their relatives and friends, who are concerned with holding the jobs for the bureaucrats, a total of close to one million votes against the Republican candidates. The more generals and admirals, the more clerks they will employ and the more votes they and friends and relatives will cast.

The votes represented by the army of bureaucrats employed by the defense department in the Pentagon are but a part of the hurdle GOP candidates must be able to jump if they are to win.

No group in the nation is so close to political conditions and sentiment in the grass root areas as the editors of the rural newspapers. Their guess as to the political sentiment of the people of their communities are nearer correct than that of even the local politicians. The Publishers Auxiliary, a paper published for that group, some time ago took a poll of those rural editors. The Auxiliary asked each one of them to name his choice for a Republican candidate, and his guess

THE FICTION CORNER

THE RED MUFFLER

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

CONSTABLE Simon McCall, noticed that the fringe of Bruce Wyatt's long woolen muffler was stained a deep red. Wyatt saw the officer's look of inquiry and glanced from the muffler, which still hung around his neck, to the dead form of Jim Cary.

"I must have got the blood on the muffler when I went over Jim on the bed there," he said.

Constable Simon nodded and glanced at the doctor, who was conducting an examination of the corpse.

"What time did you get back here?" Simon asked Bruce.

"About 15 minutes before I called you. I saw Jim on the bed. I knew he was dead, but I thought the doc ought to be called."

Simon listened only half attentively. He was trying to think of some one who would have a reason for killing Jim Cary. Cary and Bruce Wyatt were partners.

"Been dead about five hours," Doc Leland said, finishing his examination.

"Five, eh?" Simon mused. "That would make it about 10 o'clock last evening. The dance was at its height then. No telling who left and who didn't."

He turned suddenly to Bruce. "Where'd you go after the dance, Bruce?"

"Over to Jake Dearborn's. Him and me and some others played poker till about 2:30."

Simon smiled faintly. "Well, if Jake and the others look that up I guess we'd better look elsewhere for a suspect."

"Where yuh goin' to start? Who'd want to kill old Jim?" Wyatt asked. "Old Jim? He's not so old. About 30, I guess," Simon said. "Thirty, and just now falling in love. I expect you knew about Jim's interest in Freda Burnett, Bruce?"

"Been dead about five hours," Doc Leland said, finishing his examination.

WYATT looked up quickly. "Why, no," he said. "No, I didn't know."

"You didn't?" Simon's voice was almost eager. "Well, well. That gives me the motive, then."

Wyatt stared blankly. "Eh?"

"I said, that little remark of yours provides a motive for the killing, Bruce. It makes you out a liar, too."

Bruce Wyatt thrust out his jaw in an angry gesture. "What the devil are you talking about, McCall?"

"About why you killed Jim."

"Me? Killed him? You're crazy!"

"Oh, no, I'm not. You killed him because you were crazy about Freda yourself and you couldn't stand to see Jim getting in there ahead of you. You did it last night about 10 o'clock when every one was at the dance."

"You must be sick yourself, Simon. You don't know what you're saying. You can't prove that. You said yourself no one would be able to tell who left the dance long enough to come over here, murder Jim and get back again."

"That," said Constable Simon easily, "is something I won't have to worry about. The fact is, I know you've lied to me twice, and I know you were with Jim a minute or two after he died. That's enough to make an arrest on, since you're so all-fired careful about thinking up alibis."

Wyatt opened his mouth and closed it again. He stood still, waiting, still puzzled.

And Simon explained: "The blood on your muffler, Bruce. You probably got it there when you bent over Jim all right, but that was shortly after 10 last evening. Blood, you know, dries and hardens within a few minutes. None would have got on your muffler five hours after the wound was made."

Doc Leland made a gasping sound, which was at once confirmation of the statement.

Bruce Wyatt's glance darted to the face of the doctor, and without looking again at Simon he leaped toward the wall.

But Constable McCall was a good shot. The interior of the tiny cabin fairly rocked with the crash of his service gun, mingling with the cry of pain from Bruce Wyatt as the heavy slug tore through his hand even as his fingers coiled about the rifle barrel.

Superior Productivity

Milton Katz, E.C.A. envoy, points out that European industrial productivity is between one-third and one-fourth that of the U.S. It is even less in the case of man-day production of bituminous coal.

Matchbook Advertising
America's most widely-read advertising medium is the common match book. Thirteen billion go into the hands of readers every year, and each is given 20 chances, on the average, to catch a person's eye as the matches are used.

There Is Still Plenty of Time To Plan a Local Pancake Day

There is still plenty of time for your community to plan a Pancake Day celebration, a centuries-old tradition that is still maintained in many European communities, and which is gaining popularity in this country. The town of Liberal, Kansas, for instance, has received nation-wide publicity for the annual Pancake Day race held for the community's housewives.

The event is celebrated on the day before Lent each year by millions of people all over the world. The day falls on February 26, 1952.

In the United States, Pancake Day is observed by numerous organizations. Celebrations range from community-wide Pancake Day festivals, like those staged at Liberal, to suppers conducted by church groups and service clubs.

Pancake Day is the perfect opportunity for clubs and church groups to earn money for some worthwhile project. And its traditional background lends itself toward good local publicity for a celebration. But to put Pancake Day on the broadest possible footing, any sponsor will do well to call on other groups to participate in committee work. For a community-wide Pancake Day, you will want the active co-operation of all groups, including those not represented in your membership.

The winner of the Pancake Day Race at Liberal last year was Mrs. Emaline Bruce, 29. She was defeated, however, in the international race between Liberal and Olney, England.

A Pancake Day celebration can take any one of a number of forms. With pancakes as a general theme, variations are infinite. Basically, you need only three things for a successful celebration: (1) Facilities for cooking and serving many pancakes; (2) interesting daytime activities, if yours is a community celebration; (3) a special event in which everyone may participate.

Experience has shown that by using volunteer help to make and serve pancakes, an organization will be able to show a nice profit by selling pancakes at 25 cents a plate. This cost may seem nominal, but pancakes are an economical food.

Your local Pancake Day celebration can be just what you make it. Organizing and publicizing such an affair calls for unlimited imagination and a flair for the fanciful. Local newspapers are always happy to promote an event that means fun for the community.

Naturally, when you decide to have a Pancake Day celebration, you will want to work out detailed plans for financing the affair. The easiest way to assure a definite and fixed return is to sell admission tickets before the event. This also has the added advantage of letting you know the number of servings of pancakes required.

Publicity wise Liberal sent this picture of four entrants for the 1952 race to publications in many parts of the country.

Other tested methods of handling the finances are to charge admission before people are admitted to the eating room. Both of these techniques are good and simplify the financing problem.

The cost of the basic ingredients, including a pancake ready-mix, syrup, sausage and butter is moderate when compared to the profit realized from the affair. In many communities, a group of local merchants will help finance the purchase of the basic ingredients. Grocers and retail merchants in your town may help publicize the affair through cooperative advertising. Here are a few suggestions if you are planning a community Pancake Day . . . plan a parade, select a King and Queen, ask your local high school band to provide music for the parade and other activities, and possibly secure a new concrete mixer or mixing truck to emphasize the huge quantity of pancake batter you are going to mix.

GIFT . . . Kefauver gives movie earnings to Hull foundation.

And be sure when planning to serve a large number of people, to secure a large centrally located room in which to hold your celebration.

These suggestions may help to form a frame work for your money-making Pancake Day celebration. The embellishments are yours . . . and yours is the job of laying out an efficient organization of committees to shape the plans.

Bette Renick, 18, of Liberal, Kansas, was named Miss Pancake Day last year by the Junior Chamber of Commerce which sponsors the celebration in that community.

As the religious emphasis on Pancake Day dwindled, the day took on the aspects of a merrymaking holiday. From the custom of flipping pancakes to turn them developed the 505-year-old Pancake Day Race in Olney, England. Liberal, Kansas, and Olney now match their housewives in an annual Pancake Day race.

World Day of Prayer Friday, February 29

Thousands of communities across the country, home towns and big towns, will observe World Day of Prayer, Friday, February 29. The 65th annual observance, the day is sponsored by the General Department of the United Church Women of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. Overseas, women of 91 other countries will join in prayer for lasting peace and strengthening of the bonds of Christian unity.

In the home towns of the nation, World Day of Prayer is marked by the ringing of church bells and the closing of many business establishments. Services are held in churches, hospitals and prisons. Special programs have been prepared for children in many of the nation's schools.

The traditional offerings are divided between the council's divisions of Home and Foreign Missions. The Home Missions use the money to provide child care and other social and religious services for agricultural migrants, religious education and social services for American Indians and improvement of the Negro ministry in sharecropper areas of the south.

Funds allotted to the Division of Foreign Missions are used in this country to aid foreign students and abroad to help support Christian women's colleges, and the production and distribution of Christian literature all over the world.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Give Your Faded Clothes New And Fresh Colors Easily

By Ertta Haley

FRONTIER wives had to have a smattering of chemistry and botany as well as time and energy to spend long hours over steaming kettles with muscle straining periods of dipping, and wringing when they wanted to dye fabrics.

Today's homemaker needs only to select appropriate colors, then easily and speedily finish the work of dyeing, be it clothing or drapes, spreads, rugs or blankets.

Once the nature of the material was a problem in dyeing, but there are now dyes available for all types of fabrics, with the exception of those made from glass or metal. Synthetic as well as natural materials can be dyed quickly and without worry over results if the simplest directions are followed.

Color is lovely, and it can make your life brighter if used with discretion. Why not check over wardrobe items some day soon, and at the same time take a look at some of the fabric furnishings in the home? Are they faded? Have you added something to the clothing or furnishings line which now makes the old color less attractive?

These are some of the reasons for dyeing, but economy is also an important factor. Some material which has been rendered useless can be put to good use if dyed.

Select the dye designed for the type of fabric to be dyed. If you are in doubt as to what the material contains, or if it is a mixture, play safe by using the all-purpose type.

Small articles can be dyed in something as simple as a wash basin or an enameled vessel, while larger articles can be placed in tub or washing machine.

New Dye-Color Depends Upon Old Color

It isn't always necessary to remove the old color from materials before dyeing. Let's say that you have a faded yellow dress and want to have one that's green. If blue dye is used, then green will be the result, as yellow and blue give green. Blue and red will make violet, while red and yellow will make orange.

Refresh an old wardrobe . . .

If dresses or items of apparel are simply faded several shades and you want to keep the same color, or restore the color to something like it was when new, simply use the shade closest to the one you already have in the material. If material is not unevenly faded or spotted, the color in a material can be dyed a deeper shade.

Can the dark colors be removed? It's not advisable to try to remove the color from a navy blue dress or coat, for example, and try to make it a pastel. Color can be removed and a lighter shade used successfully, but to have a pastel requires that the original material be almost white, or streaking may result.

Dark colors which you no longer like can be safely dyed black, and the material put to other use.

Two kinds of dyes can be mixed together in the solution before dyeing for interesting effect. Try this on a sample of the material to be dyed before dyeing the whole piece of material.

by dyeing with lovely colors.

The prints on printed materials cannot be removed by color remover, but a dye-solution slightly darker than that used on the print will produce attractive and novel effects.

Decide whether you're going to tint or dye your garments. True dyeing produces a fast color, and is recommended for dark or deep colors. Tinting takes less time and is suggested for light colors where the desired color range is temporary; this will usually survive several launderings, but with each laundering the color may lighten.

Prepare Materials For Dyeing

If you've picked out a dress from the closet and have decided to dye it, make certain it's clean and well

Softness in Tweed

Tweed can look crisp, but it can also look soft as seen in this new fashion for the season. Gray and black bird's-eye weave fashioned by Jane Derby makes a slim skirt with a soft neckline jacket. White silk is used for the jacket lining and a slender belt of black patent harmonizes with fairly large buttons used for the closing.

rinsed before doing the actual dyeing. This is especially true of either clothing or furnishings which have not been used for some time, as dirt or soap left in clothes may cause uneven dyeing.

All buttons, buckles and trimmings should be removed before dyeing, as you don't know how they're going to behave in the hot water used for a dye-bath. Hems, pleats and linings should also be removed so that the dye can penetrate the material more thoroughly and evenly.

Any materials which are unevenly faded or spotted should have their color removed thoroughly before dyeing is attempted. This is an extra step but it's very simple with a color remover.

Select agate ware, enameled pans or stainless steel ware for the dye-bath, as other metals may have a dulling effect on the color which you're using. The vessel used should be large enough to enable you to move the article to be dyed without crowding. This freedom of movement insures even color, too.

Arm yourself with a wooden spoon or stick so that you can stir the material around easily. This avoids hot water on the hands, and also stain which may be a little difficult to remove.

Dissolve Dye In Hot Water

Boiling water is not essential for dyeing at any time with current dyes available, but very hot water is desirable to give the deep colors desired.

It's best to use hot tap water in a quart jar for dissolving the dye thoroughly. In this way you can prevent much streaking. In the meantime, warm the vessel which you're going to use for the dye-bath, with more hot water.

The next step is to fill the vessel with cold water enough to cover the garment to be dyed as completely as possible. Pour the dye solution from the quart jar into the water in the large vessel. Now place the garment in the bath, unfolded, and the article will, of course, have been wet since it is washed and rinsed just before the dyeing.

Now heat the vessel with garment and dye, gradually to a point just below boiling for at least 30 minutes. While heating, stir the garment freely with a wooden stick. Then let the articles cool in the water, still continuing moving the article.

Remove article and rinse in clear cool water until the rinse is clear. The dyeing is complete, and the article is dried and ironed in accordance with its fabric type.

Use Washing Machine For Bulky Articles

Whenever you dye such items as spreads, drapes, slipcovers or blankets, it's a good idea to put the washing machine to use to avoid handling bulky pieces by hand.

The amount of dye is usually determined by the weight of the article.

If the weight of the material is 12 ounces or less, you'll need approximately two ounces of dye. For each additional six ounces of material, use an ounce of dye. These weights apply to cotton, linen, silk and viscose rayon. For acetate rayon or nylon you'll need slightly more dye, for lighter colors and up to three times these amounts for the darkest colors.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Sharpening Scissors
Scissors, forever getting too dull to work with, will become sharp enough in a jiffy if you cut a few strips of sandpaper with them.

Ironing Hint
You'll leave no lint when you're pressing out the crease in a let-down skirt if you use tissue paper to iron on instead of a damp cloth.

Yum, Yum Cider
Cider in a glass pitcher becomes something special when you add a few unpeeled apple slices sliced across the apple, to the drink. Some hostesses add mint leaves, too.

Higher Production Is Goal of U.S. Farmers

Again American farmers are being called on to turn out high yields of food, feeds and fibers. The production goals recently announced by the Department of Agriculture for 1952 anticipate a total production of 4 per cent higher than the record production of 1951 and 50 per cent more than the prewar average from 1935 to 1939.

This production is being asked although farmers will have about 200,000 fewer farm workers available in 1952. During 1951, 400,000 workers left the farms. About 80 per cent went to work in other industries. Armed forces took the other 20 per cent.

Production at the goal level will require increased yields per acre in all major crops, and selective acreage expansion in those most needed to insure our economic stability in these pressing times.

The task for farmers is made more difficult because their need for fertilizers will be far greater than the supply. At the same time farm machinery production in 1952 will be considerably less than farmers desire.

The Department of Agriculture will do all it can to offset these shortages, but such scarcities are a warning signal to the American farmer.

Easier Loading

A farmer handy with tools can make a drop-side to his wagon or truck as illustrated above with a few pieces of scrap iron and a length of pipe. It will save considerable trouble loading and unloading, especially when the truck is pulled close to a loading platform.

Essentials for Ideal Farm Life Are Listed

An Oregon rural life committee, after a statewide survey, came up with the following nine essentials for the "ideal" farm home: (1) Adequate income, (2) time to enjoy life, (3) a family goal, (4) family love and understanding, (5) religious education and spiritual values, (6) parental recognition of opportunity, (7) ability to build character in children, (8) evaluation of ideals, and (8) belief in family.

The most valuable 18 square feet in any garden area is that which is covered with a cold frame. And the smaller the garden, the more rewarding will be this ancient device.

It began as a pit, some thousands of years ago. Today it is an enclosure, partly below ground, with a protective covering which admits daylight.

Anyone who can drive a nail, and operate a saw, can build a cold frame. The boards can be cut in the basement or garage, and put together in a short time as soon as possible to work outdoors.

The above illustration is a practical working-drawing of a standard one-sash cold frame. Standard glazed sash is 3 by 6 feet; but a frame can be made of any convenient dimensions, if sash of a suitable size is available. Sash covered with transparent plastic materials will be much lighter than glazed-sash, and also will allow ultra-violet rays to pass through to the plants.

The usual practice is to sink the frame into the ground about six inches, and to pile earth around it outside, for insulation. Inside it may be filled to ground level with the best top soil available, or the floor may be covered with two or three inches of cinders or gravel, on which shallow seed boxes (flats) are placed.

It's Wonderful the Way Chewing-Gum Laxative Acts Chiefly to REMOVE WASTE -NOT GOOD FOOD

Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Yes, here is why FEEN-A-MINT's action is so wonderfully different!

Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon - right in the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy. You feel weak, worn out.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes mostly waste, not good food! You avoid that typical weak, tired, run-down feeling. Use FEEN-A-MINT and feel your "peppy," energetic self - full of life! Get FEEN-A-MINT! No increase in price - still 25¢, 50¢ or only 10¢.

Homes for Christ

Lesson for February 17, 1932

WHAT is a Christian home? It is no solemn place, for "solemn" is not another word for "Christian." It is not an "American" home, because while Christians can be Americans, and vice versa, the two words do not mean the same thing.

Sending off the little ones to Sunday school every Sunday morning, or even piling the whole family into the car and going to church 52 times a year, will not quite do it. For church-going is only one part, and the easiest part, of being Christian. What about the rest of the week?

Does Jesus Get Beyond the Front Door? THE home of Mary, Martha and Lazarus, where Jesus often visited, we can think of as in many ways a Christian home. Jesus was welcome there; he dropped in at any time, he felt at home.

Now Christ is most at home (as any one is) where people are congenial, where the attitude to the things men live by—work, play, love, worship—is the same as his attitude.

Also in the Bethany home they listened to Jesus. It is well to have a Bible in the house; but that alone will not make it Christian. Is it read? Do the children when growing up hear the words of Jesus from the Gospels? Do they hear his voice as often as they hear the voice of Mr. Cassidy or the Lone Ranger?

How the Home Can Serve THERE are three ways in which the home of today can serve Christ. One is in connection with the church. Except in rarest cases, every Christian home should be an actual part of some Christian church. A church which has no cooperation from the homes in its community will be a dying church.

The liveliest churches, on the other hand, are those where homes and church do the best team-work. To take only one example: Does your home work together with your church in the recruiting of ministers?

Ministers have to come from somewhere, and the best ministers don't all come from preachers' homes by any means. How about the boys in your home? If one of them felt an urge to be a minister or a missionary, would the rest of you laugh him out of it?

Another way for the home to serve Christ is in treatment of strangers. When strangers move into your community, or live there for a short time as school teachers sometimes do, is your home open to them? Is your house a "home away from home" for lonely people?

When you have a party, do you invite always only those who can invite you back, or do you (as Jesus suggested) include people who will probably never be able to repay you? A home that prides itself on being "exclusive" has forgotten Jesus' words—"I was a stranger, and ye took me not in."

Serving the Children A Christian home, moreover, will serve its own children in Christ's name. In it children will hear about Christ, not as a past figure in history but as a Living One. Parents will teach them Christian patterns of living.

This will not be merely something they hear about in Sunday school, it will be the pattern of life in which they are trained from day to day, beginning even before they can remember. This home, if it serves its children as it should, will show them how to help Christ. The children will know about the church ("His body," said Paul) and what it is doing in his name around the world. From their earliest years they will be helpers in this work. They will not grow up thinking of "missions" in some vague way, but they will know and be thrilled by the great story which that single word carries.

And the children in a Christian home will be helped by Jesus far more than they help him. Even at the beginning of childhood they will learn to say "Dear Jesus, help me," when the mean word or the angry act are just almost exploding. Even as children they will learn something of what in older years will mean much more, the "practice of His presence."

But no one can learn from the ignorant. And children will never learn these things at home without help. A home does not begin to be Christian with the children, but with the parents. Whatever good the children learn, father and mother must learn it first.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Serve Simple Refreshments Graciously (See Recipes Below)

Entertaining Lightly ANY WOMAN WHO belongs even to one club will have to take her turn at entertaining the members every once in a while. Perhaps it's a sewing circle, a bridge group or a committee.

These occasions which come in the afternoon or evening need something of the light refreshment variety. You'll want something your friends will rave about, but at the same time, keep it simple and easy to serve.

Light desserts are welcome often, and so are tasty but dainty sandwiches or cookies. If these can be made in advance, you're free to devote the last few minutes before they arrive toward looking your prettiest or giving the house a once over lightly to have everything at its best.

If the refreshments are to be served buffet style, with all the ladies going to the dining table or sideboard to help themselves, this can be set in advance. Your prettiest tea set with attractive platters of cakes, sandwiches or cookies will make for a decorative occasion.

A few blossoms or leaves attractively arranged can add festivity even to simple tables. If you have a lovely glass bowl, try floating a few flowers in clear water, or place some vines in a well designed container.

Refrigerator cookies can be mixed and chilled several days ahead of time, to be baked on the morning of the day you entertain. This type is especially colorful:

*Fruity Ice Box Cookies (Makes 6 dozen)
 1/2 cup shortening
 1/2 cup granulated sugar
 1 egg
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 2 cups sifted flour
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 cup minced candied cherries
 1/4 cup minced candied green pineapple

Blend together shortening, sugar, egg and vanilla. Stir in remaining ingredients and blend until smooth. Divide dough into four equal parts and shape each portion into a 1-inch roll. Chill rolls thoroughly. (They may be wrapped in foil or waxed paper). Slice off cookies about 1/4-inch thick and place on ungreased cookie sheets 2 to 3 inches apart. Bake in a moderate (350°F.) oven for 15 minutes.

These date cookies are really sandwiches and give you nice variety with any other kinds of cookies served:

Oatmeal Date Sandwiches (Makes 48 cookies)
 Cookie Dough:
 1 1/4 cups butter or substitute
 1 cup brown sugar
 2 1/2 cups flour
 2 1/2 cups rolled oats, uncooked
 1 teaspoon soda
 1/4 cup warm water
 Filling:
 1 pound dates, minced
 1 cup sugar
 1/2 cup cold water
 To make cookie dough, cream

LYNN SAYS: Enhance Your Vegetables To Add Menu Interest Preserve fresh green colors in vegetables by cooking without the cover. Some vitamin loss will occur, but short cooking can prevent much of this, and vegetable will be eaten if it's more attractive. Cabbage and cauliflower should be washed carefully to prevent any worms from lodging in the vegetable. If placed in cold, salted water for a short time before cooking, worms can be drawn out.

butter or substitute and add brown sugar, flour and oats. Combine soda and water and add to first mixture. Combine mixture thoroughly. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto cookie sheet and press very flat with the bottom of a glass. Bake in a moderate (350°F.) oven for 10 to 15 minutes.

For filling, combine dates, sugar and water and cook in a double boiler until mixture is thickened, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat and cool. When both cookies and filling are cool, spread filling on one-half of the cookies and cover with the remaining cookies, matching them by size.

 2 cups sugar
 3 tablespoons cold coffee
 1 tablespoon cocoa
 2 teaspoons vanilla
 1/2 cup butter or substitute, melted

Combine rolled oats, 1 cup sugar, coffee, cocoa and vanilla in mixing bowl. Blend well with melted butter. Shape mixture into small balls about an inch in diameter. Roll balls in remaining sugar. Chill thoroughly in refrigerator.

Date-Coconut Pie (Makes 1 9-inch pie)
 2 eggs, slightly beaten
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 cup sour cream
 1 tablespoon fine bread crumbs
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
 1/4 teaspoon allspice
 1/4 teaspoon cloves
 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/2 cup dates, minced
 1/2 cup moist, shredded coconut
 1 9-inch unbaked pie shell

Beat sugar together with eggs; beat sour cream slightly and add to egg-mixture with all remaining ingredients. Stir until well mixed. Pour into pie shell and bake 15 minutes in a hot (425°F.) oven, then reduce heat to moderate (350°F.) and bake 30 minutes.

Here are two spreads which make small, tasty sandwiches. Use them on bread which is cut in small strips, rounds, triangles or crescents:

Peperoni Spread
 1/4 pound peperoni sausage
 1 5-ounce jar cheese spread (relish or pimiento)
 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
 1/4 cup heavy cream, whipped

Grind the sausage and blend with cheese. Fold in parsley and whipped cream. Let mellow in refrigerator for 4 to 5 hours, covered, for best flavor.

Zesty Spread
 1/2 pound braunschweiger sausage
 1/4 cup salad dressing
 1/4 cup pickle relish
 1 teaspoon horseradish
 Blend together and whip with a fork.

Combine leftovers of vegetables to achieve colorful triumphs like peas or corn in scooped-out beets, lima beans in squash nests, carrots in green pepper, spinach molded in rings for creamed onions and cauliflower with pimiento strips.

Mashed potatoes should be as light and fluffy as it's possible to make them. Older potatoes should be boiled in water to which some milk and lemon juice is added to prevent darkening. Use hot milk in which butter is melted to make them fluffy.
