Charles Florence Cops First Places in Field Events At Canyon

Displaying the strength of a modern Hercules, Charles Florence proved his might by winning two first places in the Regional track meet at Canyon, Texas, last Saturday afternoon.

His won both the discus and shotput. These two wins gave the Draw-Redwine high school fourth place in the Regional meet.

Only six days had elapsed since district meet at Lubbock where Florence barely won a couple of fourth places in both events. Realizing his poor showing at the district and inspired by his last chance to appear as a member of the Longhorn track team no doubt caused Charles to do his best.

WE WANT TO PLEASE READERS, BUT—!

What is a newspaperman to do? He likes to pride himself upon his zeal in presenting news to his readers, and, generally, he makes a pretty good job of it until a political year rolls around—and then he wades into copy, if he would permit, would overwhelm his allotted column and leave no space for anything but political palaver.

A newspaperman knows that his readers have varied choices in the many state races, and, in order to be fair, said thinning-haired newspaperman, would like to print something about all the candidates for all the offices in order to acquaint readers with the merits of the respective candidates, but if any reader thinks it can be done and still keep the newspaper going, we invite him or her in to show us how it can be done.

Just as an example: To this date, we think there are about 13 candidates for governor, but more may announce in the next ten minutes. Each candidate will bombard this office with "news material," all headed "Dear Editor" and with an explanation that it is sent for the news value only. In addition, candidates for lieutenant-governor, attorney general, grand commissioner, comptroller and other offices also send us "news." Is it any wonder that an editor will shake his head, take on a dazed look and wish for a good storm to appear and blow all away? And the races are just starting!

The O'Donnell Press has had a short life, but not so far as state political candidates are concerned. You would think that this paper had been published 50 years, and that the editor knew each candidate personally. All we can do is ponder on how quickly space-grafters learn about us, and how long it takes state advertisers to realize that the Press (or any other weekly) is such a valued publication.

Regardless of what other editors may think, we have just about come to the conclusion to omit everything concerning state races except when some candidate visits this city and gives a hearing. We charge all precinct, county and district candidates for space in the Press, and other editors do the same for their newspapers, so why should candidates for state offices be exempt from payment? Said state candidates will probably reply that they cannot do so because Texas is so vast, so many newspapers are printed.

When the time comes for the shelling out of money for campaign expenses, just where will it go? To the weekly newspapers? A partial amount from a few candidates, but the bulk will go to the large dailies for page advertisements and thousands of dollars to that new medium—radio, where something is heard, and it is so hard to check up on later.

We venture to say that operators of radio stations give little time away to political candidates—and if they do so they may have a private ace to grind. Just notice how large dailies play up a certain candidate, and it won't take long to figure out a few things.

The Press charges $10 for a district announcement. We would charge no more for a state candidate because our circulation would cover but little more territory, and advertising prices are supposed to be based on space and not how much money a man makes. If state candidates announced in weekly newspapers, and thereby secured the same right as district, county and precinct candidates to a formal announcement of issues and the placing of their name in the political column, cost would be but a trifle more than that being paid radio stations for one, sound-biting speech, or one page advertisement in a large daily newspaper!

When will all of us dumb publishers really start charging for the costly commodity we have for sale—space, and stop grouping political palaver, national business firm "news," pictures of radio stars, and such stuff with real, honest-to-goodness NEWS!

Label everything that isn't news for what it is—advertising!
We're starting May 1 off with that resolution.

TOMORROW'S FARMER

Present-day farm youth has opportunities that were unknown to its forefathers.

The remarkable development of the 4-H clubs has made it possible for tens of thousands of young men and women to learn scientific agriculture, and to earn generous rewards for work well done. In addition, the leading co-operative marketing groups take an unremitting interest in the affairs of tomorrow's farmers. From these groups, farm youth learns not only the great advantages of loyal co-operation between producers, but is instructed in a wide range of topics that are of direct and indirect importance to successful farming.

The full "crop" sown by this fine work will be harvested in the years to come.

DEATH IN THE DESERT

A recent issue of Life contained a pictorial review of the fight against tuberculosis. Probably the most startling revelation, to many people, is the fact that climate has little or no bearing on modern treatment of tuberculosis. Virtually every state and county in the Union are equipped to competently care for tubercular patients. Yet, tragically, thousands of people continue to flock to the locality which public dogma has erroneously taught them to believe is of greatest benefit.

Each year hundreds upon hundreds of people forsake home and family, or worse, bring their families with them, and spend their last cent reaching the deserts of the Southwest. Upon arrival they are ineligible for local aid and can do nothing but wait in poverty—for death. At home they could in most cases have secured prompt and effective aid from the county or state, either of which is prepared for just such cases. Don't let such a horrible mistake wreck your family.

THE ROAD TO THE CEMETERY

When the final and official figures are tabulated, it will probably be found that the automobile death toll in 1937 reached a new all-time record, exceeding the 1936 slaughter with its 37,000 victims.

There is no reason for being surprised at the continued increase. Each year cars are made faster and more powerful—and a dangerous percentage of them become the property of drivers who couldn't be trusted to operate a bicycle safely. Roadways and surfaces are improved, thus offering a new temptation to excessive speed. And the number of accidents in which Johnnie Barycxon is a factor tends to rise steadily.

This does not mean that the automobile accident toll cannot be reduced. It can be—but it is going to take action, not words. The individual responsibility of each motorist when he slides behind the wheel of a projectile weighing a ton or two and capable of doing eighty miles and hour, must be driven home. Law enforcement must be strengthened. The "ficer" of traffic violations must be eliminated. It must be realized that driving a car on the public highway and effective aid from the county or state, either of which is prepared for more stringent. Finally, there must be swift and sure punishment for the reckless or drunken driver.

Minister Drennon's Notes

Another week has come, the rodeo is a thing of the past.

I want to commend those who had charge of feeding the people. It was done in an orderly way, with plenty of food and to spare. But I doubt if it was worth what it cost the town.

The accident last week near school reminds us we need some signs up. Let's all be more careful when driving near the school house, especially when the children are outside.

Last Lord's Day was fine with us. Crowds were larger at both services and our singing with our new books was superb.

We have been informed that our jail would not hold our drunks last week-end. I am in favor of building a larger jail, or cutting down on the supply of liquor. Let's don't send our drunks to Tahoka, it is a bad advertisement for the town.

While some of the preacher's of O'Donnell are all worked up about the public dance hall, there is a thing that grieves me more than that, that is the divided condition of people who claim to follow Jesus.

When Jesus prayed that we all be one (John 17-20); also Paul admonished us all to speak the same thing (1 Cor. 1-10) and urged that we keep the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace (Ephesians 4:1-7); and to this Jesus built but one church (Matthew 16-18) and yet here in this little town we are divided into:

ever before in safe-guarding his home.

Those are the conclusions to be drawn from the symposium being conducted currently by the National Real Estate Journal under the head, "What Kind of a House for Today's Buyers?"

The purpose of the series is to determine, by going directly to the source, what today's home-owner wants for and in his home. The questionnaire was sent to 1,000 real estate dealers and builders actively building and selling homes. More than 400 blanks were returned, proving the keen interest of the dealers in the subject. The thoughtfulness with which the blanks were filled out proved that the interest was not only keen but intelligent.

HOW CAN I?

How can I make a good wall cleaner?
Put 2 cups of vinegar, 1/2 teaspoon, 1 cup salt, 1 tea-lye in a clean granite pan and boil for 5 minutes. Then add 4 lb flour for a stiff putty, dough.
How can I render fat?
Cut the fat into small pieces and through the food chopper, melt in the upper part of a double boiler. Strain through cloth, laid in a wire strain-er.
How can I stop blisters?
A remedy which usually is very effective is to take spoonful of granulated sugar and vinegar. If this doesn't relieve, repeat the dose.
How can one insure against sickness from bottles containing quids that are being packed?
Boil the corks and necks of bottles in melted paraffin.
How can I clean moldy leather?

A. By first removing the surface mold with a dry cloth, then applying pyrolytic acid with another cloth.
Q. How can I whiten potatoes?
A. As soon as each potato is pared, place it in cold water before boiling, and it will have a tendency to whiten it.
Q. How can I prevent oil from soiling the goods after oiling the sewing machine?
A. This can be prevented by tying a small piece of cotton string tightly around the needle bar, near the place where the bar grips the needle.
Q. How can I keep paint brushes soft?
A. After using a paint or varnish brush, clean it thoroughly with naphtha. Then rub with vasoline and put away free from dust.
Q. How can I keep my frying pans bright and clean?
A. First rub them with a crust of hot bread; then wash them in hot water and washing soda.

Q. How can I press ties without leaving marks of seams?
A. Cut a piece of cardboard the shape of the necktie, slip it inside of the tie, cover with a cloth, and press. This will avoid marks left by hems and seams.
Q. How can I prevent rust on pipes of the furnace and range when putting them away for the summer?
A. Rub them thoroughly with kerosene before storing, and they will not rust.
Q. How can I avoid scorching when baking a cake?
A. Try placing a dish of water in the oven when baking the cake.

Cotton Acreage Allotment Is Well Underway

COLLEGE STATION—Completing farm allotments have been released for 69 counties by the state AAA office at Texas A. and M. College, according to Geo. Slaughter, Wharton, chairman of the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee.

The state office is releasing the allotments at the rate of 8 or 10 counties a day, Slaughter said.

The allotments include the cotton acreage quotas for each farm as provided under the new farm act plus the additional 4 per cent provided by the recent amend-ment which added approximately 380,000 acres to Texas' cotton quota.

General allotments, which include feed crops, are complete for 13 counties, and the state office is equipped to figure and release these at the same rate as the cotton allotments, according to Slaughter.

Meanwhile state AAA workers announced that they had certified 146,943 applications for grant under the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program for payments totaling $24,850,237.85.

The total number of applications is expected to reach 200,000, and total payments will be approximately $7 million dollars.

One Fourth of Texas Farms Have No Milk Cows

COLLEGE STATION—Almost one-fourth, or 121,000 of Texas' farm families, have no milk cows, according to E. R. Eudaly, dairy- man of the Texas A. and M. Col- lege Extension Service.

This means, the dairyman point- ed out, that Texas needs an ad- ditional quarter million dairy cows if farm families are to have suf- ficient milk for home needs, and help that dairy production for home use can expand considerably in Texas and in the South in general without competing with commercial dairy areas.

Eudaly based his statement on census figures and estimates of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics which show that 24.2 per cent of Texas farm families do not have a milk cow and that over the 12 Southern states, as a whole, only 71 per cent of the farm families keep cows for milk.

There is an average of only 2.2 milk cows per farm over the cotton belt as a whole compared to an average of nearly 4 for all farms in the United States and more than 10 per farm in Wisconsin. Texas, with an average of 3.2 cows per farm, leads all the cotton belt states except Oklahoma in this respect.

The dairyman does not believe that AAA programs tend to force cotton farmers into dairying in competition with commercial dairying centers. "There were 5,562,000 dairy cows in the 12 principal cotton producing states in 1932 before the AAA," he said, "On January 1, 1938, there were 5,895,000 an increase of 334,000 milk cows. This is an average increase of 30,000 dairy cows per state, or an average increase per state of 5,000 for each year since the AAA came into existence."

"Nutritional specialists of the Extension Service tell me that the average farm family of five needs two good milk cows for home use. Thus in Texas alone we could add 1242,000 dairy cows without increasing our commercial output to any noticeable extent."

"Sound" Baseball Played by Blind Performers

Teams from the Industrial Home for the Blind at Oakland, Calif., demonstrate "sound" baseball. The batter hits a jingling ball and runs down a padded baseline. Ten players form a team. The fielders kneel on pads back of the baseline to catch the sounding ball and register an out by rolling the ball across the bases or padding ahead of the runner. Home plate has a bell on it to show when runs are scored.

Upside Down Dam Helps Curb Floods

View of the massive steel gates installed by the Westinghouse Electric company near Pittsburgh, Pa., to prevent floods from entering and damaging its plants during the frequent high waters in the rivers converging in the Pittsburgh district. When lowered into place, these gates cause the water to back up behind them. The three giant pumps force the water through the intakes in lower left, where it is guided around the flood wall, and out into Turtle creek, in background, over a long spillway.

11. Is it proper for one to tilt or rock in a straight chair at the dinner table?
12. How can undesirable members be kept out of a club?

Answers

1. No; even if his gift is of great or little worth it must be something for her own personal adornment.
2. Yes. He should give the true reason; for he should not break the engagement unless he has a good reason to do so.
3. It should be eaten with a fork. Of course a knife is usually necessary to cut certain portions of the sandwich.
4. Yes, and without hesitation, if free to do so.
5. No; she should tell her escort what she would like and let him give the order to the waiter.
6. Only in the bedroom, or when going to and from the bathroom, unless forced by an emergency to appear when there is no time to dress.
7. An address should be engraved at the top center or to the right at top. All lettering for addresses should be simple.
8. Monogram should be placed at the top left. A family crest is placed in the center at top.
9. The unmarried woman is always presented to the married woman: "Mrs. Barnes, may I present Miss Miller?" No. 10. It is much better to say, Mr. Brown, Mr. Wilson, and Mr. Morgan; and never should the prefix Miss be omitted when speaking or referring to a woman employee.

11. Never; such acrobatics at the dinner table are extremely bad taste.

12. By careful investigation by the membership committee.

SOMETHING NEW UNDER THE SUN

Oh, yes—there's always something new under the sun in the food line. For instance, that interesting combination that's been the rage all this past year—tuna fish, canned peas and potato chips in a casserole with mushroom soup poured over them and baked. I'm not going to give you a complete recipe for this popular casserole dish because I'm sure you've all met it many times.

But here's another tuna fish dish that is equally delightful, easy to make and different. It's called Chow Mein Loaf, and it requires a package of those crisp little fried noodles that are served with Chow Mein. The toasted split almonds that are blended through this loaf are also suggestive of Chow Mein, and, of course, the tuna fish is a chicken substitute. But here the resemblance ceases, because this loaf is really a fluffy, souffle-like mixture with the crisp little noodles, almonds and chunks of tuna blended through it.

You'll find that this Chow Mein Loaf with this interesting and different sauce is perfect with just a crisp fresh garden salad and some flaky hot biscuits with golden crusty tops. It's an ensemble that makes a delightful prelude to a Strawberry Shortcake. Here is the recipe:

Chow Mein Loaf 6 tbsp. butter 1/2 cup almonds (blanched, split and toasted) 6 tbsp. flour 1 package chow mein noodles 1 tsp. salt 2 eggs 2 cups milk 2 eggs 2 tbsps. capers (or crisp pickles, chopped) 1 can tuna fish (7 oz.)

First make a Medium White Sauce by melting the butter in a saucepan. Blend in the flour and salt. Remove from the heat and add the cold milk. Return to the heat and cook until thickened stirring constantly. Blend into 1 1/2 cups of this sauce, well beaten, the flaked tuna fish, almonds, and chow mein noodles. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and green peas. Bake in a moderate oven, 350° F., for 40 minutes. Serve hot in slices with Capers Sauce. To make the caper sauce, blend the capers into the remaining medium white sauce.

Question: A friend of mine tells me that she always rinses her tuna fish with hot water before she serves it. Now my tuna fish always looks nice and clean. Do you think this washing is necessary?

Answer: Of course any food that comes in a can is scrupulously clean and sterilized. So this hot water bath is not designed to clean the fish, but to rinse away the oil in which it is packed. Put the fish in a strainer and let hot water run over it.

Question: What are capers, and how are they used?

Answer: Capers are the pickled flower buds of the caper shrub which is cultivated as a garden plant in Southern Europe. These little buds are about the size of the size of peas. They are first boiled and then put in a strong vinegar. They are dark green and have an agreeable sharp biting taste. Usually you'll find them used for meat or fish. They are used as pickles—a garnish for chicken or fish salads, and in sauces that are used for seafood.

Question: Are the smaller peas in cans more tender than the larger canned peas?

Answer: There should be no difference in the tenderness of the large and the small peas.

Question: In serving a chicken loaf with mushroom sauce, should a spoonful of the sauce be placed on each slice of the loaf, or should the sauce be placed in a bowl and passed for each person to help himself?

Answer: Don't you think the slice of chicken loaves more appetizing when the sauce is served over it than when it is served with some of the sauce on each serving of the loaf. Then if you wish, pass a bowl with mushroom sauce to help.

If you worry about what to serve, if you dread to start the next meal, just drop a card to Betty Crocker in care of your newspaper, and ask for this week's menu. Complete menus for the week will be sent to you at no cost. Please enclose 3 cent stamp to cover return postage.

GREEN GROW THE GREENS

THIS is the season when fresh green things have an especial appeal. The first green beet shoots and tender young dandelion greens taste twice as delicious when we've gathered them ourselves in our own gardens and yards. That is—they taste twice as good to us ourselves. But how do our families receive these offerings of our own garnering? They are well received if they are carefully cooked. But if they've been drowned in water and boiled to death—or if the dandelion greens have passed their tenderest youth and developed a bitter out-look on life—the family will not appreciate our efforts.

Of course, we use the same cooking method that we do for spinach. And we must be just as careful to remove every trace of sand or grit. But before this washing, the roots and wilted leaves are removed. That is the roots are removed from spinach, Swiss chard and dandelion greens. Then we wash the greens in several different waters—first using lukewarm water, then cold water. If the Swiss chard is full grown, we can use the stalks, too, by cutting them in inch pieces and cooking a small amount of water like celery. But for our regular "greens" the leaves of chard, beets, dandelions or spinach we simply place them in a large pot without additional water.

You see, there is enough water clinging to the leaves after washing them. Cover your kettle, turn the heat low and cook until the leaves are tender, turning them occasionally. The time of cooking depends on the age of the greens. Very young tender leaves may be done in from 8 to 10 minutes. Older greens will require a longer time. Add salt to the water just before the cooking is completed. When the "greens" have reached the desired tenderness, drain off the water, chop them and season to your family's taste with salt, pepper and butter. A tablespoon of lemon juice to a pound of greens is often added. Now turn them into a heated platter and garnish with lemon or hard-cooked egg slices, and you'll have an attractive "mess of greens" as anyone could ask for.

Just a hint about amounts. A pound of uncooked spinach makes 1 1/2 cups of cooked spinach or about three servings. Now that we've cooked our greens, there are all sorts of interesting and different dishes that are enjoyed by those who will not touch a plain cooked spinach. For instance, the following:

Spinach Souffle 4 tbsps. butter 4 tbsps. all-purpose flour 1/2 tsp. salt 1 cup milk 2 eggs 1 tbsps. paprika 1 tbsps. sugar 1 tbsps. melted butter 2 tbsps. milk

Beat eggs, add bread crumbs, spinach, onion, salt, pepper, paprika and butter. Add onion to make a mixture of consistency to form into a loaf. Place in a greased loaf pan and bake 30 minutes in a quick moderate oven, 375° F. Size of Pan: 1 small bread loaf pan (length 8 inches).

If you worry about what to serve, if you dread to start the next meal, just drop a card to Betty Crocker in care of your newspaper, and ask for this week's menu. Complete menus for the week will be sent to you at no cost. Please enclose 3 cent stamp to cover return postage.

This horse was not a native of the western hemisphere in historic times. The wild horses on the western plains of this country were descended from domesticated horses brought to America by Cortez and other Spanish explorers.

May 15 Final Signup Date For New Program. COLLEGE STATION—May 15 has been set as the final date for accepting farm work sheets and application for range inspection under the 1938 AAA program, according to George Slaughter, Wharton, chairman of the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee. The work sheets constitute a record of various acreages on farms while the range applications are requests for inspection. These two forms are the first steps farmers and ranchmen take if they want to take part in the Agricultural Conservation Program, and farms and ranches will not be eligible to enter the program unless these forms are filed.

All of these activities and many others are outlined in the contracts given to the two classes some time ago.

Kind words were spoken for many horses, now dead, by Burley Brewer Monday in his conversation with Thurman Wells as we sat by and listened.

In fact, to be truthful, Thurman also spoke well of the dead, and corroborated many of the remarks the author here made in the "good old horse and buggy days."

We were glad to listen to such talk, because it is trisome hearing about how a "car will do 70 miles per." And to make the conversation that eased between Burley and Thurman more interesting, humorous sidelights on the happenings of those days were forthcoming—with Burley doing most of the rambling and Thurman grinning and nodding his head!

Young-fellow-me-lads of today may brag of their one-arm driving, but Burley remembers that whip in its socket and how easy it was to tie the lines around it— unless you were driving a high-priced "boss" and one which refused to jog along, minding his own business.

Them were the days when straw hats of the sailor type were pleasingly looked, remarked Burley as he gazed at our last year's model. And to make it serviceable, a cord was attached to it with one end tied in your coat lapel. No taking chances with the wind. Peg-top trousers, high button shoes! Hair parted in the middle and pearl buttons on your coat! They had something there!

Naymond Everett was busy, oh very, very busy, in his barber shop Tuesday—as he apparently held a little bottle inside of a "bottle downward." And he asked us to try it! Don't some people have to work hard, though?

INKSPOTS—A major operation was performed by a local physician this week. A young man who had just returned from a trip complained of a "soreness" on his back. The doctor looked and pulled off a tick!... If we ever hear anyone say that the O'Donnell Hotel doesn't have good food, we'll have to publish it because it will be NEWS! Everyone that eats there brags on the cooking... Ethel Irby, our society news gatherer, was called "Skooter" in Haskell, but don't let that ever see said so... Wonder if Charlie Doak was ever called "O'Doak" by Burley Egger? He said he would quit taking the Press if he printed certain things. Gosh!... Shack Blocker formerly lived in DeKalb where we roomed as a 12-year old—and heard our dad speak good words for Woodrow Wilson... Better he speak next week or the Seniors (as newspaper reporters) will find it out... and that reminds us we'd better shut up or they'll get someone as us because we understand a senior will write this column. Mercy me!

UNUSUAL SIZED HEN EGG IS FOUND ON THE GEARY FARM
FOLLOWING TORNADO
 A hen egg measuring 7 1/8 inches by 8 inches was found on the Geary farm, south of O'Donnell, this last week. The large ovoid shell contained another egg. Found after the tornado which swept South Lynn last week, the finders of the egg are wondering whether the storm caused the freak. The Geary farm place was destroyed.

Melvin Ballard found the egg, and Mrs. Jimmie Ballard brought it into the Press office.

No one in the Press office asked for the egg as a gift for cooking purposes.

Mrs. Sam Singleton and Mrs. Newell Hughes were visitors in Lubbock Tuesday.

Mrs. W. T. Huff and Miss Thelma Palmer were business visitors in Lubbock Monday.

KNOW YOUR SENIORS

Rez Jackson, president of the senior class, is rounding out his fourth year in D-R. H. S. He is known and liked by every high school student and leaves many friends. For the past two years Rez has been a member of the basketball team and a valuable man on any coaches team.

As a member of the debate team this year, Rez and his co-captain won first place at the county meet, but because of previous engagements, he did not attend the district meet.

More than all this Rez is scholar. He has an outstanding student. Teachers have come to depend on Rez for work of the best quality regardless of the subject. When ever he goes, methodically, conscientious work will win for him success. He is a real Longhorn.

ACTIVITIES IN ENGLISH

The freshman and sophomore classes are reading "Ivanhoe" and "Silas Marner," which accounts for some of the peculiar things they do in school work. Some of them have turned artists and are drawing medieval castles, the lists of Ashby, the interior of Cedric's home, and original drawings of characters and scenes. Others are considering making models of a

Those who knew the honest life intimately speak of his deep consideration for the wishes of his parents and his devotion to his sisters and brothers. His kindness was manifest in perhaps the last words he uttered to his little sisters, who, as was often the case, accompanied him. Many speak of his devotion and obedience, for he truly honored his father and mother.

John was a devout church member. Friends who attend Redwine Baptist Church, of which he was a member, miss his voice in the choir; but they rejoice that influenced by his reverence for God and his loyalty to the church, their lives have been made better.

His religion was the kind that others recognized as sincere. "I am not worried about John," an intimate friend said, "for I know that he is in heaven."

The many friends deeply sympathize with the family in the loss of one so lovable. Everyone who knew him feels deeply saddened at his going. His influence, although he was only fifteen, will live long after him, making better the lives of those who knew him. God, who "doeth all things well," had a purpose in taking him. Those loved ones, school mates
